60 Per Cent Progressive is City of Belleville

OVER EIGHTY PER CENT. IN ACCESSIBILITY, ACCORDING TO JUDGES OF OPEN FORUM DEBATE—CITY GOVERNMENT ONLY RATED AS FIFTY PER CENT IN PROGRESSIVENESS—IDEAL CITY DEBATE.

How near the city of Belleville comes to the ideal condition in regard to Accessibility and Progressiveness was debated last night at the Forum meeting held in the City Hall under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The attendance was limited and ladies were by far in the majority. Previous to the commencement of the debate the Bridge street church symphony orchestra rendered some tuneful selections and Mr. Sandy Burrows led in community singing.

Major R. D. Ponton was chairman, and filled that position in a most becoming manner. In the few remarks he made he referred to the good accomplished by these gatherings and the excellent work accomplished for the city by Mr. J. O. Herity, as Industrial Commissioner.

After Mr. Herity had explained the charts prepared for the subjects to be debated upon, the debate was commenced.

Belleville's Accessibility

Mr. L. E. Allen, C.E., in opening the debate for the affirmative said the progressiveness of a city can be measured by its accessibility. The general lay-out of our city is such that it is easily accessible, and this from the fact that our streets run north and south and east and west. It was not until 1914 that Belleville started to lay permanent pavement. Previous to this even Front street was a mire hole. At the present time when the work under construction is completed there will be 5 3-10 miles of pavement and other streets with durable roadings making a total of 13½ miles of good roads. We have 80 miles of gronalithic walks.

Belleville is surrounded by a rich agricultural country which produces the best products possible. By having a free bridge across the Bay it will mean much for the city. The speaker referred to the cold storage plant in the city which was a great benefit. The milk supply of the city has been much improved upon, and the cheese industry is extensive in this vicinity and the cheese produced is of a superior quality. Adjoining the city at Point Anne is the Canada Cement Works, which produces a product which is first class in every respect. At the Point there is also a fine stone churching plant supplying stone for the making of good roads. In the north part of the County we have many mineral deposits and they are accessible to the city. We have good train service in the city, in fact, the railways are not surpassed in any other country. Many do not appreciate the railway system which we enjoy. Recently an electric car service has been established and it is confidently expected that the service will be branched out. There are 30 trains arriving and departing in Belleville every 24 hours. We have a fine water front, but it is a fact that it has not been fully appreciated as an accessibility, but there is considerable traffic by water in and out of the city. Belleville has accessibility for an air service and this will no doubt come in time. The flying from Belleville to Toronto is only one and a half hours.

We have good telegraph and telephone systems in the city and in addition the city is a centre of many rural mail routes. We have also three main provincial highways leading into the city, namely, Picton to Belleville; Peterboro to Belleville and east and west to the city. This is a transportation age and the motor car and truck does much for pleasure and business. Belleville has every means of accessibility.

Judge Fraleck spoke in the negative and in his opening remarks stated that if we do not stop our extravagance the railways will carry more out of Belleville than they bring in. Has there been any effort made to improve our water front in order that larger vessels might unload coal here, which is a desirable commodity. In 1878 when Belleville was made a city it was prosperous, but it went down. He was, however, pleased to state that the Chamber of Commerce, with the aid of Manager Herity, were endeavoring to make the city once more prosperous. The speaker stated that Peterboro, an inland city, had increased in population and industrially, whilst Belleville with its beautiful water front and being situated on the frontier, has not so prospered. We have a glorious county about us, but it is a fact that the city of Peterboro was built up to a considerable extent at the expense of Belleville and Hastings county, by the building of what was known as the Grand Junction Railway. Belleville and the county gave a considerable sum to build this line which helped Peterboro more than it did this city.

He agreed with the previous speaker in regard to many things he said about the city. We have a beautiful city and most pleasantly situated. In concluding his address Judge Fraleck grew eloquent in describing Canada and its resources.

Progressiveness

The affirmative of the progressiveness of the city was taken by Mr. W. B. Deacon. The speaker in his opening remarks asked if the city of Belleville was a progressive city. We are looked upon by travelers and business men as a pretty progressive city, our city council is progressive. He was proud of the city as we have many improvements which some cities twice the population have not. Our buildings are of architectural beauty. We have a hotel in the city, Hotel Quinte, which cannot be surpassed. We have a well lighted city and we have, as already stated, good streets and good sewers. Our assessment compares favorably with cities of similar population. Belleville is not over assessed as compared with other cities. The speaker referred to the churches of the city, some of which are beautiful. We have seven and one half miles of good roads. Some people are continually knocking the city and this has been the curse of Belleville. We can learn from the mistakes our forefathers made. Mr. Deacon refered to a number of places in this locality, such as Picton, Napanee, Trenton, which are by no means as progressive as this city. Belleville will take stock and will progress. We have a Chamber of Commerce which is endeavoring to boost Belleville, and we will be all right in the long run. Many emigrants are coming into Canada and what has Belleville to offer as inducement to have some located here. Some we do not desire. In speaking of education, Mr. Deacon referred to the good accomplished for the city by Albert College and the Ontario Business College. We have also fine schools. We are progressing in a good wholesome way and we are a well-balanced city. We are fortunate in being able to procure the best of food. The city managership scheme was spoken to and the speaker said it should be encouraged. Westmount is considered one of the best governed cities in Canada and the city manager is a Belleville boy. We want a progressive spirit to permeate all citizens. The play ground system should be developed. Our police force is efficient and is government by an efficient chief, and the same can be said of our fire department. We have a good water service and other civic utilities. In closing, Mr. Deacon spoke eulogistically of Col. E. D. O'Flynn who was to follow.

Mr. E. D. O'Flynn in his opening remarks stated that with the accessibilities the city has we should have a population double of what we have. This is not a finished town by any means. Any individual concern that run its business as the city's business is transacted would soon be bankrupt. The speaker spoke of the single tax system which would place a special tax on vacant property or make the owner erect buildings thereon. There is absolutely no residential section in the city as there are corner grocers and other commercial concerns. We are not properly policed, but are getting cheap protection in this regard. Our present fire department is good in its personal, but what equipment have we. Look at our fire alarm system. You have to call up the police station and if the phone is in use you wait whilst the fire is still going. Mr. O'Flynn referred to the paving of certain streets which pavements, he contended could have been put down at a cheaper price as on some of the streets such an expensive pavement was not necessary. Very few of our citizens offer their services for the city but rather knock the council. Clubs and organizations were numerous, and in many cases overlap each other. Our children were valuable assets and they should be provided with proper school buildings. Coleman Ward needs a new school and needs it badly. In closing, Mr. O'Flynn referred to the good work done by the ladies of the city who conduct the hospital and other institutions in the city.

This concluded the debate and the judges, Messrs. S. Burrows, J. Bone and W. J. Doyle retired and reported the points scored as follows:

Six Nations Chief Called by Death

AN OUTSTANDING FIGURE ON BRANT RESERVE AND ONCE REPORTER ON MAIL

Brantford, Ont., May 31.—One of the outstanding figures among the Six Nations Indians passed away on the reserve in the person of Chief J. W. M. Elliott. He was a first cousin of E. Pauline Johnson, Indian poetress. After a course at the O.A.C., Guelph, he became a reporter for the Toronto Mail. Later he was on the staff of the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa.

His mature manhood he spent on the reserve near Ohsweken, becoming a color-sergeant of the 37th Haldimand Rifles, with which he served for 36 years. He was an eloquent speaker in both English and Mohawk and took a leading part in historical events, deputations and drafting addresses, his work on the address to returned soldiers being quoted by the Dominion Archieves as the best example of Indian eloquence.

His hobbies were agriculture and botany, he having a passion for flowers. The remains were interred yesterday at Ohsweken with military honors. The funeral was the largest ever held on the reserve. Death followed a fall from a buggy, which resulted in lockjaw.

"Kidnapping" Case No Mystery Now

REPORT WILL BE WITHHELD OUT OF CONSIDERATION FOR MISS LEE

Toronto, May 31.—Unless the authorities at Queen's Park alter their decision, it is probable that the general public will have to forget the Palmerston "kidnapping" case without ever getting a detailed explanation of that "mystery." While officially it is stated that the matter has not been closed, it is intimated that the investigation carried on by Inspector Boyd has cleared the matter up to the satisfaction of the Attorney-General's department.

It is not likely that any publicity will ever be given to the Inspector's report, but it may be said that it points to the fact that no person other than Miss Lee had anything to do with the "kidnapping," and that much may be attributed to a form of hysteria. Since no one is implicated in any way, it is pointed out that the best way to deal with the matter is to allow it to be forgotten.

L'Original Farmer Shot Dead While Menacing Sheriff

OFFICER FORCED TO KILL TO SAVE HIS COMRADE

Ottawa, May 31.—A tragic shooting took place in the township of Caledonia in the County of Prescott, seventeen miles from L'Orignal when Constable Ernest Johnson shot and and killed instantly Oliver George Sproule, a farmer aged 27, who is said to have been insane.

When Johnson took aim and shot, Sproule had a loaded revolver against the breast of Deputy Sheriff S. W. Wright, who, with Johnson, had gone to arrest Sproule.

Sproule was a prosperous farmer who lived alone with his brother on their farm three miles from Fournierville. About a year ago it was noticed that Sproule was acting strangely. As a result Sproule was examined and a determination was reached to send him to an asylum.

The story that Deputy Sheriff Wright tells is that a sister who is now living in New York came and objected to her brother being sent to the asylum. She said she would take him to New York, get him treatment and work. She started out with him but at Montreal Sproule escaped and returned to the farm.

Sheriff Called In

Yesterday Deputy Sheriff Wright received a message from Caledonia county that Sproule was shooting up the neighborhood and a request that assistance be sent to arrest him. Deputy Sheriff Wright set out with Constable Johnson and motored to the farm.

There is was found that Sproule had disappeared in the neighborhood of Prescott having hitched up a horse and buggy after attempting to shoot several of the neighbors.

Later Sproule returned to his farm. Deputy Sheriff Wright sprang on him and attempted to pin him down. The space in the stable was small and apparently only one man could get at Sproule at a time.

Sproule proved to be very powerful. Despite the Sheriff's efforts, he broke away and succeeded in pulling his revolver and levelling it at the Sheriff's breast. It was at this stage that Constable Johnson, who, with the others, were trying to grab Sproule, who fought like a maniac, pulled his own revolver and shot Sproule through the head, and the man collapsed and died almost instantly.

Sproule, it was found, had a list of seven neighbors against whom he had fancied grievances.

There will be an inquest into the shooting.

Are Bound For Mormon Colony

PARTY OF TWENTY-NINE, MOSTLY HANDSOME YOUNG GIRLS AT MONTREAL

Montreal, May 31—A party of twenty-nine, mostly composed of handsome young girls, bound for the Mormon colony of Latter Day Saints at Salt Lake City, Utah, arrived in Montreal on board the Pretorian from England.

They were met by Rev. John Chisholm, Presbyterian dock missionary, who is an old-time enemy of their sect, and who did his utmost to dissuade the party from proceeding on their journey. He was not successful, however.

Missing their train, they applied to the Travellers' Aid and were sent to the St. Andrew's Home, where it was thought they were a party of English immigrants. They were only too glad to accept the home's hospitality, notwithstanding the fact that it is under the supervision of the Church of England.

The party left later for Toronto on their way to their new home.

ILL-LUCK PURSUES HIM

Kingston, May 31.—Ill luck appears to be pursuing Wm. Boyle, Argrove. Last fall his wife died of injuries received in a runaway accident. Late in April his barns were struck by lightning and totally destroyed, with very small insurance being held, and this week, while returning from the cheese factory Mr. Boyle was thrown from his wagon and had his collarbone and three ribs broken.

Glowing Reports Of Fort Norman

PARTY OF NINE MEN REACHES WHITE HORSE FROM THE OIL FIELDS

White Horse, Y.T., May 31—A party of nine men reached here to-day from the Fort Norman oil field with glowing stories of the richness of the district. The trip from White Horse to Fort Norman and return was made in sixty days, including the six-day stop at Fort Norman. There were no hardships on the trail, and they got back with the 35 dogs with which they started.

Members of the party reported that one well, fifty miles below Fort Norman, was recently capped despite heavy pressure.

Fewer than one hundred claims have been staked so far, it is reported. The trading posts at Fort Norman supply the district with provisions, there being a plentiful supply of everything except sa[illegible]

Representations have been made to Ottawa to permit applications for claim records to be filed with the land agent here in order to save the long trip to the recording office at Edmonton.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press., Limited.

Toronto, June 1.—The grand total of givings of the Presbyterian church in Canada during the past year for maintenance, equipment and extension reached the record sum of about four and a half million dollars. This was the summary of a report presented by the treasurers, Rev. R. Laird and Rev. T. Stewart, at the General Assembly, which opened for business today. The Forward Movement thank-offering constituted the largest individual item in the list, making up this stupendous total. These amounted to over two millions and a half. Congregational givings totalled well over one million.

Work in Railway Shops Being Gradually Resumed

PRESENT WAGE ARRANGEMENTS TO BE TERMINATED AS SOON AS CONTRACTS EXPIRE—PROSPECT OF REDUCED WAGES.

MONTREAL, June 1.—Preparations for a gradual resumption of the work of the various big railway shops throughout Canada are now under way, although it was stated today that these shops would not return to anything like full time, owing to the high cost of production and the diminished volume of work consequent on increased cost of traffic.

The Grand Trunk shops here have reopened with their full staffs, but only for four or five days a week, and it is probable they will close down again for another two weeks' "holiday" during June.

At the Canadian Pacific Railway headquarters it was stated today that Angus shops here, which closed down two weeks ago, will resume tomorrow with their full staff of over 3,500 men and will work about four days a week. There is no prospect ahead of the usual high pressure activity of the past few years.

In view of the reduced activities notices have been sent out by the railway associations, representing all Canadian railways, and by the individual railways to certain unions, that the present wage arrangements would be terminated as soon as the contracts expire. At that time joint meetings will be held to consider contracts for the ensuing periods with the prospect that reduced wages would be proposed and probab'y accepted.

Young Doctor Dies From Wounds Received

DR. RAMSAY RANKIN, NOTED ATHLETE, FATALLY INJURED IN MYSTERIOUS AFFRAY AT MONTREAL—TWO MEN AND TWO WOMEN HELD BY POLICE—FOUND IN POOL OF BLOOD.

MONTREAL, June 1.—Cut to the bone at the elbow and wrist following a quarrel, the cause of which has not yet been ascertained, during which he was thrown through a glass door at the apartment house of J. B. Gunn at 624 St. Catherine street west, Dr. Ramsay Rankin of Stratford, Ontario, died in the Western Hospital early this morning.

The fight occurred around eleven o'clock last night, and Dr. Rankin was, it is thought, stabbed and then cut himself on the glass of the door. He collapsed in a pool of blood on the stairs landing. There was another pool of blood near the door of the Gunn apartment, and blood had spattered the walls and the banisters of the stairway.

One man is being held by the detectives as a material witness. Dr. Rankin died at 2 this morning without having been able to give the police or hospital authorities any information about the affair.

Coroner McMahon will commence the inquest in the case this morning.

LATER.

MONTREAL, June 1.—Two men and two women were being held this morning by the police for the coroner's inquest in connection with the death early this morning of Dr. Ramsay Rankin. Dr. Rankin was a son of J. P. Rankin, former mayor of Stratford, and also member of Parliament for North Perth. He was a great hockey player, figuring prominently on his home town team and with McGill.

From information gathered by the police it appears that the party took place in a St. Catherines street West Apartment. About eleven o'clock residents heard the front door bell ring, the door was opened and almost immediately a quarrel started. The sound of crashing glass was heard, and when an investigation was made Dr. Rankin was found lying on the stairs in his underclothing in a pool of his own blood. It is thought he was first stabbed with a knife and then thrown through the door, the glass in which cut him in several places.

75 Killed Many Wounded In Race Riots

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 1—Seventy-five persons, whites and negroes, have been killed in a race outbreak in Tulsa, according to a telephone message to Governor Robertson here to-day from Tulsa's Chief of Police. The riot is believed to have been caused through an attack on a white girl by a negro.

Tulsa, Okla., June 1.—Nearly ten square blocks of the negro section here, where an armed conflict has been in progress between whites and negroes since early last night resulting in the reported death list of at least six whites and fifty negroes and a rapidly increasing list of wounded, were in flames to-day. The fire was reported spreading and threatening to wipe out the white residential section. Martial law was declared at eleven and Adjutant-General Barrett placed in command of the city. The negroes are being captured and segregated into places transformed into prison camps.

Job printers, pressmen and bookbinders went on strike at midnight in Toronto.

The U. S. Railway Board orders a cut in wages of 12 per cent.

The G. T. R. arbitration is to be resumed today.

Church Union Question To Be Deferred

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, June 1.—Unanimous agreement recommending to the Presbyterian General Assembly further postponement of organic union with Methodist, Congregational and Anglican churches has been reached by the Church Union Committee which will report to the Assembly this week, according to the Toronto Telegram.

The Presbyterian Committee on Church Union failed, it is understood to reach an agreement for or against oragnic union with Methodist and Congregationalist bodies. It will therefore go before the Assembly uninfluenced by the unanimous recommendation from the body of two dozen leading churchmen, who, for four years have had the matter in hand. The feeling of the committee is said to be strongly pro-union but there are half-a dozen strong opponents in the committee.

In the South, they exclaim: "Uncle John's coming."

And everywhere, when the colorful posters splotch the landscape and "cityscape" with the pictorial wonders of the big show, the children cry to their elders, "John Robinson's circus is comin'."

So, it has gone for decades, for this is the ninety-eighth annual tour of the United States and Canada by the oldest and best circus of them all, so the advance hosts proudly assert.

John Robinson comes to Belleville on four trains, Monday, June 13, and it comes this year with three rings, two stages, an aerial maze and a hippodrome track filled with the best in the world of the big tops. Nearly four hundred arenic stars take part in the pageantry and the performances, which take place at 2 p.m., and 8 p.m.

There are twelve hundred people with the circus and over seven hundred animals. The big top will seat 12,000 people. The city of tents will actually cover eleven acres of ground, the advance agents state.

The street parade, two miles in length, with all cages and dens of wild beasts open to view, will afford the circus day crowds many novel sights. There are twenty-five elephants with the show.

SCANTLEBURY SIGN SERVICE

Passes Parish Question to Synod

The following judgment was given by Mr. Justice Orde in a motion heard at Napanee re Rectory of Belleville:

Re Incorporated Synod of the Diocese of Ontario and the Rectory of Belleville—J. B. Walkem, K.C., for Incorporated Synod, moved for order of court declaring whether the Mission Church at Point Anne, has a legal right to share in the surplus fund of the Rectory of Belleville. G. F. Ruttem, K.C.; for Incumbent of Christ Church, Belleville. Rev. P. C. Watson, missionary at Shannonville, and Point Anne, appeared in person. The Rector of St. Thomas Church, Belleville, was not represented. Judgment: The sole power to deal with the distribution of this surplus income etc. There is at Point Anne a congregation of the Church of England having a church building, with lay representation in Synod and its own vestry and churchwardens. It has, however, no separate incumbent or parson, but is attached to the congregation of the church at Shannonville, which is not situated in the township of Thurlow, but in the adjoining Township of Tyendinaga and both congregations are served by the Rev. Philip C. Watson, who is licensed by the Bishop etc. In my opinion neither of the two objections to the claim of the church at Point Anne can be sustained. I am of the opinion that a clergyman licensed as a missionary to any parish is as fully the incumbent for the time being of that parish within the meaning of sec. 4 of 39 Vict. 109 as one appointed rector would be that Rev. W. Watson, is therefore the incumbent of Point Anne, and that church being within the Township of Thurlow, the Incorporated Synod has the power, if it sees fit to exercise it, to apportion to the incumbent of that church such share as the Synod may determine of the surplus income in question. There will be judgment declaring according to foregoing conclusions. Costs of all parties out of surplus income of fund. I was asked to fix them. I fix those of Synod and Rector of Christ Church at $50 each.

A SPLENDID HOLIDAY

As the evenings lengthen out and summer approaches, the question of "What shall we do this summer" is in the minds of many. A new publication on Algonquin Park, the wonderful Ontario Government reserve, has been issued by the Canadian National Grand Trunk Railways. It is filled with information helpful to those planning their summer holidays. The booklet is a handsome one, beautifully illustrated and describes the many attractions to be found in the Park. It also contains views of the hotels that are situated there, and information as another section of the country that compares to this extensive territory for the canoe, cruiser, camper and angler. With an altitude of two thousand feet above the sea, the air is pure and bracing. Two hundred miles north of Toronto and one hundred and seventy miles west of Ottawa, it is easy of access. For pleasure, rest and recuperation there is no place like Algonquin Park. For full information and free copy of illustrated booklet write any Agent Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railway, or to C. E. Horning, D.P.A., G.T.R., Toronto, Ont.

Miss Ada MacKenizie is still in the running for the British golf title.

LEATRICE JOY IN "BLIND YOUTH" HERE TO-MORROW

There are good women and the "other" kind. In "Blind Youth" which is the feature attraction at Griffin's To-morrow night, and Saturday matinee and night, one of the other kind has the wife of the hero, Maurice Monnier, at her mercy. As the situation stood, the other kind of woman was married to the artist in his wild student days. She left him for another, but reappeared when and where she was least expected—in New York—just as the hero, having found true love at last, was planning to ask another to be his wife. It was then that the complications commenced—and they were plentiful. A jealous selfish brother and a society-loving mother did their best to keep the pot of trouble boiling. From the drawing rooms of Fifth Avenue and the studios of Greenwich village to the ateliers of Paris and the garrets of Montmarte—so the characters of the story travel.

"Blind Youth' 'was adapted from the stage success of the same name, written by Lou Tellegen and Willard Mack, and a highly capable cast headed by Walter McGrail and Leatrice Joy, portrayed the various roles.

A MYSTERY FILM

Wedgewood Nowell, plays the role of Arsene Lupin in the latest Robertson-Cole special photoplay "813" which is the feature attraction at Griffin's where it is being shown for the last time to-night.

The picture is the screen version of the novel of the same name written by the French author Maurice LeBlanc. There isn't a dull moment in "813". The mystery element enters with the opening of the picture and is wonderfully sustained until the last foot of film. With Mr. Nowell is a notable cast.

"The Inner Ring" an excellent 2-reel drama featuring the famous stage stars, William Courtenay and Jane Gray. "By Golly" a funny 2-reel Mack Sennett comedy with all the famous Sennett funmakers, and a beautiful Burton Holmes Travelogue of scenes in Alsace-Lorraine are being exhibited along with the feature offering.

several of his friends and acquaintances, but there was something within him that made him shrink from a closer contact with any of them, particularly as he fancied he noted on their faces expressions of a sympathy that was galling to his sensitive spirit, so when he had taken his mail from the little, glass faced lock box, instead of pausing to speak to them he busied himself with looking over the letters and turned down toward the warehouse. One communication was from a confidential broker, informing Hillyer that wheat had risen to $1.08 a bushel and advising him to hold on, as the market showed a decided upward tendency. Meeting the negro porter Jake on a corner, Buckley gave him the letters and told him to take them up to Hillyer, and then, for lack of anything else to do, he entered the warehouse, shut the door after him and went back to his room. Here he sat down at the window in the sunshine, and almost before he was aware of it he had allowed a feeling of utter despondency to descend upon him. "What is the use?" he asked himself. "How am I to fight it through?" For half an hour he sat thus in the very dregs of despair, and then suddenly a picture rose before his mental vision—a picture of old man Hillyer as he sat there on the bed in the vague lamplight, recounting the one mistake of his life and the grim fight he was still making to overcome the consequences, and a flush of shame stole over the young man. "I've promised him," he said aloud—"I've promised him to be a man, and I shall—I shall!"

Just then the church bells began to ring. They were all harsh in tone, being cheap cast iron, except one which had been smuggled into the village during the war from a larger town after the church to which it belonged was destroyed by fire. Its tone was sweet and mellow and rose out of the general clangor like a promise of peace to suffering souls. It was ringing in the little belfry of the church Lydia Cranston attended. She was an Episcopalian, but as there was no church of that denomination at Darley, and her father was partial to the rather progressive young minister of the Methodist church, she and her mother went there regularly. And it must be confessed that George Buckley had on many a Sunday since forming her acquaintance attended that particular place of worship, and chiefly for the opportunity of seeing her. He knew that it would be a difficult thing for him to face the little congregation, divining the thoughts that would rise in the minds of all, and yet he met the matter courageously and went.

He was vaguely glad that the first hymn had been sung and that there were no loiterers, as was frequently the case, on the steps. Reaching the door and looking in, his heart set up a lively beating as he saw Lydia Cranston with her parents in their pew. The major was the only man in Darley who sat on the ladies' side of the house. He seemed never to have remarked that he was acting in an exceptional manner in this regard. In another thing he was different from other men. He was, perhaps, the only male individual in the village who wore kid gloves. His silk hat was on the floor at the end of the pew, and across its top lay his gold headed cane, upon which was engraved a respectful tribute from his regiment. Indeed, the Cranston family had a decided air of the old regime about them, and it was all the more noticeable because of the few families of quite their own rank at Darley. Lydia, tall, graceful and fair, was really a pretty girl, and, what was better, she was very well informed. Mrs. Dugan had often remarked that nearly all the young men—and those of the best Darley blood too—were actually afraid of the Virginia girl, and, while she thought it most peculiar and deplored the condition of things, she attributed the lowborn George Buckley's standing in Lydia's estimation to the fact that he "could talk to her about books an' the like an' had the natural cheek of his class."

The central aisle was carpeted, and George stepped softly to one of the seats in the rear and sat down. He was glad that his arrival was noted only by a few. The young minister would have been conspicuous in a larger place than Darley. He was six feet four in height, very dark and remarkably slight; his eyes were dark blue, his features sharp, and he wore his black hair long and was clean shaven.

When the service was over George stood and waited for Mrs. Hillyer, who was coming toward him, in her stiff black silk, with a welcoming smile.

"Glad to see you out, young man," she said as she joined him. "That was a rip-you-up-the-back, pay-up-or-git-out sort of a sermon, wasn't it? You 'n' Mr. Hillyer 'd better pass around yore bad accounts tomorrow, an' maybe you'll git the benefit of it. I seed old Peter Cashel duckin' his head a time or two."

George smiled because she did, more than at what she was saying, for the Cranstons were passing. The major and his wife bowed with their usual cold dignity, but Lydia gave him one of her sweetest smiles. "Do you feel hit?" she laughed, referring to the preacher's talk.

"Not exactly," he replied, coloring in spite of himself; "but it was strong, wasn't it?"

"You bet he wasn't hit, Miss Lydia," spoke up Mrs Hillyer. "Ef everybody paid the'r debts like this young man—to say nothin' of the debts of other folks—Brother Mayhew 'd be out o' some'n' to preach about."

"Oh, I know that, Mrs. Hillyer," Lydia said, with a laugh, and she went on to her father, who was looking back and frowning impatiently.

Outside the church, George and Mrs. Hillyer walked homeward together. She was in a talkative mood, as usual.

"It ain't any o' my business, George Buckley," she said, "but when it comes to knowin' how to treat women folks you take the rag off the bush. I was tickled back thar. You treated that gal jest right—jest right, to a gnat's heel."

"Why, what do you mean, Mrs. Hillyer?" asked George, quite at sea as to her meaning.

"Well, ef you don't know what I mean let it alone. I've often wondered what makes the women take to you so, an' I've about concluded it's beca'se they cayn't run over you rough shod. My Lord, George Buckley, this is the fust time I ever seed you two together, an' I acknowledge I'd heard so dratted much about the high standin' o' the Cranstons that I almost 'lowed you was a plumb fool to be goin' thar, but—well, I may never know when a hen will take a notion to set, but ef you keep on actin' with Lydia Cranston like you did back thar in meetin' you kin simply wrap her around yore little finger. She may hold out a long time, but she'll throw up the sponge in the end. All the king's hosses cayn't pull a woman away from a man she respects an' is sorry fer at the same time, an' ef I'm any judge—but I reckon I talk too much."

"Oh, Mrs. Hillyer, you are surely"—

"You know," the little woman ran on. "I was a-settin' jest two benches behind 'em, an' when you come in I seed 'er switch 'er head a little to one side an' see you, an' then she looked straight in front of 'er jest as ef nothin' had happened. But some'n' had happened to her face, fer I seed it change. A woman kin fool a man as easy as blindin' a chicken on the roost with a torch, but she cayn't fool another woman. That's why they hate one another like snakes. Thar she comes now!"

CLAIMS REWARD OFFERED FOR GARFIELD'S CAPTURE

Toronto, May 31.—Miss Applebee of Stewartown, who first recognized Norman Garfield, the escaped murderer, and told John Tracy, the veteran township clerk, of her conviction, and whose brother, R. A. Applebee, a former Hydro construction foreman, helped to capture the fugitive, called upon Commissioner of Police Elliott yesterday to file her claim to the $1,000 reward offered by the Government.

The reward was offered for "information leading to the capture of the murderer," and Miss Applebee's claim is the only one so far. Before the money is paid over, however, representatives of the department will make an inquiry to get the full facts as to the capture.

KINGSTON CADETS TO ENTER CAMP JULY 2

Kingston, May 31.—Lieut.-Colonel G. H. Gillespie, inspector and organizer of the cadet corps, announced that the camp for the cadet corps in Kingston would be open at Barriefield, July 2, and last one week.

The camp will be located on the upper Barriefield Commons and it is expected that more than 200 boys will attend. Arrangements are being made for the holding of cadet camps in other places in the district, though as yet the details have not been completed. In the district are 5,670 cadets.

Now—Firestone Quality at Basic Prices

When Firestone entered Canada we fully expected to be offering Canadian car owners tires from our Canadian plant this summer.

Unavoidable delays have retarded the construction of our plant so that this is not possible. An investment of about two million dollars has already been made and work is progressing.

But we have decided to place the prices of Firestone Cord and Fabric Tires upon the level that would be in effect if our Canadian plant were now in operation.

This is in line with the well known Firestone policy of building business by keeping faith, and above all, of giving the car owner most miles for his dollar.

These representative Firestone prices show that it is now possible to buy quality tires at prices no higher than you pay for an ordinary product.

Ask your dealer.

ABOUT VOTERS' LISTS.

The voters' lists will this year receive more than usual attention. The Act of 1920, chapter 2, section 27, applies; this requires the list to be made from the assessment roll, when revised, in three parts.

Part 1.—Showing names of persons entitled to vote at municipal elections and at elections to the Legislative Assembly.

Those who are entitled to vote at municipal elections are: British subjects twenty-one years of age designated on the assessment roll by the letters F or T (freeholder or tenant), and rated for amounts entitling them to vote, as follows:

In townships and villages, $100; in towns with population not exceeding 3,000, $200; in towns with population over 3,000, $300; in cities, $400; and persons assessed in respect of income from a trade, office, calling or profession to the amount of $400. Income, as defined in the Assessment Act, includes in addition income from investments; this class of incomes does not entitle a person to a municipal vote. The Municipal Act, section 56 (3), refers to the income qualification. It will be difficult for municipal clerks to discriminate, and it is doubtful if they have the right to do more than treat all persons assessed for income in the same way, leaving the necessary corrections, if any, to the court of revision. There is sometimes a difference of opinion in reference to the application of sub-sections 4 and 5 of section 58, Municipal Act. Sub-section 4 reads:

"If both owner and the occupant are severally but not jointly rated, each shall be deemed to be so rated."

Land owned by a resident and occupied by any person other than the owner is required to be assessed against both—they are severally rated. See Assessment Act, section 37, sub-sections 3 and 4.

On the other hand, land owned or occupied by more persons than one is to be assessed against them all—they are jointly rated. Sub-section 5 of section 58 applies to the qualification of voters on assessments of this kind in the following words:

"Where land is owned or occupied by two or more persons, who are rated at an amount sufficient, if equally divided between them, to give a qualification to all, each shall be deemed to be rated within the meaning of this section, otherwise none of them shall be deemed to be so rated."

Farmers' sons are also entitled to a municipal vote when the assessed value of the farm is sufficient. They are jointly rated with their father or mother. Assessors are not supposed to enter as farmers' sons those who do not have the qualification for a municipal vote.

All persons entered on the assessment roll, with the letters L.F. opposite their names, are entitled to vote at elections to the Legislative Assembly.

Part 2 is to show the names of persons entitled to vote at municipal elections only. This includes those who are rated for amounts as already referred to, but opposite whose names the letters L.F. do not appear in the roll.

Part 3 is to show the names of persons entitled to vote at elections to the Legislative Assembly only—being the names of those who are British subjects, twenty-one years of age, appearing on the roll with the letters L.F. opposite their names.

Where the persons entered on the roll are returned soldiers and inmates or employees in any military hospital or institution and not otherwise qualified, they are to be entered with the letters S.F. opposite their names.

This part will in most municipalities be larger than either parts 1 or 2, and will include the names of all women without property qualification, entered on the assessment roll for the first time this year.

In making out the voters' list, the clerk is to enter in a separate column the letter J. opposite the names of male persons who are British subjects over twenty-one and under sixty years of age, who by the assessment roll appear to possess the property qualification required to qualify them to serve as jurors; this is $600 in cities and $400 in other municipalities. When property is assessed as the property of two or more persons jointly, they are to be treated as if severally assessed for equal proportions of the property.

In making these entries, no attention is to be given to the list of exemptions contained in the Jurors' Act.

It is necessary to show at the end of the list, and in cities and towns at the end of the list for each ward, the aggregate number of names of persons qualified to serve as jurors.

In township lists, the postoffice and rural route number should be shown opposite the name of each person entered in the list, and in townships, towns, and villages, the occupation of each person.

Two hundred copies of the voters' lists should be printed in pamphlet form within forty days, in a city, and in other municipalities within thirty days, after the final revision and correction of the assessment roll.

Upon each of the copies should be printed a certificate (form 2, Voters' Lists Act) over the name of the clerk, stating that the list is correct; and calling upon voters to examine same and take proceedings to have errors or omissions corrected.

In addition to this, there should be printed upon the outside cover the date of posting up of the list in the clerk's office. Copies of the list should be delivered or transmitted by parcel post registered.

Two copies to every member of the council except the head thereof; the treasurer; the sheriff; the clerk of the peace; every postmaster in the municipality; every secretary-treasurer of a school board or the teacher of such public or separate school; the clerk of the county council. Ten copies to members of the House of Commons; member of Legislative Assembly; every candidate for whom votes were given at the then last election of a member of the House of Commons and for the Assembly; the head of the municipality.

Toronto's unemployment relief expenditures last winter amounted to $646,-893.67, of which $35,343.30 was for overhead or administrative expense. The Provincial and Federal Governments pay one-third of the actual relief expenses, not including cost of distribution. This will leave Toronto with a deficit of over $40,000 in the handling of the unemployment situation. That over six hundred thousand dollars should have been expended to relieve unemployment without any return in production indicates a woful lack of business sense somewhere. That amount of money spent on public works would have been well invested as well as giving needed employment. However, handing out the cash seemed the easiest expedient.

Solid Quebec is still stolid.

Yamaska clings to its idols and will not have a Liberal-Conservative representative in the Meighen Government. Quebec agitators, to prevent the solid Quebec from being broken or bent, ruthlessly opened the old wounds of conscription hate and preached a political doctrine of hatred because the win-the-war government insisted that the young men of Quebec do their duty as well as the young men of Ontario. Anything, even sectional and race hatred poison is stooped to by the agitators, who are determined that Quebec shall not only elect all Liberals, but shall dominate in time all Canada because of the fact that it can be voted as one solid bloc in favor of one political party at the command of the political spellbinders who rule the roost.

A dangerous belief is abroad among the more astute and adventurous spirits in Europe that if they confront the Supreme Council with an accomplished fact it will do little beyond wagging its finger solemnly at them. LOVE, THE COSTUMIER

When I behold your loveliness
In boughten silks and muslins go
I wish, my dear, that I might dress
Your beauty as I fell it glow
Till from that cocoon cloth has wound
You should emerge, a goddess, gowned.

I'd gather leaves of elm and oak
Of broidered birch and lacy fern,
And weave you such a wondrous cloak
The envying trees would sigh and turn;
The winds, enamored, haunt your hair
And bold vines clutch you here and there.

For your dear dress, behold, the flowers!
Satins or rose and poppy silk;
And from far stephanotis bowers
Phials of sweetness, white as milk,
I'd pour; then these with staments stitch
Into a robe surpassing rich.

A veil across your hair I'd toss
Enhancing that soft dusk it wons,
Spun by a spider, frail as floss,
(A master he of silver tones)
And pinned with raindrops, each pure pearl
As perfect as your brow, my girl.

Then for your shoes, your tiny shoes,
Sandals of moon-gold grass I'd make
And buckle them, if I might choose,
With misty stars drawn from some lake;
So where you walked would break a-fire
In little lights that love inspire.

I'd house you in an emerald mist
Of vineyards clustered thick with fruit;
A temple, topaz, amethyst,
Yes, such a shrine as gods might suit;
But I myself would kneel afar—
One does not touch the morning star.

ONTARIO MAKES WINE

BIG INDUSTRY WAS BUILT UP BY PROHIBITION?

During the Autumn of 1919 3,738 Tons of Grapes Were Crushed to Make Beverage of Which the Alcoholic Content Is From 15 to 18 Per Cent.—What Critics Say.

As everyone knows, the referendum result will not make Ontario bone-dry like the United States. When the new law comes into force, in July, the native wine manufacturers of Ontario will enjoy the sole right of making and selling intoxicating liquors in this province. For, as native wines contain, on the average, from 15 to 18 per cent. of alcohol and sometimes far more, they naturally come under the head of intoxicants. This monopoly, conferred under the original O. T. A. and continued under the act as just amended under the Farmers' Government is primarily designed to protect the interests of the farmers who grow grapes in that section of the province between Niagara and Windsor, where land laid out in vineyards is valued at as high as $2,000 an acre. Under the new law, native wine may still be freely made and sold in unlimited quantities to adult members of the public for use in their own homes, although the manufacturers from whom it must be purchased direct are not permitted to advertise their wares nor to circularize customers.

Last year's figures are not yet available, but Government statistics show that in 1919 3,738 tons of Ontario grapes were crushed, producing 764,400 gallons of wine, valued at $1,099,275, and capable of filling more than 3,090,000 of the quart bottles in which wine is usually sold.

These figures show a big increase over the preceding years of 1918, when 1,837 tons of grapes were used to make 263,761 gallons of wine, valued at $230,531, and in addition 10,040 cases of unfermented wine and 170,000 cases of grape juice.

Back in the normal year of 1914, which saw Ontario native wine in competition with imported vintages and spirituous and malt liquors of domestic manufacture, the native wine industry was a small, if profitable, business. Ontario's first partially dry year of 1916 saw a big jump in production of Ontario wines and a rise in price. The bone-dry period of 1918 saw perhaps the peak of production and price for native wines. The allowance of importation from Quebec and the Old Country witnessed a sharp falling off in demand for the native article, which now, once more, seems likely to find a brisk market.

The merits and demerits of Ontario native wine as a beverage have been frequently discussed. If properly made and matured, the fermented blood of Ontario's grape is stated to be very palatable. Unfortunately the heavy demand in 1915 quickly used up most of the old stock and the makers were presently compelled to sell comparatively new wine. Experts say that wine should not be used until it is at least three years old. But circumstances and the great expense involved in storing wine for long periods to mature makes it very difficult for many of the makers to fully comply with this condition. Hence the presence of much wine which might better have rested longer in the wood in some cellar.

Another fault outsiders are prone to find with Ontario native wine, is the frequent use of sugar in its manufacture. And large quantities of sugar are used. The ideal vintage is from grapes whose natural sugar, turning into alcohol, supplies the preservative. For some reason Ontario vinters often add cane sugar, which, like alcohol, is also a preservative. The result is too often a very sweet, syrupy wine, apt to be indigestible. Outside critics insinuate that our Ontario grapes are not sweet enough to make the best vintages.

Some visiting experts in vineyard cultivation declare that the soil of the Ontario grape-growing section is too rich to produce the best wine grapes, which flourish, strangely enough in light and often rocky soil. These critics, however, admit that time will improve matters. They also insinuate that our summer, though warm, is not quite long enough to produce the best wine. But, despite all, delicious wines can be produced in Ontario, and even connoisseurs have been unable to distinguish between a well-vinted and matured Ontario port and the product of Portugal itself.

The amber-colored Catawba and the deep red Concord wines are Ontario's main vinous products. They are both sweet wines, this climate being admittedly not hot enough to produce the dry or non-sweet wines of more genial lands—the wines like sherry, in which the natural acids and sugars of the grape are found in almost equal proportions. Ontario port, which species of wine both Catawba and Concord most nearly approximate, is generally much milder than that from Europe, which runs as high as 32 per cent. in alcohol. Though, of course, some well-matured Ontario wines do contain that amount of spirit. In exceptionally hot, dry seasons a fair sherry has been made in this province, and down towards Windsor they have, with some success, been manufacturing a species of claret. The communion wines in use in Toronto are mostly Ontario vintages. Exclusive of the farming interest, whose large acreage in vines sends a very considerable proportion of its fruit to the wine-press, the wine manufacturers, of whom there are about a dozen, represented in 1919 an investment of $1,410,000.

"— the Banner of England"

What battles it has flown in—the banner of England—on land, and on sea!

Somehow, a battle seems the proper setting for that flag.

But what an unusual battle this—the combatants lying in bed, but none the less fighting—fighting for their lives against that dread disease, consumption.
And fighting under the banner of England!

A small flag, this one—it floats from a pine tree-top near one of the pavillions at The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives.

The boys in that pavillion had followed the flag into battle, some of them. They knew it for a winning flag, and they want to win this fight against The Grim Reaper. So they "chipped in" and bought it—tiny, for their resources are limited—but, what a spirit!

Does your spirit match this?

WHAT'S WHAT IN BALLDOM

By Billy Evans

1. If a batter is hit by a pitched ball that goes directly over the plate, what is the ruling?
2. What was the ruling made by the major leagues relative to spit ball pitching?
3. Can a batsman be removed at any time regardless of the balls or strikes that may be on him?
4. If after two strikes have been pitched to an improper batter, the team at bat discovers the mistake, can the proper batsman be substituted?
5. If with two out, a baserunner is hit by a batted ball which retires the side, does the batsman receive credit for a hit?

Answers.

1. If in the opinion of the umpire the delivery was up to the specifications of a strike, he would so rule it whether or not it hit the batter.
2. The major leagues ruled that the pitchers who used the spit ball in 1920 would be allowed to continue it during their career.
3. A batsman can be removed at any time. The man selected to take his place simply takes the balls and strikes on the batter at the time of the removal.
4. The proper batsman can be substituted when the mistake is discovered, and he simply takes the count that was on the improper batter.
5. The batter always receives credit for a hit on such a play, no matter what the status of the game may be.

Dear Jack,
Now don't "spoof" me — s'il vous plait — but tell me "honest injun", do you really truly want me to come? 'Cause if you do, why of course I can come, — but I think it would be much more exciting for you to come up here.

I caught a fish yesterday! I won't tell you how large it was, because you wouldn't believe me anyway!

And Jack, the funniest thing happened this morning. I overheard a couple of men talking about Campana's Italian Balm. The one man was praising it up and telling the other how marvellously soothing it was after shaving — you just had to rub a tiny bit on the face, etc. etc. I felt like chipping in and saying, "You're right old man!" — (but I didn't!!)

Is Simply Grand Says Mrs. Nelson

TORONTO RESIDENT DECLARES TANLAC HAS MADE A CLEAN SWEEP OF HER TROUBLES

"Tanlac has built me up from almost a complete wreck to a strong healthy woman, and I certainly think a lot of this grand medicine," said Mrs. H. Nelson, of 31 Sydenham St., Toronto.

"I suffered a general breakdown about four years ago and was in such a nervous state that the least little noise upset me. A good night's sleep wasn't even to be thought of, and mornings I felt as tired and worn out as if I hadn't been to bed at all. I was so weak I just had to stop my housework from time to time and lie down, and the least little walk tired me out completely. My appetite was very poor and I suffered terribly from palpitation of the heart, headaches and dizzy spells, and at times was in bed for two or three days on a stretch. I paid out a lot of money on different medicines and treatments but got no better.

"A friend advised me to try Tanlac and three bottles of the medicine have made a clean sweep of my troubles. My sleep is sound and refreshing and my appetite is so good I feel like eating six meals a day. My housework is a real pleasure and I feel fine all the time. I take pleasure in recommending Tanlac for I think it's the best medicine in the world."

DOMINION Tires

The King of the Road

ALL DOMINION TIRES are GOOD Tires. All Dominion Tires are popular because of their serviceable treads, their superior quality and workmanship.

But—if there can be one tire in all Canada that is the national favorite, this tire is "NOBBY TREAD."

Everybody likes "NOBBY TREAD"—the proud possessor of a lordly limousine as well as the happy owner of a Ford, Chevrolet, Overland, Gray-Dort or McLaughlin.

The big, tough, long-wearing, springy nobs are proof against punctures, blow-outs and road-cutting. They simply wear and wear and wear. And when your speedometer gets up in the thousands of miles, you begin to appreciate the sound economy as well as the easy comfort of these famous DOMINION TIRES.

The big nobs, however, do not account for all this popularity. It is the workmanship—the perfect materials—the faultless construction throughout—that make "NOBBY TREADS" the KING of the road.

When you consider their greater mileage, their wonderful durability, their freedom from ordinary tire troubles and their greater ease and comfort in driving, "NOBBY TREADS" are sound economy, no matter what size or make of car you use.

There are DOMINION TIRES for every car, for every purpose, business and pleasure. The Dominion Tire DEALER will show you the different treads and explain the special features of each. He also carries DOMINION INNER TUBES and DOMINION TIRE ACCESSORIES. Have a tire talk with him—he knows.

WHEN CANADA WAS YOUNG.

Some Clippings Taken From Historic Paper, "The Patriot."

In 1835, when William Lyon Mackenzie was sitting in the Legislative Assembly for the second riding of York, when steamboats on Lake Ontario were called steam packets, and when merchants almost apologized for advertising their ware in the newspaper, the Patriot, sub-titled Common Sense, was being published at 233 King street, Toronto, by Thomas Dalton every Tuesday and Friday. Late in the previous year the last issue of Mackenzie's Colonial Advocate had appeared before it was amalgamated with Dr. W. J. O'Grady's paper, to become the Correspondent and Advocate. In the early part of the Legislative session Mackenzie had moved for and obtained the celebrated select committee on his long list of grievances, and Mackenzie for this and other reasons was in 1835 much in the limelight. His activities evoked an amusing verse contribution to the Patriot over the signature of "Daniel Doggrel of Lower Grub Street," and entitled "Address to McK—'s Wig." Of the eleven stanzas the first, third and last read as follows:

"Address to McK—'s Wig."
"Hail! tegument that wraps the patriot's brain!
Most reverend Wig, accept my votive lay!
I bring no venal, sycophantic strain,
But such as bards unbribed to merit pay.
To me thy curls emit a lustre brighter
Than beams from regal crown, or Bishop's holy mitre.

"Witness what light burst on this nighted land,
Our microscopic sight to overwhelm,
When Lord Dalhousie held with feeble hand
And doubtful skill the Sub-Canadian helm.
To aid his Lordship's unsuccessful steerage,
Thy Celtic sage advised to form an Indian Peerage.

"There are some Tory sycophants, I own,
(But Tory scribes at scandal seldom falter),
Who say that were thy real merits known,
Thy chain and medal would have been a halter,
Wane, spiteful toads! go sink in Lethe's River,
And let my honor'd Wig survive for ever.—Amen."

Some interesting sidelights on Toronto, commercial and political doings and the fashions and foibles of that time are presented in the copies of the Patriot of 1835 which are the property of Mr. Reginald Denison, now residing at Oakville, and formerly with the Standard Bank of Canada, and whose late wife was a granddaughter of Thomas Dalton. He was manager of that bank's first branch, in Parkdale. According to advertisements appearing on the last of the four pages which comprised the Patriot, various steam packets were operating between Niagara, Toronto, Port Hope, Cobourg and the St. Lawrence river. Also they ran regularly between Toronto and Hamilton, and between Niagara, Lewiston and Hamilton.

As an instance of the modesty and deference shown in advertisements published in those days, here is the commercial announcement of John Cotter, "Late of Brantford and London, U.C.":

COTTER'S EXCHANGE COFFEE HOUSE.
(Old British Coffee House.)

The subscriber having taken this extensive establishment, and having fitted it up in a style not inferior to any in this Province, he hopes from his long experience and extensive acquaintance in the business to merit a share of public patronage.

In a column of news from England appears this reassuring paragraph: "Since the above was in type we have had the gratification to learn that the account of the defeat of the British troops in Spain is a mere fabrication of some degenerate French editor, who ought to be shot for his unworthy pains."

Andrew Jackson was President of the United States at that time. Some Democratic admirers in the Eleventh Ward in New York city, who were butchers by trade, had killed an unusually large bullock and sent a seductive quarter of that beef to the President with a letter of fulsome praise. The Evening Post of New York published the butcher's letter and the President's diplomatic letter in acknowledgment, and the Patriot of Toronto gives considerable space to a castigation administered to the Evening Post by the Courier and Enquirer of New York for making public an incident which was embarrassing to the President.

In another issue of the Patriot of 1835 is the report of a meeting of the promoters of the Toronto & Lake Simcoe Railway, now a part of the Northern Division of the Grand Trunk.

Six "Dry" Provinces Now.

As a result of the prohibition victory in Ontario there are six provinces in Canada that are dry, viz.: Alberta, Nova Scotia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Prince Edward Island and Ontario. Quebec and British Columbia have Government control, and New Brunswick and Yukon Territory will decide the referendum question this year.

According to federal regulations, the Governmental proclamation as the result of the vote in Ontario will be issued two months after the vote has been taken, and the legislation will become effective a month after the issuance of the proclamation. Hence the provincial "Sandy Bill," which prohibits inter-delivery within the province, will also become effective three months from April 18.

David Duvall, aged 84, deliberately placed his head over the rails between the wheels of a freight train at Morrisburg and was instantly killed.

EARLIER POSTING

It has been observed that many business houses hold the bulk of their mail until the close of the day. This results in serious congestion with consequent delay in handling mails. In their own interests, business houses should post mail at frequent intervals during the day. Early posting results in early despatch. To many points there is only one train a day and this frequently in the fornoon or early afternoon. Mail posted at the close of the day is, therefore, delayed nearly twenty-four hours. Mail posted frequently reaches larger centres at a time when it can be delivered early in the business day. Congestion on evening trains which arises from late mailing results in less efficient handling with possibility of error or delay.

55TH SESSION

The 55th session of the Incorporated Synod of the Diocese of Ontario opened at Kingston on Tuesday morning by a celebration of the holy communion. The Bishop was the celebrant. Canon Woodcock read the epistle, the Dean of Ontario reading the gospel. The roll was called in St. George's Hall at noon. There was a large number of clerical and lay delegates present. Canon Jones was re-elected secretary, Rev. A. L. McTear hon. clerical secretary, R. J. Carson, Esq., re-elected treasurer.

INTERESTING RECITAL

On Monday evening an interesting recital was given in Holloway Street Church by the piano pupils of Miss Winnifred Pearce. They were assisted by Miss Maude Gillett, pupil of Miss Strethel Walton, who sang. Readings were given by pupils of Miss Rae Farrell and by Ralph Shaw, pupil of Miss Tuite. The entire program was executed in a very creditable manner to teachers and pupils alike.. The following are the names of those taking part: Piano—Irene, Kathleen and Leslie Woodley, Alice Russell, Evelyn Langdon, Sadie Lambert, Hazel Rikley, Vincent Hudgins, Twivilla Warham, Lorne Brown, Jennie Adams, Carl Sills, Violet Lewis, Allan Gay, Mildred Ainsworth, Elsie Jackson, Winnifred Palmer, Leland Shaw, Marjorie Martin, Edna Finkle, Mildred Mitts. Readings were given by Olive Coulter, Arlene Andrews, Marjorie Hudgins, Ralph Shaw, and vocal selection by Miss Maude Gillett.

PAGEANT PRESENTED

Last evening the Young People's Society of the Victoria Ave. Baptist Church presented a unique and varied entertainment. The fine audience present had the pleasure of seeing an illustrative pageant entitled "Youth and the New Day." The responsibilities of the youth of this generation were portrayed and the impressiveness created was the result of the fine way in which the young people delivered their parts. The collection given was for the support of their native missionary in India. The pageant was preceded by a musical program, including the following: Opening hymn and prayer; piano solo, Mr. Alec Gordon; orchestral selection, leader, Mr. F. Elliott; scripture reading, Miss Laura Cook; cornet solo, Mr. Albert Wannacott; chairman's address, Mr. P. C. MacLaurin; trombone solo, Mr. J. D. Cookson; vocal duet, Miss E. Forman and Mrs. B. Doolittle; offering and explanation of pageant; reading by Miss Mildred Lloyd, followed by the pageant, closing hymn and prayer.

TAKING THE CENSUS.

The census enumerators started their house-to-house canvass today. The principal facts required to be given by each citizen are: Birth date, citizenship, national origin and religion, none of which information will be used for any purpose other than the census taking.

COURT OF REVISION.

The city court of revision will meet this evening in the city building for the purpose of considering some of the many appeals which have been filed against this year's assessment. There is a possibility that the court will make a general reduction rather than deal with individual appeals which number some 1600.

MISTAKE IN ARRIVAL.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police will arrive at 5.30 tonight at the Grand Trunk station, instead of C.P.R. The horses will be stabled at the Albion Hotel stables, instead of the agricultural park.

DROP OF 200%.

Three years ago if you offered a farmer twenty-five dollars per hundred for his hogs he would stop to consider and invariably an opposition drover would increase this price by fifty cents or a dollar. Saturday local drovers refused hogs at $8.50 per hundred. Port Hope Guide

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 36 or write The Intelligencer.

Coleman Ward reader writes: While crossing the upper bridge on Sunday I observed the water in the same polluted condition it has been in for the past two summers. Is this going to stop?

West Belleville reader says he saw fifteen per cent. native wine served at a party and wonders why fifteen per cent. wine can be sold legally while five per cent. beer, a much better drink, is contraband. Jimmie Roy also wants to know why his good beer was dumped into the river while the wine growers can flood Ontario with a stronger beverage fully protected by the Drury Government.

Very Good Eddie says that he saw his friend Billy return from Montreal on Doctor's Special, bright as a dollar and a half, and wonders when that air line is going to be started between dry Ontario and wet Quebec. Billy says there are more schooners crossing the bar in Montreal in one hour than pass through the Murray canal in a year.

Truth is stranger than fiction, and the sporting editor of this Great Family Journal witnessed a comedy of errors which was tinged with tragedy to at least one of the actors. It happened this way: A well known Belleville business man was surprised the other morning by the visit of a friend who presented him with a nice bottle of Scotch, the only stipulation being that the donor should receive two drinks forthwith. In the absence of a corkscrew a knife was requisitioned to draw the cork. The cork was obstinate, and in struggling to remove it the recipient of the bottle dropped his watch on the floor, with disastrous results to the watch. After sampling the contents the bottle was placed in a safe place and the watch was taken to a jeweller's for repairs. While standing at the jeweller's counter, the prominent business man, aforesaid, dropped his glasses and broke a lens; more repairs needed. When he returned to seek Scotch consolation he found the bottle had been stolen. Watch repairs cost five dollars, lens three dollars—and no Scotch. Hot damn!

A Murney Ward citizen, on the way home from work the other evening, saw a woman pushing a baby carriage up Catherine Street pavement. Why? Because the sidewalks have never been repaired at street intersections since the pavements were laid on the street last year. These rough spots are hard on the babies, carriages and mothers, and should be repaired instanter!

What have you seen?

Called by Death

MRS. PETER TURCOTTE.

A deep gloom was cast over Holloway and countryside when word came that Mrs. Peter Turcotte of Stoco had passed away at three o'clock Sunday morning after one hour's illness from acute indigestion.

Mrs. Turcotte was formerly Miss Loretto Ryan, just a bride of seven weeks. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ryan of Holloway and was in her 23rd year.

The funeral took place from the home of her parents, to which place the body had been removed, on Tuesday morning May 24th, to St. James Minor church, Stirling, of which the deceased had been a faithful member since childhood.

Requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Father O'Reilly.

Besides the young husband, deceased is survived by her father and mother, two brothers, Leo and Joseph, two sisters, Mary and Madeline, all at home. The funeral was largely attended by friends and neighbors to pay their last tribute of respect to one who commanded it so deservedly during life.

A shining light has been put out in the midst of us, a void created in the circle of friends and neighbors that cannot easily be filled, by a loving wife who was the joy and pride of her husband; a good daughter, the care and help of her parents; a fond sister whose companionship and love was lavished on her brothers and sisters is no more.

She was borne to the tomb robed in her bridal garments by her two brothers, Leo and Joseph; John and Joseph Turcotte, Ernest Green and Hubert Faulkner.

The floral tributes were: Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Lott, Holloway; cross, Mr. and Mrs. William Green, Chatterton.

The spiritual offerings were: Mr. Peter Turcotte, the Ryan family, the Turcotte family, Mrs. Keehan, Misses Keehan, Mr. Jas. Tobin, John Tobin, Mr. and Mrs. P. Tobin, Mr. and Mrs. P. Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. M. Shea, Mr. and Mrs. C. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sullivan, Miss McEvoy, the Murphy family, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy.—Contributed.

MR. J. C. ADAM

After an illness of about one year, the death occurred at Trenton on Tuesday of Mr. J. C. Adam at the residence of his son-in-law, W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. Mr. Adam was a building contractor by profession and for the past ten years has resided in Trenton, previously being located in Buffalo. Mr. Adam was engaged on the construction of the munition works at Trenton and other important enterprises. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and had many friends in Trenton and other places. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. W. H. Ireland, Trenton.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY OPEN FORUM COMMITTEE ON DEBATE ON EMPLOYMENT.

Messrs. J. A. Higgs, J. H. Bryant and F. H. Henry, members of the recommendation committee appointed to report on recommendations arising out of the debate at the previous forum meeting in regard to employment, reported as follows:

"In the ideal city all able-bodied men should be employed in some useful occupation.

"We would recommend wherever possible the 8-hour day for all labor, also one day's rest in seven, preferably on Sunday; this should also be extended to railroad employees where practicable.

"We would also recommend close cooperation between employer and employees. Meetings should be held at stated intervals and the welfare of the business openly discussed so that it would become a benefit to employee as well as employer.

"It would appear that the interests of both employer and employee would be better served if a practical profit-sharing scheme or bonus system could be devised.

"We recommend that employers of apprentices should encourage them by educational instruction in the shop and we also earnestly recommend the establishment of technical schools, the same to be subsidized by the provincial government in order to enable the coming generation to become efficient in industrial pursuits.

"We recommend that ideal sanitary conditions be maintained in all factories and workshops.

"We would in closing strongly recommend that the people of Belleville give their hearty interest and support to the industries already established in our city."

Non-Suit in Main Ducks Liquor Case

PICTON MAGISTRATE RULES THAT HOUSE ON MAIN DUCKS IS LEGAL RESIDENCE OF C. W. COLE

Another chapter in the seizure of liquor stored at a dwelling on the Main Ducks was written at Picton on Tuesday when Magistrate Levi Williams decided that the building in question was the legal domicile of Mr. C. W. Cole, owner of the liquor, and there was no infraction of the O.T.A. in keeping liquor there. It will be remembered that on May 11th last, Belleville officers visited the Main Ducks in a motor boat and seized about one thousand dollars worth of liquor found in a house owned and occupied by Mr. C. W. Cole, owner of the island, who is engaged in the fishing business. The liquor was taken to Picton and a charge laid against Mr. Cole for having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling. At the time of the seizure Mr. Cole was absent from the Main Ducks but upon hearing of the occurrence he came to Belleville and retained Porter, Butler and Payne to look after his interests in the matter.

On Tuesday the case against Mr. Cole came up in Picton, before Magistrate Levi Williams and the great interest taken in the litigation was evidenced by the large number present at the trial. At the conclusion of the evidence for the prosecution, Mr. C. A. Payne, of Belleville, acting for the defendant, Mr. Cole, asked for a non-suit which was granted by the Magistrate who dismissed the case.

Magistrate Williams held, following the precedent of a well-known case tried in Supreme court, that a man could have two residences and that he could lawfully have liquor. The liquor will now have to be returned to the Main Ducks by the License Department.

Mr. Wm. Carnew and Mr. R. Allison, of Picton, appeared for Inspector Naphin, Mr. C. A. Payne for Mr. Cole.

Chicago, June 1.—Pay of the average railroad man will be reduced 12 per cent. on July 1. This was announced to-day by the United States Railroad Labor Board.

Home Missions and Social Service

WHAT THE PRESBYTERIANS ARE DOING FOR NEW CANADIANS

Toronto, June 2,—(By Canadian Press)—The department of Home Missions and Social Service of the Presbyterian Church of Canada is one of the most important in that denomination in the scope and diversity of the work undertaken. The report of the year's work as presented to the General Assembly, now in session, is a revelation of the many-sided nature of its program. Reduced to statistics, the church maintains a thousand Home Mission centres in the Dominion, 309 being augmented charges, where the local contributions are supplemented by grants from the church funds; and .690 other Home Mission Fields. As marked on the map of the Dominion, these mission stations are found in every province, and extending from the extreme east of Cape Breton and the boundary line between Quebec and Labrador to the far flung western areas of the Peace River country and the Yukon. Presbyterians are strong believers in Home Mission work, and the seed-sowing of its pioneer "sky-pilots", such as John Black, James Robertson and others, is bearing rich fruit. A small army of home missionaries, 325 in number, have been recently appointed to student fields for the coming summer.

The church has a sympathetic attitude towards the New Canadian and the non-Anglo-Saxon, and has forty-seven special missions for their benefit alone. These serve a wide range of races and nationalities, not only in the chief cities but among the foreign communities both urban and rural in the west.

This outline of Presbyterian service does not, however, cover all. The report shows thirty-three educational centres, including school homes in Quebec and the western provinces, which provide home influences for hundreds of youths, mostly of foreign birth, who attend public or high school in the locality. Specially promising are the Ukranian boys and girls who are thus being served.

The Presbyterian hospital work is one of its choicest impressions of Christian service, there being twelve hospital centres in which thousands of patients are annually treated. Most of these hospitals and the auxiliary hospital units are found in the outlying parts of the western country, long distances, in some cases, from medical or hospital help. In this and similar work, the Women's Missionary Society render most effective service.

The Presbyterian Social Service program is likewise an important and helpful one, including five Settlement Houses, in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver; in which a wide range of activities are carried on for the benefit of hundreds of families and thousands of members, many of whom are of foreign birth.

There are also seven Redemptive Homes in various centres which annually touch the lives of hundreds of needy girls with results that are most encouraging. Regard is also had for the immigrant, through the Department of the Stranger, in which the Women's Missionary Society also cooperates. Nearly 20,000 individual immigrants were ministered to through this department during 1920.

The Board of Home Missions and Social Service takes a keen interest in moral and social reform and and annually presents through the Assembly, resolutions on temperance matters and other subjects of legislation, and the relationship between Capital and Labor. Its work is therefore national as well as distinctly religious, and its influences extend far beyond its denominational boundaries.

The Department of Evangelism also belongs to this Board. Several campaigns were carried on in different parts of the Dominion, including a special seris of meetings conducted by Dr. Campbell Morgan and Dr. Robert Johnston.

To-night will be Home Missions night at the General Assembly. It will be one of the great sessions of this Presbyterian Parliament when stirring addresses will be given, based on the facts above reported and dealing with the larger implications and the ever-extending program of Home Missions and Social Service.

Garfield Dies on Scaffold Hanged at Dawn

HANGMAN'S ROPE CLOSES LIFE OF CRIME ADOPTED BY YOUNG MAN WHICH ENDED IN MURDER OF WOODSTOCK CONFECTIONER—WALKED TO SCAFFOLD SMOKING CIGARETTE — HANGMAN ELLIS HURRIED EXECUTION.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

WOODSTOCK, June 2.—A few minutes after he had discarded the cigarette, which he smoked on his way to the scaffold, Norman Garfield, convicted murderer of Ben Johnston, a Woodstock confectioner, was hanged this morning at 5.40 o'clock, and fourteen minutes later the jail physician, Dr. Mackay, pronounced life extinct.

The execution passed off without a hitch. At 5.30 the procession from the doomed man's cell was started. First came the Rev. Wilfrid Gaetz and behind him Sheriff McGhee and Hangman Ellis. Behind them was Garfield, smoking a cigarette, which he did not relinquish until the executioner went to adjust the black cap. Arriving at the scaffold Garfield ascended the steps to the platform with a steady step, after which he looked up at the noose and immediately placed himself in position under it. The Rev. Mr. Gaetz began to recite the Lord's Prayer, but the first sentence was not finished when the trap was sprung and Garfield dropped out of sight.

Dr Rankin's Death Was Accidental

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Montreal, June 2—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of Dr. Ramsay Rankin, of Stratford, from wounds in the Western Hospital, yesterday, brought in a verdict of accidental death this afternoon.

The testimony of R. W. McEachren, who had previously been warned by the coroner that he might be suspected by the police in connection with the tragedy, was to the effect that he had called upon Dr. Rankin at James Gunn's apartment, St. Catherine St., to discuss the sale of Albert oil land leases, but had found the doctor very intoxicated. In a quarrel which resulted from a request by Rankin for money, the doctor accused his brother-in-law and Mr. Gunn of attempting to steal his money. McEachren testified that he then ran from the building with the Stratford man after him. On reaching the street he heard a crash of glass.

James Gunn's testimony was of a corroborative character, while Dr. McTavish declared that the abdominal wound was undoubtedly caused by glass as some of the window glass was found in the wound. Miss Amyott and Miss Clothilde, living in Apartment 10, knew nothing of the affair except hearing the crash of glass.

The witnesses were discharged following the rendering of the verdict.

NINE MEN IN TWO AUTOS TERRORIZE RESIDENTS AND ATTEMPT TO SHOOT ONE

Windsor, Ont., June 1.—Eight or nine men in two automobiles terrorized occupants of homes in the second concession of Sandwich east last night, according to reports made to-day

The two cars approached the house of M. A. Brain and one of the men demanded liquor. Brain refused and the man opened fire with a pistol, shooting at Brain's feet. Bert Brain, a son, who lives in the next house, heard the firing and came out with a shotgun. Others in the cars began to fire at the younger Brain, who flung himself on the grass and pulled the trigger, but his shotgun did not work. Mrs. Brain fainted during the firing and the men turned their guns towards the house where five children were grouped in the windows.

Shots were fired into the house near the windows but none of the children were hurt. In all there were about 30 shots fired.

"Ralph Connor" New Moderator

REV. DR. C. W. GORDON ELECTED MODERATOR OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Toronto, June 2.—Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon, more widely known as "Ralph Connor," the Canadian novelist, was elected Moderator of the 47th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, which opened in St. Jame's Square Presbyterian Church last evening.

Two other ministers were nominated. These were Rev. Dr. Ephraim Scott, of Montreal, and Rev. E. D. McLaren, of Vancouver. When these names were put to the vote for the first time the result was as follows:

Dr. Gordon	184
Dr. Scott	138
Dr. McLaren	66

Upon a second vote being taken it was evident that many votes had been transferred, Dr. Gordon gaining a "substantial majority" over both of the other two candidates. The figures were not announced.

MEIGHEN'S BILL RESPECTING LAKE OF WOODS PASSES HOUSE OF COMMONS

Ottawa, June 1.—Legislation by which the Dominion Government will take control of the levels of the Lake of the Woods and Lac Seul and the flow of the Winnipeg and English Rivers in North-Western Ontario, was passed in the Commons to-night after a debate which occupied practically the whole sitting. The opposition to the bill culminated in a motion for the six months' hoist offered by F. F. Pardee, of West Lambton, seconded by Duncan C. Ross, of West Middlesex. That motion was defeated by a majority of 44, one of the largest secured by the Government this session. For the motion 52 votes were cast and against it 96. One Liberal member, J. P. Molloy, of Provencher, Manitoba, voted with the Government, and another, Francis McCrea, of Sherbrooke, announced that he would also have done so had he not been paired. Members of the Agrarian Group, who represent Western constituencies generally speaking, voted with the Government. Agrarian members from Ontario sided with the Opposition and voted for the six months' hoist.

LIQUOR SPOTTERS ARE EX-PRISONERS

Niagara Falls, Ont., June1.—Several liquor cases took up the attention of Magistrate Fraser and the spotters who had been engaged to get convictions were severely castigated by him. Only one man was found guilty.

Fred Bellong and Sty Chipulk, the spotters, both admitted of been in prison. The former had been tried for murder and had been three months in prison, while the murder was committed in the other man's house.

Magistrate Fraser said: "How can I believe such witnesses? The first one was charged with murder, and a murder was committed in the house of the other. In all reason, can any credit be attached to their evidence? I could not convict any person on such evidence."

GRATTON ESMONDE GUILTY OF SEDITION

Vancouver, May 31.—O. T. Gratton Esmonde, described as "Sinn Fein Envoy to Australia," was found guilty of seditious uttering by an Assize Court jury after forty-five minutes' deliberation.

Mr. Justice Morrison, in his charge to the jury, put forward some considerations in Esmonde's favor. The jury added a recommendation that the sentence be deportation, and on Esmonde's giving an undertaking to leave the country, he was permitted to leave the court and make preparations for departure.

He will probably proceed to England via an Eastern Canadian port.

The Riders Of The Plains

Friday the Bay of Quinte will ring with the cheers of thousands paying tribute to the matchless horsemanship and chivalrous prowess of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police as well as in recognition of the gallant traditions of this Corps of trained intelligence and indomitable pluck. Five weeks spent in the Great Western Provinces last year made me realize, as never before, the power they beneficently, but firmly wield, and the dashing romance of their service. From their able and public-spirited Commissioner Perry (a name well-known in Belleville) to their youngest man they are all imbued with the same spirit. Every man, woman and child who can throb responsive with a thrill of delight and pride to the old British scarlet, to the poetry of rhythmic motion (and emotion) to the vibrant music and the vital panorama of radiant color, will celebrate the King's Birthday tomorrow with our Comrades of the G.W.V.A. and will lay up a lasting and glorious memory of such horses and such men, and such an inspiring sight as cannot be surpassed in the British Empire. It will be more than a musical ride; it will be the world's finest administrative cavalry in concordant action.—W. N. Ponton, Lt.-Col. R.O.

State Control of Packing Houses

SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLICS MAY TAKE OVER PACKING INDUSTRY

Montevideo, Uruguay, June 2.—A proposal that the governments of Uruguay, Argentina, Brazil and Paraguay take over by expropriation the packing houses in those countries has been made by a committee of the Uruguayan House of Representatives.

Most of the packing houses in those countries are controlled by foreign capital, a large part of which is North American. It is estimated that the total cost of such an undertaking would be over $100,000,000 and that the cost in Uruguay alone would be $22,000,000.

The committee recommended that a convention of delegates of the four South American countries be held to arrange joint action and suggested the issuance of domestic and foreign loans to raise the funds necessary to acquire the packing houses.

It is proposed by the committee that the establishments be placed under the control of directors comprising cattle men and government officials in the respective countries. Another directorate would be formed of government representatives who would control the marketing of the products abroad and fix prices, acting jointly in all of the four nations.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

Garfield Sure of Heaven

Woodstock, June 2.—Before leaving for Toronto this morning, Rev. Mr. Gaetz said in an interview that Norman Garfield was a most wonderful man, with a heart as tender as a child and love for his wife and family that absorbed his every thought. Books to his wife and mother were parting gifts of Garfield. In a book to his mother was inscribed: "My dear mother, last night remembrances, I have secured comfort in this book and hope you do the same; rest assured, mother I shall be waiting at the pearly gates when God says: well done." After praying that the gift might comfort her, Garfield wrote to his wife: "I have only eight hours to live here but then start in a real life."

Rowell For Union

Toronto, June 2.—A vigorous and eloquent note in support of Union of Protestant churches was struck by Right Hon. N. W. Rowell, when he appeared this morning with Chancellor Bowles of Victoria College, before the Presbyterian General Assembly to convey greetings from the Methodist church. Mr. Rowell said he had recently visited Halifax and had found there a large new union church which was taking the place of the old Presbyterian and Methodist churches which had been blown up in the recent disaster. This church he felt was the testimony to the spirit of brotherhood between the rank and file of these churches, a spirit which was now actually an embarrassment to the leaders of both churches in Western Canada.

CHAIRMAN MORRISON HAS TILT WITH MAYOR AND CITY SOLICITOR — COMPROMISE OF FIVE PER CENT. ADDITION TO ASSESSMENT OVER LAST YEAR SUGGESTED—NOTHING DEFINITE ARRIVED AT.

The Council Chamber in the City Hall was altogether inadequate to accommodate citizens who gathered there last evening at the first session of the Court of Revision upon the assessment roll.

The attendance was by no means confined to males, as many ladies who are ratepayers were present. It proved to be a rather warm session in spots, with nothing definitely accomplished. Previous to the sitting of the court the members—Sheriff Morrison, W. H. Panter and R. W. Adams, conferred together as to the course to be pursued in regard to the 1500 appeals entered against this year's assessment, but apparently they were unable to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion.

Sheriff Morrison is in favor of dealing with all the appeals in a general way by making a 5 per cent. increase over last year's assessment. This the other two members considered is not a sufficient increase over last year. Some 200 appeals were set down for hearing last night and only a few of them were temporarily disposed of when at 10.15 the court adjourned until this (Thursday) evening.

When the court opened the fireworks commenced.

A PERFECT FARCE.

Sheriff Morrison—This is a perfect farce, and as far as I am concerned I would be willing to confirm the assessment and have it referred to the County Judge for adjudication. This court is becoming, as it were, child's play. I do not think it is right for the Council to tell the assessor to raise the assessment to furnish money.

City Solicitor Masson—The Council did not authorize the assessor to raise the assessment.

Mr. Carnew—This appears to be an annual event. Last year there was an increase in the assessment somewhere like 19 per cent. and a general raise of 10 per cent. made by this court was accepted. This year we are met in many cases with a 25 per cent. increase. This was a great hardship upon many ratepayers who own a home and have limited means.

City Solicitor.—A residence assessed at $7,000 was sold for $10,000.

Mr. Carnew—Many of my clients own their homes, which are not for sale and such cases should not be compared with properties that are for sale. It is a burden on many to have real estate assessed as high as some of it is assessed.

Col. Ponton—Never have we witnessed such a gathering of appellants as is here tonight. From figures published the assessment this year of the city is nearly two millions in excess of last year and the population is lower. Conditions in regard to productive property does not by any means warrant such an increase. A small increase, say five per cent. over last year's assessment, might not be objected to.

FIVE PER CENT. INCREASE.

Sheriff Morrison—We might get a proper assessment if two or three competent men were engaged. This court should either be discharged or the assessor discharged. Is this thing going on year after year? Last year we equalized the assessment, and what business had the assessor to raise the assessment so high this year. I favor a five per cent. increase over last year's assessment.

Mr. Carnew—What is applicable to one building will not apply to another.

Sheriff Morrison—Has property increased to such an extent since last year? I think not.

Mr. R. Templeton stated that a 5 or 10 per cent. increase over last year's assessment might be made and the Council might appoint two or three assessors. If this were done this unpleasant task would be overcome.

Col. Ponton—Citizens are willing to meet the needs of the Council in providing means to meet expenditures, provided a halt is called in increased expenditures.

Sheriff Morrison reiterated his statement that the assessor had been instructed by the Council to raise the assessment.

Mayor Hanna—This year's Council never instructed the assessor to raise the assessment.

Sheriff Morrison—I have reason to believe it did.

Mayor Hanna—Such is not the case,

Live Long on Vegetable Diet

Los Angeles, Calif., June 2.—Dr. James Martin Peebles, physician and author, who not long ago celebrated his 99th birthday anniversary and who wrote a book on "How to Live a Century and Grow Old Gracefully", ascribes his long life in large measure to abstinence from eating animal flesh. Dr. Peebles stopped eating meat when he was 39 years old. He wrote his book on the rules of living when he was 62.

Asked what he considered the greatest contributory cause to his long life he instantly replied:

"One cannot strengthen life by living on death. I cannot bear the idea of eating dead cows and dead hogs; and it is not necessary. See how strong are horses and oxen; they do not live on dead flesh." Other rules he made for himself and which he said he believed had helped him to reach his advanced years included:

"Go to bed every night at 8-30. Out of bed every morning at six. Never use tobacco. Never use intoxicating liquors. Never complain.

"Avoid all worry and keep an harmonious mind. Worry is among the worst things in the world. Have a strong will-power. Always look for the new. Keep calm."

On his 99th birthday, Dr. Peebles walked erect only occasionally using a cane; his sight was good although he used spectacles for reading; his hearing "as good as ever", and his appetite and digestion he declared excellent. His long white beard and hair gave him a truly venerable appearance.

Asked what his plans for the future were he replied:

"To live a number of years more and to write at least another book. This will be on the progress of Christianity as it is preached, showing how preachers are leaving hell fire, brimstone and purgatory and many other old-time dogmas behind.

"What a variety of mighty changes since my birth!" he exclaimed. "Napoleon then had just died on the Island of St. Helena; old 'Hickory Jackson', as he was then called, had just been elected President of the United States; Ohio was then a budding state and the great wide west was dotted with Indian wigwams.

"Later came telegraph, telephones, railroads, electric lights and machinery, wireless flashes on ocean and land, airships sailing through the skies and automobiles dashing madly across the continent.

"There is life in everything. Crush the acorn to earth and the germ looks toward the mountains. In every marble block there is an angel's form waiting the sculptor's chisel. God is good. There is no absolute evil in the universe, because God made it."

Dr. Peebles was born March 23, 1822 at Whitingham, Vt., and graduated from Oxford Academy, Chenango County, N.L., in 1841. He has travel-low men, for you'll notice it's seldom ed around the earth five times.

Knights of Columbus Meet at Peterboro

Peterborough, May 31.—The 18th Annual Convention of the Ontario State Council of the Knights of Columbus opened here this morning with one hundred and twenty-five delegates present. Mr. L. V. O'Connor, of Lindsay, is the presiding officer. The delegates were welcomed by Mr. W. S. Merrell, Grand Knight of the Peterborough Council, and Mayor A. A. McIntyre; also Mr. J. J. Duffus, President o fthe Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

Word was received at the convention that Past Grand Knight Horey, of St. Catharines, who was to have attended the convention, died suddenly at his home last night.

Letters to the Edtior

NO "LADY MASONS"

Belleville, June 2nd, 1921.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,

Dear Sir,—Permit me to make a correction of a statement appearing in your issue of the 31st of May with reference to a "Successful Dance" held on the preceding evening at Johnstone's Academy "under the auspices of the Eastern Star Lodge of Lady Masons."

The "Eastern Star" is an independent order and not connected in any way with Masonry. True, only Masons their immediate relatives and their wives are eligible for admission to the order of the "Eastern Star," where we seek to maintain and advance the same principles as those of the worthy Masonic institution, but make no claim to the name of "Lady Masons," and it is incorrect to so designate a member of the "Eastern Star."

The dance in question was not held under the auspices of the order of the "Eastern Star," but its purpose being a most worthy one, received the assistance and patronage of a number of its individual members.

A benefit will be given by the order on the evening of the regular meeting on the 17th of June.

Thanking you for this privilege of space,

Yours sincerely,
VIRGINIA C. NUGENT, Worthy Matron,
Belleville, Chapter No. 55, O.E.S.

VARIED VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM AT GRIFFIN'S TO-MORROW

An excellent varied vaudeville program has been arranged for presentation by the G.W.V.A. at Griffin's Tomorrow night, a portion of the talent being brought direct from Toronto and consisting of Ralph Gordon, entertainer and comedy cartoonist, Sapper W. A. Gordon, Toronto, soldier entertainer and society conjurer, assisting will be Mrs. A. P. Allen, Soprano, Mr. Harold Barrett, Baritone, Mr. Everett Smith in a character sketch, Sergt.-Major Blades in musical Nonsense, the Belleville Instrumental Trio comprising Miss Joy Higgs, Violin, Miss Phyllis Bogart, piano, Mr. Glen Elliott, cello. A treat for music lovers has been arranged by the Argyle Regimental Band who have arranged a special program of popular and classical melodies for this performance.

"BLIND YOUTH" AS A PLAY HAD RECORD BROADWAY RUN

"Blind Youth", a Select Picture, is the feautre attraction at Griffin's tonight, and Saturday, matinee and night. The photoplay, which was adapted from the play of the same name by Lou Tellegen and Willard Mack, enjoyed a run of many months on Broadway, and tells the story of an artist who loved not wisely, but too well. He was cast off by two women, his mother and his model, only to be rescued for fame and fortune by a third, who marries him. A few nights later she finds him alone in his studio with another woman in the small hours of the morning, and she has it on the word of his brother that things are as black as they appear. Then comes a queer quirk of psychology, which saves the situation and many mistakes, resulting in an understanding between husband and wife that cannot be clouded.

A good 2-reel comedy and three other varied plays have been arranged for presentation on the same program.

The Toonerville Trolley will tune up the audience with a big bunch of laughs, the Wonderfur Katrinka, the Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang, and the funny old Captain will all be there.

Lindsay Greybirds Spring Surprise

CATCH G.T. TEAM NAPPING AND WIN 5—3 VICTORY

Lindsay Baseball team, the Greybirds, flew into this city yesterday afternoon and flew out again in the evening carrying beneath their wings a well earned victory. It was the first game of the Central Ontario Baseball league to be played in this city this season and being a half holiday, attracted a large crowd of spectators, who to say the least, were disappointed at the result. It was confidently expected that our ex-champion G.T.R. team would have no difficulty in disposing of their opponents, but this reckoning proved to be, as is often the case, on the wrong side of the ledger. Lindsay won out by a score of 5 to 3.

Previous to the starting of the game an exhibition of ball as it should be played was staged with some of our prominent citizens taking part. Mayor Hanna was on the mound. Mr. J. D. McMillan, superintendent of this division of the G.T.R. at bat and Rev. D. C. Ramsay behind the batter adorned with mask and heart pad. Mr. M. Robertson was umpire. After the Mayor had pitched two balls which were apparantly aimed at an imaginary airplane, Mr. McMillan hit the third and was declared out as he made no effort to reach first base.

Everything was now ready for the big game and all were expectant. Mr. Wilson of Oshawa was the umpire for strikes and balls and Mr. John Fahay of this city was selected as base umpire. F. Goyer and W. Mills were announced as battery for Belleville, and Oulette and Logan as battery for the Greybirds. The latter went to bat first and before three players had been retired two runs had been scored. The visitors repeated this performance in the sixth innings and their fifth run was secured in the eighth. In the second innings the G. T. R. team secured two runs by well-placed hits and in the fifth innings added one more run which completed their run getting. Except for two innings Freddie Goyer had good control of the ball, and was credited with no less than 12 strike outs. Oulette Lindsay's new pitcher has a rather peculiar wind up and also delivers a ball that proved puzzling to the Belleville batters. Both pitchers were well supported in the field. The game in detail is as follows:

First Innings

Lindsay—Stark hit by pitched ball, Williamson reached 1st on bunted ball and error by Goyer. McMahon out at 1st, Stark reached 3rd and Williamson second, Coombes struck out, Carew made a double, scoring Stark and Williamson, Logan flew to Goyer. Two runs, one hit, one error.

WHAT'S WHAT IN BALLDOM

By Billy Evans

1. If a fielder has the ball in his possession ready to touch a base runner, and after so doing the ball is deliberately knocked out of his hands by the runner, what is the proper decision?
2. If a runner on first, believing that a fly ball is not going to be caught, starts to advance and has nearly reached third base when the fielder makes the catch, does the throwing of the ball to second base before he can get back there double him up?
3. If after a batted ball goes through an infielder, a base runner in the opinion of the umpire, deliberately kicks such a hit ball, what is the proper ruling?
4. If there are less than two men out and a runner on third, and the batsman interferes with a play at the plate on such runner, who is called out?
5. If a base runner who tries to advance on a hit to the infield stops in front of a fielder making a play long enough to obscure that fielder's vision and cause him to lose the play, what happens?

Answers.

1. The runner should be called out for such an act.
2. In order to properly make the play the runner should either be touched with the ball or it should be thrown to the base he occupied when the ball was hit, and in this instance it was first.
3. The base runner should be called out for interference.
4. The runner coming home from third should be called out for the batter's interference with less than two out.
5. The runner has no such right to stop, and if, in the opinion of the umpire, his actions were responsible for the loss of the play he should be declared out.

In this number there are five fishing stories and articles by such well known authors as A. Bryan Williams, F. V. Williams, S. C. Cain, Robert Page Lincoln and S. H. Howard. "The Silver Doctor," an interesting story of fishing in the Shekak Canyon, is worthy of special mention. The hunter and firearms man has been well looked after in this issue by C. S. Landis, the guns and ammunition expert. In addition to this feature, the latest proposed amendments to the firearms permit laws are published in full. Conservation, Kennel and the other departments are up to their high standard. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

U. S. FREIGHT RATES HIGHER THAN HERE.

Opponents of the Government must be hard driven for argument when they say that railway rates are higher in Canada than they are in the United States. As a matter of fact rates are a little lower in Canada.

Last September when the Railway Commission jacked up Canadian railway rates to the American level by an increase of 40 per cent. in the west and 35 per cent. in the east, it was provided that after January 1, 1921, the increase would be only 35 per cent. in the west and 30 per cent. in the east. The American rates remain just as high as they were last September, so they are a little bit higher than our rates in Canada.

Our scale of wages and our scale of rates have alike followed the lead of the United States. We had to pay our trainmen what they paid their trainmen, because all these employees belong to big international unions. Canadian trainmen make up only eight per cent. of the big brotherhoods. If we had refused to pay our trainmen the wages paid trainmen in the United States we would have had a big strike on our hands, and the business of the country would have been badly deranged.

If any one says that the railway rates are lower in the United States than they are in Canada, he must either be mendacious or misinformed, or both. Any railway ticket or freight agent on either side of the line will tell you so.

FARMERS PARTY SHIES AT FREE TRADE.

Is the Farmers' party, like the Liberal party, beginning to hedge on the tariff question?

Hon. T. A. Crerar, the party leader, speaking in the budget debate, was asked by Hon. C. C. Ballantyne whether he stood by that plank in the platform of the National Council of Agriculture, which commits the Farmers' party to increasing the British preference to 50 per cent. immediately, and to out-and-out free trade with the Mother Country within five years. Instead of giving a square-toed answer, Mr. Crerar replied that the Farmers' party unquestionably favored increasing the British preference. He had nothing to say about free trade with Great Britain within five years.

This is not the only indication that the agrarian party is slowing down a little on their free trade campaign. Everyone can see that free trade with England would be practically free trade with Europe and most of the world. England would admit commodities free of duty from all over the world, and these could and would be trans-shipped to Canada free of duty as goods of British origin. Something of the kind did occur before the war under the existing British preference.

The Farmers' party undoubtedly favors a radical reduction of the tariff which would be almost as injurious to Canadian industries as out-and-out free trade. It is, however, significant that the Farmers' party shrinks from going to the country on a free trade platform. It is not quite ready to go the whole hog. It is, however, more honest than the Liberal party, which swings like a pendulum between free trade and protection, and is unable to say which policy it really favors or will carry out if returned to power.

Discipl[illegible] young men is advocated on a piece-meal basis by many organizations. One declares against them drinking beer, another taboos cigarettes, and a third is worried over the influence of the moving pictures. A short period of military discipline each year would be of vast benefit. It would promote both mental and physical welfare. But, by a curious coincidence, the outcry against such discipline comes from those bodies which so industriously commend other forms of discipline. The principal reason alleged is that if a man is taught to hold up his chin, put out his chest and pull in his stomach he will at once become militaristic and pugnacious and want to engage in mortal combat with any or all other nations. General Griesbach, in proposing three months' compulsory service annually, goes farther than public opinion will support. But there is more sanity in his scheme than there is sense in much of the criticism aimed against it.—Toronto Telegram.

Lennox-Simpson, an Englishman, for many years resident in the Orient, who now occupies the post of adviser to the president of the republic of China, is in Canada on his way to London, where he will remain during the June conference of premiers. He will, of course, have no status, but he will tell the British public, as he is at present telling the Canadian, that if Britain persists in making a favorite of Japan to the exclusion of China, she will, to use Salisbury's famous phrase, be "backing the wrong horse."

JUSTICE NOT VENGEANCE

London Daily Telegraph

Bankers, shippers and manufacturers are very deeply concerned in the industrial and economic future of Central Europe. It is no interest of ours nor is it that of France or Italy, to plunge that area into insolvency and irretrievable confusion. We do not want to ruin, destroy or devastate Germany. We should prefer her to stand upright on her own feet, go on with her industrial revival—and pay her debts. This last consideration must be the governing motive of any military or other penalties which it may be deemed desirable to inflict. They are punitive, but not vindictive. Germany has sinned deeply; but it is not upon her chastisement that we are specially bent. Reparation, not vengeance, is our primary object.

THE COST OF THE WAR

New York Times

Who can really tell what the war cost the people of the world, and what it will yet cost them? Much time must elapse before famine is banished from Asia as well as from Europe. The moral damage done society is enormous and baffles speculation. Except that it is a horrible chapter in human history, no one knows the story of what has happened in Russia under the Bolshevist despotism. Still men are fighting in Poland and Ireland. Still armaments are being heaped up and the tragic lessons of the last Great War have made so little impression upon politicians that other great wars are talked of lightly, as if Diplomacy did not have her office, and it was the destiny of Civilization that if the survivors of the last Great War were polled in all countries their voice would be for the long peace of reconstruction and for disarmament.

The Poets' Corner

NEW WARS FOR OLD

Peace! When have we prayed for peace?
Over us burns a star
Bright, beautiful, red for strife!
Yours are only the drum and the fife
And the golden braid and the surface of life!
Ours is the white-hot war!

Peace? When have we prayed for peace?
Ours are the weapons of men!
Time changes the face of the world;
Therefore your ancient flags are unfurled,
And ours are the unseen legions hurled
Up to the heights again!

Peace? When have we prayed for peace?
Is there no wrong to right?
Wrong crying to God on high
Here where the weak and the helpless die,
And the homeless hordes of the city go by,
The ranks are rallied to-night!

Peace? When have we prayed for peace?
Are ye so dazed with words?
Earth, heaven shall pass away
Ere for your passionless peace we pray!
Are ye deaf to the trumpets that call us to-day,
Blind to the blazing swords.

—Alfred Noyes.

REST

Come, hie ye to the hill-tops,
Or turn ye down the glen,
To list the woodland voices
Far from the haunts of men.
For sometimes hearts grow tired,
Striving to reach their goal—
E'en tho' thy feet be weary,
Nature will heal the soul.

—May Howell Robinson.

SUMMER WOODS

Come ye into the summer woods;
There entereth no annoy;
All greenly wave the chemist leaves
And the earth is full of joy.

I cannot tell you half the sights
Of beauty you may see,
The bursts of golden sunshine,
And many a shady tree.
And far within that summer wood,
Among the leaves so green,
There flows a little gurgling brook,
The brighest e'er was seen.

There come the little gentle birds,
Without a fear of ill;
Down to the murmuring water's edge
And freely drink their fill!

And many a wood mouse dwelleth there,
Beneath the old wood shade,
And all the day long has work to do,
Nor is aught afraid.

There is enough for everyone,
And they lovingly agree;
We might learn a lesson, all of us,
Beneath the greenwood tree.

FOR nineteen years needy consumptives, in early stages of the disease, unable to pay for their treatment, or able to pay in part only, have been cared for at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, near Gravenhurst

--then came the fire!

ON November 30 last, the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives was totally destroyed.

Now from penniless men and women suffering from the Dread White Plague, the cry comes to you:

"The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives must be rebuilt."

The founder of the institution, and the man who contributed more to this cause than any other—Sir William Gage—died on January 14th.

From his colleagues in this great work, and from the thousands of poor sufferers, who now need help, the appeal comes to you for assistance.

Sir William Gage's life work for suffering humanity must be carried on.

To help poor sufferers from the Dread White Plague you are asked to give to The National Sanitarium Association's

Consumptives' Emergency Million Dollar Fund

Week—May 29 to June 4

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives must be replaced by buildings, larger and fireproof.

Accommodation is needed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for 400 adults in early stages of the disease. This will restore 250 of them to their homes and loved ones—cured. The remainder will be greatly benefited.

A few months for each patient soon means thousands cared for.

Funds are urgently needed for this work.

Again—adults in advanced stages must be treated at the King Edward Sanatorium on the banks of the Humber near Weston. Extensions are necessary. Many of these patients can be saved.

And again little children—stricken with the dread disease—must be cared for at the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children near Weston. Ninety per cent. of these are saved to become healthy men and women.

Funds are urgently needed to cover the cost of extensions.

Further, funds are urgently needed to carry on the work of The Gage Institute in the City of Toronto, where the needy poor come for free examinations, including X-ray, and for medical and nursing assistance.

Fifteen thousand needy consumptives have been cared for to date at the hospitals conducted by the Association.

"BULL" MAN TELLS WHY FIVE TOES MAKE BRIGHT ANIMALS

"I'll tell you the reason that any one of my three herds of elephants is the most intelligent bunch o' beasts in this whole menagerie, which includes about every known animal but the Bolshevist," said the boss animal man of the John Robinson circus, coming to Belleville, Monday, June 13th. "The elephant has five toes like a man, that's why. 'Look at those ostriches over there. You know they are the prize 'no-body home' creatures of the universe, don't you Want to know why? Well, they've got only two toes. Of course, my theory doesn't apply to the hoofed animals, but they are all babes in arms when compared to elephants in the matter o' wisdom.

"Here's another thing. Did you ever see anything with big eyes that has any brains? Take matinee idols, movie Claudes and fish, for instance. Ain't I right? Now, look down those elephant lines. Take the tenth one in the row. Pipe those little eyes. Just watch the brightness of 'em. That 'bull' knows I'm talking about him; he knows what I'm saying. They get you every time, do the 'bulls'. They size people up on sight. If they don't like you then, they never will. When they don't fall for a person's charms, I know there's something wrong with that person. But follow the elephant's tips and you'll love your feldom."

"SHORT" BERRY BOX BECOMES ILLEGAL

Ottawa, May 31.—Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, in the House declined to accede to appeals that the "short" berry box be permitted again this season. The question was discussed on a motion to go into committee of supply. J. A. C. Ethier (Two Mountains) said it was impossible to get the legal box in the Province of Quebec in sufficient

The advent is an annual affair for the purpose of building up physically the younger generation of the frontier population of France.

QUEBEC CAN SHIP BONDED LIQUORS

Quebec, May 31.—One of the most important provisions of the Quebec Liquor Law which forbids the obtaining of liquor from any other source than the Quebec Liquor Commission may be nullified following the decision of the authorities in Ottawa in regard to the delivery of imported liquors to liquor firms in places where the Canadian Temperance Act is at present in force. The result is that from Quebec, where the Scott Act reigns, liquors can be shipped in large quantities to the rest of the province where the Scott Act is not in force.

E. N. Chinic, collector of customs of Quebec, says he has received an official communication from the Commissioner of Customs, Ottawa, notifying him that he had been officially advised by Mr. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, that the delivery of liquor in bond in sections of the Province of Quebec where the Canada Temperance Act was in force, as in the city of Quebec, and several other towns was to be made in future to firms and individuals, as the Federal Act has precedence over the provincial law and allows such importation.

SURPRISE SHOWER

At the home of Miss Priscilla Doran, Earle street, one of the most delightful and successful miscellaneous showers of the season was held in honor of Miss Edna O'Rourke, one of the most popular young ladies of the city who is soon to be married. About twenty-two girl friends of Miss O'Rourke were present, the latter being taken completely by surprise, which does credit to the executive powers of Miss Doran. Upon the entrance of Miss O'Rourke, a psuedo bride and groom in conventional garb, entered, bearing between them a large basket which was filled until overflowing with parcels, large and small containing china, linen, aluminum, etc. The work of opening each gift was then proceeded with and many exclamations of surprise and delight, with some laughter, were heard. When all were opened and admired, Miss O'Rourke, although not fully recovered from the first shock of surprise, made a little speech which satisfied all present. The fun of the evening now began, entertainment mostly of a musical nature with vocal solos by Misses G. Bryce, K. Bowden Messrs. Harold and Thomas Barrett. Instrumental Miss Lena O'Rolrke, Miss Vera Gorman and Mrs. Harlod Barrett with violin solos by Miss A. Lafferty and Miss Lena O'Rourke. All present joined in singing many favorites creating much merriment at times. A dainty luncheon was served about 11.30 after which the festivities were recommenced lasting until after the midnight hour. Auld Lang Syne, For They Are Jolly Good Fellows, Good Night Ladies, Merrily They Roll Along and God Save The King' brought to a close one of the most enjoyable affairs yet held. The Misses Doran were very capable hostesses and deserve full credit for the wonderful success of the evening.

CONSIDERATION OF APPEALS

Owing to unforeseen delay it is found impossible to carry out the adjustment of appeals against the assessment, as arranged by the court. A and B appeals will be continued at to-night's sittings and the others considered at a future date. The time as set by the court for hearing will be announced through the press from day to day.

PHONY CHECKS

Despite the warning in The Intelligencer yesterday of the operation of a check artist in the locality at least three persons engaged in business in this city were victimised. The party gives his name as Ex-Sapper D. A. Molray and he presents checks on the Bank of Montreal, stamped Militia and Defence, and signed by Capt. Crawford. In Trenton he operated the game and got away. Yesterday morning he visited three grocery stores in East Belleville and in each case made a slight purchase and presented a check for payment, receiving the change. All the checks were for the same amount, namely $19.75. That the checks were bogus was not discovered until this morning. The matter was reported to the police but it is evident Molray, if that is his proper name had left the city.

STEAM PINNACE COMING

Commandant Evans, of the Naval Brigade, accompanied by Chief Instructors Bates, of Hamilton, and Jones, of Welland, left Kingston for Halifax to arrange for the transfer of the steam pinnace of the warship Niobe, which was a gift of the Minister of Marine to the Naval Brigade. The pinnace will be used for training purposes at Kingston.

EARLY EDITION

The Intelligencer will publish at noon to-morrow to permit the staff to celebrate the King's Birthday with the Veterans at the Fair Grounds.

POST OFFICE HOURS

General delivery 8-30 a.m. to 10-30 a.m.; Registered letter delivery 8-30 a.m. to 10-30 a.m.; Lobby for box holders 6-30 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Outgoing mails close at 12 noon (Day) and 11-40 p.m. (night). There will no delivery by the letter carriers on the holiday.

LIONS FEED

Inspector E. G. Frere, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and Col. W. N. Ponton were the principal speakers at the Lions luncheon at the Hotel Quinte to-day, and the session was a very interesting one. Dr. Wilson was Good Fellowship chairman and filled that position to a nicety. Musical selections including community singing made the occasion a merry one.

FOUGHT SKEETERS

Messrs. C. W. Reid, Douglas Reid and Spence Clarke have returned from West McCoon lake where they fought skeeters and got things ready for the camping out season. The camp is graced this season with a new flagpole, a tall tree having been trimmed for the purpose and rigged up with halliards. The territory will be formally annexed to the British Crown when Billy Doyle catches his first bass.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 36 or write The Intelligencer.

A lady reader of The Intelligencer saw this: "When tomatoes were almost prohibitive in price, to the man of moderate means, this lady saw this man of moderate means purchase these tomatoes and carry them to a sick friend, when he would not buy them for himself."

Progressive Citizen saw with pleasure Park Superintendent George Belcher with a gang of men fixing up the curb boulevards on streets recently paved. This is a move in the right direction, making for uniformity and general attractiveness.

A young lady reader of The Intelligencer saw a blackbird trying to take possession of a robin's nest. Bobbie returned home and promptly ejected the intruder after a short sharp fight in which the blackbird was badly worsted.

M. N. saw an automobile splash the sidewalk with oil which lay in puddles on the roadway, and a little girl carrying sand to cover up the sticky spots so that passersby would not scatter the messy stuff all over.

Ted Clarke saw Belleville from the air in the flying boat and says it looked good to him, only he would have liked to tie up to a cloud and enjoy the scenery indefinitely. Ted says he has seen most everything on land, but it looks different when you are up in the air. Beats the old flivver all to pieces.

What have you seen?
Tell The Intelligencer.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

At the organization meeting of the Junior Red Cross Society of Queen Victoria Public School the following officers were elected for the year: President—Raymond Buskard; Vice-President—Ethel Adams; Secretary-Treasurer—Lorna Ridley; Five Councillors were elected to represent the five senior rooms—Ruth Empson, Alice McIntosh, Arthur Jackson, Julia Haslip, Ethel Matthews. If the enthusiasm shown at the organization meeting can be taken as an indication of the future, the Society will be a live one indeed.

RECEPTION HELD

A reception was held on Wednesday evening June 1st., in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Frost, lately married, the home of his father McDonald Ave. City. A bountiful wedding supper was served and fully enjoyed by the guests present, among whom were the Adjutant of the Salvation Army wife and family, Miss Flossie Clark, and Mr W. J. Coleman, Mrs. Edwards and Miss Edwards. The merrymaking continued well into the wee hours, the guests being unanimous in declaring the young couple clever entertainers and wishing for them a very prosperous married life.

TO HAVE PLAYGROUNDS

A by-law to raise $5,000 by issue of debentures to establish community playgrounds there was carried by the Renfrew taxpayers yesterday by a majority of 86. The same by-law was defeated by a majority of 46 when voted on with numbers of others six weeks ago. The total vote was 56 less than the number cast in April.

DOUBLE SCHEDULE

The Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League is running on a double schedule, therefore Belleville is not out of it yet. This news was just learned to-day, and as 75 per cent. of the fans of Belleville are unaware of this, why this should satisfy their doubts.

Wedding Bells

VANDERWATER—O'HARA

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on June 1st., at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander, Madoc, when Aileen, fourth daughter of the late Mr. Benson O'Hara was married to Lt.-Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, D.S.O. commanding officer of the Argyll Light Infantry, Belleville, formerly second in command of the 2nd. Battalion, C.E.F., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vanderwater, Foxboro. Owing to the recent death of the father of the bride, the ceremony was very quite only a few of the intimate friends and relatives being present. Rev. Wm. Higgs of Madoc officiated. The wedding march was played by Miss Minnie O'Hara, sister to the bride, and Miss Bessie Beatty of Tweed sang "Loves Coronation" during the signing of the register.

Colonel and Mrs. Vanderwater left immediately after the wedding luncheon on an extended motor trip through western Ontario and the Northern States. On their return, they will reside at Foxboro.

WILLS—VERMILYEA

At the residence of Mr. W. E. Vermilyea, 189 Charles street, City, a quiet home wedding took place at 10 o'clock this morning, when his daughter, Miss Gladys, was united in marriage to Mr. Phillip H. Wills, of this city. Rev. Dr. Cleaver, Rector of Bridge street church officiated. Mr. B. L. Hyman was groomsman and Miss Doris Vermilyea, a sister of the bride, was her assistant. I only regret that owing to the high cost of living prevailing at the present time more parents cannot avail themselves of the excellent opportunity it offers for their children."

ALLEGED WIFE BEATER TARRED AND FEATHERED

Marlboro, N.Y., 31.—Aroused by his alleged mistreatment of his young French wife, twelve men seized Bouch White was beaten after his bride of the Church of the Social Revolution in New York at his home near here, gave him a sound horsewhipping, covered his body with a mixture of tar, asphalt and carbolic acid and added feathers. The former pastor was then turned out on a lonely mountain road, dressed only in his night clothes He was then left to walk 14 miles to Marlboro.

While was beaten after his bride of less than a month, who had come to the United States with him looking forward to life on an extensive estate, had left him, disillusioned, and bearing marks of physical mistreatment. She was formerly Mlle Andree Emile Simon, daughter of Marcel Simon, superintendent of the Panhard-Levassor Automobile Company of Paris.

LADY ASTOR SHOCKS HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, May 31.—The lobby correspondent of the London Times relates an amusing incident in conection with Lady Astor's speech in the House of Commons on the subject of "Maternity Benefits." He said that when Lady Astor was unable to find passage she desired in the Partliamentary reports she threw the book to Lord Robert Cecil, exclaiming: "Find it for me, Bob."

"This," the correspondent adds, "is the sort of thing that makes history."

HEATED DISCUSSION AT REVISION COURT SESSION

and my word is as good as any person's word.

City Solicitor—The Council this year gave no such instructions.

Sheriff Morrison—Some Council did.

Mr. Panter—The court last year thought it dealt fairly in the matter of appeals and we will try to do right with the Council and citizens. He would not violate the oath he had taken, neither did he want the position. If appellants do not think they are getting justice they can appeal.

Mayor Hanna—We have confidence in this court, but it is not fair to impute motives to the Council, which has taken no action in regard to increasing the assessment.

Sheriff Morrison—Why should there be such an increase in the assessment when conditions do not warrant it?

INEQUALITY CITED.

Mr. Carnew cited two cases which showed an inequality in assessment. In one case a property was assessed at $1,900 in 1919; in 1920 assessed at $3,500, and by the court reduced to $2,500. This year the assessment is $4,200. In the other case the assessment in 1919 was $1900; in 1920 was increased to $2,500. The court of revision made a reduction of $300. This year the assessment was $2,900. This, he considered, was an unfair assessment.

Col. Ponton—Have the city refused the proposition made by the chairman of the court? There would not, in his opinion, be ten appeals to the County Judge if the assessment this year was increased 5 per cent. over last year.

Sheriff Morrison—I suggested a five per cent. raise this year, which I think is equitable. Property has not advanced to justify the increase made.

Mr. Carnew—The increase of five per cent. would only be on those appealing?

Sheriff Morrison—No. Make it on the whole assessment of the city.

This concluded arguments and the court considered a few appeals, but did not make any definite statement as to the course they were going to pursue.

At 10.15 Chairman Morrison announced that the court had adjourned.

VOL. LIV. NO. 119. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1921. PRICE TWO CENTS

Biggs Once More in the Limelight

DOMINION MAY LEAVE ONTARIO TO FOOT THE STUPENDOUS BILL

Ottawa, June 2.—Members of the House of Commons listened with astonishment while Gordon Wilson, of Wentworth, told the tale of Hon. F. C. Biggs' extravagant expenditures as Minister of Public Works of Ontario, to gridiron his own county of Wentworth, and particularly that part of it in which are situated properties belonging to himself and his father, with improved provincial highways. For the Government supporters the story was furnished with a comedy feature by the frantic efforts of Opposition members, particularly of Hon. T. A. Crerar, Dr. Michael Clark, and other Agrarians, to find a point of order which would stop the disclosure or throw a share of responsibility upon the Dominion Government as administrator of the Canada Highways Act. Unfortunately for the efforts of the Agrarian members the House of Commons to stop the discussion of the expenditures of the Minister of Public Works in the Agrarian Government of Ontario, it was decided by the Deputy Speaker that the Commons was entitled to consider the cost of roads which had been approved by the Dominion Minister of Railways or with respect to which applications for Federal approval and assistance had been made.

DOMINION'S CONTRIBUTION

Furthermore, Hon. J. D. Reid, Mr. Wilson and other supporters of the Government were able to point to sections of the Canada Highways Act which provided that the Dominion should only contribute forty per cent. of the amount which in the opinion of the Minister of Railways and Canals, is the actual, necessary and reasonable cost of a road, and that expenditures on certain adjuncts of a road should not be considered in computing the Dominion's share of the cost. The facts which Mr. Wilson recited moved him, and at least one other member, Dr. Edwards, of Frontenac, to express the situation in verse:

> "Roads to the right of him,
> Roads to the left of him,
> Roads on all sides of him."

was Mr. Wilson's description of the result of Mr. Biggs' efforts in the vicinity of his own home. Dr. Edwards followed up with a parody of a well-known nursery rhyme beginning. "These are the roads that Biggs built."

Mr. Wilson said that under the administration of Mr. Biggs 9,100 feet of the Hamilton-Brantford Highway had been completed at a cost of $141,253, or $81,938 a mile. "No," he replied to a question, "the streets are not paved with gold." Furthermore, the Ontario Minister now proposed to widen this road by a boulevard fifteen feet wide.

Six Policemen Killed, Four Officers Wounded

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Cork, June 3.—A district inspector, a police sergeant and four constables were killed and four officers seriously wounded last night when a police patrol was ambushed by one hundred armed men at Carrowkennedy, near here. Arms and ammunition carried by the police were taken and three motor cars in which they were riding were burned.

CHEMIST SAYS HE CAN MAKE GOLD

New York, June 3.—(By Canadian Press).—Dr. Charles Benson Davis, of this city, in a paper in which he has just submitted to Engineering Foundation, claims to have solved the problem of manufacturing gold. He declares to have already successfully demonstrated the possibility of making gold and other chemical elements, such as silver, platinum and copper, by the transmutation of a common element. He has shown samples of the metals he claims to have made to members of the Engineering Foundation and has requested that body to investigate his claims and his methods Dr. Davis is a well-known chemist and has a high standing in his profession. He is a member of the Chemical Society of Industry, a Fellow of the British Chemical Society, and an honorary member of the Societe Academique d' Hostoire Internationale. He is the author of several papers which have been published in chemical journals.

PEN. POPULATION IS HIGHEST IN YEARS

Kingston, June 3.—If the population of the Portsmouth Penitentiary continues to grow at the rate it has grown within the last six or eight months it may be necessary either to pardon some of the convicts—which is not likely to occur—or to enlarge the institution. The exact number of convicts within the walls of the institution totals 775, while with the 18 now in the asylum the actual total of convicts consigned to the penitentiary is 793. Even eliminating the asylum convicts the number 775 represents the largest total ever recorded in the penitentiary for over 50 or 60 years.

It is recalled that either before or immediately after Confederation there were something like 836 prisoners at one time in the institution, but the number rapidly diminished, and there has been no such total since like there is today. Apparently, too, the number is to be increased, as would be indicated by convictions reported from other places by men who have been sent here but have not arrived.

TOTAL SHOWS TREMENDOUS SLASH AS AGAINST 1920 FIGURES

Ottawa, June 2.—Supplementary estimates tabled in the House of Commons by Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, totalled $23,959,842. The figure is low and indicates a close scrutiny of expenditures. Of the amount $12,000,000 is provided for loans to provincial governments to encourage the erection of dwelling houses (in substitution for an item in the main estimates of $10,456,000, which is dropped) leaving less than $12,000,000 for all other purposes, current, capital and demobilization. The main supplementaries last year totalled $62,000,000, and the year before $36,700,000.

Provision for public works, both for buildings and harbors and rivers, are restricted almost entirely to repairs, reconstruction and minor betterments. No large buildings or new works are provided for.

HEALTH OF ANIMALS.

A sum of $355,000 is included for agriculture, of which $300,000 is an additional amount required under the head of "health of animals," for extension of accredited herd word and in connection with bovine tuberculosis.

There is a vote of $100,000 under Labor Department for unemployment relief and for the same purpose under soldiers' re-establishment, an amount of $600,000 to provide further assistance to pensioners and vocationally trained disabled men, either married or single, with dependents, who received assistance as such prior to March 31 under the regulations then in effect. Under re-establishment there is another item, amounting to $623,000 to make good expenditure arising from recommendation just made by the Committee on Pensions, Insurance and Re-establishment, making $1,333,000 in all.

Premier Meighen to Uncover Cross in France

London, June 2.—Arrangements are being made here to have the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, prime minister of Canada, visit France, and unveil the memorial cross being erected in Vimy Cemetery.

It is expected that after the imperial conference the Canadian premier will visit Edinburgh, Scotland, where he will receive the freedom of the city.

R..W. ROBERTSON DEAD

Kingston, June 2nd.—A resolution increasing the minimum stipend of clergy in self-supporting parishes from $1,200 to $1,400 per annum, was unanimously carried at this morning's session of the synod of Ontario diocese.

Province Profits But Not Consumer

LICENSE BOARD MADE TEN-STRIKE BY TAKING LIQUOR OUT OF BOND

Toronto, June 2.—In profit, $300,000 to $400,000 will find its way into the Provincial Treasury this year as a result of a good stroke of business pulled off recently by the Ontario Board of License Commissioners—a sort of parting gift from the chairman, J. D. Flavelle, who severed his connection with the Government yesterday. It is understood that some time before the new tax was put on liquor by the Finance Minister's budget, the License Board had a tremendous amount of purchased liquor in bond. In the ordinary course of business this liquor would be brought out of bond only at it was required. The chairman, with the coming budget and the probability of a further levy on liquors in mind, took up with his colleagues the advisability of taking out all liquor then in bond. The Government was also consulted and the large amount of money required to put the plan through was provided. The budget, of course, put a heavy additional levy on liquor and had the province been forced to pay it on the stock of liquor so recently in bond, it would have been nearly $400,000 out of pocket. The Government might have decided to let the purchasers of liquor from the dispensaries get the benefit of this stroke of business foresight, but the provincial treasury is hungry these days and as a result the $1.00 increase per bottle in the price of "wet goods" went on when the jump in excise came along to justify it, even though the dispensary liquor escaped it.

WORKMEN RULE IT SO

Vienna, June 1.—The daylight saving tangle is becoming embarrassing in Vienna. Yielding to the farmers the law was rescinded but the workmen in Vienna are taking it into their own hands and simply serving notice on employers that they will work on summer time.

The movement has spread from factory to factory until it is virtually a law in its effect. The men say they cannot work on clock time and cultivate their gardens around the city.

Children Strew Flowers upon Black Watch

Oppeln, June 2.—The first battalion of the Black Watch arrived, and was met by hundreds of children, who threw flowers at the British soldiers They broke into the marching squads. trying to hold the soldiers' hands, and shouting gleefully as the bagpipes screeched the music of the march.

The residents of the place lined the sidewalks smilingly, and the men doffed their hats as the kilted troops passed. The Scotsmen were pleased at the reception, and patted the children's heads and exchanged greetings with the crowd.

The German Green Police stood at rigid salute until the whole column was by, then went laughing about their duties.

Friendliness Everywhere

The first train, due to arrive in the morning, reached here about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, while the streets were virtually deserted, but the moment it was known that the British arrived, men, women and children began running from every direction toward the station, where the battalion formed for the march to the barracks.

As the column wheeled into the narrow, winding main street two horsemen cleared the way and kept careful eye on a number of civilians with rifles on their backs, but there was apparent friendliness on every hand, and anxiety vanished. From every window handkerchiefs were waved, and women threw flowers on the heads of the troops. Some of them wept.

The expression was repeatedly heard from the crowds: "The Poles now have something to reckon with."

To Drive Out Insurgents

The Italians apear eager to co-operate with the British in driving out the insurgents; they have heard that this was the plan. An Italian officer remarked: "It is high time they let us loose on these fellows."

The Black Watch will be quartered here until the remainder of the British force arrives. It is said they will then be ready to take the field within a week.

Quietest Campaign Closes in Sask.

Regina, Sask., June 2.—The quietest political campaign in the history of the province of Saskatchewan is now drawing to a close. Nominations were held on Thursday, and polling takes place one week later, June 9.

The election will terminate the fourth legislature of Saskatchewan, which was chosen on June 26, 1917. In this house, composed of 59 members, there were 51 supporters of the Liberal administration headed by Hon. W. M. Martin, K.C., six Conservatives and two Independents. In addition three members at large were chosen by soldiers overseas. In the new legislature there will be a total of 63 members elected. By a redistribution bill passed during the recent session three cities—Regina, Moose Jaw and Saskatoon—are given two representatives instead of one and the new constituency of Gravelbourg created. As the soldier seats will disappear, the change merely adds one seat to the house.

Owing to the fact that there are no constituencies in the province with more than two members, proportional representation could not be tried out without radical changes in the borders of the constituencies.

Present indications point to the government running candidates for all seats. The movement for Independent political action will undoubtedly supply the greatest opposition the Martin government will experience. The Conservative party, at present without a leader, Donald Maclean having resigned this post on April 27, and announcing he would not be a candidate for re-election, is not likely to put up a serious fight.

PLACE CANDIDATES.

The Non-Partisan League will place candidates in a number of constituencies, mainly where there is a large proportion of voters of foreign birth.

The platform on which the Martin government is appealing to the electors is based largely upon a further development of the co-operative movement which the government has strongly supported during its four years of office. In the manifesto issued by Premier Martin, on May 16, the following are the principal policies which the government pledges itself, if returned to power, to carry out:

To continue the application of the principle of co-operation between government and people in the solution of the economic problems connected with production and marketing; as far as constitutional and financial powers will permit to co-operate with the farmers in any practicable method of improving the system of marketing grain and farm products generally; to continue the fight the government is now waging for lower freight rates; to provide for an agricultural survey of the province by the College of Agriculture, and the establishment of demonstration farms under the control of the college in close touch with the people.

GOVERNMENT PLEDGES.

The government also proposes a thorough investigation of the whole problem of the treatment of both curable and incurable cases of tuberculosis; pledges itself to continued vigorous enforcement of the Saskatchewan Temperance Act; to continue the various lines of educational progress to further develop the co-related highways system of the province; to extend the provincial system of telephones wherever practicable; put forth its best efforts to obtain from the Dominion authorities the transfer to the province of its natural resources and continue its investigation of these resources; to further develop its policy of assisting farmers in the purchase of live stock encourage the work of the Farm Loans Board, and continue the policy of assisting financially the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries Company and the Saskatchewan Co-operative Stockyards.

DUPLICATE PLATFORM

The Non-Partisan provincial platform is practically a duplicate of the platform of the Non-Partisan League in North Dakota and proposes: Provincial terminal elevators, flour mills, stockyards, packing houses and cold storage plants; direct legislation, provincial purchasing of machinery, provincial grading of all grain according to milling values, a banking system whereby the public credit can be used for the public good, proportional representation, provincial compulsory insurance laws.

Platforms of other candidates opposing the government vary widely, the majority having one or more of the planks in the Non-Partisan League platform. The following are a few of the planks from some of the independent platforms: provincial encouragement of co-operative abattoirs, tanneries, manufacturers of leather goods and woollen mills, a land settlement scheme based on a regulating influence in the price of land, owners of idle land obliged to file a selling price on their lands, that price also to be regarded as an assessable value for the purpose of taxation; direct legislation with the initiative, the referendum and the recall. It is also proposed that the whole system of selecting the premier and cabinet be changed and that the men filling these offices be elected by the members of the legislature from the floor of the house.

Long Journey For Toronto Man

JOHN BIBBY, A METEOROLOGIST, STARTS ON LONG TRAIL TO MOUTH OF MACKENZIE

Toronto, June 2.—On his 4,000-mile journey to the mouth of the mighty Mackenzie river, away up on the shores of the Arctic Ocean, started Mr. John Bibby, 42 Bain Avenue, on the trans-Canada train which left the Union station at 9 o'clock Saturday.

He is sent to the northern wilds to take magnetic and atmospheric observations, and he will be there for a year. It will be well into the middle of the summer when he arrives at his northernmost point, Fort McPherson, for at Fort McMurray, north of Edmonton, he comes to the end of his train trip and takes to navigating the rivers that lead to the Arctic sea.

Mr. Bibby has been busy all week packing up his instruments and baggage. He did not include any furs in his equipment, for he can get them in the far north. He has a sleeping bag, however, for that will be needed on the long trip north.

One of the interesting instruments he has along with him is the balloon theodolite, which is for the purpose of ascertaining the speed and direction of winds. Mr. Bibby is taking along 400 little rubber balloons, which are sent skyward and rise at the rate of 500 feet a minute, sometimes going as high as 30,000 feet. These balloons are plain little rubber affairs, about two feet in diameter, and they cost about 70 cents. Through the telescope with which the machine is fitted, the meteorologist is able to follow the flight of the balloon and make his observations.

He has also a magnetometer, an earth inductor, and a dip-circle, all of which are used to determine the magnetic currents of the earth.

Mr. Bibby is a young Englishman who served with distinction in the war and is proving himself a clever meteorologist. He will not remain long at Fort McPherson, but will go south to Fort Good Hope for the winter, where two missionary priests have been acting as the agents of the meteorological department in taking observations.

Ottawa, June 2.—That Canada may do her share in the task of fostering mutual understanding between the nations and so promoting the success of the League of Nations Society, which is to be Dominion-wide in its scope, was instituted, with Sir Robert Borden as its first President, at a meeting held here. The objects of the new organization, as set forth in the resolution calling for its foundations, are: "To promote international peace; to furnish information about the League of Nations, its principles, its organization and its work; to study international problems, and Canada's relations thereto as a member of the British Commonwealth and of the League of Nations; to foster mutual understanding, good will and habits of co-operation between the people of Canada and other countries in accordance with the spirit of the League of Nations; to promote the establishment of provincial or local associations, clubs or other bodies having like objects, and to co-operate with any existing organizations for such purposes."

The officers of the new society are:

Honorary Presidents—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and Hon. T. A. Crerar.

President—Sir Robert Borden.

Vice-Presidents—Hon. N. W. Rowell, M.P., and Hon. H. S. Beland, M.P.

Honorary Secretary — Vincent C. Massey, of Toronto.

Honorary Treasurer—A. J. Brown, K.C., of Montreal.

CINEMA ARTISTS GOING HUNGRY

Los Angeles, Cal., June 2.—A conservative member of the Hollywood film colony estimates that between 2,000 and 3,000 motion-picture workers of the world's film capital are idle, and many of them are actually starving.

Following the feverish wave of war-time prosperity and high wages has come the reaction, which is being felt in the cinema industry as elsewhere, with the result that thousands of artists, clerks, etc., in the studios have been thrown out of employment.

The situation was first disclosed to the public when, a few days ago, a young man who formerly earned good pay in the movies fainted on the street in Holloywood. He was taken to a hospital where it was found that he had been without food for three days.

Pretty girls who have begun to shine as screen stars of lesser magnitude, are actually pawning their clothes to keep from growing hungry.

Heroism Of Toronto Boys Saves a Life

TWO CITY CHUMS FORM HUMAN BRIDGE AND SAVE THIRD BOY FROM DROWNING

Toronto, June 3.—An ingenious method of rescuing an unknown seven-year-old boy was adopted by two chums, George Calvert, 112 Glendale avenue, and Clyde Johnson, each of whom is only 12 years old.

It appears that one little fellow fell into the water at the foot of Keele street yesterday. Attracted by the cries of the drowning boy, the two chums raced to the spot. Young Calvert crawled out along the crib-work, which is about four feet high. As the boy in the water came up for the last time, Calvert extended his foot, which the seven-year-old seized, Calvert then clung to the cribwork, while his chum Clyde crawled out and over his body and in this way managed to reach and drag the boy from the water.

VICTIM OF WITCH DRS.?

Havana, Cuba, June 1.—Provincial authorities are conducting a searching investigation into the mysterious disappearancee from his home on a ranch near Guantanma of Candido Martinez, aged five who, it is reported, may have been a victim of witch doctors, Three men and a woman are being held without bail for examination, one of them being known locally as a "healer" and seller of patent medicines. The aunt of the missing lad his sole relative, says that his sister disappeared a year ago under similar circumstances.

Bishop Disapproves of Group System

POLITICAL, SOCIAL AND RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS DISCUSSED IN ANNUAL CHARGE

The Bishop of Ontario, in his annual charge to the Anglican Synod, delivered in St. George's Cathedral deplored the lack of a great political leader in Canada, and disapproved of the group system in politics. His Lordship referred to the nation's acute troubles and problems. Crimes of violence appeared to be alarming on the increase, unemployment was serious and was likely to become more acute and signs of unrest and smouldering discontent, which might break into flame any moment, were not wanting, symptoms aggravated, as many thought, rather than allayed by the somewhat drastic sumptuary legislation now in force. He endorsed the appeal of the Lambeth Conference for a great Christian church, and also the decision adoptedb y the conference to develop the ministry of healing. He announced that he would ask for the appointment of a committee with the object of making healing a greater part of the church's work in this Diocese.

The charge declared for frequent and systematic religious instruction in the public schools and strongly opposed making the gate of divorce any wider.

Ontario to Float Another Big Loan

HON. PETER SMITH TO GO INTO MONEY MARKETS FOR OVER $20,000,000.

Toronto, June 2.—Within the next two or three weeks Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer, will go into the money markets for one of the biggest loans the provinces has ever had to make. It is estimated that from $20,000,000 to $22,000,000 will be needed to carry the administration for the balance of the provincial year, which ends on October 31, and in view of the ease with which the Treasurer disposed of the last loan he is confident that the needed money will be secured at a favorable price.

Since the home money market has not entirely the last loan, and City of Toronto bonds are making a bid for funds, Hon. Mr. Smith intimated he would probably find it necessary to go to New York for the big loan. The demand for money in the American markets is a keen one, but in view of the balance of exchange against the Dominion it is possible for Canadian borrowing to be put through in New York on an exceptionally favorable basis.

The great bulk of the funds to be secured by the big loan will be used for Hydro-Electric purposes. With the speeding up of work on the Queenston-Chippawa Canal, and the delivery of expensive generators and other power-house equipment, the demands on the provincial treasury during the next few months will be exceptionally heavy. A considerable amount will also be needed for administration generally. Road expenditure is making large demands, and the payment of county road grants, educational grants, etc., come along about this time without any balancing revenue; since the latter piles in at the year-end.

BONDS SOLD WELL.

Hon. Mr. Smith stated yesterday that all but a small portion of the $15,000,000 of six per cent. bonds floated a month ago had passed into the hands of investors. The loan was placed at 97.94 and the first $5,000,000 was disposed of almost at once by the syndicate that was given the handling of the bonds. The second $5,000,000, upon which they were given an option at the same rate, found a market within a week, and about $3,500,000 of the third block, making the issue, has been sold.

It is said that the bonds were in blocks of $100,000 or more, to banks and other institutions at 98.34, giving the brokers under one-half of one per cent. profit. On $10,000 lots the price was set at 98.75. Individual investors who bought small lots secured the bonds at slightly better than a six per cent. basis.

Anti-Bolshies Annihilated By Soviet Troops

Stockholm, June 3.—Anti-Bolshevik forces at Vladivostok have been annihilated by Soviet troops, it is asserted in a despatch sent out by the Russian official telegraph agency. The despatch asserts that the anti-Bolsheviki were aided by the Japanese Government.

Ten-Year-Old Boy Crushed To Death In School Yard

CHILD WAS PINNED BETWEEN PILE OF BRICKS AND HEAVY TRUCK

Toronto, June 2.—Ten-year-old Harold McKinley, 634 Shaw street, met a tragic death in Dowson street school yards early today by being crushed between a pile of bricks and a heavy truck driven by William Waddicor, of No. 10 Division Street.

Eye-witnesses state that Driver Waddicor, when he saw a number of boys playing on the bricks in the school grounds, got off his truck and requested the boys to clear the way for the truck. All the boys did so with the exception of the unfortunate deceased boy, and when Driver Waddicor came through he did not see the lad.

Christians Massacred

London, June 3.—The Athens correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says under date of Thursday that it is reported from Constantinople that new frightful massacres of christians have occurred at Samsun and Trebizond on the Black Sea coast of Armenia. Streets are strewn with bodies of Greeks.

Many shops in the two cities have been ransacked according to reports reaching Athens. A United States destroyer has arrived at Samsun, to protect United States citizens there, it is said.

Customs Bill Carried

Ottawa, June, 3.—The Customs and Excise Bill was put through the committee stage in the Commons shortly after four this morning, after an all-night discussion and now stands for third reading. The clause providing for valuation for duty in no case lower than wholesale price of products caused considerable opposition. The clause regarding profits and valuation was attacked as insane legislation. At three o'clock there was still considerable opposition to the clauses of the Bill but Sir George Foster informed the House that the Government intended putting it through all stages before adjournment.

"Blind Youth" Makes Hit At Griffins

LARGE AUDIENCE GREET "BLIND YOUTH", BRIMFUL OF ROMANCE, COMEDY AND DRAMA

Leatrice Joy and Walter McGrail, who have the leading roles in "Blind Youth", writen by Lou Tellegen and Willard Mack, which was the feature attraction at Griffin's last night, do some very clever acting in the picture, the former as the sweet and trusting girl who inspires the down-and-out sculptor to rise to new heights, and the latter as the artist.

The story was adapted by Katherine Reed from the famous stage success of the same name. It's a photoplay in which romance, comedy and drama have their fling at the centre of the stage. Put together in the typical Willard Mack manner, which means that it is logical, co-herent and holds the interest throughout. "Blind Youth" takes one from the studios of Greenwich Village and the drawing rooms of Fifth Avenue to the ateliers of Paris and the garrets of Montmarte.

"Skipper's Narrow Escape" an amusing 2-reel comedy being one of the Toonersville trolley series, Fox News Weekly, and an interesting and varied Pathe Review are being exhibited in addition to the feature offering. Owing to the G.W.V.A. Vaudeville show at Griffin's To-night this program will not be shown again till Saturday, when it will be exhibited matinee and night.

G.W.V.A. CELEBRATION

On account of the drizzling rain it was thought the G.W.V.A. celebration would be postponed till a later date but from all appearances things are going to clear up and the boys are going ahead. The races are to be called off on account of the mud on the track, but the ball diamond is to be soaked with gasolene and burned, thus putting it in shape for play. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police will stage their performance on schedule time and probably a second musical ride will be arranged. After the parade the grounds will be opened to the public and an enjoyable afternoon and evening is anticipated. The program of the day will conclude with a grand concert in Griffin's Theatre followed by dances at Johnstone's and Bennett's Academies.

ONTARIO DROUTH STARTS JULY 17

Ottawa, Ont., May 31.—The 17th of July is said in official circles to be the probable date when Ontario will go "dry" through effect being given to the recent prohibition vote. The results were officially gazetted on Saturday and an order-in-council will now be passed fixing the date.

The authorities in the case are understood to construe the Act as calling for a period of ninety days between the taking of the plebiscite and the application of the ban of imports. The latter date would thus be the 17th of July.

By using Zam-Buk, however, I soon got relief, and it was not very long before every trace of the trouble had disappeared. I really think no home should be without Zam-Buk."

SAVED A FORTUNE.

Judge Became Millionaire Without High Financing.

A surprise, even to the friends of the late Mr. Justice Britton, was the large fortune of $3,369,000, disposed of in the estate of the deceased judge. The accumulation of this huge sum is an indication of what may be accomplished in a long lifetime by thrift and sound investment. For the late Judge Britton amassed his fortune rather by saving and conservative investment than by speculation. It was the old case of "money breeding money."

Starting in law at Kingston nearly seventy years ago, Justice Britton made up his mind to begin saving money which would give him a competence by the time that ill-health or advancing years debarred him from further practice of his profession. The competence grew into the fortune, by a perfectly natural process, for the judge was in harness to the last.

When one takes into consideration Justice Britton's age and the fact that he had been actively engaged for almost seventy years, the secret of his wealth is not so far to seek. For example, $20,000 invested at 6 per cent. for sixty years amounts at compound interest to $659,600.

Justice Britton started saving when a very young man. He got a modest start, too, from the estate of his father, a prominent Kingstonian. The judge's wife, a daughter of the late Luther Holton, of Kingston, also brought the young barrister some money. Hard work, thrift and sound investments for the most part did the rest. The late Justice Britton is said to have made no inconsiderable sum in Montreal Power stock and C.P.R., while they say he received a very large sum—some say half a million—for his holdings in the old St. Lawrence, Chicago Navigation Co. which subsequently became merged into Canada Steamships. But the late jurist's principal investment was the prudent one of mortgages — many of them second mortgages.

People who knew Justice Britton in the old days at Kingston, before his elevation to the Bench, and when he was a lawyer and parliamentarian, remember him as one of the hardest of workers and a fighter to the finish in his clients' interest. As a barrister, he lived comfortably but modestly in his own house, keeping no carriage, nor entertaining lavishly, and generally making no display to indicate his wealth. He was indefatigable at his work. He was at his office betimes in the morning, busy at briefs. And night after night, until 11 and later, the light shone in the office window where he still toiled.

On his elevation to the bench in September, 1901, the late judge moved to Toronto, where, like other Supreme Court justices, he received a salary of some $6,000 a year, with traveling expenses, which emolument was increased by the Government in 1906 to $8,000. Nowadays, barristers, upon elevation to the bench, are compelled to give up any directorships they may hold in companies, but the late Justice Britton resolutely refused to give up his and to fall into line with a regulation which did not apply when he was created a judge.

Though performing the heavy duties of his new post, Justice Britton still found time to look after his own now very large affairs, and almost to the day of his death managed, with the assistance of a confidential clerk, the great estate which he has just left.

Wonderful, Mysterious Love!

She was a beautiful girl, bubbling over with intellect, an ambitious girl, too, who had studied out the matrimonial problem to a nicety.

"Yes, I suppose I shall eventually wed," she said; "but the only kind of masculine nuisance that will suit me must be tall and dark, with classical features. He must be brave, yet gentle, withal he must be strong —a lion among men, but a knight amongst ladies."

That evening a bow-legged, lath-framed youth, with red hair and bat-wing ears, wearing check trousers, and smoking a coffin-nail cigarette that smelt worse than a burning boot, rattled on the area-railings with a ninepenny whangee, and the beautiful girl knocked four tumblers and a cut-glass fruit dish off the sideboard in her haste to get to him.

Snow Geese.

The only known flock of snow geese in existence, containing more than 5,000, weighing an average of eight pounds each, arrived recently at Cape Tourmente, Quebec, on its annual northern migration from the southern states. Each year the birds make this a stopping-off place on their way to the Labrador coast, and have been known to do so for more than forty years. The flock has been closely protected, and this year moving pictures were taken of them by the moving picture service of the Dominion parks branch, Ottawa.

Fuel from Ocean.

Fishermen on the coast of Norway are able to pick up for fuel on the seashore wood that was grown along the Amazon and Orinoco rivers and from the palms of Hayti, the trees being carried to the distant shores by the gulf stream, the current of which is more speedy than the Amazon and 1,000 times greater.

Montreal's Population.

The population of Montreal last year, according to estimates made by the city assessors, was 758,046 people of whom 475,803 were French-Canadian; 101,271 English; 55,173 Irish; 31,724 Scotch; and 94,075 of other nationalities.

Coal in Alaska.

It is estimated that Alaska has coal fields covering about 20,000 square miles in area. The difficulty in marketing this coal is that of transportation.

STORE BURGLARIZED

Mr. William Dickens' confectionery store, west Front street, was broken into some time last night, by the breaking of a window in the rear part of the premises. The cash register was rifled and about $1.50 taken. Nothing else was missed from the store.

ORDER OF THE SUN HAS BEEN REVIVED

Lima, Peru., June 1.—The historic Order of the Sun, created as "an eternal institution" by General Jose de San Martin during the aristocratic regime of early Peruvian independence, has been revived under a supreme decree. General Simon Bolivar, one of the liberators of Peru, abolished thed order in 1825 on the ground that it "did not conform with the basis of the political constitution of the republic."

Membership in the order, says the decree just issued, may be granted to Peruvians, military and civilians, who have "rendered" themselves worthy of distinction and to foreigners who have made patent their interest in Peru." The president of the republic will be the grand master.

Several articles of the Order of the Sun are said to be identical to those of the Order of the Cincinnati in the United States.

VICTORIA

Our "Go to Sunday school" service was well attended on Sunday last. Glad to see everyone interested in Sunday School work, the children did exceedingly well.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N. Harben
(Copyright, 1903)

The Crans.... carriage was passing. It was an old fashioned victoria, driven by a sleek looking negro on the front seat. The occupants did not turn their heads.

"I wonder how they got on to that?" asked Mrs. Hillyer, with a snigger.

"On to what?" Buckley asked.

"Why, on to that way o' settin' like they had boards under the'r clothes again the'r backs. I'd rather do a day's washin' 'an to go a mile that a-way. I always want to loll back when I'm ridin'—why, that's what ridin's fer, I always 'lowed—but them three an' the nigger look like so many bean poles."

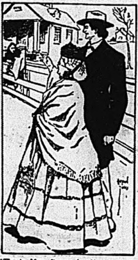
George laughed heartily. She had the knack of making people cheerful, and since his recent trouble she had done much to relieve his gloom; and, besides, had she not encouraged him to hope that— But his heart sank under these reflections. Lydia Cranston, for many reasons, was out of the question, and he was mad to allow his hopes to be stirred.

"Of course," Mrs. Hillyer went on, as if reading his mind, "thar ain't no use blindin' ourselves to the truth. Them Cranstons hain't yore sort nur mine, an' a body ought to use ordinary sense in sech matters, but all the ancestry an' family trees an' blue blood royal on earth cayn't keep a woman's heart from floppin' jest the way it wants to flop. I sorter like Lydia Cranston. She could brag on 'er antecedents, but she don't. She knows she's some pumpkins an' ain't a-worryin'. Bein' afeard you hain't as good as other folks is the biggest drawback on earth. Thar's one o' yore best cards, George. You always hold yore head up. Sometimes I think it'll have a crown o' some sort on it before you die. You've got nerve, an' plenty of it, though I did think you was a-goin' to flicker under yore burden last week, but yore eye an' skin is clear as ever today. You've set me a good example. Some time you may know all I've suffered while keepin' up my eternal 'augh an' chatter.

"Thar's Mrs. Dugan bending over the fence by the red flag"—they were nearing home. "She's tryin' her best to ketch somebody passin' from church to learn a bit o' news. I've been foolin' 'er ever since the doctor caged 'er. I hain't got much use fer her either. When folks run a tale down to her she mighty nigh always tells 'em I started it an' sends 'em over to me."

George laughed as he opened the gate and stood aside for her to pass through. "Hello, Mrs. Dugan," she called out to the short, stout woman at the fence, about fifty yards away. "Have you heard when they are a-goin' to let you out?"

"No, I hain't," snapped the gossip as she drew her red breakfast shawl over her head and ears to protect them from the breeze, "but I know when the next court convenes, Mrs. Hillyer, an' I'm goin' to git at the bottom o' this thing ef I have to sell my house an' lot to do it. This baby hain't got no more scarlet fever 'an you have. It's all spite work, Martha Hillyer."



"Thar's Mrs. Dugan bending over the fence."

The woman addressed drew her mouth down in a comical way and winked at George. "Did you ever!" she said. "That old hussy callin' me by my full name as pat as ef we'd been to school together an' swapped chawin' wax!" Then she called out to the gossip, conquering her smile as she spoke: "Them doctors don't know everything, Sally Lou Dugan. When I was a gal it was all the fashion to bleed folks fer different diseases, but now they say it was a mistake. The doctors still bleed, but they lance the pocket instead o' the veins. Have you heard about Mary Hanson an' Cal Bogle tryin' to run off to git married?"

"Why, no, not a word, Mrs. Hillyer!" gasped the prisoner, as if clutching at a straw of comfort in her confinement. "You don't say!"

"No, I hain't seed a soul today. What about it?"

Mrs. Hillyer winked at George again as she looked up the street.

"I hain't a-goin' to yell that sort o' thing out at the top o' my voice, Mrs. Dugan. The neighbors ud think I'd tuck leave o' my senses."

"Well, come here a minute," pleaded the woman at the fence.

"Not today, thank you," said Mrs. Hillyer. "They tell me thar's danger jest in standin' nigh a infected pusson an' lettin' the same wind blow on you."

Mrs. Hillyer moved on toward the steps.

"Oh, Martha!"

"What is it, Lou?"

"Write that on a sheet o' paper an' drap it over the fence. I'll run in the house ... minute."

"No, I cayn't do that with this tight thing strapped around my waist," smiled the merchant's wife, "an' I've got to see about dinner for my men folks."

CHAPTER VII.

ONE night about the middle of the month George Buckley was awakened by a gentle rapping on the window of his room. He rose and stood listening. The sound was repeated.

"Who's there?" he called out.

"It's me, George," answered Hillyer's voice. "I want to see you a minute. You needn't dress. I—I've got a key to the front door, but I was afeard you mought jump up an' shoot before you found out who it was."

Buckley's delay in answering showed his surprise at the unusual visit. Hillyer heard him strike a match and saw him in the light it furnished as George applied it to the wick of his lamp.

"All right, Mr. Hillyer," he said, "come in."

In a moment the merchant opened the great, rattling door in front and came slowly back to his clerk's apartment.

"Git back in bed," said he. "I've got my overcoat on an' my teeth are chatterin'. I feel like I wasn't nothin' but skin an' bones."

"Why, it's not cold, Mr. Hillyer." Buckley was now dressed, all but his coat, and he hastily drew it on and sat down on the bed. Hillyer remained standing in the middle of the room, staring wide eyed and pale faced at his clerk. Then he bethought himself of a chair and drew one to him and sank into it.

"You went to call on Miss Lydia tonight, didn't you, George?"

"Yes, sir. I was there till about 10 o'clock."

"Makin' any progress, George? I mean"—

"I'm not trying to make any progress, Mr. Hillyer," said the young man quickly. "We are simply friends—that's all."

It was as if the merchant had not heard the reply to his question. He stared blankly at Buckley for a moment, and then, with a groan, he buried his face in his hands and rocked back and forth like a man in pain. Suddenly he said:

"George, I'm in a awful—awful fix!"

Buckley found himself unable to formulate a reply. He could only answer the astonishing statement with an almost alarmed stare.

Pellier's Prunes.

Sixty-five years ago two prune trees were brought to America by a Frenchman named Pellier and planted near San Jose, in Santa Clara county, California. At the present time that county produces about half of all the prunes consumed in the United States and Canada, and it ships them to all parts of the world.

The prunes are gathered by women and children after they have fallen and are dipped (in wire baskets) into tanks of boiling water and lye. Then they are washed with cold water and spread on trays, which are placed in the sun for drying.

On reaching the packing house they are graded according to size by passing them over perforated metal screens, and after being steamed and drained they are ready to be packed in boxes for market.

The total annual prune output of California is reckoned at 200,000,000 pounds.

Does She Exist?

A young woman, apparently aged between 25 and 30, recently appeared before the magistrate at Mons, and asked for a ruling enabling her to get married.

She did not know her name, her age, or her place of birth, and had practically no recollections of her childhood, except that she had once been employed by a basket-maker.

The authorities, both civil and clerical, refused permission for her to marry on the ground that she had no legal existence!

Believing Is Seeing.

One of P. T. Barnum's rules for success in business was, "Let your pledged word be ever sacred. Nothing is more valuable to a man in business than the name of always doing as he agrees." An honest effort to live up to this led to an amusing incident in Baltimore. Barnum's daughter Caroline went with him on his famous trip with Jenny Lind and helped many times to divert attention from the Swedish nightingale when the crowd became too pressing simply by putting on one of Jenny's bonnets and fighting her way through crowds on her father's arm. This time, however, the people deceived themselves. "We were at Baltimore on the Sabbath," says Mr. Barnum, "and my daughter accompanied a friend to church, took a seat with her in the choir and joined in the singing. A number of the congregation who had seen Caroline with me and supposed her to be Jenny Lind were still laboring under the mistake, and it was whispered through the church that Jenny Lind was in the choir. The excitement was worked to its highest pitch when my daughter rose as one of the musical group. Every ear was on the alert to catch the first notes of her voice, and when the notes gushed forth glances of satisfaction passed through the assembly. Caroline, quite unconscious of the attention she attracted, continued to sing to the end of the hymn. Not a note was lost upon the ears of the attentive congregation. 'What an exquisite singer!' 'I never heard the like!' and similar expressions were whispered through the church. The pith of the joke was that my daughter had no extraordinary ability as a vocalist."

Unrest.

"Now," inquired the man of ponderous manner, "what is the cause of all this unrest?"

"Well," replied the man who always tries to give some kind of an answer; "I can't undertake to speak for anybody except myself. Most of mine is caused by a family of jazzmaniacs in the adjacent flat."

CONVINCING PROOF

That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Extraordinary Healing Power in Cases of Woman's Ailments

Columbus, O.—"I suffered very much pain during my periods and felt weak and all run down. I tried many remedies and the doctor said I would have to have an operation. Then before my baby was born I had terrible pains in my sides. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me wonderfully. I have had two children since I began taking your medicine and did all of my own work including washing. You may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. THOMAS L. CHRISTY, 704 West Mound St., Columbus, Ohio.

Such a condition as Mrs. Christy was in points directly to a deranged condition of a woman's system, and by following her example taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, women may be relieved from such ailments and be restored to normal health and strength just as she was.

TIME ASSESSMENT MUDDLE WAS STRAIGHTENED OUT.

A whole year has passed since the last court of revision on the assessment roll was held, with very unsatisfactory results. The assessment had been boosted and there were many appeals. The matter was settled in make-shift fashion, those who appealed getting concessions, while those who did not appeal carried the extra burden for those who asked for and secured reductions. After the lapse of a year the same conditions confront the court of revision. The assessment has been increased another two million dollars this year and there are 1500 appeals. Like last year a compromise is suggested whereby appellants would be granted a stated reduction en bloc—five per cent. increase on last year's assessment. As the court has no right to deal with anything but appeals, this would mean that those who did not appeal would pay taxes on an assessment boosted this year at least 25 per cent., which they have patiently assumed without appeal, while their neighbors, who have appealed would get off with a five per cent. increase.

There must be no favoritism or shuffling. This question should be fought out now if it takes all summer.

After all the trouble last year expert assessors should have been appointed to prepare an equalized assessment of the entire city, complying with the Assessment Act.

A whole year has passed and the same unsatisfactory condition arises in regard to the assessment.

Will we ever learn anything, or must municipal government go blundering on, making the same silly errors over and over again and piling up debts as the price of carelessness and incapacity?

POLITICAL AGITATORS SEEK TO ISOLATE QUEBEC.

Pleas for national unity can have little effect in the face of the political campaign waged in the recent Yamaska election in Quebec. The French-Canadian people are a simple emotional race with many lovable characteristics, but they are easily influenced by unscrupulous political agitators who for petty personal profit fan the fires of race hatred and seek to keep Quebec aloof from the rest of the Dominion by terrorist exaggeration. Reviewing the election campaign in Yamaska the Montreal Gazette says:

> During the first week of the campaign the Liberals were decidedly discouraged, and admitted the fact. Reinforcements continually arrived, however, and new committee rooms were opened, and the campaign was pushed forward vigorously. The one card used was played to the limit, this being conscription. On the platform Mr. Boucher hinted strongly at the possibility of another war, and said that the election of Mr. Mondou would mean that when Hon. Mr. Meighen went to England, he would be able to claim a mandate of confidence from the province of Quebec to participate in Imperial schemes, for it would be the voice of Quebec which would speak in the Yamaska polling. In the committee rooms of the Liberal party throughout the county, where meetings were held every night, these points were driven home to the people. These committee meetings are private, and the speech-making there does not always follow the same lines as the public joint meetings. There it was declared that war might break out at any time, following Mr. Boucher's open lead, and this would mean dragging sons from their mothers' arms to fight overseas in England's battles. The Farmer speakers, who were more frank at the joint and public meetings which they held, aided the Liberal party in this direction, for they preached the doctrine of "Not one cent or man for England." Those who believed what the Farmer orators said voted for the Liberal candidate, apparently finding the two programmes not much dissimilar.
> To sum up the result in Yamaska, the Liberal party, in the person of Mr. Boucher, fell heir to all the anti-war and anti-Imperialistic spirit preached with so much vigor since 1911. The city of Nicolet is only a few miles from Pierreville, and here in 1916 Henri Bourassa preached the doctrine that the Nationalists were not a party, but that it was a case of a doctrine with which he wished to impregnate all parties. That doctrine impregnated the County of Yamaska, judging by the vote.

There is only one way to combat this vicious political propaganda, and that is for all true Canadians to forget politics for a time and support a Government which will not countenance a Canada divided by appeals to race hatred and attacks upon Imperial connection.

CRISP COMMENT

The Meighen Government, having been taught by the Conservation Commission lessons of thrift and conservation, made a practical application of that knowledge by abolishing the Commission of Conservation.

This year's Council is not to blame for increasing the assessment. This year's assessment was started last year and the assessor was guided by the wishes of last year's Council in the matter. Resolutions can be found in the minutes dealing with the matter.

Murney Hill will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever—a hundred years from now. As a monument of civic blunders and civic money thrown away it will remain like a boil on a man's neck where his collar-button should be.

The Assessment Act calls for assessment up to full value—that's plain enough. The assessor swears that he has assessed up to full value. All that is necessary is that the law be carried out fairly and fearlessly on cottage and on castle alike, and then no one will have cause for complaint.

Hanging as a punishment was devised as a warning and object lesson to evil-doers, thieves, forgers, murderers, etc. Public hangings have been abolished for a long time, hence the object lesson fails and much of the terror drops away. Now Attorney-General Raney decides that hangings must be still more private and excludes press representatives from the gruesome spectacle, much to their personal delight, be it said, but not with the approval of the public. If we must butcher our malefactors by choking them to death, or otherwise, the butchery should not be conducted in secret, where any kind of botchery can be got away with.

TWO RULES FOR MATRIMONY

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

How to pick a wife and how not to pick a husband are the subject of two pieces of recent advice, both from Chicago. Don't let some tailor act as fate in determining who your husband shall be; that is, don't select him because of the cut of his clothes, says Judge H. A. Lewis of that town. Make sure a woman has common sense before marrying her, says Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, a Chicago woman lawyer. Unions that would violate both warnings are easily possible. A woman who would marry a man because of the cut of his clothes alone would get a disappointing husband, if the Judge's view is correct, but as a wife who had thus picked a husband would be sadly lacking in common sense, who would get the worse of the bargain? Apparently it would be about an even thing.

MILITARY SERVICE

Le Soleil

General Griesbach, a member of parliament knows no better way of making real Canadians out of the new settlers than by compelling their children to accept compulsory military service. In our humble opinion this is the very worst means that could be employed, and no method is more repugnant to us. These newcomers come here from Europe for the most part and we believe that they leave their countries precisely to avoid compulsory military service. What we must say to these new arrivals is that Canada is a country of liberty, equality and brotherhood, in the real meaning of these words. How, then can the immigrant believe this if he is deprived, as soon as he arrives here, of the liberties which he hoped to have and if all sorts of restrictions are imposed upon him? He must be told that Canada is a pacific and a pacifist country so far as any country can be so; that it is inhabited by a people who want to live at peace with their neighbors. How will the new-comer believe this if he is forced to perform military service, which is the preparation for war? There is no surer means of Canadianizing these immigrants than by inculcating in them the Canadian spirit which is made up, as Mr. Taschereau said in a recent address, of "love of one country, good-will and tolerance."

The Poets' Corner

ENCHANTMENT

The fairy tales, the merry tales,
The heavy, and the airy tales,
The wistful ones of Anderson, the gruesome ones of Grimm,
The stories old and wonderful,
From legends bold and thunderful:
The children see them on the screen and follow them with vim.

For Jack-the-Giant-Killer comes Exactly as a thriller comes,
And breathlessly the children watch the ogres that he slays;
Or see a pumpkin-shell approach,
Changed to a Cinderella coach,
Before their widely opened eyes in these enchanted days.

These stories, always glamorous,
For which the tots are clamorous,
The wondrous trips of Gulliver and Sailor Sinbad, too,
The joyous and the tragical,
By modern methods magical
Before the children on the screen are fairy tales come true!

Mr. Blank Blank was found lying dead on a bed in his home this afternoon. He was taken to the Johns-Hopkins Hospital, where his condition is serious.—A News Paragraph.

Getting Even

Yes, proudly announced the ex-captain, who is manager of a new seaside hotel, all our employees are former service men, every one of them. The reception clerk is an old infantry man, the waiters have all been non-coms., the chef was a mess sergeant, the house doctor was a base hospital surgeon, the house detective was an intelligence man; even the pages were cadets.

And have you any former military police? he was asked.

Yes, he replied joyously. When there's a good stiff wind blowing we set them to clean the outside of the windows on the eighth floor!—Los Angeles Times.

NO BEER FOR GEORGES

New York, June 2.—"How can a man who comes from the vine-clad fields of France be in his normal and best condition without a glass of wine now and then?" was the question put to Capt. Mallet about his friend Carpentier. "But you are mistaken," replied the former Blue Devil, "Georges comes from northern France where they drink rather more beer than wine—much more beer than the Americans thinks the French do. But it is my special hardship that we cannot get a bit of beer now and then for Georges over here. He gets along all right without it. Were he training in France we would probably give him one small glass of light beer in the afternoon after his workout. It would not hurt him as he has no surplus weight. Were he training in England he might be allowed a glass of stout after his massage. But here—ah, your prohibitions are so droll.

NO HARD LIQUOR.

"No, Georges is not very fond of wine," continued the captain. "A little maybe now and then at dinner on the other side, but not as a steady diet. Georges has sampled your American invented cocktail, but I never saw him finish one. They make him pucker up his lips. He has never touched strong liquor, it would make him ill.

"What does he drink? You boys are indeed inquisitive. What does it matter to the public? But if you must know, he drinks water and coffee. Cafe au lait in the morning—much more milk than coffee—for his breakfast.

HIS MENU.

"For breakfast this morning Carpentier ate a whole grapefruit, a bowl of porridge, a soft boiled egg, jam and toast, and cafe au lait. For lunch not so much, but two courses at least. Here is a typical supper that Chef Henri Marcot prepares for his friend, though Marcot is a "Patissiere" artist—a specialist in pastry rather than a general cook. All the marketing is done in person by Marcot. He goes to the village stores and picks out the joints and cuts of meat he desires. Always a French soup for supper with plenty of vegetables and a little meat. Then fresh fish from the village store, veal and French fried potatoes, creamed spinach, pancakes, jam, water, or maybe a tiny bit cafe. And he eats lots of fruit: some between meals. But now that he has started training every bit of coffee will be crossed from the menu."

And it might be added that Cook Marcot shakes a very mean dinner bell—one of the real old-fashioned farmhand affairs of melodious brass being waved violently out the kitchen door when it is time to call "Carp" in from his gym exercises in the battery of barns in the rear of the Matthews farm yard.

On the Queen Mary school grounds Thursday night, at 4.15 a splendid exhibition of ball was given when the boys of that school played a team from Pine Street school. The score would indicate which is the better team. The boys played a speedy game all the way through, showing a truly remarkable knowledge of the sport, for their sizes, not trying for sensational plays but being steady all the time.

LATE RAMSAY RANKIN AMONG O.H.A.'S BEST

Stratford, June 1.—The announcement from Montreal of the tragic death of Dr. Ramsay Rankin has cast a gloom over local sportsmen, who well remember how Rankin helped Stratford win the O. H. A. junior championship in 1905, '07 and '08. Rankin at that time weighed almost 200 lbs. and, in addition, had plenty of speed and could stick handle with the best in the sport.

In 1911 he played for the McGill University senior hockey and football teams, and the following year captained the McGill team which won the Intercollegiate senior hockey title. He was regarded as without peer as a defence man in the college league, and was always noted for his clean and clever playing.

He graduated in medicine in 1914, and went overseas with the 110th First Battalion. After his return he dropped out of active participation in sport and practised his profession in the West.

LINDSAY CHORTLES

What the Port Hope Guide says of the victory on Wednesday for the Greybirds:

"Hats off to Lindsay, for yesterday they stepped into Belleville and defeated the Goyer-Mills combination by a score of 5 to 3. There have been many surprises in the Central League during its three years' existence, but yesterday's takes the bun. It was the first time that the Belleville team met defeat on their own diamond. There was no fuss or flurry about it; the Lindsayites simply walked in, administered the trimming, bagged up their paraphernalia and left. They were well on their way home before Belleville realized what had happened. It was a terrible shock, and it is said that our old friend Jim Jenkins wore a hole in the tile floor of the rotunda of the Quinte Hotel as he paced up and down trying to figure it out. We frankly admit that we didn't think Lindsay had a chance and we humbly apologize for our reference in the Guide that Lindsay was due for a trimming. In addition to our apology, let it be known that we stood in the centre of the main thoroughfare and gave three cheers and a tiger for the victors. To young Oulette comes the distinction of putting the "Day" in Lindsay and also of taking the "Q" out of the Bay of Quinte. Here's that Lindsay may continue the good work."

Cobourg came through with the record at least on Tuesday, when they trotted out father and son in their infield. The veteran Dick Turpin played first base and his son cavorted around the short field. The big fellow can still hit, but his fielding is very bad. The role of pinch hitter should be Dick's from now on.—Peterborough Examiner.

WILSON'S BACHELOR

Still the most for the money

10c.

ANDREW WILSON & Co. TORONTO AND MONTREAL

Jumped Quickly Into Politics

WHAT President Wilson once called "pitiless publicity" is being bestowed these days upon two leading Ministers of the Meighen Government—Sir Henry Drayton and Mr. C. C. Ballantyne. Sir Henry has come under scrutiny with his budget. The annual statement of the mercantile marine has turned the searchlight upon Mr. Ballantyne. Both are Ministers who, although having played prominent parts in other spheres of action, possess a limited experience in parliamentary life. Mr. Ballantyne represents that development of the war—the business man in government. It is an idea which, in practice, has hardly justified the rosy expectations of its authors, as witness the fate of the air and shipping boards under the respective control of Mr. Ryan and Mr. Hurley in the United States, not to mention the failure of the transport ministry under Sir Eric Geddes in Britain.

In a very special sense Mr. Ballantyne is the author and father of the Canadian Mercantile Marine. It was his idea, it has been nurtured and developed under his especial care; and blame for its failure or praise for its success will be almost completely his. When Mr. Ballantyne entered Union Government the only ships being built in Canada were being built by the British Government. The capital was British, except that it was loaned by Canada, and the ships were for British use. Mr. Ballantyne changed all of that. He conceived the idea that it would be better for Canadians if they utilized their own money and their own yards to build ships for themselves, and so he cleaned out the Imperial Munitions Board and in his first session in the House laid the legislative keel of the Canadian Mercantile Marine. The wisdom of his policy was challenged. Many thought that Canada should keep out of the shipbuilding business altogether, leaving it to Britain; others thought that the policy should be confined to building ships for the needs of the war alone. But Mr. Ballantyne had no fears. Not only did he think it proper that we should build ships for war requirements; he boldly proclaimed it his policy to build ships for after-war trade, holding that peace would bring a famine in ocean tonnage, and that only those nations which had shipping to carry their exports could hope to compete in the struggle for world trade. And so in the last year of the war and since forty-eight ships were built and organized into the Canadian Government Marine.

Last year the policy achieved a success. Freight rates were high and cargoes plentiful, and the year's statement showed a balance on the right side of the ledger. The critics, however, were not silenced. They pointed out that rates were bound to drop, that this year ships would be more plentiful and competition more keen, that the dislocations and upheavals in Europe would ruin international trade and that shipping values would decline; and they urged the Minister to get rid of his fleet before it was too late. Mr. Ballantyne, however, was not impressed. Sure of his own business infallibility, compared with men whom he is wont to regard as "mere politicians," he repeated his predictions about only those nations which had ocean tonnage were getting rich—and went on building ships.

During the past year, however, world conditions were not as satisfactory. In the United States, in Sweden and in England there was a surplus of ships, ocean freight rates declined by twenty-five per cent., shipping values fell almost with a crash and severe losses were sustained. Canada's fleet could not and did not escape. Although not affected to the same extent as shipping in other countries there were many idle ships and empty bottoms and bottoms that were nearly empty. Mr. Ballantyne, however, came to Parliament with a surplus. His critics contend, however, that on the contrary there has been a loss. Mr. Ballantyne's claim of 2.65 per cent. earnings on an investment of fifty milions is admitted, but, they say, as this money was raised by victory loans and the Government is paying five and a half per cent. for it there is really a loss of one and a half millions.

Like most Ministers who enter the Cabinet without an apprenticeship in the House, Mr. Ballantyne is amateurish in Parliament. Of this, however, he is probably proud; for he makes little effort to conceal his dislike for mere parliamentary style. He is of the school of statesmen, becoming more plentiful with the passing of years, which is as little concerned with parliamentary accomplishments as it is with mere moral issues or abstract principles.

Inclined more toward the old school than the new, is Sir Henry Drayton. "He who would be a success must have twice the merit of his predecessor," said a famous Frenchman. Sir Henry has not twice the merit of Sir Thomas White, but he has a goodly share of it, and it is not his fault if expenditure is increasing and revenue declining. In the House he is amiable, courteous and popular. His most ardent champion would not pretend that he is a great parliamentarian, or even a debater, but he is clear in a statement, happy in a jest, and more than heightens the average of the Cabinet's collective ability. It is his misfortune, perhaps, that he is in charge of the national finances at a time when the monetary situation was never more grave or difficult.

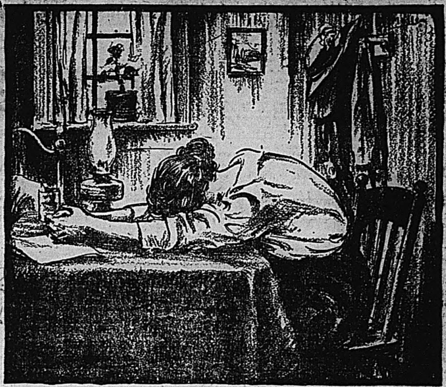
Consumption



--alone and poor!

"CONSUMPTION!"

To a little milliner in a small Ontario village the doctor's word sounded like her death sentence.

"Rest," said the physician, "fresh air, sunshine and good food are the only medicines for you."

—but how empty his words sounded!

"Rest!"

To this girl—without a relative in the world—rest meant starvation.

Death stared her in the face— —and then a ray of hope!

The woman she boarded with spoke of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives—

If she could only get there?

She did—and now this young, pretty girl is well again.

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, destroyed by fire on November 30th last, must be replaced by buildings, larger and fireproof.

Accommodation is needed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for 400 adults in early stages of the disease. This will restore 250 of them to their homes and loved ones cured. The remainder will be greatly benefited.

A few months for each patient soon means thousands cared for. Funds are urgently needed for this work.

Again adults in advanced stages must be treated at the King Edward Sanatorium on the banks of the Humber near Weston. Extensions are necessary. Many of these patients can be saved.

And again—little children—stricken with the dread disease—must be cared for at the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children near Weston. Ninety per cent. of these are saved to become healthy men and women.

Funds are urgently needed to cover the cost of extensions.

Further, funds are urgently needed to carry on the work of The Gage Institute in the City of Toronto, where the needy poor come for free examinations, including X-ray, and for medical and nursing assistance.

Fifteen thousand needy consumptives have been cared for to date at the hospitals conducted by the Association.

Sidney Township Council Meeting

The Council of Sidney Township met at Wallbridge May 30th, 1921, pursuant to adjournment. All the members were present, namely, W. A. Reid, reeve; Clem. H. Ketcheson, deputy reeve; E. Pyear, F. R. Mallory and A. L. Burke, councillors.

The minutes of the March meeting were read and adopted on motion of C. H. Ketcheson, seconded by A. L. Burke.

A communication from the National Sanitarium Association appealing for aid, was read.

Moved by C. H. Ketcheson, seconded by E. Pyear, that a grant of $10.00 be made.—Carried.

Mr. Harold Foster was present and claimed damages for injuries to his car on a side road owing to the roadway being too narrow.

The reeve moved, seconded by F. R. Mallory, that the deputy reeve and the road superintendent be a committee to investigate, with power to act.—Carried.

On motion of C. H. Ketcheson, seconded by F. R. Mallory, the Council went into Court of Revision for hearing appeals against the assessment of 1921.

Bleecker W. Meyers, H. Bedell and J. C. Bell each appealed to have their assessments reduced with reference to the dog tax, but no action was taken, the parties being instructed to make the necessary declaration to the collector in lieu of payment.

Norman E. Dafoe entered an appeal to have his assessment changed, which was granted on motion of C. H. Ketcheson, seconded by E. Pyear.

A letter from the C. N. R. Co. asked that their assessment on the C. O. R. line in Sidney be the same as in 1920.

Moved by F. Mallory, seconded by E. Pyear, that the company's letter be placed on file and the assessment be changed as requested.—Carried.

John Cook of Holloway and Thos. H. Gothard, of Trenton, both claimed their assessments were too high and asked for a reduction, which was granted, the former being reduced $300 and the latter $750.

The assessment of Frank Jeffery was also reduced, as a part of his property had been sold.

The Council then resumed its work on motion of C. H. Ketcheson, seconded by F. R. Mallory.

The clerk was instructed to request the Council of Frankford to appoint a time and place for the meeting of the Sidney and Frankford assessors to consider matters pertaining to equalization in the Union School Section and the two municipalities.

Moved by F. R. Mallory, seconded by A. L. Burke, that J. W. Hess be placed on the pay list for $4.00 for valuation of sheep killed by dogs.—Carried.

The Council voted the clerk $200 for extra clerical work involved due to a change in the statutes and the assessors $200 each for their services in assessing the township.

A bylaw to provide for expenditure on roads in the township of Sidney in 1921 was passed through its various readings and numbered 766.

On motion of C. H. Ketcheson, seconded by E. Pyear, the Council adjourned to meet Monday, Aug. 22, at 10 o'clock a.m.

OUR NATIONAL RAILWAYS

OPERATING COSTS

Series No. Seven

In previous articles in this series, emphasis has been laid on the traffic situation as affecting the National system. It has been pointed out that there is not sufficient tonnage available to permit of profitable operation, by reason of much of the mileage being in new districts, and that this latter feature also accounted for the National Lines having a less remunerative traffic than older established lines; that the competitive situation required a certain frequency of services that prevented freight traffic being held for large train loads—and that the passenger situation was highly competitive, but that co-ordination and consolidation of all Government Lines should improve the situation by providing more long-haul business, and, consequently, greater density of traffic and a greater participation in higher class traffic from the manufacturing districts served by the Grand Trunk. While there has been general acceptance of these truths, yet there is still some doubt as to whether the deficits incurred could not have been reduced. The management of the Canadian National Railways can speak only for those lines which it has had under control. As the Grand Trunk Pacific was not taken over until September 1st, 1920, the returns of that Company have not been included in those of the National System. The title "Canadian National Railways" includes the Canadian Northern Railway System and the Canadian Government Railways; the latter group including the National Transcontinental, Intercolonial, Railway, Prince Edward Island Railway and several small branch lines in the Maritime Provinces. The operating deficits on these lines were:

In addition to the operating loss of $26,708,4566 there are interest charges due to the public of $13,993,696, and interest due the Dominion Government of $10,326,261, making the total deficit for 1920 for the Canadian National Railways of $51,028,413.

The other items which were included by the Minister of Railways in dealing with the railway situation in the House of Commons related to the Grand Trunk Pacific's operations for the year for only four months of which the National Railways' Management was in charge. The items were:

Grand Trunk Pacific operating deficit, $10,134,513; Grand Trunk Pacific interest charges, $9,332,776, adding these items makes up the total of $70,495,702.

The interest charges included above cover the interest on all moneys which the Government has advanced for equipment purchases and other capital expenditures since the Canadian Northern System was acquired, and also the interest on funds advanced to meet the 1919 deficit.

Operating Deficits

It is recognized that under existing conditions the payment of interest charges out of current earnings is not possible for a system made up of lines which were individually unable to meet their interest obligations. Beyond this general statement and the quoting of the amounts above, this article will deal only with "Operating Deficits", and an endeavour will be made to show that it was not within the limits of practical railroading to wipe out these deficits under the conditions which prevailed during 1920.

Maintenance expenses are, roughly, about 40 per cent. of the total operating expenses of a railway, divided fairly evenly between the fixed and moveable plant, or, as technically termed, Maintenance of Way and Structures about 20 per cent., and Maintenance of Equipment 20 per cent. To make a comparison with all other Canadian railways it is necessary to go back to the year ended June 30th, 1919, as these are the latest Government statistics available.

Maintenance of Way Expenses

For the year ended June 30th, 1919, the cost of Maintenance of Way and Structures per mile of single main track was:

Canadian National Railways, $1,666. less than the other Canadian railways $33.52.

This shows that per mile of line, the National System expended $166.97 les than the other Canadian railways did. To show how the many units involved in such a gigantic operation as the Canadian National Railways run into large figures it may be noted that if the Canadian National Railways had spent $166.97 more per mile of line (required to bring its expenditure up to the average) for the 14,322.2 miles comprised it would have added to the deficit $2,390,377.73.

Remember too, this was the first year after the war when deferred maintenance was being taken up.

Before deciding whether the expense per mile was high or low, it is well to look at the general situation. The Canadian Railway statistics show that in the last five pre-war years all Canadian railways were spending on Maintenance of Way and Structures an amount for material and labor combined, which, when distributed as between the two on the basis of the general ratio which labor bore to expenses represented for each mile of line an annual expenditure for labor of a little more than the average annual wage of one employee. Such was the case in each of the five years immediately preceding the war, ending with the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1914. In each of the next five years following the expenditure for labor on the same basis for all Canadian railways has averaged less than the average annual wage of one employee per mile of line per annum. It should be borne in mind that in the mileage taken over for operation since 1914 there is a large proportion of main line.

Similarly for the Canadian National in 1920, the total expenditure per mile of line distributed on the general percentage which labor bore to expenses was $240.00 less than the average annual pay of one employee.

It must be remembered that the average mile of line must include its quota of what double track there is, about 25 per cent. of yard track and siding, on all of which ties, rail fastenings and ballast require renewal. The average mile of railway includes also its proportion of structures of all kinds, station and terminal buildings, bridges, tunnels, signals, telegraph and telephone lines and fences, and maintenance includes removal of snow, sand and ice as well as the renewal of all wearing parts. Surely, therefore, no charge of extravagance can be laid at the Canadian National Railways' door on this account, particularly when the period under review is one following five years of retrenchment, really a year in which liberal allowance for maintenance was fully justifiable.

When much of the work was authorized and when the money was expended it was not known the large wage increases, which were dated back from September to May, would have to be assumed.

If the full amount of one man's wages per mile of line had been incurred for labor the additional cost for the 17,000 odd miles now under the National Railways management would have been $4,093,125.60.

Equipment Expenses

On a per mile of line basis, the records show that the expenditure for labor in the five years prior to and including the year ended June 30th, 1914, was more than the average wage and since then the amount expended is less. The equipment per 100 miles of line is substantially the same, very slightly less, taking one five years against the other.

A unit comparison for the year ended June 30th, 1919 is as follows:

Cost of Maintenance per Locomotive per annum—Canadian National Railways, $4,388.42;; other Canadian Railways, $5,260.76.

Cost of Maintenance per Freight Car per annum—Canadian National Railways, $112.58; Other Canadian Railways, 123.79.

Cost of Maintenance per Passenger Train Car per annum—Canadian National Railways, 1,383.79; Other Canadian Railways, 1,620.37.

The Canadian National Railways, being practically the only system that has materially increased its equipment since the war, has some justification for an increase in total Maintenance of Equipment expenses, apart from the extra cost of Maintenance per unit, which higher costs of materials and labor have brought about.

There is this to be said about all maintenance expenditures that, in part at least, they go into the improvement of the railways' property, fixed and moveable.

Traffic and General Expenses

These expenses are generally compared on the proportion they bear to the total operating expenses. The comparison for the year ended June 30th, 1919, is as follows:

Traffic Expenses—Canadian National Railways, 1.45 per cent.; Other Canadian Railways, 2.09 per cent.

General Expenses—Canadian National Railways, 2.18 per cent.; Other Canadian Railways, 3.10 per cent.

Transportation Expenses—On a per mile of line basis, these expenses for the year ended June 30th, 1919, compare as follows—Canadian National Railways, $3,583.11; Other Canadian Railways, $4,812.54.

These expenses are often compared on a train mile basis, but in making such a comparison it must be borne in mind, that, included in Transportation Expenses as a group, in addition to the trainman's and engineer's wages, coal, oil and other supplies directly affected by train movements, are a large number of large items which do not vary proportionately with the number of train miles run. Such items are; superintendence, dispatching trains, station employes, station supplies and expenses, various terminal expenses, signals and crossing protection, so that a line of few train movements or a light traffic has a greater expense, relatively per train mile than one over which a large number of trains are moved.

On a train mile basis, the comparison is:

Canadian National Railways, $1.71; Other Canadian Railways, $1.62.

Nearly half of the expenses making up this cost would be reduced greatly on a train mile basis if as many trains were run on the Canadian National as are run on the average on other Canadian Railways.

The latter principle affects the total operating expenses per train mile when such a comparison is used particularly affecting Maintenance of Way costs, which do not fluctuate proportionately with the traffic. An example of this might be illuminating.

Suppose the daily expenses of operating a mile of railway were:

1. Maintenance of Way and Structures, $5.00; 2. Maintenance of Equipment $5.00; 3. Traffic Department 25c 4. General and Miscellaneous Expenses 40c.; 5. Transportation Expenses $10.00. Total $20.65.

If there were five trains operated over that mile, the cost per train would be $4.13. If an additional train were run, it would not, initially at least, increase item 1 practically at all. Item 2 would increase slightly. Items 3 and 4 would not be noticeably increased, and of item 5 about half the expenses would increase proportionately, so that for six trains instead of five the expenses would be approximately:

1. Maintenance of Way and Structures, $5.20; 2. Maintenance of Equipment, $6.00; 3. Traffic Department, 25c.; 4. General and Miscellaneous Expenses, 40c.; Transportation Expenses, $11.00. Total $22.85.

It is thus seen that total operating expenses per train mile have been reduced from $4.13 to $3.81 by the fact that an additional train has been run, and transportation expenses per train mile are reduced from $2.00 to $1.83.

On the earnings side, the advantage is still more evident, assuming that the five trains were only producing average earnings of $4.00 per train mile, or $20.00 per day, or a loss of 65 cents per mile per day. The additional train would take the gross from $22.00 to $24.00 mile per day and a net of $1.15 would result.

Of course a greater net would result if the additional traffic would be handled on the trains now operated.

It has been pointed out in a previous article that the Maintenance of Way expenses are the hardest for a line of light traffic to carry. The above example shows how additional trains help to carry the load.

In making a general comparison with all Canadian railways for the year eneded June 30th, 1919, it is found that on a per mile per day basis the expenses of all other Canadian railways are 40 per cent. greater than are those of the Canadian National, the earnings of other railways are, however, 83 per cent. greater and other Canadian railways run 42.3 per cent. more trains per mile of line per day than the Canadian National. The figures for the above and the traffic units moved per mile of line per day are as follows:

Year ended June 30th, 1919.

Comparison on per mile of line per day basis	Can'ian Nation'l Rail'y	Other Can'an Rail'y
1. Gross Earnings	$17.48	$32.12
2. Operating Expenses	19.05	26.81
3. Net Earnings or Deficit .... Deficit	1.67	net 5.31
4. Total trains moved ..	5.74	8.16
5. Number of passengers moved	149	253
6. Number of tons of freight moved	1,397	2,253

From the above it may be contended reasonably that expenses in 1919 were not out of line with those of other railways, and the increases in expenses which took place in 1920 increased considerably the difficulties of the National System. The increases in freight and passenger rates did not, on account of the character of its traffic, provide the same benefits. The explanation of the former is found largely in the operating ratio. The effect of a 30 per cent. increase in wages for eight months on a line operating at a ratio of 116, is quite different from the effect of the same increase on a line operating at 81.4. Assuming that the same proportion of labor exists in both cases, say 62 per cent., in the first case tre wage increase means an increase of $21.39 in expenses per $100 gross, and in the second case an increase of $15.14 in expenses per $100 gross. For eight months this makes a most material difference as can easily be seen.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache, inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as bisurated magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestents. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

MACDONALD'S CUT BRIER

MACDONALD'S "BRIER" has become a Canadian institution. Smoked by the men who made history. In the bush, on the trail, in mining camps, prospectors' huts, factory yards, on trains, steamships, in the luxurious homes and downtown clubs of our Canadian cities—Macdonald's has always been recognized as the smoke.

MACDONALD'S CUT "BRIER"—the same tobacco but in new form—maintains every Macdonald tradition since 1858, and gives to smokers—more tobacco for the money.

A FREAK CALF

On the farm of Mr. Wesley Bierworth, Faraday, a cow gave birth to a freak calf one day recently. The calf was fully developed, the hind quarters resembling that of a deer, while the head and front quarters were that of the ordinary cow variety. The calf lived four days. Had this freak of nature lived Mr. Bierworth would have realized a handsome sum.

STOCKING LAKE

Mr. Ely of Toronto representing the Government Fisheries, placed 400,000 pickerel spawn in Paudash Lake recently. Mr. E. S. Hubbel, Robt. Cook, M.P.P. and W. Wiggins have been instrumental in having this beautiful lake stocked.

DAMAGE BY LIGHTNING

During the heavy electric storm on Tuesday last Mr. Wm. Jenkin's implement shed at Bancroft was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, together with some of the machinery. Wm. Stringer's residence in Carlow was also badly wrecked but fortunately fire did not ensue.

FELL FROM HAND-CAR

Mr. Edwin Jones, Port Hope, happened with a very serious accident. When with a party of C.P.R. builders, he was proceeding to Cobourg on the pumper. He was facing the west and pumping with three other men when he suddenly lost his grip on the bar and fell in front of the car. It happened so suddenly that his fellow employees had not the slightest chance of preventing the car passing over him. The injuries received are very serious and the doctors fear that Mr. Jones' back is fractured. He has no feeling at all in the lower part of the body and it is likely that an X-ray examination will have to be made. Mr. Jones is at present in the Port Hope hospital.

A BUZZY TIME

One hundred and forty thousand bees were shipped by Mr. Hector Inch of Port Hope to different parts of Ontario. The shipment was sent by parcel post, and there was a "buzzy" time in the Post Office.

CHINESE COLLINS

The Chinamen in Brighton evidently like a "collins" before breakfast. License Inspector Goodrich had occasion to visit one of the Chinese laundries in Brighton last Friday and he found forty-five bottles of Gordon Dry Gin. The gin was confiscated and the proprietor of the laundry will appear in court on Monday morning.

POOR FISHING

There are at present nine fishing boats doing business in Port Hope but business this year has been very slack. In yesterday's haul one long line of nets contained a poor lone white fish, another had three and another seven. Previous to this week fishing has been good and the fishermen have received as high as forty cents per pound on the New York and Chicago markets.—Port Hope Guide.

CHARGE AGAINST OFFICER

The case against Provincial Constable Andrews of Cobourg, charged with burglary and bootlegging, was heard by Police Magistrate Floyd at Cobourg Tuesday afternoon. The case continued most of the day and an adjournment was made until June 8th. More than ten persons are implicated in this case.

PRIVATE CEMETERY

As a warning to reckless drivers, the Board of Trade, of Goshen, N. Y., has erected large signs on each side of the Otterkill Bridge, where many accidents have occurred. The sign bears the following inscription: "Private cemetery across the bridge for reckless drivers." The warnings are in black and white, decorated with skull and cross bones.

MOOSE NEAR CAMPBELLFORD

A two-year-old cow moose was seen at Healey Falls, near Campbellford. She swam up the canal and on leaving the water was caught in a barbed wire fence. Being extricated by Mr. Clifford Maybee she disappeared as speedily as possible.

WILL HELP THE SHELTER

In response to an appeal from the Children's Shelter, Belleville, the I.O.D.E. will hold a house to house canvas of the village. It is hoped that same spirit that sends the collectors out will prompt our citizens to respond to the needs of these unfortunate children.—Madoc Review.

ASSESSMENT COMPROMISE

The court of revision held a session last night and a large number of appeals were disposed of in a manner that seemed satisfactory to the appellants. The court has adopted the following plan in regard to appeals. They are taking the 1920 assessment as finally revised by the court and adding thereto 10 per cent., for example if an assessment on a property in 1920 was fixed by the assessor at $1,200 and the court of revision reduced that to $1,000, ten per cent. of the latter amount would be added this year, making the assessment $1,100. Of course this only applies to property on appeals have been entered, and ratepayers who failed to appeal will have to pay taxes on the full assessment fixed by the assessor.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 26 or write The Intelligencer.

Old Timer saw a boy collecting paper which he intended to sell in order to provide funds for Circus Day, pink lemonade, side shows, balloons, crackerjack and the big show—bully gee, what a picnic! Reminded him of his own boyhood when old iron and bones were the junk collected to finance circus day. Hey, Skinnay! Here comes the elefunts!

Another Old Timer remarked the passing of the outward and visible signs of an old landmark in the making over of the old Taylor House opposite No. 1 Fire Hall to fit the changing times as a garage and automobile supply house. Painters have obliterated the old Taylor House sign and brightened up the front. This building was formerly conducted as a hotel by Clark Edwards under the name of the Commercial House, and it was afterwards known as River View and latterly as the Taylor House.

What have you seen?

A FULL MOON

On Thursday last Ralph Cole of Picton was sentenced to six months in Picton jail for breach of the Ontario Temperance Act. As this was the second conviction, the Magistrate had no option, and the minimum sentence was given. The charge was laid by License Inspector Naphin of Belleville. It appears two Belleville parties, named Moon and Tarlington, were in Picton on the 24th and when they arrived in Belleville in the evening they were intoxicated and were placed under arrest. They claimed that they secured the liquor from Cole and a charge was at once laid against Cole before Police Magistrate Williams. The case was heard on Thursday afternoon. Moon swore positively that the liquor was secured from Cole and gave all the details of the transaction. Cole denied the charge, but Magistrate Williams gave judgment as above stated.—Picton Gazette.

PRELIMINARY CANTER

At the Agricultural Park last evening about two hundred or more of our citizens were treated to a lovely spectacle. The R.C.M.P. who arrived from Ottawa with their horses on Wednesday evening went through the several figures which they are billed for to-day. The horses are perfectly trained and present a well-groomed appearance.

Least Exertion Tired Him Out

TORONTO MAN SAYS HE WAS IN TERRIBLE CONDITION BEFORE HE BEGAN TAKING TANLAC

Frank A. Collard, well-known employee of the James Morrison Brass Mfg. Co., and living at 150 Galt Ave., Toronto, is still another enthusiastic witness of the merits of Tanlac. In relating his experience recently Mr. Collard said:

"For several months before I got Tanlac I was in a terribly run down condition. My appetite went back on me, and my stomach was so upset that I often had to turn away from the table for I just couldn't face anything to eat. Everything I did manage to eat seemed to sour and caused me awful pain and distress. I bloated until the gas pressure around my heart almost cut off my breath, and I was so weak that the least little exertion tired me out. I got up mornings feeling worse than when I went to bed the night before and was so dizzy that many times I had to steady myself to keep from falling.

"My sister-in-law got me to try Tanlac, and I began to improve on the very first bottle. My appetite picked up and that tired dizzy feeling went away. As my appetite grew my digestion became good and by the time I finished my third bottle of Tanlac I was feeling fine in every way. Tanlac is certainly a great medicine when it comes to making a person feel right, and I can't speak too highly of it."

Tanlac is for sale in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store.

After the ceremony the bridal party and guests motored to the home of the bride's father on St. Clair Avenue West for tea. COMMUNIST EXPERIMENT DESCRIBED AS SAVAGE AND CRIMINAL

New York, June 3.—Several documents taken from official Bolshevist publications, describing the conditions under which children are living in Russia under the Bolshevist regime are made public by A. J. Slack, Director of the Russian Information Bureau in the United States, representing in this country the Russian democratic anti-Bolsherist forces.

The Bolshevist program with regard to the children of Russia was formulated, according to Mr. Slack, by the Commissary Lilina at the Conference on Public Education held in Moscow. The official magazine of the Commissariat of Public Education, Narodonnoye Prosvieschenie (Popular Education) No. 4, quotes Lilina as saying at this conference:

"We have to create out of the young generation a generation of Communists. We must make real good Communists of the children, for they, like wax, are easily moulded. We must remove the children from the pernicious influence of the family. We must register the children, or, let us speak frankly, nationalize them. Thus they will from the very start remain under the beneficial influence of Communist kindergartens and schools. Here they will absorb the alphabet of Communism. Here they will grow up to be real Communists. To compel the mother to surrender her child to us, to the Soviet state, that is the practical task before us."

Thus Soviet institutions for children were established. The report of the Soviet Inspection for February, describing one of these institutions, the Rozdestvenskia Nursery in Petrograd, says:

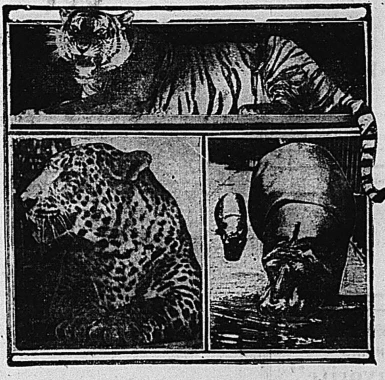
"The children, left to their own devices, under the supervision of inexperienced and rough-spoken nurses, with filthy clothing, pale from lack of sufficient nourishment, made a painful impression. The place itself, unventilated and poorly heated, fostered all manner of diseases and contributed to the exceedingly high rate of mortality among the children. In the course of three months the child population of that institution renewed itself to an extent of 90 per cent.

"In other words, nearly all of them were sent to the hospital, or, having failed even to reach the hospital, they perished while still at the Nursery."

The official Bolshevist organ on Public Health Izvestia Zradvookhranenia, No. 11, gives the statistical data on mortality of children in Moscow, up to the age of 16 years, per 10,000 inhabitants, as follows: 1913, 81; 1915, 78; 1918, 100; 1919, 372; 1920, 400.

Analyzing the Bolshevist activities with regard to the children of Russia, the well-known Russian physician, Dr. Horne, said at the Pirogoff Medical Congress in Moscow:

"I am prepared to forgive the Bolsheviki a great many things, almost everything. But one thing there is which I cannot and will not forgive them, namely, those experiments, positively criminal and worthy of the most savage tribes of the African jungle, which the Bolsheviki have been making all this time with our young generation, with our children! This crime knows no parallel throughout the history of the world! They have destroyed, morally, as well as physically, a whole Russian generation; they have destroyed it irretrievably and, alas, beyond remedy!"



MIXING THINGS FOR CHILDREN ON CIRCUS MENU THIS SEASON

After all, circus is for children—children of all ages, of course. That's why there are clowns and that's why John Robinson's Circus, coming to Belleville, Monday June 13 has mixed in Fred Ledgett's famous elephants, ponies and dogs with the three ring elephant displays—novelty, comedy acts that contrast delightfully with the three big offerings. Pretty women trainers including Grace Alvard, Elsie Farnum and Nan Holden direct these offerings while Irene Montgomery with her group of women trainers handles the big elephant acts. All in all, it's a great movement for the kiddies, when all these acts, together with a host of clowns, fill the big tent for the children's own display.

And not only in the elephant acts, the animal acts and the clown numbers is there merriment. There are equestrian drolls, including the famous Joe Hodgini, who stage fun riots on the backs of their galloping ring horses. On the stages, too, will be seen comedy bits without number, and the clowns—the pick of the "funny fifty"—have decided to show what they can do in the dizzy aerial rigging of the John Robinson big top this year. You'll see 'em tumble from the dome circus day. Of course, in the long street parade at 10 a. m. that day, there'll be clown cut-ups in every section—loads of 'em.

VOL. LIV. NO. 119. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1921. PRICE TWO CENTS

Kings Birthday Was Fittingly Commemorated

FOURTH ANNUAL CELEBRATION A DECIDED SUCCESS—WET TRACK PREVENTS HORSE RACING — OTHER ATTRACTIONS CARRIED OUT — THOUSANDS ATTRACTED TO AGRICULTURAL PARK — MUSICAL RIDE AND BASEBALL GAME ARE FEATURES.

Despite the rain which descended on Friday morning (the King's birthday), keeping many from the city, the Great War Veterans' Association of Belleville have every reason to feel proud of the success which attended their fourth annual celebration. The only disappointing feature of the afternoon's programme was the inability to have the horse races owing to the condition of the track on account of the rain. With this attractive feature eliminated it is estimated that upwards of 6,000 persons were present at the Agricultural Park. Three races had been placed on the score card, and there is not the slightest doubt but that fine speeding events would have resulted, as some of the best horses had been entered. All present seemed happy, however, and enjoyed the other two leading events staged, namely the musical ride by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the exhibition game of baseball between the G. T. R. team of Belleville and the Simcoes of Toronto. The celebration had been well organized under the capable management of President E. D. Finkle of the G.W.V.A. and his able assistants.

THE PARADE.

The day's proceedings opened with a parade in the morning, and during its progress through Front street that thoroughfare was lined on either side with hundreds of men, women and children. It was arranged and marched off in the following order:

Royal Canadian Mounted Police, with standards.

Auto containing Mayor Hanna, Ald. Fisher and Treverton.

G. W. V. A. on foot.

A bicycle representing an airplane, "Lest We Forget."

Argyll Light Infantry Band.

Boy Scouts.

Fire Brigade, hose carts decorated.

Clowns in various costumes.

Boy Scouts' Bugle Band,

First Troop, Belleville Boy Scouts.

Float—Canadian Girls in Training—Emmanuel Church.

Auto containing members of the Chamber of Commerce.

Ancient auto drawn by two mules.

Float—Symphony Jazz Orchestra.

Float, representing H. A. Wood Mfg. Company.

Decorated autos.

Fordson tractor hauling captured German gun.

Samson tractor hauling captured German gun.

International tractor.

Lieut. Cooper, mounted on one of the first bicycles made, (a high one) attracted much attention, as did the police clowns making an arrest. After parading some of the streets the procession was disbanded.

AT THE PARK.

Shortly after the noon hour all streets led to the Agricultural Park, and by the time the events of the afternoon commenced the spacious enclosure presented an animated appearance. Despite the crowd everything passed off in a harmonious manner, and the best of order prevailed.

BASEBALL MATCH.

This proved to be the afternoon's attraction, and at times the game was somewhat interfered with by spectators encroaching upon the diamond. On account of the crowd it was necessary to make a ground rule that only two bases could be taken no matter where a fair ball was batted to. There were several hits which under ordinary circumstances would have netted the batsmen three bases if not home runs. The G. T. R. team of this city had as their opponents the Simcoes of Toronto, and the result was a win for the visiting team by a score of 7 to 6. It was a hard game for our boys to lose, but such are the fortunes of war. Of the seven runs to the credit of the Simcoes, six were obtained in one inning. Kelleher was on the mound for the Belleville team and pitched good ball. Owing to the slippery nature of the diamond caused by the rain a number of errors were recorded. Toronto used two pitchers, namely, Black and Glover, both of whom have speed. The game in detail was as follows:

FIRST INNING.

Simcoes—Michie flew to Frank Goyer. Smith out at first. Reading flew to Ross. No hits, runs or errors.

G. T. R.—Ross flew to Smith. F. Goyer made two-bagger to right field. Weir struck out. W. Mills made a two-bagger, scoring Goyer. Symons struck out. One run, 2 hits, 1 error.

SECOND INNING.

Turofsky made a two-bagger, scoring Michie. Dickson out at first. Six runs, 5 hits, 2 errors.

G. T. R.—H. Mills flew to Turofsky. Casey made hit to centre field. Williams out at 1st, Casey reaching second. Kelleher hit to infield and Casey was out, being hit by the batted ball. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

PALACE OF TALK COSTS $9,412,764

Ottawa, June 3.—The new parliament buildings have cost to date the very considerable sum of $9,412,764. Of this amount the sum of $314,805 has gone to Lyall and Co., the contractors on the cost plus basis. The sum of $342,188 has been paid to the architects. The balance of the cost yet to be met is being estimated. The above information was given the house this afternoon by Hon. F. B. McCurdy, minister of public works.

Speeding up Parliamentary Machine

Ottawa, June 3.—With the prospect before them of the prorogation of Parliament on Saturday, members of the Commons dealt expeditiously with a considerable volume of business. Bills to amend the Soldiers' Insurance Act and the Pensions Act, based upon the report of the special committee on the pensions, insurance and re-establishment of soldiers, were passed. So also was Sir Henry Drayton's bill to amend and consolidate the Acts respecting the taxation of incomes, and Hon. C. J. Doherty's bill to validate procedure preliminary to the holding of plebiscites under the Canada Temperance Act in certain provinces. The consideration of the amendments to the Pensions' Act afforded Premier Meighen an opportunity to make a general statement upon the work and objects of the special House Committee and the policy of the Government on the subject of the re-establishment of soldiers. It was the desire of the Government, and, he believed, of the people of the country, he said, "to walk beside the returned men and to keep the door open to make sure that no injustice was being done." He pointed to the fact that the legislation before the House would prolong the payment of a bonus of 50 per cent. on all pensions for another year at a cost of the country of $680,000. He gave his views also upon the proposal that $50,000,000 be set aside to be loaned to returned men desiring to erect houses in the same manner that loans are, made for the purchase of farms under the Soldiers' Settlement Act.

Proposal Not Sound

He felt that the proposal was not sound economically. Such expenditures would be merely a palliative for the unemployment situation. Loans throughout the country would serve to sustain the level of prices of building material, and in the end would prevent rather than encourage building by private interests.

Furthermore, there was the danger that the Government might find itself with a number of houses, built at high prices, on its hands. However, he agreed that more houses were needed and announced that the Government had decided to continue the policy of providing assistance, subject to the condition that the main responsibility should be local. It had decided to add 25 per cent., of $6,250,000, to the original sum of $25,000,000 set aside to be loaned to the provinces for the improvement of housing conditions. Of the original vote $10,000,000 was still available, to which would be added $6,250,000. For the present year, however, it was felt that an appropriation of $12,000,000 would be sufficient.

Unemployment Situation

The Premier dealt with the unemployment situation. He noted that 200,000 persons had been found positions under the auspices of the Labor Department, which had been assisted by the National Advisory Council. The Government had contributed to unemployment where municipalities had assumed responsibility for two-thirds of the cost. So far the Dominion had been called upon to disburse only $301,000, and $60,000 would be required to complete the payments. The Dominion had, however, assumed special responsibility for disabled soldiers and had, in meeting that responsibility, disbursed $842,403 during the year and might be obliged to expend a further sum of $600,000. The Premier stated that the Government was prepared to continue assistance for the relief of suffering due to unemployment on the lines which had been followed.

Bill Validates Liquor Ballot

HOUSE PASSES MEASURE TO PREVENT REVERSION ON TECHNICALITY

Ottawa, June 3.—The bill to validate certain proceeding under the liquor plebiscites in the various Provinces which voted dry passed the House of Commons without amendment by the unanimous consent of the House it was given third reading after having passed second reading and through Committee of the Whole. Some opposition developed from both sides of the House, but the members did not persist in it.

Kirk Frowns On Church Lottery

Toronto, June 3.—Despite an increase of $90,000 in the Canadian Presbyterian givings to the church home mission and Social service fund a deficit of $35,000 was reported to the general assembly this afternoon by Rev. Dr. W. H. Sedgewick. The authorities had to take $18,000 from reserve.

Dr. Sedgwick said that the Maritime provinces people had raised the issue of the propriety of churches holding lotteries to raise funds for church purposes. The matter was sent to the advisory board and a request was sent to the dominion parliament to have the lay amended, removing the leave given to churches to conduct lotteries. "We have no news yet as to the action taken at Ottawa," he added.

Sixty new fields had been opened on the home mission work, making a total of 1,051. By becoming self-sustaining and by co-operation, etc., 103 fields were removed from the list of those supported in whole or in part by the fund.

Better Legislation

Dr. Sedgwick remarked that it was pleasing to note that more men were available for home mission work. He commented favorably on the trend of recent legislation, for it bespoke a desire to protect and conserve life. Girls were guaranteed better protection against the violation of virtue, "though I regret to say that only a few days ago the House of Commons defeated an amendment regarding registration in hotels".

He pointed out that 58 per cent. of the women treated in the homes for such cases were restored to good and respectable lives.

"Cosmopolitan Canada has within its borders the people of 40 different nations and 58 languages are spoken. In one western city where election information had to be printed it was found necessary to have it translated into 32 languages. One-eighth of Canada's population is not of Anglo-Saxon stock and that proportion is steadily increasing.

Plea For Better Pay

Rev. Dr. Edmison reported that it would take a total of $200,000 at the outside figure to raise the clerical salaries throughout Canada up to the minimum of $1,800 per year, and manse.

Since the general assembly had declared for the new minimum, 140 congregations had raised the salaries of their ministers to the new minimum, or above it. Only 26 places come on the list of aid-receiving charges after the last increase in 1915. The $1,800 scale was not yet compulsory.

It was proposed now to fix a minimum of $1,800 and manse for married men, and $1,600 without manse for single men. That is for class A. but class B scale is $1,700 and $1,500.

Dr. Edmison referred to the arguments used by some that it was enough to set up the ideal of $1,800 as the proper minimum, but he contended that it was now time for general assembly legislation on this. Past records showed that it would not result in loading up the list of aided charges.

Inventor Lives for Years in Poverty, Forgetting Bank account Of $25,000

Newark, N.J., June 3.—William Gierth, an aged inventor has lived in poverty for nine years, forgetting that he had $25,000 credited to his account with the Fidelity Trust Co., of Newark.

Gierth now anxiously awaits decision of the vice-chancellor as to whether or not he can draw the money. His claim was opposed by the bank and several individuals. Among the latter is Inglus Uppercu, an automobile dealer, who declared the money was obtained from a check he gave Gierth for $5,00 in 1912, and which was raised to $25,000. No one was arrested, or accused at the time the check was deposited, it was learned, and no claim had previously been entered.

The inventor suffered a loss of memory several years ago, and lost all track of the account until his attention was called to it by a clerk in the bank. Hearings on the case will be held June 20.

The British government is disbanding the reserve force called for by the miners' strike.

Foreign Mission Night in Assembly

Toronto, June 4.—(By Canadian Press)—The Presbyterian church has, from its inception, been a missionary church, not only in the matter of Home Missions but equally so in the realm of Foreign Missions. The denomination has an honorable record in this regard, and many a foreign mission field was opened by Presbyterian pioneers within the century.

This fact was emphasized on Foreign Mission Night in the General Assembly, now in session in Toronto; and indeed it is one of the great nights of the gathering, when the eyes of six hundred commissioners are turned from the map of Canada to the map of the world. As a thousand Home Mission fields in the Dominion represent the interests of this denomination in the homeland, so a review of its work in other parts of the Empire and the Orient demonstrates their belief in the Great Commission—"Go ye into all the world and make disciples of every nation."

The Canadian Presbyterian church has over 325 missionaries at work in nearly a score of centres in different parts of the world, viz: at three points in China—Honan, Shanghai and South China; in Korea and Formosa; in Trinidad and British Guiana and in Central India and Gwalior. A small annual grant is also given to the mission work in the New Hebrides, which has a sacred interest to Presbyterians through its Canadian martyr missionaries who founded it.

The foreign mission fields above mentioned are also manned by a native staff of 1242. More and more it is the policy of the home churches to develop and train native workers.

The old conception of the foreign missionary as one who devoted himself exclusively to preaching to the illiterate and naked heathen under a palm tree is less true to-day than ever in the past. The Presbyterian Foreign Mission Report, above referred to, calls for missionary recruits along evangelistic, educational, medical, dental, industrial, agricultural, literary, business and building lines—a wide range of activities, all will admit and calling for expert qualifications. Twenty-eight volunteers for this department of the Presbyterian program were received during 1920 and yet even this number fell short of the minimum requirements. Thirty-seven men are needed, urgently and immediately this year, to fill vacant positions such as ministers, teachers, doctors, dentists, business treasurers and commercial teachers.

The Presbyterian Church is increasingly liberal in its givings to Foreign Missions, the annual amount being largely increased through the Forward Movement Thank-offering Fund. The receipts for this service totalled $718,452 in 1920, viz: $545,930 direct givings and $172,522 from the Women's Missionary Society. In addition, the native contributions amounted to a goodly sum.

Parliament Will Finish Business to-day

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Ottawa, June 4.—After an all-night sitting, the House of Commons adjourned at five-thirty this morning with the work of the session practically cleaned up. It is thought that prorogation will take place at four or five o'clock this afternoon. During the last hours of the sitting, the House passed estimates almost as fas as Deputy Speaker Boivin could call them off. Approximately 112 million dollars was voted between three-thirty and five-thirty. Occasionally there were pauses when members interrupted to ask questions but if any item proved contentious it was allowed to stand over until the next sitting.

COLLEOT $46,000,000 TAXES

The first assessment had yielded $39,000,000. Canada had collected $9,000,000 from income tax during the first year the tax was in operation, and $27,000,000 the second year. He introduced a ill to lessen the penalties provided by the income tax act.

Lord Byng, of Vimy The New Governor-General

HERO OF VIMY RIDGE COMING TO CANADA AS GOVERNOR-GENERAL—BELOVED COMMANDER OF CANADIAN CORPS AT HISTORIC BATTLE—GLORIOUS ANNALS WRITTEN BY CANADIANS IN VIMY RIDGE BATTLE.

LONDON, June 3.—The appointment of Lord Byng of Vimy as Governor-General of Canada in succession to the Duke of Devonshire was announced officially today.

General Byng first took over the command of the Canadians in February, 1916, succeeding General Alderson. He commanded the Canadians in several victorious actions against the Germans previous to the crowning achievement at Vimy Ridge. Before the war he had seen much military service, during the South African War, 1899-1902, and in various African and Egyptian campaigns.

Julian Byng was born on September 11, 1862, and was the seventh son of the second Earl of Strafford. Lady Byng was Mary Evelyn Moreton, daughter of the Hon. Sir Richard Moreton. They were married in 1902.

General Lord Byng of Vimy, G.C.B., C.C.M.G., M.V.O., was created the first baron of Vimy in 1919, and his title connects him with the famous engagement at Vimy Ridge, from April 9 to May 3, 1917, when under the command of General Byng the Canadian corps in France, attacking on a front of 8,000 yards penetrated to a depth of six miles, capturing 7,000 prisoners and 67 guns and with them the strongest position on the British front. Gallant troops, superb generalship, and elaborate pre-arrangements were factors which contributed to the success of the Canadian corps. After Vimy General Byng was promoted to the command of the Third British Army.

Lady Byng has written several books.

Meighen Praised By Liberal Paper

KINGSTON WHIG SAYS CAREER AS PARLIAMENTARIAN MARKED BY SUCCESS

Kingston, June 4.—The British Whig under the caption, "Wishing Him Well," editorially says, "The Prime Minister of Canada, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, is leaving shortly for England to take part in an important Imperial conference. Canadians, irrespective of party, will very heartily join in wishing him a delightful time on his outing, the pleasure of which will be enhanced as his charming wife will accompany him. The sessions of the conference will be of a very important character and will have a great and influential bearing on Canada's part in the great British Empire. It is a matter of sincere congratulation that Canadians are so confident of our cause being in such able hands. They feel that the dintinguished Premier will no wise dim Canada's lustre as the successor of Laurier and Borden in the delicate and yet responsible work committed to his hands.

"Mr. Meighen is thoroughly competent as an advocate and a statesman, his whole career as a parliamentarian has been marked by splendid success as a debater, strategist and diplomat, marked by assiduous labor and toil in mastering details and pre-eminently marked by high moral principles and clear and dignified speech.

"He will carry with him to the old land all the conspicuous qualities that have marked his public career, and we have confidence that he will be honored by the statesmen of Britain and his fellow colleagues from the dominions, returning with added honors. May he also come back inspired and invigorated to do worthier work than ever for the Canada, whose reconstruction proplems largely rest in the keeping of the Government of which he is the head."

Germans Still Fighting With Polish Forces

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Oppeln, June 4.—Fighting between the Germans and Poles continues in the vicinity of Schimischow, about five miles northwest of Gross Strelitz. The castle owned by Count Stahwitz has been burned. The British are gradually reinforcing their troops in the plebiscite area, bringing in fresh soldiers and many tanks. The Inter-Allied Commission for Silesia is reported to be considering the disposition of the Allied troops here so that clashes between the Poles and the British may, if possible, be avoided.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

Serious Sugar Situation

New York, June 4.—A warning that unless the Cuban sugar growers abandon their attempts to maintain prices artificially results may be disastrous for the island, was given in a statement issued today by the Federal Refining Company. Co-incidentally it became known that banks in New York have approximately forty million dollars tied up solidly in Cuban sugars. With huge losses confronting United States bankers it was said to be their intention to carry their usual customers along until the situation improved and frozen credits began to thaw. The bankers state that no matter what happens in Cuba they cannot draw out now as the republic's complete financial breakdown would result and might cause a situation requiring years to overcome.

Murphy Wants to Know

Ottawa, June 4.—When the House of Commons opened this morning, Hon. Charles Murphy, Russell, asked Premier Meighen if Lord Byng has had any political and parliamentary experience apart from his military experience. Hon. Mr. Meighen replied that the Government had been notified in the usual manner that His Majesty had been pleased to appoint Lord Byng and that there was every reason to believe that he possessed a sound knowledge of political matters and was in every way qualified for the office.

Easy Washing

You'll hardly believe it—until you try it. Just soak the clothes in the rich, pure, cleansing Rinso suds overnight (or for three hours) and then rinse them thoroughly either in warm or cold water. They will be as clean as though they had been boiled and rubbed.

RINSO—
Not a cake soap, or a chip soap, but new and better—fine granules so rich in soap that they loosen the dirt as the clothes soak.

If you have a washing machine—
Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

Many Thrills at The Circus

John Robinson's Circus, which is to exhibit in Belleville on Monday, June 13, is reputed to be one big thrill from the blare of trumpets that announces the colorful pageant, which opens the show, to the stirring finish of the Roman standing race which closes it, but there is nothing more interesting more truly fascinating, than the big Wild West which comprises the circus concert.

Once more has the Robinson management scored. "Arizona" Tate, intimate friend and companion of the world-famous "Buffalo Bill," leads the Wild West, which is composed of more than fifty cow-boys and cow-girls from the plains of Arizona, Texas, and adjoining territoy.

Rope-spinning, lassoing, trick and fancy riding and broncho-busting are among the more important numbers, and if the strenuous efforts of these hardy Westerners fail to thrill you clean through, then you are indeed immune to anything that bears the slightest relation to excitement. The fact that the John Robinson Circus carries a special troupe for the concert alone will enable the layman to grasp the importance with which the management regards this feature.

Hundreds of residents will see the big free parade which will take place about 10 A.M. This pageant is said to be the finest which the Robinson Circus has ever produced, and that is saying a great deal.

Large numbers of people from nearby towns are expected to swell the audiences here, as the Robinson Circus never dwindles in popularity, always exhibiting the very best that money can buy, never lowering its standard under any consideration.

There will be two shows in Belleville at 2 and 8 P.M.

There will be a meeting of the Tennis Club at the Y. on Monday night at eight o'clock. All interested are requested to be present.

MUSICAL RIDE.

The musical ride by twenty-six members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police of Ottawa was all that could have been desired. They had been heralded as giving an exhibition that was both pleasing and intricate, and in this respect the spectators were not disappointed. The men, in their scarlet uniforms and seated upon prancing steeds, presented a fine appearance, and the spectators were not slow in showing their appreciation. The animals are also well trained and do their part with neatness and precision. The regimental band furnished music for the ride, the numbers being as follows:

Trumpet Call — Attention to carry lance.
Trumpet Call—Walk March.
Waltz—Till we Meet Again.
Fox Trot—Tell Me Why.
Trumpet Call—Trot.

Second Trotting Figure—Another Little Drink.
Third Trotting Figure—Wait for the Wagon.

DANCING.

Dances were held last evening at Johnstone's and Bennett's academies s a fitting manner in which to close he June 3rd celebration. The floors vere crowded at all times by a throng vho were, plainly, out for all the joy o be had; it is certain everybody had glorious time. The music was full of ep, some new and a few old favorites, naking it impossible for a person with wo sound feet to keep still. Dancing continued until one o'clock this morning when the crowd broke up, completely tired out, most of them, but thoroughly satisfied with the day and evening. The order of paying was, gentlemen pay, all ladies free, proving satisfactory all around.

During the baseball match on Friday little baby was hit with the ball but vas not seriously injured as the blow vas a glancing one—luckily for the baby. This should serve as a warning or people to keep off the ball grounds vith infants in arms.

Pale and Nervous School Children

NEED RICH, RED BLOOD TO REGAIN HEALTH AND STRENGTH

Many children start school in excellent health, but after a short time home work, examinations, hurried meals and crowded school rooms cause their blood to become weak, their nerves over-wrought and their color and spirits lost. It is a mistake to let matters drift when boys and girls show symptoms of nervousness or weak blood. They are almost sure to fall victims to St. Vitus dance, or drift into debility that leads to other troubles. Regular meals, out-door exercise and plenty of sleep are necessary to combat the nervous wear of school life. But it is still more important that parents should pay attention to the school child's blood supply. Keep this rich and red by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the boy or girl will be sturdy and fit for school. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Watson, Grand Falls, N.B., who says: "In the spring of 1919 my daughter Thistle, then 12 years of age, began to show symptoms of nervousness which developed into St. Vitus Dance. She seemed to lose control of her limbs and at times every muscle in her body seemed to be twitching and jerking, and the trouble seemed to be growing worse. We finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the result was better even than we had hoped for, and she is now enjoying the best of health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS

BY Firelighter

"Jump In And Bring Him to Shore"

I Have just read of a boy who jumped overboard, shoes, clothes and all, and swam back to shore with a man who was in distress in the water and in danger of drowning. The boy, who was only a kid, received a vast amount of praise and publicity, but his greatest satisfaction he said, came to him in the thought that he had known what to do in an emergency and had been able to do it.

Could the boy who reads this have done this same thing?

Perhaps he does not know whether he could or not.

Here are some things that a boy between twelve and fourteen years of age should be able to do in the water in order to save the life of another person.

He should be able to swim fifty yards on his breast and twenty-five yards on his back. Unless he is able to do this he would not be able to tow a drowning person a reasonable distance so as to get them to safety.

He should be able to go through on land a proper "Drill", or series of motions showing how to take hold of a drowning person, to break away from him if he clutches his would-be rescuer and to restore breathing to any person taken out of the water unconscious. He will need to practise these on land before trying them in the water.

He should demonstrate in the water two methods of rescue and one of release. Two of the best for rescue are swimming on the back and holding a drowning person under the arm pits from behind and swimming on the breast pushing the person being rescued ahead by putting the hands under the arm-pits. He should tow a person at least ten yards.

He should dive from the surface of the water, or from the side of the tank, preferably the former. This is necessary if he is to bring up an unconscious person from the bottom.

These are the requirements for the Trail Rangers' Badge in Life Saving. For Tuxis Boys the tests are along the same lines only more difficult.

BILL INTRODUCED TO AMEND SOLDIERS' INSURANCE ACT

Ottawa, June 3.—The House of Commons passed a resolution providing for amendments to the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act, as suggested by the special committee on pensions, insurance and re-establishment. The resolution provides, among other things, for deleting the words "domiciled and resident in Canada" from the Act. The effect of this will be to make all returned soldiers, whether domiciled in Canada or not, eligible for insurance. Another amendment provides that payments of insurance shall not exceed $1,000 on the death of the insured, and the remainder, if any, or portion thereof to which any beneficiary is entitled shall at the option of the insured, be payable as an annuity. Another amendment grants to the insured the power of designating by declaration who will receive the benefit of his insurance, should he die unmarried or a widower without children.

On motion of the Prime Minister, the provision making the legislation based on this resolution retroactive to September 1, 1920, was struck out.

A bill based on the resolution received first reading.

"George, I'm sufferin'—sufferin'. It's that old thing. I thought after my talk with you down here awhile ago that I would feel better, but it's back ag'in like a million devils had hold o' every nerve in my brain an' body. Fer the last week it has been growin' wuss an' wuss, an' now ef some'n' hain't done I'll jest die. But I must tell you. You know I said I hadn't spoke about it fer thirty year to a single soul, an' talkin' to you here that night seemed to do me some good, an' so tonight when I couldn't sleep I thought I'd come to you."

"I'm glad you came, Mr. Hillyer."

"You remember, George, I said that Hank Williams, the man whose testimony had cleared me, was livin' in Texas?"

"Yes, I remember you said that, Mr. Hillyer."

"Well, jest a week ago last Thursday he come back to this county to see his old friends an' kin. When I heard he'd come I was settin' at my desk. Kenner an' Hanks was a-talkin', an' one of 'em mentioned it. All my strength went out o' me, fer they said he'd got religion an' was leadin' a upright life. Do you know what I'm feared of now, George? I'm afeard he's come back to—to ax me to—to let 'im confess the truth. They say men will git that a-way as they nigh the grave, an' he's gittin' old. Some'n's wrong, I know, fer he acts quar in not comin' to see me. I'm as nigh crazy as a man ever was. Do you know what I done last night? It was as dark as pitch, an' I knowed nobody wouldn't see me. You know the old livery stable whar the shootin' occurred is still standin'. I had never been past it since then. I jest couldn't. But last night, in the pitch dark an' drizzlin' rain, I got out'n bed an' went thar an' knelt down right whar he fell, an' begged an' begged God to let me die then an' thar an' face whatever was a-comin' to me, even ef it was eternal. I want my punishment—the rail thing—to begin, an' go on an' on ef it's God's will. I don't care how long. I cayn't stand this uncertainty. Hank Williams intends to come to me, but he's puttin' it off to the last minute. But I want him to spout it all out an' be done with it. Ef he don't, I will. Then tonight I went up to the graveyard an' picked out Lynn Hambright's grave an' laid down on it amongst the weeds an' briers an' prayed to his bones to rise up an' do some'n'. Anything's better than this awful silence of God an' man."

With his hands tightly pressed over his face the merchant sat, breathing heavily. George Buckley stood over him, his handsome face heavy with pity.

"Is there anything—anything on earth that I can do, Mr. Hillyer?" he questioned. "I would do anything to relieve you. I'd cut off my right arm to do you a service."

"Yes, you can do some'n'," said the merchant, looking up and staring steadily. "You know how I feel. I want you to take my hoss an' ride out to Williams' the fust thing in the mornin'. You could git thar by 10 or 11 o'clock, but"—Hillyer paused and uttered a soft groan—"but I'd have all that time—to wait, like a man goin' to be hung. George, ef—ef you started tonight, you'd git thar about the time he was risin', an' you could, by ridin' peart, git back here by 10 in the mornin'."

"Why, yes, I can go easily," said Buckley. "But what must I say to him, Mr. Hillyer?"

The old man stared for a moment, and then he replied:

"Tell 'im I'm a million times sorrier than I was when—the deed was done, an' that I want 'im not to delay any longer ef—ef he is goin' to take any step. Tell 'im I want it over. That will be enough, George. Now git out the hoss."

"And you?"

"I'll stay here the balance o' the night an' open up, as usual, an' make Jake put the office in order."

"Don't you think your wife will be troubled if she should miss you, Mr. Hillyer?"

"She won't miss me; she's got used to my night prowlin'. I'd keep her awake ef I was at home. I'm goin' to pace this floor back an' forth an' try to git tired. Go ahead, George. Don't waste any more time. You'll know what to say. I don't want you to plead fer me. I've plead with a higher power 'n he is till I'm through. All I want is a verdict—the verdict I dodged so long ago."

The next day about 10 o'clock, as George was returning home and was within a mile of town, he saw his employer emerge from a clump of persimmon trees on the edge of the road and walk toward him. He was almost a nervous wreck; his eyes were bloodshot and his gray hair disheveled.

"I couldn't wait fer you to git to town," he said, looking up and down the road furtively, as if afraid some one might be coming, "and so I walked out. I come away from the warehouse jest after breakfast, an' I've been walkin' through them woods over thar ever since. Once I fell in a deep ditch. I thought it was God's mercy an' that it was all goin' to be over, but I didn't git a scratch. You notice I keep talkin'. It's beca'se I'm afeard to look at you or let you speak."

"You haven't a thing to fear, Mr. Hillyer." Buckley dismounted and stood by his employer, his arm through the bridle.

"You didn't see Williams?"

"Yes, I saw him and had a long talk with him. He said you were the best man he had ever known in his life and that he'd rather die than harm you in any way. He would have come to see you, he said, but he thought you might not want to be reminded of the past. He actually cried when I told him of your sufferings. He said it was your influence that had made him try to lead a better life. He said his

MR. MEIGHEN EXPOSES TRICKERY

CHALLENGES OPPOSITION TO TAKE STAND

The Liberals with their amendment to the Budget laid themselves wide open to attack, and the quick-witted, hard hitting Prime Minister was not slow to take advantage of the opportunity. In a fighting speech—one of the best of his career, a speech which aroused his supporters to a high pitch of enthusiasm—he tore the amendment to shreds, and with crushing logic held the Liberal and Farmer leaders up to scorn.

A more contradictory, colorless and fatuous resolution was never drafted. In one paragraph it says tariff should not be based upon the principle of protection; in the next it advocates the encouragement, that is to say, the protection of more industries, and it winds up with the statement that in any readjustment of the tariff there must be the least possible disturbance of business; it regrets that there must be no tariff revision this session, which is in direct contradiction to the pronouncement of the Liberal leader in West Peterborough that he would not change a word or item in the tariff until there had been appeal to the people.

Mr. Meighen cleverly exposed the hollow character of the amendment; it was another ruse he declared to ally the Liberal and Farmer vote without giving offence to the manufacturers and the labor men; another case of trying to be all things to all men; another instance of playing the hypocritical game; another evidence of political opportunism for which the author of the amendment, Mr. Fielding, is famous.

The Prime Minister successfully taunted both the Liberal and Farmer leaders over their failure to introduce their platforms, by way of resolutions, in Parliament, as alternatives to the Government's policy.

Perhaps the most effective passages in the speech were those in which the Premier made a merciless exposure of the political game being played by the Farmer and Liberal leaders. "These Farmer leaders," he said, "have made themselves a political annex to the Liberal party—servile tools and minions of the official Opposition, ready to do whatever they are bid to do."

"If these Farmer leaders take a stand on a certain question one day they are ready to change it the next day if the official Opposition say so—they have done that very thing this session. These leaders are the tools, I say, of the official Opposition—an adjunct, an annex and a dilapidated annex at that. If the official Opposition say, "We do not want you to run a candidate here," there is no candidate run. If the official Opposition say, "We think we can run a candidate in that county better than you can because you dare not say anything against protection there, let us have that constituency, and you keep out; our flag is better there than yours,"—in such a case as that the leaders of the Farmers' party obey. But if the official Opposition say, "We cannot get anywhere down in such-and-such a constituency"—for example, in York and Sunbury—"we cannot do a thing there for the life of us. They know us too well. Won't you run a candidate down in York and Sunbury?" Then, of course the Farmers run a candidate, and it is the free trade flag and the Farmers' platform and the 1918 platform that are used in York and Sunbury." Continuing, the Premier said:

"What I say to honorable gentlemen opposite is this: Why not throw the mask away? Why not join right up? Am I to be told that I am anxious to keep these people divided? I was paid that compliment by the leader of the Opposition last session. "Oh," he said, "you would like to divide us. We are the forces of 'progress.' The farmers may be going one way and we moving the other, but we are all 'progressing': you want to divide us." I do not want to divide them. I think if I did that is just what would unite them. Why do they not unite? I do not care whether they divide or unite if they will really and finally say where they stand and remain there. If they want to unite let them do so. Let them throw away both platforms and frame one on which they can both stand and then remain on it; but do not let them say that one is still back on the 1918 platform and the other on the 1919 platform, when as a matter of fact each of them has in this House discarded them both."

Following the lines of least resistance the Court of Revision decided to follow the plan last year and make a uniform reduction on all appeals. Ten per cent. will be added to last year's revised assessment figures. While this plan may be satisfactory to those who appealed, it can not possibly be satisfactory to those who accepted the assessment as fixed by the assessor. The action of the court indicates that the members believe that the entire assessment this year is too high, but why should the ratepayers who did not appeal be penalized, while those who did appeal be favored with what practically amounts to a lower tax rate? This is the second time this injustice has been perpetrated. Will it end here, or will the farce be enacted again next year? This year's Council should provide for a proper assessment.

FLOORING EINSTEIN

Philadelphia Public Ledger

It was hardly fair to confront Mr. Einstein, the celebrated theorist, with one of Edison's test papers and expect him to pass with colors flying. Mrs. Einstein says, her husband is a philosopher, plumbing the abysses of space and time, far from the mundane, concrete realities of these examination papers that have had the country guessing. Einstein was unable to give the speed of sound, but he knew where to look for information. After all, you cannot hold all knowledge in your head. If you can make a beeline to the verse and chapter, very often it is a waste of valuable storage space to clutter up the mind with date that the books cantin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

New York Evening Post

An excellent way of getting back at Mr. Edison is not to confront him with a set of counter questions for him to answer, but to submit a set of answers and invite the Wizard of South Orange to draft the appropriate questions. It is not at all true that the great mass of humanity is engaed in answering questions put to them by the experts. On the contrary, most of us are busy framing answers for the questioners. It is not true that the world is greatly intent upon answering the riddle of the universe. The world should worry. On the contrary, it is the specialists, the philosophers, and the challengers of all sorts who are constantly putting the Why and How to answers with which they are already confronted.

PERILOUSLY NEAR INTERVENTION

Springfield Republican

Ambassador Harvey will have a novel experience in sitting with the Allied Supreme Council on the Upper Silesian question, as his instructions from the President now require. According to Secretary Hughes' reply to the Polish Ambassador, Col. Harvey must "take no part in the discussion concerning Upper Silesia" and "express no opinion as to the settlement". Suppose his opinion were asked, what then? He would refer to Washington for further instructions of course, and the President would have to indicate what opinion, if any, it was advisable to offer. But is not sitting at the same table with Lloyd George and Brian with Upper Silesia as the subject of discussion perilously near "entanglement" in "a matter of European concern"?

The Clues →	??????????????	?????????????	????????????	???????????

SAID that great Movie Producer, Cesar B. DeMiller, to his hated rival, Movie Producer David Warkfield Griffin, "I have just engaged four of the greatest Moving Picture Stars in America for my next big Moving Picture Play." Of course this made Griffin angry because he likes to be the greatest of all the great Movie Producers and he tried his best to persuade DeMiller to tell him the names of the great Movie Stars. Just to tantalize him, Cesar B. DeMiller gave David Warkfield Griffin four secret codes representing the names of the four Movie Stars he had engaged and told him that if he had brains enough to discover the names from these secret codes he deserved to know them. It was too much of a puzzle for Griffin, so it is said he called in Scotland Yard and offered them a thousand dollars if they would discover the names for him from the four secret codes that DeMiller had given him. This was an easy job for the great Scotland Yard Detective Force, and in less than an hour they had the four names. They gave the names to Griffin and also gave him their system for working out their clues.

Here Is The Way They Did It

"It's easy," said Chief-of-Detectives O'Flynn. "I have worked out four sums which you see beneath each one of the four secret codes.

"Add up each sum beneath each code just exactly as you would any other sum of figures, and the four totals that you get give you your clues to the names of the four Movie Stars.

Then work out your clues this way:

"Each secret code has ten letters to it. Each letter represents a number. The first letter of the code represents 1, the second letter represents 2, the third letter represents 3, and so on. The tenth letter in each code represents the cipher 0 instead of 10.

"Beginning at the left-hand side of the total of each sum change each figure of the total back to its letter as represented in the secret code above the sum; for instance, I can tell you that the first number of the total of the first sum is 7. The letter C is the seventh letter in the code above the first sum, therefore the first letter represented by your total is letter C. Now change every number of your total in the same way and you will have the name of the Movie Star represented by that sum."

This is not an easy problem, but patience and perseverance may find you the names of the great Movie Stars. For the best answers submitted we will pay the following prizes:

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 36 or write The Intelligencer.

Old Man Grouch from Trenton says he saw a sign over the main entrance to a bank in Belleville on the holiday which read WELCOM. There was no E, he says, evidently to indicate that money was not easy. Responding to the invitation he tried to enter but found the door locked. O. M. G. says the only time a bank says welcome is when the door is locked on a holiday; but then, he is pessimistic anyway.

O. U. C. saw a giddy young Flapper from way back of sundown with her best young man occupying the north and south halfs of one seat in the opery house at the veterans' concert. They did not see or hear the concert, but Oh Momma! how they did enjoy each other's company! She leaned far over and nestled on his manly spare ribs, while he met her more than half way and hid his generous left ear in her bobbery hair. Her little hands was lost in his and she gazed into his eyes with that ancient look which has wrecked empires and created nations, heroes and school houses. They didn't kiss each other, but they came mighty near it, and they just didn't give a durn who saw them or what, for the world was a most beautiful place all tinted with golden blossoms and bright promises of happiness all down along the long, long trail—all sunshine and no rain, snow or slush. Glory be! What an awakening some day! But sufficient to the day is the evil thereof—so don't waken such as these.

Fan saw two women discussing baseball at the fair grounds while watching the game. One of the ladies knew all the fine points of the game, and then some. Her friend asked her, "Who is that man standing behind the catcher?" "Huh, that's the second catcher to catch the ball if the first one misses it," said the authority in skirts, while the fan fainted.

P. D. Q., West Belleville, coming over the footbridge Saturday morning saw a robin excavating for a worm. Bobbie got a strangle hold on the worm, which was about a yard long, but had to do considerable scratching to get him loose, only to lose the fat juicy meal to a saucy sparrow which had been watching the hard labor of the robin, and at the psychological moment swooped down unexpectedly and flew away with the worm. The robin said something which sounded profane.

At the fair grounds, Friday afternoon, a large lady, a la the Powerfu' Katrinka, gathered from the remains of a booth which caved in under the combined weight of several huskies a nice medium-size piece of timber, drew it into position on top of the pile of debris, balanced it nicely, then dropped gracefully down. But alas! her moment of bliss and contentment was short-lived. Crack! bingo! and the lovely seat was no more, neatly severed in the centre. However, the said lady did not trouble to arise and take a new stand.

What have you seen?
Tell The Intelligencer.

AN EPOCH IN WARFARE

Vimy, or the Battle of Arros as it is officially termed, marks an epoch in the history of modern warfare. It proved that a fortified position, no matter how strong its defences, was still capable of being pierced provided that every arm of the service was given a fitted role and that every ounce of energy was skillfully directed in carrying it out.

After the line had again become stable in June, 1917, Byng was given the Third Army. His successor in the Canadian Corps was Sir Arthur Currie, who had commanded the 1st Canadian Division since September 1915. As an Army Commander his exploits were closely followed by his old Corps, but none of the Canadian Division ever again fought a major action under him, although they held part of the line on the Third Army front in the summer of 1918 and for one day only in Octoer, 1917, the Corps was under orders to join him south-west of Cambrai where he staged, on the 20th of November, the most ambitious and spectacular attack of his career.

OUT OF WORKS INCREASE IN IRELAND

Dublin, June 3.—A great increase in unemployment in Ireland is shown by official reports. The number of people registered at the labor exchanges, which does not include workers on short time, has risen to 116,285.

Belfast is worse off with 28,434 unemployed as against 15,291 in Dublin, and 10,922 in Cork. Over 100,00 are drawing unemployment benefits. The hardest hit industry is linen in Belfast In Dublin the trouble is mostly due to a dispute in the building trades.

Thomas Johston, secretary of the Irish labor party, estimates that there are not less than 15,000 agricultural workers and road-menders out of work as a result of the military situation.

HOUSING OF POULTRY

Not all who keep chickens either in town or country know how to secure the best results from their flocks. For lack of knowledge the chicks often develop into spindle-legged, small-bodied, poor-laying creatures. And yet any amount of instructive literature is published and can be had without cost by applying to the Publications Branch of the Department of Argiculture at Ottawa. Housing shares in the importance with feeding, if the best results are to be gained. In this connection it is interesting to observe that a revised edition of the bulletin on Poultry House Construction by F. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman, has just been issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, to meet the constantly increasing demand for information coming from almost every class of the community. The bulletin, which is based on trials of various kinds of poultry houses in different parts of Canada, treats of the subject clearly and comprehensively. Plans and building instructions, with illustrations and diagrams, are so given as to enable anyone to erect such a poultry house as may be desired.

Col. Currie attacks the income tax in the House and says it is the cause of the country's depression.

The Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children, on the Banks of the Humber, near Weston, requires funds urgently for the extension of the great work of saving infant sufferers from this dread disease.

Ninety per cent. of the children treated are cured.

Think of it!—nine children in every ten treated are restored to health!

Funds are urgently needed to rebuild the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, at Gravenhurst, destroyed by fire on November 30th last.

Needy consumptives, in early stages of the disease, unable to pay for treatment, or able to pay only in part, appeal to you to rebuild this hospital.

Poor sufferers, in advanced stages of the disease, unable to pay for treatment, appeal to you for funds for the King Edward Sanatorium near Weston, where they may be treated and cared for.

The Gage Institute—where the needy poor, suffering from consumption, may get free examination, including X-ray, medicine and nursing assistance—urgently needs funds to carry on.

Now, more than ever before, needy consumptives must have your assistance.

The Hair Spring

THE hairspring is the brain of the watch. It is the most delicate tension spring made. For use in the small sized watch, 84,000 springs are made from one pound of steel.

Waltham hairspring steel is drawn through diamond surfaces, and for the smaller watches, to a third of the thickness of a human hair.

The Breguet, or over-coil (named after its inventor, a famous old French watchmaker), is used on every Waltham watch. The most important part of the complete operation in making a hairspring is the forming and tempering of the Breguet over-coil.

At Waltham, instead of being formed or bent by hand as a separate operation, the entire completed hairspring is formed at one and the same time, after which it is hardened and tempered in form—the invention of John Logan, a genius who was a part of Waltham leadership in watchmaking. Waltham is the only watchmaker using this perfect method of making the Breguet hairspring.

Hand-made watch movements have hairsprings that are first formed in the flat, then hardened and tempered in the flat. Then the outer coil is bent to form the Breguet over-coil, which, if the flat spring were as hard as the Waltham, and properly tempered like the Waltham hairspring, it could not be bent to correct form, and would be liable to break in the attempt.

Waltham superiority is in original method, secret process, unvarying quality of every important part of the watch—a quality that cannot be equaled by any "hand" method of manufacture. That is why Waltham leads the world in standardized watchmaking, and why your watch selection should be a Waltham.

THE PATH OF THE JUST

A SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"The path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."—Prov. 4:18.

When passing through the large wards of public hospitals it is a notable fact as we look at the pale faces of the sick everyone is looking toward the light. If you were to question any or all of them the reason why this was so, probably no answer could be given. But just as the sunflower by its very nature turns towards the sun, so the child of God turns towards the light from heaven, the light that comes from the Son of God, through His truth and Spirit.

As we consider our text and try to see its meaning we are taken back to the early morning of Christian experience. "The path of the just is as the dawning light." As we awaken in the early morn and our eyes open we behold the first streams of light in the eastern sky, the promise of day; so the Christian has his dawning day, his time of awakening. Here comes his call to prayer. This is usually his first act when the light has dawned upon his soul, "Behold, he prayeth." He rises from his knees to fellowship and service. He must walk and toil in the day.

But in consideration of our subject, "The path of the just," there are three things regarding which we might do well to refresh our minds as we meditate upon them.

First, the character of the path; second, the conduct for it; third, fellowship promised.

First, then, the character of the way: It is the King's highway because it is chosen by the King of Kings for all true pilgrims who desire to reach the celestial city. No one can make a mistake by choosing this path, because protection and safety is promised to all who will walk therein. In fact it is the only safe way for all who would reach a happy end. Any other path is fraught with danger both for the life that now is and also of that which is to come.

The path of the just is the way of life; length of days, yea, life eternal has been promised to all who will walk in this path. The best things are promised to those who become pilgrims on the King's highway. All true joys are found in this way, also the fruits of love and peace abound. The blessings promised by the King reach a hundred-fold for all who will take up the cross and walk in this path. But the chief motive for walking in the path of the just is not present blessings merely, but for what is in store for the future—the life to come. An eternal inheritance and rich reward awaits every faithful pilgrim. Above all, the promise of seeing the King face to face and reigning with Him throughout all eternity is the strongest motive for every pilgrim persevering in this way to the end. It leads to glory and honor and immortality. Truly the path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." Will you choose it?

The conduct for the way: Every pilgrim must walk in the spirit of obedience, giving heed to the King's commands. The first thing we must see to is getting rid of the burden of sin. We cannot walk in the path of the just with sin upon us. The gospel command must be obeyed if we would be true pilgrims. The great King has made provision so that we may be freed from the burden of sin and made clean by the washing of regeneration by the Word. Then we are to take His Word along with us to keep us clean and enlighten us by the way. His Word will be a lamp to our feet and a light to our path. In this way the path of the just shineth more and more unto the perfect day. It is only by obeying the light we have that the light becomes brighter and our horizon is enlarged. Then again, the true pilgrim must walk in the spirit of love. How much love brightens the Christian's pathway we can never fully tell. It is too true that many walk in darkness and have no light because they are walking in the spirit of envy, hate and strife. Such a spirit is foreign to the path of the just. The true state of the heart is an important factor in this pathway. Men look on the outward appearance, but the King of Kings looks upon the heart. It is necessary therefore that a man's heart should be right with God and man if he would walk in the path that grows brighter unto the perfect day.

Once more, in this connection, the pilgrim who would walk in the path of the just must maintain the spirit of prayer. That means that his face will always turn toward the light of the throne of God. The light will shine so much more and increase faster to the man who is walking towards the light. This is the true meaning and the real reason why the path of the just is as the shining light, shining more and more unto the perfect day. It is when thou dost enter into thy closet and praying to thy Father in secret that thou shalt have reward, even when thou dost reflect the Divine image in thy face and much more in thy spirit.

These are the chief qualifications in the conduct of those who walk in the path of the just; obedience, love and prayer.

The fellowship in the way: Here is an asset we do not think enough about. "The followship of kindred minds is like to that above." How many glibly say, in the words of the apostolic creed, "I believe in the communion of saints," but do they practice that part of the confession? How much we lose by not communing more with the real saints of the past who have gone the way of the just! It will pay us over and over again to hold converse with some of the worthies who have gone before. When you go home and find a quiet hour, and desire some profit, get alone with the "Saints' Rest," or "Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress." How I enjoyed the latter. You cannot read Bunyan without interest and profit. You will soon discover why the path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. The saints we meet on earth today are helpful, when they converse with us on spiritual things, but they are not so saintly as those who have gone before.

But there is a greater and grander fellowship than that of saints. John the beloved: "If we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another.". But what is the followship he exalts and values most? "That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us; yea, and our fellowship is with the Father and with His Son, Jesus Christ, and these things we write that (your) our joy may be fulfilled." It is our privilege to have fellowship with the Bible worthies. We have our choice of Moses, David, Isaiah, Daniel, in the Old Testament, or Peter, James, John and Paul in the New Testament. But better far than any or all of these is real and undivided fellowship with Jesus Christ our Lord. He has said, "If ye love Me My Father will love you, and We will come and make Our abode with you." It is possible to have a foretaste of heaven upon earth.

As Christian neared the Celestial City he could see the shining ones. Those nearest the throne surely shine the brightest, and the nearer we come to our heavenly home the brighter we find the path.

When Baby is Ill

When the baby is ill; when he cries a great deal and no amount of attention or petting makes him happy, Baby's Own Tablets should be given him without delay. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. Concerning them Mrs. Desire Theberge, Trois Pistols, Que., writes: "I am well satisfied with my use of Baby's Own Tablets. I have found them of great benefit to my baby when he was suffering from constipation and I can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Burn's Health and Honesty Helped him End Feudal Days

Burns of the Mountains got forty men together, twenty on each side, who had sworn to kill each other in a Kentucky mountain feud. He persuaded them it was silly to fight each other, when the mountains were full of ignorance that needed to be fought.

Nothing but Burns' rugged honesty and dynamic health enabled him to quiet the feudists. Today the chiropractic message of health also is going into the Kentucky mountains where they pride themselves on having "open minds."

Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of diseases of the brain, eyes, ears, nose, throat, heart, lungs, liver, stomach, kidneys, intestines, and genital organs.

VETERANS' CONCERT

Griffin's Theatre was well filled Friday evening at the Veterans' concert which is always an entertaining feature of their annual celebration. The program was long and satisfying, contributions of local talent being augmented by some very entertaining numbers by Toronto entertainers. Ralph Gordon in cartoon drawing and funnyisms is a whole show in himself and exceedingly versatile, Everett Smith in a coon specialty, caught the audience right smack on the funny bone, Sapper W. A. Garden as a magician mystified and provided plenty of fun, Sergt.-Major Blades gave his version of "The Silly Aws" in an amusing way. Home talent was represented by the A.R.I. band, the Belleville Trio, Miss Joy Higgs, violin, Miss Phyllis Bogart, piano, Mr. Glen Elliott, cello; Mrs. A. P. Allen and Mr. Harold Barrett contributed materially to the success of the evening with appropriate selections.

TO HOLD RACES

A meeting of the horsemen who have horses here, and a committee of the G.W.V.A. was held last evening when a satisfactory arrangement was made for the holding of the races which had to be postponed yesterday owing to the condition of the track. They will be held at the Agricultural Park on Wednesday afternoon next in connection with the Central Ontario Baseball League match. The afternoon's sport will be under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. and will no doubt attract a large attendance of spectators.

TO-DAY'S MARKET

There was not a large attendance upon the market this morning and buyers were not long in procuring the greater portion of the products offered for sale. There were not many changes to note in prices. The ruling price for butter was 35c. per pound, and fresh eggs sold for 25c. to 27c. per dozen. Dressed chickens commanded a good price, selling at $2.50 to $3.50 per pair, according to size and quality. Home grown strawberries were offered for sale by a number of vendors and were readily disposed of at 40c. per box. Garden produce such as greens, onions, lettuce, etc., found ready purchasers. The ruling price for potatoes was 70c. per bag.

SAYS BUSINESS DEPRESSION OF 1921 DEFINITELY PASSED

New York, June 3.—The business depression of 1921 has definitely passed and the financial condition of the United States is such now that it should inspire only optimism, W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, declared in an address before the annual meeting of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"The public has a lot of buying power left. We want to get the people out of the idea that prices are going lower and lower," he asserted.

RHEUMATISM

Mrs. E. W. Hazlett of Windsor, Ont., writes: "Gin Pills, I know from personal experience, are the sovereign remedy for rheumatism and kidney troubles in any form. I was helped by them, after months of suffering. I tried many other remedies, but all failed; then I tried Gin Pills, with the result that I am well to-day."

Gin Pills relieve by removing the cause. Write for a free sample to: National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Ont. U. S. Address: Na-Dru-Co., Inc., 202 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

At last a friend advised me to take 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did so and soon I felt some relief. I continued with 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a short time, the Constipation was banished, I felt no more pains or headache or the disagreeable sensations that follow dyspepsia. Now I am well, strong and vigorous."

MUSIC AND DRAMA

WALTER McGRAIL IN "BLIND YOUTH" AT GRIFFIN'S

The feature attraction at Griffin's to-night is "Blind Youth" by Lou Tellegen and Willard Mack.

The story was adapted for the screen from the play of the same name by Katherine Reed. It deals with the ups and downs of an artist who loves not wisely but too well. He was cast off by two women, his mother and model, only to be rescued for fame by a third on the brink of a lake and fiasco. It is then that the complications commence, for the Paris model, who married the artist in his wild student days, appears in New York just when the artist finds his true love. The artist's selfish brother helps the model's schemes along. There is a dramatic scene in the studio at midnight when the artist attempts to sacrifice his own interests to help his worthless brother. The two women meet—true love and false. Then, by one of those queer quirks of psychology—the situation rights itself and all's well.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE AND HAROLD LLOYD HERE MON.

Constance Talmadge as Mary Blake in her latest First National attraction "The Perfect Woman", written by John Emerson and Anita Loos, has for a starring vehicle one of the most humorous and entertaining stories ever written for this inimitable comedienne. The development of the plot in which Mary finds herself in the home of Jim Stanhope, the man she was determined to vamp, and a thrilling little episode in which four Bolsheviks have a prominent part, combine to blend the humor with the most pleasing kind of suspense.

This picture which will be shown at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday, indicates that the popular taste in motion picture comedy is constantly demanding something light and refreshing without burlesque or slapstick to win laughter and approval.

Harold Lloyd appears on the same program in a highly amusing and original 2-reel comedy "Number, Please", Fox News Weekly with its list of news events gathered from everywhere, an interesting Travelogue, and other selected plays have been arranged for presentation on the same program.

Flood Takes Heavy Toll One Hundred Bodies Found

COLORADO FLOOD CONTINUES WITH HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY—100 BODIES FOUND — 500 PEOPLE IN HOSPITALS — THOUSANDS HOMELESS AND SUFFERING FROM EXPOSURE—RED CROSS WORKERS BUSY.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 6.—State rangers were sent into the lowlands on the north side of the city early this morning to give warning of the approach of a new flood from the Swallows, sixteen miles west along the Arkansas River. The north and south sides of Pueblo are separated by a bridge, the approaches of which are flooded so that passage between the two sections is impossible.

Flood-stricken Central Colorado today surveys the havoc of the most disastrous flood in the history of the western United States.

ONE HUNDRED BODIES.

An accurate estimate of the loss of life and property damage is impossible at this time, with the morgues crowded to overflowing, hospitals turning patients away to improvised relief stations, and thousands homeless or suffering from exposure.

Every effort today was being directed towards the alleviation of suffering, leaving the work of survey and plans for rehabilitation for the attention of outside forces en route to the now almost prostrate community.

FIVE HUNDRED IN HOSPITALS.

The local Red Cross placed the number of bodies found at approximately one hundred, while the number of persons in the temporary hospitals was placed at five hundred.

FLOOD AT DENVER.

DENVER, Colo., June 6.—Early this morning the Platte River here overran its banks and is flooding several blocks of the residence district. Several police squads were sent to the locality to assist residents in moving from their homes. Families are being cared for at the City Hall.

Presbyterians Refer Union to Synods

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, June 6—That the question of Church Union should be referred to the various church synods for decision is the new proposal now before the Presbyterian General Assembly. When the debate is resumed this afternoon it is expected that an amendment to Dr. Fraser's anti-union amendment will be moved and so far as is known it will provide for a vote of the synods on the issue.

It is argued that the synods would be six times more representative than the General Assembly, on the other hand it would mean another year's delay before the synods could vote on the consumation of union. A belated formal welcome to Toronto was extended to the delegates by Mayor T. L. Church at noon.

Grain Elevator Burned at Port Hope

The large elevator of H. Sculthorp and Sons, situated on the Midland railway at the south end of John street, Port Hope, was completely destroyed by fire about seven o'clock Friday morning. The building, a three-storey structure contained 15,000 bushels of peas 1,000 bushel of grass seed and 2,500 bushels of barley and over 1,000 bushels of oats which were destroyed. In addition there were thousands of empty grain sacks which cost to-day sixty cents each. Mr. Sculthorp estimates his loss at between eighty and one hundred thousand dollars, which is only partially covered by insurance.

WHAT WICKED GUELPH DID TO TORONTO MAN

Guelph, June 3.—James Gillen, who gave his address to the police as Weston road, Toronto, arrived in Guelph yesterday with $56 to spend a quiet day. He left for his home to-day, remarking that he was glad he owned his shirt. In the space of a few hours after his arrival Mr. Gillen was robbed and escaped being run over by a G. T. R. train by about two minutes. A tale of adventure was related by Gillen to Magistrate Watt, in police court this morning. After his arrival in Guelph he became thirsty, and a kind man directed him to a home of a negro woman on Grove street. Constable Clarke picked him up on the Metcalfe street crosing of the G.T.R. at 5.35, two minutes before a westbound train was due. When found his entire roll had disappeared, and he had to arrange for the payment of a $10 fine.

Moorish Tribes Fighting For Independence

Tetuan, Morocco, June 6.—Two of the Moorish tribes who are fighting the Spaniards seems determined to fight to the death for their independence. They are the Bocoyas and the Beni-Urriaguels.

The Bocoyas are the most numerous, every man being a warrior and a fearless fatalist. The Beni-Urriaguels have been engaged in most of the rebellions against Spanish rule in Morocco which have taken place in the vicinity of Alhucemas.

The latter tribe is well supplied with arms, munitions and money for they have evaded all the vigilence of the Spanish coast-guard vessels and have been carrying on an active trade with British and French blockade runners in wool, silk, wax, skins, eggs and almonds.

Even when the Sultan was supreme in Morocco, his forces were never able to dominate these two tribes, who had their refuges in the almost inaccessible fastnesses in the vicinity of Alhusemas and Penon, from which they still harry the Spanish troops.

ELECTRIC CAR SERVICE

It is reported that the electric car which has been giving a suburban service between Belleville and Trenton will be taken off this route about the 17th of June and transferred to a run out of Campbeliton, N.B.

Cripple's Crutches Routs Five Thugs at Montreal

WEILDS CRUTCH SO VIGOROUSLY THAT ASSAILANTS FLEE

Montreal, June 6.—The story of how a cripple drove off five men who were attacking Lawrence Fitzgerald, by wielding his crutch among the assailants with such good effect that they fled before his blows, was told to the police authorities this morning. According to the information given, Fitzgerald, who is 45 years old, was suddenly attacked last night at the door of the Klondyke Restaurant by five men. He was knocked on the head and, when he fell to the sidewalk, they began kicking him with their feet.

Help, however, unexpectedly appeared in the form of Oliver Beaudoin, a cripple, who, seeing what was going on, began to flay the attackers vigorously with his crutch. Indeed, so well did he use it, that the five assailants were soon forced to retreat up an alley. Fitzgerald's hurts were not serious.

Seeing Belleville From The Air

SAILING THROUGH THE CLOUDS IN A SEAPLANE

Next to riding in the smoothest car ever made, on a paved road, is riding in a seaplane guided by the steady hand of Pilot McCarthy of the Bishop-Barker Co. A staff representative from The Intelligencer made this trip and his verdict is as above. As you step into your seat your heart sinks, and begins to flutter just like when you're holding a maiden's hand, but when the engine starts and you begin to plow through the water you become composed, when you begin to ascend you feel as if you're in another world. The pilot's hand guides the machine higher and you see the country all around you, large buildings looking like small houses, rivers like streams and the Bay bridge like a board walk. The speed with which you are travelling seems to increase when you begin to descend, and when you are nearly to the water the same steady hand guides the wings and you straighten out and light on the water with the grace of a dove, and all safe and sound and a new experience added to those you already have, besides a determination to go up in the air as often as possible.

WOMAN AIR PILOT KILLED IN FLYING

Mineolo, N. Y., June 5.—Miss Laura Bromwell, holder of the loop-the-loop record for women, and one of the best-known women pilots in the world, was killed at Mitchel Field this afternoon.

Miss Bromwell was flying at an altitude of about 1,000 feet when the accident happened. She had just completed one loop and was about to make a second when something went wrong with the plane and it crashed to the ground.

Miss Bromwell, whose home was in Cincinnati, was 23 years old.

G.T.R. Train Derailed Fireman Allen Killed

ENGINE TURIED OVER AND BURIED FIREMAN AT BOTTOM OF EMBANKMENT—COULD NOT BE EXTRICATED UNTIL CRANE LIFTED LOCOMOTIVE FROM BODY — ENGINEER CLARK BADLY INJURED.

BRIDGEBURG, June 5.—Frank Allen, a fireman, was killed, and Fred Clark, engineer, was badly injured in the wreck of a Grand Trunk train near Sherkston, fourteen miles from Bridgeburg, on the Buffalo and Goderich line yesterday afternoon.

The train, a summer special from Buffalo, discharged most of its passengers at Ridgeway and Lorraine, two stations before Sherkston, the train was slowing down for Sherkston, when the engine mounted the rails. Allen jumped the same way the engine fell and his body was buried in the mud at the foot of the eight-foot bank, with almost the whole weight of the engine on him.

Efforts to tunnel under and extricate him were unsuccessful. A crane from Hamilton arrived at eight o'clock in the evening and lifted the engine so that the body could be taken out. The line was cleared about half an hour later.

None of the passengers were injured, but W. M. Milray, of Bridgeburg, baggageman, was cut and bruised about the head. Both Clark and Allen came from Bridgeburg.. Clark's wife is seriously ill and they have three children. Allen had been married only a few weeks.

Serious Accident to Mail Train is Narrowly Averted

TENDER JUMPED TRACK WHEN JOURNAL SNAPPED SUDDENLY

A serious accident to Grand Trunk train No. 9, the mail express train running between Tororonto and Montreal, was narrowly averted one and three-quarters miles east of Collins' Bay Friday, when one of the journals on the tender of locomotive N. 189 snapped unexpectedly, derailing the tender. Although running at high speed, the train was brought to a stop immediately by Engineer Samuel Carruthers, of Belleville, and the coaches remained on the rails. Robert McConachie, Montreal, formerly of Brockville, was in charge of the train, which was delayed for nearly two hours while a locomotive attached to a freight train was commissioned to complete the run to Brockville.

Permanent Board For Gov't Railways

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Ottawa, June 6.—It is expected here that the appointment of a permanent Board of Management for the Government Railways will be allowed to stand over until the return of the Premier from England. It was unofficially intimated this morning that such would be the case, Grand Trunk arbitration proceedings will not be concluded for some time, it is thought and present arrangements for the joint operation of the two systems will cary on until the Grand Trunk is finally taken over. Difficulties surrounding the merging of the two staffs, together with other problems to be overcome, are understood to have been responsible for the delay in making permanent appointments.

TRINITY GRADUATES IN KINGSTON ORGANIZE

Kingston, June 3.—Graduates of Trinity College, Toronto, who were attending the Ontario Synod sessions, held a reunion and luncheon at the Frontenac Club, where Rev. Sidney Childs, D.D., of Trinity staff, addressed them. An Alumni Association was formed, with these officers: Hon. President, Bishop Bidwell; President, Dean Starr; Committee, Revs. W. G. Swayne, A. O. Cook, R. J. Dumbrille, Cannon F. D. Woodcock, A. L. McTear J. Lyons, J. DePfier Wright, F. L. Barber, V. O. Boyle, J. H. H. Coleman and W. B. Carroll.

Larger Salary For Presbyterian Clergymen

Toronto, June 6.—A minimum salary of $1,800 and a manse for ministers in self-sustaining charges was adopted by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada. The subject was brought up in connection with the report of the Board of Home Missions and Social Service, and gave rise to a good deal of discussion, though the greater part of it was strongly in favor of the increase. The present minimum is $1,500 and a manse.

The majority of the speakers expressed the opinion that ministers had been inadequately remunerated in the past, and some of them pointed out that in some cases unskilled laborers are being paid at a higher rate than some of the ministers are receiving.

The Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew presented an overture expressing the opinion that the time for an increase was inopportune, but other Presbyterians reported in favor of the $1,800 minimum.

One speaker, whose name did not transpire announced that he had lived well on $1,200 a year; that with that stipend his wife had been always cheerful; and that if he received $1,800 he wouldn't know how to count it. The recommendations were finally adopted.

BIGGS DENIAL READ IN HOUSE.

Ottawa, June 4.—When the house resumed this afternoon, G. C. Wilson (Wentworth), read a statement from Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways in the Ontario government, to the effect that statements made by Mr. Wilson with respect to the provincial road building program were deliberate lies. Mr. Wilson declared that he stood by every statement he had made and would debate the question with Mr. Biggs on a public platform.

PINEAPPLE SKIN CAUSES DEATH

Ottawa, June 4.—While playing around the house last Sunday, Wesley E. Shepherd, aged one year and five months, swallowed a piece of the skin of a pine apple his mother was pealing. The skin lodged in the lungs causing acute congestion. Medical aid was of no avail and the lad died yesterday after five days of intensive suffering.

Says Church is Negligent In Care of Its Children

DR. C. W. GORDON, MODERATOR OF PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY, DECLARES PROTESTANTS ARE SLACK IN RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION, COMPARED TO ACTIVITY OF ROMAN CATHOLICS—ISSUES CALL FOR WIDER EDUCATION.

That the appalling meagreness of religious education of the young in this country and in the United States was fast bringing the Protestant Church to an ominous situation, was the note of warning struck by the moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly at Saturday morning's session. In connection with the report of the Board of Sabbath Schools and Young People's Societies, Dr. Gordon stated that the one place where the church had been falling off was in the care of its children. A report of a survey made by the Inter-Church Council in the United States stated that the average religious instruction to Protestant children was only 24 hours per year, as opposed to 301 to Roman Catholic children. Dr. Gordon was also of the opinion that the Bible was being neglected in favor of lesson helps, mission stories, and other such substitutes. "Such are all very well," he said, "but we must come back to the old book."

Further debate on the church union question having been postponed till Monday afternoon the Assembly devoted the morning's sitting to considering the report on the young people's work, the report of the historical committee and that of the committee on public worship.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK.

The first mentioned, presented by the general secretary for Sabbath schools, Rev. Dr. J. C. Robertson, indicated that, under the program of the Forward Movement, a considerable advance had been made in this department of the work of the church. During the year the number of schools had been increased by 135 to 3,890 with a total membership of 286,889. During the same period the total number of young people's organizations other than the Sunday Schools had been increased by 965. This meant that the five year objective of the Forward Movement for an advance of 500 had been exceeded in two years.

TO PRESERVE RECORDS.

After considerable discussion, the Assembly made provision for the extension of the collection and preservation of data in connection with the historical archives of the church. These measures, as incorporated in the report of the historical committee presented by Col. Alexander Fraser, included the allotment of a grant for research work in connection with the records at the various theological colleges, and the granting of prizes for essays in connection with the history of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Instruction was given to the General Board that it take adequate measures to secure reports from the Presbyterian chaplains who had served overseas with the Canadian army as, lacking these, the church would be without one of the most glorious pages in its history. The adoption of the report was moved by Rev. Dr. A. T. Love, of Quebec, and seconded by Rev. Dr. A. Fraser.

In introducing the report of the Committee on Public Worship, Prof. R. E. Welsh, of Montreal, referred to the recently completed "Book of Common Order" as the best anthology of prayers for the use of ministers in existence. The assembly accepted the report and the offer of the Oxford University Press for the printing of the new handbook.

Of considerable significance from the standpoint of illustrating the widespread opposition to church union was the list of names accepted by the assembly as adhering to the legal protest of Rev. Dr. Wardlaw Taylor at the opening of the debate on union at the Friday morning session. The signatures were as follows: Rev. A. B. Winchester, Toronto; Principal D. J. Fraser, Montreal; Rev. D. A. Murray, Montreal; Rev. W. W. Fraser, St. Andrews, N.B.; Rev. Geo. Wood, Olds, Alta.; Rev. Murray MacLaren, St. John, N.B.; Rev. Duncan Campbell, Chilliwack, B.C.; Rev. R. G. MacBeth, Vancouver; Rev. W. L. Clay, Victoria; Rev. W. W. Fraser, Vancouver; Rev. A. J. MacGillivray, Guelph; Hon. R. M. MacGregor, New Glasgow, N.S.; and Rev. R. J. Glassford, Winchester, Ont.

As the guests of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and Mrs. Clarke, the commissioners, with their wives and daughters, were received at a garden party at Government House on Saturday afternoon.

Irish Parliament to be Named by King

Dublin, June 6.—King George may have to appoint a parliament from the south of Ireland. He is authorized to do so by the Home Rule Act if the members elected fail to take the oath of office within 14 days after the date fixed for the assemblage of the new Parliament.

This fact is important in view of the announcement that the Sinn Feiners nominated without opposition for the new Parliament, and thus virtually elected, have been accepted by the Irish leaders as constituting the new members of the Dail Eireann, suggesting the probability that they will refuse to constitute Parliament for which they were chosen.

In that event, King George is authorized by the Home Rule Act to appoint a committee consisting of members of the Irish Privy Council and such other persons as he may choose, and constitute these persons a legislative and executive assembly to exercise the functions of the Parliament.

This provision is described by the opponents of the Act as the establishment of Crown Colony government. It is evident that it makes it easy for the government at once to take measures for setting up the Southern Parliament at or near the same time as the Northern. Under this method, Southern Ireland would be governed by a committee of nominated Irishmen instead of at present by nominated British officials.

OTTAWA IS SILENT

Ottawa, June 2.—Official comment upon a report published in a Montreal newspaper to the effect that Lord Byng of Vimy, at one time commander of the Canadian Corps in France, had been offered the office of governor-general of Canada, was unobtainable here to-day. Enquiry both at Rideau Hall and of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen resulted simply in a refusal either to confirm or deny the report. The prime minister said that any statement in theCMFWYP,in— ETAOI statement upon the subject would come in the ordinary way from the British government, which, in accordance with the provision of the British North America Act, would make the appointment.

SPORTING NEWS

Belleville 3—Cobourg 2

On Saturday afternoon at Cobourg, Belleville Grand Trunks started to play baseball in the old-fashioned way and when the dust cleared away the fans saw Belleville walking away with three runs and Cobourg nursing two. Lefty Goyer was in fine shape and Peeny Mills behind the bat made the Cobourg fans feel sick. The infield was snappier than usual and the fielders were unsurpassable. It was wonderful to see Soup Goyer whip the old pill from down on the lake shore to first base. The game was called at 3.30 by Rosevear who, as a square dealer can't be beat. Some of his decisions were unfavorable, but if there weren't a few odd grumblers the game wouldn't look right.

Sparring partners who have entered the ring for workouts with Georges Carpentier declared to-day that Dempsey's chances of winning over the French boxing champion were extremely slim. Jack Goldberg, a welterweight from Panama, who received a bit of punishment in the stable arena yesterday, declared he had never seen such a powerful right hand. "It will fool anybody," he said. "You never know when it is coming and if you do there is no escape. And as for speed, Carpentier has the Twentieth Century Limited looking like a farm tractor." Sam McVey, a negro heavyweight, who has known George since he began his ring career, bore out the statement concerning the strong right arm, and emphatically predicted that Dempsey would experience unconsciousness on July 2.

ANNOUNCE REQUESTS AT ONTARIO SYNOD

Kingston, June 2.—The following legacies were announced at the Ontario Synod session: $400 from the late James G. Birmingham to the Church of Herald Angels, Pittsburg; $6,500 from the late Benjamin O'Loughlin to St. Anthony's, Yarker; $1,000 from Miss Ann Green of Bastard to be divided equally between the widow's and orphans' fund and the diocesan missions funds, and $1,000 to be divided between the widows' and orphans' fund and the mission fund.

Cannon J. W. Jones read to Synod a bequest from the will of the late Chancellor McDonald of Brockville The bequest gave two pews in St Peter's Church, Brockville; $500 in trust with the synod for the rector of this church; $1,000 to the widows' and orphans' fund of the diocese and $1,000 to the M.S.C.C.

BODIES WASHED ASHORE

Budapest, May 31.—Much mystification and considerable alarm has been caused in Budapest by the fact that one or two bodies of human beings bearing unmistakeable traces of violence have been washed ashore daily, for two weeks at a point on the Danube river a short distance above Budapest.

Some of the victims had their feet bound together with wire, others bore many wounds and, in one case, the bodies of two girls with stones tied to their necks.

None of the bodies have been identified. Detectives say that it is evident that passengers on the Danube river are falling victims to murderous hands.

Forced to Fight For His Breath

ALMOST PHYSICAL WRECK, RAFF BUILDS HIMSELF BACK TO VIGOROUS HEALTH

DAVID RAFF
250 N. 59th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

"I had heard a great deal about Tanlac and since trying it myself I can conscientiously say it is the best medicine I have ever seen in all my experience," said David Raff, 250 N. 59th St., Philadelphia, recently. Mr. Raff has lived in Philadelphia all his life and is well known and highly respected.

"My health was all broken up," he explained. "My stomach was all out of order and gave me so much trouble that I actually dreaded to go to the table. I would simply rather go without eating than suffer the awful misery I knew would follow. I would bloat up so with gas that my heart would beat a terrific rate and it seemed sometimes I was being smothered to death. I just had to fight for my breath. My nerves were all undone, I slept poorly and was all the time having headaches that were almost blinding. I lost weight and felt so weak and run-down all over I could hardly do any work.

"Sometime ago a good friend of mine told me he knew Tanlac would help me and he spoke so positive about it that I took his advice. And I can say right now that Tanlac is the first medicine I ever saw that will do exactly what they say it will. Five bottles have the same as made me all over again. I can eat anything I ever could in my life and have gained fifteen pounds in weight. I'm no more nervous than a child, sleep fine and it just makes me feel happy to be enjoying such good health. Tanlac certainly is a great medicine."

POLICE COURT NEWS

One lone drunk was apprehended yesterday.

Five unfortunates, charged with intoxication, who appeared before the Magistrate on Saturday morning, were dealt with in a severe manner. Three were fined $25 and costs, one was fined $15 and costs, and G. O. Gorich, who is a foreigner and has been up several times before, was given one year up on the hill for illegally selling liquor. He said he bought twelve bottles from a man unknown to him and put them in a bag. He took two bottles out and then sank the rest in the water at Victoria Park. If this story is true, maybe some of Isaac Walton's followers will hook the bag, and instead of weeds have ten bottle of hootch.

A vagrant who was taken in charge on Friday night was given six months in Ketcheson's Castle.

protection of you in that case was the one thing in all his life that he was proud of. He declared he would do it over again. He's got into some new religion. I don't know what it is, but it is not exactly orthodox. He says it would have been wrong to punish a man for a thing he regretted as much as you did that act, and that he was glad he yielded to the impulse to help you."

"Oh, George, you don't mean"—

A great sob rose in Hillyer's breast and burst; his red eyes were full of tears.

"He says he is proud of what he did to save you from further trouble," George went on tenderly. "He says if you had gone to prison for life it would have wrecked your career, but that his testimony spared you to go on bettering the world. He's heard a lot about you. He says he runs across somebody every day that you've helped in one way and another, and when I came right out and told him—yes, I told him how near I was to the brink not long ago and how you saved me—when he heard that he actually sobbed and said, 'Bully old man; bully, bully old man!'"

The merchant caught the mane of the horse in his quivering fingers and leaned forward till his face touched the neck of the animal.

"God's good, George; God's good!" he sobbed.

Buckley put his arm on the old man's shoulder caressingly.

"Now get on the horse and ride home," he said. "I want to stretch my legs. They are stiff."

"No!" Hillyer looked up, his face radiant. "You ride. I want to go back in the woods an' pray an' shout. I don't want to go home now. I want to thank my Maker. I may not come to dinner. I'll fast. May God bless you, my boy!"

George mounted the horse, and as he rode away he saw the old man plunge into the woods at the roadside, his hands clasped before him, his lips in motion.

Buckley did not see his employer again until about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Then he came in slowly and sank into his chair at his desk and took up the letters George had left there for him. There was a general droop of despondency on him, and he handled the letters with listless inattention.

"Wheat's still a-climbin'," he said, a little note of gratification in his voice as he allowed a thin market report to flutter from his hand to a wastebasket. "I'm glad o' that, George, fer it backs yore judgment. I wonder what Kenner thinks now."

"Both he and Hanks are urging me to get you to sell," replied the young man.

"Well, you kin bet I won't till you tell me to on yore judgment."

"Well, I can't do that yet, Mr. Hillyer."

Then George saw the old man push back the letters on his desk, half of which he had not opened, and a low, stifled groan escaped his lips. Buckley got down from his high stool and went and leaned over him.

"Has anything happened since I left you, Mr. Hillyer—anything to—upset you?"

The merchant gave him a steady look. "No, I cayn't say anything has happened—anything, at least, like you mean—but my thoughts have happened, George. Fer about a hour after you left me out in the woods I was jest too happy fer anything, but after awhile I got to thinkin'. I got to wonderin' what I was so happy about, anyway, an' the thought come to me like a lick from a club in the dark that it was jest beca'se I 'lowed I was goin' to escape the consequences o' my deed without undoin' it. George, I cayn't never—never—never give back that boy's life, an' he had as much right to it as I have to the content I'm prayin' fer right now. Huh! What difference does it make to—to the dead how much good Hank Williams an' other folks believe I'm a-doin'? How do I know Lynn Hambright hadn't ruther be alive than fer me to be doin' anything?"

Buckley found himself unable to make any reply adequate to the situation. Different thoughts suggested themselves, but he discarded them one by one. Something made him think that the old man would like to be alone, and he took his hat and went out. As he did so Kenner came into the office with some samples of cotton in his hands and threw them into a huge pile that lay like a snowdrift in one corner of the room.

"I've jest dropped on to some'n' I don't exactly like," he said, standing behind the merchant.

Hillyer looked up indifferently.

"It's about George," said Kenner.

"You say it is?" Hillyer brightened visibly. "What about him?"

The cotton buyer sat on the corner of Hillyer's desk and swung one of his slim legs to and fro. "George Buckley stands all right in the society o' this town," he said, "but the boy's at a sort o' turnin' point, Mr. Hillyer. Joe Drake an' some more young men is organizin' a club. It's Major Cranston's idea, an' the major's contributed $25 to help 'em fit up the room. The list o' charter members was lyin' on the show case at Drake's drug store, an' I looked at it. George's name wasn't on it. I'm sure it was jest a' oversight, but I don't exactly like the idea o' havin' George left out o' anything jest right now. Some busybodies mought make capital out of it. Do you see what I mean?"

Hillyer understood, and he nodded knowingly as he rose to his feet. The cloud had left his face.

"You stay here, Jim," he said. "I'm goin' uptown an' look at that list."

He found Joe Drake dusting the bottles on his shelves, and he turned to him respectfully.

"Anything I can do for you, Mr. Hillyer?" he asked.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

I saw on a city billboard, in letters a foot high, "The Super Circus of the Universe." Having heard of supermen and superwomen, supers on the stage and elsewhere, the super circus will be eagerly awaited as a possible improvement upon "The Greatest Show on Earth" of Barnum's day.

A Belleville Old Boy now visiting his former haunts was seeking old friends in the silent places devoted to those who are taking the long rest, and remarked upon the neglected condition of that old burying ground on Dundas street where grass and weeds flourish unchecked and where gravestones stand up at all angles or are scattered on the ground. The visitor expressed the opinion that this resting place of former Belleville citizens should be tidied up and made into a pretty park with flowers and walks, betokening respect for the dead and a lively civic sense of responsibility and pride.

I saw several signs prominently displayed with inscriptions indicating that a school building was nearby and asking vehicle drivers to go slow, reminding them that the legal speed limit in these areas is six miles per hour: It is to be hoped that drivers will not be going so fast that they will be unable to read these signs.

I saw a number of graduate nurses selling tags to raise funds for a modern motor ambulance and it seemed to me that when these ladies will stand all day on the pavement in an effort to ensure the comfort of people, strangers to them, that service above self is not confined exclusively to the Rotary and kindred associations. While there is a great deal of selfishness still left in the world there are many gratifying indications that unselfish community service occupies a large place in the lives of Belleville folks.

GARFIELD'S BROTHER NOT TOLD OF HANGING

Kingston, June 3.—No information can be secured at the penitentiary regarding how Denton Garfield received the news of the hanging of his brother. "As a matter of fact he does not know whether it occurred or not," said an official. "Convicts are not told of outside occurrences. They get their news from new convicts coming in. In time Denton will learn of the execution."

Mrs. Trixie Garfield, the young wife of Denton, arrived here on the early morning train from Toronto and is at a boarding house in the city. Up to this afternoon she had not paid the prison a visit but is entitled to see her husband once a month.

FEW DOMESTIC SERVANTS LEAVE BRITAIN FOR CANADA

Quebec, June 3.—The Empress of Britain, which arrived here yesterday, carried 1,182 immigrants. Quebec Province is to get 100, Ontario 300, and the remainder are headed for points west. Among these immigrants very few were domestic servants. The feeling is that the qualification whereby the immigrant must have $250 is preventing this class from coming to Canada. On board there were not more than 75 of these girls, and the great majority were advanced the money by people anxious to get household help. Fully 50 of the servants are going to Winnipeg.

LATE WILLIAM DAVIES LEFT ESTATE OF $1,500,000

Toronto, June 3.—An estate totalling over $1,500,000 is involved in the will of the late William Davies, which was filed for probate at the City Hall. The principal bequests include grants of $60,000 to McMaster University, of $100,000 to Brandon College conditional upon that institution being able to raise a like amount, and substantial legacies to various missionary activities of the Baptist Church. The bulk of the residue of the estate is then to be divided amongst the deceased's daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) E. T. Fox; her son, E. C. Fox, president of the William Davies Company, and his children.

All the kiddies won't be in the crowds of youngsters who will flock out to the Show Grounds, Monday, June 13, to see the John Robinson circus tents put up, to swarm through the cook tents and the horse tents and the menagerie, to feed peanuts to the ostriches and carry water for the elephants. Lord love you, no. Behind the scenes of the big show, chaperoned by circus daddies and petted by circus mommies, there will be a small army of kiddies—clever kiddies, acrobatic kiddies, kiddies who can "throw somersaults" or "skin the cat" without half trying; kiddies who were figuratively born in the circus and who would have been peeved if they had been born anywhere else. And it is because of this element of youth and joy that goes with the spring-time of life that the John Robinson show is often called "The Circus of Childhood."

But, after all, the children of the circus are much like other children, and the kiddies of the big outside world are just as interesting to them as they are to the youngsters who see in the circus a mysterious world of wonders, into which they are rarely permitted to enter. But now and again the children of the circus hold impromptu receptions in the dressing tent and their little town visitors are regaled with bits of circus dexterity that these tiny tots of the circus world will one day, when they are old enough, present in the "big top", and they depart after this fleeting glimpse of he strange world behind the scenes feeling that they have been favored beyond all kids that were born or ever will be.

The John Robinson circus has its appeal for the children as well as for their elders. For the children there are trained monkeys, and acting dogs, and dancing, whirling ponies, and a baby elephant, and a number of funny little bucking burros. For the grown-ups there are thrilling acts in profusion, in the rings, on the stages and in the air. There are stimulating riding acts, there are flying performances by dare-devil air-acrobats, there is an aerial ballet in which comely young women do the most wonderful posturing while suspended in the air by their teeth, there are startling exhibitions on swaying wires and on balancing ladders, there are three herds of trained elephants, and, finally, fifty clowns have been engaged to provide a constant stream of burlesque fun.

The performances begin at 2 and 8 p.m. The two mile street parade will take place at 10.00 in the morning.

ENGLISH SPEAKING LIBERALS ASHAMED OF YAMASKA.

Hard headed English speaking Liberals are not rejoicing over the result of the by-election in Yamaska. They fear another victory like that would be their undoing. The campaign was not waged upon any Liberal principles, the name of the Liberal leader was never mentioned, except to boast that he had opposed conscription and the Liberal platform of 1919 was not even referred to. The appeal throughout was racial and the one cry was that Yamaska should avenge the injuries done to Quebec by the English speaking provinces during the war.

The victory in Yamaska is interpreted as a protest against the Military Service Act. It is in fact a notification to the rest of Canada that Quebec intends to remain isolated in order to dictate. The voters of Yamaska intend to keep intact the solid Quebec "bloc".

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Ernest Lapoint, and other Quebec Liberal members of parliament, are able man, well qualified to discuss questions of public policy on the floor of the House. In the Yamaska campaign, however, they made no appeal whatever to the intelligence of the electorate, nor did they on a single occasion discuss the political issues upon which the people of the English speaking Provinces are divided. Their sole aim was to drown reason in a frenzy of passion. They depicted Quebec as insulted and despoiled by the English speaking majority and called loudly for a policy of retaliation and revenge.

Just what these Quebec leaders hoped to accomplish by this sort of campaigning is hard to say. It enabled them, it is true, to carry the Yamaska by-election, and it may enable them to return a "solid Quebec bloc" to the next parliament. They seem to forget, however, that a good many people live outside of Quebec, and will have some voice in choosing the next House and in framing the future policy of this country.

What headway can the Liberal party make in the English speaking provinces if it is committed to the support of Quebec in her policy of isolation and revenge? The great majority of the people agree with Premier Meighen in thinking that the past should be allowed to bury its past, and that all Canadians should unite in building up a larger Canada. Their faces are turned towards the future, they are averse to racial hatred and religious disputes. They are anxious to give every Canadian a fair show, whether he lives in Ontario, Quebec, or in the other provinces. They will not be dragged at the chariot wheels of the "hotspurs," who are bent upon keeping the two races in Canada permanently divided.

English speaking Canada is and has been anxious to share with French speaking Canada her rights of Government and every other right—all that ever has been asked is that there be a sharing of obligations as well. No man has striven harder or more consistently to be fair and friendly to Quebec than has the Prime Minister. Those who assert that he has ever used other than the language of courtesy to that province are simply uttering wilful falsehoods. Mr. Meighen has more than once brought them to book and compelled them to retract.

Why is it necessary to maintain a "solid Quebec bloc"?

Judging from the campaign speeches in Yamaska, the "bloc" has no views on the tariff, the national railways or any other economic question. It is to be maintained for the purpose of giving Quebec the balance of power after the next general election. The hope that the Farmers party will carry enough seats to prevent the present Government having a clear majority in the next House is expressed. Then it would be within the power of the Quebec members to make their own terms, and practically dominate the Government.

A. A. Mondou, the Conservative candidate, who was endorsed by the Meighen Government, pleaded with his fellow countrymen in Quebec to forget their real or fancied injuries, and unite with the people of the other provinces in the work of reconstruction. He dwelt upon the necessity of maintaining Canadian industries by reasonable protection. His opponents, however, refused to join issue on any fiscal or economic question. The army of orators brought into Yamaska on behalf of the Liberal candidate invoked the shades of Laurier, denounced conscription, and called upon the electors to wreak their vengeance upon the Meighen Government.

All efforts to join hands with Quebec appear only to make her more resentful. For a long time she was complaining about not having more representation in the Government, but the cry made against Premier Meighen in the Yamaska by-election was that he had offered or was likely to offer places in his Cabinet to representative men from Quebec. This was denounced as "corruption."

Quebec has no real grievance. If she is not more adequately represented in the Meighen Government, it is because she deliberately refuses to be represented.

REFORMING THE PRISONS.

The Minister of Justice at Ottawa has dropped the prison reform bill and the Massachusetts Legislature has indefinitely postponed a measure relating to penal institutions.

Meanwhile Sir Thomas Lipton presents a loving cup to the inmates of Sing Sing and Jack Johnson goes twelve rounds in a boxing bout for the edification of his fellow convicts in Leavenworth sanitarium.

There's all kinds of prison reform.

One that proved to be decidedly unpopular was the cutting out of cigarettes from the daily ration of 25 women federal prisoners transferred from Baltimore to a Rhode Island institution. The women started a riot and nearly did for the matron.

The female proponents of the movement to abolish the use of tobacco may pause when they see what they'd be responsible for. Another blow to the movement is the recommendation of the Canadian Prison Commission to restore the tobacco ration.

Yes, there's all sorts of prison reform, and much of the point of view depends upon whether you're in or out.—Montreal Herald.

Editor Calnan, of the Picton Gazette, and his good wife are taking a trip to the Pacific coast with the members of the Weekly Newspaper Association, which holds its annual convention in Vancouver. THE DIRECT METHOD

Sydney Bulletin

The Allies, who are thirty thousand millions to the bad over the war and the senseless destruction, demanded an indemnity equal to about three and three-quarter thousand millions, though when spread over forty-two years, with moderate compound interest, it came to eleven thousand millions. Still in cash (and they had to pay in cash or kind) they only asked for about one-ninth of their losses. When the first small installment fell due it wasn't paid. Instead, the Huns raised a Bolshevik insurrection—probably a sham insurrection—to emphasize their misery and helplessness, and asked the Allies to suppress it at their own cost. Yet there was money in abundance for local salaries. The wages of German Foreign Office officials were multiplied by 12, and the cost of the Home Office by 75, and of the Post Office by more than 6. The Allies are trying to impress on the Hun that he isn't the victor. A few tons of dynamite may yet have to be dropped on Berlin to give the Hun the first real intimation that he didn't win the war.

AN IMPERIAL CABINET

Westminster Gazette

Mr. Winston Churchill insists that the assembling of the representatives of the Empire this year will be not a Conference, but a Cabinet. That may be the intention, but the position has its dangers. The decisions of Cabinets require ratification by Parliaments, and there may be difficulties where decisions have been carried by a majority of States against a minority which is called upon to endorse the policy adopted. The British Empire does not lend itself easily to a situation of that kind, or to rhetoric or precise definition, and attempts to make the different parts conform to some standard pattern may have precisely the opposite effect to that intended. On the whole, we shall do well to go slowly in the transformation of what has hitherto been an exchange of ideas into something of the nature of an executive assembly, whose decisions will have to obtain consent among a wide variety of peoples whose interests and whose angles of view may not be those of the Mother Country, which must have preponderating weight in the assembly, if only by reason of the fact that it must find most of the money.

The Poets' Corner

THE SONGS OF CHILDREN

No sweeter music e'er was heard
Than children's voices raised in song.
The lucid carol of a bird,
The anthem of a rev'rent throng,
The pleading of a violin—
These sounds were ne'er as sweet as notes
That find the door and enter in
Our hearts; the songs from childish throats.

By other music we are thrilled,
Regret and fear have often been Uprooted, anger has been stilled
By raptures of a violin.
When some great organ peals a hymn
Our burdens seem to fall away,
The malice of the world grows dim;
'Tis joy supreme to kneel and pray.

But, oh! the singing of a child
Is sweeter far than other sounds.
With rev'rence deep and rapture wild
Its eager, throbbing soul abounds.
It heals the sorely wounded heart,
And spans the gulf of doubt, tho' broad,
Endowed by some most holy art,
It teaches man the Love of God.

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 26 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

Dining Room Enjoyment

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 30
By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

Dining room enjoyment waits on appetite, but there are many ravenous who dare not eat. To these the dining room is like the entrance room to a palace of horrors.

Chronic indigestion sufferers are not all dietetic fools, nor gluttons. In fact a healthy stomach, barring abuse, gives no trouble. There are many to whom no change of diet, nor any restriction of quantity makes much difference. They suffer just the same.

The cause of chronic stomach weakness of this character is pressure upon spinal nerves at "stomach place" in the spine. A disturbance of the alignment of joints at this point causes pressure. The result is a stomach weakness that in some cases amounts almost to paralysis. Chiropractic spinal adjustments will restore alignment and remove the cause.

SUFFERED 20 YEARS FROM PILES AND STOMACH TROUBLE.

"I suffered twenty years from chronic stomach trouble and piles. I tried all kinds of drugs, patent medicines and several doctors without permanent relief. In June, 1919, I started chiropractic. I was relieved of my stomach trouble and the piles showed a gradual improvement until well."—J. S. Lumbley, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1266L.

THE MAIN STREET OF NELSON, B.C

The history of the little town of Nelson, British Columbia, is typical of many a western city.

Just over thirty years ago two half-breeds (part Indian, part white) in what is now Washington State, and was then Washington Territory, decided to go out in search of some strayed horses. Many a steer in those days eluded the roundup "outfits"; many a horse looked after itself for a season or two, running wild; but every now and then a deliberate hunt would be made for the runaways. The search for these horses led the half-breeds thirty miles as the crow flies (perhaps double that distance by the windings of the way) into Canadian territory. Still they kept on upon the trail, noting where the strays had loped along in thin woods, broken through bushland, halted to browse in some "pocket" where feed was lush.

When their first supplies were finished the half-breeds did not return, but lived on the "country." They had their saddle and pack-horses, blankets, fishing-tackle, rifles and ammunition. Of the ammunition they were sparing. The "fool-hen", a game-bird of the grouse family, very plentiful throughout these mountains at the season of their trek, can be very closely approached, close enough for a well-aimed stick or stone to save a cartridge. So one of these ranchers took up a handful of stones which he thrust in his pocket as ready missiles for the first fool-hen encountered. They were then about thirty miles north of the boundary —again maybe double that distance in the windings of the way, up hill and down dale. There they found and rounded up the lost horses, and drove them back again to their ranch near Colville in Washington. Home again, while shaking the remaining small stones out of a pocket, and flicking the dust from the corners, one of these half-breeds became highly interesting to an onlooker, a friendly white man with some knowledge of mineral.

"Where did you get these bits of rock?" he said.

The half-breed recalled the day, on the side of Toad Mountain, British Columbia, when he went out after fool-hens. The last splinters emptied from the corners of his pocket were specimens of a high-grade ore, a galena of silver and lead with showings also of gold. Back came the two half-breeds with their friend through the passes and over the ranges, and staked mineral claims on Toad Mountain before saying anything to anyone else. The ore was then exhibited, assessment work begun on the claims, and a company eventually bought out the owners. There was no need to ship out the ore by the long route taken when tracing the horses. From Toad Mountain can be seen the long blue mirror of the West Arm of Kootenay Lake a little way north. That was the natural highway of the neighborhood. It was by the Columbia River and Kootenay Lake that the first ore-seekers (after the find of these two half-breeds became public)-came into the land.

Thirty years or so ago the name of Nelson was simply "the new camp," or "the new camp on the West Arm." There was a big tent hotel there, divided into two portions—joint dining-room and bar, and sleeping quarters. The cook-stove was under a tall cottonwood-tree outside. The dormitory was just a row of little iron cots, each with a chair between; and there was a notice on the canvas wall: "Gents are requested to set on the chairs"—this because the proprietor wished long-life to the bed-springs. Opposite that tent hotel a blacksmith's shop was built. There is one there to-day; otherwise everything is changed. Ward Creek, that ran between the hotel and the blacksmith's is now the city sewer.

Later the camp was called "Salisbury", and was the outfitting, the "jumping-off" place for prospectors going into the mountains. Claims were stalked and sold, and some were worked, some "pinched out", some are still being worked. Lumber companies "logged" the slopes, and saw-mills were erected. The population increased until, to a considerable extent, the inhabitants could live one upon another. Along the valleys came dairy-farmers to supply the town with milk, and small farms to supply it with fruit and vegetables. Mineral and timber, however, are still the visible means of support. There was little rowdyism. The inhabitants somewhat resented the arrival of provincial police, considering themselves well-fitted to be their own police. They saw no objection to a man gambling if he wished to gamble; they permitted liveliness under the influence of whiskey. The gold-commissioner was judge, and when another government man came to Salisbury to see that he did not administer the law too laxly, a deputation of citizens called him a "stool-pigeon", and told him they could look after themselves, and advised him that Salisbury would not be a healthy place for him after the lapse of forty-eight hours. He departed next day.

Eventually they decided it was better to become an incorporated city, and have their own police, than to be dictated to from New Westminister; and under the name of Nelson the city was incorporated. The writer of this nutshell history was just in time to be present at the election of the first mayor (John Houston)—recalls seeing him on the balcony of the Hume Hotel, a tall board edifice near the site of the first tent hotel, and the crowds cheering, to wake the echoes of the mountains: "What's the matter with Houston? He's all right!" Great days—those days of the boom, before automobiles, when the high-saddled cayuses raised the dust in Baker Street with their quick-loping hoofs.

That was when log-cabins had taken the place of the tents, and frame houses were beginning to stand grandly beside the low long shacks. There were livery-stables where prospectors hired horses to carry them into the mountains; there were hardware stores, and clothing stores, chiefly of the "reach-me-down" variety. Then men came with their wives. A jail was built, and there still lives the first guest of that jail. It is one of his claims to be considered an "old-timer". In England a man would hardly be introduced with such an episode in his life, smilingly mentioned, for credential, but here many things are still different. To have been the first prisoner seems as good as to have been the first policeman. A kindly sentiment lingers for those who were in the birth.

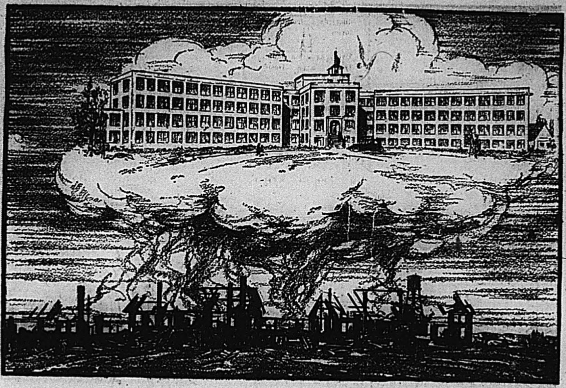
Up from the ashes!



Rebuilding a building to rebuild lives!

ON November 30th last, the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives was destroyed by fire.

On January 14, this year, Sir William Gage, founder of the institution—the one man who had contributed most largely to its support, and for twenty-five years the outstanding friend of needy consumptives—died.

Today, more than ever before, poor, suffering consumptives need your assistance.

Give—give all you can—to the National Sanitarium Association's

Consumptives' Emergency Million Dollar Fund

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, destroyed by fire on November 30th last, must be replaced by buildings, larger and fireproof.

Accommodation is needed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for 400 adults in early stages of the disease. This will restore 250 of them to their homes and loved ones—cured. The remainder will be greatly benefited.

A few months for each patient soon means thousands cared for. Funds are urgently needed for this work.

Again—adults in advanced stages must be treated at the King Edward Sanatorium on the banks of the Humber near Weston. Extensions are necessary. Many of these patients can be saved.

And again—little children—stricken with the dread disease—must be cared for at the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children near Weston. Ninety per cent. of these are saved to become healthy men and women.

Funds are urgently needed to cover the cost of extensions.

Further, funds are urgently needed to carry on the work of The Gage Institute in the City of Toronto, where the needy poor come for free examinations, including X-ray, and for medical and nursing assistance.

Fifteen thousand needy consumptives have been cared for to date at the hospitals conducted by the Association.

CANADA'S TRADE.

Falling Off of Imports During March a Good Sign.

Although the total value of Canada's trade for the fiscal year ending March 31 last was $99,378,297 greater than for the previous year, figures covering the month of March alone show a decided drop in the trade of the Dominion. The grand total of Canadian trade for March of the present year, as shown by figures issued from the Department of Customs and Inland Revenue, was $162,034,704. In March, 1920, this total was $240,716,374. Therefore, for the month of March alone there was a decline in trade amounting to $78,681,670, when comparison is made with the same month a year ago.

A glance at the figures shows that the major part of the reduction is due to a falling off in the value of imports. In March, 1920, Canada imported goods to the value of $142,497,365. Last month the total value of imports was only $92,566,829. This is a decrease amounting to $49,930,536. The decrease in value of domestic exports during the month, as compared with March, 1920, totals $25,040,431. In March, 1920, domestic goods to the value of $93,193,859 were exported from the Dominion, while in March, 1921, the value of domestic exports was only $68,092,428.

The total value of Canadian trade for the fiscal year which ended March 31 last was $2,450,553,175, as compared with $2,351,174,878 for the previous twelve-months period. Goods were imported into the Dominion during the last fiscal year to the value of $1,240,125,056, as compared with $1,064,516,169 in 1919-20, or an increase of $175,608,887. The total value of domestic exports, on the other hand, was $50,328,397 less during the fiscal year just ended than in the previous twelve months. In the last fiscal year domestic merchandise was exported from Canada to the total value of $1,189,163,701, as compared with $1,239,492,098 in the year ending March 31, 1920.

Canadians In the States.

During the last ten years the number of Canadians resident in the United States has fallen off 87,501, compared with an increase of 27,000 in the previous decade. According to statistics just given out by the census bureau, there are now 1,117,136 Canadians living in the United States. French Canadians number 307,681 and show a loss of 77,402 in the ten years, while Canadians of other origin number 809,455 and show a loss of 10,099.

Germany, Austria, Ireland and Russia, natives of which made up more than 59 per cent. of the total foreign-born population of the United States ten years ago, showed very heavy losses, the aggregate falling off being two millions. This result is believed to be due largely to the war, with its consequent exodus of belligerent nationals and the stoppage of immigrants.

Germany leads as the country of birth of the foreign born in the United States with 1,683,298. Italy ranks second with 1,607,458, and Russia third with 1,398,999. Poland occupies fourth place with 1,139,578, an increase of 195,797 in the ten years, while Ireland is fifth with 1,035,380. Canada comes sixth, and England seventh with 812,414, a decrease of 65,305 in the decade.

Sweden continued to hold eighth place with a total of 624,759, and Austria is ninth with 574,959. Scotland has a total of 254,482, and France 152,051. Newfoundland and Australia showed increases.

Candid Criticism.

An inspector of schools had not a pleasant cast of countenance; he was very sensitive when any notice was taken of it. One of his fads was "object lessons," which he thought were the true way of bringing out the intelligence of the children. His method was to name some object, and to ask the children to form sentences about it. On one occasion he made himself the "object." "Look at me," he said to the children, "what am I?" The children looked puzzled, but at last one boy ventured to say, "You're a man." "Quite right! I am a man. Now put an adjective before the noun. What kind of a man am I?" The answer came: "You are an ugly man."

Explorer Gets Coveted Medal.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Canadian explorer, has been awarded the Founders' Medal of the Royal Geographical Society, London, England. Mr. Stefansson, while on a lecture tour in the United States, received a despatch from the secretary of the society, Arthur Parr Hicks, advising that his Majesty the King had approved of the award for his distinguished services to Canada in the exploration of the Arctic Sea. The Founders' Medal fund was established by King William IV. in 1831 to encourage geographical science and discovery.

Seals In Nova Scotia.

Residents along the coast at Sydney, Nova Scotia, enjoyed the unusual opportunity of hunting seals during the early months of the year without having to go more than a stone's throw from the beach. Small stray herds of seals had come down with the northern ice pack and it was a comparatively easy thing for the hunters to kill the animals. Seventeen were shot by one man along Lingan beach in one day.

New Kind of Tam.

Instead of pulling a tam o' shanter cap on and off, why not make a slit from the edge of the brim to the middle of the top, at the back, and adjust it around the head, or remove it therefrom by fastening or unfastening three or four hooks?

This is a suggestion offered by Mildred D. Reynolds, of Clintonville, Wis., who has taken out a patent on the idea.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS CONCLUDE CONVENTION

Peterboro, Ont., June 1.— A banquet to-night concluded the convention of the Ontario State Council of the Knights of Columbus. The morning session was occupied with the election of officers and a number of reports were received at the afternoon session. The council decided to increase the capita tax to one dollar. Part of this money may be used for the publication of a monthly bulletin. It was also decided to levy a special per capita tax to one dollar for the institution of a fund to take care of all general appeals, charitable and philanthropic.

The following officers were elected to the state council: Deputy, Geo. Hanrahan, Windsor; secretary, W. J. McCaffery, Ottawa; treasurer, R. A. Battle, Niagara Falls; warden, John Cellombo, Kitchener.

The next convention will be held in Niagara Falls.

DISABLED EX-SERVICE MEN TO BE GIVEN PREFERENCE

Ottawa, June 1.—On a motion by the Prime Minister, the House decided that a resolution based on the report of the Pensions Committe, to give disabled ex-service men a special preference to employment in the Government service, should be considered when the main bill to amend the Civil Service Act is considered in committee.

Mr. Meighen said he thought it better to embrace all amendments to the Civil Service Ast made this session in one bill.

Hon, Rodolphe Lemieux asserted that he would oppose the main bill, which reverted to patronage. He would vote against it in toto. On the other hand, the resolution involved simple justice to the returned soldier, in which he entirely concurred. He did not approve mingling the two issues.

AUTO COLLISION

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. R. B. Cooper of this city was proceeding along the Trent road in his auto, when, near Mr. Fred Denyes, he had occasion to turn off into a lane which leads to his summer cottage on the Bay shore. As he was turning off the road and had indicated his intention of so doing, a large touring car which was following close behind collided with him. The result of the impact was that a wheel of Mr. Cooper's car was badly damaged and the other car also sustained some damage. Fortunately no person was injured. The touring car is owned by a Toronto resident.

COURT OF REVISION

The Court of Revision will resume its arduous duties to-night when a number of appeals against the assessment for 1921 will no doubt be dealt with.

LOW TEMPERATURE

The probabilities on Saturday indicated that there would be frost that night, but fortunately this section of the county was not visited by one. The lowest temperature reached was 42 and the maximum during Sunday was 66. To-day's temperature showed the minimum during last night to be 48 and this morning the maximum was 69.

DECORATED GRAVES

In connection with the Canadian Order Woodmen of the World Decoration Day, on Sunday afternoon, June 5th, the customary ceremony of decorating the grave of a deceased brother, namely Henry J. Luscombe, who died in August, 1903, was performed. Owing to the fact that the Local Camp has recently reorganized the ceremony was carried out quietly in the presence of some near relatives. The following Sons of Belleville Camp No. 162 attended and performed the ceremony. J. H. Hanna, E. T. Bennett, M. F. Armstrong, F. G. Wells, O. C. Simpson, W. S. Gerow, F. C. L. Yatd, G. A. Taylor and C. B. Sherry.

The decoration consisted of a beautiful wreath inscribed in the centre "W. O. W." and a splendid bouquet of White Carnations. Next year it is the intention of the Local Camp to carry out the decoration in the usual manner.

CAR RECOVERED

Some time ago a McLaughlin car, the property of Mr. A. T. Neal, of Marmora village was stolen in Toronto. A few days ago it was recovered in a rather badly damaged condition. Fortunately Mr. Neal had it insured against theft and accident and the Insurance Company had it thoroughly repaired and put in A-1 condition.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

A serious accident occurred at the Pearce Mill, Marmora village on Thursday afternoon last, in which Mr. George Thompson was badly injured. He was oiling a shaft with the machinery running when in some way his clothing caught. His clothing was torn off him or he would have been almost instantly killed. As it is he is in a very critical condition.—Marmora Herald.

RECKLESS DRIVING

At Trenton on Friday evening last, Messrs. Merker and Dental were before Magistrate O'Rourke to answer a charge of alleged reckless driving. On May 15th the accused were driving a motor truck in Trenton when the machine knocked down and injured some children who were on the sidewalk opposite the Salvation Army Barracks. Dr. Farley gave evidence that the children were not badly injured. Magistrate O'Rourke imposed a fine of $25 without costs on each of the accused.

"JOE GOT OUT OF JAIL"

Jail breaking having been a much talked of subject during the past few weeks it was somewhat of a coincidence that Dr. Cleaver's Story Sermon on "Joseph, The Farmer's Boy" had reached the point where after years in jail he got out—without breaking jail. He vividly pictured Joseph's long term in Pharoeh's jail, his gradual promotion to overseer. His success at interpreting the dreams of the Chief Butler and the Baker and there after long years of trial and preparation by God he emerged to interpret Pharoeh's dream and become the first man of that great land. Joseph did not use any key but the Key of Love to break jail and that is the greatest key in the world to gain our objects with when properly used. Baptismal services were conducted at the Sunday morning service in Bridge street, many parents bringing their babies and children to be Baptized.

ONE YEAR FOR SELLING LIQUOR

Jervia Gorich, a foreigner, was convicted on Saturday before Magistrate Masson of illegally selling liquor. He was given a sentence of one year in jail and will no doubt be taken to the Provincial jail farm. Some months ago Gorich was convicted of a similar offence and spent three months in jail in default of payment of a fine of 1,000 and costs in the present case no fine was imposed.

BAPTIST CHURCH CONVENTION

The annual meeting of the Peterboro Association of the Baptist Church will be held in the Victoria Avenue Baptist church here this week, continuing three days. The first session will be to-morrow afternoon at 1.30.

TAG DAY RECEIPTS

Tag Day for the new motor ambulance which the graduate nurses association proposes to present to the Belleville General Hospital produced the gratifying sum of $503, augmenting the funds for this purpose to about one thousand dollars. It is expected that the city and county councils will make generous grants to the ambulance fund and thus make possible the procuring of a comfortable vehicle to take sick and injured people to the hospital from both city and country. The graduate nurses are to be congratulated upon their persistence and energy in taking up and prosecuting this most worthy project.

CHEESE BOARD OFFICERS

At the meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board on Saturday previous to the boarding and selling of cheese, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Robert Mitchell; First Vice-President—R. J. Campbell; Second Vice-President—G. Nicholson; Secretary-Treasurer—F. J. Knight; Auditors—E. B. Finkle and P. A. Shannon. There was boarded 2037 boxes of cheese principally white and nearly all were sold at 15 9-16c. a slight advance over the price paid a week ago.

VISITED SAND BANKS

Pupils of the senior classes of the Ontario School for the Deaf on Saturday enjoyed an outing to the Sand Banks. The pupils were conveyed to this popular summer resort by autos and the trip was most enjoyable. Some of the teachers were in attendance and were most solictous for the welfare of the children. Dainty luncheons were provided which the children did ample justice to. The outing was one that will be long remembered by those who were privileged to participate in it.

THREE CARD MONTE MEN

Three card monte men, evidently from Montreal, visited Merrickville a few days ago and made a "clean up" of the townspeople, anxious to beat the game. Several hundred dollars were corralled by the visitors who found ready customers. One Wolford township man parted with $140, a Merrickville man with $40, while smaller losses were numerous.

SPECIAL TRAIN

The critical condition of Sir Sam Hughes as the result of his serious illness at Ottawa was illustrated by the fact it was necessary to use a special train to remove him to his home in Lindsay on Sunday. The special left Ottawa over the C.N.R. to Napanee, changing there to the G.T.R to Belleville, and over the Peterboro line to Lindsay. Mr. P. H. Fox, Assistant Superintendent of the C.N.R accompanied the special train from Ottawa to Belleville and saw that everything possible was done to ensure the comfort of the distinguished invalid.

SCOUTS IN TRENTON

Friday afternoon five scouts of the first Belleville Troop left the city to attend the scout conference which was to be held in Trenton. Arriving there they were piloted to the Methodist church where they partook of a sumptuous repast. At the table were about 30 boys and men representing most of the troops in the surrounding counties and also a few distinguished visitors from Toronto and Ottawa. The spread was livened by the singing of Belleville scouts, which showed that their vocal organs certainly didn't need any tuning. Dr. Robertson, Dominion Commissioner then favored them with a talk on his travels in Italy during the war, which was followed by picture slides, showing pictures of a large French Scout Camp which was conducted by the Government during the war. The scouts were guests of the Killarney Inn for the night. Saturday morning Mr. Kemp of Foxboro spoke on the Moral Development of Boys; Mr. Suty of the B.H.S. spoke on Physical Training and answered questions on how to conduct classes in the best methods; also Mr. Callaghan, Scout Executive of Toronto, spoke about badge work, and its advantage. He also answered many questions of scout masters. In the afternoon Mr. Drummond of Bancroft spoke on the arranging of meetings which was followed by the asking and answering of questions by all. The question of a district scout camp was also brought up and further details will be arranged between the scoutmasters.

Are You a Born Advertiser?

Certain merchants get a reputation for being born advertisers.

They may have earned the reputation. They were not born that way. Their particular genius has lain in the fact that, having marvelous faith in the power of Daily Newspaper Advertising, they went ahead with it regardless of immediate results.

They had courage. And the courageous advertiser gets the greatest rewards.

There are those whose temperament is not suited to Napoleonic tactics. Neither will their product or pocketbook permit them to use these tactics even if they were so inclined.

Daily Newspaper Advertising is as another brain to the sales force of these men. It is the one medium from which they get quick and accurate returns; and are so able to repeat their advertisements as often as conditions warrant, and the treasury justifies.

This is particularly true at this time of the year when the season, the weather, the change of fashion, the state of public mind and attitude of competitors, all combine to affect daily sales.

• • • • •

The born advertiser is not necessarily the large space advertiser nor does he have to have more than one thing to advertise.

If he is quick to seize every incident in his daily life and capitalize it in his next day's advertising—the public will soon pay him that tribute of admiration expressed in the words "a born advertiser."

BUILD STONE WALL ABOUT THE U. S.

Washington, June 4.—(By Canadian Press).—Enactment of the agricultiral tariff bill, known as the emergency bill, which has just been completed, is a forecast of what is going to to happen when the measure for the permanent revision of the tariff is adopted.

The rates carried in the emergency bill are so high as to be almost prohibitive and will absolutely shut out imports. It is true that these rates will be scaled down in the permanent bill. For instance the wheat rate, in which Canada is so much interested, will probably be reduced, from 35 cents a bushel to 25 or perhaps 20.

Broadly speaking, however, the rates which are to be fixed in the new permanent tariff schedules will be high. They will be much above the rates of the existing Underwood law and in some cases even higher than those of the old Payne law which was enacted in 1909. In a great many cases, efforts will be made to have them on the same high level as the Payne rates.

A republican member of Congress from the middle west when asked to-day what sort of a permanent tariff bill would be enacted this summer said:

"The new bill will be intended to build a stone wall about the United States."

MUSIC AND DRAMA

CONSTANCE TALMADGE AND HAROLD LLOYD AT GRIFFIN'S

Just to prove that there is more humor in a real story with a humorous theme, rather than in a hysterical pan demonium of flivvers chasing each other over slippery scenery, with policemen falling from the Henry's at each turn in the road, John Emerson and Anita Loos have written "The Perfect Woman", Constance Talmadge's latest starring vehicle. This policy of real human interest stories interspersed with suspense and laughter is the type of story in which Miss Talmadge always appears to such splendid advantage.

"The Perfect Woman," which is the feature attraction at Griffin's Tonight to Wednesday, is the story of Mary Blake, who vamps her way into the home of Jimmy Stanhope, Multi-Millionaire, and supposed woman-hater, bringing a series of amusing and pleasingly thrilling incidents into one of the most novel climaxes ever witnessed.

The many Belleville admirers of Harold Lloyd will be pleased to hear that he is appearing on this same program in one of his new 2-reel comedies "Number, Please" which is said to be highly amusing and original, three other varied plays have been arranged for presentation on the same program.

A PLEASING RECITAL

A recital was given in the school room of Bridge Street Methodist Church, on Saturday evening which was well attended. ORCHESTRA CONCERT

Belleville music lovers will have an opportunity of attending another high grade musical treat on Tuesday evening in Bridge Street Sunday School parlors, as the Bridge Street Symphony Orchestra have arranged this concert to defray expenses incidental to their organization, which has only been a few months, but in that short time they have proven a big musical asset to Belleville. They have given their time and their talents unstintingly and without remuneration to any worthy cause and have supplied practically all the music to the open forum meetings of the Chamber of Commerce.

Modern Sunday School Hope of The Church

Toronto, June 7.—(By Canadian Press)—It is a trite and true saying that the children of a church are its hope, as it may be said of a nation. This is especially true of the Presbyterian Church which is now holding its annual General Assembly in Toronto. One of the most important reports dealt with by the six hundred Commissioners constituting this Presbyterian body is that of the Board of Sabbath Schools and Young Peoples Societies. The importance of the Sunday School as an auxiliary to the Church is had in the fact that the 3,890 Sunday schools of this denomination have an enrollment of over 300,000, thus making a big army of officers, teachers and pupils. The records of this department in 1920 show a healthy increase over the preceding year.

The modern Sunday school is a far different organization than is was even a decade ago. It is more and more being conducted along pedagogical lines with a grading system that is, in part, based upon public school grading. This all makes for increased efficiency in every branch. The Sunday school of to-day, according to this Presbyterian report, is a much wider institution than its predecessors. There are nearly forty thousand on the Cradle Roll where they are getting their first point of contact with the Sunday school and the church. The Home Department is a comparatively recent innovation with nearly ten thousand enrolled. Similarly, the organized Bible class has put new life into the adult end of the Sunday school, with 3,290 recorded to date. Several hundred workers attend teacher training courses. Over one-half of the four thousand schools are neither graded, nor use graded lessons. Definite special instructions is given on Missions, temperance, good citizenship and similar subjects.

It is an interesting fact that over eighty per cent. of the additions to the membership of any church comes from the children and youths. The fact, therefore, that over seven thousand Sunday school scholars came into full communion with the Presbyterian church last year is a significant one, especially as it indicates a considerable increase over 1919. The children and young folks are also relatively generous givers. Their contribution to the Budget and the Raily Day Fund exceeded $130,000.

The Young People's Organizations form another important adjunct in any church. The Presbyterians have three thousand, showing an exceptional increase of nearly a thousand in a year, chiefly due to the organization of older boys and girls into effective working groups under the Canadian Girls in Training courses. Over seventy thousand young people are thus definitely related to this chruch through their societies and clubs.

There is a new Sunday school day in more ways than one. Children are being interested in the world as well as in their own parish through the dissemination of missionary literature. Many Sunday schools and classes contribute directly to the support of a home or foreign missionary. Most of the volunteers for missionary service come from the Sunday school where they receive their first training. Several new lines of social service are also drawing support from the Sunday school, affording a splendid opportunity for an expression of applied Christianity.

The report of the Assembly further revealed a marked degree of expansion and co-operation in the realm of religious education which is more and more becoming co-operative, through the Religious Education Council of Canada.

The speakers at the Assembly who dealt with this department of children and youth were justified in their optimism based upon a marked advance made along practically every line in this important department of Church life and work.

CANADIAN NAVAL SQUADRON LEAVES ON RETURN VOYAGE

Victoria, B.C., June 4.—The cruiser Aurora and the destroyer Patrician of the Canadian squadron, leave here this afternoon on their return voyage to Halifax. The destroyer Patriot, which is undergoing minor repairs, will follow the others on Monday next, picking them up and proceeding with them before they reach the Panama Canal.

LEGAL BERRY BOX

It may be interesting to purchasers of berries to know that the legal quart box should be 5 inches at the top, 4x4 inches at the bottom, and 3 inches deep. The short box—which is not to be allowed this year—is 4¾x4¾ inches at the top, 3½x3½ inches at the bottom, and 2½ inches deep. This berry box question will cause some contention and perhaps some prosecutions.

Boys Help to Fight T.B. Scourge

TRAIL RANGERS AND SCOUTS WORK FOR NATIONAL HOSPITALS

"More cots for little tots", is one of the appealing slogans of the campaign to raise a million dollars emergency fund for the National Sanitarium Association which is fighting tuberculosis in Canada. One of the sanitariums is devoted to children, and many little lives are saved from the scourge, ninety per cent. being complete cures. Funds are also needed to rebuild the free hospital for consumptives at Gravenhurst destroyed by fire last November, and the other institutions managed by the association.

Belleville will do its share in this worthy charity, which is more than a charity, being a protection against the spread of this disease and an insurance policy on every Canadian home against tuberculosis. The Boy Scouts and Trail Rangers under direction of Angus Buchanan will undertake a house-to-house canvas for this fund and any amount, large or small, will be gladly received and acknowledgements made from time to time through the press of the contributions. Barn and Contents Burned by Lighting

LOSS AMOUNTING TO SEVERAL THOUSANDS PARTIALLY COVERED BY INSURANCE

Port Hope, June 6.—During an electric storm on Sunday afternoon, Mr. Lew Buckley's barns, on the 4th Concession of Clarke, were struck and burned to the ground. The barns were in an L Shape, comprising stables, implement houses, etc. Mr. Buckley and family were absent in Bowmanville at the time but the hired boy, with commendable courage, managed to free all the horses in the stable, other stock being out at pasture. The spread of the flames was so rapid that all the farming machinery was burned, also a quantity of grain and hay. The loss is heavy. There was an insurance of $1,600 on the buildings and $1,200 on implements.

At the graveside words of eulogy for the dead leader were feelingly expressed, and Mr. W. F. Nickle, who was one of the few Kingstonians to be of the funeral party on the funeral train coming from Ottawa, recalled that memorable trip.

Bottoms False In Grain Tanks

STARTLING CHARGES AGAINST GRAIN GROWER'S GRAIN COMPANY

Fort William, June 6.—Accusations against the Grain Growers' Grain Company and their employees were levelled at a special session of the Grain Enquiry Board, which opened this morning in the Grain Exchange here, in the course of which an affidavit was filed, signed by James Kittredge, millwright of the company, claiming he had been directed by Foreman Murdock McKay to put false bottoms in elevator tanks in 1913, just before the official weigh-up in 1913.

Other charges registered against the company by R. J. Henderson, formerly superintendent of the Grain Growers' Elevators, and now conducting a grain business of his own, were:

That he had accused the company of this practice;

That he had accused the company, and especially J. R. Murray, that the firm had transferred profits from the account of the Terminal Elevator to the export branch, amounting to $50,000;

That while he was with the company he had been asked to do the same thing and had refused, because it was against the Grain Exchange rules and a criminal practice;

That he had accused J. R. Murray, company's representative, of shipping two million bushels of wheat in 1912 and 1913 without warehouse receipts, which were not forthcoming until almost a year afterwards;

That the wheat so shipped belonged to people who were storing it on the elevator;

That he had accused the United Grain Growers with not giving the C. P. R. credit for a matter of 40,000 bushels.

Britain Wili Collect Canada's Bills in Europe

MATTER PLACED BY CANADIAN HIGH COMMISSIONER IN HANDS OF BRITISH TREASURY AS REGARDS LOANS ADVANCED TO GREECE AND ROUMANIA—WILL PRESS FOR PAYMENT OF INTEREST ON WAR CREDITS.

LONDON, June 7.—The collection of interest on Greek Government bonds covering a credit of $25,000,000 granted by Canada to encourage trade, has been placed by the Canadian High Commissioner here, Sir George Perley, in the hands of the British Treasury for recovery in connection with the interest on British loans to the same country.

The same course has been followed with regard to Roumanian bonds, interest on which is also in default.

It is considered that especially in view of the present European situation, pressure from Great Britain, particularly in the case of Greece, would be more effective than from Canada, which is so much further away and accordingly, the co-operation of the British authorities has been invoked.

Pullman Porter Saved Lives of Passengers

AIDED WOMEN AT RISK OF HIS LIFE WHEN PULLMAN OVER-TURNED

Pueblo, Colo., June 6—Twenty-three dead is considered the minimum death toll among the passengers of Denver & Rio Grande train No. 3 which was upturned by the flood waters of the Arkansas River in sight of the Union Station here Friday night.

T. T. Robinson, 50, a civil engineer from Kansas City, and a tourist on the ill-fated train, is authority for the statement. He declared that a few minutes before the coaches went over on their sides that 93 passengers were on board. When a count was made of the rescued at the Nuckolls packing plant the next day, only 70 could be located.

Robinson said the train carried four Pullmans. He was riding in the third one.

"We were in sight of the station," Robinson continued, "when the water crept up on us. We suddenly stopped. Our lights went out and it was pitch dark, except for the concurrent flashes of lightning.

"The car began to wobble back and forth, followed by a crash, and our car toppled slowly over on its side. Hastily we broke through the windows in the top. Our Pullman porter, a negro, proved himself a real hero in that emergency. Heedless of his own danger, he boosted the girls and women up on top.

"Once on top we were comparatively safe. Through the long night hours we sat there huddled together, unable to be heard because of the deafening roar of the torrent. At dawn rowboats were seen approaching and we were removed to safety. I cannot believe that everyone on that train escaped from that night of terror alive."

Ulster Parliament Opens Only Unionists Present

NATIONALISTS AND SINN FEIN MEMBERS ABSENT FROM OPENING SESSION OF PARLIAMENT OF NORTHERN IRELAND ELECTED LAST MONTH UNDER NEW HOME RULE MEASURE — FORTY UNIONIST MEMBERS TOOK THEIR SEATS.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

BELFAST, June 7.—The Parliament of northern Ireland, elected last month under the new Home Rule measure, was opened this morning amid impressive scenes, in the Council Chamber of the City Hall, here. None of the Nationalist or Sinn Feiner members elected were present as the forty Unionists took their seats and proceeded to the organization of the House. The ceremony occurred in the presence of a distinguished gathering. Hugh O'Neill, son of Lord O'Neill, was unanimously elected Speaker.

The Premier, Sir James Craig, announced the following Cabinet:

Home Secretary—Sir Dawson Bates.
Minister of Finance—H. M. Pollock.
Minister of Education—Marquis of Londonderry.
Minister of Labor—J. M. Andrews.
Minister of Agriculture—Hon. E. A. Archdale.

The City Hall, although architecturally one of the finest buildings in Europe, was hardly adequate for the installation of Parliament. Nevertheless, the company gathered to witness the opening ceremonial appeared thoroughly representative of the northern province, Cardinal Logue being the only notable absentee. It was the first ceremony for Viscount Fitzalan, the new Viceroy. There was little outward display of public interest, as the shipyard men and population in general were apparently reserving any demonstration of note for the expected coming of King George for the state opening of Parliament on June 22.

New Public School Again in Limelight

Conference Between Members of Council and Board of Education Nothing Definite Accomplished

All the members of the city council excepting Aldermen Woodley and Adams met in conference Monday evening with the following members of the Board of Education: Messrs. A. McGie, Chairman; G. T. Woodley, C. Whalen, W. B. Riggs, H. W. Ackerman, J. A. Higgs, C. M. Reid, D. V. Sinclair, W. R. MacCreary, F. S. Deacon, C. F. Wallbridge and Dr. Marshall. For upwards of two hours a general discussion took place in reference to the proposed Coleman Ward school, but nothing definite was done.

Mr. McGie, chairman of the Board, was voted to the chair and spoke at some length on the necessity there was of having this school built at once. He also referred to the site selected, claiming it was the best that could be secured and was all right. The Board did not desire to force the Council in the matter, even though it could, hence this meeting was held to see if a compromise could not be made.

Mayor Hanna—The school is a necessity and I am in hearty support of it, but the majority of the Council has given the matter a six months' hoist.

Ald. Bennett—I signed a notice to attend a meeting to consider vacancies on the School Board and the question of teachers salaries, on which matters the Council could take no responsibility. The Council had gone as far as it could at present in regard to the Coleman Ward school.

Solicitor's Opinion

Mr. W. J. Diamond, the Secretary-Treasurer of the School Board, also its solicitor being called upon gave his legal opinion on the matter. He outlined what the Board had done in the matter and the requisition presented to the Council was proper. The huthorities say that the Council cannot postpone the matter if the Board press it, and the second and third reading of the Bylaw should not be delayed. When the Board made the demand for the money it was the Council's duty to raise it. The Council has endorsed the requisition by giving the Bylaw a first reading. He could not see how the Council could go back on the matter. The only interest the Board has in the matter is to make the requisition and the Council has to provide the money. Personally he would like to see a compromise in the matter.

Some of the Aldermen suggested that the School Board call for new tenders, believing that if this were done the school could be built for a much lower figure than it is proposed to be built for. They also gave their reason for the faith that was in them for taking the stand they had in the council in regard to the matter.

The conference ended in nothing definite being apparently accomplished.

Edward Foley and Patrick Maher went to their doom for the murder of a Royal Irish Constabulary Sergeant at Knocklong while Constable William Mitchell was executed for the murder of Magistrate Dixon of Dunlevin, County Wexford.

Time Limit on Speeches at Assembly

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Toronto, June 7.—The Presbyterian General Assembly is beginning to show restlessness under a plethora of argument and eloquence on the question of church union, and a ballot on the issue is looked for this afternoon. Just before adjournment for luncheon voices were heard from all sides calling for an immediate vote, but the Moderator said he did not think it advisable to take the vote yet. When the morning sederunt opened the Assembly decided by a vote to limit each man to ten minutes, and the result was a series of rapid-fire speeches which greatly enlivened proceedings. All the anti-unionist speakers this morning, it was noticed, advocated another vote of the people on the issue, and it is not improbable that the Assembly will find a way out of the present situation by such a course, or by referring it to the provincial synods for a vote.

500 Dead in Colorado Floods Is Estimate

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,

Pueblo, Colo., June 7.—The known dead from Friday's flood in Pueblo totalled fifty-five today, when three additional bodies were recovered. The chairman of the city relief committee said that the estimate of five hundred killed "was as good as any." A committee of real estate men today estimated the property damage in Pueblo at between fifteen and twenty millions.

A $1,500 FINE JUST BORES TAXI DRIVER

Windsor, June 6.—Jay Kune, a taxi-driver living at 242 McKay avenue, paid a $1,500 fine in Police Court for liquor violation. The money was paid in bills of $100 denomination and when he finished counting it out to the clerk, just sauntered out of the courtroom with an air of being thoroughly bored by the whole proceedings. He is only 20 years old.

King's Birthday List Of Honors

PEERAGE CONFERRED ON SIR HENRY DALZIEL, JOURNALIST

London, June 6.—Earl Curzon of Kedleston, the British Foreign Minister, becomes Marquis Curzon, as he is among those on the King's birthday honors list.

The official announcement says the new title is being conferred for its recipient's "war services".

One of the most notable features in the honors list is the conferring of a peerage on the Right Hon. Sir Henry Dalziel, Bart., until lately a member of Parliament for Kircally. He is wholly a self-made man, emerging from obscurity in London 35 years ago as a free lance journalist in Fleet Street, with a speciality for reporting radical and political meetings in South London.

Until Premier Asquith and Lloyd George split, he continued to be a strong radical, but attached himself to the present Prime Minister and gradually forsook all his earlier principles. In the nineties he became London correspondent for the Scottish leader, a Gladstone organ, which had a short life, but Dalziel, being of an enterprising disposition, utilized his position to get into Parliament.

The Kircaldy seat became vacant, and Sir Henry, hearing the Liberal Party managers were in difficulties over the conflicting claims of the different aspirants, went boldly to the Liberal whips, told them he hailed from the borough, and if they would pay his expenses he would secure the representation of the constituency for them.

He won the seat and thereafter distinguished himself in the House of Commons as a radical stormy petrel.

At the same time he developed a gift for newspaper brokerage and secured an option on the Weekly Despatch, which he sold to Lord Northcliffe. Soon after this he obtained control of Reynold's newspaper, then a revolutionary republican organ, which he still directs, although its policy has been modified to suit his later views. His biggest coup was the formation of the syndicate which bought the Daily Chronicle in Mr. Lloyd George's interest. He also formed the syndicate which bought the Pall Mall Gazette for the same purpose.

Sir Henry retired from Parliament some months ago on the ground of ill-health. He is un-married, and therefore the peerage is virtually only one for life.

Another newspaper proprietor, William Edward Berry, owner of the Sunday Times, also a coalition organ, has been made a Baronet, as has Sir Charles Sykes, who put up a large share of the $8,000,000 needed to buy the Daily Chronicle for the Premier.

The Lord High Chancellor, Lord Birkenhead, has been made a visports made by the Agricultural Rep-

HAD A BOTTLE—BUT 'TWAS FOR WATER

Toronto, June 7.—There was a comedy passage in the Presbyterian General Assembly when Rev. Principal E. H. Oliver, of Saskatoon College, was telling about conditions in western Canada. He said he had travelled many miles with a friend in a 40 below zero temperature to reach a preaching appointment where there were a dozen people to listen.

"We had a bottle between us," said he, speaking of the cold drive that he and his friend had. At this the assembly broke into a roar of laughter, and waiting until it subdued Dr. Oliver added—"a hot water bottle."

Across the way he could hear the singing from a Methodist mission with another dozen, the minister having to travel the same long, cold trail. "Church union means a great saving in foot-warmers," commented Dr. Oliver.

He told of a Presbyterian cleric in the West who opposed union, and declared that he "might have to live with the Methodists in heaven, but he would not preach to them here on earth." Yet he is now holding a union church appointment and his salary had been raised by $700 since union.

Wedding Bells

BARRETT—O'ROURKE

St. Michael's church was the scene of a very pretty June wedding this, (Tuesday) Morning at 9 o'clock, when Edna, eldest daughter of Edward O'Rourke, was united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony to Thomas Barrett, son of Mrs. Margaret Barrett, both of this city. Rev. Father Killeen performed the ceremony. The bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her father, looking very dainty and charming in a suit of fine taupe serge, one button style opening over a beautiful white blouse of French georgette, Hudson Mink Martin choker, with picture hat of Harding blue taffeta, faced with white straw, and trimmed with French flowers of blue and tangerine, wearing strap pumps of black suede, he flowers being white roses. Miss Lena O'Rourke, sister, assisted the bride, and looked charming in a gown of grey taffeta trimmed with alf, carrying a beautiful bouquet of pale pink roses wearing ivory mohair hat, with French wreath of peach and blue flowers and French blue ribbon streamers. Mr. Norbert Barrett, brother of the bridegroom, performed the honors for the groom.

Mrs. James Grant presided at the organ, Miss K. Bawden sang "O Salutaris" during the offertory, while Mr. Harold Barrett sang "Because" at the [illegible] of the Register.

Upon the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, 118 Pinnacle street, where about forty guests were present at the wedding breakfast which was served a la buffet style, girl friends of the bride assisting as waitresses. The chandelier above the bride's table was decorated with a huge bow and streamers of white satin ribbon.

The wedding cake, which was three stories high, looked exquisite, having four tiny doves, one perched gaily on each corner of the top layer, occupying the place of honor in the centre of the table. Roses were the form of decoration throughout.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett left on the 2-56 G. T. R. train for Chapleau and will visit friends in Toronto en route. At Chapleau they will be the guests of Mr. Barrett's twin-sister, Mrs. Rodolph Serre. Upon their return they will take up their residence at No. 10 Patterson street, City.

The gifts received by the happy couple were many and beautiful, testifying in a most pleasing and substantial manner to the esteem in which both the bride and groom are held in the city and locality.

The groom's gift to the bride was a check, to the bridesmaid, a lovely silver mesh bag, and to the groomsman, a pair of K. of C. cuff links.

Guests present from outside points were Miss M. O'Rourke, of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Anna Kearns of Rochester, N.Y., aunts of the bride.

Reds Routed from Private Home

CONSTANCE TALMADGE'S VICTORY OVER ANARCHISTS SAVES LIFE AND WINS LOVE OF FRIGID ROMEO

There is something very humorous about a time-bomb, providing that you don't happen to be the one who is sitting over it. For more than a decade two very famous German kids have been appearing in the comic section of certain Sunday newspapers amusing thousands with pranks played upon their old man, in which firecrackers and dynamite have an important role. The kids never grow older, but every week the old boy gets a nasty jolt from three or four pounds of mis-applied dynamite, and the kids are soundly thrashed.

Those little kids are like the three terrible Bolshevists who entered the home of Jimmy Stanhope one night with a very efficient time-bomb, gagged and tied Jimmp in his chair, placed the little toy at his feet, and leered into his face. You can imagine Jimmy's feelings at the time. They didn't mean any harm, from a Russian standpoint; they were only going to blow Jimmy out of his chair for making some very pertinent remarks about the Lenine and Trotzky regime.

The three of them were so pleased with the success of their undertaking they immediately made an attack on Jimmy's liquor, leaving one Red who wasn't so thirsty to watch Jimmy, and after each one of the Reds got through toasting the other the fun began.

Had these three men been Frenchmen instead of Russians they would have "sought the woman," but instead they were drinking blissfully when Mary came downstairs, and, Oh, Boy! the fun did begin, as you also will witness if you see "The Perfect Woman," starring Constance Talmadge, which is the feature attraction at Griffin's the first three days of this week.

Harold Lloyd is appearing on the same program in a highly amusing 2-reel comedy, "Number, Please!" A Fox News Weekly, a beautiful and interesting Burton Holmes Travelogue showing scenes in Liege, Belgium, and a gripping 2-reel drama of life in the mountainis of Kentucky are being exhibited on the same program in addition to the feature offering.

Business Well Maintained By Merchants Bank of Canada: Substantial Gain in Deposits

Profit and Loss Account Shows Satisfactory Profits for Year—Surplus of $293,375 Carried Forward After Payment of Dividends and Bonus —Current Loans Amount to $112,000,000.

The strength of the Canadian banking system during the period of deflation is strikingly reflected by the statements of the larger Canadian banks. The annual report of The Merchants Bank of Canada, details of which have been publishedde.... fin which have been made public, is the first of the larger banks to make its appearance for the fiscal year to April 30th.

This covers almost the twelve months during which deflation has progressed throughout the country, and on this account it will be of special interest to shareholders of Bank to know that its business has been so well maintained. During the war period, as is well-known, all the Banks undertook special business for the Governments. For the past year there has been a general tendency to adjust these special undertakings and to go back to normal lines of business.

The Merchants Bank is particularly interested in the growth and development of Canadian commerce, agriculture and industry. On this account its business is closely related to the whole general public of the country. There will be special interest to see whether during the period of deflation and lessened industrial activity the people of the country have been able to keep on adding to their savings. As far as the Merchants Bank is concerned, its clientele have been able to do this, as deposits bearing interest at the end of the fiscal year amounted to $120,904,549, an increase of approximately $6,000,000 for the year.

Notwithstanding the changed conditions and the lessened requirements of customers, current loans have been well maintained. These now stand at $112,269,195. Of this amount current loans and discounts in Canada total $109,183,592 and loans to cities towns, municipalities and school districts $3,085,602.

Of the total assets of $190,367,409, liquid assets amount to $69,427,380. Included in them are Dominion and Provincial Government Securities amounting to $11,039,325, up from $7,893,229 in the previous year, while Railway and other Bonds, Debentures and Stocks stand at $5,020,059, as against $4,507,688. Canadian Municipal Securities and British, Foreign and Colonial Public Securities other than Canadian amount to $13,153,757, practically the same figure as a year ago.

During the year the Capital of the Bank was increased to $10,500,000, up from $8,400,000. In the same period the Reserve Fund has also increased to $9,450,000, up from $8,400,000.

The Profit and Loss Account also contains a number of interesting features. Even during the period of lessened activity, all the dividends have not only been comfortably earned, but the Bank has, in addition, been able to pay a bonus to shareholders. Profits for the year amounted to $1,402,820. In addition there was received as premium on new stock $1,050,000. The amount brought forward from the previous year was $260,774. This made the total amount available for distribution $2,713,595.
Dividends and Bonus $1,273,635
which was appropriated as follows:
Government War Tax on Note Circulation 96,585
Transferred to Reserve Fund from Premium on New Stock 1,050,000 leaving a balance to be carried forward of $293,375.

The principal items in the general statement of assets and liabilities show as follows:

Total assets	$197,387,855
Liquid assets	69,427,380
Current Loans	109,183,592
Loans to cities, towns, municipalities, etc.	3,085,602
Deposits not bearing interest	28,733,821
Deposits bearing interest	120,904,549

In one of the trained animal displays with the John Robinson circus, which exhibits in Belleville, Monday, June 13, baby elephants, tiny ponies and big dogs give, it is said, a remarkable illustration of what can be accomplished by skill and persistency in training dumb animals. These three dissimilar animal groups go through their clever stunts with the precision of soldiers on parade, and with an eagerness that suggests that they actually enjoy their work.

This, however, is only one of the many clever trained animal displays announced for the John Robinson circus. There are three herds of wonderful performing elephants; there are funny little borros that buck under the weight of a rider just like genuine Wild West bucking bronchos; there are ponies that go spinning on a whirlwind angle like equine tops; there are monkeys that ride like dogs, and dogs that ride ponies and baboons that drive tiny Roman chariots drawn by swiftly-speeding canines, and dogs that balance on their hind legs on swiftly-swaying swings, and other exhibitions of trained animal intelligence to delight the youngsters and to interest the grownups.

There are also thrills galore. There are air-acrobats who go flying across the great arena; gymnasts who perform every known feat of acrobatism; bareback equestriennes, whirlwind riders, an entire congress of aerial butterfly dancers, and, not least, fifty clowns, to slip an occasional bit of burlesque and jollity into the varied program. There are times, it is announced when the three rings, the two stages and the broad esplanade are filled with these merry followers of Momus, so dear to the hearts of childhood.

Circus day will be inaugurated with a new and novel two mile street parade which is scheduled to leave the exhibition grounds about 10.00.

STARVING IN MONTREAL

Children Unable to Attend School For Lack of Clothes

Montreal, June 6.—That actual starvation is bein experienced in Montreal to an extent which the public little dreams was the statement issued to-day by the Family Welfare Association, formerly the Charity Organization Society. "Men come to see us starving," said one official "and it is impossible for us to help them. Men who were out of work during the winter months were struggling against debt, since the relief given by the city consisted only of food and clothes and other necessities hard to be obtained.

Cases of children being unable to attend school for lack of clothes are common. Malnutrition is becoming terribly frequent, said another official.

SHOT FOR SELLING MILITARY SECRETS

Warsaw, June 6.—Lieut. Henry Iwanicki, of the Polish Flying Corps, convicted by a court-martial of high treason in disposing of military secrets to men who were alleged to be British agents, was executed Friday by a firing squad at the famous Warsaw Citadel.

Lieut. Iwanicki, who was employed at the War Office, was accused of stealing mobilization and other military plans for British representatives, mobilization and other military plans dor British representatives. The court-martial last three days.

Soon after the speech delivered in the House of Commons by Mr. Lloyd George, in which the British Prime Minister criticized Poland for not preventing the Upper Silesian insurrection, several Poles, accused of being employed by British intelligence agents, were arrested by the Polish military authorities, Lieut. Iwanicki being one of these. The others are now being held for trial.

Is my mamma coming back?

"MAMMA" always came back to her little girl at the day nursery—after her day's work at the factory was done.

But since Marjory came to the orphanage—well "mamma" hasn't come back—yet!

But she is coming back—happy, and in good health—coming back from the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives — where free treatment, provided in the pure air of the pine forests, brought roses back to mother's pale cheeks.

Won't you help bring home "mammas" to little girls like this?

Your opportunity is the National Sanitarium Association's

Consumptives' Emergency Million Dollar Fund

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, destroyed by fire on November 30th last, must be replaced by buildings, larger and fireproof.

Accommodation is needed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for 400 adults in early stages of the disease. This will restore 250 of them to their homes and loved ones—cured. The remainder will be greatly benefited.

A few months for each patient soon means thousands cared for. Funds are urgently needed for this work.

Again—adults in advanced stages must be treated at the King Edward Sanatorium on the banks of the Humber near Weston. Extensions are necessary. Many of these patients can be saved.

And again—little children—stricken with the dread disease—must be cared for at the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children near Weston. Ninety per cent. of these are saved to become healthy men and women.

Funds are urgently needed to cover the cost of extensions.

Further, funds are urgently needed to carry on the work of The Gage Institute in the City of Toronto, where the needy poor come for free examinations, including X-ray, and for medical and nursing assistance.

Fifteen thousand needy consumptives have been cared for to date at the hospitals conducted by the Association.

ACTED AS A SPY.

Man Arrested Recently Who Caused Trouble In the Army.

James Valmorten, alias James Morton, alias James W. Burr, was arrested by London detectives recently as a German spy and is wanted by the Cleveland police as an alleged bigamist and embezzler. The [illegible] declaration of the British vice-consulate at Cleveland that Valmorten was paid by the German Imperial Government to come to London from Pittsburg to enlist in the [illegible] Battalion has caused a shock in Canada and by many the revelation is accepted as an explanation of the various disorders which occurred from time to time while the battalion was in training in London.

For some unknown cause the discipline of the battalion was steadily undermined while the corps was being prepared for overseas service and at length clashes with the civil police and disobedience of commands of camp officers became a nightly matter. Two or three men usually appeared as the ring leaders in fomenting trouble that at length led to rioting in the down-town business district. Police were stoned, store windows were smashed and at length the police station was stormed by a mob. Stern measures were taken by district military headquarters to restore order and the regiment was removed to Quebec. There fresh troubles developed during which a cafe proprietor was shot dead by a man who was subsequently sentenced for manslaughter.

"We never found any evidence that German spies were in the [illegible] but it was never possible to discover the source of the trouble in the battalion," said Lt.-Col. W. A. McCrimmon, who was one of the senior officers on the headquarters staff during the war.

Breeding Reindeer.

A reindeer experiment station is to be started next summer at Unalakleet, Alaska, for the scientific breeding of this valuable animal. It is expected that by this means the stock can be markedly improved, and one project in contemplation is the crossing of the domesticated reindeer with the wild variety native to Arctic America.

A cross with the caribou is doubtless practicable, and should increase the size of the reindeer. Thus the animal would produce more meat—a matter of no small importance, inasmuch as the north country will in the near future furnish great supplies of reindeer meat for consumption in Canada and the United States.

The first domesticated reindeer brought to Alaska were imported in 1892. In all, 1280 were brought across from Siberia. There are now in Alaska 200,000 of the animals, 70 per cent. of them being owned by Eskimo, for whose benefit—to provide them with food, clothing and other necessaries—the enterprise was originally undertaken.

Reindeer require no shelter and procure their own food, most of the latter being furnished by mosses.

The buck reindeer is polygamous. Hence it is necessary to preserve only a minor percentage of the males, and 100,000 have been killed in Alaska during the last few years for food and skins. No female is ever intentionally killed. The herds double numerically every three years, and, at the present rate of increase, there should be 10,000,000 reindeer in North America twenty years from now.

Old Documents.

The early records bearing on Canadian history are being searched at the British Record Office by counsel for Newfoundland and the Province of Quebec in connection with the Labrador boundary dispute, which is to be heard by the Privy Council. Documents dating back to the sixteenth century are being consulted to determine the historical rights to that rock-bound land. An interesting discovery, which goes another hundred years further back in history, is that Labrador is really not Labrador at all, but Greenland. Research made in London, Paris, and Spain by Harry Biggar, Dominion Archivist in Europe, has disclosed the fact that until the middle of the sixteenth century the name Labrador meant Greenland and commemorated the wide awakeness of John Fernandez Labrador, or land owner, who as a member of John Cabot's crew, was the first to sight this island. The country now the subject of the dispute was in those days known as "Corte Reall Land," but lost its name through the carelessness of map makers.

No Way of Telling.

There recently entered the office of a Toronto dentist a most extraordinary looking youth, very loudly dressed and wearing a most vacant expression. His hat was forced down upon his ears so that they stuck out at right angles and he made known his troubles in a low murmur utterly devoid of emotion. "I am afraid to administer gas," whispered the dentist to his assitant, when it was ascertained that the youth wanted a tooth extracted. "Why so?" asked the assistant. "How," demanded the dentist, "am I to know when he is unconscious?"

The Habitants.

The habitants were the real colonists of New France who settled in Quebec as distinct from the Coureurs de Bois or bushrangers and trappers. The name given to habitants indicates that they were looked upon as permanent residents, who to-day constitute the bulk of the population of the Province of Quebec.

A Difference.

Delia—"So you have broken your engagement! And, I suppose, of course, you returned that lovely ring?"

Cecilia—"Well, no; that wouldn't be reasonable. While I no longer like George, I admire that ring quite as much as ever, you see."

YAMASKA FIRES THE HEATHER
REVENGE FOR CONSCRIPTION.

The result of the election in Yamaska may make history in Canada. It certainly gives much food for serious thought on the part of all who really love their country and wish to see it develop in peace and harmony. That the fight was won, and so overwhelmingly, by the Liberals on the cry of revenge and resentment is much to be deplored by all true Canadians. It is an extraordinary situation. The comparatively young leaders of Liberalism in the Province, lacking the moderate counsel and restraining hand of elder statesmen, seem (judging from speeches made during the campaign) to be animated by a frenzy of resentment towards the English-speaking people for their action in bringing about conscription. True it is, they try to blame Premier Meighen alone, but the Premier is no more responsible than Mr. Crerar or Mr. Calder, or the Hon. A. K. MacLean, or any of the other Liberal leaders who joined the Union Government; no more responsible than any of the hundreds of thousands of people who rolled up such a tremendous majority, to help save Canada and the Empire, and so it is that the condemnation of the French Liberals is a condemnation of all those who supported the Union Government. It is a most dangerous game, none more dangerous. We doubt if the men who are playing it so assiduously have given any consideration to the ultimate consequences. They seem to be carried away, to be quite obsessed with a passionate desire to humiliate and punish the men who disagreed with them when all that was vital in life, when all that was worth living for, was at stake. If these leaders of French Liberalism imagine for a moment that they can, with their solid bloc threat, compel the men who voted for conscription to admit that they were tyrannical and wrong, sad disillusionment awaits them. Never was the conscience of the British-speaking people in this country, and, indeed, of numbers of our French speaking compatriots, more stirred than it was during the election of 1917, and never did the common conscience of Canadian stock rise more gloriously to an occasion. Some Quebec politicians seem unable to grasp these truths, or to realize that the attitude of the thoughtful English-speaking people towards Quebec in 1917 was one more of genuine regret than of anger; nor do they appreciate that with these English-speaking people at that time it was a question of right rallying to right, irrespective of political affiliations, than which there is no more powerful and honorable motive. When conscription was adopted the British race had its back against the wall, was in a death grapple with the German, and every ounce of its power had to be exercised. The way the great body of English of Canada felt about it then and feel about it now is that it would have been to their everlasting disgrace and dishonor if they had taken any other attitude. These ideas should be borne well in mind by the people of Quebec, and not viewed lightly, but rather sympathetically.

No time could be worse for indulging in fatuous political games of the kind played in Yamaska, which lead nowhere. Never were material conditions more serious; never was there greater necessity for the best minds in the whole community, whether English or French, or any other nationality, standing and working together to solve the tremendously difficult problems staring us in the face. Is the view to be accepted that the French Canadian people would rather cherish and nourish revenge than take their rightful place at the Council seat of the nation, and help, as they undoubtedly can, to solve these problems? Most right thinking people would fain believe otherwise. They would be loath to think the spirit of revenge is to be the dominating factor in Quebec politics rather than love of country, harmony and concord; that passion is to override reason, even to the extent of sacrificing material interests.

Every wellwisher of his country will earnestly hope that the comparatively young men who lead the Liberal hosts in Quebec will mature their thought, and think and think, and think again, before they take further steps which may prove to be irrevocable and which may be far-reaching and history-making in effect.

Assuming for the sake of argument that Quebec remains a solid bloc and thereby gets the upper hand, what then? They and their few Liberal associates in the other provinces could not carry on government without allying themselves with the Agrarian forces. These Agrarian forces are for free trade, while Quebec is for protection. Which is to dominate? Oil cannot mix with water. One has only to state this proposition to show the absurdity of the position into which the French Liberal leaders are attempting to drive their province. That sane and moderate counsels will ultimately prevail is no doubt the sincere hope of many thousands of French Canadians outside of Liberal political circles.

If there is in reality to be a solid bloc in Quebec, if reason and love of country are to go by the board; if material interests are to be sacrificed, if passion and resentment are to be the guiding motives, if the province as a whole is prepared to adopt definitely the recrimination role which may seriously impede the nation's progress, if not destroy it, it will not be because Premier Meighen has not earnestly sought an honorable rapproachment, has not seriously and against the rage of partisan fury sought, and sought again Quebec's friendship, or has not honestly and anxiously desired the province to join hands in directing the country's destinies. Despite calumny and most undeserved reproach, he has, with true statesmanlike vision, held out the olive branch in the interests of a united Canada. Beyond all doubt he will continue to do so. If there is to be error, grave perilous error, it will be the error of Quebec and not the error of the Prime Minister.

The new Parliament Building at Ottawa was estimated to cost $5,000,000. Two years ago that was raised to $8,000,000, and the other day the Minister of Public Works announced that the cost would be something over $10,000,000. This will give some idea of the advance in building costs during the past few years.

THE SACRAMENT OF THE RANK AND FILE
Westminster Gazette

This at least may be said of speech. It is the sacrament of the rank and file; it requires no apparatus. All that is needed is the inward conviction, and the listener. There must be the Word, burning in the bones of a man, and the upturned face of some human being, seeking for light and love. Speech is the layman's sacrament; it cannot be forbidden to any; there is no need to wait for any official recognition.

THE SECRET OF HEALTH
London Daily Express

The crusade against over-indulgence in exercise is excellent. The super-athlete dies young; the man who takes no exercise is always ailing. Moderation here, as in all other things, must be observed. To keep fit, stay in the open air and walk. Avoid strenuous games which leave you over-tired. Dance and swim, but avoid gymnastics and drill. Never make a fetish of any game. The man who sets out to achieve happiness is always miserable. The man who deliberately sets out to keep fit ends a wreck. Forget yourself and breathe fresh air. Then health is yours.

THE BEST OF A BAD LOT
The London Nation

If Liberal policy continues to be as timid and infertile as it is to-day; if the Labor Party cannot rise beyond the statesmanship of wage fixing; if Lord Robert Cecil will not lead, and Mr. Asquith neither actively leads nor retires from leadership, then, in the absence of a revolution, or of a succession of lean years in industry, Mr. George must continue to govern England, with and by the Tory Party, under the thin alias of a Coalition. He will govern it very ill, but having twice let down a plummet to where the political genius of the country should be and found nothing there, he may well concluded that she is made for him and he for her.

The New Day
without corns

THE invention of Blue-jay offered the world a way to escape corn troubles.

Millions now employ it. At least 20 million corns a year are being ended by it.

To suffer corns now is a folly. One test will prove them needless.

Blue-jay comes in liquid form or plaster. You apply it by a touch. The pain ends then and you forget the corn. In a little while it loosens and comes out.

The way is easy, gentle, sure. It is the modern way, the right way.

Blue-jay is scientific. It is made by a surgical dressing house of world-wide repute.

It is fast displacing treatments which were harsh and wrong.

One test will convince you. Try it tonight.

HORSE RACES

Fair weather is all that is needed tomorrow to make a success of the postponed horse races, which will be held at the Agricultural Park tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. In addition to the horse races a Central Ontario League baseball match will be played between the Grand Trunks of this city and the Cobourg team. This will also prove an attraction, and a good game is assured. Three races are on the score card, namely, free-for-all, 2.18 class and a named race. For these events some of the best horses in this and other localities have been entered. In the free for all, Dayspring, owned by Mr. G. Powell, of this city; Lucy P., owned by J. T. Payette, of Penetang; Terry P., owned by A. Charbonneau, of Montreal, and Hazel H., owned by E. W. Jones, of Peterboro, will compete, making a fine field of fast horses. Fast horses are also entered in the other two events. Mr. St. Vincent, of Montreal, will be the official starter.

Ring Gladiators Nearly Equal in Build

New York, June 7.—With a difference in weight of about 20 pounds when they meet in the ring four weeks hence, Dempsey and Carpentier will otherwise appear almost equal in build and stature. If both were to mix in among a few collegiate athletes, football players and oarsmen, probably neither would be picked out as being unusually big or formidable in general make up. Dempsey stands 6 feet, 1½ inches in height, just two inches taller than the French champion and while Carpentier will weigh 170 pounds in fighting condition, Dempsey expects to enter the ring slightly under 190 pounds.

The champion's shoulders are broad while Carpentier's are sloping in shape but otherwise the bodily measurements of the pair do not differ to any marked extent.

Experts who have seen both men are satisfied that they will be well-matched in speed and cleverness but the majority believe that Dempsey will carry by far the heavier weight in his blows. Dexterity and suppleness are claimed advantages for the Frenchman by his followers but just how hard a punch he can deliver is still a problem.

Dempsey's Punch

Dempsey showed in his bout with Willard at Toledo that his blows possess enormous punishing power but his more recent encounters with Bill Brennan at Madison Square Garden did not demonstrate that he still retains the forceful punch necessary to successfully stand off a man of Carpentier's undoubted ability and cleverness.

Just how good the challenger is or how hard a blow he can land is problematical to the majority of American fistic patrons, who have seen him in action. His only bout here, that with Levinsky in Jersey City last year, did not afford much of a line on Carpentier's prowess. Levinsky, always a clever boxer, made practically no serious effort to defend himself on that occasion and went down and out an easy victim for the Frenchman in the fourth round.

Nearly 30 years have elapsed since Queensberry rules and glove contests were substituted for the London prize ring code governing pugilistic contests for championship titles. In most of the bouts fought for the heavyweight championship since the change took place, there was a decided advantage in stature between the principals, but this did not always carry victory with it.

John L. Sullivan

Beginning with the Corbet-Sullivan battle at New Orleans in 1892, the big Boston man was massive in proportion to the lithe, supple and extremely clever Californian but the smaller man bore the big champion down and annexed the title in the 21st round. Corbett was one and one-half inches taller but 15 pounds lighter than Sullivan who stood 5 feet 10½ inches and weighed about 200 pounds.

Corbett and Fitz.

Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons were more evenly matched in height and age. Corbett was half an inch taller and four years younger than the Cornishman but he was nearly 20 pounds heavier than Fitzsimmons when the latter knocked him out and won the title at Carson, City, March 17, 1897.

Two years later James J. Jeffries of huge build and outweighing Fitzsimmons by fully 50 pounds won the title in 11 rounds from Bob at Coney Island and five months later, November, 1899, Jeffries got a referee's decision over Tom Sharkey in a 25-round bout in the same arena. Sharkey was several inches shorter and about 20 pounds lighter than the then champion.

Corbett challenged Jeffries twice for the title but was knocked out by the bigger man each time, once in 23 rounds and the next time in 10 rounds.

Jack Johnson

Jack Johnson, the negro who defeated Jeffries at Reno, Nev., in 1910, was nearer to the big man's size than any of the other heavyweights who had met him for the title in the previous ten years. Johnson was three years younger, one inch shorter and only ten pounds lighter than the Ohioan. Johnson scored a knockout in 15 rounds.

Jess Willard

Jess Willard, the giant Kansan, was by all odds the biggest man who ever held the world's heavyweight title. He stood 6 feet, 6 inches, weighed 250 pounds and had a decided advantage in every way over Johnson when he won from the negro at Havana, Cuba, in 1915. When he met Dempsey, two years ago, these physical advantages did not enable him to withstand Dempsey's sudden onslaught as he confessed afterward that he did not remember much after he was knocked down in the opening round.

WIN FOR OSHAWA

Oshawa, Ont., June 5.—By bunching hits in the third and sixth innings, Oshawa defeated Port Hope here yesterday afternoon, 5-2 in a Central Ontario League game, which was one of the best played on the local grounds this season. Dainty pitched for Oshawa, had seventeen strike-outs to his credit and allowed only three hits. He also hit a home run to deep centre with nobody on bases in the third, after two runners had scored. In the fifth frame, Dobson, the local first-baseman, in an attempt to catch a foul ball out on the racetrack, ran into a wire that had been strung across the gateway, received a bad cut on the chin and throwing him in a dazed condition on the ground. He was taken to his home in a car and Wilson replaced him at the initial sack. The score:

It has been announced at Kingston that the Baseball games will be discontinued through lack of support. That is the decision unless the fans speedily come forward and show their interest in the sport by their presence and money. Such a condition is a hard blow to any city or town. Let the Belleville fans watch their step and see that it leads to the Agricultural Park on "Ball Day".

"REAL SERVICE FOR BICYCLES"

BICYCLE LICENCE 333 Front St., Belleville

A Real Bicycle For a Real Boy

"WHY don't you ride your bicycle to school any more, Bill?"

"Well, Dad, everybody laughs at it. The other boys ride rings round me, and call it the old boneshaker."

"Hmm! How long have you had it?"

"Why, it's three years, now. You got it second-hand, Dad—remember?"

"That's right! What kind of bicycles have the other boys?"

"They're nearly all C.C.M.'s. The best ones are, anyway."

"I see. What make would you like best?"

"Why, of course, a C. C. M., Dad, every time!"

Dad Offers Him One for Passing

"Well, now, look here, Bill. If you'll pitch in at school and pass your exams., I'll get you one of those C. C. M. Bicycles. How does that strike you?"

"Dad, I'd do almost anything for a C. C. M. You just watch me!"

"That's the stuff! I've heard C. C. M. Bicycles well spoken of, and one should be a prize worth winning."

"It sure is. C. C. M.'s look so snappy and ride so easy. Pewee Bowman has one of the new models and it has the C. C. M. Triplex Crank Hanger. He loaned it to me yesterday for five minutes. Gee, it was just like riding on air!"

"Why, what difference does the Triplex Hanger make?"

"Well, there's never any looseness or tightness when you're pedalling. You feel that every single bit of weight you put on the pedals counts for speed.

"And the C. C. M. doesn't tire a fellow out, either, Dad. Why young Mac Reynolds—he's only half as big as me—rides around all day on his C. C. M. It never tires him out.

"And there's a special bike that I won't outgrow, Dad. It's equally good for a lad of nine or a youth of twenty. It's called the C. C. M. 18-inch Curved Bar Model."

"That's a fine idea, Bill. Dig in, now, pass your exams., and that C. C. M. bike is yours."

FIFTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MERCHANTS BANK OF CANADA

Sir H. Montagu Allan, the President, Draws Attention to the Principal Features of Bank's Progress During Year of Expansion—Bank Now Has 400 Branches and 2,997 Shareholders.

D. C. Macarow, General Manager, States That a Certain Optimism is Not Only Warrantable and Desirable, But Even Essential—Reports Gain of $7,000,000 in Interest Bearing Deposits For Year.

The fifty-eighth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of The Merchants Bank of Canada marked the close of a satisfactory year for the Bank. The annual report indicated that business had been well maintained during the period of readjustment.

Sir H. Montagu Allan, the President, in his address on behalf of the Board of Directors, dealt particularly with the main features of the progress of the Bank during the past year and pointed out that there were now 400 branches. In addition, there was a steady increase in the number of shareholders of the Bank, the total number now being 2,997, as against 2,622 a year ago, an increase during the year of 375.

D. C. Macarow, the General Manager, in a constructive address, took the view that at this stage of Canada's development a certain optimism was not only warrantable and desirable, but, indeed, essential, for it begets that stimulating measure of constructive effort, energy and courage through the application of which the obstacles the country now has to face would in due course be more surely and readily overcome.

Mr. Macarow also referred to the general business of the Bank and pointed out the large measure of assistance which was given to the industries of the country, including support in full measure, to our largest individual source of production and wealth—agriculture. This is reflected by total current loans and discounts of $109,183,000.

At the moment special reports of the Bank indicated that crop conditions throughout the country were at the present exceptionally promising.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The President, Sir H. Montagu Allan, in presenting the Annual Report, spoke in part:—

The general depression in business which has been felt to a greater or lesser degree in every country in the world for some months past, has effected the business of the Bank to some extent, but we hope the low point of the depression has been passed, and that there will soon be a change for the better. In the meantime, although we do not feel there is any cause for anxiety in regard to the future prosperity of this country, we feel called upon to advise our customers to be very cautious before undertaking new commitments. The coal strike in England, which will no doubt result in the loss of a great deal of trade, and the unrest and discontent which seems to prevail in nearly all the countries of Europe, give rise to serious financial problems, which have got to be reckoned with, but no man in this country, who is strong and healthy, can afford to be a pessimist for any length of time. The known and undeveloped resources are sufficient to ensure future prosperity.

BANK HAS 4 00 BRANCHES

During the year we opened 12 new Branrhes and established 11 sub-Agencies or regular Branch basis. Three Branches were closed, while 12 sub-Agencies were opened and 8 closed. Our total number of Branches is now 400.

In order to provide for our growing business in the uptown district of Montreal and to prepare for future requirements, it was deemed advisable to acquire another uptown site on St. Catherine street, and we have accordingly purchased the northeast corner of St. Catherine and Drummond streets, a site probably unequalled in point of location. It is the intention to erect thereon a suitable building that will afford every modern banking facility for that busy district.

As mentioned in last year's report, a further issue of $2,100,000 of new stock was made, making the paid-up capital of the Bank $10,500,000 and by the transfer of the premium on the new stock to the Rest Account, the Rest now stands at $9,450,000.

The Shareholders of the Bank now number 2,997, as against 2,622 in 1920, being an increase of 375 during the year.

NEW DIRECTORS APPOINTED

We have to record with deep regret the loss by death of three of our Directors, two of whom were Vice-Presidents, Mr. K. W. Blackwell, Mr. Andrews J. Dawes, and Mr. Thomas Long. Mr. Blackwell had been a Director and then Vice-President of the Bank for some years, and was a man of very high character and a most lovable disposition. He acted in my place during the four years I was absent while the war lasted, and took an active and intelligent interest in the affairs of the Bank, and his loss was very greatly felt by all of us. Mr. Andrew J. Dawes was appointed Vice-President in his place, and during the few months he occupied that position his good judgment was of great assistance on many occasions, and his death was very deeply regretted. Mr. Thomas Long had been a Director and our Ontario representative for many years. Our business in that Province has shown satisfactory progress, which in no small measure was due to Mr. Long's exertions on our behalf.

The position of Vice-President was filled by the appointment of Mr. F. Howard Wilson, and the vacancies on the Board were filled by the appointment of Mr. John Baillie, Mr. Ross H. McMaster, and Mr. Norman J. Dawes. These gentlemen are all well-known business men of high character and standing in our community, and I om sure their advice and assistance will prove very valuable in the management of the affairs of the Bank."

THE GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

The General Manager, Mr. D. C. Macarow, in rising to make his annual address, was received with much applause by the Shareholders. He said in part:—

The trend of our interest-bearing deposits has been steadily upward, an increase in that Department of about $7,000,000 being shown, but this gain has been more than offset by the decline in the total ordinary deposits. A year ago, however, under the heading of Demand Deposits a sum of about $8,000,000 stood to the credit of the Government in connection with Victory Loan payments. This amount, which, of course, was of a purely temporary nature, was withdrawn during the year so that, after making allowance for it, the Total Deposits and Total Assets about held their own, a satisfactory achievement we have no doubt you will agree.

Current Loans and Discounts, apart from loans to cities, towns, municipalities and school districts, stand at $109,183,000 as against $113,198,000 last year, a reduction of $4,000,000 in the twelve months' period. It will be seen, therefore, that this Bank continues to extend its ample share of assistance to the industries of the country, including support, in full measure, to our largest individual source of production and wealth—agriculture.

CROP OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING

In this latter connection it may be said that the situation in Canada suffered severely by the disappointing out-turn of last year's Western crops. Many of the farmers who suffered crop failure, or partial failure, were facing the adverse condition for the second and even, in numerous cases, the third year in succession, while those who reaped good yields saw their prospective profits largely swept away by the declining value of their products, with the result that "carry-overs" have been many. Advances, however, for legitimate agricultural purposes are inherently safe and in all deserving cases our support as it properly should be has been ungrudgingly continued to our large and growing clientele amongst the farming community.

Crop conditions throughout the country are at the present moment exceptionally promising. That this year's actual results may measure up to present expectations is "a consummation devoutly to be wished", for much depend upon it.

If I may say a word as to general conditions it will be one of 'tempered optimism, having a due comprehension of the many difficulties which require to be met but having, at the same time, a proper appreciation of the actual and potential riches of this country. At this particular stage in our development a certain optimism is, I venture to think, not only warrantable and desirable but, indeed, essential, for it begets that stimulating measure of constructive effort, energy and courage through the practical application of which the obstacles we have to face will, in due course, be the more surely and readily overcome.

McKim's Directory for 1921

The 1921 Edition of the Canadian Newspaper Directory has been issued by A. McKim, Limited, Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg and London, England.

To Messrs. McKim goes the distinction of being the oldest and largest advertising agents in Canada. They are authorities on the newspaper situation in every town and village throughout the Dominion and their annual publication—The Canadian Newspaper Directory—is the one authentic record of the standing of Canada's various advertising media.

The 1921 Edition is the 14th issue of this work. Throughout the thirty years that have ensued since the publication of the first edition, the agency of A. McKim, Limited, and the newspapers of Canada have been growing up side by side and the Canadian Newspaper Directory has built up amongst the publishers and advertisers a reputation for accuracy that causes it to be consulted with the same degree of finality as the standard dictionaries. A circulation rating in the Canadian Newspaper Directory is to the publishers and advertisers of Canada what a raitng in Dunn's or Bradstreet's is to the financial world.

The Directory describes in detail every town and village in the Dominion which boasts a newspaper of any description, it gives also the surrounding towns and villages that have no papers of their own and are obliged to look to the towns listed for their news of the world's happenings. The Directory gives the exact location of each town in its relation to other centres of importance, the railroads and waterways by which it is served, the telegraph, banking and express facilities, the public buildings, and the various industries in which the people of the towns are engaged. It proceeds then to describe the various papers that are published, giving their periods of issue, dates of publication, names of publishers, politics, subscription prices, number and sizes of pages, circulation, etc.

Another feature is the Market Survey Maps which have been issued as a supplement and which show each town, or city, in which a newspaper is published, the railways and distribution centres.

The Canadian Newspaper Directory shows that there are to-day 121 daily papers being issued, as compared with 130 last year; 981 weeklies and 218 monthlies. With the various publications issued at other intervals there are in all 1,500 publications being published and read by the Canadian public at the moment.

The 1921 Edition of the Canadian Newspaper Directory is indispensable to everyone connected with publishing and advertising, and not to these fields alone are its uses confined. It will be found invaluable to the salesman planning his itinerary and to the shipper routing his goods. It is a business publication with a thousand and one uses for business men everywhere. Price $3.00 from the publishers.

STANDARD OF QUALITY
It is estimated that there are nearly two hundred different brands of baking powder in Canada: and the fact that there is more Magic Baking Powder used than all the other brands combined, must show conclusively that it is eminently superior.

THE SUBSTITUTE

The old man smiled genially. "I've got a crow to pick with you boys," he said, "fer not callin' on me fer a donation to that club you are a-gittin' up among you. I'm interested in boys—I used to be one—an' I want to see 'em have all the fun they kin git."

"Well, we certainly will take all you want to give us, Mr. Hillyer," the young man laughed. "The fact is, we haven't called on a soul. Major Cranston"—

"Well, you can put me down fer a hundred," said Hillyer, as he took up the list of names on the show case and ran his eye over them.

"My Lord! You don't mean that, do you, squire?"

"Yes, I do. Why, you have left George's name off, as shore's preachin'!"

The druggist flushed as he took the sheet and glanced at it with a wavering eye. Then he managed to bring out: "The truth is, squire, some of the boys thought perhaps George might not care to join anything of this kind now. You see, he hasn't seemed to want to go out much since—since the old man was arrested, and"—

Hillyer put his hand on Drake's shoulder and smiled. "That's just why I want him in this at the start," he said. "Then he kin go whenever he wants to. You put his name down; I'll be responsible. Put me down fer the hundred, too, an', ef that ain't enough, you know whar I do business."

"All right, Mr. Hillyer," responded the young man, "and we are very much obliged to you."

"Huh," said the merchant to himself as he turned down the street with a lighter step, "a feller's got to keep his eye peeled these days. Ef this hadn't been fixed it mought 'a' hurt George's feelin's. Kenner's the right sort. He'll joke an' carry on, but a body kin count on 'im ever' time."

CHAPTER VIII.

ONE morning, a few days later, Bascom Truitt came down the main street of Darley wearing a long, dingy overcoat and blowing a roll call on an old army bugle. Under his arm was a tattered Confederate flag.

"What's up today?" Kenner asked him as he came into the office and stood towering over the stove.

"Nothin' but a meetin' o' the veterans of our camp—the Joseph E. Johnston, sir. I'm goin' up now to stick the flag on the gate at the courthouse. We intend to see about who's goin' to the reunion in Atlanta next spring: thar's a sight o' the boys that want to go, but cayn't raise the scads. We'll chip in an' send the most deservin', ef our women folks go hungry this winter. Thar was a lie afloat in the newspapers awhile back that some nigger went off after the war an' got rich an' come back home jest in time to buy his old master a suit o' clothes an' pay his way to a reunion. Ef thar was a man in our camp that ud go that a-way, we'd send 'im in tar an' feathers, an' on a rail at that."

"Oh, come off, Bas," Kenner laughed, as he looked around at George and Hillyer at their desks. "That's a old Yankee army overcoat you got on right now. You've had it dyed with logwood, but I'd know it by that long cape."

"Yes, that's what it is," admitted Truitt sheepishly. "The Yankee that owned it died at my house while I was off in the war. It was the only thing he left that was any account, an' my women folks had fed an' pampered 'im up with all they could rake an' scrape in the neighborhood, goin' without the'rselves beca'se he was so bad off. After he died they put this coat away in camphor to keep the moths out of it. The blame garment eat up a quarter's wuth a year fer ten year, an' ever' winter I had a row with my women folks beca'se I wouldn't wear it. Finally, I agreed ef they ud dye it so none o' my crowd ud fergit the war was over an' shoot me, I'd put it on. My women folks tuck me up, but they wouldn't make a fortune runnin' a dye house. This dratted thing has sp'iled twenty Sunday shirts fer me. T'other day, when I went in the meetin' house out of a shower o' rain, I left a streak o' black ink from the door to the amen corner."

"Whar did you git that bugle?" Kenner questioned. "I know you never blowed it in the army."

"No; Tred Langston had it when he was bugler in our company, an' he give it to me to use in our veteran camp; he said his boys hadn't a sign o' respect fer what it had been through, an' used it to call the dogs to go possum huntin'. He said his gals tied a gray ribbon about it an' hung it up on the wall, but the boys wouldn't let it stay thar. They treated his canteen jest as bad. They toted it about with moonshine whisky in it till it sprung a leak, an' then they hung it up on a tree an' shot more holes in it. I reckon I am a sight, totin' a reb' flag an' bugle with a Yankee overcoat on, but they tell me the war's over."

"I reckon you went through the thick of it," said the cotton buyer tentatively.

"I got as much fight as I cared fer at Baker's creek," answered the veteran. "Our boys was about starved to death on short rations, an' we had jest got hold of a lot o' fresh beef when we got the call to arms. Our colonel told us we'd better take some of the beef with us, an' me 'n' another feller was a-fillin' our knapsacks when the feller all at once said to me, 'Look y' here, Bas, the odds is agin us, an' I hain't a-goin' to let no bluecoat ketch me with a passle o' raw beef in my knapsack,' an' he th'owed the meat down. I followed suit. Jest then, in all the hurlyburly o' gittin' ready, a man rid in with a big basket o' pies to sell us. We wanted the pies an' he wanted money; we didn't have no

COUNCIL DID NOT MEET

A special meeting of the council was called for last evening for the purpose of considering as the notice read, salaries of school teachers and other school matters. The council as a body, could not, however, meet as Ald. Adams, who is out of the city, could not be located to sign the notice of meeting. Those members present informally met the majority of the Board of Education and for two hours the Coleman Ward school matter was discussed. Previous to this meeting the members of the Council who were present, namely, Mayor Hanna, Aldermen Ostrom, French, Treverton, Fisher, Wensley, Bonnett and Hallinger, discussed what action should be taken in regard to Station street as it was in a bad condition. The general impression was that it should be paved, but that the work could hardly be undertaken, unless under clause 9 of the Local Improvement Act. Ald. Treverton estimated that it would cost from two to three thousand to fix it up properly for the time being. After some discussion the matter was laid over until the Committee meeting on Thursday night and the city engineer will be asked to give an estimate as to the cost of paving the street.

ART EXHIBIT

On Monday afternoon a number of people attended the art exhibit at Albert College. The beautiful and dainty work certainly reflects much credit to the teacher and her pupils. Albert College has done much for this city and if the talented artists keep up their good work probably a modern Rembrandt will be produced. Some of the works of art and the artists are as follows: Miss Evelyn Edwards in water colors and oils, Violin and The Gleaners. The fruit pictures also attracted much attention. Miss Edwards' hand-painted candlesticks certainly show the great talent which she possesses for art. Miss McConnell's Peacock Vase won the admiration of everyone. She has a talent for dainty work and her flower vase shows this up to 100 per cent. For dainty work, Miss Helen Snell's assortment of hand-painted china has reached the peak of perfection. Miss Potter also had a splendid variety of hand-painted china that could not be surpassed.

Much credit is due Miss Barbara Crowford, the teacher of the Art Department of the College. Miss Crawford is indeed a worthy successor in this department, and the work and success of the pupils has been greatly influenced by her careful supervision.

ROTARY BIRTHDAY

Birthdays among Rotarians are notable events and always celebrated with marks of respect and esteem masked in humorous references. Monday at the Belleville Rotary Club weekly luncheon at Hotel Quinte, Rotarians Charlie Reid and Bob Wray were honored on the occasion of their respective birthdays and many congratulatory telegrams, mostly wireless, were read by Scottie the secretary, from personages high and low ranging from the new Governor-General to the Hermit of West McCoon Lake. One of the guests was Douglas Reid, son of Rotarian C. M. Reid. Doug. told a story on his dad which illustrated the fact that C. M. absolutly refused to grow old. The speaker of the day was Mr. J. W. Evans who gave some facts relating to the mineral resources of Hastings County not generally known and predicted that the gold deposits would some day be worked very profitably. Great activity is now in evidence in the mining of feldspar which is very plentiful in Hastings and for which there is a ready market, talc, iron and other deposits were briefly sketched by Mr. J. W. Evans, whose address was very interesting and instructive. Rotarians Herity and Higgs gave snappy talks on the education provided by Rotary and Mac Robertson asked for support, and encouragement for the two league baseball teams of Belleville. Burrows of Belleville led the community singing with his customary vigor, not forgetting "Rule Britannia", and President Moffatt welded the gavel in his customary efficient manner. The attendance was large and the members full of pep and enthusiasm.

WANT ISLE MADE PARK

A deputation of Brighton citizens waited upon the Provincial Government recently requesting that Presqu' Isle be made a Government Park. Hon. Mr. Bowman and others favored the proposition and it is proposed to make a drive around the Point and stock the woods with game and make improvements to the beach. The Dominion Government has turned Presqu' Isle over to the Ontario Government with the exception of a small lighthouse reserve of one hundred and twenty acres.

THEY WERE "STUNG"

A sale of uncalled for parcels was held at the customs examining warehouse Kingston, last week, and bidders secured some strange things. Some of the ladies, who insisted upon buying packages whose contents they could not guess, were badly stung, when on opening their purchase they found them to contain cakes and other eatables that had been sent to Canadian soldiers overseas three or four years ago and returned. The contents were only fit for the incinerator.

ORDAINED 36 YEARS AGO

Thirty-six (36) years ago to-day Rev. Mr. Geen was ordained to the Ministry of the Church of England, in St. Paul's Church, Kingston, by His Grace, Archbishop Lewis, first Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario. Only two clergymen in this part of the Diocese have been so long ordained, Rev. Mr. Harris and Rev. Mr. Radcliffe. At different times Mr. Geen has had temporary charge of nearly every parish in this part of the Diocese and for years travelled 4,000 to 5,000 miles annually on clerical duty.

A SAWMILL ACCIDENT

Last week at Hall's sawmill, Moneymore, Mr. Fred Trudeau suffered a slight fracture of his right arm and experienced a miraculous escape from death. Mr. Trudeau was engaged in rolling a log with a cant hook when a board caught in the edging saw 25 feet away, was thrown toward him, the board struck the end of the log he was rolling, and swinging, cut an 8 inch gash in his leg and fractured his arm in three places.

GAME NOW IN DANGER

LAWS IN ONTARIO ARE NOT STRICT ENOUGH.

Provincial Biologist Nash Talks About Situation as He Sees It and Suggests a Compromise—The Old Style of "Sportsman" Cannot Hunt Without Dogs and Refuses to Give Them Up Without a Struggle.

THE Ontario game laws have not been fundamentally altered. The efforts of farsighted sportsmen to save the deer of lower Ontario by forbidding the hunting of deer with dogs south of the French and Mattawa rivers came to naught.

The careless, old-style sportsman, who wants his two weeks in the bush with his hounds to chase his meat to him, turned out in force and squashed any reform.

The deer are going. The partridge are thining out, despite protection on paper. The bass that once abounded in Georgian Bay are becoming a rarity.

And it is not as if civilization were driving them out. For that part of Ontario which needs protection consists of countless miles of rocky, ridged wilderness of no earthly use to cultivation. The thirty thousand islands of the Georgian Bay are mostly along a barren shore that will never see farms, except here and there a settler. The passing of game from Halton or Huron County can be regarded with some equanimity, because farms and towns have come. The passing of game from the northern district, parts of them never to be settled, is due to relentless hunting, netting and hogging.

Charles W. Nash, the provincial biologist, one of the leading naturalists of Canada, agrees with those farsighted sportsmen who have attempted to have the game laws altered; in that the game of lower Ontario must be drastically protected or within a very few years it will be extinct.

Speaking as a naturalist rather than as a sportsman, Mr. Nash said:

"There is no doubt that still-hunting is the most sportsmanlike way of hunting deer. But stalking deer requires a long apprenticeship and much skill in woodcraft. The average hunter, who takes two weeks to go deer hunting and never sees the bush otherwise, could never learn woodcraft or the skill of a real hunter in those short periods. To ban hounds, therefore, would mean no hunting at all for the great majority of hunters. Obliged to hunt without dogs, they would get no deer at all.

"I have come to the conclusion that the best and only way to control hunting and to preserve the deer is to prohibit the killing of deer other than bucks with horns at least four inches in length.

"This would preserve the does and fawns, which are now being slaughtered in Ontario by the thousands. This would preserve the deer, in short, because we know that one buck mates with many does, and the killing of bucks would not extinguish the species.

"Some hunters might object to that rule about bucks with horns at least four inches in length. 'How can you tell that the horns are four inches long on a running deer?' they ask. Those hunters are precisely the men the law should control. They are the fellows who shoot at anything that moves in the woods, killing men and dogs and domestic animals.

"Such a law would confer a great benefit in that it would oblige hunters to see first what they are going to shoot at. Such a law would not handicap any particular kind of hunter. The still hunter would merely be obliged to see that his deer had horns. The hunter with hounds would have to see that it was a horned buck the dogs were chasing to him. Besides conserving the game, it would inject an element of care into deer hunting that is now wanting.

"The rule would be—if you can't see its horns, you have no business to shoot!"

Such a law should receive no opposition except from the game hogs who hate to see anything living and free in the woods.

As to the black bass, Mr. Nash feels there is only one cause for the desperate falling off in numbers of this greatest of game fish—netting.

"Those inlets of the Georgian Bay, countless in numbers, are the natural spawning grounds of the bass and lunge," said Mr. Nash. "To deplete them is to destroy the bass and lunge. And there is no doubt whatever in my mind that netting and illegal use and sale of the fish is the secret of their destruction. Netting should be absolutely prohibited in those channels, inlets and island shelters. There is absolutely no excuse for netting in the inside waters, fish run in the deeper and outer waters.

"It is, however, entirely up to the game wardens. The resident or cottager cannot be expected to inform on his neighbors. Many a cottager knows of illegal netting and hunting, but he will not report it, because he does not want his cottage burned down.

"The only way is for the Department of Game and Fisheries to send wardens who are strangers into those parts, frequently, regularly, until the illegal netters are cleaned out."

Fifty years ago, Mr. Nash used to catch speckled trout in the Rosedale ravines. Toronto Bay was the greatest place for large mouth bass. But these things go, and do not come back.

A good camel will travel 100 miles a day.

McLAUGHLIN CAR BURNED

Mr. Harry Brown, a G.T.R. employe of this city, last evening met with a rather serious loss when his McLaughlin car was destroyed by fire. Mr. Brown was driving towards the city when near the Belleville cemetery, something went wrong with the engine and within a brief period the car was on fire. An effort to subdue the flames proved futile and all parts of the machine that could burn were destroyed. The car was a late model and first-class in every particular. At the time of the accident Mr. Brown was alone in the car.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 36, or write The Intelligencer.

D. V. says that the presence of the seaplane here suggests that all roads lead to Belleville, even the skylanes.

X. Y. says that the oil-tar on the roads may be a darn nuisance, but it certainly hardens up the roadway and lays the dust.

Cub reporter says that a ride in the seaplane can hardly be called a joy-ride, rather a sky-lark.

I see that home-grown strawberries are becoming cheaper and more plentiful, says a Bleecker avenue shopper, and a healthful change in diet is now possible.

Park Superintendent Belcher says that vandals are stealing the peonies in Corby Park, and hints that there may be a surprise in store for the ower thieves some of these nights.

Thrifty housewife living in Foster Ward says she saw in The Intelligencer that live hogs are selling for eight cents per pound and dressed hogs at from twelve to fourteen cents. She thinks that some one should tell the local meat merchants about it.

I see that the new electric car may be taken off the Trenton-Belleville route, says a commuter, who appreciates this service and points out the convenience afforded, as the car stops at the cemetery crossing and other places en route. Commuter suggests that an effort be made to have the service continued, or failing in that, to have a motor bus service inaugurated.

What have you seen?

Canada's Premier Will be Honored by London

London, June 7.—(Canadian Associated Press)—As already announced by cable, the Corporation of the City of London has resolved, unanimously and with acclamation, to confer the Freedom of the City upon Mr. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, during his visit.

This hallmark of the esteem of the citizens of London has within recent years been conferred upon every Prime Minister from the Dominions who has visited London in his official capacity. Fourteen years ago, when the Imperial Conference had still an element of something novel, the Corporation conferred the Freedom simultaneously upon a group of the leading statesmen from overseas. Sir Robert Borden received the Freedom by himself in 1915, Mr. Hughes and Mr. Massey were honored the following year, and General Smuts and Lord Morris in 1917.

Perhaps the earliest conferment of the Freedom upon a distinguished servant of the Empire in recognition of his services in Canada is to be found in the bestowal, exactly 80 years ago, of the honor upon Sir John Colborne, afterwards Lord Seaton, who was Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada from 1830 to 1835. The Freedom was conferred upon him "more especially for the very able and wise manner in which he executed the high and important function of Governor-General and Commander of Her Majesty's Forces in Canada." Addressing Lord Seaton, the Chamberlain of the City alluded to the difficulties which developed upon the recipient in governing "the Canada", and to which he proved fully equal. 'By undeviating impartiality and unbending firmness you inspired confidence in the peaceful inhabitants of those colonies, and for years kepts in check the facetious disturbers of their tranquillity, and when at length designing agitators in concert with adventurers from a neighboring state succeeded in fanning into open revolt the dying embers of dissatisfaction, the enthusiastic loyalty of the volunteers and militia of those provinces, rallying under the standard of your high military renown, enabled you under Providence speedily to extinguish the rebellion, and to become the honored instrument of preserving those valuable colonies to the British Crown.".

Lord Seaton in reply said: "During the whole of my long residence in that colony I was firmly supported by a large proportion of its inhabitants, and to the loyalty and exertions and determination of those inhabitants to uphold the institutions of the Mother Country is to be attributed, under Divine Providence, whatever benefit the provinces have derived from my endeavors to promote their welfare and prosperity. I trust that the attention of the city of London will be directed to the value of those North American colonies, their vast resources, fertile soil, and commercial advantages."

Prior to the conferment of the Freedom upon Sir Robert Borden the last previous recipient of the honor in recognition of services rendered in Canada was Earl Grey, after his term as Governor-General.

Scores Watch Old Man Fight Masked Bandit

EXCITING PISTOL BATTLE AND CHASE THROUGH NEW YORK STREETS

New York, June 8.—Hundreds of men and women saw a pistol battle which started in Sixth avenue, just south of Forty-second street, and ended with the capture of the bandit in the sub-basement of the Knicker-bocker warehouse, in Forty-first street, just east of Broadway.

The running fight followed an attempt by a masked man and a masked woman to hold up Morris Sapo, a jeweller, in his shop on the second floor at 729 Sixth avenue. The woman disappeared into the crowd which scattered in all directions when the shooting began.

One bullet, apparently fired at the bandit by a policeman, lodged in the thigh of Ira Holmes, who was seated at his desk about five feet behind the plate glass window of the Consolidated Ticket Offices at 115 West Forty-first street, where he is employed.

British Freighter Struck Iceberg in Mid-Ocean

STEAMER SEAPOOL, EN ROUTE FROM MONTREAL TO DUBLIN, SENDS OUT WIRELESS CALLS FOR ASSISTANCE—COLLIDED WITH ICEBERG AND IS MAKING FOR ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND, WITH FOREPEAK FULL OF WATER.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

HALIFAX, June 8.—The British freighter Seapool, 4,503 gross tons, struck an iceberg in mid-Atlantic and is making slowly for St. John's, Nfld., with her forefoot broken and her forepeak full of water, according to advices received here late this morning by the Canadian naval staff. The message stated that the vessel was not in need of immediate assistance. The Seapool sailed from Montreal on June 2 for Dublin.

BOSTON, June 8.—The announcement that a steamer had struck an iceberg in mid-Atlantic and was believed to be sinking was contained in a radio message received at the Navy Yard here today. The message did not name the steamer. The message read: "Just struck an iceberg. Position 48.30 west longitude. Some one near, please answer. Believe we are sinking." The distress call was received in a continuous wave which requires a high power sending station. Because of this the radio operators on shore said they believed the vessel was a big one. Only the larger steamers and most of them passenger liners were equipped with continuous wave apparatus, they said.

LONDON, June 8.—The steamer Seapool, which struck an iceberg in mid-Atlantic, had a crew of thirty-five men and carried a cargo of grain, it was learned here today.

WIRE-CUTTING EPIDMEC

London, June 8.—Epidemic of telegraph and telephone wire cutting broke out in various parts of England yesterday evening which today was attributed by the police to Sinn Feiners. at Harlington, a London suburb, several men alighted from a motor car two of whom climbed telegraph poles while others held up pedestrians with revolvers. Forty-two wires were cut. Similar outrages occurred along a nearby railway. At Liverpool suburb police surrounded a gang on a similar expedition, after exchange of revolver shots. Reports recived today indicate that a large number of wires were cut this morning at various points. Pole carrying the main Irish telegraph line had been partly sawn through and seventy lines including a continental wire had been cut.

GARIBALDI VETERAN DEAD

London, June 6.—Jules Sambon, aged 84, one of Garibald's famous thousand volunteers who fought for the independence of Italy has just died here. He was twice wounded on the Volturne battlefields.

At one time he owned a remarkable collection of ancient objects illustrative of the history of the theater throughtout the ages. This was acquired by the Italian government and now forms the museum of the Scala Theater in Milan. He was also the author of a notable work on coins.

Sambon married Laura Elizabeth Day, a relative of Charles Dickens and a decendant of Vitus Bering, the navigator.

Retakes Negro From 300 Mob

DETROIT PATROLMAN FIGHTS BACK THREATENING CROWD OF BLACKS

Detroit, June 8.—After being mobbed by a crowd of negroes, who took his prisoner away from him, Patrolman James Bubb shot two men who attempted to trip him, emptied his gun in the crowd, re-captured his prisoner, and held the other at bay until relief arrived, at High and Rivard streets at 5 o'clock last evening. The crew of the police flyer then dispersed the negroes.

Bubb estimated the number of negroes in the crowd at 300. Bubb, who is a "minute man" at the Central station, went to 2330 Hastings street to place under arrest Charles Holman, a negro, on a charge of stealing a tire. He located him on Rivard street.

Charged by Crowd

As Bubb attempted to drive away with the prisoner he was charged by a crowd of negroes. One dashed up and opened the door of the machine and pushed Holman out. Bubb fired pointblank at this man, putting a bullet in his shoulder. The man dropped to the street. 'The prisoner and crowd then dashed down Rivard street. Bubb followed.

Another negro attempted to trip the officer. Bubb turned and fired a bullet at this man, wounding him. As the chase continued down the street another negro attempted to trip up Bubb; the officer also fired at him, but, does not know whether or not he hit him. By this time officer Bubb was but a few yards distant from his former prisoner.

Dashes Into Mob

When they reached High and Rivard streets, a crowd of 300 negroes had congregated. Holman dashed into the mob, which in turn stormed toward the officer. Bubb, howerer, who had emptied his gun , did not stop. Flourishing his now useless weapon at the threatening mob, he dashed among them, recapturing his prisoner. He pulled Holman from the mob and held the negroes at bay. The crowd charged, but was halted by the empty gun. Forcing his recaptured prisoner to walk in front of him, the officer kept his gun levelled at the crowd. He marched the prisoner to a nearby box and sent a riot call to headquarters.

Edmonton, June 8.—The second biennial convention of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada will be held here June 20-25. Speakers will include Hon. Chas. Stewart, premier of Alberta, Miss Annie Stuart, of Nova scotia, Judge Emily Murphy, Hon. Mary Ellen Smith, Mrs. Jean Robson, of the Federal department of immigration, and Mrs. Nellie L. McClung. A feature of the convention will be assembly singing. This will be led by Mrs. Rose Morgan, of Columbia University, New York. It is expected that this will be the largest convention of rural women ever assembled in Canada.

Man Has Three Personalities Says Tartar

Constantinople, June 8.—A new gospel of health, that man is not one but three, and that he cannot function properly until his three personalities are in harmony, has come here from the Middle East on the tide of Russian and other refugees from far countries.

This gospel is proclaimed by a small, dark man of mystery, a Greek Tartar, G. I. Gurdjieff. He has contributed to the meagre intellectual life of the city a new throb.

The outward and primary form of his teachings begins with dances borrowed from the Mosques of Persia and the temples of India. He puts some of his patients on bread and water for months at a time, but requires them, all the while, to carry on the most violent exercises which conform to the music of a piano.

Gurdjieff's teachings have some similarity with the ancient Greek conceptions of the development of mental force and bodily grace and activity.

He is persuaded that his teachings will change the art of living. He has gathered about him a group of converts who say they are going to spread his theories westward, some going to the United States. He says that he was taught by Russian physicians and psychologists.

"In harmony there is health," declared Gurdjieff. "The western world of medicine and psychology has never grasped the truth that man is not controlled by one personality, but by three, and when these three are not in harmony a man says he is 'sick.' A sick man, a man with that tired feeling, is like a horse and carriage without a driver. The man is not master of himself.

"Civilization has led man away from himself, physically and spiritually. Too much use of the head has deharmonized him. Man is composed of three parts, just like a machine. One part thinks, one feels, and one eats and sleeps. If a man thinks too much, or eats too much, or sleeps too much, he falls ill.

"My plan is to first put the three back into a common unity, and then gradually develop a fourth personality which controls the other three. If this fourth personality or dominating consciousness is not developed, the three men in the same body never establish contact with each other, and the anarchy we call sickness destroys him."

WINNIPEG WOMAN GETS OVERSEAS APPOINTMENT

Winnipeg, June 8.—Working in cooperation with the provincial and federal departments of immigration, Mrs. S. M. Dickenson, of this city, has been appointed to represent Manitoba overseas, with headquarters in London, England. Her special duty will be the selecting of women and girls from Great Britain suitable for household work.

The first party of women numbering 35 destined for Manitoba will sail in July. In instituting this branch of immigration service, Manitoba is following the lead of Saskatchewan where the scheme has been a marked success.

Bonus Offered to Western Farmers

Regina, Sask., June 8.—A substantial sum will be paid as an hororarium to all Saskatchewan exhibitors who win a championship next fall at the Chicago International Livestock Exposition and Grain Show. The sum of $500 will be paid to the exhibitor who wins a grand championship prize for either livestock or grain, and $300 for exhibitors winning reserve grand championships. The Saskatchewan government, as a further encouragement to exhibitors who are now preparing exhibits for this show, will pay this added bonus as well as paying the transportation cost of the exhibits to and from Chicago.

Saskatchewan has a fine record in the brief period that this province has been represented at these international expositions, having the honor of winning the world's championship for the best wheat eight times in the past nine years, and Saskatchewan Clydesdale breeders swept the boards last year with exhibitors of other breeds making a splendid showing.

Frank Smith, at Brantford, was fined for refusing to answer a census taker's questions.

Col. Cornwall's Faith in Western Oil

Winnipeg, June 8.—Different companies and individuals interested in the oil fields of the north have expended close to $1,000,000 on development work, according to Col. J. K. Cornwall, who has been mentioned as a possible administrator of the Fort Norman oil district. Col. Cornwall was a recent visitor here on his way to Edmonton from New York and Montreal, where he had gone in connection with oil development work.

The people of the north do not find the attitude of other parts of Canada very encouraging in view of their great faith in the possibilities of their northern oil fields, he said. On his visit east he found very little interest was shown in the development of the latest resources of the great Canadian north.

"The initial cost of finding oil is considerable," Col. Cornwall stated. "Once it is discovered and transportation is arranged the cost of production is the lowest of any known resource with the exception of water power. Transportation in the north is not difficult. From the present end of steel at Peace River to Pine Point on Slave Lake, the southern edge of the oil field is a very fertile country. The character of the soil warrants railway construction in itself and the possible productiveness of the area would support a railway. Settlement is pushing out in that direction.

"The eastern portion of Great Slave Lake, which is practically an inland sea, is very rich in mineral prospects," Col. Cornwall said. "Gold mining machinery is going in this year. Vast copper areas lie between Great Bear Lake and Bathurst Inlet. Iron deposits were discovered last season on both sides of the Mackenzie river about latitude 63 north. There is sufficient timber for all requirements of the country. Vegetables and all hardy cereals are easily grown as far as the Arctic circle. It is a healthy country and a very beautiful country. The people are happy and contented and are looking forward to seeing their country developed.

"Ninety-eight per cent. of the oil used in Canada at present is imported. The north looks forward to being able to stop this importation and to put Canada on the map as one of the great oil exporting countries of the world," the Colonel concluded.

Winnipeg May Build Home For Workers

Winnipeg, June 8.—For the purpose of reducing to a minimum the housing shortage of this city the local health department has suggested to the civic authorities the construction by means of a huge municipal building scheme, of a "wage earners" residential district on property 50 to 100 acres in extent. The district according to the scheme suggested, would be laid out in an attractive manner with good streets, boulevards, trees, parks, school site, library, picture theatre and stores, all designed and built as part of a general harmonious plan.

The proposal conforms with a former plan to construct dwellings wholesale with materials purchased in large quantities and so the same group of workmen and the same materials could be employed at one place rather than distributed in different portions of the city as is necessary when individual building operations are under way.

The report submitted by the department adds that "if, when the right time comes, a municipal building scheme is inaugurated on the right lines there is no reason it should not be successful."

JAPANESE EXPLORER LEAVES FOR ARCTIC

Edmonton, June 8.—Jujrio Wada, intrepid Japanese explorer, who holds the distinction of having made the fastest return trip from Edmonton to the Fort Norman oil fields by dog-team, is again on his way north on an expedition to the Arctic which may prove even more eventful than that made in the dead of winter this year. He expects to return here by fall.

The little Jap, who has been continuously exploring Canadian Arctic regions since the year 1893, is convinced that there are minerals including gold on the far northern slopes and plans to spend the next four or five months exploring the region of the Canoe river from the Arctic Ocean inland.

Church Union Endorsed By General Assembly

229 MINISTERS IN FAVOR OF THE STEP AND 61 ARE OPPOSED—VOTE FROM WESTERN CANADA ALMOST SOLIDLY FOR UNITING WITH METHODISTS AND CONGREGATIONALISTS—END OF THREE-DAY DEBATE.

TORONTO, June 8.—After a debate extending over three days the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada yesterday afternoon carried by a vote of 414 to 107 a motion to consummate organic union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches of Canada as expeditiously as possible.

An analysis of the vote, which was taken by a call of the roll, showed that 229 ministers and 185 elders supported the motion, while 61 ministers and 46 elders voted for the amendment, which proposed "cordial cooperation with other Christian communions."

WEST SOLID FOR UNION.

The West voted almost solid for union; the entire representation from the Presbytery of Winnipeg, consisting of ten ministers and nine elders, were unanimous. The Presbytery of Ottawa, with the exception of one elder, voted for the motion. Toronto voted 17 to 6 for the motion. Hamilton voted 11 to 3, London 8 to 3, Kingston Presbytery 10 to 1.

Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw were a block for union, and Edmonton had only one dissentient. The Presbytery of Westminster, B.C., voted 9 to 3 for union, but Victoria went 5 to 3 against it. The voting in the east was almost as strong as that of the west in favor of the motion. Sydney and Halifax Presbyteries had only one vote against union. Montreal Presbytery voted 12 to 9 for the motion.

It was a tense moment when the Moderator declared the debate closed and announced that the vote would be taken by a call of the roll. In earnest tones he reminded the commissioners that they had come to that Assembly to do the will of God. He said there was no greater vote ever taken in the life of the Assembly. He commended the commissioners upon the high level of good feeling and brotherliness that had been maintained in the debate.

UNION RESOLUTION

The text of the motion on Church union which carried on the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday by almost four to one reads:

"That whereas the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada has already by a large majority expressed itself in favor of organic union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches of Canada;

"That whereas two appeals to the members and adherents of the Presbyterian Church in Canada have resulted in a similar way;

"That whereas, during the time when, by general agreement, the matter of union was not discussed, nothing has occurred to change the mind of the Church, but rather to confirm and strengthen its previous decision;

"Therefore, be it resolved that this General Assembly take such steps as may be deemed best to consummate organic union with the .above-named .Churches .as expeditiously as possible."

The vote taken in 1915 on the straight question of organic union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches resulted as follows:

Sessions, 7,066 for, and 3,822 against.

Communicants, 106,534 for, 69,-913 against.

Adherents, 36,142 for, 20,004 against.

Pastoral charges and mission fields, 1,331 for; 494 against.

At the General Assembly of Winnipeg in 1916 the vote definitely committing the Church to organic union was 406 to 88. This vote was taken on the question for and against the principle of Church union.

Protest Against Church Union Resolution

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, June 8.—"Last ditchers" of anti-unionists made another attempt in the Presbyterian General Assembly to-day to have the Church Union issue referred again to the people for decision, and failing in this, they entered a formal dissent from the action of the Assembly, holding that the Assembly had no constitutional authority to disband the Presbyterian church or transfer its property. The dissent was referred to a special committee for a reply. A meeting of those joining in the protest has been called by Dr. E. Scott, of Montreal, for this afternoon to decide on a course of action.

Detroit Bandits Steal Payroll

VICTIM FORCED TO DRIVE MEN TO THE SUBURBS, WHERE THEY ESCAPED

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—Three robbers who intercepted two employees of the Schlaff Creamery Company on their way to the bank with a satchel containing $2,969.55, on East Baltimore Avenue, made off with the money and later kidnapped the branch manager for a driver.

J. H. Lang had the money in charge and was riding in a car driven by another employe. As they were about to drive off a man stepped towards them from the curb. Their way was blocked by an automobile in front.

"Don't make any noise and you won't get hurt," the man from the sidewalk said as he pointed a pistol at them. Reaching into the car he took the satchel, stepped into the auto in front and speeded away.

Clark Hammer, manager of the Creamery Company, jumped into a car and trailed the robbers to Farnsworth and Hastings Streets, where the thugs left their machine. The manager and his driver tried to take the robbers, but were held back at the point of a pistol.

Two of the robbers then forced Hammer to drive them to Mack Avenue and Mt. Elliott street. There he was thrown out and the robbers made their get-away.

No General Industrial Unrest in Canada

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Quebec, June 8.—Discussing the report of the Industrial Relations Committee at the session of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to-day, S. R. Parsons of Toronto, denied that there was any general industrial unrest in Canada. He observed that President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, instead of talking about the autocracy of the United States Steel Corporation might throw more light on autocercy of trade unionism and its tryanny. Only Greece had carried out resolutions adopted by the Washington Labor Convention in 1919, he said. The Transportation Committee urged the necessity of a revision of railway rates in order to revive business.

INJURED IN COLLISION

PLAYGROUNDS OF QUEBEC

To the summer vacationist weary of the conventional summer resorts, the Province of Quebec makes an especially strong appeal. The old and the new are here found side by side. The visitor may tread where some of the great pages of history have been written in blood. The lover of the quaint and curious may search out places which are in the twentieth century but are not of it. The artist may revel in the sight of the grandest of scenery amid the mountains, in the valleys and on the Gaspe Peninsula—by the sea. For the sportsman there are unrivalled forests and streams, lakes and shores. Within a day's journey of the cities are regions as yet so little disturbed that the moose, caribou and deer occasionally visit the farmyards of the settlers. Among the cities are the commercial capital of Canada, Montreal, a happy combination of New York and Paris, with a dash of New Orleans giving it spice and flavor"—and the oldest city on the American Continent, Quebec. The Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome booklet descriptive of many of the attractive summer resorts in Quebec. It is profusely illustrated and contains a splendid four color map of the Province of Quebec. A free copy for the asking from Canadian National-Grand Trunk Agents or from C. E. Horning, D.P.A., Toronto, Ont.

Says It Made Her Life Miserable

Toronto Woman Could Hardly Eat A Thing Before She Started On Tanlac—Feels Fine Now

"If I could only express in words what I feel in my heart then everybody would know how grand Tanlac is," said Mrs. Daniel Santimo, 386 Parliament St., Toronto, Ont.

"It has been over two years since Tanlac relieved me of a bad case of indigestion that made life miserable for five long years. I didn't have much appetite and nothing I ate seemed to do me any good. Frequently there was such a severe pressure of gas in my chest I almost collapsed, and had such weak spells I was unable to do my housework. I had dreadful headaches that lasted for days at a time, and frequently I became so dizzy I had to sit down for half an hour at a time. I had lost so much weight and was so weak and run down I was almost a wreck.

"The very first bottle of Tanlac helped me so much I shall never forget it. My appetite increased and my digestion improved so I could eat things I hadn't dared touch for a long time. By the time I had taken my fourth bottle all my aches and pains had disappeared and my strength and energy had returned till I felt better than I did even before my trouble began. To-day I'm a well woman, thanks to Tanlac. People who suffer as I did can't make any mistake by giving Tanlac a trial."

What The Press Agents Say

THE LADY STILL PURSUES HIM

In its theme, Constance Talmadge's latest First National attraction "The Perfect Woman", is entirely different from anything that has been used as a subject for humorous photoplays. There is an established precedent in motion pictures, whereby the hero stubbornly seeks the hand of the fair young thing, but in Connie's latest, the talented star, as the heroine, does all the matrimonial game hunting, and the consequences are novel and very humorous.

In this picture which is being shown at Griffin's to-night for the last time, it will be observed that Connie is one of the most artful and loving vamps ever caught in the act of snatching a man from single blessedness.

Harold Lloyd is appearing on the same program in a very funny 2-reel comedy "Number, Please", three other plays will also be exhibited.

FAIRBANK'S LATEST PICTURE HIS BEST

Never before has Douglas Fairbanks waxed so enthusiastic over the success and admiration of a picture than he has over "The Mark of Zorro", his fourth United Artists' production which will be the feature attraction at Griffin's to-morrow to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday.

The story is an adaptation of Johnston McCulley's novel, "The Curse of Capistrano," which appeared in "All-Story Weekly" magazine.

Those critics who have viewed "The Mark of Zorro" have proclaimed that Fairbanks has excelled any of his previous performances. This is due to some extent to the ingenious story and the opportunities afforded "Doug." to make the greatest use of his athletic ability.

A replica of the entire city of Los Angeles, as it existed during those stirring days, was constructed at a stupendous outlay. Over one hundred genuine types were secured for the purpose of realism. They can be seen in the picture attired in their native costumes and pursuing their usual vocations. In fact every incident to the most minute detail has been given the most careful attention.

A PLEASING CONCERT

Under the auspices of the Bridge Street Church Symphony Orchestra a concert was given last evening in the Sunday School rooms, which were taxed to capacity by the attendance. A programme was provided which was most pleasing to lovers of music. Rev. Dr. Cleaver, pastor, was chairman and gave a brief address, referring in a complimentary way to the orchestra and the good work it was accomplishing. The orchestra is composed of sixteen pieces, namely: one cornet, 2 clarinets, nine violins; one mandolin, one bass viol, drums and traps, and piano. Mr. W. C. Sills is the capable leader. The program given was as follows:

Overture — "Fraternity" (Mackie-Beyer)—Orchestra.
Reading—"How the LaRue Stakes Were Lost" (Newton Hood)—Miss A. Lazier.
Ladies Quartette—"Bells of Shandon" (Nevin)—Mrs. McKinnon, Mrs. Keeber, Mrs. Wenn, Miss Brown.
Overture—"Opera Gems" (Mackie-Beyer)—Orchestra.
Solo—"Rose of My Heart"—Mr. Harold Barrett.
Reading—"Selected"—Miss M. Young.
Overture—"The Palms" (J. Faure)—Orchestra.
Piano Duet—Miss Potter and Miss Yeomans.
Solo—Prof. Staples.
Readings—(a) "The Mericana Girl" (Daly); (b) "The Love Nest" (Nora Perry)—Miss Ada Ketcheson.
Solo—"Captain Mac" (Sanderson)—Mr. James Booth.
Overture—"Aida March" (Verdi)—Orchestra.
God Save the King.

Dear Marie,
Cheers, old dear, for I can play golf now! And oh, Jack is such a marvellous teacher. I only lost three balls for keeps, and just said two really very bad words. But I can't remember the names of all those funny old sticks you use. I always got the "mashie" and "putty" mixed up, but thank goodness I have them thoroughly straightened out now.

The sun was terrifically hot that day though, and I was so engrossed I didn't notice how red my arms and neck were getting. However, my ever-ready bottle of Campana's Italian Balm saved the situation once again. It is so soothing when rubbed on gently, and takes all the pain and redness away.

Love,
Peggy

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone, 36, or write The Intelligencer.

An appreciative parent saw a kind and patient man at the head of one of the Belleville schools, a man who puts himself in the place of each one of his pupils and is so sorry for them when their nerves get the better of them. I wish I might tell you all that I have seen this man do, says the parent aforesaid.

After schools close the camps for boys and girls will open, and, I see, says a subscriber, that Miss Driscoll is getting ready for her summer camp of girls which is such a fine place. This year she is doing a wise thing in going off to Quebec and the sea for two weeks to store up energy for her hard work during July and August, when she will direct the activities of a bunch of girls for two months and believe me that is some job.

Lady reader says she saw a tired nurse on Tag Day talking to a man and his wife. The man said "you took my beer away, and I won't give you a cent for your benevolence." His wife evidently did not feel that the absence of beer should interfere with the ambulance and she made a contribution to the fund.

An observant one writes that she saw a little mother of three wee babes, all under three years of age, and a sick husband, going into a neighbor's home where she was needed as it was a house of sickness and death, and never complain until she was all but down and out, and one after another of her babies sick. She is only twenty-three years old, this little woman with the big heart, and tell me are there many like her? I don't think so, but she is earning her own and her babies living while her husband is recovering from a critical illness.

What have you seen?

MACKENZIE KING, LEADER OF THE QUEBEC ANTI-CONSCRIPTIONISTS

Mackenzie King was chosen to lead the Liberal party because he held the same opinions on conscription as the people of Quebec and suffered defeat therefor in his own province of Ontario. Such was the frank admission of Arthur Cardin, M.P., in a speech at Pierreville, Que., in the Yamaska election campaign. Mackenzie King's leadership, depending as it does upon such a rotten foundation, will not lead Liberals who were more Canadian than politician during the war, and his so-called leadership will not lead anywhere.

"This by-election is but a preliminary round in the big fight," said Mr. Cardin, and when you express yourselves on the 28th you will be expressing not only the county of Yamaskaa, but you will express what the province of Quebec thinks.

Some people in this campaign, said Mr. Cardin, are talking about independent views, saying that there was no longer any difference between political parties, that the Liberal party as now constituted was the party which had opposed conscription, that it was the party of Laurier who had prevented the imperialistic views of Chamberlain from gaining sway in Canada.

It was well for them to remember also that the present leader of the Liberal party, Hon. Mr. King, had been named leader of the party because he held the same opinions on conscription as the people of Quebec, and suffered defeat therefore in his own province of Ontario.

"It was for that he was chosen to lead the Liberal party, and direct it in the pathway which Laurier laid out," said Mr. Cardin.

"You should have a big enough heart to prevent you from going on your knees before Meighen. He insulted us in all that we have most dear, and hurt us in the most noble sentiments. You would have no heart and no right to the title of a great people if you are low enough to bow and kiss the hand that struck us."

CANADIAN GOODS ARE CHEAPER THAN IMPORTED.

The charge that the prices of Canadian-made goods are higher than the prices of similar goods abroad by the amount of freight, duty and exchange, is unfair and untrue as applied to the products of most Canadian industries. Canadian manufacturers base thenr prices on cost of production, and the margin of profit generally is exceedingly small. Equalizing years of depression with those of prosperity, the profit of the average manufacturing company on its actual investment is little more than ordinary bank interest. Repeated testimony before the Tariff Committee clearly showed that:

1. The tariff is considered by most Canadian manufacturers not as a means of securing unfair prices but as an assistance, by reason of an assured home market, to enable them to get advantages of quantity production and to produce and sell at the lowest possible unit cost.

2. Domestic competition in most cases can be depended upon to prevent the charging of excessive prices or the taking of excessive profits on Canadian-made goods.

Investigation by the Canadian Reconstruction Association has shown that:

1. Canadian retail selling prices of manufactured commodities in most cases are substantially lower than retail selling prices in the United States, plus the Canadian import duty.

2. Many commodities manufactured in Canada and protected by a tariff on imports are sold to the Canadian consumer at prices as low as, and not infrequently lower than, retail selling prices in the United States of comparable commodities even without considering the duty.

CRISP COMMENT

Hon. Drury thinks that since Ontario has gone bone-dry it is entitled to all the water, but Right Hon. Meighen says "go take a chaser.'

Hon. Biggs says politics are rotten, but Wilson, M.P. of Dundas, says there are no rotten roads around the Biggs country estate.

Hon. Charles Murphy scents a propaganda to make leading Canadians more imperialistic. Hon. Charles, however, is in no danger of becoming inoculated with the virus of imperialism—he's too parochial.

When a person stops to think of income taxes, municipal taxes, amusement taxes and other drains on the treasury, capital punishment hardly seems to fit the crime in the case of William Hohenzollern, one time known as the All-Highest.

Premier Meighen is having a short holiday on the ocean on his way from the big job at Ottawa to the big job overseas at the conference of Premiers of the Empire. Premier Meighen is measuring up satisfactorily to his exalted position as the chief executive officer of greater Canada.

Spectacle of political spell-binders making Quebec voters believe that conscription is still a live issue is disgusting to real one hundred per cent. Canadians. The spellbinders do not believe it themselves, but the desire for revenge must needs be gratified even if the truth be murdered.

If Quebec is determined to unite, against the rest of Canada upon a policy of revenge for the enactment of the Military Service Act when the liberty of the world was threatened, then the rest of Canada should unite against Quebec and show how foolish a policy she has adopted.

PITY THE POOR TEACHER
The Australasian

There is no more honorable profession in the world than the teaching of the young. Yet it is the most badly paid. In Australia the unskilled laborer can earn as much as a secondary school teacher, and considerably more than a head teacher of a State school. Democracies seem to entertain contempt for the teacher, and the true demagogue regards education as another name for snobbery.

JUST HARD WORK

The playwrights, thinkers, writers, scientists and artists who have risen above their fellows have done so by constant application and by unremitting toil. We see them in their hours of triumph and forget the rest. The successful ones appear to the public in their success. And the public marvels at the ease with which they go through their steps, little recking of the price paid for the glory.

A TRUER TYPE OF MAN

We were sitting there an smokin' of our pipes, discussin' things,
Like licker, votes for wimmin, an' the tottering thrones of kings,
When he up an' strokes his whiskers with his hand an' says t' me:
"Changing laws an' legislatures ain't
as fur as I can see,
Goin' to make this world much better, unless somehow we can Find a way to make a better an' a finer sort o' man

"The trouble ain't with statutes or with systems—no at all;
It's with humans jus' like we air an'
their petty ways an 'small.
We could stop our writin' law-books an' our regulatin' rules
If a better sort of manhood was the product of our schools.
For the things that we air needin' isn't writin' from a pen
Or bigger guns to shoot with, but a bigger type of men.
"I reckon all these problems air jest
ornery like the weeds.
They grow in soil that oughta nourish
only decent deeds,
An' they waste our time an' fret us when, if we were thinkin' straight
An' livin' right, they wouldn't be so terrible and great.
A good horse needs no snaffle, an' a good man, I opine,
Doesn't need a law to check him or to force him into line.

"If we ever start in teachin' to our children, year by year,
How to live with one another, there'll be less o' trouble here.
If we'd teach 'em how to neighbor an'
to walk in honor's ways,
We could settle every problem which the mind o' man can raise.
What we're needin' isn't systems or some regulatin' plan,
But a bigger an' a finer an' a truer type o' man."

RECORD APPLE CROP

Calgary, Alta., June 8.—Everything points to a record apple crop in British Columbia this year, and, if nothing unforeseen happens, the prairie markets are assured of a good supply of high grade apples, according to J. A. Grant, British Columbia fruit commissioner for Alberta. Mr. Grant estimates that five thousand cars of apples will be shipped out of British Columbia this year, which is an increase of nearly 100 per cent. over last year's output.

Mrs. SELCHERT'S DAUGHTER
Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Horicon, Wis.—"My young daughter had been troubled for several months with backache and a bad feeling in her stomach. She did not want to eat anything, while before she was so hungry she could hardly wait for her meals. The doctors gave her medicine but it did not help her. One day I was reading a little book of yours and it reminded me that when I was a young girl I took several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So she went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking the second one she could eat and has not had backache since. In all she took six bottles of it. She goes to school and on Saturdays helps with the housework. She is a normal, healthy girl now and we recommend your medicine. You have my permission to publish this letter as a testimonial for the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. FRANK SELCHERT, 150 Larabee St., Horicon Wisconsin.

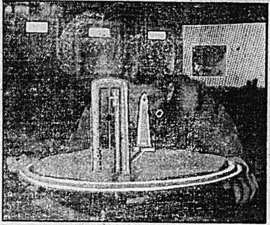
ENCOURAGING CANADIAN FORESTRY

Scene of a Forest Fire.



The new Forest Fire Finder, an instrument recently invented to locate a fire quickly. It is expected to reduce the danger and loss from fires to a minimum. The instrument has been installed in the look-out towers in California forests and a fire can be detected 50 miles away.

It was only during recent years that the public of Canada began to fully realize the value of the trees of the country, and the necessity for protecting them. One never knows the worth of a tree until its shade is gone. Canada was so rich in forests that the people imagined that their forests were inexhaustible. But year after year devastating fires swept over the wooded areas to such an alarming extent that the people at last realized that steps would have to be taken to save the trees.

Twenty years ago the Canadian Forestry Association was inaugurated. To-day under the presidency of Mr. C. E. E. Ussher, passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, it is one of the most flourishing organisations in the Dominion.

The produce of the forests is one of the greatest assets of Canada. The pulp and paper business and the lumber business supply tens of thousands with profitable employment. The object of the Canadian Forestry Association is to preserve existing forests, to encourage tree planting, and provide the most up to date forestry administration.

The Association has now 12,500 members, the majority of whom are not financially interested in timber limits, saw mills or paper mills. It is completely independent of government departments and commercial bodies and has the more easily, on that account, won public confidence and attained great influence through its aggressive educational campaign. From the beginning the association has aimed to encourage a spirit of intelligent partnership between the federal and provincial governments and the wood-using industries in connection with the protection and management of the forests.

To diminish much more than in the past the destruction of the forests by fire is considered by the association to be by far the most important problem. After that it gives due consideration to replanting and general forest management. The very effective results of its educational campaign are due to the variety of practical methods that are followed. These include publicity work through the newspapers; a speaker's bureau of three hundred voluntary workers; travelling lecture cars in the East and in the West; the preparation of travelling lecture sets of lantern slides, and lecture manuscripts; an illustrated forestry magazine; the placing of "sermonettes" on the menu cards in railway dining-cars, and little warnings in cigarette packages, etc.

Tree planting in the Prairie Provinces is making rapid headway at present. On April 10th, 1921, a tree planting campaign was started. There are now more than 50,000 plantations of trees in the three prairie provinces, and more than 50,000,000 seedlings have been furnished from the Dominion Government nursery at Indian Head, to prairie farmers. Fully 90 per cent. of them have been successfully grown. A railway car equipped as an auditorium with motion picture machines visits many districts, and lecturers explain the object of the tree planting campaign. It is expected that 200 prairie communities will be covered before the present tour closes.

The primary object is to enlist the personal interest of settlers in constructing a shelter built of trees by showing them exactly how to proceed and supplying complete data to ensure success.

"The economic importance of constructing windbreaks of trees," said Mr. Robson Black, executive secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association "cannot be overstated. Thick shelter belts are a powerful preventive of soil drift, and of wind damage to crops. A thick growth of trees protects the land to a distance equal to ten times the height of the trees. There is also to be considered the need of every farmer for fence posts and fuel and small construction timber. He may very easily and cheaply produce such necessities on his own property.

"Our tree planting campaigns are heartily endorsed by agriculturists and foresters for they are thoroughly practicable. They have the financial backing of one of the prairie provinces, Saskatchewan, and of the railways, land companies, and several wholesale houses in Winnipeg."

"You can always size up a circus by its 'bulls'," says the old circus man—"bulls," by the way, being the improved circus vernacular for elephants.

While this is not an infallable rule, the elephant is an important factor in the modern tent show, just as he contributed in no small degree to the pageantry of Old Rome and the circus spectacles of Ancient Greece.

The John Robinson circus, which is to display its wonders in this city, Monday, June 13, announces that it makes a speciality of its trained elephants. And, acording to all accounts its big pachyderms are as multitudinous as they are educatedly clever. The elephants are utilized in the big spectacular entree, which introduces the performance, they are presented in a series of stunts in the three rings, they make a brave showing in the menagerie, and they play an important and popular role in the "sunbright and scintillatingly resplendent free street parade" that ushers in circus day.

A novel angle in the John Robinson elephants offering is the fact that the three herds are directed by as many clever girls—fearless and agile young women, who are said to display an aptness in handling their big charges that mere men rarely acquire. Under their direction the elephants are said to go through their difficult performances with the tractability of burros. There are twenty performing pachyderms with the show.

money, an' offered to swap beef fer the pies; he refused to trade. Then we put 'im on his sway backed hoss an' loaded 'im back and front with bloody beef an' tol' 'im ef he didn't make tracks we'd shoot at the beef. But we didn't have time to eat the pies even, fer the thing had begun. Folks has often axed me what a battle was like. I couldn't tell you. It jest made a sound—ooo—ooo—ooo—like a harrycane rippin' gullies in the earth an' sweepin' away trees, rocks, hills, an' everything in its track, an' on she come! I hain't here to lie—I was scared clean down into my socks. When they hove into sight round the hill in the sun, I couldn't see nothin' but a solid bank o' silver. By gum, it looked like thar was enough bayonet p'ints displayed thar to stab all the flies in the universe. I seed our general about that time; he was a-settin' on his hoss a chawin' tobacco an' spittin' over its head; he was as cool as a cucumber; looked like he was jest tryin' to study what would be the right thing to do. He was a daisy; part Injun, an' not afeard o' God Almighty. Seein' him that a-way made me sorter ashamed, an' I plunged in. At fust it come awkward, but in a minute it wasn't any more'n shootin' at rabbits.

"That's a old Yankee army overcoat."

"We plugged away an' laughed an' made jokes an' had a good all round time as long as it lasted, an' then we got rattled an' begun to retreat. I was shot through the left arm an' side, an' fell in a ditch. A Yankee run up with a p'inted bayonet an' yelled, 'Cuss you, come out o' thar or I'll shoot you!' Some o' our boys said I ort to 'a' cussed 'im back, but I didn't. It jest seemed part o' the game to me, an' he was winnin'. 'You come down after me,' said I, 'ef you want me.' An' a couple of 'em did, an' drug me up the bank. They had ketched a few more of our boys on the wing, an' they driv' us up in a circle an' put some foreign guards around us. Every one of us was cut ur had balls som'ers in us, but we sassed them guards about the'r brogue, an' one thing an' other, till they was mad enough to kill us. They give us good treatment—I'll say that much fer 'em—an' I liked the'r grub. They had all sorts o' good stuff in cans. They patched us up in the hospital an' finally exchanged us."

"Oh, say," protested Kenner, "that ain't all, is it?"

"It's all I've got to say today. I've got to blow a few blasts at the post-office an' stick up the flag." He stepped to Buckley's desk and leaned on it. "I wish, George, that you was out our way to make Jeff behave hisself."

"Drinking again?" George asked, with a smile.

"Yes, an' that ain't all; he's got every moonshiner over thar down on 'im. He informed on some of 'em while he was out o' his head an' now thar's no tellin' whar it will end. Somebody shot at 'im while he was in the field t'other day—some skunk in the woods, afraid to show hisself."

"That's pretty bad," said George sympathetically. "Jeff ought to be more cautious."

As Truitt was leaving, Mrs. Hillyer waddled in, her gray shawl wrapped tightly round her body.

"Come fer money to run the house on," she said, with a laugh, to her husband. "No, thank you, I won't set down," she added to Kenner, who was offering her his chair. "The truth is, I'm goin' to steer clear o' this house. Mrs. Dugan says all the reports in the town git started among you uns. Ef she knew I came here she'd lay it on me. I thought fer a while, after they lifted her quarantine, that she was goin' to do different, but she's wuss 'an ever. I sawed 'er off short yesterday, though." Mrs. Hillyer laughed heartily. "You know, Mr. Kenner, she's got one tale that she tells over an' over constantly. One of the longest winded yarns you ever heard, about how she fust got acquainted with a woman she met by accident. She forgets she's told it twenty times, an' jest takes 'er chair an' begins to unwind. So far nobody hain't been bold enough to say they'd heard it before, but when I seed her a-comin' through the gate yesterday I told Hortense ef she dared to spring that old gag on me ag'in I'd stop 'er ef it cost me my life. I thought Hortense ud die laughin', fer Mrs. Dugan had no sooner 'n set down than she begun to tell about how she fust met the woman. Well, I'd made my bet, an' I wasn't goin' to be beat. 'Hold on,' said I; 'right here I want to tell you some'n, Mrs. Dugan—some'n powerful quar about me. I believe, on my soul, I've got second sight.' 'Second sight,' says she, in her mean way, 'why, I didn't think you was quite old enough to have yore second sight.' 'I don't mean that sort o' second sight,' says I; 'but I've noticed sometimes when a body would begin a tale I could see clean to the end of it long before the end was reached. Now,' says I, 'see ef I ain't right; the next time you met that woman was at the county fair, whar she tuck fust prize on her patch quilt,' an' with that I finished out her yarn, as pat as ef it was one o' my own brag tales. Lord, wasn't she hot! She got as red as a ripe tomato. 'I wasn't goin' to tell that,' says she; 'I remember tellin' you that. I was goin' to git round to some'n else; but, since you are so almighty smart, I reckon I'll go on about my business,' an' with that she flirted out o' the house, an' kicked the dog as she went by it on the porch. When a woman's mad enough to kick a dog her dander's flyin' in 'er eyes.'" Mrs. Hillyer laughed as she thrust her red hand from beneath her shawl and took the money the merchant was giving her. "Don't git married, Mr. Kenner," she said. "A woman will either keep yore nose to the grindstone with 'er mouth shet, or talk you to death—or both."

Kenner smilingly walked with her to the outer door. "I was jest a-wonderin', Mrs. Hillyer, what you think about George's case with that highfalutin Virginia girl. I'm interested in that boy, an' it looks like a pity to me to have 'im lookin' in that direction—I mean jest that particular direction."

"I know what you mean, Mr. Kenner"—the woman shuddered in the keen, cool breeze—"but do you reckon it's any more'n friendship on his side?"

"That's what I'm botherin' about," answered the cotton buyer. "I don't let on to George, of course, but I've been watchin' him powerful close. He wants everybody to think him an' her jest passin' friends; but, law me, sometimes when he thinks nobody hain't a-lookin' he gits off his guard. One day, while he was at work on his books, she happened to ride past on that frisky mare o' hers. The animal got scared at the puffin' o' the compress over thar an' begun to cut up. The saddle girth broke, an' she fell in a ditch. She wasn't hurt one speck, an' seven or eight o' my men at the compress ran out an' helped 'er up, but George must 'a' thought she was, fer he turned as white as a sheet an' trembled all over as he made a break fer the spot, an' when he seed no harm had come to her his face actually puffed up, an' he couldn't speak. An' she was watchin' 'im too. She was perfectly cool an' lookin' at him jest like she was enjoyin' his excitement. She axed 'im one or two questions, an' it looked to me like she was jest doin' it beca'se he wasn't in the condition to reply."

Mrs. Hillyer laughed. "You ort to 'a' been a woman, Mr. Kenner. I didn't know any man alive could notice like that. But do you reckon the pore young man ever hopes to—you know what I mean?"

"That's the pretty part of it," said Kenner, with no little feeling. "It looks to me like he hain't never dreamt of marryin', like he was jest satisfied to let things go on as they are. If I'm any judge, that is the most dangerous sort o' love, ef a body kin call it that."

"I'll say this fer 'er," said Mrs. Hillyer seriously. "I don't think she is a woman that ud handle a man's affections lightly jest fer the fun o' the thing. An' sometimes I think she is doin' jest like you say George is—jest a-lettin' the thing pull 'er along, knowin', as she does, that he hain't the man 'er folks ud accept. So you think George railly is interested in 'er?"

"That hain't the word fer it," said Kenner. "As fer her bein' above 'im in station, what does that matter to him? I've never seed his equal fer pride an' self respect. I believe ef a railly refined young man is put in low surroundin's he'll make a finer creature sometimes than ef he was put among the best. No, George cayn't hide his feelin's. I think maybe he had some hope before his father's disgrace, but he hain't now. Thar was a tobacco drummer from Virginia in the office t'other day, an' he got to runnin' on, like them sort o' men will, to me an' Hanks. George was writtin' letters at the desk. The drummer begun tellin' us about bein' astonished to see folks like the Cranstons in this out of the way place. He said Miss Lydia was the belle o' Richmond society an' had big public men runnin' after 'er. He said our governor—you know Governor Telfare is a widower about my age—well, he met 'er at some military encampment down south an' is dead bent on marryin' her. I wanted to stop the feller, fer I knowed George was listenin', but I couldn't take the liberty. I seed George had quit writin' an' was lookin' out o' the window with his jaw set, like he was sufferin'.

Better Stories to Be Told.

"Let me write the songs of the nation and I care not who makes the laws," was the idea of a luncheon given recently by T. Tokonami, minister of home affairs, at his official residence to story tellers and singers from the cheaper amusement halls of Tokio. Japan has hundreds of story-telling halls, which vie with the cinemas in attracting throngs unable to attend more expensive entertainments. Tokonami said that the songs and stories of the people have a great influence on the character of the Japanese community, and he urged his guests to give the public only that which will elevate the mind and character, as well as prove interesting and artistic.—From the Japan Society Bulletin.

Immigrants Travel in State

It is a tradition among Canadians, handed down from an earlier generation, but still virile, that one must register horror—as the movie people have it—when speaking of crossing the ocean in the steerage.

As a matter of fact, the tradition is out of date. Indeed, coming over in the steerage on a modern liner is more comfortable than coming over first-class used to be on some of the earlier steamships which plied on the ocean ferry.

Nor need the term "they came over in the steerage" longer have the force it once had as one of social opprobrium. Strong, clean-living men came over in the steerage — future Canadian farmers and business men and perhaps statesmen among them—and earnest, clean-living women, the potential mothers of future Premiers.

To many of them, intimidated with the old tales of the discomforts of steerage travel, their experience on the voyage across comes as a pleasant surprise. Indeed, steerage de luxe would be a fitting term for third-class quarters on the biggest liners. Particularly is this true if they are so fortunate as to book their passage on any of the larger ships of an old-established line. Such vessels as the Olympic and Adriatic of the White Star Line and the Lapland of the Red Star Line, and others of similar type, for example, have done a great deal toward raising the standard of steerage travel to what it is to-day.

For the information of folks ashore, who have never been in the steerage of a ship, it may be well to describe the quarters of the third-class passengers.

First in importance are the bedrooms, or staterooms as they are termed aboard ship. These as a rule contain four beds, or bunks, there being two on a side. The beds are framed in iron pipe, fitted with an elastic bottom of metal strips. The bedding consists of mattress, sheets, pillow with slip, blankets and coverlet, or bed spread. Each room has electric light, linoleum floor covering, white enameled walls, mechanically controlled ventilation, and heat when needed.

Next in importance is the steerage dining room. Some ships have two. A third-class dining-room is always large—more than 300 persons can sit down at the tables at once—and it is well lighted and well ventilated. The long tables are covered with neat cloths. Individual swivel chairs permit the passengers to sit at table in comfort, and the food is served on good crockery.

As to the food itself, it is wholesome and abundant. Here are some sample bills of fare on a recent voyage of the Adriatic, when she brought 1,250 passengers in third class:

BREAKFAST.
Rolled Oats and Milk.
Grilled Bacon. Fried Eggs.
Tea or Coffee. Marmalade.
Bread and Butter.
11 a.m.—Beef tea and broth as required for women and children.

DINNER.
Barley Broth.
Roast Ribs of Beef. Brown Gravy.
Dressed Cabbage. Boiled Potatoes.
Plum Pudding. Sweet Sauce.
Cheese. Biscuits.

TEA.
Vegetable Stew.
Cold Meats. Pickles.
Beetroot and Ring Onions.
Bread and Butter. Jam.
Tea or Coffee.
Apples and Oranges.

SUPPER.
Gruel. Biscuits. Cheese. Cocoa.

The third-class passengers have their own kitchen, which is as clean as the proverbial pin. Every pot and pan is bright and every dresser well scrubbed.

On most large ships the third cabin also has its lounge, or public room, which cuts quite as great a figure in the daily lives of the people who use it as that of first or second class.

It is a large room, with neatly paneled walls, well made benches or settees with curved backs of polished wood, and many small tables at which games may be played or drinks served—for prohibition does not place its restraining hand on the immigrant until he reaches this side of the ocean and he may have his beer or wine at sea when he wants it.

The entertainment of the public room of the steerage usually is informal, and also usually is spontaneous and interesting. On most voyages the conversation is in many tongues, and seldom lags.

The steerage has a piano of its own, and players are never wanting. There is also much volunteer music on the harmonica, mouth organ, accordion and other favorite instruments of the passengers. To such music it is easy to improvise jig or reel, or dance a quadrille; and many a vigorous measure is beat out upon the linoleum floor, or in fine weather the deck, by stamping young feet as the ship drives steadily along through the pathless deep.

On the Lapland a popular feature in the musical programs of the steerage in times past has been the playing of a band composed of members of the ship's fireroom force. A band concert on deck for the benefit of third-class passengers usually is accompanied by dancing. On such occasions the saloon passengers usually gather to see the sport, and a carnival spirit prevails. It would be an uphill task at such a time to convince anyone on board the ship that a steerage passage is a voyage of gloom.

A CLEVER GIRL

By T. B. ALDERSON

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

When Alston & Co. arranged for an efficiency man to steer their business bark upon the sea of business the latter, Gregory Hall, started in as a bred-in-the-bone disciplinarian and developed into an autocrat. Hall was a practical economist. He introduced rules and methods that cut out waste of both time and money.

Cyril Blake, nephew of the rich manufacturer, was somewhat nettled at the superior airs of this domineering tyro and the rapidity with which he won business distinction. Hall accepted recognition as to his ability, but did not flare or flash as to manner of attire. A cold, unsympathetic being, he pursued the even tenor of his way, his calculating eye ever on the alert, lived modestly, had no bad habits apparently and kept exclusively to himself.

Cyril was anxious to win the favor of his uncle. He was one of half a dozen relatives of the manufacturer who had been taken into his service, and he alone had stayed. Just now, after a year at the grind, Cyril was particularly anxious to stand well with the stern old millionaire, for he was in love with Miss Ethel Mason, his stenographer. She was poor and humble, and all that, and unknown in accepted social circles. The manufacturer was a great stickler as to social ethics and Cyril realized that his irascible temper might become inflamed if he learned that his nephew was wooing a young lady outside of the family set.

Nearly every Saturday afternoon Cyril met Ethel at a public park and a stroll or an auto ride resulted. One day they passed Hall. Cyril noted a sly, crafty smile illuminate the sinister features of his uncle's manager.

The next week Cyril was called into Mr. Alston's private office. The latter had been surly and disagreeable for several days. He informed Cyril that he wished him to spend a week in another city for the house. Cyril disliked being away from Ethel, but departed on his mission.

During his absence Hall perfected a plot he had formed. Its success in a way depended on the elimination of both Cyril and Ethel from the establishment, for, in a measure, they were a check on his operations. He had already advised Mr. Alston of his nephew's attachment for the pretty stenographer and she had been promptly discharged. Cyril, suspecting the talebearer, passed him with a look of undisguised dislike and contempt as he made his way to the office of his uncle. The latter was ready to congratulate Cyril on his successful business trip, but his nephew's face was stern and accusing as he asked:

"Uncle, why has Miss Mason been discharged from your service?"

"I guess I had better tell you the truth," responded Mr. Alston. "I learned that you were all but engaged to her. I can't have that, you know. If you have not sufficient respect for me to marry in your class I am through with you."

"You are indeed through with me and I with you!" cried Cyril, indignantly. "Miss Mason is worthy of any man's regard and I love her dearly. If it is a question of giving her up or remaining in your good graces I shall say good-by."

Cyril had no doubt that he would find his missing love, but at the end of two days gave up the quest in despair.

He decided that Ethel had left the city. He passed a wretched week. At its end he received a letter, evidently posted on a train.

"Dear friend," it read, "you shall soon hear from me, and probably in a way that will clear the situation. Trust and believe in me."

Cyril found employment at a new source. Twice he met his uncle on the street and bowed courteously, but the latter refused to recognize him. Then, one day, a glorious sunburst of joy illumined his lonely, longing soul. He met Ethel on the street. There were mutual greetings, such as only loyal, loving hearts can experience.

"I have just come from your uncle," said Ethel. "The day I was discharged from his service I overheard enough between himself and Hall to know that the latter had brought about our trouble. Then I remembered something. For some months he had been handling the new account with Robert Lull, Springfield, and several times I noticed discrepancies in that account. Do you know what he was doing? Shipping double consignments to Lull, who was his accomplice, and billing only one. The thought came to me to go to Springfield and seek employment with Lull, which I did. An hour since I proved to your uncle that Hall had stolen thousands of dollars' worth of goods from him."

"And my uncle?" queried Cyril anxiously.

"Said I was too valuable an employee to lose. Said, too, he would trust only his own kin in his business after this, meaning you. He wishes to see you at once."

"Yes, Ethel will do," were the cheering words of John Alston, after a reconciliation with Cyril. "She has won my admiration and regard, as she has your love, Cyril. I guess we had better allow matters to take their course."

The "course" led directly to an engagement ring, and Cyril Blake's fondest hopes were realized.

Up in God's own country

—her boy is getting well

HE was working his way through college, this boy, and contributing, too, to his mother's scanty resources.

Clever, and ambitious—his future looked the brightest! But—overwork and study undermined his health.

He had a breakdown.

"Consumption" was the doctors' verdict—and grim despair gripped the mother's heart.

Must he die, her boy? Surely, surely, somewhere, someone would help.

She appealed to the National Sanitarium Association ——and hope was justified.

Free treatment was provided at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, near Gravenhurst.

Now, up in "God's Own Country," —up among the pine trees, where the air is pure and life-giving—her boy is getting well.

The mother's prayers are being answered.

It is the needs of such as these that make necessary the National Sanitarium Association's

Consumptives' Emergency Million Dollar Fund

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, destroyed by fire on November 30th last, must be replaced by buildings, larger and fireproof.

Accommodation is needed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for 400 adults in early stages of the disease. This will restore 250 of them to their homes and loved ones—cured. The remainder will be greatly benefited.

A few months for each patient soon means thousands cared for. Funds are urgently needed for this work.

Again—adults in advanced stages must be treated at the King Edward Sanatorium on the banks of the Humber near Weston. Extensions are necessary. Many of these patients can be saved.

And again—little children—stricken with the dread disease—must be cared for at the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children near Weston. Ninety per cent. of these are saved to become healthy men and women.

Funds are urgently needed to cover the cost of extensions.

Further, funds are urgently needed to carry on the work of The Gage Institute in the City of Toronto, where the needy poor come for free examinations, including X-ray, and for medical and nursing assistance.

Fifteen thousand needy consumptives have been cared for to date at the hospitals conducted by the Association.

STRIKERS ANGRY AT LIBERAL WOMEN

Ottawa, June 6.—The Allied Trades and Labor Council was informed last night that cooks and waiters, who went on strike at the Chateau Laurier resent the manner in which Liberal women who were assembled for a banquet, stepped into the breach when the waiters struck, and served the banquet.

The Union has forwarded a letter of protest to Hon. W. L. M. King, and he is informed that when votes are looked for at the next general elections, the Union will remember how the Liberal ladies worked against the waiters when they left their posts for the purpose of bettering labor conditions. Delegate Martin, of the Cooks and Waiters, also objected to the Kiwanis Club holding a weekly meeting while the strike was in progress.

"The members of the Kiwanis Club are business men," Mr. Martin declared, "and as such ask us to patronize them in their business. They had their luncheon at the Chateau and thus showed us that they were not helping us in our strike."

LONE MAN IN OPEN DORY LOSES FIGHT FOR LIFE

Boston, June 6—A lone man's unsuccessful fight for life in an open dory at sea with little food or water was disclosed here when the fishing schooner Waltham brought in his body, picked up yesterday 25 miles east of Highland Light and west of the Georges fishing banks.

The body was found in the bottom of a dory that was riding the waves as right and tight as if under a fisherman's hand. In the stern stood a bamboo pole with a piece of red attached to it, a marker of distress. The body was badly emaciated. By its sides were the bones of sun fish plucked clean.

Capt. Clifford Hopkins of the Waltham said the extent of emaciation indicated that suffering from thirst and hunger must of been great, and that it was days before death delivered the man from his troubles. The fish that he caught, apparently, were his only food, and he had no fresh water.

The man was well dressed for his calling. He appeared to be about 45 years of age.

OPIUM CONTRABAND SEIZED IN CUBA

Havana, Cuba, June 7.—Seizure by Havana customs inspectors of several, valuable contraband shipments of opium has given rise to the theory that a strong smuggling organization is working through the Spanish port Barcelona. The drug capture has been found in the baggage of passengers arriving from that port.

One consignment which was found in a warehouse here is valued at about $250,000.

A DOUBLE HERO

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

With a shrill scream Mrs. Alice Drew ran to the open doorway of her little home. The echoing cry brought the widow's unmarried sister, Della Marvin, speedily to her side with the alarmed query:

"What is it?"

"Tina!" gasped Mrs. Drew. "She is dying—dead!"

"She is neither," spoke a reassuring voice and then, peering past her sister, Della noted a young man, dripping and haggard, a dark crimson stain across his forehead, one arm apparently helpless. He bore in the other the idol of the household, Tina, with dark hair and closed eyes. She seemed lifeless.

"Quick! Attend to her! She fell from the bridge. I jumped in and struck the abutment, but managed to get her ashore. Is she yours? Is this her home? Revive her, before it is too late!"

As the mother snatched the child from his arms, the stranger stumbled across the threshold, wavered towards a couch and fell across it. There he lay, prone and apparently senseless.

The little one revived inside a few minutes and its mother sobbing, with fright and then joy, carried her about the room. Della glided over to the rescuer and stood palpitatingly gazing down at him.

He was a handsome, vigorous young man and intelligence and refinement showed in his colorless face. Della was divided between pity and gratitude.

"Give me the little one," she spoke to her sister. "You have been a nurse and must attend to her brave rescuer. Oh, Alice! he looks like one dead. Had we not better send for the doctor at once?" But to this Alice dissented. She had known skilled service in a hospital and her expertness enabled her to correctly diagnose the case.

"You must help me get the young man into the spare bedroom, Della," she said. "I do not think he is seriously injured, but the cut on his head needs immediate attention."

Della put down Tina and with her sister's aid removed the soggy coat and vest of their patient. There was a conspicuousness about them and the cap that did not accord with his general appearance. Garment and headgear were of a loud plaid pattern, suggesting the overdressed man of style, sportily inclined. Mrs. Drew bathed the wound of the stranger.

"We must have our neighbor, Mr. Morse, get the young man to bed," said Mrs. Drew. "Ask him to step over, will you, Della?" And that good old man was summoned, and Mrs. Drew expressed a sigh of satisfaction when at last the patient was resting comfortably, although he had not yet opened his eyes and ever and anon gave utterance to incoherent wanderings like a person in the delirium of fever.

That evening a young man of the village, Varney Driscoll, called at the Drew home. Of late he had called regularly once a week and had been Della's escort to a number of town social functions. Della felt his companionship uncongenial, but accepted his attentions, not wishing to offend him. On this particular occasion she excused herself through her sister, who briefly alluded to the adventure of little Tina and the fact that they wished to keep the house quiet for her brave rescuer. The medicine chest came into helpful play that night and by morning the patient seemed to have passed the crisis.

He gave his name as Wallace Barnes, but told little else. The next day he was weak and lethargic, and Mrs. Drew told him he had better remain quiet for a day or two, to which instructions the presence of Della seemed to make him heed. It was the following day that Della went to the door to be confronted by Driscoll and the village marshal.

"You have a guest here we have come after," said the latter.

"Yes, the owner of those clothes I saw hanging on the line," supplemented Driscoll. "They gave me my cue. According to a circular offering a reward of one hundred dollars they belong to a man the police are looking for, wanted for embezzlement."

"Let us pass," ordered the marshal, as Della shrank back in bewilderment, and he forced his way past her. "Ronald Purcell, I arrest you in the name of the law!"

"But, I don't happen to be Ronald Purcell," calmly announced the young man.

"Your clothes answer the description sent out by the police," contended the official.

"Very likely, as I wore them purposely to throw the police off the trail of my dearest friend, Purcell, who is by this time safe in hiding until we can disprove the false charges against him. My name is Wallace Barnes, as you can readily ascertain if you wish to take the trouble."

Varney Driscoll sneaked away after one glance of disdain from Della. It told him that his mean, avaricious action had set a barrier between them he should never pass. Wallace Barnes remained in peace at the cottage and left it in love. Little Tina, whom he had saved from a watery grave, and the friend he had saved from the schemes of wicked plotters, were honored guests at his wedding and that of the happy Della.

NO HOT WATER

Hull, Eng. June 6.—The shortage of coal has been so serious here during the strike of the miners that the people were unable to obtain hot water. To meet this situation, the National Kitchen, which happened to have a supply of coal, sold hot water to the working people at one-half penny a bucket.

The shortage of coal also produced a shortage of ice it handicapped the artificial ice plants. To obviate this trawlers were sent to Holland to bring coal which they exchanged here for ice.

W.C.A. Discuss Plans For Home

At the June meeting of the Women's Christian Association held on Tuesday afternoon in the City Hall, the ladies of this society had a heavy afternoon's work. In addition to the regular hospital work and that of the indigent, plans were discussed for the new home. Conditions that have made removal from the old home an absolute necessity, led to the purchase of the Herchmer property on Dundas street, east, for this purpose.

The old home has been sold and money paid over on the new home, as has been published, a subscription list has been opened and a canvass will be put on next week.

The objective is $5,00, if the ladies could realize this amount, the home would be free of a mortgage. It is a very small sum to raise in a city this size, where every citizen is interested, as it really means a modest donation from most homes to put the institution out of debt, and make a comfortable and economic home for the maintenance of those whose years have found them in a position to be dependent on others, not only the satisfaction of having the home paid for, but it will also free the association and public indirectly from the burden of paying yearly interest.

Therefore it is hoped when the ladies start out on a house canvass that everyone will make it as easy as possible by having decided the amount of their donation or subscription. Subscriptions may be paid to canvassers or three, six or nine months later.

Meighan Reaches Quebec by Motor

Quebec, June 7—Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada, arrived in the city at 9 o'clock last night, having motored from Montreal, and was given a warm-hearted greeting by his Quebec friends, who were waiting at the Chateau Frontenac to welcome him.

The Prime Minister was delighted with his trip on the Montreal-Quebec highway, thoroughly enjoying the restful run along the picturesque road as well as the receptions which were extended to him at various points along the way.

Two motor cars conveyed the party to Quebec. In the first car were the Prime Minister and Mrs. Meighen, and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dupuis of Montreal, while in the second car were Hon. Senator Pope, Mrs. (Rr.) Gildas A. Cromwell, Arthur Lande and Charles Emard.

Scarcely had the Prime Minister reached his rooms in the hotel when he was called on by several newspaper men, who sought to interview him, or secure some statement. All the newspaper men were most cordially received and the Premier hastened to tell them how much he had enjoyed motoring from Montreal, and how pleased he was at the greetings which he received along the route. He refused, however, to be interviewed on any public questions, limiting his remarks to his enjoyment of the motor trip and chatting agreeably with his callers.

Wedding Bells

JOHNSON—McCARTHY.

An event which has been looked forward to with considerable interest by many, and especially by the two young persons who are particularly concerned, was consummated at St. Thomas' Anglican Church at 11.30 this, Wednesday morning. It was the marriage of Major Arthur Lyon Johnson, M.M., son of Mrs. Wm. Johnson, of this city, and Miss Evalyn McCarthy, daughter of Mrs. G. W. McCarthy, 194 William Street, city, and a granddaughter of the late Sir MacKenzie Bowell.

The wedding was of a military nature, brother officers of the groom forming an arch of crossed swords under which the bride and groom passed on leaving the church. Ven. Archdeacon Beamish, Rector of the church, and Chaplain of the Argyll Light Infantry, performed the ceremony, and was assisted by the Rev. A. L. Geen of this city. The interior of the sacred edifice presented a delightful June-like appearance, being tastefully decorated with syringa and large field daisies.

The bride, who was given away by her mother, looked dainty and sweet in her bridal gown of ivory kitten's ear crepe with court train lined with orchid georgette and an overskirt of Spanish lace and pearls with pearl ornaments. The bridal veil was of Brussels net, trimmed with pearls and caught up with orange blossoms, her shoes being of satin to match her gown. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of orchids, white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The matron of honor was Mrs. J. J. Hallman, of Toronto, who was attired in a gown of sunset taffeta trimmed with black velvet and sash, with picture hat of black tulle with feather trimming. The bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Thompson and Miss Rita Allen, of Belleville, and Miss Ellen Johnson, of Toronto, a niece of the groom. Their gowns were of sunset taffeta with contrasting trimmings, all wearing large tulle and feather hats and carrying bouquets of Ophelia roses tied with pale pink and pale yellow tulle bow and streamers. The maid of honor's bouquet was similar to that carried by the bride. Major Ernest Geen was groomsman and he was supported by three others, namely, Capt. A. D. Harper, M.C., Major S. E. Vermilyea and Capt. H. Alford.

The bride's mother was attired in a gown of turquoise blue georgette, trimmed with sequin, wearing a Gainsborough hat trimmed with white osprey. Her bouquet was composed of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Johnson, mother of the groom, wore a frock of black satin and old lace, with a black hat, wearing a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Wilson, widow of the late Senator Wilson, of St. Thomas, was gowned in white embroidered crepe and wore a black lace hat, the trimming being a bird of paradise, her corsage bouquet being of orchids and roses.

The ushers were Mr. James Johnson, of Boston, brother of the groom, Capt. Harold Holton, Mr. Roy White, Napanee, and Mr. Fred Jamieson, of Ottawa.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party and invited guests repaired to the home of the bride's mother, where a reception was held and the wedding repast partaken of. The rooms presented a beautiful appearance, being artistically decorated with pink and white peonies. The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake, which was cut by a sword in the hand of the groom. The table was decorated in white, the dining table being centred with a lace centrepiece which was surmounted by a glass plaque holding a silver basket containing pink roses, making in all a perfect bower of beauty.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left this afternoon by motor for a trip to various places of interest in the western part of the province, the bride travelling in a suit of brown tricotine, with plaid skirt, brown shoes and stockings to match, and a large henna hat with blue veil.

The happy couple were the recipients of numerous gifts which were beautiful, useful and costly.

The out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, of Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson and daughter, Miss Ellen, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Cummings and the Misses Cummings, Trenton, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Gilbert, Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hallman, of Toronto; Mrs. (Senator) Wilson, of St. Thomas; Rev. and Mrs. E. Howard, of Whitby; Mr. Fred Jamieson, Ottawa; Mr. Roy White, Napanee; Miss McMahon, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Holton, Kingston.

A short organ recital was given before the ceremony by Ernest Wheatley, Mus. Bac. The selections played by him were as follows:

"In a Monastery Garden" by Ketelbey; "Wedding Chimes" by Wheatley; "Bridal Chorus" by Wagner; "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn.

During the signing of the register Mrs. (Col.) A. P. Allen sang "Because."

Col. E. D. O'Flynn was in command of the guard of honor who formed an avenue of crossed swords at the church entrance, beneath which the couple walked after leaving the altar. The other members of the guard were: Capt. T. D. McManus, Capt. Gilmore, Major R. D. Ponton, Major S. E. Carman and Lieut. Lorne Green.

COUNT TOLSTOI'S THRILLING ADVENTURE

Rome, June 7.—Count Elias Tolstoi, a grandson of the famous Russian writer has just arrived here after a journey through China and Japan, having escaped from the Bolsheviki. In 1918, after three days of married life he fled from Moscow because he had to flee from Moscow because he was condemned to death and now he is in ignorance as to whether his bride is dead or alive.

He joined Admeral Kolchak's forces and fought against the Bolsheviki, was stricken with typhus on three occasions and was nursed in the American hospital at Omsk.

He said his aunt, Catherine, is in prison at Moscow and another aunt Tatiana, is a servant of a Bolsheviki family.

Tolstoi predicts the sure and inevitable death of Bolshevism either through demobilization or starvation of the army. The rations of the soldiers, he said, have been reduced to a quarter of a pound of bread and one-eighth of a sausage. He added that Russia could not now-a-days produce even a needle.

TOURIST TRAVEL HEAVY THIS YEAR

Present indications point to a large influx of the ever-increasing brotherhood of tourists from the United States to Canada this year. From an extensive publicity campaign to advertise the resorts in Ontario, that has been carried on this season across the border by the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways, thousands of inquiries are being received from prospective travellers. These inquiries started to come in about a month earlier than usual, and it is certain that the Province will be favored with a much larger number of summer visitors this year than ever before. To be in a position to give inquirers as full information as possible, the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways issued a series of handsome illustrated booklets dealing with the territory mentioned, and which includes special publications on Muskoka, Lake of Bays, Algonquin Park, Georgian Bay, The Great Lakes, Timagami, Kawartha Lakes, Northern Ontario, Nipigon, Minaki, and Quebec. The text matter has been concisely and carefully prepared and new maps engraved and printed in colors have been added to this year's issues. Reports from many of the hotels in the districts mentioned show that the accommodation is being taken up rapidly, and the summer hotel and boarding house proprietors are optimistic of a profitable 1921 season.

ROMAN CABBIE SPOOFED YANKEE TOURIST

Rome, June 7.—They are telling a story in the Roman cafes of how an American visitor to Rome came off second best in a boasting contest with a Roman cab driver.

The American undertook to see Rome in a day and used the cab driver as a guide. The American was driven to all the great Roman monuments and took great interest in the buildings, always asking how long each took to build.

At St. Peter's, the cab driver confessed that it took 50 years to complete that structure. The American did not think that that was such a great feat for he was certain such a building could be built in America in two years. Other large churches, like St. John Lateran, the visitor said, could be built in a year of even six months.

Finally, they were passing the new massive buildings occupying several city blocks containing the Italian law courts.

"What's that," inquired the American "I don't know," retorted the driver. "It wasn't there last night."

Montreal, June 7.—That the crime wave now existing in Montreal is the worst experienced by this city for 30 years was the statement made today by Coroner McMahon. "I have been Coroner for the district of Montreal for nearly 30 years," he said, "and I may say that the total crimes for any one year of the 2 preceding 1921 hardly approach the number already committed in the first five months of the present year. The number of accidents caused by automobiles and trains is below the average, but the number of crimes of all descriptions, murder, homicide, suicide, infanticide, are ten times the number Montreal has ever had during my long term of office."

British Forces Drive Out Polish Insurgents

NO LIVES LOST AS BRITISH DID NOT FIRE ONE SHOT, POLES FALLING BACK BEFORE ADVANCING FORCE — PICKED UP MACHINE GUNS AND FLED—BRITISH WILL OCCUPY CITIES OF UPPER SILESIA.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

OPPELN, Silesia, June 9.—Five thousand Polish insurgents have been driven out of Rosenburg, northeast of here, by British forces, and last night the Poles were reported to have passed Lublinitz, ten miles southeast. The Poles made a show of resistance, but the British did not fire a shot in taking possession of Rosenburg. After a scattering patter of rifle shots from the Polish positions, the insurgents picked up their machine guns and fled. The belief is expressed here that the British will promptly occupy Lublinitz. It is expected they will immediately take charge of all cities in upper Silesian industrial districts.

Where a Princess is a "Stenog"

Riga, Latvia, June 8.—It is nothing unusual in Riga to have a Russian princess as your stenographer. At least, a business man can acquire the service of a countess in that capacity. Almost every diplomatic or consuler mission in Riga has at least one princess or countess working as a typist.

If the supply of princesses and countesses fail, there remains a large number of other well-educated people, most of them unaccustomed to work, but now anxious to do anything to save them from starvation.

Men who have been general managers of big Russian factories are now glad to take any kind of decent honorable employment to earn their living here.

The condition of these Russian refugees who have found shelter in the infant Baltic states shows how complete has been the financial downfall of the Russian nobility.

In Riga, Reval and other Baltic towns, princes, barons and counts and their families, accustomed for decades Russia to lives of luxury are living a hand-to-mouth existence. The possessions which they once had and that escaped confiscation by the Bolsheviki clutter up the shelves of second hand dealers in these cities. Diamonds, other jewels, fine tapestries and the countless costly nick-nacks of a luxurious civilization have been sold by these refugees to get bread.

Sharp Contrasts

The correspondent was present a few nights ago at an entertainment for the benefit of some of these refugees all members of the old Russian or Baltic nobility. Some of the more fortunate had saved their evening clothes. They were in sharp contrast to those that had not.

Here and there were men in coats of one color, trousers of another and tan shoes or high boots. They danced with women as variously clad—some chic, in latest modes, some in shirtwaists and skirts; still others in frocks so obviously homemade or remade that the poorest shopgirl in New York would sniff at them.

The casual stranger dropping into Riga or Reval for a day or two would never find this poverty. Instead, he would find cafes, open all night, where foreigners, lucky because of the low rates of Latvian or Esthonian exchange, and local profiteers, tossed fat bank-rolls of almost worthless rubles or marks to waitors who count only in hundreds or thousands.

51 Replies

An American correspondent who advertised in Riga newspaper, for a translator able to read, write and speak fluently English, Russian and German and with some knowledge of Lettish, received 51 replies by mail. The corridor before his room in the hotel was filled with men and women seeking to apply personally for the position. Most of them were so well educated that they could qualify not only in the four languages mentioned, but others as well.

They were either out of work, or receiving such small pay at their present employment that they were anxious to change.

Among the applicantts were a former colonel in one of the most aristocratic Petrograd guard regiments, a dozen other former officers, two men who had been managers of big Russian factories, and many other well-educated people.

Begin At Once To Unite Lines

Ottawa, June 8.—Although the bringing of the Grand Trunk Railway and the Canadian National Railways under one management will be delayed until Premier Meighen's return in August, the preliminary coordination of the roads, with elimination of duplicate services and staffs, is expected to begin at once. Little of the obstruction met with last year is anticipated, because the present Board of Directors of the Grand Trunk Railway is entirely Government-appointed.

The presence on the Grand Trunk temporary board of Vice-President Mitchell of the Canadian National seems to promise that the two boards will run well in double harness. In fact, some say that delay is vital and are advocating that all the heroic pruning needed to start the amalgamated system on a fair basis should be done before the legal union, in order that the new road should start with a body of employees which could be assured of permanent work, and which, by fair treatment and the prospect of promotion, would get a loyalty and enthusiasm which would make its individual units put their backs into their jobs.

The task, however, is a long one, and only in outstanding cases can all the pruning necessary be accomplished. Something will be done shortly, however, and one will be able to trace the changes by the waves of complaint and protest that always follow any departure from accustomed schedule.

Sir Joseph Flavelle, who is now in Ottawa, is reported to have not yet definitely decided to accept the post of permanent Chairman of the Canadian National Railways when the Grand Trunk is absorbed. If he does not, President B. D. Hanna will be asked to remain in charge.

MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION SHOWS NEED FOR TARIFF PROTECTION

Quebec, June 9.—The jubilee convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association opened with over two hundred delegates having registered when President J. S. McKinnon of Toronto opened the first business session. The hotels are overflowing with delegates and many are being accommodated on the S. S. Saguenay, which has been placed at the disposal of the association during the convention by the Canada Steamships Company.

The president declared that it was to be a "made-in-Canada" convention, and he hoped the discussions would be on the broadest possible basis, realizing that if Canada is to become a great country it must not be built on sectional lines but developed on the broadest possible lines for the good of the whole Dominion. Although they were manufacturers they must keep in mind the importance of other kinds of labor, and particularly the marketing of the products of the farm.

Supply and Demand

"One lesson learned by both employers and employed," said Mr. McKinnon, "is that the public is master of us all." It was impossible to make the public buy goods which they believed to be too costly or of inferior quality, or which they preferred to purchase elsewhere. If there was no demand, the factory must shut down and there would be neither wages for the employes nor profits for the owners. For some time manufacturers had been operating on a falling market, and had borne the first brunt of the decline in prices. Yet no corresponding decline had yet taken place in the factors entering into the cost of production, wages, freights, cost of distribution and other similar factors.

Buy at Home

No condition had contributed more to create unemployment than the unnecessarily large imports from other countries. During the twelve months ending March 31, 1921, there had been an increase of imported American goods over the previous year of more than $55,000,000. Fortunately, the wave of industrial unrest and visionary radicalism had receded, but while at high tide it had caused damage which needed time to repair. It was essential that the public should not buy, through caprice or ignorance, foreign goods which were manufactured in as good quality in our own country.

He considered that adequate tariff protection was necessary for the development and prosperity of Canada.

"Made-in-Canada" Campaign

The report of the Executive committee, presented by J. H. Walsh, general manager of the association, pointed out that unemployment had increased and the dollar had fallen in value, owing to the folly of the public in purchasing unnecessarily abroad. The very people who had been thrown out of employment, were often supported at the expense of the public, and were themselves compelled to purchase goods from abroad since Canadian factories had restricted operations through lack of orders.

Another Boat Strikes Iceberg In Atlantic

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Halifax, June 9.—The U. S. Shipping Board steamer Charlot, of 3,569 tons, bound for London and Hamburg, struck an iceberg some distance off the Newfoundland coast and had her bow stove in, according to a message received by the Canadian Naval Service this morning. The steamer Columbia is proceeding to her assistance. The captain of the freighter reported by wireless to New York that his craft was leaking, the pumps were working well, and he expected to reach St. John's, Nfld., safely.

Dublin, June 8.—Dublin streets were swept with bullets for twenty minutes this morning, following an attack with revolvers and bombs on a police lorry. Five constables were wounded in the attack and some civilians also were wounded.

Physical Culture Alleged Foe to Motherhood

London, June 8.—A campaign in the interest of motherhood and against the ill-effects alleged to result from girls going in for athletics has been started here.

A resolution was passed at a meeting of the managers of girls' schools and of women who claimed to have made a study of physical culture protesting against the present system of physical education for girls as injurious to future generations. A small committee was formed to draw up and circulate a manifesto on the subject.

Several letters favoring the movement were read. Sir James Crichton Browne, author of books on mental and nervous diseases, wrote: "Physical exercise and training are as necessary to girls as to boys, but these must have regard to physiological and developmental considerations. To ignore sexual differeheces is to court disaster in the long run."

"Women who develop masculine instead of feminine instincts," wrote Dr. Arabella Kenealy, 'do this at the cost of the male potential which is transmitted by the father to the daughter in trust for the male line. Athletic women produce female offspring mainly and seldom have sons. When sons are born to them, they are apt to be puny and delicate, or generally emasculate or of inferior type. The cultured classes, who are mainly afflicted by athletic training, are failing to provide sons of the fine physique and the manly talents and initiative which have set our Anglo-Saxon race in the van of evolution."

Miss Cowdray, the principal of a girls' high school, who moved the resolution of protest, said that the girls who had been trained to play hockey, cricket and football suffered at childbirth. Sometimes the child suffered, sometimes the mother and sometimes one of them died. Eighty per cent. of the girls she had known who had been trained to become gymnastic mistresses had been incapacitated for motherhood.

A girl had a large store of vital and nervous energy which she could draw upon if normally developed at the great crisis of motherhood. That strength was a deposit account but if she used it as a current account, as a boy could afford to do, her children would pay the bill. She believed that the Victorian girl was a better mother than the modern athletic girl.

Miss Radmar, director of the d'Egville Michau school of Physical Development, said that the feet were the only part of a girl's body that need be made strong. A woman's body should be elastic and strong chests and big muscles meant inelastic chests and bodies. Drill apparatus should be done away with.

Mrs. Rogers Watts pleaded for the teaching of poise. "Let us go back to the Greeks," she said, "to the system which was the most wonderful ever known."

Admiral Sims Stands By His London Speech

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

London, June 9.—Rear-Admiral W. S. Sims, U.S.N., is quoted by the Press Association today as saying this morning with regard to the speech he delivered on the Irish question here on Tuesday: "I stand by all I said, every word of it. I shan't repudiate a single word I said and I see nothing un-American in it, even if Senator McCormick does." The admiral said he had not received a cablegram reported to have been sent to him by Naval Secretary Denby inquiring if the admiral was correctly quoted in the press reports of his speech.

Juveniles Line Up With Red Cross Society

HOW OUR BOYS AND GIRLS ARE HELPING TO SAFEGUARD CANADA'S HEALTH

Land of our birth, our faith, our pride,
For whose dear sake our fathers died,
Oh Motherland, we pledge to thee
Head, heart, and hand through days to be.

This verse of Kipling's, which has been chosen for the motto of the Junior Branch of the Red Cross Society, aptly expresses the spirit of that Society as at present constituted. The boys and girls of Canada are proud of their Motherland; they wish to serve her well and truly. They want to grow up with strong and healthy bodies—for her sake and for their own. The Junior Red Cross work for the nation-wide Health Crusade.

When the first meeting of the General Council of the League of Red Cross Societies took place at Geneva in March, 1920, it was realized that the best hope for the future of the Red Cross in peace time lay in engaging the interest and enthusiasm of youth. The Junior Red Cross was, therefore, officially endorsed and advocated.

Already the pupils in our schools had shown their anxiety to help in the work of the war. Little societies had sprung up all over the country to supply the soldiers with comforts. One school in Canada sent, during the war, over 1,000 pairs of socks alone to the front. Funds were provided for the relief of war orphans, the supplying of our wounded with comforts and the adequate provision of food for prisoners.

With the end of the war, this work did not cease. The members of the Junior Red Cross continued their activities through the years of peace which have followed. Their peacetime work has included such enterprises as anti-fly campaigns, clean-up days, the gathering of waste paper to be made over into cardboard, beaverboard, etc., a supervised playground and a community play-day, an open-air vacation school, a supervised swimming-hole, supporting a children's shelter, endowing cots in the local hospitals.

New branches of the Junior Red Cross are continually in process of formation, among the latest being one in the Township of Ernesttown, with a membership of sixteen children. A branch in the County of Frontenac sends in $3.00 for a contribution to the Crippled Children's Fund, from seven children who are anxious to help along the work.

As a further exemplification of the children's interest in the work which is being done by the Junior Red Cross, a little twelve-year old girl in one of the Vancouver City schools has written a play for the use of "The Little Mothers' League". The play is quite original, being all the child's own idea and workmanship. No help was given to her either at home or in school. In this drama the proper methods to use in the rearing of a baby are taught to an ignorant mother by Miss Sunshine, Miss Cleanliness, Miss Fresh Air, and Miss Health. The other side of the argument is presented with much spirit by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Brown, friends of the baby's mother, who express vociferously their indignation at the "newfangled" ideas of bringing up children, but the quartette of nurses successfully carry their point and the baby's life is saved.

It is proposed to introduce this little drama into the Ontario schools, as it is thought that many children will be interested in a play written by one of themselves.

How to Make Belleville a More Beautiful City

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COMMITTEE MAKES A COMPREHENSIVE SURVEY OF CITY AND RECOMMENDS FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM OF IMPROVEMENTS — ACQUIRE DUNDAS STREET CEMETERY FOR PARK PURPOSES—IMPROVE UNION STATION SURROUNDINGS.

The "Better and More Beautiful Belleville Committee" of the Chamber of Commerce has been considering a comprehensive program of improvements and beautification.

A sub-committee, with Ald. S. J. Fisher as chairman, and Ald. G. A. Bennett, chairman of Parks in the City Council, ex-Mayor W. B. Riggs, Mr. T. Blackburn, and the manager of the Chamber of Commerce as members, has been making patient investigation of some of the more outstanding problems and is now in a position to offer solutions.

A FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM.

Some of the more elaborate improvements it has been thought wise to spread over a five-year period for carrying out. None of the changes suggested involve a large expenditure of money. Everything proposed is of a thoroughly practical nature and badly needed.

UNION STATION.

The city is constructing a beautiful new pavement to the Canadian National union station. This will greatly improve appearances, but the condition of the railway yards on both sides of this pavement is anything but prepossessing, and the abundant growth of weeds and general untidy outlook gives to the many thousands of visitors who come to our city by this route a most unfavorable impression.

The manager of the Chamber of Commerce has been negotiating for some weeks past with Mr. Kelley, divisional superintendent of the Canadian National Railway, and with Mr. Humphrey of the Canadian Pacific railway, with a view to securing better conditions and energetic action on the part of the railways.

Mr. Kelley has stated that owing to financial conditions he has been unable to secure an appropriation of money for this work the present season. He could, however, appropriate a reasonable amount of labor to carry out the improvements suggested.

A considerable section of the lawn north of the Canadian National station has the underlying rock very close to the surface. About a foot of earth filling is required on top of this rock to give a sufficient foundation for a grassy sward. Ald. Treverton, chairman of Public Works, has permitted the diversion of several dozen loads of waste material from the streets for the purpose of filling.

COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The special committee's report follows:

We, the members of the special committee appointed by the "Better and More Beautiful Belleville Committee" of the Chamber of Commerce, would respectfully lay before the major committee and recommend to the City Council the carrying out of a definite program of improvements in reference to matters so far investigated.

CITY GAS PLANT.

(a) The elimination of unsightly open drains along Church Street and Pinnacle Street and over the vacant lot on Pinnacle Street.

(b) The removal of rubbish, litter and refuse along the Church Street side of the gas property and the removal of rubbish from the vacant lot on Pinnacle Street.

(c) Straightening up of the fence along Church street, resetting the posts where necessary and painting or whitening the fence.

(d) Levelling the surface of the vacant lot on Pinnacle street, seeding it with lawn grass and setting shrubbery or flowers where they will prove most effective.

The committee desires to express its approval of the conscientious work that is being done by Mr. Harden, manager of the gas department, Mr. Cooke, and the other officials in charge of the works; but the committee also feels that it will be an incentive to better work if the surroundings are made more presentable.

CITY PUMPING STATION.

(a) Removal and sale of coal shed.

(b) Removal of all unsightly outbuildings, including closet, boat house and hen house.

(c) Removal of all litter and further cutting away of brush and trimming of trees.

(d) Levelling of grounds with a gradual and symmetrical slope from the railway track to the bay shore and seeding with lawn grass.

(e) Setting shrubbery and flowers where good effects could be secured.

(f) Laying a low stone wall along the bay shore and filling in and levelling the intervening space.

(g) Painting the exterior woodwork of the main building and residence.

(h) Laying a concrete walk from the main entrance to the border of the lot.

(i) Enclosing the transformer stand in a suitable brick or frame structure.

We would recommend that the improvements at the pumping station be carried out under a five-year program, with the more essential but less expensive parts undertaken this year.

We desire also strongly to commend the manager of the waterworks and those in charge at the plant for the admirable manner in which they have arranged and are taking care of the machinery and its environment. The interior is a model of neatness and convenient, effective arrangement. If the exterior of the building and the grounds are made proportionately as attractive Belleville will have one pub-

Use Machine Gun on Bandit at Toledo

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Toledo, Ohio, June 9.—Thomas Kelley, of Oklahoma, was killed by police this morning following a battle of two hours' duration, and in which machine guns and hand grenades had been used to dislodge him from his barricaded attic-room of a boarding house here. Before he was killed Kelley shot and killed two policemen who had been called after the gun man had threatened the landlady and her son with a revolver. Hundreds of shots were exchanged. Kelley was said to have a trunk full of ammunition. The Chief of Police ordered two machine guns and high-pressure fire hose to the scene, and attempts were made in the meantime, to drive the gunman out by burning sulphur candles on the lower floor. The roof of the house was demolished, the battle occurred only a short distance from the main business section and thousands of persons watched the shooting from points of vantage.

Saskatchewan Election Is On To-day

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Regina., Sask., June 9.—Saskatchewan's citizenship went to the polls today to elect the fifth legislature to hold office in that province. The new legislature will consist of sixty-three members, and forty-four of them are being chosen today. Sixteen members, all Martin Government supporters, were returned by acclamation, and in three constituencies that nominations and elections were deferred. The Government is contesting every seat but Thunder Creek, where a Conservative and an Independent are the contestants. The Independent movement has forty-four candidates in the field. There are four Conservative candidates, four Labor men, and four running on the Non-Partisan League ticket. The campaign has been brief, but there has been a free discussion of public issues. It is expected that the vote polled will be reasonably representative.

Two representatives of the Japanese Government purchased a number of pure-bred sheep from J. H. Patrick & Son, Ilderton, recently. The animals will be used on an experimental farm in Korea.

TAXIS INVADE ROME

Rome, June 6.—Taxicabs have just invaded Rome. New brightly painted vehicles similar to those of New York have just made their appearance, replacing as many horse-drawn cabs, which have held sway in the capital of the Caesars for centuries.

The taxicab, though welcomed with open arms by the general mass of Romans, has met for years a stonewall opposition for the right to circulate in Roman streets. The 5,000 cab drivers and livery men fought its use and warned the city administration they would be defeated at election if the taxicabs were admitted.

This opposition has in a measure been overcome but there still remains some cab drivers' prejudice against motor vehicles in their business. They have insisted that the chauffeurs be mainly recruited from the cab drivers.

ASK GINGER --- HE KNOWS
SEE SHOW WINDOW SEE SHOW WINDOW

Listen to the gabby chap who sits on top of the hippopotamus cage by the side of the red-coated driver of an eight-horse team—perfectly matched dapple-grays.

"Grand free exhibition on the show grounds immediately after the parade," he announces in stentorian tones. "A congress of the wonders of five continents and the Seven Seas and the blue skies—the marvel of the occident and the Orient assembled by the John Robinson circus management at a cost that staggers humanity. Carlos, the two-headed man. The Zanzibar Pinheads. The Honduras inseparable twins. And eighty other marvels. Remember, immediately after the parade———"

This has happened on other circus days—it will Monday morning, June 13, when the John Robinson circus displays its processional wonders on the streets of Belleville prior to the two-stage, triple ring performances scheduled for this city. And the gabby chap on the hippopotamus den will be, after all, but an incident in the two-mile pageant, with its mammoth band chariots, its calliopes, its ornate dens and cages, its elephants and camels, its horses and ponies, and its richly costumed historic characters.

The John Robinson circus is an exhibition of notable magnitude. It has three rings, two stages, a broad esplanade and a vast dome fairly pulsating with novel and daring circus acts. It has twenty trained elephants and all kinds of other trained animal displays, and a great company of acrobats and gymnasts and riders and aerialists, and, not least, fifty clowns who are employed for nothing except to make folk laugh, and it has, by the way of preliminary pageantry, a beautiful spectacle. In addition to this there will be a two-mile free street pageant, at 10-30, when all the processional resources of the big show will be displayed on the thoroughfares.

DUNDAS STREET CEMETERY

(a) This property should be acquired by the city.

(b) Should it be acquired then it ought to be transformed into a public park.

(c) The few remaining grave stones should be collected and set up at one corner and an enclosure formed with vines and shrubbery.

(d) The filling of the hollow at the north side, the removal of brush and the levelling of the ground could then proceed.

We would recommend that this work proceed under a program extending over a five-year period so that only moderate expenditures should be entailed in any one year.

CORBY PARK.

We would recommend that lights be installed in the Park so as to give reasonable illumination at night. Under present conditions our citizens are not deriving as much benefit from this beautiful place as they should. Proper lighting at night would make the park available at a time when it would be most used.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

SCOTLAND YARD PROBES BARED PROPAGANDA

London, June 7.—Determined efforts are being made by the British Home Office to get at the bottom of Bolsheviki propaganda in this country, according to the Daily Sketch, which says that reports have been received of dangerous activies of the Bolsheviki in London and Scotland.

Raids have been carried out by Scotland Yard detectives on alleged Bolsheviki meeting places and offices and it is reported that sensational discoveries have been made.

While searching one building the detectives found a small casket containing ashes which are declared to be those of Rosa Luxemburg ("Red Rosa") the German socialist who was killed in 1919 about the same time as Earl Liebknecht, the Communist agitator.

Lightning Rods Endorsed by Fire Marshal

During 1919 there were 1,104 lightning fires in the Province of Ontario, causing a total loss of $506,907. Over 78 per cent. of the lightning fire losses occurred on the farms in this province.

These figures are official, being by Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis of Ontario. His views on the matter are summed up in the following extract from an address delivered by him: "It is perhaps somewhat difficult to make the ordinary person realize the unnecessary waste of the products of the soil from fire caused year in and year out by lightning. I say unnecessary waste for it has been proved beyond a doubt that good lightning rods properly installed are more than 99 per cent. efficient."

This pronouncement of the Fire Marshal should be carefully read by every farmer in the province. Particularly illuminating is the last sentence. "Lightning rods properly installed are more than 99 per cent. efficient."

What does it avail a farmer to plough and harrow and seed and tend and harvest; put into barns the food on which the world depends and on the sale of which his own prosperity rests, to have the whole destroyed by a stroke of lightning—the fruits of a year's labor consumed in an hour.

"Lightning rods are over 99 per cent. efficient". The cost of material and installation of lightning rods for a sixty foot barn and an eight-roomed house will not average more than seventy-five dollars. To-day, when more than ever there is a need for economy, for production, for the elimination of waste, it is not only good business, but good citizenship—an imperative duty upon every farmer—to protect his house and barns and loved ones from the scourge of the fire fiend.

This protection costs so little is so certain, means so much to life and property, that it might properly be a subject for government action. In the cities the Government compels the erection of fire escapes on certain buildings. The lightning rod is the farmers fire escape.

BELIEVED DEAD WOMAN JUMPED FROM TRAIN

Sherbrooke, June 7.—With an arm and leg broken and a severe gash in the head, Mrs. A Richard of Robertson was found dead on the railway tracks a short distance north of Robertson station on Saturday morning. It is stated that she had got off the train at Robertson and had taken the wrong valise with her. Her attention being drawn to the fact, she re-entered the cars to get her valise, and it is surmised she alighted when the train was in motion, meeting with the injuries that caused her death.

SELF-CONFESSED SINKER OF HOSPITAL SHIP GOES FREE

Leispsic, June 8.—The formal acquittal of Lieut. Earl Neumann, charged with sinking the hospital ship Dover Castle while he was in command of a German submarine during the war, was announced.

When the case of Neumann came up on May 31 before the court trying those accused of war guilt, the proceedings were stayed, a preliminary examination having resulted in the establishment of Neumann's complete innocence, according to the German authorities.

Neumann was placed on trial today, when the public prosecutor demanded his acquittal, and Neumann in his evidence admitted sinking the Dover Castle in clear weather, but said he was acting under instructions from the German Government, as the vessel was not keeping to the special channel designated by Germany. The prisoner also stated his conviction that the vessel carryed munitions,, but he could not adduce evidence to support this statement and the president of the court refused to admit the allegation as evidence.

The president declared Neumann acquitted on the ground that he had to obey the orders of his superiors.

ONTARIO BONE DRY SATURDAY, JULY 18

Ottawa, June 8.—While the formal Order-in-Council may not be passed until the eighteenth instant or just before proclamation of Ontario as a bone dry province, the law as regards importations of liquor is likely to be effective on Saturday, July 18th. The necessary papers are being prepared and this is the date in view. The referendum vote was taken on the 18th of April. The Act requires a lapse of sixty days before the proclamation could issue and another thirty days notice of its coming into effect. This would bring the date up to July 18th.

Legislation passed last week removes the possibility of the plebiscite in any of the provinces being upset on technical grounds, but the wider question of the constitutionality of the whole law, raised in the Alberta appeal, will be decided by the Supreme Court, probably before the long vacation of the court.

NICKEL COINS NOW.

Playing Cards Once Authorised Money in Canada.

More and more does our Canadian coinage fall into line with that of the United States, though in this connection the imitation is commendable. The clumsy big Canadian cent is giving place to the neat little copper, and Ottawa has just announced its intention of replacing the elusive little silver five-cent pieces by nickel coins of larger dimensions. About 30 years ago there was a suggestion that Canada use nickel coinage, but the idea got no further. Ontario, of course, produces 85 per cent. of the world's nickel supply, and the millions of Yankee five-cent pieces contain metal which came from the rocks up Sudbury way. But as a matter of fact the nickel coin contains about 75 per cent. of copper, with which nickel is found mixed in its native state.

The replacement of silver five-cent pieces by nickel coins would result in some saving to the Canadian Government. Ten dollars in gold coin contains ten dollars worth of metal, but silver in coinage is merely a token like copper or nickel or paper. A silver coin, nevertheless, contains a very large percentage of its face value in silver. In the past few years the price of silver per ounce has fluctuated between 40 cents and $1.60. At silver's present price of 58 cents an ounce a Canadian five-cent piece would contain about two cents worth of the metal, alloyed with something else. As three-quarters of the content of the new Canadian nickel would be copper at 12 cents a pound and one-quarter nickel at about 40 cents a pound, the saving to the Canadian Government would be quite noticeable.

Several books have been written about the history of Canada's currency. Indian wampum, the blue and white cylinders carved from shells of the Gulf of Mexico, passed current in Canada until 1670, when the French Government at Quebec declared them illegal. The colonists, however, continued to trade in them till 1704 and the Indians until 1825.

France had meanwhile been sending out coins of the realm, raised to one-third above their face value, but these rapidly left the colony, drifting off to the Indies or to the New England settlements. So scarce did money become that Sir Harry Drayton's predecessor in the Ministry of Finance, Jacques de Meulles, in 1685 hit upon the novel plan of making card money. In order to pay off the troops, he had ordinary playing cards quartered, stamped with the royal arms of France and signed by Frontenac. Bitterly complaining to France, de Meulles said he had to declare them money. Specimens of these quaint tokens, signed by Vaudreuil, Beauharnois and other famous French governors, whose arms they sometimes bore in place of the fleur-de-lis, are in the Department of Public Archives at Ottawa.

Card money continued in Canada to some extent right up to the conquest in 1759. At the end of each season it was gathered together and shipped to France by the Government, bills upon Paris being issued to redeem it. In 1764 the British authorities redeemed what was left and replaced it with British coin. The earliest silver coin associated with Canada was a sol, having the value of about one penny, issued for trade with the Indies by order of Louis XIV. in 1670. Copper coins followed. In 1723 Vandreuil complained to France that he had only been able to circulate 8,180 of the copper deniers sent out and that he was shipping the balance back.

The Canadian beaver at work is first displayed on the jeton coins issued by France for Canada about 1751. An Indian head also marks one of these coins, whose front bears the features of Louis XV. The first coin struck for Canada after the conquest was the unofficial half-penny of the Copper Company of Upper Canada, though it was never thought to have been issued. Trade tokens of all kinds, in copper, were issued by private companies in the early days of the last century, one with the Duke of Wellington's head being popular. The Bank of Montreal and Bank of Upper Canada, etc., started to issue their big pennies about 1837. But not until 1858 were the first authorized Canadian coins issued. British and American coins had hitherto been considered ample to carry the country. In 1858 and 1859 the coppers and silver coins of present size and denomination were issued in quantity for the Province of Canada, which then comprised Quebec and Ontario. Not until 1870 were the first of the Dominion of Canada coins, as we have them to-day, issued.

And Very Nice, Too.

A lady who had been giving a party, told her maid to put away all the refreshments that were left on the tables before retiring to bed.

The next day, on looking, the lady could not find the dainties, and called to her maid:

"Jane, what did you do with those things that I told you to put away last night?"

"Sure, mum, and yez told me to put 'em away, and I did, mum, and enjoyed 'em."

CANADIAN WOMEN DO NINETY PER CENT. OF PURCHASING.

It has been estimated that Canadian women purchase almost 90 per cent. of the commodities used in our domestic life. Without their co-operation no effort towards home market development and increased support for Canadian industry can meet with any large measure of success. It is important that Canadian women should realize the consequences of Canada's over-balanced trade account and especially that exchange is in considerable measure responsible for maintaining the high cost of living in this country.

Unemployment and business depression bear most heavily upon women and children. There is no need for unemployment in Canada. This Dominion, to a greater extent perhaps than any other country in the world, could keep its workers employed even in time of serious world readjustment and depression by buying Canadian instead of imported goods and thus stimulating activities on the farms and in the factories. Unfortunately, many Canadian women have not supported the Made in Canada movement because of misunderstanding about profits and the prices of Canadian products. Most of the criticism is based on misinformation, misunderstanding, and prejudice.

THE HAPPY PUBLISHER.

Alas, the poor publisher! While, during the war and after, the wholesaler spent a large proportion of his time in Florida or California, the retailer acquired a taste for expensive motor cars, and the affluent wage earner blossomed forth in the famous silk shirt, the publisher just went plain broke! An editor with a morbid taste for post mortem examinations, now submits the following schedule of comparative publishing costs since 1907. He accepts that year as normal (100). It goes without saying that editorial salaries show the smallest advance.

	1907	1914	1917	1919	1921
Wages	100	178	191	245	393
Newsprint (paper)	100	177	367	383	623
Newspaper postage	100	147	166	214	337
Ink	100	200	204	192	331
Editorial news	100	120	125	182	241
Taxes	109	127	158	222	428
Miscellaneous	100	125	133	113	244
Total average	100	159	222	249	411

We are also told that 4,000 publications went out of business in the United States, and goodness knows how many in Canada. What a relief! We know one or two more that "never would be missed." But, doggone it! Wouldn't we just like to attend the commercial funeral of some of those 600% paper mill profiteers.—Farm and Ranch Review.

THE PRECIOUS FLUID.

Canada is undoubtedly a land of great natural resources and of enormous potential wealth. No product of the earth has today a greater commercial significance than has oil. It is now the precious fluid, far more important than the precious metals. In the world of today the promised land flows, not with milk and honey, but with oil.

Dr. T. O. Bosworth, who led the expedition which discovered the oilfield, read a paper on "The Mackenzie Oilfield of Northern Canada" before the Institution of Petroleum Technologists at a meeting of the Royal Society of Arts in London recently. He started his paper by saying:

"Some years ago I had the privilege of saying a few words before this institution about the prospective oilfields which had been outlined in Northern Canada during my geological exploration in 1914. The Mackenzie Oilfield, which is now the subject of so much attention, was the most northern of those fields, and the flowing well which was recently 'brought in' is the No. 1 test well which we located there seven years ago. This 'Discovery Oilwell' is situated on the right bank of the Mackenzie River, some 45 miles beyond the little trading post known as Fort Norman, and within about 90 miles of the Arctic Circle. It is the first well drilled in the North-West Territory and the most northern oil well in the world."

Further railroad construction and improvement of the waterways are certain to be undertaken if the developments in the oilfield justify them. Extension of the present railroads to Fort Smith or to Hay River, which has long been projected, would greatly simplify the transportation of oil, which at first will be attended with many difficulties. Possibly the oil will be partially refined in the north to reduce the costs of transportation.

If the oilfield fulfills present hopes and expectations the transportation of the oil will in due course be accomplished by pipeline; and already several schemes are under consideration for piping the oil to one of the inlets on the Pacific coast. The shortest distance to tidewater is 550 miles. Such a pipeline would not be longer than some of those already operating in the United States, but owing to the wild country to be traversed the cost is estimated in millions of dollars.

This reaction against books and bookishness is an oft-recurring one with British people, and in many respects it is a healthy one. Of all nations who make a proper use of books Britons are least bookish, but it must be confessed no nation adopts such a cavalier attitude towards books as we do. The best that is got out of our books represents the travail of the few. The majority of us make our books subserve our pleasures. They are to us a supplementary game, to be abandoned as soon as they cease to entertain or exhilarate.

SCHOOL MORALS

Indianapolis News

As long as the responsible leaders in a city not only tolerate but contribute to a generally compromising moral tone, the schools are certain to manifest the same tendency. The child is supposed to emerge from the home equipped with the best standards of the home, but in the schools, particularly the high schools, the atmosphere is the sum of the homes, and the child seeks the level thus determined. It all comes back to the character of the town, and this to a large extent is determined by the attitude of public officials, particularly those charged with law enforcement. It is at the polls that a town bares its soul, and the revelation will be encouraging when the citizen boldly votes his conscience.

SUCCESS

Successful he who strives, e'en though he fail;
His conscience gives applause along the way,
Thus does he win Eternal Holy Grail!
His sun is ever bright—though clouds obscure the day.

Strive on and keep your ideal to the fore;
Faint heart can never win; nor here, nor there.
For in this day, as in the days of yore,
Achievement comes with courage and with prayer.

As perfume rare distilled from violet,
As lark's rich note, that mankind ever bless,
So he who burden bears without regret
Has solved Life's Problem; has achieved success!

CONSERVE THE BEAR

Victoria, B. C., June 8.—Increased bounties of ferocious animals and destructive birds and protective measures with a view to conserving the bear, which are becoming very scarce in parts of British Columbia, feature new game regulations which have just been announced. Trapping of bear is prohibited for the first time in history of the province. Only three black bears may now be shot by a hunter in a season. No limit had heretofore been placed on the bag. The limit of grizzlies has been cut from three to two.

Bounty for panther (or cougar) has been raised from $25 to $40. Evidently there has been a great increase in these animals, many of them prowling on the outskirts of cities and towns. At times they invade even the thickly populated communities in search of food. Bounty for timber wolves has been increased from $15 to $25. The allowance for crows has been doubled and is now 20 cents. Magpies call for 20 cents: and big horn and snow owls and eagles are $1 each.

Dayspring Breaks Track Record

FINE RACES AT AGRICULTURAL PARK—DAYSPRING RUNS MILE IN 2-10 FLAT

Fine weather, fine races and a fine crowd were the features of Wednesday afternoon's sports at the Agricultural Park. The horsemen and the G.W.V.A. made a wise move for both when on Friday evening last they arrived at a conclusion to have the postponed horse races take place yesterday. It was an ideal afternoon and the three events on the score card were well contested. It was also a fact that the Belleville track record was broken and that by a horse owned in Belleville. Dayspring, of which the owner, Mr. George Powell is justly proud, did the trick. In two heats this well-known racer stepped the mile in 2-10 flat, which is a remarkable record. That the owner of the animal is popular also the horse itself was manifested by the loud applause that greeted Mr. Powell and his steed when the time was announced. The track was in excellent condition for racing.

Free-For-All

This was the first race upon the program, and four horses responded to the call of the bell, namely, Dayspring owned by Geo. Powell of Belleville; Teddy P., owned by A. Charbonneau of Montreal, Lucy L., owned by J. T. Payette of Penetang and Hazel H., owned by E. W. Jones of Peterboro. It was anticipated by a number present that Lucy L. would give Dayspring a hard run and she did in the first heat as the latter only won out by a narrow margin. In the next two heats. Dayspring, from the word go led and maintained the lead to the finish. It was a race well worth seeing and the result gave general satisfaction. Dayspring is as steady as clock-work as was manifested in the three contested heats. Never a break did he make and when closely pressed was ever ready to respond with an apparent new burst of speed. The summary is as follows:

Lucy L., owned by J. T. Payette, Penetang	2	2	2
Teddy P., owned by A. Charbonneau, Montreal	3	3	3
Hazel H., owned by E. W. Jones, Peterboro	4	4	4

Time—2-14¼, 2-10, 2-10.

2-18 Class

There were four horses entered for this event and it required that number of heats to determine the winner. In this race, as in the former, a horse owned by Mr. George Powell, Billie Patch, captured first money. The other entries were Peter Dillon, owned by C. Sandrelli of Montreal, Lloyd George, owned by E. W. Jones, of Peterboro and Leo. McKinney, owned by A. W. Wright of Picton.

Except in the second heat Billie Patch had it his own way and won handily. In the four heats very good time was made, and by many of the spectators the time given out by the officials did not agree. In the first heat the horses scored five times before they were given the word go. The summary is as follows:

Billie Patch, Geo. Powell Belleville	1	2	1	1
Peter Dillon, C. Sandrelli, Montreal	4	1	2	2
Leo McKinney, A. W. Wright Picton	2	3	4	3
Lloyd George, E. W. Jones, Peterboro	3	4	3	4

Time—2-21¼, 2-19, 2-21¼, 2-21¼.

Named Race

As in the former events there were four horses entered in the named race but only three heats were necessary to be run. In the second heat there was a mix-up between Darkey Harold, owned by C. Sandrelli and K. L. Lambert, owned by Dr. Benson of this city, but fortunately no person was hurt. Two bikes were put out of commission by having their wheels badly damaged. The mix-up happened by Darkey Harold making a rather bad break and crowding K. L. Lambert. Darkey Harold had no trouble in capturing first money in this event by taking three straight heats. With the exception of the second heat good time was made by the racers. The summary is as follows

Darkey Harold, owned by C. C. Sandrelli, Montreal	1	1	1
Alven C., owned by J. T. Payette, Penetang	2	3	3
K. L. Lambert, owned by Dr. Benson, Belleville.	3	4	2
Glen J., owned by J. T. Payette, Penetang	4	2	4

Time—2-21¼, 2-23, 2-21¼.

Mr. St. Vincent of Montreal was the starter, and is an expert at this business. Whilst fair, he is firm, and allows no advantage to be taken by any driver. The judges were Messrs. Wm. Carnew, James A. Roy and R. T. Dunlop. The timers were Messrs. J. Lafferty, Geo. O. Tice and J. A. Mackie.

WIN FOR PETERBORO

Lindsay, Ont., June 8.—In a scrappy and exciting game in the Central Ontario League here today, which went ten innings, Peterboro defeated Lindsay by 7 to 5. With a mighty batting rally, started by a pinch-hitter, the Graybirds scored three in the ninth, tieing the score. The "Petes" came back with two in the extra inning, "Lefty" McElroy bitting out a two-bagger, while Lindsay were unable to score.

Oulette, for Lindsay, had eight strikeouts and McElroy (last year with Lindsay) had five for the "Petes."

The umpires were Wilson, of Oshawa and Butler of Lindsay.

Belleville 12—Cobourg 6

Cobourg's motto seems to be "Beat them in the first innings". Langdon was put on the mound to start the old ball game going, and owing to an accident received playing hockey last year his delivery was not just A1. It was during Langdon's period in the box that Cobourg got their bagfull. After Freddy came out a few reached first, but very few second or third. Rosevear umpired the game and gave a few close decisions in Cobourg's favor. The game was called at 3-30 and the fireworks started. The game by innings:

First Innings

Cobourg—Skitch up, hit to Frank Goyer but safe on first owing to an error, Butler smashed the ball across the diamond and hit Langdon's shoulder, safe on first, McDonald made two-base hit, Skitch scored on this hit, Tyson up and he hit another Texas Leaguer, bringing in Butler, G. Turpin made a sacrifice, but owing to an error was safe on first, with the bases full Burge walked and forced McDonald in. At this stage of the game Freddie took the mound. L. Turpin was safe on an error and Butler scored, Drumm was out on first and Ecobichon struck out, Skitch up the second time, safe on first on error of Weir, Butler hit by pitched ball, Skitch on second, McDonald's two-base hit scored, Skitch. Tyson safe on first, G. Turpin on first owing to error, Burge safe on first, owing to Soup fumbling the ball, McDonald scored Tyson, Turpin and Burge left on bases when Drumm went out.

Belleville—Casey safe hit to first, stole second, Meagher flew to second baseman, Weir, struck out, W. Mills knocked a one-bagger and Frank Goyer was caught out by T. Turpin.

Second Innings

Cobourg—Tyson flew to Meagher who made a one-handed high catch, G. Turpin and Burge struck out.

Belleville—Harry Mills hit a Texas Leaguer, Symons two-bagger, Mills scored, Sammy out, caught stealing third, Williams struck out, Fred Goyer walked and Casey was caught out by T. Turpin.

Third Innings

Cobourg—T. Turpin struck out, Burge caught out by Casey, G. Turpin struck out (as father, as son).

Belleville—Meagher caught out on first, Weir singled to McDonald, Big Peony Mills resolved to get all he wanted, so with fire in his eye he stalked up to home plate and Ecobichon slipped one right down the groove and believe me, Peony laid on it. It was too bad the bases were not full. Mills would have chased them all home with his home-run. Soup Goyer was out on first.

Fourth Innings

Cobourg—Skitch singled to first but caught on first when he was asleep, Butler and McDonald struck out.

The game was delayed at this stage on account of old father time passing over the grounds. The old man didn't know there was a ball game on and him in the middle of it. If he had of he likely would have moved faster, anyway he was coaxed off the field and Mills came up to bat. He flew to G. Turpin as did Symons, Williams struck out.

Fifth Innings

Cobourg—Tyson flew to Hr. Mills, G. Turpin struck out, Burge hit to Williams, out on first.

Belleville—Freddy Goyer out on first, Babe Casey hit a hot grounder out past short stop, safe on first, Meagher out on first hit to pitcher, Weir hit to G. Turpin, out on first.

Sixth Innings

Cobourg—Tyson flew to H. Mills, Drumm flew to Williams, out on first, Ecobichon walked, Skitch flew to Meagher.

Belleville—W. Mills knocked a two-bagger, flew to centre-fielder who muffed it, Soup safe hit to first, Harry Mills safe on first, W. Mills scored, Symons safe hit to first, Soup scored, Williams two-bagger, H. Mills and Symons scored, with Campbell pitching Freddy struck out, Casey walked, Meagher flew to Tyson. Weir knocked a two-bagger and Williams scored, Mills walked, Soup out on first.

Seventh Innings

Cobourg—Butler struck out, McDonald safe on first, overthrow, safe on second, error of weir, Tyson hit with ball, G. Turpin flew, to Soup, Schafer batting for Burge, catcher muffed, safe on first, error of Mills, Dick Turpin struck out.

Belleville—Harry Mills safe hit to first, Symons singled another safe one, Williams knocked a two-bagger and Mills and Symons scored, Freddy, struck out and Casey knocked a two-bagger, scoring Williams, Meagher out on first, Weir knocked a two-bagger, Casey scored, W. Mills flew to the right fielder.

Eighth Innings

Cobourg—Drumm struck out, Campbell hit to Weir and out on first, Skitch bunted to Freddy, out on first.

Belleville—Soup flew to Dick Turpin, H. Mills hit to Skitch out on first, Symons flew to Schafer.

Ninth Innings

Cobourg—Butler flew to Soup, McDonald hit to Freddy, out on first, Tyson flew to Weir.

NOTES.

Peaney Mills, senior, will no doubt soon be sporting a brand new silk shirt. Mr. W. B. Deacon, of the Deacon Shirt Company, will contribute the article, having promised a silk shirt to the member of the G.T.R. team making the first home run. Peaney did the trick yesterday, to the delight of the fans.

Meagher, playing centre field, made a fine play when he caught a nifty fly in one hand. While the ball was making its way through the air the excitement was intense, and when it was seen that "Butter" had landed it safe, and with one hand, the cheers were deafening.

"Weiry" has tightened up considerably in the field, but has not found the range in batting as yet this season.

Freddy played a great game, but did not get any two-baggers in the matter of strikes, much to the disappointment of the crowd, as Freddy has been doing some strong batting this season, as well as being right there in pitching.

"Peany" Mills needs no introduction as his superb catching is sufficient at all ports. At the bat he is also strong and it is noticeable that the manager of the opposing team always sends the fielders away back when "Peany" comes to bat.

Harry Mills, or "Young Peany," as he is called, was O.K. on first, playing sure ball, with Jack Williams giving splendid support.

Jack Williams, who plays second base and is an addition to the team this season, has speed, and rapped out a dandy yesterday for two cushions and clearing the bases.

"Sammy" played a great game yesterday, making some sure hits, and in the field showed he hasn't forgotten the game any.

"Babe" Casey was splendid. When it comes to dodging Babe's right there. Each time Babe came to bat the fans chuckled, as there was certain to be a neat hit from his bat.

Turpin, the father of the father-and-son team from Cobourg, held the interest of the crowd for some time, making some good saves on first.

"Soup" Goyer who played on third, was a wee bit slow, but played up at the bat in a satisfactory manner.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N. Harben

(Copyright, 1903)

"Then the drummer begun to tell about how she had squelched a feller up in Richmond. He was a rich Yankee that was bein' entertained up thar, an' met her at some big dinner. It seems she set right acrost the table from him, an' some'n' he said agin the southern soldiers made 'er fire up. You know two of her uncles was killed at Gettysburg. Well, instead o' apologizing like he ort, he seemed to think it was mighty funny, an' he spent the rest o' the dinner hittin' at the dead Confederate soldiers—jest think o' that, the dead ones!—said they had no right to have flowers strewed on the'r graves an' the like. The drummer said she tuck it like a born lady, as mild as she could, out o' politeness, an' beca'se she saw that the lady that give the party was worried by his conduct, but she give the feller a cold stare after dinner, an' ordered her carriage to take 'er home. The whole thing, it seems, along with her good looks an' high position, literally turned the Yankee's head. He made a dozen attempts after that to meet 'er, but she refused to have anything to do with 'im. He found out whar she attended church, an' went thar one Sunday, an' after meetin' was over he waited at the foot o' the steps outside. Seems like he counted on his smile doin' the work, fer when she appeared at the top o' the steps he jest tuck off his hat an' made a low bow, an' stood grinnin', to show how sorry he was. The drummer said she happened to have some pennies in her hand, an' that she jest drapped 'em in the feller's hat as ef he was a beggar, an', without lookin' at 'im, passed on down the steps. They say it got out, an' so much fun was made of it that the feller left Richmond. She's jest like a queen, anyway, Mrs. Hillyer, but I'll tell you I believe she likes George Buckley—I believe she likes an' respects 'im. An' sometimes when I see her an' him together I jest feel like the two of 'em is doin' right to feel that a-way, even ef it never comes to anything. It's the prettiest sight on earth—that sort o' thing is, Mrs. Hillyer. An' sometimes it seems to me that it's jest beca'se they are helt apart that they are drawed so close together. She's at the top, Mrs. Hillyer, an' his daddy has put up a wall betwixt the two, but they are a-lookin' over it into each other's eyes an' a-wonderin'—jest a-wonderin'."

Mrs. Hillyer gazed at the cotton buyer steadily, and her eyes filled. "Mr. Kenner," she said unsteadily, "I've listened to some sermons once in awhile an' been blessed, but it was a rare thing. But I give you my word you've made me feel good this mornin'. Huh, I never 'lowed it was in you! An' jest think, you hain't married. Thar's oodlins o' deservin' gals in the world, lettin' the'r good hearts wither up without a speck o' love, an' yore rich soul is dryin' up year by year in this musty warehouse. I tell you, I'm goin' to find you a wife."

"I wish you would," Kenner laughed. "I've got faith in yore judgment, an' I'd take any you picked out an' be thankful. An' this affair of George's makes me wish I'd made better use o' my time 'fore it was too late."

"Too late nothin'," laughed Mrs. Hillyer as she turned away. "You are a sight younger now than half o' these beardless dudes that have already danced their youth away."

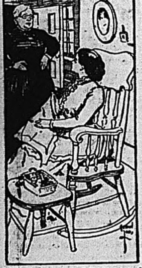
Arriving at home, the merchant's wife bustled into the warm sitting room, where her niece sat sewing at a window, and, throwing her shawl on a chair, she stood before the wood fire.

"Hortense," she said suddenly; "I want to talk to you."

"To me?" asked the young woman in surprise. "What is it?"

Mrs. Hillyer stood before her. "I want to say that Jim Kenner is one o' the best men I ever knowed, seed or heard tell of. I want to say, moreover, that he would marry under jest the right provocation. I want to add, too, that this town is full o' the blindest set o' gals that ever wore gowns."

"Well," gasped Miss Snowden in surprise, "I can't see why you are hurling it in my face! I'm sure I have always thought he was a nice sort of man. He's always treated me nicely."



"Jim Kenner is one o' the best men I ever knowed, seed or heard tell of."

"Well," and Mrs. Hillyer turned away, "I've put a bug in yore year, an' ef it don't kick it's dead; that's all I've got to say."

The following Sunday, after the service, she met Kenner just outside the church and greeted him with a broad smile. [illegible]

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 36, or write The Intelligencer.

Station Street subscriber writes: I see that a new name is sought for the Home for the Friendless. How would "The Better 'Ole" do?

T. I. D. Y. writes: I saw the grass growing up through the board walk at the High School. Time this eyesore and foot killer was removed.

S. O. L. says: I see the cops have new uniforms and I hope they will choose their company now and try and keep them clean, not messing up with any of those wobbly nightbirds.

I. C. writes: I see that a great many people go through life with their eyes shut, apparently, or there would be more paragraphs in this interesting column every day. I know I am seeing things I never saw before since this column started. It's a good thing; push it along!

Old Timer says: I see Charlie Sandrelli up to the race track. Sandrelli built most of the sewers in Northern Ontario during the past twenty-five years and made a bunch of money. To prevent his money accumulating too rapidly Charlie keeps a couple of race horses, good enough to keep him amused and finish inside the money most of the time.

Chairman of Firehall Sunday School class says: I see that there is a circus a-comin' to town. I suppose, says he, that there will be the usual procession of wise guys going up to the lot to try and take money away from the poor confiding circus men via the little pea and the three-card monte route. Surprising what the circus folks have to put up with; but as they make their money easy they don't seem to object to the native sons trying to take it away from them.

SWISS DOCTOR WALKED AROUND THE WORLD

Milan, June 7.—Dr. Massimo Armando Leurett aged 36, a Swiss physician, has arrived here after walking 25,000 miles in both old and new worlds. He asserts that his tour took him around the globe commencing in January 1, 1914, and cost him $40,000.

He says he left Switzerland going north to Germany, Poland and Russia. He was in the last named country when war began and continued the journey across Russia, to Siberia. He then visited China and Japan and later crossed the Pacific to America. He claims to have traversed both North and South America on foot. His trip from the Pacific Coast to New York was made alternately in Canada and the United States.

When he got to Switzerland, he decided that he had not yet seen Italy nor Africa and has commenced now his journeys through them.

(Boudoir Secrets)

No toilet table is complete without a small package of delatone, for with it hair or fuzz can be quickly banished from the skin. To remove hairs you merely mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the objectionable hairs. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when it will be found free from hair or blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.

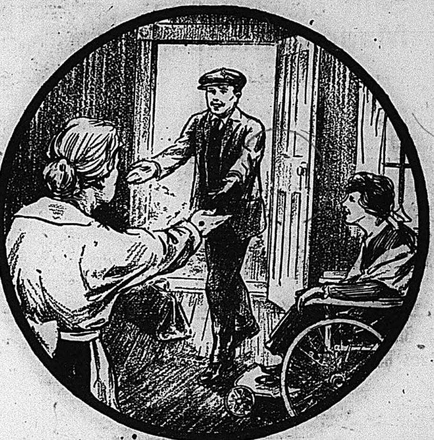
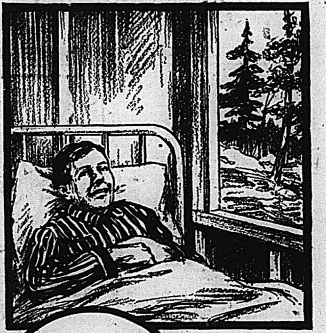
"Thank God—there are folks who'll help a fellow!"





THE visiting nurse of the National Sanitarium Association found him---ill with consumption.

Picture the home! The father dead, the mother aged, the sister an invalid---the sick lad, a teamster, their sole support.

Hard work in all weathers, constant colds and insufficient nourishment exhausted the wage-earner's strength.

He was sent to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and the Samaritan Club looked after the mother and sister.

Now he is home again. "Thank God," he says, "there are folks who'll help a fellow when he's up against it."

You're one of the helpful kind, aren't you?

Show it by a generous contribution to the National Sanitarium Association's

Consumptives' Emergency Million Dollar Fund

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, destroyed by fire on November 30th last, must be replaced by buildings, larger and fireproof.

Accommodation is needed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for 400 adults in early stages of the disease. This will restore 250 of them to their homes and loved ones—cured. The remainder will be greatly benefited.

A few months for each patient soon means thousands cared for. Funds are urgently needed for this work.

Again—adults in advanced stages must be treated at the King Edward Sanatorium on the banks of the Humber near Weston. Extensions are necessary. Many of these patients can be saved.

And again—little children—stricken with the dread disease—must be cared for at the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children near Weston. Ninety per cent. of these are saved to become healthy men and women.

Funds are urgently needed to cover the cost of extensions.

Further, funds are urgently needed to carry on the work of The Gage Institute in the City of Toronto, where the needy poor come for free examinations, including X-ray, and for medical and nursing assistance.

Fifteen thousand needy consumptives have been cared for to date at the hospitals conducted by the Association.

PENNY BAGS

That the report of the amount raised by penny bags be printed in the daily papers also expressing gratitude of the W. C. A. to convenors and collectors who have so faithfully carried on the work for the last fifteen months and to those who have contributed to the amount, and that this system of raising money for the hospital and home be discontinued throughout the summer months and that it be re-organized again in September, was a resolution passed at the monthly meeting of the W. C. A. yesterday afternoon. The results from this method of collection have been remarkable and by putting a few pennies in the bag every day or so it soon swells the amount beyond expectations. The pennies are collected once every month. The total amount collected for the fifteen months amounts to $1625.72. The amount collected for each ward is as follows:

Murney	$204.19
Ketcheson	517.56

FOR THE OLD FOLKS

Five thousand dollars is the objective of the ladies of the W.C.A. in an effort to raise by house-to-house canvas sufficient funds to pay off the indebtedness on the new home for old folks which will be established in the Herchmer property on Dundas street. The building used up to the present time was unsuitable for the purpose, and has been sold. The proceeds will be used on the purchase price of the newly acquired property and the citizens will be asked to contribute to a fund to pay off the balance. Five thousand dollars is the objective and the house-to-house canvas will be made next week.

ENTERTAINED OLD FOLKS

A musical treat was afforded the seventy-five inmates of the House of Refuge and staff by the Salvation Army Wednesday evening, when the band of that organization, accompanied by Adjutant Cavender, officers and members, visited the institution. A splendid musical program was given by the band, followed by the serving of delicious refreshments. Mr. Bulpitt furnished the ice-cream and the S. A. ladies the cake. It was certainly a night long to be remembered by the old folks.

THREE DAYS' FAIR

A meeting of the officials of the Belleville Agricultural Society was held last evening, when it was finally decided to hold a three days' fair, namely, Labor Day, September 5th and the two succeeding days. Purses for the speeding events were increased and it is anticipated that there will be good exhibitions of speed. Other matters, such as arranging for the publishing of the prize list, etc., were attended to. The officials will endeavor to make the fair this year all that could be desired.

BAPTIST CONVENTION

The opening exercises Wednesday night were taken by Rev. H. S. Bennett, Campbellford. The financial reports of the various churches were heard and were very encourging. The missions also gave a very encourging report. The Moderator, Mr Merry gave his address basing his thoughts on the four words Know, Pray, Pay and Go. He emphasized the duty of every Christian to accept the responsibility in the Kingdom of Christ. The citizens of Belleville were thanked for their hospitality. The choir furnished very appropriate music. The Rev. Elliot then spoke on "Home Misions," basing his remarks on the Parable of the Good Samariian, the finer points being the challenge to the needy neighbour, to the churches in the rural community, to the church in the changing community, to the churches in New Ontario and to the churches in larger centres.

Rev. J. C. McCauley of Toronto gave an address on the 'Lordship of Chirst' as the individual in the churches and community life.

Thursday Morning

Rev. Miller of Picton opened the devotional exercises and the reports from Grande League Mission, Foreign Missions were heard also Western Missions.

The final address was given by Rev. J. L. Harton B. H. of Oshawa on "Finance."

FAIRBANKS PRESENTS AN ENTIRELY NEW IDEA

In keeping with the letter of the sagacious critics that the supreme test of a successful photoplay should be characterized in the first instance by a good story replete with action, Douglas Fairbanks, in "The Mark of Zorro," a United Artists production that is to be shown at Griffin's tonight to Saturday has certain amongst other things, fulfilled that requirement.

This story adapted from Johnston McCulley's "The Curse of Capistrano," that was featured serially in the "All Story Weekly" magazine, can be safely said to surpass all of "Doug's" previous screen productions and to establish a new record in expansive film creation.

Full of swift, bristling action, there is a strong life interest quite different from that attempted by Fairbanks heretofore. We also find a relieving touch running through the entire picture that buoys one up for the startling events that are in all details gripping, impassioned and mystifying. Every detail of setting and acting has been given the greatest care in presentation, thus creating a harmony of art that is distinctly superior.

The public concertainly feel assured that the management of Griffin's Theatre during the past year has not been amiss in providing its patrons with the very best obtainable. With this statement, they can look forward with expectant pleasure to this coming picture. Fairbanks has spared neither time nor expense in providing the very best for his large host of admirers.

Colony of Cave-Dwellers in Berlin

Berlin, June 8.—The colony of cave-dwellers of Berlin, which took the back-to-the-land doctrine so literally that scores of men, women, boys and girls dug caves for themselves in the banks of the Spree out of Berlin and discard all all modern wearing apparel, has been dispersed by the police. The colony, leader Dr. Heinrich Goldburg, argued before a magistrate that the experiment was a simple solution of the housing and cost of living problems.

The cave-dwellers began by discarding hats and shoes but soon decided to do away with clothing altogether and in this fashion disported themselves in the waters of the Spree, or sat about their cave doors munching black bread and sausages, apparently oblivious to the crowd of sight-seers which began to frequent the vicinity.

Dr. Goldberg from his abode in the "Cave of Zarathustra," issued circulars discussing the Nietzschean philosophy, anarchy, Communism, the flaults of the present civilization and asking the rent-weary and work-worn to "watch this colony grow."

Somebody spoiled the experiment by complaining that the brotherhood was having a deleterious effect upon public morals and calling attention to the doctor's career, which was said to have included efforts to reform England, Russia and Poland.

The colony has disappeared but its leader has become a familiar figure upon the streets of Berlin, wearing long hair and going barefoot.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Two motorists were up before the magistrate charged with speeding. One was fined $5 and costs and the other $10 and costs.

Mr. Carnew and Capt. Ruston made a trip north Wednesday. At Marmora two children were made wards of the Children's Aid Society. The parents of eight children were warned at Madoc, and one case, namely, Mrs. McCaw, was before Magistrate Casement charged with neglecting to send her boy to school. She claimed the boy was incorrigible.

A man and wife were up before the magistrate yesterday charged with running a disorderly house. They were each fined $25 and costs, and an inmate of the house let go with a warning.

A HOUSE OF MYSTERY.

Why Did Wealthy German Locate In Vancouver?

In 1913 Vancouver society was all agog over the wonders of a recent house warming given by a Mr. Alvo von Albensleben, who had come to British Columbia some years before, had worked at whatever he could get to do—in mines, at lumber camps, as an agriculturist, on steamboats up and down the coast, in railway yards, financial offices and at whatever came his way. He was poor, 'twas said, but, though reported a German count in his own right, was not afraid to turn his hand to any labor so long as it turned him an honest living.

He became well known, and, so great was his countrymen's faith in him, and so well had he advertised the resources and possibilities of British Columbia, that Germans of high and low degree,— but lots of money—manifested their faith in his reports by sending much money to Vancouver for him to invest, and, not only that, but members of the nobility came themselves, purchased land on high lots overlooking wide areas of seat and city, built fine homes and settled down to become citizens of Vancouver and, eventually —so they said—naturalized Canadians. The German kaiser himself had become so interested in Mr. von Alvensleben's reports about the city and the whole province of British Columbia, that he had invested largely in various parts of it.

It sounded like a fairy tale, but, when passing a large business block, opposite the post office, and seeing great plate glass windows inscribed with the name "Alvo von Alvensleben," and dressed with piles of gold and sheaves of bank notes, while a multitude of clerks and a crush of customers could be seen beyond the actual cash evidences of wealth and security, the idea of fairies vanished.

Select luncheons, teas and dinners were arranged for the discussion of so juicy a social topic.

Those who had not been invited greedily searched for the wordy crumbs that fell from the lips of the favored, and, repeated on all sides, were delicious tit-bits.

"Magnificent view. Yes, with a telescope can almost see the people walking on Vancouver Island——"

"Commands the whole Gulf, can see every boat that comes in——"

"—— but the tennis courts! Wonderful—all cement——"

When war was declared Vancouver people stopped to think. Why had the Germans made themselves so agreeable?. Why had that house been built where it could not be seen from the land, but where, from its many outlooks, a view of every sea entrance to the city could be had?"

Why the cement? For long range cannon, 'twas said.

Von Alvensleben was interned in United States camps, during the war, and has never been allowed to reenter Canada since.

A low stone wall surrounds the property and, from Wilson road, on the north, where street cars pass all day long, only a rather large stable and garage can be seen, and a corner of an ordinary-looking square house. From Blenheim street a wide motor road enters between evergreens of great growth, and no house is visible at all. To the south the forest trees have not been felled and gables of a country residence peer over, and, on the eastern boundary nothing can be seen of the grounds, on account of dense shrubbery, but the windows of the stables are visible. Many people look at the boundaries of the once Von Albensleben place and wonder who made up the mystery tales about it.

The place is now the home of Mr. R. J. Crombie, owner of the Vancouver Sun newspaper.

Lower Higher Than Upper.

"Let me have sleeping accommodations on the train to Ottawa," I said to the man at the window, who did not seem at all concerned whether I took the trip or stayed at home.

"For a single passenger?"

"No," I replied, "I'm married but I'm not taking anybody with me. A single shelf will answer."

"Upper or lower?" he asked.

"What's the difference?" I enquired.

"A difference of fifty cents," came the answer. "Our prices to Ottawa are $2.50 and $3."

"You understand of course," explained the agent, "the lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower berth. If you want it lower, you'll have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. It didn't used to be so, but we found everybody wanted the lower. In other words the higher the fewer."

"Why do they all prefer the lower?" I broke in.

"On account of its convenience," he replied, "most persons don't like the upper, although it's lower, on account of it being higher, and because when you occupy an upper you have to get up to go to bed, and then get down when you get up. I would advise you to take the lower, although it's higher than the upper, for the reason I have stated, that the upper is lower than the lower because it is higher. You can have the lower if you pay higher, but if you are willing to go higher it will be lower."

More Birds Wanted.

There are not enough birds, experts say, to clean up a full-strength invasion of grasshoppers such as the western farmers have come to dread, according to the Forestry Magazine, but the birds assist materially in the efforts by man to control the pest. Of twenty-seven species of birds examined, twenty-five were grasshopper eaters. In nineteen of the species all of the individual collected had given grasshoppers a place on their menu. The birds having the best records are the lark, sparrows, meadowlarks, Franklin gulls, Arkansas kingbird, crow, blackbird, and the common kingbird.

London Worried by Grave Reports From Asia Minor

ANGORA GOVERNMENT OPENS FRONTIERS TO ADMIT MOSLEM-BOLSHEVIK TROOPS

London, June 10.—Large military reinforcements have been received by Mustapha Kemal Pasha, head of the Turkish Nationalist Government at Angora, and he is threatening to advance upon the Black Sea and the Sea of Marmora. The Angora government is said to have taken an arrogant attitude toward the allies.

Despatches containing these statements were featured by London papers to-day, and the situation was declared to hold alarming possibilities.

Constantinople in Danger

It is asserted by the Daily Sketch that the British government has received reports of a grave nature from its representatives in Constantinople, which is declared to be menaced with capture by the Turkish Nationalists. The newspaper says large reinforcements for British troops in Constantinople are necesary if that city and the Dardanelles are to be retained in the hands of the western powers. British representatives there, the newspaper says, have advised the government that if reinforcements are not available it is desirable that British forces in the near east and middle east be withdrawn to India.

A Constantinople despatch to the Daily Mail reports the British battleships Iron Duke and King George have been ordered to the Dardanelles it being intended that they will join in operations againts the Nationalists by blocking the Black Sea ports and covering the landing of Greek reinforcements. The despatch implies that the British warships Benbow and Centaur, which recently have been engaged in target practice on the Sea of Marmora, will co-operate with the two battleships, and the prediction is made that British destroyers will soon arrive in the straits.

Group Gov't Loses Out in Saskatchewan

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Regina, June 10.—Saskatchewan decided yesterday not to experiment with group Government and returned Premier Martin's Government to office, giving him a majority less sweeping than the one which followed his leadership during the last Legislature, but sufficiently large to make him independent of all opposition alignments. The Government supporters will number about 45 in a Legislature of 63, when three deferred elections have been held, in the view of the political authorities. The latest figures are: Government, 41; Independent, 12; Labor, 1; doubtful, 4.

Regina, June 10—The recapitulation of the provincial election yesterday shows that 42 government supporters were elected, Independents 15, Conservatives 2, deferred 3.

Hon. George Langley, Minister of Municipal Affairs, was defeated in Redberry by George Cockburn, Independent. This is now conceded. Cockburn has more than two hundred majority, with one poll to come. Langley was the only Minister to meet defeat. It is thought he may be a candidate in one of the deferred elections.

Three Policemen Shot on Street at Belfast

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Belfast, June 10.—A police sergeant and two constables were shot on the street here this afternoon and are reported to have been gravely wounded. The shooting is attributed in Unionist quarters to an attempt on the part of the Sinn Fein to create such conditions as would prevent King George from coming to attend the opening in state of the Ulster Parliament on June 22.

CONFIDENCE IN HATFIELD WANING

Medicine Hat., Alta., June 10.—Confidence in Rainmaker Charles M. Hatfield is begining to wane. Hatfield's contract calls for him to supply four inches of rain in three months (May, June and July). Although he arrived in a blaze of glory (plenty of rain) his record still remains at the inch and a half mark. The district in which Hatfield guarantees to supply rain is the driest portion of the whole province, and while there have been splendid rains outside this area, Medicine Hat is sweltering in 92 degrees in the shade and the sky is cloudless.

Meanwhile out on Chappice Lake Hatfield and his brother continue their strange operations undismayed by the hot dry weather. They state that they expected this dry period, explaining that dry periods are necessary in order to create the proper etheric disturbances, so that this hot wave is in their opinion perfectly all right.

Early Settlers in Quinte District

LIONS LEARN OF STRUGGLES AND VICTORIES OF FOREBEARS

Pioneer days in the Bay of Quinte district was the theme of W. S. Herrington, K.C., in addressing the members of the Belleville Lions Club Thursday evening at the Hotel Quinte Mr. Herrington has made a close study of early history in this district and his address was very instructive and interesting. He said that the term United Empire Loyalists was not intended to be a general one describing, the entire body of settlers who left the United States at the time of he revolution rather than forswear their allegiance to the British Crown, but rather a title, an individual mark of distinction conferred upon individuals carefully listed for the purpose by order of the Governor of Upper Canada. Driven out of the Mohawk Valley the Mohawk Indians were the first U.E.L. settlers in this section. Mr. Herrington related many historical facts and incidents relating to the early settlers in Sidney and Thurlow townships as well as the district surrounding, and his address was very much enjoyed, a vote of thanks being tendered him upon the motion of Messrs Herity and F. S. Deacon who also made brief addresses.

Cub Sam. Cronk was good fellowship chairman and was very much at home in that position.

Cub Ponton announced that Belleville would have a distinguished visitor next Thursday in Dr. John Ferguson, a Belleville Old Boy, who has attained distinction in China in the mission field and as advisor to the government. Lions, Rotary and Chamber of Commerce will entertain Dr. Ferguson at noon luncheon at the Quinte. Dr. Ferguson is a brother of Mrs. Sherman, John street, and is a graduate of Albert College.

Addington Girl Shot by Father

LATTER ARRESTED PENDING INQUIRY INTO THE CIRCUMSTANCES

Kingston, June 10.—Cecilia Tryon, 17-year-old daughter of Kenneth Tryon, Kaladar, was brought to the General Hospital yesterday shot through the right breast and in a precarious condition. The occurrence took place at ten o'clock in the morning and, after receiving medical treatment from Dr. T. J. C. Kindall, of Flinton, the girl was brought here on C. P. R. train, accompanied by two Kaladar residents and was immediately operated upon.

The rifle which caused the wound, was in the hands of her father, who was placed under arrest by Constable George Sedor, and removed to Northbrooke for preliminary hearing.

The girl had been living with a first cousin in Kaladar, but there was no evidence, according to the villagers, of any disagreement between father and daughter. Mr. Tryon has been a resident of Kaladar for over a quarter of a century, except for a short residence in Napanee.

Fixing Dead Line For Girls Wages

ONTARIO MINIMUM WAGE BOARD SOLICITS SUGGESTIONS FROM EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYEES

There are few subjects in which a keener or wider interest is taken than the matter of wages, probably because 90 per cent. of the men and women in this country are dependent directly or indirectly upon their own or someone else's earnings.

Realizing that there is a point below which wages for women should not be allowed to fall, the Minimum Wage Board was established by act of Ontario Legislature in 1920. It has now spent some months in ascertaining just how much a girl must spend in order to obtain the necessaries of life. One of the results of their investigations has been the establishing of an order governing the minimum wage which may be paid to women workers in the laundries of Toronto. Under the terms of this ruling experienced female workers employed in such laundries may not be paid wages at a less rate than $12.00 per week.

A survey is now being made of the following industries: chocolate, biscuit, confectionery and allied industries, paper box, paper bag, stationery and allied industries, retail stores, grocery specialities, gum and jam, with a view to establishing wage rates for girls in these occupations. These orders will first apply to Toronto but, together with the laundry order, will later be extended to the whole province. As the cost of living is lower in the smaller towns and cities of the province the orders for the province generally will fix lower minimum than for the larger cities.

Dr. MacMillan, chairman of the Minimum Wage Board, Spadina Crescent, Toronto, has announced that he will gladly furnish information to any employer or employee who may care to write to him with regard to the terms of the Board's orders.

Employers throughout the province, with whom the Board has come in contact, have invariably not only given their assistance but, upon learning the methods and results of the Board's actions, have also given their approval.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

Railway Wage Reductions

Montreal, June 10.—Preliminary steps towards revision of the twelve per cent. in wages of operating staffs of the Canadian Railways to be followed by an effort to revise working conditions will be taken here next Friday. Representatives of various Railroad Brotherhoods have been asked to come to Montreal and they will be told by the Canadian Pacific Railway and Grand Trunk officials that a wage decrease will come into effect on July 1, and will be the same as finally approved by the United States Railway Labor Board at Chicago.

Strike Settlement Hopeful

London, June 10.—The decision of the miners' executive to take a ballot of the miners in the coalfields, it is confidently expected, will be followed by the men voting in favor of dropping the wage pool scheme, which has been the principal bone of contention. The precise nature of the new terms submitted to the men by the owners are expected to include a twenty per cent. advance in wages on the 1914 scale, including additions and percentages since made and also guarantees to the lower ranks of surface workers. This will practically mean a forty per cent. rise over 1914.

Admiral Sim's Speech

London, June 10.—The reply of Rear Admiral Sims to the request of Secretary of the Navy Denby for an explanation of his speech here on Tuesday expresses the opinion of Admiral Sims that some parts of the speech, to which objection had been taken, had been garbled. This was learned unofficially but on good authority here today.. In his answer Admiral Sims declares he said nothing in his address which he had not said before in speeches in the United States and in his book.

This is generally considered a long step towards peace in the coal industry. The strike of the mine owners has been in progress since April 1.

FORD WILL ALSO HAVE NO SUNDAY WORK ON HIS NEW RAILROAD

Detroit, Mich, June 9.—Beginning on July 1st, each employe of the Detroit Ironton Railroad, the property recently acquired by Henry Ford will receive the same scale of wages, six dollars a day minimum as is being paid to workers at the Ford automobile plants. In addition, bonuses for efficiency will be allowed.

This announcement was made here this afternoon by Mr. Ford, who added that eight hours will constitute a day's work on his railroad, and that there will be no turn anywhere on the system from 6 p.m Saturday until 6 a.m. Monday.

There are 1,327 employes on the road, which runs from Detroit to Ironton, Ohio. A total of 467 miles of trackage is operated. The road taps the rich Ohio coal fields and connects with the Baltimore and Ohio and the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroads.

SHOT FROM PISTOL HALT THE CAR

Chatham, June 9.—After a running fight in which pistol shooting figured, High Constable George Peters and License Inspector Slide accompanied by Peter's son, Wilfrid, captured five men who were connected with a shipment of 100 cases of Seagram's whiskey, en route from Kitchener to Windsor.

The capture was made near the Town of Tilbury Peters had received a tip that a Reo truck car was on its way through this section of the country, and was to be met near Tilbury by a quartette of men who are suspected of being border cities rum-runners. The officers discovered the truck on its way to the border, and arrested the driver, C. Logan, who gave his address to the authorities as 45 McKay Avenue Windsor.

The officers then started after a 6iz car which contained the men who were to meet the truck and located it near Tilbury in a damaged condition. The men tried to escape, but a shot from Peter's pistol halted them, and they were brought to the jail here. They will be tried next week. Logan was allowed out on $2,000 bail, as also was an Assyrian, who accompanied him.

Spilled Milk Overflows into Police Court

CHARGE AGAINST MERCHANT SETTLED ON PAYMENT OF COSTS

Food Inspector Leckie of Ottawa, laid a charge against Mrs. De Vault, merchant, of West Bridge street, for obstructing a public officer, and the case was disposed of Thursday afternoon before Magistrate Masson who decided that the accused was technically guilty, but in view of all the circumstances and with the consent of the Crown Attorney, decided not to impose any punishment but directed the accused to pay the costs.

The charge arose out of a dispute in Mrs. De Vault's store on May 25th last. Mrs. De Vault has been selling milk at eight cents per quart on the cash-and-carry system and the Inspector who was unknown to Mrs. De Vault got a sample. Mrs. De Vault claimed that she was perfectly willing to let Inspector have the sample but desired to be protected by having a portion of the sample left with her, and her name and seal put on the sample sent by the Inspector to the Government Analyist, as provided by the Act. She said she thought he intended taking the sample away without giving her this protection as had occurred in the case of other Inspectors who had failed to comply with the law. In the mix-up which followed the milk was spilled over the Inspector and Mrs. De Vault. The evidence showed that Mrs. De Vault procures her milk from certified cows and sells it just as received, and that it stands up well in the city's official tests, the last test showing 3.8 per cent. butter fat. Wm. Carnew for the Prosecution; W. C. Mikel, K.C., for the accused.

SAYS HE CAN'T PAY $10,000 A MONTH

Chicago, June 10.—Mr. Peggy is worth only $2,995,188.66 and cannot afford to pay the $10,000 a month alimony Peggy demands.

J. Stanley Joyce, third millionaire husband of Peggy Joyce, show girl, told this to Judge Joseph Sabbath, when he took the stand in the case involving his domestic smash today.

Weymouth Kirkland, Peggy's attorney, questioned Joyce as to his wealth and branded him as a "don't recall" witness when he didn't remember certain of his assets.

Added Burdens For The Town

WILL NOT GET ANY SHARE OF FEDERAL GRANT FOR HIGHWAYS

Toronto, June 10.—Ontario municipalities, not separated for municipal purposes, will be out of pocket hundreds of thousands of dollars that they had counted upon, as a result of the ruling received by the Ontario Highways Department from the Federal Commissioner of Highways in respect to the payment of the Federal good roads grant on Provincial highway construction in unseparated towns. Various municipalities in the Province in discussing the matter with the Provincial officials had been given to understand, as the Minister and his officials understood, that on sections of Provincial highway running through these towns the Province would contribute 40 per cent. and the Dominion 40 per cent., leaving 20 per cent. to the municipalities—the same apportionment of cost as is made for the rural sections.

When the matter came down to a definite stage, however, Ottawa objected and the Ontario Highways Department now has a ruling that the Federal grant will not apply on any road constructed within town limits. The Province, of course, cannot contribute more to construction within town limits than outside, so that the municipalities will have to shoulder the extra 40 per cent. themselves. The difference, according to Hon. Mr. Biggs, will be a very large sum in the aggregate, and will impose a heavy added burden on the municipalities which, in addition to paying 60 per cent. of the cost of the width of the Provincial highway, will also have to carry by local improvement or general rates the cost of the extra width necessary for municipal street traffic.

Ladies' Skirts Hover Between Heaven and Earth

MINISTER SAYS THEY ARE TOO FAR FROM GROUND, NOT NEAR ENOUGH TO HEAVEN

London, Ont., June 10.—That the Methodist Church frowns upon short skirts, gambling, dancing in colleges, schools and summer resorts and the stigma attached to illegitimate children, was evidenced by discussions which took place at the general session of the London Methodist conference in Askin street church. The debate arose during the reception of the report of the evangelism and social service department by Rev. A. Murray Stuart.

Rev. S. Anderson, of Seaforth, introduced the subject of "ladies attire," but was greeted by a chorus of "oh's" from fellow delegates. "I would recommend some young ladies to go to bed", he declared. "It is a disgraceful thing. Our women ought to be decently attired at least."

"What is the trouble?" asked a member of the conference.

"The clothes are a little too far from the ground and not quite near enough to heaven," he replied. The report declared that the church is "looking upon the presence of gambling with deep concern, endangering society, reaching down to the school boys gambling with marbles. To urge parents and teachers to set their faces against this evil, to its final extinction.

Regarding illegitimate children, the report said in part:

"We cordially approve of the purpose of the Ontario government in recent legislation removing the stigma of illegitimate children by making the father responsible and hope the father will be compelled to recognize the child by distinction of his name."

"We look with a certain degree of alarm on the growing of the dance. We believe it is time for the church to take a more decided stand on this form of amusement and would call the attention of the public to the pernicious influence of dancing at summer resorts."

Red Cross Notes

At a meeting of the Ontario Medical Association at Niagara Falls Ont., on Wednesday evening, June 1st, Dr. Nasmith announced that the Canadian Red Cross had given the Association $5,000 a year for three years to carry on post-graduate work.

A most interesting wedding was celebrated at the Red Cross Lodge, Christie Street, Hospital, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon, May 28th, when Private George White, a returned hero, who had lost a leg and the use of one arm, was married to Miss Margaret Douglas Grey Finlayson, of Polworth Gardens, Edinborough. Private White came to Canada from the United States in 1916 and enlisted at Montreal in the 5th Royal Highlanders. He was wounded on the Amiens front in August, 1918. His bride elect is a Scotch girl, who did a great deal of war-work. She has been in Canada a year or more. Mr. A. F. Rutter, President of the Red Cross, acted as father of the bride and gave her away.

Petrolea's Child Welfare Clinic, which has been hitherto managed by the I.O.D.E., has been taken over by the Red Cross Society. The Red Cross is also considering the possibility of taking up public health nursing.

Wallaceburg has just organized a Membership Campaign and the churches in Amherstburg and Essex are taking up a collection in aid of the campaign for Red Cross Membership Enrollment in the district.

Welland's Rotary Club and Local Council of Women are preparing for a campaign and Oshawa organized a branch of the Junior Red Cross.

An endorsation of the Red Cross Peace Campaign was passed at the convention of the G.W.V.A. in Brantford, the association referring to the "noble and splendid work of the Red Cross in war", and expressing the hope that the campaign for carrying on peace-time work will be successful.

An interesting incident in connection with the Red Cross Membership Enrollment Campaign is the entry into the society of three new members of the community, the triplets, Jean, Jack and Bill McCarter, of 60 Northcliff street, Fairbank, who were duly enrolled at the booth at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Monday, May 23rd.

Children in Saskatchewan will soon receive a visit from a fairy god-mother, whose gifts, while they may not be welcome to them at present, will be the means of saving them much pain and discomfort in future life. Thanks to the efforts of the Red Cross Society toothaches will soon become a thing unknown in Saskatchewan—banished by the advent of a motor containing a dentist and his portable equipment. Right away from the beaten track of the railroads this car will travel; into solitary houses where never a dentist came before; into rural schools where the children will gaze upon it in wonder and awe—north and south, wherever its presence may be needed. First the permission of their parents will be obtained, and then no more toothaches for the little ones. And with good teeth will come improved health. The Red Cross has arranged for two such motors to travel through Saskatchewan.

W. C. T. U. MEET IN COUNTY CONVENTION

sized that through a parlor meeting more people may become conversant with the work which they need only to know to become interested. She spoke of the scientific effect of alcohol on the system and many other interesting truths.

Mrs. Miller, Vice-President, presented the following plan of work:

1. Recommended, that the Evangelistic superintendents of the unions urge the members to a more faithful observance of the noontide prayer.

2. That typewritten suggestions as given by Mrs. Dunwoodie be sent to each Evangelistic superintendent in the county, also the provincial superintendent.

3. The county union recommend the provincial executive to form a dress reform league for women under the moral education department, also that they memorialize the Branch W.M.S. meeting in Napanee June 7-8 to adopt the same.

4. That posters be used in each union for educational use in teaching scientific temperance.

5. Recommended that each union set apart a sum of money called a thanksgiving fund administered for the increasing of membership and extension of the work.

6. Recommended that each union contribute of their funds to augment the county funds.

Miss Lucy Anderson, convenor, submitted the following resolutions:

Whereas, conditions all over our land have made women's work more strenuous, and as the legal knowledge of our women cannot be maintained without correct information, therefore be it resolved that each year the latest amendments to the laws re the status of women and those of special importance to our W.C.T.U. departments of work be printed in our provincial report; that those already printed be thoroughly revised, such as Sec. 2 page 171 of report, etc., so those women just awakening to their responsibilities may get the latest revised abstracts from laws.

2. Resolved, that we impress on unions the necessity of all travellers' aid superintendents co-operating in the safeguarding of our young people by keeping in touch with Dr. Sara Ditwiler.

3. Resolved, that we urge on the W. C. T. U. as a body to press for a stricter enforcement regarding the character of the moving pictures that they may be used to elevate instead of lower the moral tone of our youth.

4. Resolved, that the counties of Hastings, Lennox and Addington are in agreement with the provincial union in engaging a scientific temperance secretary.

5. Resolved, that this convention place itself on record as heartily disapproving the present form of prevailing fashions and that they form themselves into a dress reform league to stand for a hygenic, modest and moral style of dress and would recommend a membership campaign for the same under the moral education department.

6. A resolution of thanks to all, etc., was responded to by Mrs. A. Dickson, president of the entertaining union.

A motion was carried that Mrs. E. Sexsmith be a delegate to the provincial convention in London. All joined hands and sang "God be with you till we meet again," and Mrs. Gibson's prayer closed a most successful convention.

HAD TERRIBLE WINTER.

Conditions in Newfoundland Differed From Those in Canada.

Not in the history of the oldest inhabitant has Newfoundland suffered from such a succession of snow storms and blizzards as last winter.

Even the city of St. John's, despite its possession of 30,000 people and every modern accessory, was the victim of a condition of traffic suspension not previously known, street cars not being run for weeks and blockades of the railway line extending to the suburbs being also frequent. In one case a whole fortnight elapsed before a train entered or left the city. Photographs of the scenes caused by some of the blizzards show a condition of things one ordinarily associates with the subarctic regions. Banks of snow twenty and twenty-five feet high were common and dislocation of every kind of traffic was such that churches, schools, theatres and all other places of public assemblage were almost put out of business, especially during one week when the city's electric power plant was crippled by a snow slide from a nearby mountain which carried away part of the flume and left the whole city to depend on candles and kerosene oil for illumination.

Amid these disconcerting conditions, however, the Newfoundlander carried on his regular avocations and preparations were made for the sealing voyage, which is the first of the seasonal industries of the island and which began on March 10, to take part in which venture men cheerfully walk scores and some hundreds of miles with their belongings on their backs in a kit bag or an hold-all. The walking is not the sort of a hike immortalized in some of the soldiers marching songs, it is a steady plod hour after hour and day after day through snow that usually reaches to the knees and sometimes to a man's thigh.

In one of the snow storms which beset St. John's it was a common practice to see men and women traveling on snowshoes, through the principal streets on the tops of banks of snow, up over fences and reaching second-story windows.

Some snow banks are high enough to cut off the window's view of the surrounding country and it is usually the end of May before all the snow has gone from this section of the island. The miseries of a winter such as described are very great, but they were rendered doubly so in Newfoundland this year by the fact that the country is suffering from an aggravated attack of the depression that prevails everywhere else. Newfoundland has been very hard hit because her fishermen in preparing for the prosecution of their industry last summer had to pay the highest prices for everything they required for themselves and their families and for the outfitting of their fishing crafts, the providing of nets, etc., and the necessary requisite for curing the catch. Then in the autumn when their catch was ready for market they found sales were difficult to make and only possible at very low prices and all markets were glutted by the competition of European fish catchers — French, Norwegian, Icelandic and even British.

The Colonial Government stepped in with a series of regulations to fix prices high enough to recoup the fishermen, but this scheme, though it looked well on paper, failed utterly when put into practice and the result was that the Newfoundland fishermen found themselves at the end of December with a great deal of their catch on their hands and the rest of it had to be placed for sale on commission in Southern Europe. The consequence is that the Newfoundland fishermen have in very many cases been reduced almost to destitution, compelling the Government to provides relief for various places, to prevent starvation to the verge of which many settlements have been reduced. This relief has taken the form of permitting the people to cut timber through sections of forest for sale. The Government has provided a guarantee to the contractors who have undertaken this wood cutting $6 per cord and in certain areas the men who actually cut the wood have got only $2 for their work, another $2 being absorbed in transportation costs.

A condition of financial paralysis has been created in St. John's and the other principal towns of the island as a result of this situation which has had no parallel in the past quarter century and it is very much feared that much worse conditions will have yet to be faced before a stage of real betterment is reached.

Remedies for Poison Ivy.

The American Botanist records that W. L. McAtee has collected a list of 244 alleged cures for "ivy" poisoning. Among the vegetable substances recommended to be taken internally are extracts or infusions of sweet fern, snakeroot, pasque flower, aconite, spice bush, coffee, poison sumach (?), pipsissewa, yellow jasmine, belladonna and bryony. It is pointed out that "poison ivy probably has a reputation for harmfulness all out of proportion to its abilities; a few people are rather severely poisoned by it, but the majority seem to be immune or nearly so." We should like to add that a great deal of supposed "ivy" poisoning may be due to other plants, since there are scores of plants that are capable of causing more or less severe dermatitis in susceptible people. Copious information on this subject was published in 1887 by Dr. J. C. White in his book "Dermatitis Venenata."

Circus Day Traffic

I see says a Belleville commercial traveller, that the police department of other places are regulating the traffic for circus day, asking motor owners to park in side streets, and not hog the entire route of the parade by parking at the curbs, preventing pedestrians from having a clear view of the spectacle. The one-way routes to and from the grounds removes most of the risk of accidents. Belleville is notorious for traffic congestion on circus day and last year a little boy was killed on Victoria avenue. This year there should be a change for the better and 'Safety First" traffic regulations enforced. There certainly should be a traffic policeman stationed on Victoria avenue at Pinnacle street intersection Circus day. This is the most dangerous place in the city when Dufferin street grounds are being used for travelling shows. The sharp curve and the grade rendering it doubly dangerous. Arrangements should also be made with the Paving Company to leave Victoria avenue clear that day.

AIREDALE'S LONG TREK.

Journeyed 770 Miles and Had No Traveled Road.

Dogs often travel long distances to return home, some instinct guiding them of which humans have no perception. Albert P. Terhune in the Literary Digest told of a collie that walked 956 miles to get home. This roused John McLennan, of Edmonton, who gave the following story of an Airedale's long trek:

T. A. Fee, an architect, of Vancouver, owns an Airedale dog, and in the spring of 1919 he sent it by express over the Canadian National Railway to a brother-in-law, Thomas Paton, at Ardrossan, a station on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, sixteen miles east of Edmonton, at the same time notifying Mr. Paton of the shipment. Express charges were prepaid, as well as a sum of money and food given the messenger to care for the dog to its destination. After waiting for some time and no dog arriving, Mr. Paton notified Mr. Fee of the non-arrival of Buster. Mr. Fee made enquiry of the railroad company, and the express company produced a receipt from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway showing that the dog had been delivered to the latter company at Edmonton, the junction point. The express company connected with the Grank Trunk road acknowledged receipt of the dog at Edmonton, but had no record of how it was disposed of. Ardrossan station on their line has no station agent, and the presumption is that the dog was put off at the station in the hope that Mr. Paton would come and claim him. This, however, is only conjecture, as Mr. Paton never received the dog, and he was given up for lost. Buster was not of sufficient value to make much fuss about him, and the matter was allowed to drop. In about six weeks' time Buster arrived at his home in Vancouver, emaciated, tired, and footsore. The distance from Vancouver to Edmonton is 770 miles on the Canadian National, and Ardrossan, as already stated, is sixteen miles east of Edmonton on another line. From Edmonton to Vancouver there is no traveled road except the railroad track, which passes through, and over three chains of mountains, two-thirds of the distance without habitation except the railroad section houses and at long intervals small stations, many of them without a single inhabitant. Having in mind that there are twelve lines of railroad converging in Edmonton and that his road home was through mountains and uninhabited for the most part, not only is the feat of finding his way marvelous, but it is equally strange how he subsisted on the way. I think this accomplishment is of sufficient importance to place it side by side with that of Bud. It is also a record of a breed of dogs not credited with the same degree of intelligence as the collie.

Killing 'Skeeters.

A mosquito-breeding swamp is not only a source of neighborhood discomfort and danger but also an economic liability. Often it may be converted into a valuable asset by inexpensive draining.

An experimental operation was recently performed upon a twenty-acre swamp. It was a mucky place, nearly all of it under water, with tree stumps plentifully scattered. The operation consisted of ditching with dynamite, a trench 1,500 feet long being blown with sticks of the explosive placed in holes two feet deep at intervals averaging one foot. Extra charges were used for stumps.

The resulting ditch averaged a width of seven and a half feet at the top and a depth of three and a half feet. Total cost, including labor and 1,000 pounds of dynamite, was $270. When the job was finished there was a freely running stream through the ditch.

By this simple and rapid means the swamp was transformed into twenty acres of good land.

Interesting Relics.

A traveler in Ireland stopped for a drink of milk at a white cottage with a thatched roof, and, as he sipped his refreshment he noted, on a centre table under a glass dome, a brick with a faded rose upon the top of it. "Why do you cherish in this way," the traveler said to his host, "that common brick and the dead rose?" "Sure, sir," was the reply, "there's certain memories attachin' to them. Do you see this big dent in my head? Well, it was made by that brick." "But the rose?" "The rose," said the host, "is off the grave of the man that threw the brick."

The Price of Success.

Two very fat old gentlemen were enjoying their game of golf, unhindered by caddies.

At last they got on the green.

As they stood, with putters in their hands, they gravely contemplated their golf-balls, which were only a few feet from the hole.

One of them turning to the other stout fellow, scratched his head in a perplexed fashion, and murmured:

"Mallowes, old man, supposing I did put this ball in. Who in blazes is going to get it out?"

Industrial Alcohol.

Manufacture of industrial alcohol is about the only feasible method of utilizing lumber mill refuge on a large scale, says the American Forestry Magazine. An alcohol plant with a daily supply of 180 tons of wood can produce 3,600 gallons of alcohol at a cost, under present conditions, of approximately 25 cents a gallon.

Wisps of Wisdom.

Some men never recognize an opportunity unless it is labelled.

There would be no credit in rising if the going was not uphill work.

Flattery is the best cure for a stiff neck. It will turn almost any head.

Those who have never been through the depths of suffering cannot know the height of joy.

Wise Suffered Sixteen Years

Restored By Tanlac Toronto Man Says He Eats Hearty, Sleeps Good and Feels Fine Now

"I am now enjoying good health for the first time in years, and I owe it all to Tanlac,' said Robert Lorne Wise, a well known iron moulder living at 105 Caledonia Road, Toronto, Ont.

"Sixteen years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach. I didn't pay much attention to it at first, but it kept getting worse until during the past year or two I just had to sit up and take notice. My appetite was poor and after meals I suffered from sour stomach and griping pains. I also suffered from constipation and had frequent spells of dizziness, when I came near falling over. During the past summer I had an awful time from those attacks of indigestion. My kidneys were out of order and every time I bent over it looked like my back would break in two.

"But when I finished my first bottle of Tanlac my stomach had quit hurting and I felt better in every way. I kept right on taking it and kept on improving until now I am as well as I ever was in my life. My aches and pains are things of the past. I eat hearty, sleep good and feel fine all the time. After what Tanlac has done for me I couldn't help speaking up for it." Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's drug store and leading druggists.

HUNTING HIDES IS AN EXPENSIVE LUXURY.

The enquiry into the operations of the great lumber companies and the conduct of the provincial Crown lands department, instituted by the Drury Government has thus far expended about $150,000 and ascertained that Hon. Howard Ferguson administered the Crown Lands department better than his predecessors, that the department was rotten under the Ross Liberal administration, was greatly improved under the Conservative administration, and can still stand some improvements. The effort, camouflaged in the timber investigation, to "get the hide of Hon. Howard Ferguson," has proved a dud, the only hides tanned up to date as the result of the enquiry being those of friends of the Drury Government, particularly one lawyer who tried to serve several masters at once. Thus far the timber enquiry has been just another rat hole in which to pour the liquid assets of the rich province and help to pile up another greater deficit than has been.

The Drury Government is picturesque, but d—n expensive.

HUMAN ENCYCLOPEDIAS NOT COLLEGE TEST.

The Watertown Standard makes a sensible observation on the test recently submitted by Thomas A. Edison to college graduates. The Standard says:

"About all a university training can do for a man or woman is to lay open sources of information. No person can cram into his head and retain all that is covered in elementary, secondary and higher school education.

"Mr. Edison's tests of information given to college graduate applicants for places in his organization admittedly is not a fair test of education, although as an advertisement for a memory system it is successful. It covers a field so wide that few persons could hope to make a creditable showing, touching as it does, science, chemistry, music, art, literature and almost every other field of human interest.

"Take an average gathering of men and women who have been out of college 15 or 20 years and probably not 1 in 20 could do a problem in square root and not one in 100 an example in cube root. Yet nearly all, if not all, of them knew the processes in high school.

"The Edison test merely shows the peculiarity that accompanies genius. The electrical wizard, hard worker and constant reader that he is, either is playing a joke on some of the college lads or has lost his sense of balance.

"Education is not mere memory. An encyclopedia can be purchased for $100. If that is all Mr. Edison believes education is good for, certainly spending money for university training is a waste. However, few will agree with him and fewer will see where his tests are of practical value."

HARD TO BE CONSISTENT.

Under the above heading, the Journal of Commerce has a good article when it says:

"It is hard to be consistent. Those who find the task too difficult must solace themselves with the philosophy of Emerson, who says that consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds. It must be a real comfort for the politician to be able to quote, to himself, at all events, the wisdom of the Concord sage when somebody on the other side points out that what the honorable member now says is entirely at variance with what he said on some previous occasion. On the trade question it is not always easy to be consistent. It is sometimes apparent that the general principles which an honorable gentleman lays down with much vigor prove unadapted to a particular case in his own constituency. An Ontario farmer in a former parliament, who had strong views on the question of freedom of commerce, was described by an opponent as a 'free trader in everything but pork.'

"In the discussion of public expenditures a similar difficulty is often met. A member who is strong in his general demand for economy is found urging a more than liberal expenditure in his own county.

"That even on what are called moral issues this difficulty arises was indicated a few days ago in the Ontario Legislature. Ontario is strong for prohibition. In the recent referendum the electors, by a majority approaching two hundred thousand, decided that Ontario should be 'bone dry.' This led some folk to make a close study of the Ontario Temperance Act, in the course of which attention was directed to a section which permits the sale of Ontario native wine. It was not easy to see that there was any moral reason for the use of Ontario wine that would not apply with equal force to wine of a similar alcoholic content produced elsewhere. Desiring, apparently, to be consistent, a member moved to repeal the clause. This, however, proved too shocking a proposition for the Legislature of a wine-growing province. The motion was promptly voted down. Now, under the Ontario law, the use of beer containing a very small percentage of alcohol is forbidden, while the use of wine containing a much larger percentage of alcohol is allowed—that is, if it is Ontario wine.

"What a comfort the philosophy of Emerson must be in the premier province!"

CRISP COMMENT

Edison thinks he's smart asking a lot of questions that college graduates cannot answer, but we've got a human interrogation mark under ten years of age at our house who can ask questions that Edison cannot answer.

Montreal Methodist conference decided that Prof. Stephen Leacock had a perfect right to express his views on prohibition, publicly or otherwise, and a resolution of proposed censure was accordingly withdrawn. Strange how many people would like to muzzle those who do not see as they do.

NECESSITY FOR A JUST SETTLEMENT

London Daily News

Unless the present struggle concludes justly and without bitterness it matters very little which side "wins", for at the last the nation, including the victors and the vanquished, will suffer the usual consequences of industrial enmity and chaos.

TRIVIAL ROUND, THE COMMON TASK

Brooklyn Eagle

The "irregular" Germans who are taking Silesian towns away from Korfanty's "irregular" Poles, must be having lots of excitement. The art of leading regular lives is too little studied in parts of Europe. It is the best of antidotes for irregular hostilities.

BOLSHEVISM IN THE SCHOOLS

Providence Journal

There never has been any doubt as to the loyalty of American colleges, notwithstanding the harmful teachings of certain professors, and in some of these institutions of learning offenders who refused to stop the teaching of un-Americanism have been summarily dismissed. The work of ridding the colleges of these dangerous agitators should be continued and the public schools also should be included, for Bolshevism has no legitimate place in any American educational institution.

THE FOUR POISONS

London Daily Mail

Descanting on the four "social poisons", Sir James Cantlie gave the comforting assurance that tobacco is less injurious than the other three—tea, coffee and alcohol. Excepting coffee, which is rather unfashionable lately, it probably is the easiest to "give up". If tobacco's various forms, cigarettes are, say, the least beneficial, particularly as indulged in by "chain-smokers", who light the next from the stump of the last. And they induce "leather lungs," which sounds discouraging and might easily affect one's golf.

The Poets' Corner

SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY

She walks in beauty, like the night
Of cloudless climes and starry skies;
And all that's best of dark and bright
Meet in her aspect and her eyes;
Thus mellowed to that tender light
Which heaven to gaudy day denies.

One shade the more, one ray the less,
Had half impaired the nameless grace
Which waves in every raven tress
Or softly lighten o'er her face;
Where thoughts serenely sweet express
How pure, how dear their dwelling place.

And on that cheek, and o'er that brow
So soft, so calm, yet eloquent;
The smiles that win, the tints that glow,
But tell of days in goodness spent,
A mind at peace with all below,
A heart whose love is innocent.

—Byron.

A Laugh or Two

Then Teacher Gave It Up

Teacher—"If your mother had twenty-five yards of stuff, and made a dress containing eighteen yards, how much would she have left?"

Little Girl—"Mamma can't make her own dresses. She has tried often.

Teacher—"Suppose she sent it to a dressmaker, how much would the dressmaker send back?"

Little Girl—"Depends on which dressmaker she sent it to. Some wouldn't send back any."

Teacher (impatiently) — "Suppose she sent it to an honest one?"

Little Girl—"Some of the honestest ones cut things to waste, so that there is never anything left, no matter how much you send 'em."

Circumstantial Evidence

"Billy Youngdad's baby is beginning to talk now," said one of his bachelor friends to another.

"Why, has he been boring you with stories about it?"

"No, but I sat near him at lunch to-day, and I heard him say absentmindedly to the waitress. "Dimme icky dinky watty, pease."—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

$3,000,000 DAMAGE DONE BY FIRE TO PITTSBURG PLANT

Pittsburg, Pa., June 9.—Loss by fire, which partially destroyed the plant of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company at McKeesport, a suburb, was estimated at nearly $3,000,000 by officials of the company.

The fire, starting in the box factory of the Nuffer Cedar Company, spread to the machine shop and tin house of the plant, and was not brought under control until an early hour this morning.

POINTS OF ETIQUETTE.

People Use Titles "Lady" and "Esquire" Without the Right.

More than one Canadian woman has shuddered at the awful faux pas she made when she inadvertently addressed some knight's wife as plain "Missus." As a matter of fact she was technically right, for strictly speaking the titles of knights and even baronets' wives are only "Dame," but usage has long given them the courtesy title of "Lady" which has become their official style of address. Even the eldest sons of peers who use distinct titles of their own are merely given them by courtesy as are the younger sons of dukes and marquises—Lord Robert Cecil for instance. But if any person undertook to call them "Mister" he would get an icy stare, which even if the outraged nobleman did not administer one of those subtle snubs which his kind is an adept in handing out, would say as plain as paint, "Oh, you poor fish, are you trying to be rude or is it just that a boob like you doesn't know any better?" So the social climber who wants to get a stand-in with a Canadian knight's wife won't forget to prefix her name with the "Lady" which is her due.

Last among titles of honor is the familiar "Esquire" which to-day is affixed in abbreviated "Esq." to letters addressed to all and sundry. In olden times as everyone knows an esquire was the gentleman attendant attached to a knight and who frequently won knighthood himself. Subsequently the title developed into the looser one of squire, signifying any untitled English country gentleman. Under a general sort of rule Burke declares that the persons entitled to the address of esquire today are: sons of peers and lords of Parliament during the lives of their fathers; the younger sons of peers after the death of their fathers; the eldest sons of the younger sons of peers and their eldest sons in perpetual succession; all the sons of baronets and the eldest sons of knights; Companions of the Bath and their eldest sons; British barristers, but not solicitors; justice of the peace and mayors while in commission or office; crown officials who are not merely clerks; persons styled esquires by the crown in their commissions as sheriffs, officers in the army and navy, etc.; lawyers in Dominions like Canada where the departments of barrister and solicitor are united. But Burke notwithstanding there has always been dispute as to who were entitled to the affix esquire, and even in England where it is not bandied about on letters nearly so freely as in Canada, "esquire" is given to an infinitely greater class of people than that prescribed above.

"Whittaker" and "Debrett" issue annual publications concerning the great and the near-great, and in matters of etiquette "Debrett" is considerably deferred to as an authority, but Burke's ponderous tome is by far the most complete. Near the back of it is a "Table of Precedence for the Dominion of Canada" which in 31 grades, starting with the Governor-General and ending with retired judges, shows the relative positions of Canadian lieutenant-governors, chief justices, military and naval heads, Cabinet Ministers, Senators, M.P.'s, M.L.A.'s, etc. But respecting the democratic attitude of Canada it makes no attempt to go beyond official ranks and diplomatically says nothing whatever about the ladies.

The Clay Belt.

It used to be one of the pleasures of the late C. C. James, when Deputy Minister of Agriculture, to trace on a map the clay belt of New Ontario for the benefit of a newspaper man who called at his office, and prophecy as to its future as an agricultural country. There was mining up there, and timber, but the clay belt, in the end, would be the great thing.

The country has produced no better judge in such matters than the late C. C. James, and the clay belt of the north is going to be a fine country. The Northland Post of Cochrane, says:

"Naturally, so far the development has been very slow here. During the years of the war we could only mark time, but slowly and surely the clay belt is being transformed from primeval wilderness into fertile farming lands. From the Harricanaw river in Quebec to the Kenogami river in Ontario, along the Canadian National Railways, a wonderful transformation is taking place, and the meaning of the word clay belt is beginning to dawn upon the traveler as he gazes from the car windows upon the clearings which perceptibly increase with every new season and bring in their wake towns and villages around the wayside stations."

The country is making good, and will win out. One of these days the Ontario Government and the National Railways will join forces and push forward the development of the clay belt with results that will arrest the attention of the continent.

When Canada Became British.

The Treaty of Paris, concluded in 1763, ended the Seven Years' War between France and Britain for the New France of that day and the Canada of to-day. Following the defeat of Montcalm by Wolfe in 1759 and of Vaudreuil in 1760, the transfer of the country to Britain was made, and the Treaty of Paris is its official document.

The Cunard Line.

Samuel Cunard was the founder of the Cunard line of steamers, and despatched the first subsidized vessel, the Unicorn, from Liverpool to Halifax in 1840, followed by the Britannia, the first regular steamer of what became known as the Cunard Line. Samuel Cunard lived in Halifax.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The military tennis court on the Armouries lawn, is now in splendid condition and a tournament is in progress which is attracting much interest. The players are all local and are chiefly members of the two military organizations in the city, namely, the Argylle Light Infantry and 34th Battery.

CHARGE DISMISSED

Drs. Benson and Wellbanks, two veterinary surgeons of this city, who were charged with a violation of the Ontario Temperance Act in procuring more liquor than it was alleged they were entitled to, were on Thursday afternoon by Magistrate Masson acquitted of the charged. After evidence had been submitted in the case of Dr. Benson and the charge dismissed, the case against Dr. Wellbanks was not proceeded with as the evidence was identical with that of the Benson case. Mr. Carnew represented Inspector Naphin in the case and Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., for the accused.

WON GOLD MEDAL

John Reeves of Queen Mary school cadets, in a shoot-off with Bernad Brown of the same school won the Gold Medal of The Strathcona Competition awarded by the Dominion Government. This morning both boys again tied and it was not until a third shoot off that the final result was attained. The score were as follows: (possible 50)—First Shoot—John Reeves, 46; Bernard Brown, 46; Second shoot— Bernard Brown, 40; John Reeves, 40; Final—John Reeves, 42; Bernard Brown 36. Captain D. Thos. NIAGARA FALLS DOOMED.

River May Be Dammed In Order to Make More Power.

Ten years hence Niagara Falls may have disappeared. Mayhap the visitor will see but bare rock wherp to-day the waters take their awful leap into the chasm. Perhaps the authorities will turn on the Falls on special occasions and holidays when the power demand slackens. Vandalistic as it sounds, Niagara seems doomed, if not in ten, then in twenty years' time. That is unless science meantime discovers other and more economic ways of manufacturing light, heat and power. To-day Ontario, thanks to Adam Beck, gets the lion's share of Niagara power, but the Yanks have designs on the Niagara river, and if the International Commission agrees to the scheme proposed the mighty waterway will yield nearly six times its present production of power — and the whole face of nature along the Niagara river will undergo a change.

It is not proposed to take the Niagara river bodily and force it through a pipe, but the scheme is almost as bold. To-day the river is generating a total of 650,000 horse-power, of which Canada's share by authorization of the International Commission which regulates the use of power, is some 425,000 horse-power. At present water can only be taken from above the Falls, the commission permitting the diversion of 56,000 cubic feet per second, of which the American share is 20,000 and Canada's 36,000. Ontario, however, supplies the American side with a certain amount of current. The new Chippawa Canal will increase Canada's power under international arrangement by some 210,000 horse-power, which it is hoped to eventually increase to 472,000.

Meantime the Yanks propose that the 56,000 cubic feet diversion be increased to 80,000, and, instead of getting the smaller portion as to-day, that both Canada and the United States go fifty-fifty, taking 40,000 each. But that is not all the Yanks propose. They hope eventually to get 1,500,000 horse-power from above the Falls. And this they would manufacture by tunnelling Goat Island. By extending Goat Island out into the rapids they could cut rock tunnels which, from the upper end to their base at the foot of the falls, would give a drop of 200 feet on to the turbine wheels. Of course, this and an equal diversion on our Ontario side would greatly reduce the size of the falls.

But this is only part of the scheme. The sequel means good-bye to the Whirlpool and the magnificent rapids in the forge below the falls. The American engineers actually propose to dam the Niagara river at Foster's Flats below the Whirlpool and about five miles below the falls. To anyone who has seen the mighty river sweeping down towards Lake Ontario the very idea of controlling it seems preposterous. The Niagara has a minimum flow of 220,000 cubic feet per second. From the falls to Foster's Flats the river descends 102 feet, and for the first four and one-half miles the current is terrific, and the shores sheer cliffs, hundreds of feet high. But Foster's Flats give the necessary shore base on which to start the dam which, 650 feet wide, would be 140 high from its base to the crest of the spillway on top. The daring engineers propose to build one-half the dam from Foster's Flats, to pierce it with temporary sluiceways and then to divert the whole Niagara river, and send it through these sluices, while they construct the balance of the dam in the dry bed of the diverted Niagara. Once the dam was built the river would obviously back up and rise in its confines until about 80 feet of the present bank at the Whirlpool was submerged, and the now madly rushing stretch of waters became nothing but one of the biggest mill ponds in the world.

The scheme would of course ruin Niagara scenically, and if it could be accomplished at all would cost an estimated $100,000,000 and take three years. But the dam alone would supply two million horse-power, of which Canada would get one-half. As steam-generated power even around Buffalo, where coal is cheaper than in Toronto, costs an average of $80 per horse-power per annum, the two million horse-power generated at the dam alone would mean an annual economy of at least $160,000,000 in coal—160 per cent. of the dam's cost.

Playing Whist for Canada.

When Mr. Labouchere was an attache at Washington he went down with his chief to a small inn in Virginia to meet Mr. Marcy, the American Secretary of State, for the purpose of discussing a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada. Mr. Marcy, usually the most genial of men, was as cross as a bear and would agree to nothing. Mr. Labouchere thereupon asked that Minister's private secretary to tell him, in confidence, what was the matter. "He is not getting his rubber of whist," was the answer. After that the British representatve proposed every night a rubber of whist, which he invariably lost. Mr. Marcy was immensely pleased at beating the Britisher at what he called "their own game," and his good humor immediately returned. "Every morning," said Mr. Labouchere, in relating the incident, "when the details of the treaty were being discussed we had our revenge and scored a few points for Canada."

A Confederation Poem.

Charles G. D. Roberts, the Canadian poet, wrote "An Ode for the Canadian Confederacy," the first line being: "Awake, my country, the hour is great with change."

The Eskimo Dog.

With the going good, an Eskimo dog will draw an average of 300 pounds weight thirty-five miles in one day.

Most mules are out of mean, small, trickey high-strung mares. This counts for their meanness and obstinacy. Mules carrying considerable draft horse heredity have greater size and weight and much better dispositions than their smaller kin.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Kiever.

Vancouver, B.C.—"I am pleased to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a lot of good. I can now walk about without the aid of a support and feel real strong again. A nurse advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and it is certainly helping me. It seems like Heaven to be relieved after months of pain."—MRS. H. W. BAKER, 8874 10th Ave. West, Vancouver, B.C.

Albert Co., N. B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines and they have done me a lot of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as we live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this may help some one else."—MRS. WM. B. KEIVER, Upper New Horton, Albert Co., N.B.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N. Harben

(Copyright, 1903)

"I've got yore case in hand," she said, "an' I'm workin' it fer all it's worth."

He flushed to the roots of his hair with amused gratification.

"You say you have, Mrs. Hillyer?" he stammered.

Kenner stood on the edge of the sidewalk and watched her as she joined her niece on the street corner. "I wonder ef she could mean Miss Hortense," he said, his blood rushing madly through his veins. "Lord, Lord, ain't she nice? Fer all I know, Mrs. Hillyer may be tryin' to talk me up with 'er. Well, I wish she would, fer I never would dare to do it myself, as much as I'd like it."

CHAPTER IX.

HILLYER was alone in the office of the warehouse one morning about the middle of the following week when Kenner came in from the postoffice, the morning's mail in his hands.

"Wheat's gone a-whizzin'," he said. "It's $1.10 in the shade—away above high water mark. Take a fool's advice, Mr. Hillyer, an' git out while you kin. I've got George's interest at heart the same as you have, an' it's better fer young men to go slow an' be on the safe side."

Hillyer smiled broadly and rubbed his hands together with an air of intense satisfaction. "You were jest as badly rattled when it hadn't reached a dollar," he said. "Now, you let George alone. Ef I'm willin' to resk his judgment, with plenty o' scads behind the investment, why can't you?"

Kenner shrugged his shoulders and made no reply. George was coming in at the door. "Hello, young Gould!" the cotton buyer cried out jovially. "Are you weak at the knees?"

"Oh, you mean wheat," said Buckley indifferently as he went to his desk. "That's Mr. Hillyer's affair."

"No, it hain't, my boy, not by a jugful," said Hillyer, almost tenderly. "Yore judgment's held good so far; what do you think we ought to do?"

"Why, if I wanted to realize," replied the young man, "I'd telegraph for the best offers right away. You can't rely on those printed reports like Kenner has. My opinion is that it has gone higher since that circular was sent out."

"Higher!" exclaimed Kenner, with a cold smile of derision. "My boy, you are actin' jest like every young speculator that ever grabbed the whip an' jumped in the arena. You never let go till the back action sets in, an' then down you scoot like an avalanche."

Hillyer's next remark surprised Kenner.

"That's jest what I have done, my boy. I don't say I intend to sell, but I wired Jacobs & Co. fer the'r best offer on my way down."

Just then a messenger boy came in with a telegram. Hillyer opened it with shaky fingers, but when he read it he laid it on his desk quite calmly, a gleam of triumph in his eye.

"Jacob offers $1.12½," he said impressively as he looked at the cotton buyer.

Kenner stared and then spat against the wall behind the stove.

"Somebody's crazy," he grunted. "Wheat can't stand at that."

Hillyer was gazing at George with a hearty smile on his face.

"What do you think we ought to do, my boy?" he asked. "Remember, I only want yore judgment. Ef we hit the ceilin' feet fo'most I'll never throw it up to you."

George was silent for a moment. The others hung on his reply. "You are putting me in a rather ticklish place, Mr. Hillyer," he said. "I'd really rather not have the responsibility of as big a thing as this is entirely on me."

"Well," said Hillyer, "you won't mind tellin' me what you would do ef it was all yore affair."

"If it were mine," answered George, "I'd hold awhile longer."

"That settles it," cried Hillyer, and he turned to write an answer to the telegram.

A few minutes later Hanks came in with his son Bob, a well dressed young man past twenty years of age. The young man paused in the outer room, an expression of deep embarrassment on his face.

"Has that car o' meat fer me been sidetracked?" Hanks asked Hillyer abruptly.

"Yes; it's at the platform now," the merchant answered, casting a curious glance past Hanks to his son. "Are you ready to have it unloaded?"

"Yes; Bob's goin' to do it."

The whole room stared in sympathetic astonishment.

"You say he is?" Hillyer got out under his breath.

"Yes; I'm goin' to show him an' his mother that I rule the roost up our way. She's tuck a notion he's too good to work like common folks, an' let's 'im run wild with these town dudes, an' I've made up my mind as long as he eats my grub he's got to lay his hands to whatever work there is to do. I could git a nigger to do the job fer a dollar an' a half, an' I'm simply goin' to save the money."

At this outburst Bob Hanks was seen to turn his face to the door. It was as red as blood.

"Oh, say"— Hillyer began to protest, but Hanks interrupted him.

"Git that pair o' trucks back thar an' go to work," he said to his son, "an' shuck off that coat an' necktie. You won't need no buttonhole bouquet fer this job."

The young man made haste to obey. It was as if he wanted to spare his parent the exhibition he was making of himself. Hanks sat down at the stove in his usual place quite unruffled.

"Say," Hillyer began mildly, "I don't think yo're handlin' that chap right. He's all right. ef you'd only treat him

COCKROACH RACES

NEW LINE OF SPORT

Constantinople, June 8.—Betting on cockroach races is one of the newest sports here. It was introduced by a Russian who has just opened a hall where a man who wants some real excitement for his money can get results.

The hall is darkened at the moment the race is began. Then a single electric light at the end of a runway is turned on, and the cockroaches, each in a separate track, are let loose from their cages to race for the light.

More real, old-fashioned, nonprofessional sport may be had here than in any other city in Europe. This is due in part to the Allied troops of occupation, to the American officers and sailors on station here, and the large number of American and British civilians who have come out for business since the armistice.

What the Russian refugees have done in the way of enlivening the city with concerts, dancing places and queer restaurants, the other Allies have done in sporting lines.

In winter there is wild boar, duck and fox hunting. There is also, in and out of season, plenty of horseback riding over the dirt roads and unfenced streches of upland country on both sides of the Bosphorous. Horse races are often held.

Both the British and the Americans have laid out golf courses. There are also a few tennis courts.

The troops and sailors within the city have taken charge of a large field near Taxim, in the centre of Pera and there play football and baseball matches. Yachting and swimming are commonplace sports open to all.

The Russians from the Black Sea, who are accustomed to bathe naked, have increased the popularity of the beaches, especially a fine strip of sand on the Marmora north shore known as Flordia. There, without let or hindrance, men, women and children, undress on the open beach and bathe in costumes that seem quite conventional here.

The Turks have contributed chicken fights to the international sports.

HAMILTON MERCHANTS

CASH BOGUS CHECKS

Hamilton, June 8.—"Honor your father and mother, but not strangers' checks" is an adage which the local detectives are hoping some Hamilton storekeepers would learn by heart. During the past few days two east end shopkeepers have been victimized by one check artist, who has outfitted himself with shoes and other articles and paid for them with checks checks bearing perfectly good two-cent stamps. Investigation revealed that the orders were worth just the bearing perfectly good two-cent stamps. Investigation revealed that Losses so far reported to the police amount to $62,68.

Many Handsome Horses and Pretty Girls With the John Robinson Circus

Despite the seeming supremacy of the automobile and the threatened arrival of the motorized circus, the horse is still the king of the arena in the big tent shows. A circus without horses is inconceivable, and the astute circus manager realizes this even more than the public does.

The John Robinson show, the oldest big circus, which again presents itself at the Show Grounds, Monday, June 13, has an enviable reputation for its horses, most of which are western bred, and have been raised largely for exhibitional purposes. There are several hundred of them, and they range from the heaviest draft horses to the finest and most aristocratic racing stock. The horses are utilized to some extent in moving the paraphernalia of the show from the cars to the grounds, but most of this work is done with modern tractors. The real mission of the horse in the John Robinson circus is for exhibitional purposes in the big preliminary street parade, in the opening spectacle, and in an unusual number of high-class riding acts.

Special attention, it is announced, is given to the equestrianism in the John Robinson circus, and this feature, in turn, is given unusual interest because so many of the riders are young women. There are principal riders, and menage riders, and trick riders, and whirlwind riders, in all of which the beauty of the horses and the cleverness of the riders has an additional enhancement in the superb costuming. In one number there are two dozen high- schoolriders, and, in another, the rings are fairly crowded with clever and pulchritudinous young women riders of distinction.

The ability of the John Robinson circus girls as riders, as well as the attractiveness of their horses, will, it is announced be evidenced in the morning street parade as well as in the performance. America's finest horses and the world's prettiest circus girls ought to prove irresistible attractions to those who admire both.

In a little shack

a poor consumptive

HE was sick in bed when the nurse from the Gage Institute found him.

—in a little shack in the rear of a row of tenement houses—a poor consumptive.

Here this man, his wife and two children existed, miserably, in a congested section.

—a poor place to live in—a sure place to die in, for a consumptive.

The National Sanitarium Association came to the rescue. He was sent to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, and the family was looked after.

Now he is cured and back to work.

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, destroyed by fire on November 30th last, must be replaced by buildings, larger and fireproof.

Accommodation is needed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for 400 adults in early stages of the disease. This will restore 250 of them to their homes and loved ones—cured. The remainder will be greatly benefited.

A few months for each patient soon means thousands cared for. Funds are urgently needed for this work.

Again — adults in advanced stages must be treated at the King Edward Sanatorium on the banks of the Humber near Weston. Extensions are necessary. Many of these patients can be saved.

And again—little children—stricken with the dread disease—must be cared for at the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children near Weston. Ninety per cent. of these are saved to become healthy men and women.

Funds are urgently needed to cover the cost of extensions.

Further, funds are urgently needed to carry on the work of The Gage Institute in the City of Toronto, where the needy poor come for free examinations, including X-ray, and for medical and nursing assistance.

Fifteen thousand needy consumptives have been cared for to date at the hospitals conducted by the Association.

OLD PEOPLE'S WEEK

Next week will be "Old People's Home Week". The Women's Christian Association are holding a meeting, this (Friday) afternoon in the City Hall, of the convenors and workers who are assisting in the canvassing campaign to be started next week for the balance of the purchase price of the new home. Already the Old Home has been sold and the money paid on the new place. The Ladies have the city well organized and they hope to cover it in a short time. The public could assist in this matter greatly if they had the amount of their contribution planned before the canvasser called. Already several subscriptions have been given and a small amount of canvassing done. The contribution and subscription list will be published as soon as the work is started.

ENUMERATORS BREAK ARMS

The breaking of arms with census enumerators in the adjoining county of Northumberland and Durham seem to be rather popular. Mr. R. S. Caldwell of Hope Township, whilst cranking a car on Monday fractured his right arm, and on Thursday, Mr. E. L. Thompson of Clarke township suffered a similar mishap.

COUNCILLORS ENTERTAINED

At the conclusion of the Civic Committee meeting last night, the members of the City Council and a few of the city officials were entertained to a banquet which took place at the Quinte Cafe, on Bridge street. The spread which was all that could have been desired, was provided by Mr. Davis of the Standard Paving Company, who presided over the gathering. The company have about completed their contract for paving in this city this year and in a few days will be moving their plant from here to Napanee where they have a contract to pave several streets. After due justice had been done to the good things provided, a toast was carried out and brief addresses given by the most of those who were present at the function. At the close, a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Davis and the company with which he is identified.

PICTON TEACHERS RESIGN

At a meeting of the Picton School Board on Monday night, resignations were received from five teachers, Miss Hubbs, Miss Milling, Miss Reid, Miss Ward and Mrs. Todd. All the teachers had previously applied for an increase in salary. The Board had requested those who were willing to stay at the present year's salary to notify the Board to this effect. No notifications have been received up to the present. The feeling of the Board at its last meeting was that the town cannot afford to grant the requested increase unless a larger Provincial grant can be obtained than has been available in the past.

On Thursday night Walter Knox, famous athlete and all-round champion of America, was at the High School and gave an exhibition of the right way to jump, pole vault, run, etc. Mr. Knox has just returned from New York, where he was with Jack Dempsey, in his training quarters. As he did not see the "Parlez vous" boy he does not know about the turn of affairs, but from all appearances he thinks Dempsey is the best man. What The Press Agents Say

Doug Fairbanks is Back Again

FULL OF ACTION, HEART INTEREST AND SUSPENSE, STORY GIVES "DOUG" GREAT CHANCE

Those who were fortunate enough to witness Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro," his new production for the United Artists that was exhibited at Griffin's last evening, departed with that feeling of satisfaction that they had seen by far the best picture in which the vigorous "Doug" had ever appeared.

It can readily be seen that he has spared no expense in the assurance of creating the best there is to further the cause in entertainment. While excessive expenditure may not be the apex of a successful picture, yet in Fairbanks' case we can surely see it as a criterion. Here is a strong romance containing love, action and humor predominating for eight full reels. We are given a very vivid insight of the times when the grandees ruled sunny California before its acquisition into the Union.

In this picture "Doug" has put more thrills and excitement before our view than he has ever done heretofore. In it we see a replica of the city of Los Angeles as it was a century ago.

The "set" probably must have been constructed at an enormous cost, involving many thousands of dollars. Thus the rich background afforded the audience an unusual opportunity to note what California resembled when it was ruled by romance and rapiers. Due to the most diligent and careful research work conducted by the Fairbanks organization that was only arrived at after the most cautious deliberation, we are able to perceive the exactness of the customs and picturesque atmosphere prevailing during those times. The plot is most mystifying from start to finish. The love interest though powerful is not as great as the mass of new feats "Doug" is called upon to perform in this vehicle. These stunts, apart from being thrilling, have a tendency to provoke laughter.

"The Simp," a funny 2-reel Chester comedy, Fox News Weekly, and Vode-Vil Movies with its bill of vaudeville talent were exhibited in addition to the feature offering.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Fermenting Food and Acid Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

We're Winning War on Tuberculosis

BUT FIGHT MUST BE KEPT UP, AND $1,000,000 IS NEEDED FOR MUSKOKA HOSPITAL

Tuberculosis has come to a very modified place in human affairs in the past twenty years.

In 1902, when the first Muskoka Free Hospital was built at Gravenhurst, "t.b." was universally called the "great white plague." Where it struck, it killed. Families were wiped out. Homes were cursed. When a man or woman got the flushed spot and the ripping cough of the dread disease, friends put on a metaphorical mourning and waited for the inevitable end.

Today, with a campaign coming on for a million dollar fund to rebuild the Muskoka Free Hospital which was destroyed by fire last November, tuberculosis is still the greatest killer of all the enemies of mankind. But since 1900 deaths from consumption in Ontaria have been cut in half. Annually 150 persons died of tuberculosis per 100,000 of population. Today that figure is 75.

And the great part of the credit for this victory over the plague of civilization must go to the National Sanitarium Association, led by the late Sir William Gage, which, apprising itself of all the latest scientific knowledge on the subject, built sanitaria, spread broadcast the warnings and information which today every schoolboy is acquainted with, and provided the means, through public subscription and private donation, of saving and curing thousands of men, women and children, who, a short generation ago, were doomed and expected to die.

Fifteen thousand consumptives have been cared for in the three free hospitals of the association. These hospitals are the Muskoka Free at Gravenhurst, for the early cases; the Toronto Free, at Weston, for advanced cases, and the Queen Mary, at Weston, for consumptive children.

Just what has happened to the dread disease of our fathers' and grandfathers' day is strikingly stated in the following most recent official statement:

60 per cent. cures and improvements—Muskoka Free.

30 per cent. cures and improvements—Toronto Free.

90 per cent. cures and improvements—Queen Mary.

The older folk of this generation will really appreciate those brief figures.

Is the battle over? By no means. 75 deaths annually per hundred thousand of population is still a terrible figure.

In Toronto, in the past ten years, deaths from typhoid have been reduced from 20 per 100,000, to 2 by means of scientific public health measures. Can the same be done with tuberculosis?

Consumption is this kind of a disease: It takes a man unawares. It does not declare itself with a cough, as is generally believed. That cough comes when the disease has got a stranglehold. A man goes on working, growing thinner and weaker and more depressed. The very man who can least afford to get the disease is the one who dare not quit work—because he needs the money.

Then consumption strikes.

The man with money has been able, earlier in the game, to lay off work and go away for his health.

The poor man has worked until the disease made him quit.

It is looking after the poor man that the National Sanitarium Association has done its greatest fighting against tuberculosis. Because so long as the disease runs unchecked amongst those who are too poor to check it, it is a source of contagion and danger to the whole community.

Another twenty years will see, no doubt, a still greater victory over tuberculosis, when, by means of hospitals and further education, the plague will be restricted to the earliest and curable stages.

The new sanitarium, which is to rise out of the ashes of the old one in Muskoka, will be one of the greatest of modern institutions. It will be devoted to the curing of those in the earlier stages of the disease. It will be the headquarters of the great fight.

In view of the nature of the disease, its capability of striking anyone and throwing him on the mercy of his fellowmen, its slow progress eating up the means of those who are moderately well-to-do, the National Sanitarium Association, in its campaign is looking to every citizen of Ontario to give something exceptional, not only out of mercy for humanity, but in self-defence in the war on an enemy that menaces each one individually.

Around the ruins of the Muskoka Free Hospital, the patients are living cheerfully in tents with temporary conveniences of every kind, waiting for Ontario to set up the great modern hospital.

That will be a decisive blow in the advance to victory.

NOURISHING AND APPETISING

Good home made bread is the most palatable, wholesome and nourishing food in the world. It is far more economical than any other staple food. If people would eat less meat and other heavy foods they would feel better and help to keep down the cost of living. Bread made in the home with Royal Yeast Cakes is more nourishing and appetizing than any other. Nothing healthier for children and grown ups.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

A fresh, rosy complexion indicates perfect health. To secure this in most cases all that is necessary is to take one to three Royal Yeast Cakes a day for a few weeks.

Yeast is a food. It supplies the water soluble vitamine which the diet may lack. Scientists tell us that this vitamine is essential to good health. Yeast is highly beneficial in many cases in which the system seems to be run down. The yeast cakes simply add to the diet.

Dissolve a Royal Yeast Cake in fruit juices or mix it with cereal and milk, and take it at meal time. The chances are in a few weeks the complexion will be clear. Constipation and other ills will be relieved. For children reduce the amount to one-half or one-quarter of a cake with each meal.

BASEBALL

The Port Hope Guide in Commenting upon the baseball game played here on Wednesday between the G.T.R. team of this city and the Cobourg team says:

"The Belleville team without Freddie Goyer is like a ham sandwich without the ham. Yesterday in the game against Cobourg the manager of the Belleville team started Langdon in the box. Cobourg took very kindly to Mr. Langdon's offerings and they slammed the sphere to the foud corners of the lot. Before any person had been retired Langdon was waved to the dug out, but not before Cobourg had rallied five runs. Goyer replaced Langdon and retired the side without further scoring. Up to the sixth innings the game was stubbornly contested and the score stood 6 to 3 in Cobourg's favor. But the occasion came in the sixth when Cobourg made every kind of an error known in baseball. Belleville scored five runs and went in the lead 8 to 6. They added two more in the 7th and two in the eight and held their opponents scoreless. And thus a victory that Cobourg had safely tucked away under their belts was allowed to slip out.

Forestry Branch Reclaiming Famous "Sand Banks"

OVER FIVE HUNDRED ACRES OF DRIFTING SAND CHECKED BY WILLOW AND POPLAR PLANTINGS—SERIOUS MENACE TO FARM LAND AND SUMMER RESORT—WOULD EXTEND WORK THROUGHOUT PROVINCE.

Away back about the middle of the last century a dense growth of timber, largely cedar, covered some 500 acres of land, belonging to the Crown, on the shores of Lake Ontario, in the township of Hallawell, Prince Edward county. The holding was made up of high hills and deep swampy hollows, and as the hills were of sand and the hollows wet it was useless for agricultural purposes. But the timber was valuable, and this was gradually cut off, when it was then found that the hills were masses of fine sand.

When the Hills Began to Move

Then something else began to occur. The hills of sand, "The Sand Banks" of Prince Edward county, commenced to move in a sort of revolving motion before the prevailing winds towards the east and south-east. At first the movement was almost imperceptible, but as the years went by momentum increased. First the intervening swampy hololws, forming part of the Crown holdings, were buried under the moving sand drift. Gradually deeded land was encroached upon as well, and then mild concern was turned into real alarm. But before the extent of the menace was realized great changes had taken place. The banks which once extended right up to the shore line were moved back in places until over a hundred acres of flat marsh were exposed between the banks and the lake. Coincident with this not only were the hollows between the original hills filled in, but 65 acres of privately owned farm lands lying directly in line with the moving sand were covered up and rendered useless. One man lost 60 acres, and an old-time summer resort had to be moved twice, its first site now being buried under a mound of sand 30 feet high.

First Step in Reclamation

The first step towards checking the menace was taken some ten years ago by Mr. Amos Macdonald and other property owners whose holdings lay in line with the sand movement. These men cut branches from Holland willows, which had been imported some hundred years before, and used these cuttings to form a plantation to check the drift on one side at least. A novel method was adopted in carrying out the planting. "The willow branches had", said Mr. Macdonald, "been cut in lengths about as great as could be conveniently carried in a waggon to the scene of planting. Deep furrows were made with a plow in the loose sand at the edge of the drift, and the branches, untrimmed, were laid lengthwise in the furrows the bottom branches being intended to form roots and the projecting branches being left to make growth above the ground. The trenches were filled with the loose sand and tramped down. Two, and in places three, rows were planted a few feet apart."

This was done, as stated, ten years ago. To-day the willows so planted have an average height of fifteen feet and the branches are interlaced. These rows of trees have stopped the sand drift in that direction at least.

Province Takes a Hand

But something more than local effort was needed in dealing with so large a problem, and Mr. Macdonald and his neighbors appealed to Premier Drury and Hon. Mr. Bowman to take hold of the work of reclamation in a comprehensive way. The appeal fell on sympathetic ears, and Provincial Forester Zavitz was instructed to take charge of the work. A commencement was made by planting cuttings at intervals along the line of the drift beginning at the outer edge and extending back for at least half a mile, some 150,000 saplings being used in all. These were planted in sections of five or six rows in each section. There is a space of about two yards between the rows in each section and of about 50 yards between sections. The latter spaces are to be filled in with Jack pine after the willows and poplars now in place are high enough to afford protection against sand drift for the slower growing pine.

Profited by Local Experience

In starting this work the professional experts profited by the experience of the local amateurs. The first row of each section of five or six rows consists of Holland willows planted as neighboring farmers had planted theirs ten years ago—long lengths being laid in furrows plowed for the purpose. These have already made good growth and promise to form a sufficient protection for the individual cuttings of poplar planted in rows on the leeward side of the willows. There is plenty of moisture a few inches below the surface, and already the long lines of poplar and willow appear to have become fully rooted and promise to form an effective check against further drift. It is intended to keep up the work of planting until the entire banks are covered, and in the course of a quarter of a century 500 acres of sand hills, which for 25 years had been a grave menace to neighboring valuable agricultural land will be covered by a dense growth of timber that will increase in value from year to year.

Effort Should be Province-wide

In doing what it has done, or at least begun in this case, the Provincial Forestry branch has performed a most useful service. But its efforts should not end with the re-clamation of the Sand Banks of Prince Edward county. That should be merely the beginning of a Province-wide undertaking for protection against sand drift in other parts of Ontario.

Last week, when in the upper part of East Gwillimbury, I saw other sand hills which, the timber having been removed, are already beginning to drift. If this drift is not checked, not this year or next, but in a short time, it will become as serious a menace as the Sand Banks of Prince Edward have been. What is true of a section of East Gwillembury is also true of parts of Uxbridge, Darlington, Clarke, a section above Barrie and scores and hundreds of other localities in the Province. The planting of these would be worth while merely as a protection against injury to good agricultural land. It would be still more valuable because of the effect on moisture conservation, on general climatic conditions and the production of a wood supply for future use.

What is called for is the appointment of an efficient and enthusiastic Provincial superintendent who will make it his one life work to co-ordinate Provincial, Municipal and private effort in attaining the end in view. And I know of no life work, in a material way, better worth while or on which one could look back with more satisfaction at the end.

Much Time Lost in Italy Through Labor Troubles

Rome, June 10.—Italy lost 55,000,000 working days last year because of strikes, according to figures just published by the Ministry of Labor. This figure includes labor disorders of every kind- wage disputes, loss occasioned by the occupation of the factories by workmen from last July to September and disorders in the farming districts.

Wage disputes caused the major part of the loss, with 16,500,000 days. The communist agitations of last year when the factories were occupied are calculated to have resulted in 10,000,000 lost days. Political strikes and other suspensions not included in the other classes are said to have lost 15,500,000 days. ....

The textile workers engaged in 212 strikes the largest number in any trade, throwing out of work nearly 150.000 workmen. The most costly dispute was that of the transportation who had 137 strikes, affecting 241,359 workmen and losing 2,523,057 days of work.

Railwaymen Are Summoned to Montreal

CALL TO BROTHERHOODS FOR CONFERENCE FRAUGHT WITH SIGNIFICANCE

Toronto, June 11.—Railway circles were stirred last night by news that two of the big railway brotherhoods had been called into conference with the Executive of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The conference will take place next Friday in Montreal, Vice-President Grant Hall of the C.P.R. will be the principal representative of the railway present at the conference.

No information has come from the company as to the nature of the matters to be discussed, but as it is the first call to the employes since May 13, when the company gave notice of its desire to revise wages and rules, the summons is significant.

Other Meetings to Follow

The brotherhoods directed to send their Chairman to Montreal are the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. There will be about 60 representatives from all over the system. Following this meeting the engineers and firemen, maintenance-of-way men, shopmen and the telegraphers will be called into conference.

One of the principal railway officials, in discussing the conference, said that the railway situation in Canada, as the company sees it, will be put before the employes. Working conditions will also be discussed, but the company will likely defer until a later date any definite proposal for reduction of wages and any changes in rules.

Watch Chicago Results

This will likely come after July 1, when the Chairmen of the different brotherhoods meet in Chicago to receive officially the award of the United States Railway Labor Board upon the wages of railwaymen.

The cut already announced is 12 per cent., and, in all probability, the Canadian lines will propose a similar reduction in Canada. Any plan for a reduction of wages will be in writing and directed to the men.

The Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, at their convention, just concluded at Cleveland, unanimously decided to resist any wage cut. Delegates from Canada were present at the convention.

Eight Murders in Paris in One Day

TWO OF THEM WERE OF EXTRAORDINARY BRUTALITY AND SIGNIFICANCE

Paris, June 10.—No less than eight murders and attempted murders in the Paris district are reported in this morning's newspapers, and among them are two of extraordinary brutality and significance.

One occurred in the old fortifications yesterday afternoon. A man named Tissier had gone with his family and friends to spend the afternoon on this popular playground. While the children were playing about, some youths began to throw stones from the fortifications above, and one of the children was hurt. Some of the party went in chase of the ruffians, but Tissier, who was nearly asleep, lay where he was. Suddenly one of the youths who had been throwing the stones dropped down beside him and, without any warning or apparent reason, plunged a knife to the hilt in the sleeping man's heart.

He died at once and before any alarm could be raised the murderer escaped along the fortifications.

The second case of particular brutality occurred at Meaux, some miles from Paris. On his way home from the movies a showman named Lavanche got into a dispute with a band of youths who were molesting people in the streets. An hour later, when he was asleep he was awakened by tapping at the door and windows. Without suspicion he opened the door and at once a band of seven lads, all armed with knives, pushed into the room. Before the man could defend himself he was stabbed in a dozen places, and when the police arrived they found him dead with twenty-seven knife wounds in his body. The whole band of young murderers has been arrested.

Permanent Court of Interntational Justice

Geneva, June 11.—The most important single problem that will be considered at the Second Assembly of the League of Nations called for September 5 is the establishment of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

The status of the court which were adopted by the First Assembly have now been signed by 33 states and are in process of ratification by members of the League.

While this is regarded as the most important subject the provisional program of the meeting which has just been distributed to all governments which are members of the League, consists of 25 items. Among them are amendments to the Covenant, the reduction of armaments, the request of Bolivia for mediation in her dispute with Chili, and the appointment of four non-permanent members of the Council.

Reports will be received from technical organizations of the League such as those dealing with the suppression of the Opium traffic, the traffic in women and children, communications and transit, international health, registration of treaties, the economic blockade and the allocation of expenditures of the League.

Old Folks Home Without a Mortgage

GENEROUS CITIZENS WILL PROVIDE FRIENDLY HAVEN FOR LIFE'S DERELICTS

The Women's Christian Association are asking the people of Belleville to contribute at least $5,000 to pay for the new Belleville home for the aged, and before beginning their canvass next week, they wish to place before the citizens a clear statement of the facts and conditions that necessitate this appeal.

It was the unanimous opinion of the W. C. A., the City Council, and the Government Inspector, and all concerned, that it was quite impossible to spend another year in the old Home. As far back as 1913 it was decided that a new building must be provided, but action was delayed because of the war and post-war conditions; but the old Home has now become so unspeakably bad that further delay could not be tolerated.

The association had before them three alternatives. The first, and of course the best plan, was to ask the Council to erect a new building. But as a structure adequate for present requirements and the needs of the near future would cost at least $20,000, they felt that it was hopeless, in view of the heavy burdens the Council is now bearing and the absolute necessity for new school buildings, to expect the Council to undertake this for many years to come.

Another proposition was to make use of the old Children's Shelter, now used as an isolation hospital. But this was deemed quite unsuitable; in some respects worse than the present building. Moreover, the inspector, who had previously examined the place, absolutely refused his approval, which, of course, would have involved the loss of the Government grant.

The other alternative was to buy a suitable building, and after careful inspection of all available homes by the Home Committee and Inspector, the Herchimer house on Dundas street was decided upon. The committee had the building thoroughly examined by a leading builder, who found it in good condition in side and out. The heating plant was also examined by an expert and was pronounced good for many years' service. So, with the warm approval of the Advisory Board of leading business men, the property was purchased. The building is adequate for present requirements, is easily capable of extension when the need arises, can be economically heated, is beautifully located, has commodious grounds, and will make a very comfortable and home-like Home.

The price paid was $7,200. The old Home has been sold for $2,100, and the citizens of Belleville are asked to contribute the remaining $5,000.

On all sides the action of the association in buying the property has been warmly commended, and the ladies feel sure that the people of Belleville will respond heartily to this appeal and thus enable the association to avoid interest charges and to open this beautiful home free from all encumbrance.

The canvass will, of course, involve much hard work, which is gladly and freely given, and the ladies bespeak the sympathetic and cordial co-operation of the people of Belleville in their effort to provide a comfortable home for the declining years of these unfortunate but deserving ones, whose care is committed to our charge.

Martha and Maud Own Town Site

Unique Community in The Black Hills, S.D.

The American Magazine in its issue for this month has the following article which refers to a former well known young lady of this city:

In the heart of the Black Hills of South Dakota, 16 miles from Leadville and seven miles from the Wyoming border, is situated the newly christened town of Savoy. Aside from the fact that this village is near the Homestake Gold Mine Company (the largest gold mine in the world), Savoy enjoys the unique distinction of being owned, controlled, and operated by two wide-awake, energetic girls, familiarly known among the cowboys as "Martha" and "Maude."

Miss Martha L. Railsback, a graduate of DePauw University, whose home is in Indianapolis, Indiana, and Miss Maude L. Watts, a Canadian girl, formerly of Belleville, Ontario, purchased all rights to the townsite and took possession June 14th, 1919. At this time Savoy consisted of a mountain inn, six summer cottages, a general store, and a railroad station. In the absence of town officials, Miss Railsback was sworn in as United States postmistress.

Both girls determined to make a success of the venture, consequently no task was too hard to attempt. As this was the centre for "cowboy trade" they made a specialty of serving chicken dinners at the inn three times a week. This met with immediate success in a financial way, with the result that the firm's budget was increased to cover some necessary improvements.

While Martha cooked the meals and made the bread, Maude, clad in overalls, built the chicken houses and pigpens, then tended to the poultry and swine, which were shipped in and added to the stock in trade. She also did all the plumbing in the store and inn, after getting permission to tap the pipes from the gold mine water line.

During July and August, Martha gathered wild fruits which abound in these parts, and conserved them in jams and jellies which could be marketed to good advantage by the girls in their general store. Maude, who loves the adventurous side, has secured a hunting license, and has killed deer for consumption in the inn.

The cottages are rented only during the summer, the profits from them going to defray the expenses of Martha and Maude during the winter months.

As soon as frost comes, the "resorters" seek a milder climate, as the temperature in Savoy is liable to drop to 40 or 50 below at any time. This weather, at least so far, has not dampened the ardor of the girls. They may awaken to find themselves snowed in, but skiing is a popular sport and they are able to surmount many difficulties on their snowshoes.

In one of the very severe cold spells of last winter, a man who had broken his leg was taken from the train, and with Martha's assistance, was brought to the mountain inn. Maude, who is an amateur doctor, set the broken bones. So Savoy is not without its "medical corps."

Constantinople, June 11.—Greek Destroyers have bombarded Karamursal, a village on the southern shore of the Gulf of Issmid, and there have been several skirmishes along the Turkish front in Asia Minor. Coast towns along the Black Sea, Sea of Marmora and Aegean Sea are filled with refugees who have fled from the interior because of the imminence of the Greek offensive against Turkish Nationalists. The Angora Government has replied to the British note relative to the execution of Mustapha Sachir, an Indian British subject, declaring he was tried by court martial and convicted of plotting the assassination of Mustapha Kimal Pasha, Nationalist leader.

Many Injured in Street Riot at Belfast

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Belfast, June 11.—One person was shot, and perhaps fatally wounded, and several civilians were so roughly handled that they had to be taken to hospitals during a melee on Cupar street last night. A police lorry was passing the scene of the affray when it was fired upon, the police returned the fire, and a general melee followed. While the fight was in progress, crowds of Unionists gathered and cheered excitedly. The night was a sleepless one for the Falls district, where the incident occurred and many Sinn Feiners living there changed their quarters. All roads leading from the city were under close guard by the Crown forces. During the night a saloon owned by a Sinn Feiner was riddled by bullets.

KULTURED SAVANT-SAVAGES.

(Montreal Star)

German justice acquits a man who confesses—or, perhaps, we ought to say, "boasts"—that he deliberately sank a hospital ship in clear weather. He did not do it by mistake. He knew that it was a hospital ship, and he torpedoed it twice. He did this inman deed under specific orders from his superiors.

There is really nothing much more to be said. We may be sorry that so fish-blooded a human machine is left at liberty; but this sorrow will be mitigated by the fact that he will be pretty well confined to Germany. We rather fancy that any German by the name of "Carl Neumann" will find it uncomfortable travelling in Christian countries.

"Killing the wounded" is not permitted to civilized soldiers. That is an exclusive attribute of savagery. Rudyard Kipling laid a rough hand on the nerve of horror when he wrote his grim advice to the British Tommy when he should "lie wounded on the Afghan plains, and the women come out to carve up the remains," to "crawl to his rifle and blow out his brains, and go to his God like a soldier." But these were the wild races who infest the mountain boundaries of India—not the highly "kultured" savants who hold high court in the Kaiserhalle of Leipzig.

Germany has cleared Lieutenant Neumann, but has indelibly damned herself. The specious pleading of the prosecutor that hospital ships were employed for purposes contrary to The Hague agreement if they were used for the transportation of soldiers wounded in the course of land warfare is only worth of Beelzebub at the court of Heaven. Whatever The Hague agreement may be twisted to mean, the Sermon on the Mount gives no such fiendish permission.

In war time we were quite accustomed to the belief that the Germans were savages thinly veneered by modern civilization; but we have been hoping recently to find a more charitable version in the softening days of peace. This verdict; however, will long postpone that benevolent anticipation. All that Germany can do now to regain her chance of recovering to some extent the good opinion of the world, is to prosecute and sternly punish the "men higher up" who gave Lieut. Neumann his ferocious orders.

What The Press Agents Say

YOUTHFUL CO-STARS IN LIVELY COMEDY OF NEWLYWED LIFE

Truth, in addition to being stranger than fiction, is sometimes funnier too. Recently Mildred Considine, the stage and screen writer, spent a short vacation at Palm Beach. Near her hotel was a bungalow colony consisting almost entirely of newlyweds of moderate means. Keeping up with the Joneses was their chief occupation. They were always imitating the fads and foibles of the wealthier folks at the resort and doing their best to edge into the social affairs of the millionaire class. The results were in many cases, laughable messes, which Miss Considine being an outsider, could appreciate to the full. She returned to California resolved to write a motion picture story around what she had observed. Thomas H. Ince thought so much of the story that he used it for a starring vehicle with his great comedy team, Douglas MacLean and Doris May. "Let's Be Fashionable" is the title of the picture and it will be shown at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday.

The famous Operatic star, Galli Curci and Holbrook Blinn in a 2-reel drama "Maddona of the Slums", "The Quack Doctor" a funny 2-reel Mack Sennett comedy, and other selected plays of interest will also be presented.

FAIRBANKS LATEST PICTURE UNDOUBTEDLY HIS BEST

What a balm to the wearisome individual. These few words or their equivalent express the personal opinion of every audience that has attended the local presentation of "Doug" Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro" which closes its engagement at Griffin's to-night.

In these parlous times of Prohibition, coal strikes, the League of Nations controversy are the main topics for discussion, "The Mark of Zorro" comes to us as a blessing in disguise. There must come a time for all of us to postpone our troubles and cares and seek some simple subject that will actually afford some relaxation without much detail. "The trouble with the world today", said a European premier recently, "is that it has forgotten to smile." Now this picture sparkles with humor, romance and action. Much can be said of this picture teeming with action and its presentation in a sincere forceful way. And much, so much can be told of this production molded by the all-round versatile influence and artistry exerted by the incomparable "Doug".

Fox News Weekly, Lloyd Hamilton in a funny 2-reel Mermaid comedy "The Simp", and Vode-vil Movies are being exhibited in addition to the feature offering.

EXPRESSION CONTEST

One of the several annual events in connection with the closing of Albert College is the expression contest, in which the pupils of Miss Jessie Tuite, teacher of elocution, are contestants for a gold medal. This took place last evening at the City Hall, and, as Rev. Dr. Baker, Principal of the college, stated, the attendance was most pleasing, the hall being well filled. The programme presented was of a varied nature and was most pleasing in its details. There were four contestants for the coveted prize, namely, three young ladies and a young gentleman. The judges selected were Mrs. H. Chown, Rev. W. Elliott, of the Tabernacle Church, and Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C. As the latter, in presenting the award of the judges stated, it was most unfortunate that the fire alarm in the city hall tower should ring while Miss Marguerite McConnell was giving her selection, entitled, "Cherokee Roses," a beautiful piece which was well given. The alarm caused uneasiness among the audience for a few moments and the artist was compelled to stop for a time just at an important point. Miss Annette Abramsky gave as her selection "The Swan Song," and did well. Miss Phyllis Stewart, who proved to be the successful competitor, gave as her selection "Arms and the Boy." Her expression was all that could be desired, also her interpretation of the character she was portraying. Mr. John Moulton's selection was "The Whistle of Sandy McGraw," and it was given with true Scottish accent. The judges were unanimous in their decision that Miss Stewart was entitled to the prize. In addition to the readings vocal and instrumental selections were given and were much enjoyed. A piano duet entitled Raphsody Hongroise No. 11, by Liszt, was given by Prof. Hunt and Mr. Sparling Beach. The latter, a student of the college, is totally blind, and although thus terribly handicapped, is a musician of no mean order.

The program in addition to the readings given was as follows:

Piano Duet — "Raphsody Hongroise, No. 11" (Liszt) — Messrs. Hunt and Sparling Beach.
Songs — (a) "The First Meeting" (Grieg): (b) "Wake Up" (Phillips)—Miss Kathryn Sisson.
Song — "When You Came Home" (Squire)—Miss Blair Campbell.
Piano Solo—"Polonaise, Op. 46, No. 12" (McDowell) — Miss Wylda Palmer.
God Save the King.
Reading—"Owd Bob" (Ollphant)—Miss Ina McCauley.
Song—"Spring's Awakening" (Sanderson)—Miss Mary Yeomans.

COTTON OPERATIVES OUT IN MANCHESTER

Manchester, Eng. June6.—Virtually a half-million operatives in the spinning and weaving sections of the cotton mills will cease work to-morrow, owing to the fact that it has been impossible to arrive at an agreement with the Cotton Spinner's and Manufacturer's Association over a proposed reduction of thirty per cent. in wages.

The employers had made a concession of 25 per cent. reduction instead of a 30 per cent. as announced May 11, but the operatives declined to agree to a cut of more than twelve and one-half per cent.

When baby is cross and fretful the mother may be sure something is the matter for it is not baby's nature to be cross unless he is ailing. Mothers if your baby is cross: if he cries a great deal and needs your constant attention day and night, give him a dose of Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative which will quickly regulate the bowels and stomach and thus relieve constipation and indigestion, colds and simple fevers and make baby happy—there surely is a smile in every dose of the Tablets. Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.,

Conquered the Jungle

U.K. writes—An acre of land in West Belleville lay idle and neglected for many years, weeds grew unhindered, while stones were plentiful. Owing to the scarcity of houses last fall a foreigner bought this land and built him a wee house on it. Now the acre of ground, instead of being an eyesore to the passerby, is an example of what an honest, industrious man and wife may accomplish. Potatoes, corn, peas, raspberry bushes, two rows, and and an infant orchard, make it a most pleasing spot.

Volunteer Firemen

Muddy Skirts writes—Halfway up Moira street hill, a certain resident appears daily armed with the garden hose and proceeds to fill in all the nasty, but unavoidable holes in front of his residence with water, after that is complete, the remainder of his portion of road receives decidedly wet attention. This is a regrettable habit, which several residents share, as pedestrians receive the benefit of the mud which passing cars stir up. A little water, only, is sufficient to lay the dust.

Small Boy Will Get up Early

The jingle of harness and chains and the steady clang of shod hoofs on the pavements, the rumble of heavy wagons and the setting of groaning brakes, will not indicate to the "stay-abed" that it will be moving day for half the city.

Ask any of the hundreds of boys and girls, ranging in age from 6 to 60, who will be in the railroad yards shortly after dawn when long, gaudily painted trains roll into town. They will tell you quickly enough that all this sound and action marks the arrival of John Robinson's circus and its hauling to the circus grounds on Dufferin street that the red letter day of all the year is "Circus Day."

For before many of us will have hopped under the shower and forgotten again to change the blade in the old safety razor, the great gray tents will be raised toward the morning sky and an army of people and animals fed out on "the lot", where curious throngs will eye the swift efficiency of the circus folk in amazement. No, it won't be moving day for half the city, but it will seem that half the city had tumbled out of bed in order that the unloading of the trains and the building of a canvas city may not escape it. And so the circus will be welcomed to town.

At 10 a.m. Monday, the "grand, free street parade will leave the grounds for down town thoroughfares. The elephants, the "hippo", the cages of jungle beasts, the glitter and the gold, the red-coated bands—two of them—will be seen in seemingly unending procession. Then there will be novelties in plenty, it is promised patriotic, allegorical cars, gorgeous tableau waggons, ornately carved, and gold and silver-leafed. The camels, the clowns, the ladies in spangles, the knights on proud horses, the burros, calliopes, and all the wonders of the open-air review of the big show are promised, as well as many more that the advance host of the circus say have never been paraded before.

The John Robinson performances at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., Monday it is stated, will present an all-feature program. Troupes from all lands will thrill and win laughter, for there are comedy performers in nearly every act, in addition to the phalanx of fifty clowns—count 'em—fifty. Several beautiful spectacles are also announced.

Indications of the end of the Silesian revolt are given in Berlin despatches.

RED NEWMAN MAKES A HIT ON BROADWAY

New York, June 11-(By Canadian Press)-"Red" Newman of the Dumbells, who sings "Oh, Oh, Oh, It's a Lovely War" in "Biff, Bing, Bang" at the Ambassador theatre, has been offered three propositions to appear in musical comedy and one to play in vaudeville. He has refused them all and will go back to Canada with the Dumbells when they end their engagement here. New York producing managers made the offers.

New Free Hospital Must be Built

SCIENCE SLOWLY WINNING ITS FIGHT WITH WHITE PLAGUE

Tuberculosis, within the memory of this generation, has changed from a slayer of mankind, which strode up and down the land, unmolested, unconquerable as fate, to a struggling monster on which man has got the stranglehold.

In the past swift twenty years, deaths from consumption in Ontario have been reduced by half. In 1900, there were 150 deaths per 100,000 of population. In 1920, there were 75.

Tuberculosis, the "white plague," whose touch, in our father's day, meant slow, lingering, wasting death, is going the way of the vanquished, with typhoid, smallpox and the old enemies of man.

Yet the fight with tuberculosis is by no means won. It is still killing its 75 per 100,000 annually, while typhoid, in Toronto, which fifteen years ago was killing 40, is today causing less than 2 deaths per 100,000 annually. Science may be said to have won its war on typhoid. But tuberculosis is a vaster problem.

Dr. W. J. Dobbie, physician-in-chief at the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives and the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptive Children at Weston, states in a recent pamphlet that by the time we are fifteen years of age, 90 per cent. of us are infected with tuberculosis.

Disease of Civilization

It is an all-pervading disease. It is the disease of civilization.

The fact that so great a percentage of us are infected with the disease indicates its universal nature. It has not been located, cornered and trapped, as has typhoid. It is still at large, menacing every child, and in adults ready to step in whenever fatigue, exposure, lowered vitality or dissipation open the way to it.

Dr. Dobbie says that repeated small doses of infection means immunity, while an excessive does of infection means the disease—consumption.

What is science's program for the further war on tuberculosis? To educate the public how to avoid and circumscribe the disease; to capture every case and control it; to provide easy means for the poor, who in the past have been the disease's easiest victims; to fight the disease not only in their own behalf, but also for the sake of the community.

This splendid victory of the past 25 years has been largely to the credit of the National Sanitarium Association, and the late Sir William Gage, who led the great philanthropic movement in Ontario. In 1902 the Muskoka Free Hospital was built. In 1904, the Toronto Free Hospital at Weston, and in 1913 the Queen Mary Hospital at Weston also, for children. The Muskoka institution is for the care of early or incipient cases. The Toronto Free is for advanced cases, those which only a few years ago were considered as beyond all hope. And at the Queen Mary a work is being done amongst consumptive children which is little short of miraculous.

In fact, the following statistics will be hardly credited by the eldest of this generation:

30 per cent. cures and improvements—Toronto Free Hospital.

60 per cent. cures and improvements—Muskoka Free.

90 per cent. cures and improvements—Queen Mary.

Cared for 15,000 Cases

Fifteen thousand consumptives have to date been cared for in these institutions. In addition to the hospitals, the National Sanitarium Association conducts a training school for nurses, operates the Gage Institute, Toronto, (a gift of the pioneer leader), where free clinics are held, and where are located the headquarters of the unending educational campaign, which has resulted in every schoolboy knowing the elementary essentials about tuberculosis. Lectures, travelling secretaries and visiting nurses go forth from the Institute. And in addition thirty acres of land are kept under cultivation by the hospitals, one item of which alone is 2,000 hens to provide the eggs used in treatment.

But the fight against consumption has met with two serious setbacks in the past winter: the destruction by fire of the Muskoka Institution last November, and the death of Sir William Gage, the leader and chief supporter of the work.

A new free hospital must at once be built in Muskoka, and for that purpose the Sanitarium Association is launching a campaign for one million dollars. The late war demonstrated to what lengths the public would exert itself in the defence of mankind. Here is a case no less perilous than the war, against an enemy more implacable than the Hun. The Sanitarium Association, working in the highest sense of philanthropy, is expecting a spirited and generous response to its appeal.

Rinso

Soak the clothes—the dirt rinses away

RINSO is not a cake soap, not a chip soap, not a washing powder, but fine granules of wonderful cleansing power that soak the dirt out of your clothes. Dirt is so thoroughly dissolved that it floats away in either warm or cold rinsing water. This does away with the boiler and wash board—it makes wash-day work truly easy and simple.

If You Have a Washing Machine—

Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

A LITTLE TALK ON NERVES WHAT THEY DO TO US.

The causes of insanity are so generally overlooked or disregarded that we have gone far toward qualifying for admission to the asylum ourselves, thinks Dr. Charles J. Hastings, medical officer of health of the city of Toronto. In his monthly Health Bulletin Dr. Hastings reminds us that the United States has been dubbed the "Home of Neurasthenia," and he believes that Canada is rapidly measuring up as a good second. How long, he asks, are we going to continue this profligacy of our nerve energy? Dr. Daniel Clark said that "the man who continues to run a 20-horse power engine at a 40-horse power pressure is destined to pay the penalty sooner or later." Irritability should be accepted as a danger signal. "Most of our readers," the doctor goes on, "would be amazed beyond measure if they know the number of men in prominent positions who have been forced to sojourn in sanatoria for months in their efforts to re-establish." He continues:

"The tendency of the age is to transfer the burden of the bread-winners for the masses of the people from the muscles to the nerves. The successful farmer of today is the man who is farming with his brain even more than with his muscle. The introduction of machinery into all branches of industry makes life more montonous. Take, for instance, the manufacture of the automobile. In many of the factories you will find the men all lined up, every one with a fixed duty to perform when the piece of machinery passing through reaches him, striking his blow when the time comes. The man is simply a human machine working with a monotony that is most irritating and nerve-wracking. In fact, in practically every vocation stimuli are reaching the brain much more frequently, making more demands upon our nerves, hence the lamentable increase in our mental breakdowns. No will question the advisability of the introduction of machinery into all industries, but are we making proper provision for nerve relaxation and nerve rest?

"Are we not adding insult to injury by crowding our peoples in the cities instead of having them live in a garden suburbs? The latter can only be accomplished by an efficient transportation service.

"The man who disregards his nerves until he is a nervous wreck or suffering from a complete nervous breakdown, has often sinned away his last day of grace. Of all the ills that flesh is heir to nervousness in any form probably receives the least sympathy. This is no doubt due to the fact that the knowledge of the profession as regards neurology has been somewhat limited until recent years, so that one can understand people not having much sympathy for the man or woman with hypersensitive or exhausted nerves. They are usually referred to as being a bunch of nerves, cranky, irritable, and the expression that 'he or she has no control of their nerves;' or 'don't try to control them,' and that if they would do as other people do they wouldn't be so nervous. Consequently the way of the neurasthenic is hard. Someone has defined nervous irritability as insanity of the nerves, and it is certainly as deserving of consideration as any other form of insanity. What is required is nerve rest, but the question is, how can that nerve rest best be secured in each individual case? We must remove the cause of the irritability if possible. Those of us who were practising medicine a quarter of a century ago were advised never to put a nervous patient, especially a woman, to bed, for, if we did, we would only make a chronic invalid of her. But, fortunately, Dr. Weir Mitchell exploded this theory and fully demonstrated the value of rest for both nerves and muscles. What we should aim at is intelligent rest and intelligent exercise, but never forced exercise. Relaxation is what is required, not tension. Exercise when taken should always be of a pleasing character and always fall short of fatigue. Then relax lying down, as sitting down only partially relaxes.

"The way to avoid a nervous breakdown for one who is working at high tension is frequently to break away from routine duties. Do not even read a newspaper from your own home town. Cut all wires and burn all bridges behind you.

"One frequently hears those who have gone away for nerve rest boast that they are on the go from morning to night and even get up early to lengthen the day. Your best guide is 'be temperate in all things.' In fact, intemperance in all things is usually the cause of nervous breakdowns. Make a mental note of this, that any man or woman using their brain and nerves can do more, can accomplish more, in eleven months than he or she can in twelve; and after middle life it may be that five months' work with one month's relaxation will be the best procedure. We have probably few more fitting applications of the proverb that 'a stitch in time saves nine' than in the conservation of nerve energy. Take no chances. Keep your nerves fit."

PREMIER MEIGHEN IN EMPIRE ARENA.

The approach of the date for holding the Imperial Conference of 1921 is the occasion for considerable thought among Canadian newspaper writers, The Halifax Chronicle, noting that Mr. Winston Churchill has been reported as referring to the gathering as a "cabinet", and to Mr. Meighen being Canada's delegate, remarks that Mr. Meighen "has done very well as a member of Parliament. He has comported himself with dignity and adroitness as premier of the Dominion. But he has not yet undergone trial in the wider and less familiar field of inter-Imperial diplomacy. How he will emerge from the test remains to be determined." The article then proceeds that, if he goes into the conference with the facts of our present situation in relation to those of the world, clearly and prominently in his mind, and resolved to govern himself in accordance with them, there need be no serious apprehensions with regard to his attitude. Anticipating that an attempt will be made to bind Canada in regard to naval affairs, the Chronicle proceeds:

"Canada has no money to spend on a fleet which could not possibly be made in any degree effective without the expenditure of far more money than it is in her power to raise by any known means. The British fleet is so supreme with reference to all other powers, except the United States, that the seas are absolutely safe for us without the necessity of further present effort by any one. War with the United States is admittedly unthinkable, and were it possible we should be powerless, no matter what we might attempt by way of preparation.

"In these circumstances, it is perfectly obvious that increased present naval contributions from us would be wholly unjustifiable. The plain truth, known to us all, is that Canada will have great efforts to make and great difficulty in averting actual bankruptcy. The manifest duty of the hour for her is to curtail all her expenditures to the utmost limit, and save herself financially before undertaking to lay out more borrowed money on military preparations of any kind, which are unlikely to be of service, or on plans for war which was never less probable in the world's history."

A SLUMP IN IDEALS

London Daily Chronicle

We are glad to see that more than one public speaker has drawn attention to what was characterized as "a slump in ideals." It is a very significant symptom of the present day and greatly to be lamented from whatever cause it springs. Formerly, the British people were renowned throughout the world for their high sense of duty and the lofty ideals that inspired their conduct. If these virtues do not show so conspicuously in us to-day, it is well that the fact should be pointed out and the means plainly indicated by which we can recover a lost prestige. Education will not alone instill in us the ideals necessary to a noble life, although it will go a long way to doing so. What we all need perhaps is a re-awakening of the conscience, which Matthew Arnold spoke of as "the one thing necessary."

WHY THE U. S. SITS ON THE COUNCIL

Chicago Tribune

The United States is attending the councils abroad to gather first hand information for the defence of American interests, and for no other reason. Such personal observation forewarns the administration against the very entanglements which would be a menace to restricted vision. Thus, in refusing Poland's request for American support in the Silesian settlement, Mr. Hughes rightly says that "the settlement of such boundary disputes as arise in the matter under consideration is a matter of European concern, in which, in accord with the traditional policy of the United States this Government should not become involved." That should be sufficiently clear to the Poles and sufficiently reassuring to the millions of Americans who put the present administration into office on the understanding that it would keep the United States out of European entanglements.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM

Entirely Well After Six Weeks' Treatment With "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. AMEDEE GARCEAU

82 Hickory St., Ottawa, Ont.

"I was for many years a victim of that terrible disease, Rheumatism. In 1918, I was laid up for four months with Rheumatism in the joints of the knees, hips and shoulders and was prevented from following my work, that of Electrician.

I tried many remedies and was under the care of a physician; but nothing did me any good. Then I began to take 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a week I was easier, and in six weeks I was so well I went to work again.

I look upon this fruit medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives', as simply marvellous in the cure of Rheumatism, and strongly advise everyone suffering with Rheumatism to give 'Fruit-a-tives' a trial."

A Bad Case

Eczema All Over His Body—His Legs—His Arms Covered

John Clark of Brookville, N. B., crowds a story of great suffering into a few words.

"I was tormented beyond words. I could not sleep. You could not put a pin on my whole body. I tried several doctors. They said it was strofula. Three dollar bottles of D. D. D. is all I used. I have not had a sore for five months."

Each week we are selecting a letter from some Canadian sufferer to show what can be done to itching, burning skin disease by the clear, purifying liquid wash, D. D. D.

Stop that itch today. You are not asked to use D. D. D. for weeks before you receive results. If you don't get relief from the very first bottle we hand your money back. $1.00 a bottle. Try D. D. D. Soap, too.

A Glorious Prospect

A SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden causeth the things that are sown in it to spring forth; so the Lord GOD will cause righteousness and praise to spring forth before all the nations.—Isaiah 61:11.

We see in this text the concord of nature with the kingdom of grace.

We have had to face the winter of life as well as the winter of this world. The prophet's eyes sees the results of a spiritual winter. The garden of God is bare and bleak and frost-nipped. Its appearance is desolate and hopeless. The blasting winds and storms of winter have done their worst. As the prophet thinks of nature's springtime he sees another coming—a spring that is never followed by autumn, a spring that ushers in eternal summer, or as poets sing: "Where everlasting spring abides and never-withering flowers." In our text we have the certainty of a future spring that is everlasting. This is the promise of the gospel; the winter of sin and death will pass away and "God will cause righteousness and praise to spring forth before all nations. The New Testament promise in Revelations is: "Behold, I make new heavens and new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness", "for the former things are passed away." The "curse causeless" did not come, neither doth the removal of it, and the blessing comes in its stead. God is causing now. He is working now. We are living in the day of grace, the time accepted. God has done great things and is doing great things now. He will yet do greater things. "Watchman, what of the night?" The reply comes back: "The morning cometh."

"The morning light is breaking,
The darkness disappears:
The sons of men are waking
To penitential tears.
Each breeze that sweeps the ocean
Brings tidings from afar,
Of nations in commotion
Prepared for Zion's war."

See in our text God in nature and in grace.

It is the same power seen in leaf, flower and fruit that moves in the planting and growth of righteousness and carries all on to the ripe fruitage of triumphant happiness and success. We do not doubt that God is in nature working in wondrous ways, making all things beautiful and good in their season. The poet said "God is in the heaven and all's well with the world." But God is here on earth. The "pure in heart" can see Him and feel His presence. "He is not far from any one of us, for in Him we live, and move, and have our being." This thought brings God very near to us all. The lesson for us today is the fact that God is in everything that is beautiful around us, making the earth glad with His own presence. Every living thing is dependent upon Him. Do we feel this about ourselves as we should, or do we take things for granted and go on with the tide of moving things and God not in all our thoughts? It should not be so. We should be in the spirit and love of God and feel nearer to Him than all else He has made, since He made us in His own image. Just as God in nature is causing things to grow and bring forth fruit; it is even so in the kingdom of grace. If the Lord has planted you and me in His kingdom He will see to our growth. The child of God is as the "tree planted by the rivers of water, which bringeth forth its fruit in its season, whose leaf also doth not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper." My friends, are you letting God work in you to will and do of His good pleasure? It is the privilege of the child of God to be a fruitful branch of the true vine and bring forth fruits of righteousness unto God. "Herein is my Father glorified," said Jesus, "that ye bear much fruit, so shall ye be my disciples." May we be in touch with the life of God and the purpose of God in nature and grave, and bring forth fruit in its season.

We may count upon a like working of His power in grace as in nature:

In careful planting God by His spirit plants His grace in soil that does not appear promising. But doubtless He has prepared the heart to receive His truth and He will cause it to spring up. He has said, "My word shall not return unto me void. It shall accomplish that which I please and prosper whereto I sent it.

Also in patient waiting for the slow natural processes of development. The seed that God sows is to bear fruit for eternity. The Divine Husbandman waiteth long for the early and latter rain. He can wait, for none can hinder the Divine purposes in grace. Let us wait, too, for the latter rain, it is coming in God's good time and may be nearer to us than we think. "Be patient, therefore, for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh." In the meantime the Divine planting is not in vain, the slow but sure development is going on, the harvest time is coming.

We can count also on God's power in the large ingathering of fruit in keeping with the widespread movement of God's unseen power. What a harvest God is going to have! Do you ever think of it? "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall be also reap." This is true of God, too. He shall surely reap as He has sown. God who sows love and truth bountifully, shall surely reap the same. Shall you and I be counted in when God gathers in His great harvest at last?

God has a right to expect in us an early and careful work corresponding to a gardener's work in the spring. My Christian friend, God looks to you to sow your seed in due time, and with care, and see to the tender plants that no biting frost nips them. Sunday School teacher, you will be careful in sowing seeds of truth in the hearts of those entrusted to you. Take care of the tender plants God has given you. Let no cold winds blow upon them and water them with your prayers, and remember that,

"The seeds of good you sow,
Both in shade and shine will grow,
And will keep your heart aglow
While the days are going by."

We are all sowing and planting, but are we doing so with care, remembering it is for eternity? We should ask ourselves, in view of all our sowing:

"What shall the harvest be?" Let us be careful we do not sow chaff instead of grain.

God has a right to our fullest confidence that we shall not find any failure of connection between spiritual sowing and reaping. If we sow to the flesh we shall of the flesh reap corruption; but if we sow to the spirit we shall of the spirit reap life everlasting. The farmers have sown in hope. If no harvest was forthcoming they would be greatly disappointed. What about our spiritual sowing, have we been anticipating the harvest? Or is our sowing in vain, not expecting any reaping time? This is dishonoring to God and ourselves. We have heard of a young man who went to the late C. H. Spurgeon complaining that he had no conversions. The great preacher said, "You surely do not expect conversions every time you preach?" The young man replied, "Oh, no, that would be expecting too much." The final answer was, "That is the reason you do not get conversions, you do not look for them."

Let us sow in faith and hope, expecting to reap, and God will not fail to honor our work. "Our labor shall not be in vain in the Lord." We may sow in tears, and shall reap in joy. "He that goeth forth and weeping, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." How glad the farmer is to see the green tender blade; it's the promise of a harvest. So in the spiritual field the Christian worker looks for the manifestation of the seed sown. The promise is seen in "first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear." In the young Christian we look for the tender blade of the spiritual life. If grace is in your heart it will manifest itself sooner or later. We shall be disappointed if we do not see the signs of grace in the young Christian. May we all let God work in us that He may cause righteousness and praise to spring forth before all people.

A Desire to Eat What You Want

STOMACHS CAN BE RESTORED TO A HEALTHY CONDITION

Not to be limited in diet, but to eat whatever he pleases is the dream of every dyspeptic. No one can honestly promise to restore any stomach to this happy condition, because all people can not eat the same things with equally satisfactory results. But it is possible to so tone up the digestive organs that a pleasing diet may be selected from articles of food that cause no discomfort.

When the stomach lacks tone there is no quicker way to restore it than to build up the blood. Good digestion without rich, red blood is impossible, and Dr. Williams Pink Pills offer the best way to enrich the blood. For this reason these pills are especially good in stomach trouble attended by thin blood, and in atacks of nervous dyspepsia. Proof of the value of Dr. Williams Pink Pills in case of indigestion is given by Mr. John A. McDonald, Tarbot N.S., who says: "Every sufferer from indigestion has my heartfelt smpathy, as I was once myself a bond slave of it. Eating at all became a trial, and as time went on I became a mere skeleton of my former self. I took all sorts of recommended medicines, doctors' and advertised, but to no avail. Then a friend said to try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. I got a box and thought before they were done I could feel a change. Then I got six boxes more, and by the time they were used I was eating my meals with regularity and enjoyment. My general health is now good, and it is no wonder that I am an enthusiastic advocate of Dr. Williams Pink Pills."

You can procure Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.,

St. John's Nfld., June 10.—The British steamer Seapool, which struck a berg early Tuesday morning 500 miles off the coast, arrived here tonight, with word that, when 90 miles east of this port, she had picked up a message from the U.S. freight steamer Charlot asking for assistance. The Seapool arrived in fair trim, with her cargo undamaged. She docked here for repairs to her stem, which was shattered below the water line.

Doctors Say New Drug
Makes You Feel 100% Better
In Two to Five Days

WORTH MILLIONS TO SUFFERING HUMANITY — WORKS WONDERS ON HEADACHES, INDIGESTION, CONSTIPATION, RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY PAINS, ETC.

Your complexion is not clear; you have pains between the shoulder blades, you are constipated, have no energy, no appetite, headaches, rheumatism, etc. These are all the well-known signs that your Liver is out of order, and it is not excreting Bile into the Bowels, thereby causing all these pains and aches.

Doctors will tell you that 99% of the people who come to them for treatment have trouble due directly to the Liver. It is simple when you stop to think about it. When your Liver becomes inactive and fails to pour Bile into the intestines, your system is unable to excrete the waste, then the blood begins to distribute this waste throughout the whole system, striking at the weakest organ. Until this Liver trouble is overcome you cannot expect to have perfect health, and life to you will be a drudgery.

Doctors recommend that you take one Tanated Calomel about fifteen minutes before each meal, or you may take two at bedtime, and you will wake up the next morning feeling tip-top. No seidlitz, salts, or castor oil are necessary to eliminate the as it is self-eliminating.

Tanated Colomel is quickly assimilated by the system and begins to act soon after taking. It has no bad after-effects, as nausea, sick headaches, griping, etc., but acts very mild and smoothly, causing a natural elimination of the waste, relieving your system of all this waste poison making you look and feel bright, alert, vigorous and vivacious again.

Tanated Calomel is sold by McKeown Rexall Store Belleville.

IN MEMORIAM

HUBBARD—In loving remembrance of my dear husband, and loving Father, Edward F. Hubbard, who died June 12th, 1920.

One day of remembrance sad to recall
For I know in my heart he was loved by all;
So sad, yet so true, we cannot tell why,
The best are the first that are called on to die.

One year has passed since that sad day,
For the one we loved was called away;
Sleep on dear Edward, take your rest,
They miss you most, who loved you best.

BIRTH

LYNCH—In Belleville, June 7th, 1921 to Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Lynch, 287 Albert street—a daughter, Catherine Joan.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N. Harben

(Copyright, 1903)

like a young human bein'. I've wanted to speak to you about that boy a long time. I like Bob, I cayn't help it. Why, hang it, he's jest natural! He don't know how to get down to work. He's been fetched up in this giddy set o' young folks, an' he feels his fodder. When you do put 'im at work you put 'im at some menial employment that makes all the boys in town laugh at him, an' no boy with any pride at all can stand that. An' the trouble is he's ashamed of the way you do along with it. The daddies o' that set he's been runnin' with don't act that way, an' he don't know why yo're different."

"What in the name o' common sense do you know about boys?" said Hanks, leaning forward and applying his cheap cigar to a red spot on the stove. "You've never had one. Do you reckon I hain't anxious to see 'im make some'n' out'n hisself? I tried my level best to git 'im to go to mill t'other day, and betwixt 'im and his mammy I was clean outwitted. Jest think o' me—me feedin' an' housin' a young Prince o' Wales!"

"A Prince o' Wales that won't ride to mill on a corn sack," said Kenner dryly. "Lib, you've got a white elephant on yore hands as shore's preachin'."

Just then they heard the rattle of the iron wheeled trucks in the rear. Bob Hanks had set to work. His father began to pull at his cigar. No one spoke for a few minutes. Then three young men, faultlessly attired and laughing merrily, entered the warehouse at the front and went through the building toward the car at the platform in the rear.

"Goin' back to poke fun at Bob," said Kenner. "They certainly are a triflin' gang, but I'll bet Bob feels like crawlin' in a hole an' pullin' the hole in after 'im."

George Buckley stood down on the floor, his face rigid. They were all watching him. He took off his coat and hung it up and then walked out of the office through the warehouse toward the car of bacon.

"I wonder what he's goin' to"— began Kenner.

"Goin' to scatter them fools, I reckon," said Hillyer angrily. "An' he ort, the blasted idiots!"

Hanks had observed and heard, but he smoked on as if unconcerned.

Kenner rose and went out. He came back in a moment, a strange light in his honest face, his lips twitching.

"George has got another pair o' trucks an' is helpin' Bob unload that car," he said in an unsteady voice. "By gum, he's a man, I tell you—a man!"

Hanks' cigar had gone out, and he leaned forward and pressed its end against the stove again. "It won't hurt George as much to take a little exercise with the trucks as it will Bob to be bolstered up in his ways by what George is a-doin'. The Lord knows you'll all ruin the boy among you. I don't care how much work George does fer me. I'll save a dollar and a half. He can't make me feel cheap by that sort o' trick."

Kenner did not seem to be listening. With his eyes on Hillyer's sympathetic face he remarked: "The minute George loomed up out thar an' grabbed them trucks an' set to work that gang dried up an' looked like they wanted to hide. They made some excuse or other an' slunk off down the railroad, an' Bob—Bob jest looked like he could die fer 'im. I tell you, you old stick in the mud"—to Hanks—"I'll bet any other daddy but you'd 'a' made a man out o' that material. Bob told me once that he wanted to go in business fer hisse'f. Why don't you try 'im?"

"Try 'im!" said Hanks indifferently. "Who tried me, I wonder? I had to shift fer myself, an' ef I've accumulated anything it has been by my own efforts. Ef anybody had set me up in business at that boy's age I'd never been wuth a hill o' beans."

"Yes, an' you didn't start out with as much agin you as Bob has," answered the cotton buyer. "You wasn't constantly surrounded by folks tellin' you yore old scrub of a daddy was goin' to die an' leave you a whole lot o' money, an'—hold on, I'm not through"—as Hanks was about to speak—"an' a whole community tellin' you you mustn't lay yore hands to menial labor. Yore daddy, from what I hear, made you pull a bell cord over a mule's back tell you was twenty-one, an' when you finally riz to the dignity o' the junk shop you used to keep, you considered yourself in high G. Why, they say you never wore shoes tell you put 'em on to vote in. They say a stranger put up at Lib's house one night, Mr. Hillyer, an' Lib was standin' up before the fire warmin' hisse'f. All at once Lib's mammy said, 'Henry, thar's a coal o' fire under yore foot,' an' Lib looked up, as lazy then as now, an' asked, in his slow way, 'Which foot, ma?'"

Hillyer smiled, but Hanks simply grunted indifferently and began to look over a packet of papers which he took from his pocket. Jake came in to tell Kenner that some cotton wagons were driving up, and Kenner started out, laughing good naturedly. At the door he paused, and, coming back, he leaned on the back of a chair toward Hanks. "You know how to take my fun, Lib," he said, just a touch of apology in his tone. "You see, I used to have jest sech a gang as Bob's society crowd to contend with." Kenner laughed. It was plain he had more to say in spite of the pressure of business.

"When I growed up it was wuss, if anything, than now. It was jest after the war, when nobody had anything to put on style with, an' everybody wanted to make a good show to keep from lookin' beat. Among the young men in this place thar was some of us that jest naturally would work, an' a pile of 'em that didn't seem to know how, an' na that knowed how seemed to keep

Death Follows Canoe Accident at Park

YOUNG WOMAN DIES AT HOSPITAL AFTER IMMERSION IN BAY WHEN CANOE UPSET—PROMPTLY RESCUED FROM WATER BY MANLEY CARON, BUT DIES OF SHOCK—WAS STEPPING IN CANOE WHEN CRAFT UPSET.

Despite prompt action on the part of Detective Trulasch, Sergt. Harman, Drs. Yeoman, Hill and Faulkiner, and the bravery of a young man named Morley Caron, aged 17, on Sunday afternoon which prevented a drowning accident, the shock to the victim was such that at an early hour this morning death ensued at the hospital. The unfortunate girl was Miss Nellie Sharpe, a young Scotch woman who for the past two years had been a resident of Belleville and was employed as a maid at Dr. Chant's home. Miss Sharpe was on the east side of Victoria Park, a short distance south of the railway bridge, whilst her sister and a lady friend were on the opposite side of the harbor in the vicinity of Tisdale's boat house. They beckoned for Miss Sharpe to come across, and nearby were three men, in a canoe. They volunteered to take the young lady across the harbor which is not wide at this point and she consented. As she stepped into the canoe it overturned and all were precipitated into the water. The men grasped the upturned canoe and easily reached the shore. Not so with Miss Sharpe, who sank to the bottom arose and sank for the second time. Many people were on the park at the time, amongst them being Morley Caron, of this city, who seeing the occurrence divested himself of his coat and vest dove in the water and brought Miss Sharpe to the surface.

In the meantime word had been phoned to the police station of the affair and officers Harman and Trulasch responded quickly, but not before Dr. Yeomans had been apprised of what had taken place. Drs. Hill and Faulkner were also called and the three physicians were upon the scene shortly after the young lady had been taken out of the water.

Mr. Walter Badgley, who is connected with the Hydro Electric Power Commision office in the city was present and he used artificial means of resuscitation until the physicians arrived. Although unconscious Miss Sharpe was not beyond aid and in a few minutes signs of life were apparent.

After the young lady had partially recovered consciousness, she was taken to the hospital where physicians and nurses were prepared to give her every attenion. Many were the expressions of commendation for Morley Caron for his prompt action and presence of mind.

Provincial Constable Breaks Out of Jail

ANDREWS BEING HELD ON TWO CHARGES CLIMBS THE JAIL WALL AT COBOURG

Cobourg, June 13.—Woodstock is not to be permitted to have all the sensation. Friday the spot light was turned on Cobourg, when Provincial Constable Andrews, being held on a charge of burglary and also an offence under the O.T.A., climbed the jail wall and escaped. A large motor truck which had been seized, was standing in the jail yard. Climbing up on the truck, Andrews had no trouble in climbing over the wall. He followed the lake shore road and when he reached the turn to the main gravel road he climbed one of the large willow trees, there intending no doubt, to remain until darkness came on. A couple of ladies happened to pass and noticed Andrews in hiding and reported the same to Chief Ruse. In company with the Night Constable they motored out and had no difficulty in landing the prisoner. He was returned to the jail after he had enjoyed his liberty for about four hours. It is to be believed that this escape will have the effect of having officials hurry along the trial. It would appear that a good deal of time is wasted in disposing of this case. Further, Andrews should keep in mind that the last prisoner to escape from jail was punished by hanging.

Two Drowned at Toronto Island

CANOE UPSET AT CENTRE ISLAND—TWO BOYS DROWNED

Toronto, June 13.—Frantically clutching his companion in a vain attempt to save himself from drowning when their canoe upset in the Island Lagoon, about 2-30 Saturday afternoon, Percy Jobson, a boy, took Donald Sutherland, 184 Lake Front Ave., Centre Island, another boy, to death. A third boy who was also in the canoe, James Freeley, 29 Charles street west, being a fair swimmer, was able to reach shore safely.

Miners' Decision to Vote Blow to Militant Section

PROPOSAL TO ATTACH RECOMMENDATION THAT TERMS BE REJECTED TO VOTING PAPERS DEFEATED BY OVERWHELMING MAJORITY—EXPECTED THAT UNIONS WILL VOTE TO RETURN TO WORK.

LONDON, June 13.—The decision to take a ballot of the rank and file of the men in the coal fields on the question of accepting the new terms of the mine owners or continuing the strike has certainly been a blow to the militant faction of the Miners' Federation executive which even yesterday proposed that the voting papers should carry a recommendation urging the rejection of the new terms.

It is understood that this proposal was defeated in an executive committee meeting by an overwhelming majority and the papers will go forward accordingly without any recommendation and merely asking the voters if they favor continuing the fight for a national wage board and pool or for acceptance of the terms now offered by the owners, including the Government's grant of 10,000,000 pounds. A two-thirds majority will be necessary for the continuance of the strike so prospects are that the ballot will go in favor of peace. The miners in this event will return to work a week from next Monday.

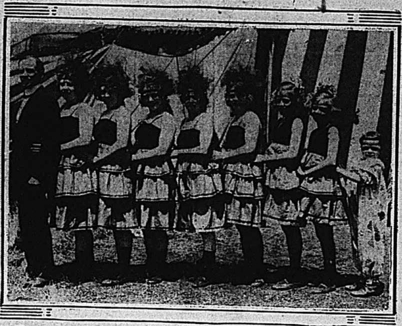
Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 13.—Reports from various mining centres indicate a growing feeling among the men in favor of accepting the coal owners' latest offer. A meeting to explain the details of the offer will be held in many districts before the ballot of miners on Wednesday.

A few of the miners' leaders remain irreconcilable, declaring that the owners' terms are surrender pure and simple for the miners, and the longer the men stay out the greater will be the pressure brought to bear upon the government to force the owners to make concessions. Against these sentiments is a definite declaration of the acting president of the union that a two-thirds majority against the owners' proposals will be considered necessary to continue the strike.

JOHN ROBINSON'S CIRCUS HERE HUNDREDS SEE PARADE AND SHOW

Big Organization Has All The Charm and Fascination of Old-Time Circus With Modern Equipment—Big Street Parade One of Finest Ever Seen in The City—Two Marvelous Performances Today



Famous Nelson Family—America's Most Versatile Acrobats

Many citizens, including a number of children, before dawn, Sunday morning, were at the G. T. R. station to witness the arrival of John Robinson's circus from Kingston. At 3.30 the train pulled in and excitement reigned amongst the children as unloading commenced, and in a short time the big wagons were on their way to the grounds just east of Bleecker avenue. Tents for the housing of animals and for the accommodation of the employees were soon erected, but the main tent was not put up until Monday morning.

The circus is equipped with much apparatus which has never been seen in Belleville before. The large canvas coverings for the tents are rolled on a spool by a gasoline motor. When the men are ready to put up the "big top" two of the elephants are set to work and in a few moments they unroll the canvas, thus saving labor that used to take 200 men hours to do. In addition to the spool the circus is equipped with a stake driving machine, built on the principle of a pile driver.

During the afternoon the show grounds were visited by hundreds of citizens and children, and the general appearance of the circus was much admired.

While the circus makes no pretence of being the largest circus in the world, it is one of the biggest, and it claims to be the only one that has kept all the traditions of the old-fashioned circus. There are no grand pageants or performances that are not strictly of the circus variety. All the acts are of the regular tent show variety. It is announced that John Robinson carries 1058 people, of whom 410 are performers. The circus is also the proud owner of 510 dapple gray horses. Some 200 persons take part in the parade, including the clown band that has made the circus so well known during its 98 years of existence.

WRESTLER MEETS ALL COMERS

It was announced that Bill Leon, claimed to be the heavyweight champion of the world, would meet all comers at the concert following the circus performance tonight and would forfeit fifty dollars to any wrestler he failed to throw in fifteen minutes.

Doors open at seven tonight. Performance begins at eight.

THE PARADE.

The streets were lined with spectators from city and country eager to see the big circus parade and when the long cavalcade came into view the excitement among the kiddies was intense. Hundreds of handsome horses in gay trappings featured the parade, and the many gaily decorated wagons and open cages with wild animals, three bands of music and two steam caliopes, together with the elephants, camels, etc., made a moving spectacle of great interest.

It is a matter of local interest that the musical director of the circus is Mr. Wm. G. MacIntosh, who for six years was with the famous Kilties Band, a Belleville organization which toured the world. Many followed the parade to the circus grounds where a free exhibition was given before a large audience.

UNDER THE BIG TOP.

All the world like a circus. It doesn't matter whether you are a little boy or a little girl, a young man, a maiden blossoming into womanhood, a stately matron, a brisk business man, an elderly spinster or an old man with life's pathway almost all behind, you positively do enjoy a circus. What's the use pretending you don't? What's the use complaining about the stuffiness of the tent, the smell of the menagerie, the noise, the dust, the corncuring seats, or the children who eat ice cream, peanuts, candies and popcorn with one hand, wave a colored balloon in the other, and watch everything that is going on in three rings at once with wide, wondering eyes—and then go home and try it on your pet tabby or your dignified dog? You know all the time you are complaining that you don't mean a word you say, only you think it sounds less childish.

But isn't it a jolly good thing to be a child again, just for an hour or two,—to sit on the hard, narrow board till you get a cramp in your leg, to crack peanuts, bust a balloon, much popcorn, and—if you can do it without being seen by too many of your friends who are surreptitiously doing the same thing—even consume an ice cream cone? Isn't it a good thing to watch the elephants lumber past, the "richly clad potentates of the Far East"' (How I love that circus program language!) langorously ride by, and then the ridiculously funny clown, on his ridiculously funny mule; to go round the cages and watch the snoring rhinocerous, the placid deer, the decidedly roaring lion, the restless tiger, the incredibly active monkeys, the gawky camels—all the paraphernalia of the circus you used to know? Isn't it good, just for an hour or two?

Well, you can do it all tonight. Robinson's Circus is in town. In fact, it was here yesterday, and a good many took advantage of the opportunity to renew their youth, in company with childhood, by paying it a visit. Your opportunity presents itself tonight. The show is well worth seeing from many viewpoints. In the first place it is a circus along the good old lines, without any of those modern excresences that have gone far to ruin the old circus ideal. Then again, it is an entertainment that anybody, from the oldest to the youngest, can enjoy, and it contains nothing that the young may not see. It is cleanly, wholesome and amusing, and it also includes a number of features of quite exceptional merit.

The horses are magnificent animals, and without exception bear evidence of loving care—always a good sign in a circus. They perform with great intelligence. So do the elephants—a fine group of pachyderms—(circus program thanks)—who both astonish and divert. There are jugglers and Japanese fencers and jiu jitsu artists, and bucking mules, and trick riding horses, and chariot races and aerial acts galore. At one period the whole air seems to be full of swaying, swinging, clinging, revolving, leaping, flying figures. Feats of strength and feats of balancing by human beings and trained seals, slack wire artists, ladies who swing by their teeth, the Nelson family of acrobats, rough riders, Arabian tumblers, an Indian novelty act, posing acts by horses and girls, a positively astounding performance by a young girl on a single trapeze ring, and at the end the Flying Wards, whose aerial leaps, double twisting somersaults, and other feats of daring and dexterity, keep the whole tent silent with apprehension and admiration.

It is a good show, an amusing show, with nothing one would wish eliminated, and a great many things you can see nowhere else. For the youngsters it is one of the best circuses Belleville has seen.

But if you don't happen to be a youngster, remember that circuses are meant for all people of all ages, but particularly and specially for the young. You had better take a child along with you tonight and be young again. It is a pleasant sensation and will do you a world of good.

Young Farmer Drowned in Napanee River

Napanee, June 13.—Reginald Beasley of Adolphustown township was drowned in the Napanee River at the sandbank, about a mile below Napanee, this morning. With a number of other men he was bathing and suddenly went under. In a moment he was missed, but it was some time before he could be located. Mr. H. Maracle finally found him by diving into fifteen feet of water. Beasley, who was a farmer and a returned soldier, was spending Sunday at the house of Mr. Wm. Cummings.

Counter-Charges by Biggs Met by Wilson Challenge

MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS BOMBARDS WENTWORTH M.P., WITH STRONG ADJECTIVES — NEW CHANCE TO MEET HIS ACCUSER IS COMING SOON — WILSON ALSO ANSWERS DRURY.

Hamilton, June 13.—Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works for Ontario, whose roads policy has been under fire during the past few weeks, has issued a vigorous reply to the charges made in the House of Commons by Mr. Gordon Wilson, M.P., for Wentworth. Informed of the Biggs' statement, Mr. Wilson, thereupon presented a rebuttal and renewed his charges and challenge.

"SPURIOUS," SAYS BIGGS.

Here are some of the hot shots in the Biggs reply:

"Wilson's charges are spurious and his pictures misleading.

"Roads and bridges he claims were built by the province were really built by the county of Wentworth.

"Blind concession running beside my farm is a country roadway first designated in 1792.

"Gordon Wilson, M.P., is playing petty politics. He is the only man in Wentworth county who is out of step.

"Cattle bridge Wilson says I built what was actually ordered by the county before I was an M.P.P.

"Engineers disagree with Mr. Wilson, but that is a minor point with the "uncrowned king."

"I am one of the heaviest taxpayers in Wentworth. Mr. Wilson is not even a property-owner. He enjoys privileges and does not pay for them.

"The road that skirts my farm is part of a main thoroughfare . . the policy was framed by the late Government.."

MR. WILSON EXPLAINS.

Gordon Wilson, M.P. for Wentworth, just roared when told Hon. Mr. Biggs called him the "uncrowned king" of Wentworth County."

"I had an idea what he would say," laughed Mr. Wilson. "His charge that

Rotarians Welcomed to Shores of Britain

CANADIAN AND AMERICAN DELEGATES ARRIVE FOR CONVENTION AT EDINBURGH

Liverpool, June 10.—Shouting their "battle songs" 465 Canadian and American Rotarians bound for the international convention in Edinburgh, disembarked here today.

The delegates were welcomed heartily by the lord mayor, who took breakfast aboard the Caronia. He praised the Rotary Club as an instrument for furthering Anglo-Saxon friendship.

Robert MacDowell, Louisville, Ky. Archibald Klumph, Cleveland, past-president, drew cheers from the Britishers with their responses, "It gave us a real thrill," declared Klumph, "when we caught our first sight of the shores of noble old England."

Klumph paid a tribute to the present government and dwelt on the influence of Queen Victoria in beginning the "era of understanding and broader friendship.

Klumph at the end of his address, suggested that the crowd adjourn to the upper deck, but the delegates woudn't permit it. "Play God Save the King," "they yelled. The band struck up the anthem and the crowd rose to sing it lustily, waving their napkins and cheering at its conclusion.

They followed it with "America" "Marching Through Georgia," "Dixie' and other American airs and some other strictly Rotarian music.

Two special trains carried the Rotarians to Edinburgh.

Railway Commission Dsignate Tracks

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Ottawa, Ont., June 13.—The Board of Railway Commissioners has issued a judgment requiring that in future railway tracks must be laid with at least thirteen feet distant from the centre of one track to the centre of the adjoining track. This applies only to divisional points and terminal sorting yards. The judgment is the outcome of an effort to protect the yardmen. If the distance had been increased it was feared that the men might disregard the rule that they must always proceed to the outside of the far track when a train is approaching. The ruling does not affect any tracks now laid.

FIRST STRAWBERRY

Gagetown, N.B. June 13.—Frank McAlister of this place has the honor, as far as known, of picking the first ripe strawberry in the Province this spring. He found a fine wild berry on May 30 last. Everything is at least two weeks in advance of its season in New Brunswick this year, but the strawberry sets the pace.

Premier of Ontario to Take a Rest

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Toronto, June 13.—Premier Drury was to have delivered a speech at Quebec next Thursday, but it has been found necessary to postpone the visit to the ancient capital. The Prime Minister since the prorogation of the Ontario Legislature, has delivered a great many addresses, a number of them at open air meetings. As a result throat trouble has developed, and on the advice of physicians he will rest for a week or so.

TENT CATERPILLARS DESTROYING TREES

Gagetown, N. B. June 13.—Tent caterpillars are playing havoc with the trees in this vicinty in spite of the fact of that unusual precautons have been taken to prevent the ravages of the hungry pest. Most of the orchard owners spray their trees at the proper intervals and they are careful to cut and burn every "tent" they see, yet the situation is serious.

Human Sacrifice Causes Death of Seven

OLD WOMAN BURNED ALIVE IN FANATICAL EFFORT TO BRING VENGEANCE OF HEAVEN UPON STATE—TROOPS ATTEMPT RESCUE OF VICTIM AND RIOT FOLLOWS—SEVEN KILLED, TEN WOUNDED.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

SIMLA, India, June 13.—The government report on the serious riot which took place recently in Sirohi, a village in Rajputana agency, states that it was caused by the offering of a human sacrifice. During the disorder seven persons were killed and ten wounded.

The village, which is the home of many members of the ancient sect of Charaya, became greatly excited over the refusal of Charaya to pay the usual revenue contributions. Sepoys were sent to enforce the collection, report says, and found that the Charayas had followed the traditional method of bringing the vengeance of heaven upon the state, by burning an old woman alive. She had been placed upon the pyre, which was lighted by nearest relatives. When the troops attempted to rescue the victim the villagers opposed them with knives and swords, wounding several soldiers. The Sepoys thereupon fired a volley into the crowd, which scattered, but the attempt at rescue came too late to save the woman.

Able Sermon to Young People

STUDENTS OF ALBERT COLLEGE ATTEND IN A BODY, WHEN REV. W. B. CASWELL GIVES BACCA LAUREATE

On Sunday morning the Baccalaureate sermon for Albert College was held in the Tabernacle church. The students attended in a body and listened with earnestness to the sermon preached by Rev. W. B. Baswell of Toronto. He took his text from 18 chapter John, 37th verse: "Pilate therefore said unto Him, Art Thou a king then? Jesus answered—Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Everyone that is of the truth heareth My voice."

His sermon was very effective and he emphasized the fact that Christ was king by certain ways, also how artists would paint with all their skill of Christ standing before Pilate, in a stooped condition. Rev. Caswell believed He stood before his highness was in an erect and stately position—not afraid of his position or danger.

Prof. Staples rendered a solo, the choir sang appropriate music. Dr. Baker and Rev. Elliott assisted in the service.

HE'LL NOT HEAD BOARD TO MANAGE NATIONALS

Sir Joseph Flavelle issued a straight denial of the report that he was likely to head the National Railway Board, the personnel of which, it is expected, will be announced by order-in-council from Ottawa.

"There is a misapprehension in the public mind," stated Sir Joseph "as to my connection with the government railways. I am chairman of the board temporarily appointed to operate the Grand Trunk. When the National Railway Board is appointed to undertake the management of all government lines I will not be one of them."

FAKE FURNITURE ANTIQUES CONDEMNED

Paris, June 11.—A new style in furniture was demanded by representatives of the French furniture industry at the Furniture Congress recently held here.

Architects are blamed by the president of the Furniture Makers' Association for the continued production of false Louis XV., Louis XVI. and other styles of antiques. They design interiors to go with such furniture and naturally the manufacturers have to meet the demand, he says.

The president proposed that the teachers in the fine art schools should begin the campaign for a modern original style by inspiring original ideas under the general direction of a committee composed of artists, architects and furniture makers.

He hopes this method will produce an entirely new style that will mark this epoch as did the styles of the two Louis, of the Empire and the Renaissance.

PRINTING FROM TYPE TO BE SUPERCEDED

London, June 11.—Suggestion that printing from type is likely to be superceded was made by William Gamble at the recent World's Congress of Printers held here in connection with the International Printing and Allied Trades exhibition. Mr. Gamble said that at least three inventors were trying to develop a photographic process to take the place of printing from type.

He predicted that the machines for printing by photographic process would hardly occupy more space than a typewriter nor be any more complicated.

He expressed the opinion that eventually the great printing presses in newspaper offices would give place to smaller, swiftrunning and comparatively noiseless machines which would turn out printed matter with almost the same facility as the moving picture operator reels off his film.

GRANITE SHAFT FOR SOLDIER HEROES

Sackville, N.B. June 13.—Sackville is to erect a granite shaft in honor of its soldiers who fell in the Great War. The local council has been approached by the representatives of almost every society in the town toward this end, and plans for the work are well under way. It was decided not to grant money for the memorial from the civic funds, but raise the requisite amount by public subscription so that everyone might have a voluntary share in the work. Bridge Street Park has been renamed Memorial Park and the shaft will be erected there.

What The Press Agents Say

DOUGLAS McLEAN AND DORIS MAY STARS IN A SPARKLING COMEDY

Douglas MacLean and Doris May will be the attraction at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday in their latest screen comedy, "Let's Be Fashionable". The picture is declared to be fully as hilarious as the two previous pictures of these youthful co-stars, "23½ Hours Leave" and "Mary's Ankle", which have proved extremely popular everywhere.

"Let's Be Fashionable" is the story of a young married pair with limited means and their efforts to keep up with the social swim at a swell summer resort. To be in style, both secure themselves "affinities" and get into all sorts of humorous complications. When they have at last extricated themselves from the mess, they decide it is better to be happy than to be fashionable. Wade Boteler, Norris Johnson, and George Webb are included in the supporting cast.

"The Quack Doctor", a funny 2-reel Mack Sennett comedy, the famous Operatic star Galli Curci and Holbrook Blinn in a gripping 2-reel drama "Madonna of the Slums", and other varied plays will also be exhibited.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 36, or write The Intelligencer.

Kindness

R. E.—I saw a bird building a nest on the beam of a verandah, with little success, an old man who witnessed the actions of the bird with amusement, kindly tacked a shingle between the two beams and now the bird has a comfortable nest with two eggs in it.

A Pillar of Dust

P. D. Q.—The dust on that portion of Pinnacle street north of Victoria avenue to Station street is at times blinding and a source of much annoyance to residents and pedestrians. The authorities should take steps to have that part of the street sprinkled or oiled and this could be done without cost to the city as the majority of the residents are willing to bear the expense of same.

'Apple of Their Eye"

A. P. L.—On Holloway street on an unoccupied lot, grow four fair sized apple trees. On these trees apples have appeared just the size of the alleys which the kiddies use in playing marbles. A few days ago these trees were also decorated with four or five small boys who judging by the quantity of hard, green fruit consumed, would surely have tummy-ache, which would make mother wonder, but the green apples make an easy explanation of the suffering.

Soaked Little Sister

H. K.—A little boy of about seven or eight years of age, was surely awf'ly glad when "Daddy' bought the latest addition to their lawn equipment, which is a goodly length of garden hose. Said boy just couldn't leave that wiggly piece of rubber alone, so he lugged it out to the sidewalk, where he had a most glorious time scaring all the neighboring kiddies with threats of a sprinkling. Then little sister came on the scene and oh boy, wasn't she soaked? Boy fairly soused her with the clear and sparkling stream which came so steadily from the hose. To end matters peacefully (brotherly love), he turned the works on himself, and the picture which greeted the mother's eyes was deserving of the title "Water Babies".

Kicked The Puppy

A. M.—Going along a quiet, shady street in a residential district, I saw a dear, rolly-poly little puppy come bounding on to the sidewalk. He barked joyfully at a girl then passing, running a few steps after her. Then his attention turned to a man of middle age who was close behind the girl. Wagging his tiny tail, he hopped hopefully toward the man, who, without a qualm turned and gave it a nasty kick with his heavy boot. Puppy didn't suffer long as the blow was a glancing one, owing to his agility in moving. But all the sunshine, if such a thing ever existed in that man's disposition, has certainly been long obscured by a heavy cloud.

What did you see.

KING GAVE SWANS.

Royal Birds Are Now Property of City of Toronto.

The two royal swans which the King has presented to the non-existant "Botanical Gardens," of Toronto are, for the meantime, to be given a home at Islington, northwest of that city. Later, it seems that they might be allowed to grace the Humber for a while and give that pretty stream a look of the Thames. But these tame English birds would be thus subject to a number of dangers which don't threaten in their native land. For instance, they might be tempted to sail out on Lake Ontario, with dire consequences. Then, again, small boys in particular and Canadian dogs are not so apt to recognize the sacredness of their swanships as would be the case in England. But no doubt some satisfactory solution will be found.

How attractive these graceful, white birds look gliding down the Thames mid a setting of grassy banks and overhanging trees, all Canadian visitors to the Old Land know. The swan fits into the English landscape as naturally as does the ivy or the rambling rose. All the swans which seem to roam at large and quite unmolested up and down the long stretches of the Thames are royal property. Not indigenous to England, the swan seems to have been introduced by Richard Coeur de Lion about A.D. 1200. At first the privilege of keeping such birds was strictly limited, only large freeholders having the right. But this privilege was gradually extended until owners became so numerous that brands had to be invented and the stock marked, just as to-day cattle in certain parts of the Canadian west have Bar-U and such-like registered emblems burned into their hides to distinguish them from other cattle on the open range. A royal swanherd is in charge of the Thames swans to-day, and in the time of Elizabeth his predecessor in office recognized the private swanmarks of no less than 900 corporations and individuals whose birds swam and fed among those of "Great Eliza."

The tame English swan is almost exactly similar to its wild cousin, which breeds as close to England as the marshes in the south of Sweden. It even mates with some of these wild birds which happen to light in England. Yet the English domestic swan, even when possessed of full power of flight, makes no attempt to migrate from England in the fall and join the southward passage of the wild European birds. The tame English swan is known as the mute swan because it utters no sound, although its wild counterpart has a cry. The tame swan left to itself builds a large nest of grass and aquatic plants, some six feet in diameter and about two feet high, and lays therein from five to nine eggs of a greyish-olive color. The young swans or cygnets look somewhat like the gosling of the wild geese at Toronto Island, being at first covered with a sooty grey down and water with a dark sooty brown coat of feathers. In olden days the swan was esteemed a table delicacy, the flesh of the cygnets being quite palatable.

Canadian wild swans, seemingly never plentiful, are now very rare. In the old days they have been shot on Toronto Island, where flocks were wont to stop during the spring and fall migrations. The Ontario game laws rigidly protect them, making it illegal to shoot them at any time. And it is a small deprivation to sportsmen, for the meat of the grown birds is dark and tough. The North American swan is known as the trumpeter by reason of the musical call he utters while in flight.

He is much larger than the tame English swan and larger than his wild kin, the European whooper swan. A flock of rare swans, of a species thought to have been extinct, was last year discovered nesting in a small lake in the northern interior of British Columbia. Several varieties of wild swan exist in the world, the most notable being the black swan of Western Australia, which is the badge of that state. Unfortunately this species has become very rare in Australia, there being, it is estimated, as many black swans in captivity in other countries as in this unique bird's native land.

Character at Stake.

Two Scottish sailors were engaged as deckhands on a cargo steamer. One had a very good character and the other a bad reputation. The captain favored the sailor with the good character, which made the other jealous.

One day the weather was very rough, and the sailor with the good character was walking along the deck with a bucket of water when a huge wave washed both bucket and man overboard.

The sailor with the bad character ran to the bridge and shouted, "Capt'in, capt'in, ye ken the deck-hand who ye said had a guid character? He's just gone overboard wi' yer pail!"

Gentle Enticements.

Japanese advertisers believe in a lavish use of similes. "Step inside!" is the invocation of a big multiple shop in Tokio. You will be welcomed as fondly as a ray of sunshine after a rainy day. Each one of our assistants is as amiable as a father seeking a husband for a dowerless daughter. Goods are despatched to customers' houses with the rapidity of a shot from the cannon's mouth." A grocer proclaims that his "superfine vinegar is more acid than the tongue of the most fiendish mother-in-law."

Atmosphere of the Mountain Top.

The reason why it is cooler on top of the mountain, which is nearer the sun, is that the atmosphere acts as does the glass of the greenhouse—it allows the rays of the sun to pass but imprisons the heat. The atmosphere of the mountain top is much less dense and so has not the heat retaining capacity.

AN APPRECIATION

The subject of this sketch, Miss Gladys E. W. Wallbridge was the eldest daughter of Mrs. Hannah E. Wallbridge and the late John F. Wallbridge of Ameliasburg Township.

Miss Wallbridge passed peacefully away on May 25th, at the Private Pavilion, Toronto General Hospital, where she had been a patient for the past two years, her illness having covered a period of seven years, borne with magnificent patience and Christian fortitude. In religion she was a Methodist and a member of that church.

Her passing came as a great shock to her host of friends, both at home and in the city.

Miss Walbridge had made a wonderful recovery during the two years she was in the hospital, and had so far recovered as to be up walking about, and great hopes had been entertained for her recovery.

On Christmas Day she motored and had dinner with friends in Parkdale, and at the time of her death was planning a trip to the West to join her mother, sister and brother there.

Miss Wallbridge received her early education at the Cobourg Collegiate Institute, where she made many lifelong friends.

She commenced her training as a nurse under Miss Stewart in the old General on Gerrard street and soon after entering, contracted scarlet fever, which no doubt was largely due to her breakdown later on. However, after convalescing she returned and took up her work again, and with her class, moved into the new General, where she carried on for a year or more, when she was forced to retire, and had been an invalid ever since. Through all her long illness, she was never known to murmur or complain, and was indeed a comfort and an inspiration to all those who came in touch with her beautiful character. Everything that loving care and nursing, both at home and in the hospital, and the most skilful medical attention was given her. But complications set in which terminated fatally.

A beautiful service was held in W. A. Miles chapel, by the Rev. Mr. Amos, a dearly loved friend who had often visited her in the hospital, and was very largely attended.

The floral tributes from her classmates and other friends were numerous and beautiful.

On arrival of the body at Belleville it was taken to her home, then to the Massassaga church where the Rev. Mr. Gall, her home minister, preached a very inspiring sermon. The church was beautifully decorated with white flowers and potted plants.

The choir sang that beautiful anthem "Face to Face", and other well-known hymns, which were much appreciated.

Flowers from the W.M.S., the teacher and pupils of the public school, as well as other friends, spoke in mute respect of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Her bearers were Messrs. Carl Bronson, Ernest Jose, Morley Davidson, Clarence Sprague, Kora and Frank Ackerman. The same boys as were bearers for her beloved brother two years ago.

Mrs. Wallbridge was accompanied from Toronto by her nephew, Mr. Kenneth Crocker. Friends also attended from Cobourg, Colborn, Napanee and Belleville.

A mother, sister and three brothers are left to mourn the loss of a dearly loved daughter and sister, Mrs. Orville Clarke, Tracy and Jack all of Govan, Sask., and Howard. Interment took place in the family plot, Belleville cemetery. The mother and family have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad bereavement.

Another sad feature was the illness and death of her dear aunt, Miss McComb less than a month ago, who had been as a mother to her while in the hospital, and no doubt had much to do with her sudden relapse.

Not dead—oh no! but borne beyond the shadows,
Into the full clear light
Forever done with mist and cloud and tempest
Where all is calm and bright.

Not even sleeping—called to glad awakening
In Heaven's endless day;
Not still and moveless—stepped from earth's rough places,
To walk the King's highway.

Not silent—just passed out of earthly hearing,
To sing Heaven's sweet new song;
Not lonely—dearly loved and dearly loving,
Amid the white-robed throng.

Oh no, not dead—but passed all fear dying
And with all suffering o'er;
Say not that I am dead when Jesus calls me,
To live for evermore.

Mystery of the Sea

UNTIL recently the manner in which eels breed was one of nature's most profound mysteries.

For more than two thousand years scientists have tried to solve the problem without success. Mature eels were found everywhere in ponds, lakes, and rivers; small eels were seen ascending the rivers in the spring; but that was all that was known.

Did eels lay eggs like other fish? No one could say, for no one had ever seen an eel's egg, or even a new-born eel.

Long ago people tried to solve the problem by all kinds of quaint suggestions. Many believed that eels were produced from horse-hairs, and some writers stated that they had actually seen the change take place. Others held that they were created in a magic way from dew.

Now the mystery has been solved, and we can answer the questions that formerly seemed so baffling.

The eel is born in the deeps of the sea and passes about two years in the salt water; then, as a little elver, he moves up the rivers; his growth takes place in fresh water, and he returns to the sea to spawn.

In autumn the full-grown eel undergoes a change. The greenish-brown coloring which harmonizes with the mud of his favorite haunts disappears, and in its place he puts on his silver sea-livery.

Within him, too, there is a change; nature is calling him with her most insistent call. Wherever he is he must forsake his present home and seek the sea. If he is living in a pond far from a river, he leaves it and travels like a snake over the meadows, guided by some marvellous instinct that leads him always towards the river.

Once in the flowing water he finds himself in the company of thousands of his kind, all making for the sea. Down stream they swim, hardly pausing on their journey. When the sea is reached they join a vast company of other eels which have come from various rivers.

There is no hesitation, no wondering where they should go; they know. As though moved by a common impulse, the countless millions of eels from our waters set out upon a journey of over three thousand miles towards the deepest parts of the Atlantic Ocean.

There they lay their eggs, and once the eels have completed their task nature has no further use for them. Every one of them dies; no single eel ever returns.

From each egg hatches out a tiny transparent, dish-shaped swimming creature, which, as soon as it is born, starts swimming towards land. For nearly two years it must travel unceasingly, and, during its journey, its shape is gradually changing.

Slowly it becomes longer and thinner, though for some time it remains flat. As it nears the fresh water its sides fill out, it becomes rounder; it is, in fact, like a transparent piece of string.

So far, we cannot discover that the baby eel has taken any food. But we may feel sure that it does feed, for without food it could not grow, nor could it supply the energy needed for its long journey. It is probable that it exists upon the microscopic creatures contained in the sea. As it approaches fresh water it begins to feed in real earnest, and solid food soon gives it color..

The little elvers move in millions up our rivers every spring, passing overland from running water to ponds and lakes. They will spend four or five years in their new homes, and during that time they have only one idea—to feed and to grow.

The eel is perhaps the most voracious inhabitant of our waters. He thinks nothing of attacking fish bigger than himself.

Tempting Bait.

The young man had been urged to buy some expensive Parma violets by a "flower lady," and he had told her that they were too dear. "Go on 'wiv yer!" she cried. "If you can't sport a coupler bob fer yer best gal she won't think much of yer." "I can't afford it," said the young man; and then, catching sight of two golden coins which the lady of the violets was wearing as ear-rings, he added, "I'm not rich, like you. I can't afford to go about with sovereigns in my ears." The lady smiled. "Funny 'ow you noticed them," she said. "All the men do. My old man did. I b'lieve 'e only proposed to me 'cause 'e saw them there golden quidlets. Any'ow, 'e's bin tryin' to bite my ear ever since."

Speaking From Experience.

Old Hilton had strong ideas on many things and never hesitated to voice them. One day he was accosted by a healthy-looking individual, who begged for a copper to buy food. Hilton eyed the man sternly. "Why do you waste your time begging?" he said coldly. "You ought to be working." The suppliant drew himself erect. "Have you ever begged?" he demanded in return. "Of course not!" snapped old Hilton, angrily. "Then you don't know what work is!" the beggar retorted.

Rev. W.B. Caswell at Tabernacle

REV. W. B. CASWELL EXORTS YOUNG PEOPLE TO TAKE UPON THEM THE YOKE OF CHRIST

At Bridge street church on Sunday evening, Rev. W. B. Caswell, M.A., B.D., Bursar of Victoria University, preached a sermon to young people which was an able exposition, teeming with sound admonition. Rev. Dr. Cleaver, Pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Baker, Principal of Albert College and Rev. Geo. Brown, assistant Pastor of the church took part in the service, whilst the choir rendered special music.

Rev. Mr. Caswell chose for his text the 28th, 29th and 30th verses of the 11th chapter of St. Matthew.

"Come unto me all ye that labor, and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." "Take my yoke upon you and learn of Me for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ye shall find rest unto your souls." "For My yoke is easy, and my burden is light."

The divine in his opening remarks, stated that these wonderful words of Christ grip the world to-day as never before. They were not idle words, but the message of one who was a great toiler. The great heart of the world to-day is restless as never before, and rest will only be found in toiling for the Master as working for Him means freedom from bondage. Christ bowed to the yoke. He carried a cross and felt its weight long before His crucifixion on Calvary. He was on earth to do a great work, and in the tragic hour of his life, He was able to say" Thy will be done." Freedom exists only in God, in the doing of His will. We must take upon us some of His burdens. God gave us a physique and a strong heart to work It is a great thing to get in harmony with God and His laws. There can be no happiness except in obedience to God's will. The path of duty is the path of glory. Christ is the only being that can come to us and make drudgery even happiness. "The way of the Cross is the only true and safe way. Christ takes the heavy end as He gave His life for us. Serve Him faithfully and some day we will hear the "Well Done". In closing, the divine made an especial appeal to the young people to follow in Christ's footsteps.

MAYOR OF CHICAGO DECISIVELY BEATEN

Chicago, June 9.—William Hale Thompson suffered his first reverse at the polls since his election as mayor in 1915 when a coalition judicial ticket swept Chicago carrying every Thompson candidate to defeat, by unofficial pluralities ranging from 20,000 to 40,000.

In the most holly contested judiciary election in the city's history balloting was marked by the killing of a coalition watcher at the polls by a policeman, several small riots, and many charges of fraud. According to the police the slain man had used profanity in the presence of women voters and it was declared that he was shot when he resisted arrest.

The Thompson candidates, all Republicans, were opposed by the Bar Association and other civic bodies and resulted in the selection of the coalition ticket made up of both Democrats and Republicans.

DEATH NOTICE

WILSON—In Deseronto on Saturday, June 11th, Mrs. Wm. Wilson, dearly beloved mother of Mrs. Frank J. McAlpine, of Montreal, formerly of this city.

WONDERFUL ORGANIZING ABILITY OF SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE.

The attacks in Parliament on Sir Joseph Flavelle, the new chairman of the Grand Trunk directorate, named by the Government, have called forth in the Ontario press many protests. The London Free Press gives a general view of the matter in the following:

"The Government and the country are fortunate in securing the services of such an able business man as Sir Joseph Flavelle as head of the Grand Trunk board, despite the views to the contrary of Lucien Cannon, the Dorchester firebrand. Sir Joseph is not personally popular, but his worst enemy will admit that he has wonderful organizing ability and is one of the best business men not only in Canada but on the continent.

"As head of the Imperial Munitions Board he saved millions of dollars in the manufacture of munitions in Canada, and created an organization which for efficiency and service was little short of marvellous. Before the war Canada had not manufactured a single shell, and by the time the armistice was signed, ammunition from the Dominion formed a large part of the supplies of the Allies.

"If Sir Joseph will devote his business acumen and organizing genius working for the public welfare with the same zeal as he has for his private interests, he will be able to pull the National Railway system out of its present morass."

TOO RAW, EVEN FOR QUEBEC.

L'Autorite, of Montreal, in a striking editorial, cites the rallying cry uttered by Sir Adolphe Chapleau to his compatriots after the death of Riel—"Let us close the grave, and open the factories." The newspaper, after declaring its Liberalism, adds: "The cry was heard. It is high time another Chapleau stood on the Champ de Mars and repeated his clarion call. Today there is a great deal of abuse of the great name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Because Sir Wilfrid Laurier was defeated in 1917 on the question of conscription there are short-sighted politicians who never weary of clamoring that Laurier must be avenged. But Sir Wilfrid Laurier was removed from power in 1911 on the question of reciprocity. Conscription now is dead, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier is dead. Prayers have gone out that he might reappear in spirit, but there is no sign of the prayer having been answered in the perspective presented here on earth by Rodolphe Lemieux, D. A. Lafortune, and Edmond Marcil of Bagot. Let us leave Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his tomb. Let his name—which will be honored as long as Canada lasts—no longer serve amongst the clamor of discord. How did Sir Wilfrid employ his time in his most glorious days of 1900, 1904 and 1908 if not in the direction of promoting a better understanding between the different races of the Dominion? And yet the remarkable fact is that those who appeal to him and his memory most are the very people whose efforts are being applied to actually destroy his work. The past is dead; the future alone lives and its perspective is terrible for the 25,000 men who are without work in the city of Montreal. At the height of an economic crisis the time is not favorable for racial or religious appeals, or appeals to any false sentimentality brought into play by political jobbers of whom there are too many examples, and whom it would be easy to label in both parties. We are in a better position than we were in 1885, when our industries were in a state of embryo. We have the factories, but too many of them are closed. It is not necessary, then, to cry: 'Open the factories,' but 'Re-open the factories.' We shall do that by adopting a sane tariff policy, not by appeals based on sentiment, or rather, on resentment, such as were heard in Yamaska. Let us leave the griefs of the past to the wreckers—that is the part they play. Let us be men of action. Let us be practical if we would realize the prophetic words of Sir Wilfrid Laurier: 'The twentieth century will be Canada's century'."

Biggs-is-Biggs and Hydro Wilson are having a hot long-distance argument over the Wilson charge that all provincial roads lead to the Biggs farm. Biggs says Wilson is a liar and Wilson says Biggs is another, and that he will tell the world, including Biggs' neighbors, from the public platform in Biggs' own Bailiwick. Wilson's challenge to a public debate on the subject has been declined without thanks by Biggs, who proposes to show that Wilson is a prevaricator but does not desire any evidence in rebuttal from the same platform. All of which gives Premier Drury another opportunity to appoint another royal commission to enquire into the Biggs-Wilson controversy.

The road that Biggs built may be admirably adapted to the use of the motors Biggs contracted for without tender, but the road that Biggs made most secure is the road to defeat for the Farmer Government of Ontario. The rural simplicity that glories in beating a neighbor on a horse trade or the sale of a few bushels of seed potatoes, is admirably exemplified in Mr. Biggs' public career. There is only one Biggs, and if he had turned his attention to the township fair instead of provincial politics an enthusiastic group of neighbors might still have been expressing their admiration of his peculiar cleverness in the words: "Don't Biggs beat the band."—Toronto Telegram.

SEA POWER AND SUBSIDIES

Auckland (N.Z.) News

Constitutional experiments can wait. The naval policy of the Empire must be decided without further delay, and the Dominions must face their responsibilities for this common arm of defence with greater candor than they have yet imported into such deliberations. Fuller co-operation in naval enterprise is for the Dominion now both a duty and a necessity. It is a duty we have long owed our self-respect. The comparison between the £2 a head spent by the United Kingdom on the navy and the 6s or 7s a head spent by New Zealand is a challenge to our claim to speak with an equal voice on foreign policy, a challenge which is all the stronger when it is remembered that the United Kingdom expenditure makes little or no provision for building and must enevitably increase if Britain is to remain a naval power.

NOT JUST BOOK LEARNING

Kansas City Star

Education tries so to organize the knowledge and experience of civilization as to make the student at home in the modern world, just as the young man of the Stone Age who knew how to hunt and fish was at home in that remote world. It gives him a background of wide information to reason from. It shows him the experiments society has tried and their results. It furnishes an idea of the methods by which science has subdued Nature and turned it to the uses of man. It unfolds to him the general principles which the experience of the race has set up as standards and guides of action. In short, it supplies the foundation for the business of living. All these things might be acquired haphazard by a man mixing the activities of earning his bread and butter. Exceptional men do so acquire them. Nature gradually educates us all. But the average person is at a great advantage if he can avail himself of the short cut offered by high school and college to a better adaptation to the world he lives in.

The Poets' Corner

THE LITTLE HOUSE

The crazy house, like a toy, with cockeyed windows and doors,
And rosemary on the steps in a tub painted yellow and blue,
Inside, as gay as a cricket, hearth-tending, and mopping the floors.
There among all the dear things that belonged to you.
Was there ever a house like ous? It was made for a jest,
And we lived light-heartedly there, in a pastoral play.
Two of us cast for lovers and you the beloved, the best,
But playfellows ever, all three, and no bitter words to say.
I'd a way with flowers in our house;
you remember my passion then?
Even in bleakest winter, when other folks' tables were bare,
I'd find a red rose for your desk, to shine among papers and pen.
And berries and leaves for the bowls
. . . . I had heart in those days to care;
How you laughed at my joy in the kitchen, with harlequin china and crocks,
And your books among them, always;
they strayed like sheep on a hill!
I used to whistle there, cooking or ironing frocks.
You remember my blue and white checked one? I see it still.
So there's an end to our house? Now nobody looks
Out of the cock-eyed windows to pierce the haze of the town,
Nobody paints any pictures there or plans any wonderful books,
Nobody loves there now. Our house has tumbling down.

PIONEERS OF THE WEST

EARLY NAVIGATION OF THE SASKATCHEWAN RIVER.

Some of the First Chapters of the Opening Up of the Great West, When Rivers Had to Be Explored and Charted—Important Work Done to Benefit Prairie Dwellers.

THE history of river navigation in Canada is indissolubly linked with the names of the early French and English explorers. In their frail canoes these tireless path-finders made their way up the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa to Lake Nipissing and thence down the French river to Georgian Bay. They skirted the shores of the inland seas to the head of Lake Superior and by way of numberless portages crossed the Height of Land to Rainy Lake and the beautiful Lake of the Woods. They descended the wild Winnipeg to the lake of that name and after traversing its entire length paddled up the Saskatchewan to its distant home in the Rockies. They crossed the mountains and by other streams were borne down the western slope of the mighty ocean.

Of these great rivers, the Saskatchewan is of special importance to prairie dwellers to-day, not only as an avenue of communication but as a storehouse of power. Its two branches, draining the vast stretch of territory between Lake Winnipeg and the Rocky Mountains, are sisters of the Missouri and Mississippi. The north branch rises in the mountainous region of western Alberta, flows northeast past Edmonton and then turns southeast. At Battleford it receives the waters of its tributary, the Battle, and afer passing Prince Albert it is joined by the south branch, the combined streams pouring their waters into the northern end of Lake Winnipeg at Grand Rapids. The south branch, some eight hundred miles in length, is formed by the union of two mountain streams, the Bow and Belly rivers, and after skirting Medicine Hat and Saskatoon, pours its swirling waters into the North Branch, which, at this point, has a width of six hundred yards.

Navigation on the Saskatchewan as a systematic enterprise dates from the middle of the eighteen century when the youngest son of Verendrye ascended the river as far as the Forks. In 1774 Samuel Hearne, discoverer of the Coppermine, and a factor of the Hudson Bay Co., built Cumberland House, about a hundred miles above Grand Rapids. Within twenty years the great fur-trading company had extended its posts westward to the foot of the Rockies, Norway House on Lake Winnipeg being the distributing point for its western trade. In 1783 the Northwest Company was organized by a number of Montreal merchants, and carried on an extensive trade with the Indians along the Saskatchewan until the amalgamation of the two companies in 1821.

In the latter part of the last century the Northwest Navigation Co. placed a fleet of steamboats on the Saskatchewan and from 1880 to 1885 the river was navigated each summer from Edmonton to Grand Rapids.

The history of these early river boats is interesting. The Marquis was brought up from Winnipeg to Grand Rapids, taken to pieces, hauled across the portage in sections and rebuilt above the rapids. After running for several years between Grand Rapids and Prince Albert, the old steamer was drawn ashore at the latter place and destroyed by fire several years ago. The Manitoba, which ran between Prince Albert and Edmonton, went to pieces on a special trip up the Shell river many years before. The oldest steamboats on the river were the Lily and the Northcote. It was the Lily which met the Marquis of Lorne at Carleton in 1881, and conveyed him to Prince Albert and Battleford.

The Northcote distinguished herself during the Rebellion of 1885 by serving as a military transport and gunboat. When it was decided to send supplies to the troops by river, the Northcote, then at Medicine Hat, was taken to Saskatchewan Landing where provisions and troops were taken on board. Captain Howard with a Gatling gun battery monopolized the forepart of the upper deck and four companies of soldiers occupied the remainder. Two barges laden with supplies were lashed to the sides of the boat and on April 22 the old stern-wheeler set out for Clark's Crossing where Gen. Middleton anxiously awaited the expected stores. Owing to the turbulent nature of the South Saskatchewan, the Northcote did not arrive at Clark's Crossing until May 5.

The Navigation Company made a practice of engaging Indians to cut wood during the winter so that fuel could be obtained at various points along the river. Failing to reach one of these points, the boat was tied up, and the crew turned out to cut enough wood to last until the next wood-yard was reached. The shifting of freight from one boat to another was done by Indians called "roustabouts," and the feats performed by some of these men were little short of marvellous.

The usefulness of the old river boats disappeared at last when the railways began to stretch out their tendons of steel into the north. The Calgary and Edmonton line robbed the river of most of Edmonton's trade, and the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake, and Saskatchewan Railway did the same for Prince Albert. At present there are no boats operating on the south branch, and the once famous north-branch fleet has given place to a few tugboats and lumber barges. Sic transit gloria mundi.—W. Everard Edmonds in "Broad Horizons."

Canada has more than 150,000 organized railway workers.

Womanly Ailments Affect Beauty

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 31
By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

Ailments peculiar to women affect their attractiveness. The fact is admitted. It is common to the experience of everyone. No woman willingly suffers a decline of her womanly qualities.

Many of these sufferers have been sent to the operating table as a last resort. But with the advent of the science of chiropractic, a great change was brought about. Interference with the transmission of nerve impulses at the spine it has been found, lowers the natural vigor of these organs. Chiropractic spinal adjustments, freeing nerve lines, give Nature a chance to act with vigor and health returns. Few such operations are necessary now.

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 26 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

As a last resort my husband urged chiropractic. In less than three weeks I could walk and sleep. I wish every suffering woman would consult a chiropractor first. I shall always regret that I did not know of it before I surrendered myself to the surgeons."—Mrs. D. C. Gafford, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1267L.

A NEW CANADIAN TENNIS GUIDE

As in every other part of the world, lawn tennis is making great strides in popularity, and is appellation of "the international game," is not overdrawn.

Possibly the best reflection of the progress of the game in Conada is seen in the new Spalding Lawn Tennis Guide, which is published by the Canadian Sports Publishing Company of Montreal. While not as bulky as the Spalding Guide in the United States, it is only because the latter book has the larger population from which to draw. Otherwise the contents of the Canadian Guide contains just as much of interest in its field.

In addition to pertinent topics on lawn tennis subjects, the results of the Canadian championships of last season are given, also reports of the activities in Ontario, Quebec, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and British Columbia.

The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association section comprises a list of members of the executive council, the provincial councillors, and councillors-at-large; the constitution and by-laws of the association; the laws of lawn tennis; cases and decisions; tournament regulations and handicap tables; also method of making the draw.

The challenge matches of the Davis Cup competition being scheduled for New York this season, will be reflected in Canada. The tables of competitions since the inauguration of the match will be therefore found of value, while the story of the American Davis Cup team's successful trip to the Antipodes, written by Samuel Hardy, captain of the team, will afford timely reading.

As a matter of record, the account of the various national championships in the United States are printed, also the tables of previous winners, and a list of English champions.

In the "feature" section of the Spalding Guide is a most instructive chapter "The Foundation of a Sound Game," by Mr. A. J. Veysey, champion of Quebec; also some useful pointers for tournament play, by the same writer. In this section, the chapter, "Construction and Care of Tennis Courts," is undoubtedly the most comprehensive and instructive compilation of methods of experts that has ever been printed. With the growth of tennis and the increase in scientific play any court will no longer do; players require good surfaces. This symposium will be of great help to many small clubs that would instal good courts but who are unable to obtain the service of expert groundsmen. Even tennis clothes for men and women is a subject that is not overlooked and will be found informative.

The sum of $630.52 was the amount collected in this city in the campaign to assist in the work of the consumptive hospital at Muskoka.

AUTO TRUCK RAN AWAY

At about 6 o'clock on Saturday evening a rather unusual occurrance took place on Victoria avenue, namely, a runaway motor conveyance. A motor truck used for the delivery of goods was left standing for a brief period in front of Mr. L. P. Hughes' residence, just north of the Bank of Montreal, when owing to the brakes not being applied, the machine started off down the hill, and ran upon the lawn in front of the Baptist church, and thence into Dr. Boyce's residence, where it was halted. In its flight, the truck struck an auto doing some damage. Fortunately no person was injured.

TRENTON'S NEW INDUSTRY

The Chemical Products, Trenton, will be manufacturing fertilizer and acids in the course of two months. Some two hundred and fifty men will be employed at the opening of operations. This number will gradually increase until perhaps two thousand employees are engaged. Burning sulphur for the manufacture of the acids and the mineral used for this purpose is found in abundance in the district between Trenton and Bancroft. In burning rock for the sulphuric acid a by-product of iron is available which can be saved and sold to great advantage and profit. To this end a smelting plant is necessary and this will be erected on a plot which is being secured from the Dominion government at the canal edge.

McFarlane of Melrose, Tyendinaga Township each lost a cow by lightning. The animals were insured.

NOT FOREIGNERS

A paragraph in the "What Have You Seen" column referred to a vacant weed-grown lot which had been beautified by a family of "foreigners". The term foreigners was incorrect as the family are English.

BAKING WITH ELECTRICITY.

One of the New Uses Made of Our Power.

While electricity in its various applications is fast invading nearly every industrial and domestic field, it is only recently that electric bake ovens for turning out Canada's bread in quantity were accepted by leading bakeries of the country; but while their acceptance was recent the swiftness with which the ovens were installed more than made for initial reluctance.

In comparison with the gas oven, the electric oven is a marvel in compactness, for it is less than six feet in height and weighs barely 3,000 pounds — a lightweight in modern bakery equipment. In operation, it is quite different from gas ovens, for it does away with a number of the more or less cumbersome accessories of the latter.

The electric oven consists of an insulated cover having the form of a greatly enlarged washing machine. Inside are a revolving rack and a number of oven heaters. It is supplied with a thermostat and an electric motor, which together regulate the amount of heat in the oven and revolve the baking rack. This equipment is, perhaps, the simplest of electric heating appliances, and yet it is one of the most effective.

The reel or rack within the baking chamber supports eight shelves, eleven inches wide and seventy-two inches long. Each shelf can hold seventeen pans, so that the capacity of the oven is 136 loaves. Due to the high heat which can be constantly maintained in the oven, the loaves are baked in an average of thirty-six minutes. As the oven can be loaded with a minimum of delay, the capacity for the full hour averages 250 loaves. This average is only for certain size loaves, being those confined in a pan 4¾ by 9¾ inches. As the size of the pan increases the number of loaves and hourly average decreases according to the size of the loaves. The shelves are perforated and as they revolve stir the heated air in the oven to a certain extent, every load thus receiving the same amount of heat.

Baking with the electric oven is automatic, for the amount of heat is controlled by a thermostat. This is usually set at a temperature of 450 degrees for bread baking, and is maintained without varying from the time the oven heats up until the baking is over. It is another feature in which electricity is supreme owing to its extreme flexibility.

The automatic electric oven has been designed for commercial baking of bread, pies, cakes and pastries. Already a large number of them have been installed in cities having trouble with their gas supply, so that the chances are fair that the reader of this article to-day or in the near future will eat bread or pastry baked in an electric oven.

Our National Anthem.

Our popular National Anthem, "God Save the King," was first introduced in 1740 to celebrate the capture of Puerto Bello, South America, by Vernon. The air was very similar to the present time, and so popular was it that the French eventually adopted it in 1776, and it has also been used as the Danish, Prussian, German, and American national tune. The words and music of the "Marseillaise" were composed as far back as 1792 by a soldier—Rouget de Lisle — a captain of Engineers, stationed at Strasburg. More than one lay claim to having composed the piece, however. About the middle of that year it was sung at a civic banquet at Marseilles with such effect that it was immediately printed and distributed to the volunteers of the battalion just then starting for Paris. They were singing their new hymn when they entered Paris, and again as they marched to the attack on the Tuileries on August 10, 1792. From that day the "War Song for the Army of the Rhine," as it was originally called, became known as the "Marseillaise."

A Golf Story.

It was growing a little dusk on a certain course, when a wild-hitting player sliced a ball off the tee out of bounds and into a river. He peered gloomily into the murky depths. Suddenly his eyes dilated. He grasped his partner's arm. "Look man, look!" he whispered. "Over there—two—two balls." "Yes," said the other, "looks like it, but they're no good to you; you can't reach them." "One dollar's worth of balls," said the other. And he plunged in, over boots—over knees, and nearly up to his waist. Just as his partner was wondering whether he could swim he got within reach of the booty. And then—and then there issued from the stream an expletive. The two "balls" were two egg shells.

A Timely Lesson.

An old Yorkshireman had an acquaintance who was extremely rich, but kept his money locked up in a safe, rather than invest it. One day the old Yorkshireman offered him a shilling to have a look at the accumulated coins. He duly called on the miser and paid him his shilling. "Now I'm as rich as yourself!" exclaimed the visitor. "Man," shouted the miser, "how can that be?" "Why," explained the other, "I've seen your money—an' you can do no more!"

A Pertinent Inquiry.

A lady, no longer in the blush of her first youth, was trying to overcome the reluctance of a little girl to retire for the night. "Being six years old," she said, "you should go to bed at six. When you are seven, you will be able to stop up till seven, and when you are eight you can keep awake till eight." The child gazed thoughtfully, with a mental arithmetic look, at the kindly face with its crown of grey hair, and remarked, "Then I suppose you never go to bed at all."

London, June 13.—Attitude of Great Britain with regard to the conflict between Greeks and Turkish Nationalists will be one of strict neutrality, Austen Chamberlain, Government Leader in House announced this today.

COUNTER CHARGES BY BIGGS MET BY WILSON CHALLENGE

I am not even a property owner in the county and do not pay for privileges I enjoy is easily explained. We sold our house recently to the Anglican church there. That is the only reason why I am not a property owner there at present.

"I am criticizing his policy without prejudice, because he takes nothing out of my pocket."

Mr. Wilson thought the answer to his charge that Biggs had built roads skirting his own property rather inadequate. "If the road adjacent to his own farm is part of the provincial system, that makes my contention all the stronger, because Mr. Biggs said some time ago that there was not a provincial road within seven miles of his farm. The fact remains that Mr. Biggs has got a city road built right up to his farm gate—and he cannot get away from it.

CHALLENGE RENEWED.

"The charges I made against him can be proved and will be proved to the hilt. I intend to make a detailed reply to the Drury minister and will also call a public meeting within the next thirty days right in his own bailiwick, at which he will get a chance to state his case."

Mr. Wilson says that so far as he is concerned there is nothing in the inference of Premier Drury at Richmond Hill yesterday that attacks on the Biggs' road policy are inspired by the cement barons, because Mr. Biggs is starting a government-owned cement plant.

"I never owned a share of cement stock in my life. I don't know anyone connected with any cement company and have never spoken to anyone remotely connected with the industry so far as I know," declared Mr. Wilson.

THREATEN TO BATH JAKE

Fans in the Central Ontario Baseball League can stand for a whole lot, and can give and take, but the time is coming when Manager Solomon of the Petes will be asked to either calm himself, hold himself in check, play decent, orderly ball, or take his place among the spectators in the grandstand. His performance on Wednesday in Lindsay—which is the same at every game, at home or abroad—is not becoming, and will not be tolerated. The wonder is that he is not treated to a dip in the Otonabee right at his own door.—Lindsay Post.

WIN THE CUP

The members of the baseball team of Queen Mary School are naturally elated over the fact that they have won the cup given by Dr. Yeomans to promote baseball between the public schools and St. Michael's school, of this city. Last evening the Queen Mary team defeated St. Michael's team by a score of 17 to 5.

MAY ESTABLISH A MILL FOR FELDSPAR AT VERONA

Kingston, Ont., June 13.—The visit of Hon. Beniah Bowman, Minister of Mines to the feldspar deposit near Verona, emphasizes the practicability of establishing plants at Kingston for the manufacturing of various articles into which this material enters. It is proposed to establish a grinding mill that will reduce the ore to powder and refine it ready for use in porcelain enamelling and tile factories.

A. M. Rankin, M.P.P., has been urging needs of this industry upon the Government and Mr. Bowman is reported to have been strongly impressed with the possibilities.

MOTOR TRUCK TREK

Gagetown, N.B. June 13.—When Rainsford Mason of Houlton Me., decided to transfer all his Lares and Penates from that city to Jemseg N.B., he found that freight rates were not at all to his liking. So he loaded everything he possessed on a big auto truck and started for Canada. He made the trip to Jemseg without mishap, saved his furniture from the perils of the freight car and, he adds, saved some money also.

THE SUBSTITUTE

up the rest, fer they was eternally a-borrowin' our cash an' never dreamin' o' replacin' it. I remember thar was one young feller, Fred Dinslow, that kept my pocket change down to low ebb. It went on so long that I got to prayin' over it, an' finally I got the courage to put my foot down. I kept tellin' 'im I didn't have it. He knowed I did, an' so did I, but I could tell 'im that better'n anything else, beca'se he hated to dispute my word, as bad as I hated to refuse 'im my wages. Me 'n' him was a-roomin' together, an' one day a nigger, Alf Hardin, begun to banter me to sell 'im a light overcoat I was about through with, an' I laid it out fer 'im. Well, Fred noticed it a-lyin' out on the table, an' axed me what I was a-goin' to do with it. I told 'im I was a-goin' to sell it to Alf Hardin. Me 'n' Fred was a-lyin' smokin' on the bed, an' he got up all at once an' put the coat on an' stood lookin' at hisse'f in the bureau glass. He'd turn fust one way an' then another, like a woman dressin' fer a picnic, an' then he said: 'It fits me like a glove, Jim. How much is Alf goin' to give you fer it?' 'Five dollars,' said I. Fred screwed about at the glass a minute longer, an' then he said, 'Dern ef I don't give you five fer it; it's jest what I want.' Well, thar I was, a born southern gentleman an' a room mate was axin' to be preferred over a nigger, an' not a clink nur sight o' coin anywhars around. 'Well,' says I, after one o' my silent prayers fer fresh light, 'I'll let you have it, Fred, but I'm needin' the money right now, I'm needin' it fer a particular purpose, that's the reason I'm sellin' the coat. I'm needin' it powerful bad.' 'Oh,' said he, as he tuck off the coat an' put it in his trunk, 'I'll git the money fer you. I'm expectin' some next Monday.' I knowed then that I was done, an' done brown, but I didn't know my crust was burnt to a cinder. The next day was Sunday, an' a nigger baptizin' day, an' in the black procession headed fer Mill Creek I seed Alf Hardin among the elect, on his way to be baptised, with my overcoat on. It was a solemn oc'asion, but I was mad. I stopped Alf an' axed 'im whar he got the coat. Marse Fred Dinslow sol' it to me, suh,' he said. 'How much did you pay 'im fer it?' I axed 'im. 'Five dollars, suh,' said Alf; 'he tried to git six, but I didn't have it.' At another time, Fred—but I see that cotton wagon out in front, an' I've got to git a move on me."

Hillyer was alone in the office when Bob Hanks and George came in, flushed and hot, their task finished.

"You are the right kind, George," the old man heard Bob saying, in a grateful tone, "and I'm not going to forget it either."

"Pshaw!" Buckley said, "it was exactly what I needed to set my blood in circulation. I get the cramp sitting on that stool."

Bob went to the wash pan in the corner of the room and cleansed his hands of the brine and salt. Hillyer called him when he had finished.

"Say, Bob," he said, "come sit down here." The old man indicated a chair near his desk. The young man obeyed wonderingly.

"Bob," began the merchant, "I believe I'm yore friend an' that I have yore intrust at heart."

"Well, I've always thought you treated me decently, Mr. Hillyer. I was just telling George out there in the car that I could work like a steam engine for a man like you. Mr. Hillyer, I may look like a pretty tough specimen, but I'll give you my word that I am sick and tired of living like I am. That's God's truth."

"What sort o' work do you think you would like, Bob?" Hillyer could not suppress the round note of sympathy that dominated his voice.

"It may seem very silly to you," Bob declared slowly, "but I am just as sure that I could run a business for myself as I am that I'm sitting here talking to you. To make a clean breast of it —for I know you will understand my fix—I was on a trade with A. C. Sandford, up the street, for his grocery store. Sandford's wife has got Indian blood in her an' she's entitled to land in the territory. He wants to move out there and quit here. I've looked into his books an' his trade, an' he's got a good thing—a thing that could be built up till it would pay big. He's got old fogy ways an' hasn't kept up to date, an' I believe money can be made in this town according to late methods. Well, when I heard he was thinking of selling out I had a talk with him. I told him I had no money, but if he'd sell the stock to me on time I'd pay him. Well, that pleased him and his wife, too, for they are anxious to get away, and we even took stock. It invoiced about $2,000, an' he doesn't owe a cent in market, but somehow my father got wind of it, an', Lord, the row he raised over it! He made me go out in the yard an' cut wood all that morning, an' he went down to Sandford and said so much against me that Sandford backed clean out."

Hillyer stared for a moment at George, who was listening, and then he looked at Bob. "Are you twenty-one?" he asked.

"I was last July, Mr. Hillyer."

"Then you are yore own boss?"

"I reckon I am, as far as age goes," said Bob, with a good natured smile, "but my credit doesn't seem to amount to much."

"Bob"—Hillyer was not looking at him—"you must not lose that chance. It's a good one, and I believe you can run the business. I believe it's in you. You are interested in it, an' that's the chief thing."

"Thank you, Mr. Hillyer. I like to hear you say that, but I don't much blame father. I haven't been living just like he wanted me to, and I have thought seriously of getting away from this town. It's pretty hard to do the TRESPASSERS SUFFERED.

Many Were Killed on Railroads During the Year 1920.

A total of 254 persons were killed and 2,330 injured on the railroads during the year ending December 31, 1920, according to the sixteenth report of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada. During the year ending December 31, 1920, 2,093 accidents were reported to the board. Of the total number killed 29 per cent. were trespassers. Accidents at highway crossings included 53 at crossings where gates, bells or watchmen already gave protection. Sixteen persons were killed and 51 injured at these protected crossings.

There were 138 accidents at unprotected crossings, covering 52 persons killed and 164 injured. The accidents at highway crossings, in which automobiles figure, is still on the increase. These number 116 for the year 1920, as compared with 60 for the nine months ending December 31, 1919, an increase of 40 per cent. in round numbers.

A total of 1,732 fires from all causes were reported as originating within 300 feet of the railway lines in forest areas subject to the board's jurisdiction, or an increase of 405 fires over the previous year. These fires burned over a total area of 106,853 acres and caused an estimated property damage of $298,844.

During the year covered by the report the board held 73 public sittings, and with its officers covered some 527,430 miles to hold those sittings.

Fifty-two general orders were issued by the board and five general circulars to railway companies. A total of 1,292 orders were issued during the year. In the traffic department 67,653 tariffs were filed, making a grand total of 944,747 tariffs since February 1, 1904.

Scenery "Above the Clouds."

Those civilians who intend to venture to a good height during the coming flying season will see a great deal both to interest and astonish them.

The distance to which they can see will alone impress them. If they merely ascended about 2,000 feet, they would be able to have a view on every hand of between 50 and 60 miles.

A height of 5,000 feet would enable them to enlarge their view to the extent of nearly 90 miles; whilst should they venture up to, say, 10,000 feet, they could see 125 miles in every direction—that is, the horizon would be that distance away.

But some of the things they would see in the sky would perhaps excite their wonder even more. If thunderstorms were about, and the machine was above the clouds, the passengers might have the luck to witness the extraordinary spectacle of the big black thundercloud-heads thrust to a height of a thousand feet or more through the level sea of white cloud above which the airplane was traveling.

Sometimes there would be banks of beautiful colors round the shadow of the airplane, caused by the sun shining on the water-drops in the cloud on which the shadow is cast.

At other times very large rings would appear. These would be due to tiny particles of ice in the air. A similar ring is occasionally seen round the sun and moon from the ground.

These, with white fogbows, double and treble mock suns, ice-pillars at sunrise, and the whole capped by the glorious cloud scenery, must indeed hold out for the civilian high-flyer a dazzling prospect.

A Sarcastic Suggestion.

Mr. and Mrs. Ribworth had come to that all important part of naming their new-born baby. Mr. Ribworth, who, by the way, detested work and liked nothing better than to sit in front of the fire and watch other people do it, wanted the baby named plain "Bill." His wife had different views. "I shall name the baby 'William Oliver Robert Kenneth,'" she asserted. "But why all those names?" asked her husband. "Because," replied Mrs. Ridworth tartly, "if you look at the initials you will find that they spell 'Work,' so perhaps, when baby grows up, he will take to it better than his father."

Canada's Big Game.

The moose is by far the most plentiful of Canada's big game animals. Throughout the Dominion it is estimated that from 1,000 to 1,500 moose are killed annually, but the moose is by no means following the trail of the buffalo to extinction. Several splendid specimens have already been shot in the north country this season. The game are protected and are hunted under certain restrictions that are rigidly enforced, so that there is no fear of their extinction.

Buffaloes in Canada.

A "phantom herd" of buffaloes, reported for years by Indians to be grazing in the Mackenzie River basin in the Canadian Northwest, has at last been discovered by a white man, F. H. Kitto, a Canadian engineer. He estimates the herd at 1,000 head and says the Indians of the country report a larger herd farther north.

Biggs Says it is a Lie But Refuses Debate

NO GOOD PURPOSE WOULD BE SERVED' SAYS MINISTER

Toronto, June 13.—Hon. F. C. Biggs turned down flatly the challenge of G. C. Wilson, M.P., for a public debate on his statements made in the House of Commons with reference to Mr. Biggs' road policy around his home at Dundas.

The letter read:

"I am in receipt of your telegram of the 3rd inst. proposing an evening meeting in Dundas park at which an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for the purpose of meeting you on a public platform with respects to your allegations in the House of Commons.

"It is not apparent that any good purpose would now be served by such a meeting as you suggest.

"It was your own choice to make a series of gross exaggerations and misstatements on the floor of the House of Commons. I have already answered your statements in part and shall reply to them further in any part of my constituency the Province of Ontario when I may have occasion to do so."

Cheka" Credited With Great Power

Riga, Latvia, June 13.—Newspapers in the Baltic states say that, regardless of reforms recently made in Russia by the Bolshevik regime, the power of the "Tchexvechaikai," or Extraordinary Committee to combat counter revolution, continues to grow until it has become a menace even to the foreign trade relations of Russia.

This organization, commonly known as the "Cheka," acting independently of all other government departments, is credited by the paper here with the power to throw suspected persons into jail without preliminary trial, and even to order their execution with little or no hearing.

"In regard to the relations between the Soviet government and foreign countries, "says the Riga Rundschau, "we must understand that as long as the Extraordinary Commission continues to act with supreme power and even with the right to oppose the plans of the Soviet Russian government institutions, all trade and other treaties concluded between Russia and the west can lead to no definite or regular results.

"If the Extraordinary Commission would confine its arbitrary activity to internal affairs only, we might overcome the existing difficulties, but it is exactly in regard to the fulfilment of peace treaties and other agreements, that this almighty institution interferes with impunity. It is not necessary to enumerate here the various cases which justify this assertion. Hundreds of war prisoners, who by virtue of peace treaties should be released, are kept prisoners, by order of that body. Dozens who are eligible for repatriation, cannot leave Russia. Trains with refugees are held up by order of this institution, revisions made, and many persons ordered to leave the train."

Teach Children to be Healthy

New York, June 13.—Up to the minute methods of teaching health principles to children will be shown in the seventeenth annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association, which will open here tomorrow. Every state in the union, and many parts of Canada, will be represented at the convention by men and women prominent in the campaign to stamp out tuberculosis.

Marionette shows, a cardboard theatre, motion pictures and pageants are some of the novel schemes to be advanced for inculcating in the minds of children the value of strict adherence to health principles.

As a means of teaching the proper use of foods "Tiny Tim's Theatre" will be introduced for the first time to tuberculosis and health workers. The characters who play the principal parts in the little theatre are Mistress Bread, Mickey Potato, Crybaby Onion and Fluffy Spinach.

The Modern Health Crusade, a system of teaching health in the public schools, through which children are taught to perform certain health chores daily, will be demonstrated at several of the sessions.

The history of the National Tuberculosis Association will be presented before the convention Thursday night through the medium of a pageant entitled "The Crusade of the Double Barred Cross."

"Humpty-Dumpty," the clown employed by the association, will, by clever clowning, show how to teach the children the proper rules of health and hygiene.

Poster exhibits, newspaper publicity, moving picture schemes and various other ways of teaching health principles will be subjects for discussion throughout the meeting.

Dr. Gerald B. Webb, of Colorado Springs, president of the association, will open the meeting tomorrow afternoon with his annual address to the 1,500 representatives who will attend the sessions.

Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, managing director of the association, will report upon the work of the organization in various parts of the country during the past year

Tomorrow night's meeting of the advisory council will include a symposium of federal provision for tuberculous former soldiers and sailors. The speakers will be: Dr. Haven Emerson, of New York, medical advisor to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance; Dr. F. C. Smith, of the United States Public Health Service; U. W. Lamkin, director of the Federal Board for Vocational Education; Colonel F. W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion; and Dr. David Lyman, former president of the National Tuberculosis Association.

County Court General Sessions

FOUR CRIMINAL CASES TO BE INVESTIGATED—FEW CIVIL CASES ON DOCKET

Before His Honor Judge Deroche, the County Court and General Sessions opened at 1-30 here this afternoon. In addition to a few civil cases there are four criminal cases to be investigated, two of the accused being charged with rather serious offences. The following compose the Grand Jury:

Alfred Allore, Hungerford; Fred Ashley, Elzevir and Grimsthorpe; Geo. Bartlett, Carlow; Geo. Bradshaw, Tweed; Amos Burlanyett, Bangor; Wm. Drewry, Rawdon; Daniel Green, Deloro; Chas. Irish, Wallaston; Judson Kelly, Sidney; F. R. Mallory, Sidney; C. M. Reid, Belleville; John Robertson, Madoc; H. Rollins, Madoc.

When court opened the Grand Jury were called and selected, Mr. Fred R. Mallory, as their foreman, and were sworn in. Judge Deroche addressed the Grand Jury, explaining to them the nature of the cases that would come before them for consideration. There were four criminal charges, namely, two of assault—Monroe Cameron of Bancroft is charged with a serious offence, alleged to have been committed upon a young girl. The fourth case is that of Wm. Robertson who it is alleged erected a line fence which was on the highway, thereby committing a non-criminal nuisance. The jury were at liberty to visit institutions which receive public aid.

Help The Old Folks Buy a Brick in The New Home

"How Blessed is he who crowns in shades like these
A Youth of labor with an age of ease."

From time to time citizens of our fair city find themselves in the sear and yellow leaf of old age, reduced by weakness, temptation or adversity, their friends dead, gone away or unable to maintain them. Since the women of Belleville established the Home these aged citizens have enjoyed a comfortable resting place for the last years of their lives, freed from the pangs of poverty and distress. The former Home on Moira street having ceased to be suitable for this purpose, has been sold, and the women have purchased the Herchmer property, corner of Dundas and John streets. About $5,000.00 are needed to complete the payment for the new Home. The citizens are invited to provide this sum for the noble work. Canvassers will call upon you this week. Should a canvasser miss you, send your contribution to Mrs. F. B. Smith, Treasurer, 212 Dundas street, or to any of the other officers of the Women's Christian Association. Give what you can. No matter how small the amount it will be thankfully received and faithfully applied.

CUT PAY OF TEACHERS

Orange Rally at Foxboro

ADDRESS BY LIEUT. M. J. O'BRIAN GRAND ORGANIZER OF

A great Protestant rally was held in the Methodist church, Foxboro, Friday evening. The occasion was the visit of Lt. M. J. O'Brian, of Ottawa, one of the official Grand Organizers of the Orange Association. Mr. O'Brian is a man of singular public speaking ability. He possesses true Irish fire and buoyancy of spirit, winning eloquence and clearness and logicalness in platform power.

The purpose of the rally was to stimulate among Protestants a sane interest and activity in the preservation and development of religious and civil liberty and freedom. The speaker, in an impartial manner reviewed the history of the Irish question and analyzed the complexity of this problem of the empire. He maintained that his own attitude, the attitude of good Protestants everywhere, and the attitude of the Orange Order was liberty to all and special privilege to none.

Mr. O'Brian appealed for Protestant coherence, unity and solidarity in Canada. He defined the character and extent of the Sinn Fein institutions and British and Canadian liberty. He appealed to Protestants to rouse themselves from their inertia. He also advocated and urged Protestants to strive for the establishment of a great Canadian school, a Canadian school, in which Canadian ideals and standards would be symmetrically taught and nourished. Such a school he argued, would save our nation and establish in one century the ideals of liberty and righteousness. Religious instruction, as such, he maintained should not be part of the curriculum of this Canadian school.

In his own fluent and forceful way, Lt. O'Brian dealt with the Protestant churches and their place and responsibility in the religious life of young and old, he urged protestants to be loyal to their local churches and pleaded for men's, women's and children's Orange Associations to be established and expanded. He briefly dealt with the need of a true loyalty to, and understanding of, the essence and significance of the Order, in its efforts to cultivate and maintain civil and religious integrity, justice and liberty.

Mr. G. A. Reid of Belleville, was the capable chairman of the evening. He supplemented Lt. O'Brian's splendid address with a few pointed remarks. Rev. McMullen of Cannifton, complimented the speaker upon his magnificent address and the large audience upon their appreciative attention. The Foxboro band played opening and closing selections, and vocal solos were given by Miss M. Bell and Mr. G. E. Wood.

Arbitrators Bar Pension Claims

WILL NOT CONSIDER THEM IN FIXING VALUE OF G.T.R STOCK

Montreal, June 14.—A further turn was given to the Grand Trunk arbitration hearings to inquire into the value of the company's stock prior to its acquisition by the Dominion Government. At the opening of the afternoon session, F. H. Chrysler, K.C., of Ottawa, appeared on instructions from the Dominion Government, to present the case for the Grand Trunk employes who participated in the strike of 1910, with a claim that the demand for pensions of those who joined the strike should be counted among the liabilities of the Grand Trunk, despite the fact that it was stated at the time by the Grand Trunk that any men who joined the strike would automatically forfeit his pension claim.

After much discussion the matter was left over, as not a claim with which the commission was competent to deal.

In the morning session E. A. Forward, the Government inspecting engineer, continued his evidence and criticism of Grand Trunk port terminals, including wharves, piers and elevators.

George A. Somers, a retired traffic expert, also was heard. He claimed that traffic on the Grand Trunk was too one-sided, experts greatly exceeding imports. As to the province of Quebec, Mr. Somers intimated that the Grand Trunk was poorly off.

In Ontario, he said, the Grand Trunk suffered severely from radial railway competition.

FATE OF "BIG BERTHAS" ACCORDING TO THE GERMANS

Berlin, June 13.—Replying to the Inter-Allied Military Control Commisson's note regarding the location of the "Big Berthas" used by the Germans during the war, the German Government said there were seven such long range guns, of which four were destroyed before the armistice; the fifth was scrapped at Essen in April, 1919; the sixth was scrapped at Meppen, and the seventh at Magdeburg in November, 1919

Traffic in Funds May Cost Canada Million Dollars

Ottawa, June 14.—The scathing condemnation by Judge Gunn of the Carleton County criminal court of methods in vogue in the militia department whereby it is claimed thousands of dollars have been lost to the public treasury has caused a sensation in Ottawa. At the department it was stated that the matter is in the hands of the Government and that if anything is to be done instructions are being awaited. The alleged frauds were committed through paying at par in Canadian money, British funds for the deferred pay and allowances of returned soldiers.

Robinson and Hill, the two men charged with the offence were acquitted, the Judge castigating alike the jury on its verdict and the department on its methods. Their record as returned soldiers strongly emphasized by their counsel was attributed by the Judge as the directing motive of their verdict rather than the evidence. While the main centre of the frauds is supposed to have been in Ottawa, there is reason to suspect that the same practice was followed in other centres as part of a system. Over $7,000,000 has been disbursed in the process of overcoming the adversity of exchange and this is said to be a million in excess of the legitimate total.

Many reports are in circulation as to the Dominion wide extent to which the frauds were alleged and the mounted police are investigating. In view of the verdicts just rendered it is not certain whether there will be further prosecutions in Ottawa but accounting methods of the militia department have been shown up in an unfavorable light and there is reason to anticipate reforms there. Whether any heads will go in the basket is not yet decided.

Rioting Continues on Streets of Belfast

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

Belfast June 14.—Accompanied by rioting revolver and rifle firing was renewed in the Clifton street area of this city early today. In authoritative circles it was asserted that the rioting was organized by republicans for the purpose of preventing the visit of king George to Belfast next week for the purpose of attending the state opening of the Ulster Parliament. Policemen were hurried from their barracks nearby but the rioting continued for some time, although at a more subdued pace.

North street, joining Royal avenue with the Shankeville district, was swept by bullets from Carrick Hill and Millfield. Several thousand ship yard workers are reported to have been kept from their posts by the riot.

TOO MUCH SALT BAD DECLARES PHYSICIAN

Chicago, June 13.—"Beware of too much salt. Use the salt shaker sparingly at mealtime, if you would travel far and not fall by the wayside. Excess of salt is the cause of inflammatory stages of many diseases that appear in the human body."

That is what Dr. Charles Woodward of Chicago to-day told the Illinois State Eclectric Medical Society.

"Fifteen to thirty grains of salt a day," he added, "is the maxinum amount that should be taken into the human system."

Power Cut off at Peterboro

CITY LOSES 10,000 H. P. WHEN HEALEY FALLS GENERATORS ARE FLOODED

Peterboro', June 13.—Peterboro' industries, many of them just emerging from the slackness resulting from trade depression, received a serious blow when practically all power in the city was suddenly cut off as a result of a temporary loss of 10,000 horsepower to the Hydro's Central Ontario system, caused by disablement by flooding late Saturday night of the generating station at Healey Falls, 30 miles below here, on the Trent river.

The supply of power was partially resumed this afternoon, the Quaker Oats and Canadian General Electric Companies, both owners of private generating stations, coming to the assistance of the local Utilities Commission. How long the present situation will obtain was unknown today, some Hydro officials estimating that repairs would be completed in four days, while the Utilities Commission placed its estimate at a week.

The situation at Healey Falls makes communication difficult, and local Hydro officials are still in ignorance of exactly how the accident to the plant occurred. It is understood that while two employees, L. Richardson and Hoyle, were repairing a turbine late Saturday night the stop-logs at the dam burst, letting a deluge get through an open manhole into the power house. The two men had a narrow escape, jumping through a window into the raceway and swimming to shore. The water soon filled the power house to a depth of forty feet, and the turbines and generators, still in operation, splashed continuous sheets of water upward. It was not until Sunday morning that the last generator was stopped.

Married Woman Seeks Death in Water

BUT IS RESCUED, AND IS TAKEN CARE OF BY SALVATION ARMY

Mrs. Daisy Gardiner, a young married woman who recently came to this city from Buffalo, on Monday noon, made an apparent effort to end her existence by drowning. The woman walked out into the river near what is known as Lott's Dam to a spot where the water was above her head. Some men employed by Mr. T. Manley on sewer construction saw the woman's plight and ran into the water, rescuing her and taking her to a house nearby. The police were called and investigated the case. It is thought to be one of despondency. Her husband is a barber living in the United States. Mrs. Gardiner was taken care of by the Salvation Army.

Toronto Woman Shot Husband

ALLEGES SHE ACTED IN SELF-DEFENCE AGAINST SPOUSE

Toronto, June 13.—Vencenzio Ciccoloni was removed to the General Hospital early Sunday morning from in front of a store at 129 Centre avenue with three bullet wounds and two nasty knife wounds in his body.

His wife, Mary Ciccoloni, alleged by the police to have committed the crime, was arrested by Plain clothesman Joseph Skinner and charged with attempted murder.

Alleged Admission by Wife

Mrs. Ciccoloni made no attempt to escape. When Plainclothesman Skinner arrived at the store he found the wounded man lying on the side-walk He lifted him into the car, and with Mrs. Ciccoloni, they both went to the hospital.

Mrs. Ciccoloni is alleged to have admitted shooting her husband, but denied stabbing him. The knife wounds are thought by doctors to have been inflicted with a large butcher knife. A search of the store and street was made by the police, but until a late hour Sunday night neither the revolver nor knife had been found.

The prisoner is stated to have pleaded self-defense. Her husband, she said, had not been living with her for some time, but, she alleged he kept annoying her. Ciccoloni was too ill to make a statement, and the only information of the affray was that given by his wife.

It appears that the couple conducted a large rooming house in Brantford. Last year they gave it up, and Ciccoloni is alleged to have taken the savings, amounting to some $3,000, and gone on a trip to Italy, leaving his wife and three small children in Toronto without money. In the mean time Mrs. Ciccoloni opened a grocery store at 129 Centre avenue.

COFFEE SUPPLY EXCEEDS DEMAND

Georgetown, British Guiana, June 11 (By Canadian Press)-The supply of coffee in British Guiana at present exceeds the demand, and, as a consequence, the small growers have been forced to sell at very low prices. Coffee has been sold in the colony for 7 cents a pound, which is claimed to be under the cost of production. In order to remedy this condition, a coffee growers association is about to be formed to secure more remunerative markets abroad. It is proposed that the growers send their coffee to the association which will pay an advance of 7 cents a pound and will refund all that it receives in excess of this amount except a commission of 5 per cent.

Rapid Decline in Price of Strawberries

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

Toronto, June 14.—Strawberries slumped badly on the local fruit market this morning, the receipts over night were very heavy, and old timers claim that they were the heaviest on record for any one day. The opening quotations were 17 cents per box as compared with 22 cents yesterday afternoon, and the price soon broke to 14 cents, with a possibility of touching 10 cents before the close of the day.

A Selfish Wave Has Swept World Says Dr. Davies

CHURCH, TOO TIMID AND CAUTIOUS, DECLARES PASTOR OF THE METROPOLITAN

Orillia, June 14.—"Materialism has brought the world to the verge of Chaos," said Rev. Dr. Trevor Davies, pastor of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, at the Toronto Methodist conference. "A wave of selfishness has swept over the world and the remarkable thing was the complete break-down of all systems built on force and selfishness.

"We need to have a faith that is daring in its nature," he declared. "The church has been too timid, too cautious.

"The dismemberment of the church would be the impoverishment of the world," he added.

Dr. Davies scored those sons of the church who went on the platform to denounce the church and its failures. Of course, the church had faults. That should be confessed, but the public platform was not the place to do it.

Dr. Davies criticized Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, London, for his statement that it was futile for the church to oppose easier divorce because the people wanted it, and would have it. "The church is not the servant of humanity, it is the servant of God, serving humanity according to the instructions of God. So what does it matter to the church what the people want. It is here to do the will of God."

Shot Through Head by Brother in-Law

FORMER HESPELER HOTEL MAN ACCIDENTALLY KILLED ON HUNTING TRIP

Brantford, Ont., June 14.—While hunting near Apps Mills, O. B. Ellis, a former Preston hotel man, accidentally shot and killed his brother-in-law, Archie B. Smith, who recently owned the Queen's Hotel at Hespeler. The two men, who are old hunters, were on a small cattle ranch, owned by Travis Stewart, another brother-in-law of Ellis, and were shooting groundhogs with a rifle.

Smith, unknown to his companion, had gone to the north end of an open pasture and was sitting in a hollow. Ellis saw a rabbit and set out in pursuit. The rabbit sprang past the hollow in which Smith was resting, and Ellis mistook the brown cap of his companion for the rabbit. He fired from a distance, and the bullet went through Smith's head, death being instantaneous.

Ellis is heartbroken over his action. He immediately notified nearby farmers and county police hurried to the scene. The body of the victim was brought to the city. His wife was holidaying at Kincardine at the time of the accident.

DAMAGE TO NIAGARA FORT ESTIMATED AT $200,000

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 13.—Colonel Fred. D. Evans, officer in command at Fort Niagara, estimated the damage done by fire at the Fort Sunday morning at $200,000 The property loss, due to the destruction of buildings, he said, would not exceed $150,000, while a large supply of hospital equipment, which was stored in the building burned, and which was destroyed, was valued at $50,000. The cause of the fire is not known.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—I wish to take a few lines in your paper for what I consider a noble cause: care for the poor and aged. The work carried on by the W. C. A. in caring for the old folks is very commendable in these days when years of savings are soon spent in trying to keep a home together by old people.

A short study of some of these cases is very sad and then when their means of support are exhausted and their case becomes known they are gathered in by the W. C. A. and placed in a comfortable home under the care of a kind and loving matron and properly looked after.

In closing I would ask the citizens to think seriously for just a few minutes, when I know they will readily see what a commendable cause these ladies are promoting in securing a new and up-to-date home for the aged.

Your financial support is being appealed for, and in this case it is your duty to do the best possible for them.

Yours very truly,
CHAS. HANNA, Mayor.

Clement Shorter Would Like to Find Solution Of Problems in Ireland

AMONG the notables who had planned what they would do if they were King of France was Francis Villon, the blackleg poet. The latest to emulate him is Clement Shorter, editor of the Sphere and well known as a critic and publicist. He has written to the tune of "If I were Prime Minister," the general theme being the Irish problem. We cannot say that Mr. Shorter has contributed anything to the solution of the problem, but who has? Nevertheless, his ideas are rather more clean cut than those of the average writer, and are not without interest. He would act on the principle that the Irish people are to be trusted, and he asserts that this is the one policy that has never been adopted. He believes that the success of the experiment of trusting the Boers after the South African war justifies the adoption of this policy with regard to Ireland. But Mr. Shorter is vague as to what he means by trusting them. He admits that he is not wedded to details, which is a common confession of a man who throws out details at random.

Mr. Shorter's assertion that the Irish are a race of sportsmen is more interesting. Certainly they have had that reputation, and it is to be admitted that they are more prominent in sports generally than perhaps any race in the world, according to their numbers. Mr. Shorter says, "A dealer has a horse for sale in a fair and he tells a buyer he wants, say £100, and resolutely asserts he won't take a penny less. Though the buyer properly regards £100 as an unthinkable price, does he leave it at that? An offer of £80 down or less is made and a sale effected. This is common experience. Why not apply it to the republican demand? Ireland has friendship and loyalty to yield. It is England's interest, and I believe her desire, to acquire it. Why should the Prime Minister not make an offer of something definite down on the nail? If he were to do so, and if the offer were, say in Home Rule terms, equivalent to the £80 which effects a sale of a horse offered at £100, 'not a penny less,' Mr. Lloyd George could count on the country's support —for the country is sick and tired and ashamed of its Irish policy and the fruits thereof."

Mr. Shorter admits that the demand for complete independence, the £100 Irish price, is unthinkable to the great majority of Englishmen. His £80 bid would be an interview between Lloyd George and de Valera and Griffith at which the Prime Minister would offer them an act giving to the two Irish Parliaments control of their own excise and customs and giving on generous lines some capital charge to be paid by Ireland to Great Britain in respect of war debt. Ireland would thereby have a definite knowledge of her indebtedness and she could arrange her excise and customs duties accordingly with a prospect of its reduction or ultimate discharge. He suggests that it would probably be easy for Ireland to make an arrangement with the Government of the United States which would help to finance the debt by remitting the amount to Great Britain.

The granting of practical fiscal autonomy to Ireland would be a concession from Great Britain, but the writer asks what settlement between parties in conflict ever was arrived at without concessions on the part of both? The Irish concession would be the abatement of its demand for complete independence. This Mr. Shorter reckons as about £20 of the hundred. He does not face the possibility that de Valera and the Sinn Feiners regard it as about £90. He believes that the policy of "resolute government" which was successful under Lord Salisbury will not work out to-day. Both the former Premier's sons have abandoned it. It is a practical impossibility in his view to reconquer Ireland. At best this policy would merely drive the Sinn Feiners underground. It would not remove their hostility, nor help endear England to the Irish. Independence, too, is out of the question. The present situation is intolerable. It must end some time. Therefore it must end by some sort of compromise.

The writer was in the United States some time ago and expresses alarm at the trouble the Irish problem was making in the relations between the two peoples. He says, "In a thousand cinema theatres in the States they are exhibiting German atrocities in Belgium as British atrocities in Ireland," and he contends that unless some great improvement is effected in eight years, the Presidential campaign that will then occur will be controlled by the Irish issue. Reports he has gathered from France and Italy show that in these countries, too, as in all Roman Catholic countries, there is a growing sentiment of hostility toward Great Britain because of the shooting of priests and over-running of convents by crown forces in Ireland. But Mr. Shorter does not need to pile up reasons for the solution of the Irish problem.

Irish Wit.

The time had come to dole out the day's rations, and in an Irish regiment the quartermaster and his assistant had been portioning them out in preparation for distribution.

The assistant turned to the quartermaster and, with a twinkle in his eye, said: "Av ye plaze, sorr, there's a loaf short. Who'll I give it to?"

"Keep it yourself, Mike," replied the quartermaster.

Comedy Bombshell at Griffins

DOUGLAS McLEAN AND DORIS MAY IN BREEZY PARAMOUNT ARTCRAFT COMEDY

Those delightful young persons, Douglas McLean and Doris May are at Griffin's first three days this week, in their latest comedy bombshell, "Let's be Fashionable". They keep up the same rapid, joyful pace that they set in "Twenty-Three and a Half Hours Leave." No movie-goer could ask more. This time the pair are a couple of newlyweds who take up residence in a modest bungalow in an ultra-fashionable summer resort. Their efforts to keep abreast of society's fast whirl results in a host of laughable complications. Finally they decide that it is more important to be happy than to be fashionable. "Let's Be Fashionable" is the work of Mildred Considine and was directed by Lloyd Ingraham. Wade Boteler, George Webb, and Norris Johnston are included in the supporting cast. It is a Paramount Artcraft release and mighty good entertainment.

"The Quack Doctor" a funny 2-reel Mack Sennett comedy, an interesting Screen Snapshots with its peep into the private and professional life of famous stars, "Madonna of the Slums" a gripping 2-reel drama featuring the famous Opera Star Galli Curci and Holbrook Blinn, and a Burton Holmes Travelogue preceded the feature offering.

County Council Jnne Session

WARDEN EMBURY WELCOMES MEMBERS OF COUNCIL AND OUTLINES LEGISLATION

At the opening of the County Council this afternoon, Warden Dr. Embury, Reeve of Bancroft, welcomed the councillors and expressed his satisfaction at seeing them in good health. He had travelled through the whole county and found the crops very good.

This was a period of financial deflation and readjustment and all nations are suffering. Canada was as well off as any of the nations in the world.

Roadwork is progressing well throughout the county. The worst road is that from Foxboro to Belleville. This was, he understood, to be improved as the Province had taken it over.

The question of assessment equalization would receive a large share of the council's attention. He hoped the matter would be satisfactorily adjusted.

The finances of the county have improved during the past year.

Letters to The Editor

OLD PEOPLES' HOME

To the Editor of The Intelligencer

Dear sir,—I see that there are many suggestions made to give the "Belleville Old Peoples' Home" a new name. May I be permitted to make a suggestion which might be a practical one and I hope it will be, to many if not to all. The ladies are asking for subscriptions from the citizens to pay for the new home, about $5,000 is required. Let everyone give as much as he or she can, let us deny ourselves a little so as to help the old people—to provide a resting place, reasonably comfortable in their old age. The new home is an excellent one and the ladies should be congratulated and liberally supported in their charitable efforts.

I am contributing my mite and therefore feel at liberty to ask others to do the same.

Yours faithfully,
J. F. WILLS.

Big Crowds Visit Belleville and The Circus

PATRONS PLEASED WITH PERFORMANCE—LARGE AUDIENCES AFTERNOON AND EVENING

Circus Day in Belleville was certainly a big event for many and the crowd in town was a record breaker. Everything was favorable for an ideal circus day. The weather was just right and the roads leading to the city were good with the result that visitors came from far and near, many by auto, some by horse-drawn vehicles, some by train and some on foot. It was a great day for the kiddies and the grown-ups were not far behind in their enjoyment of the sights and sounds of circus day in Belleville.

John Robinson's Circus carried out all the promises made in giving a splendid street parade and an excellent program under the Big Top. The parade was featured with many fine horses in gay trappings, an unusual number of open animal cages, elephants, camels, etc., and plenty of band music, not forgetting the ancient calliope without which no circus parade would be complete.

The crowd at the afternoon performance was immense every seat being occupied and many having to be content with seats upon the ground. A large crowd also attended the evening performance and it is estimated that the total attendance was in the neighborhood of fifteen thousand people.

Program Varied

The circus program was varied and high class throughout and no fault could be found with the entertainment offered or the conduct of the circus in any way. Many feature acts were presented including some of a remarkable nature, notably the Nelson Family of acrobats, the Flying Wards, the Japanese fencers, wrestlers, and jui-jitsu experts, the elephants acts, and others. One act of outstanding merit was a comedy equestrian performance participated in by two gentlemen riders and two lady riders. This act is punctuated with fun but it is really a high-class phant acts, and others. One act of sented.

Columns might be written about the many interesting sights and sounds about the circus, but it is sufficient to say that the John Robinson circus is complete in every department and has no superiors. Everybody who patronized the show spoke in high terms of the excellent program of entertainment provided and when even the majority of a circus crowd can be fully satisfied it is an evidence that the circus is far above the average.

Packing Up

Circus system is a marvel of efficiency and in the John Robinson circus this is very marked, an instance being the celerity with which the vast paraphernalia is taken down, packed up and taken to the railways cars. The big show finished at 10 p.m., the concert was out at 10-20 and the big top was all folded up on the big spool waggons and every pole and peg packed away and en route to the railway yards at 11 o'clock. Many citizens remained to see the get-away and were well rewarded for the wait by a sight of a marvellous moving spectacle of efficiency in the packing up of a big circus. Powerful searchlights played on every portion of the lot where work was in progress and an army of men, assisted by two elephants, and several tractors speedily cleared the field of everything which looked like a circus, and the wagons with their six-horse teams followed the trail marked out by torches to the circus train, blazing torches at the corner of each street indicating the way to the railway yards.

Must Keep Moving

An interesting feature of the John Robinson Circus business system is the fact that a legal representative is on the staff and this official retained Ponton & Ponton as local representatives in case anything of a legal nature interfere with the circus organization. Ponton & Ponton were furnished with bonds to the extent of $25,000 to be used, if the occasion arose, the instructions being that the circus was not to be detained under any circumstances. It can easily be understood that any legal trouble which might tend to tie up the show for even one day would result in a heavy loss of revenue while the enormous expense of an organization of this kind would keep right on.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 36, or write The Intelligencer.

H. P.—That the canoe accident on Sunday afternoon off Victoria Park demonstrated that a pulmotor at a convenient place, say No. 1. fire hall would prove to be of great benefit and might possibly be the means of saving life. The procuring of a pulmotor by the city would be money well invested.

Movie Fan—When the fire alarm rang the other night, some of the people in the audience at Griffin's appeared uneasy, wondering where the fire was. Shortly after the bell rang a bulletin was flashed on the screen with the information as to where the fire was, and that it did not amount to anything. The enterprise of the management was very favorably commented upon.

• • •

H. J.—I saw some prominent citizens doing the Bunny Hug at the Circus, in front of the reserved seat section of the Big Top. They did not invite the attention of the flirtalous show girls, but did not seem to object very strenuously and entered into the spirit of the joke, which proved highly entertaining to the spectators.

• • •

J. R.—I saw a dead snake on Front street, Tuesday morning, which attracted much attention and speculation. It was a good-sized rattlesnake with the rattles removed, but whether it died a natural or a violent death was not apparent from its appearance. It evidently was a cast-off from the circus retrieved by venturesome boys.

B.J.—"I want my Daddy", was the plaint of a wee boy of about five years of age who seemed to be "losted all alone" in front of Griffin's theatre, on Bridge street. A little crowd gathered, but the lad refused to allow anyone to take him home, repeating constantly "I want my Daddy". Sid Fisher was passing in his car, and was hailed by one of the crowd who explained the situation. "Come for a ride", says Sid, "sure', says the boy who was whirled home in gig time, delighted to get the car ride.

Our Roller Coaster

M. A.—Belleville citizens need never complain that they have not felt the thrills and joy of a ride in the Roller Coaster, if they will simply take a trip up Mill or Station street in a motor car. The bumps are varied and come on one most unexpectedly, adding to the hilarity of the occasion, (so long as the springs are good in the car). All this is free, so why miss it folks? People entering our picturesque city for the first time, coming from the station, are certainly initiated in a lively manner. This street would stand a little attention from the Public Works Dept.

THIRTY DIVINES HAD ONLY DEBTS TO SHOW

Orillia, Ont., June 13.—A questionnaire sent to the 270 ministers in the Toronto Methodist conference has revealed some interesting facts in regard to preachers and their salaries and savings. Rev. J. J. Coulter pastor of Danforth avenue church, Toronto, gave them to the conference to-day in reporting for the contingent fund committee.

Only 1125 of the preachers filled out the questionnaire. The answers were anonymous. One of the interesting facts brought to light was that only 56 of the 125 had been able to save anything during the past year and the savings of the 56 averaged totalling $7,205, and ranging from $15 to one man who put away a clear $100. But thirty of the 125 had actually gone in debt thereby finding it impossible to obey the bibical injuction to "Owe no man anything."

Out of the 125 there were 110 insured and their total policies reached $327,000 an everage of $2,990. The questionniare also contained questions regarding the salaries paid the preachers for their whole ministry. The average of the lowest was $600 that of the highest $1,425 and the average of the whole 125 for their entire ministry was $966.

BOYLE—FITZGERALD

A very pretty and popular wedding was solemnized Monday morning at 8.30 a.m. at St. Michael's church when Mr. J. V. Boyle and Miss Aileen Fitzgerald were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Father Killeen. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, Mr. John Fitzgerald, charmingly attired in a gown of gray canton crepe with hat to match, carrying a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bride was assisted by her sister Miss Marguerite Fitzgerald, G. N., of Ottawa, who was charmingly attired in a suit dress of white flannel with hat to match. The bridesmaid carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and carnations. The groom's present to the bride was a string of pearls, to the bridesmaid a sterling vanity case and to the best man, Mr. Lawrence Boyle, of the Swift Canadian Co., Toronto, brother of the groom, a pair of gold cuff links. The esteem and popularity of the young couple were expressed in no mean way by the many beautiful gifts which they were the recipients of. The bride's going-away attire was a suit of navy gabardine with hat to match. After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding repast was served at the home of the bride's parents, 356 Bleecker Avenue. The dining room was fittingly decorated for the occasion. There were guests present from Montreal, Ottawa, Sherbrooke, Toronto and other points. The bride for the past four years has been a popular employee of the Grand Trunk Superintendent's staff, the groom being a member of the staff of the Corby Distillery, Corbyville, both being well and favorably known. The happy couple left on the 11.40 a.m. train for Toledo, Cleveland and other western points. The best wishes of a host of friends accompany Mr. and Mrs. Boyle in their voyage through life.

MARKED EPOCH IN INDUSTRY

Experience of Years of Warfare Should Have Effect on Coal Mining in This Country.

The inventory of the nation's resources that the war made necessary brought to light many new facts about coal mining which will be of lasting value to the industry and to the public. As long as the war lasted these incidental lessons were lost sight of under the pressure of meeting the emergency created by the shortage of fuels, but with the return of peace the experience gained during the war is being gathered together in a series of reports on the industry, the first of which, "Coal in 1917," by C. E. Lesher, has been published by the United States geological survey, department of the interior.

The period from 1914 through 1917 and 1918 and into 1919 may be regarded as a distinct epoch in the coal industry, of which the year 1917 represented only one section, but a section which, if not the most remarkable for its achievements, was at once the most chaotic and the most momentous in the history of the industry.

In response to the unprecedented demand the bituminous mines produced 551,790,563 tons, or nearly 10 per cent more than the output of the year before. The anthracite output was 99,611,811 net tons, an increase over 1916 of 13.7 per cent. The total output of both hard and soft coal was thus over 650,000,000 tons.

This record output was accomplished by a labor force of 603,143 men in the bituminous and 154,174 in the anthracite mines. In spite of the draft the number of workers in the bituminous industry was greater in 1917 that in 1916.

UNCLE SAM'S GAME RESERVE

Island of Afognak, on South Coast of Alaska, Peculiarly Adapted for the Purpose.

One of the most picturesquely interesting parts of our national domain is a large island off the south coast of Alaska. It is called Afognak and is about 65 miles long by 40 in width, with a very irregular shore line and deeply indented by bays.

It is the property of the government, and in 1892 was set aside by President Harrison as a game and fish reserve. The important purpose that it serves is that of a preserve for salmon, all the finest varieties of which run up its stream in great numbers at the breeding season to spawn.

Afognak is a mountainous island, of volcanic origin, its loftiest peak rising to an elevation of 1,300 feet. In the interior are a number of large lakes, which are the breeding grounds of the salmon. One of these, Letnik lake, is seven miles long, and on its shore is located a big government fish hatchery.

In the days of long ago, before the United States bought Alaska, the salmon fishery of Afognak was operated by the Russian-American company, which established on the island a colony of its superannuated and pensioned employes. These were Aleuts, whose descendants today compose the native population, somewhat more than 400, though their blood is much mixed.

Soldiers and Banana Growing.

The New South Wales government has not been long in providing its returning soldiers with work. One of the enterprises undertaken with this object is the cultivation of bananas on a large scale. There is no fruit crop that yields such a quick return as the banana and in the present flourishing state of the market no better undertaking could have been selected, given the right men. It is not work for the lazy. But among the demobilized troops are plenty of men who are young, tough and teachable. Four hundred acres have been taken as a beginning and each settler has 12 months' probation before a black is intrusted to him. The sum of £625 is advanced to each for implements, stock, and house-building material. The soldiers have already started and enjoy their rough life in the hills. The experienced planter, Mr. C. Rose, who is in charge, sees nothing but success ahead in reward for their efforts.

Prickly Pear Proving Pest.

Australia is suffering from a prickly pear pest, which takes advantage of the rivers as a means of spreading. Shoots break off from the parent plant growing along a stream and the part is carried downstream to found a new colony. Thousands of acres are being ruined yearly owing to the ravages of this plant, and no means have been discovered of stopping its march. Rolling, spraying and poisons have proved ineffectual, and it is hoped that some scientist may find some commercial use for the plant.

Indian Women Progressing.

Oklahoma Indian girls are as much interested in the canning campaign as their paleface sisters. In Backham county, Okla., they attend all the meetings held by the home demonstration agent, and this year made an excellent booth exhibit of the fruit and vegetables they had canned and dried. One Indian woman also exhibited 100 chickens of her own raising. —Exchange.

London's Housing Problem.

The London housing board has inspected 2,000 houses that may be converted into flats. Of these 1,000 have been approved and work is to be commenced immediately. Work has also been begun on 8,000 houses.

Boniface won the Windsor Hotel Cup Handicap at Blue Bonnets.

FRANCE'S WAR DAMAGE

The war damag to France has been estimated at 213,532,500,00 francs, made up as follows: Industrial damage 38,883,000,000 francs; towns, houses 36,893,000,000 francs; furniture and fixtures 25,119,500,000 francs; land, livestock, agriculture 21,679,000,000 francs; State property 1,958,900,000 francs; colonies and Algeria 10,000,000 francs; Public works 2,583,000,000 francs, sundry damage 2,360,000,000 francs; special damages 2,095,000,000 francs; 5 percent interest on 33 billions, November 11, 1918 to May 1, 1921 4,125,000,000, to which is added 77,834,000,000 for military and civil pensions, allowances, etc.

According to official estimates the amount still to be expended for complete restoration is 26,000,000,000 francs, pre-war value, and this figure will have to be multiplied to provide for the present high cost material, so that it is possible that the actual expenditure will range between 80,000,000,000 and 130,000,000,000 francs.

GOOD ROADS ASS'N ADOPTS SLOGAN

Ottawa, June 8.—"A good road for every producer to his nearest market," was the slogan adopted at the first meeting of the new executive of the Canadian Good Roads Association held here today. This was the aim which the executive desired every member of the association to keep always before him.

There was a full attendance of the executive, the following being present: L. Squire, and J. A. Duchastel, Montreal; R. T. Kelly and William Findlay, Toronto; George A. McNamee, Montreal, and Dr. E. M. Oesaulniers, Outremont. Mr. Squire was re-elected Chairman of the executive.

GOVERNMENT EXPENSES GROW NEW TAXES NECESSARY.

The Drury Government needs a whole of lot of money to keep going and new forms of taxacion have to be devised to keep the legislative mill grinding. One of the latest taxes is that on land transfers under the Land Transfers Act which came into force on June 1. Many people will be affected by this tax and the following digest from the Municipal World will be of interest:

"The new Land Transfers Tax Act comes into force on the 1st of June. The tax is one-fifth of one per cent. upon the amount of the purchase price. It is to be paid by the party registering the same on every transfer, conveyance, deed, instrument or writing, whereby any land, tenements, or other realty sold shall be granted, assigned, transferred, or otherwise conveyed to or vested in the purchaser or purchasers, or in any other person or persons by his, her or their direction.

"The tax is to be colleceed by the registrar or master of titles, before he registers.

"In case of dispute, the tax may be paid under protest, and the Provincial Treasurer decides.

"Questions will, no doubt, arise from time to time as to the extent to which the Act applies. The interpretation is made easier by the emphasis being placed on the words purchase price, lands, tenements or other realty sold, purchaser. There is no tax unless the instrument represents a sale with a purchase price, a conveyance, or a vesting.

"The Act, therefore, does not seem to apply to a mere quit-claim, deed of gift, lease, mortgage, charge or assignment of a mortgage or charge, executor's conveyance in execution of a will (except, of course, under a sale). A deed by a man to his wife and himself as joint tenants and not as tenants in common would not come under the provisions of the Act, unless there is a sale and a purchase price.

"The Act would seem to apply to the sale of any interest in land. A mere life lease is not under the Act, but a conveyance of a life estate for a price is.

"A quit claim is, under the Act, if it represents a sale of the land or of an interest in the land, but not if given merely to release a claim.

"There is no minimum tax, and it would seem that a tax of one cent is payable where the purchase price is $5 or under, and so in proportion. On $500 the tax is $1; on $50,000, it is $100, etc.

"The purchaser must file with his deed an affidavit showing the full and true amount of the moneys and the value of any property or security given as consideration. It is to be noted that the tax is not on the value, but on the purchase price. If the conveyance is of distinct portions, estates or interests to two or more persons, separate affidavits would be required, unless the grantees are willing to join in one."

MACKENZIE KING'S LEADERSHIP WILL END IN THE DITCH.

That the Liberal party under its present leadership is on the downgrade is an idea running through the comment in the press on recent by-elections to fill parliamentary vacancies. There was no Liberal candidate in York-Sunbury, and though many Liberals supported the United Farmer candidate, he was rather badly beaeen. There has been a considerable number of such cases since the present parliament came into being. The Ottawa Journal gives the following list of by-elections since 1917, with the position of or result to the Liberal party:

Glengarry—No candidate.
North Ontario—No candidate.
Temiskaming—Liberal ran third.
Assiniboia—Candidate lost his deposit.
Victoria—No candidate.
Kingston—No candidate.
Colchester—No candidate.
St. John—Candidate lost deposit.
Yale—No candidate.
East Elgin—Liberal third.
York-Sunbury—No candidate.

The Journal adds that "on the heels of such a record comes the further default of naming a candidate in Medicine Hat. Mr. Mackenzie King, in an appeal to his followers last summer, announced that in future every by-election would be contested by the Liberal party. Since then there have been six by-elections, the Liberals had had candidates in only three, and a seventh is coming with no Liberal candidate.

CHEAP TRANSPORTATION FOR WHEAT

Chicago Tribune

The American wheat farmers, without directly intending it, have made a strong case for the St. Lawrence waterway. With that waterway in operation, grain can be carried from lake ports to salt water at less than half the present rail charges. The saving thus effected will go almost entirely to the farmers. So long as we export grain, the price in our own market is fixed by that of the surplus which goes abroad and the price abroad is regulated by world competition. Everything which enables the American farmer to reach that market more cheaply adds to his income—and there is no bigger or more needed task just now than to encourage American farming.

FRANCE AND THE ENTENTE

London Daily Express

France has found unwavering support in the exaction of reparations and disarmament from Germany. She may make sure, if she chooses, of unwavering support against any possible aggression in the future. But her several attempts on her own account the mechanism of a military machine and her support of Polish insurgents are ominous and disconcerting. We understand the sentiments of France and make allowances for anxieties which seem to us excessive. But we are the convinced opponents of any form of Continental militarism. It is time for France to make allowances in her turn. On present lines the Entente is unquestionably in danger.

WHY THE U.S. WENT TO WAR

New York Journal

President Harding contradicts Harvey, who said we went to war simply as a business venture, because it suited our selfish purpose. Harvey was wrong. We went to war because the foolish German Kaiser told us our ships could not sail the seas unmolested, that he would sink them if they tried to sail without his permission. That war was far from a business venture, for there was no possibility of our getting a dollar of money or a foot of land out of it, and there was a dead certainty that our profiteers would get most of the forty billions spent. We went to war because a vast majority of our citizens thought Germany started it and deserved a beating. There was certainly no sor-

WEEDS WON'T DIE.

"Burial" For Thirty Years Fails to Destroy Tenacious Lives.

All sorts of fancy stories have been told of mummy wheat that has germinated after thousands of years' burial in the heart of a pyramid.

Here are a few cold facts culled from the scientific records of the Board of Agriculture.

With a view to finding out how long the seeds of weeds could live deep in the ground, some interesting experiments have been carried out.

A field was chosen which had been under grass for thirty-two years—from 1878 to 1910. This field was so far from the nearest cultivated land that seeds could hardly have been carried there by wind.

A sampling-iron — a kind of huge cheese-scoop — was driven into the grass, and the soil beneath carefully removed to a depth of twelve inches. This soil—stiff clay—was taken away in paper bags, and placed in clean, sterilized pans under glass. It was kept moist, and left alone.

Soon seedlings began to show, and each was allowed to grow until large enough to identify.

The result was startling. In this soil there appeared no fewer than 395 seedlings belonging to eight different varieties. Among these were the scarlet pimpernel, the common blue forget-me-not, poppy, speedwell, bindweed, and, particularly, that foe of the farmer, the detestable knotgrass.

None of these plants, except the forget-me-not, are to be seen growing on the surface in this particular field.

We therefore have proof positive that these particular seeds can exist and maintain their germinating powers intact for at least thirty-two years.

These experiments have since been carried further, and we can now add a number of other plants to the list, such as charlock, shepherd's purse, sandwort, etc.

But enough has been said to prove that the farmer who is ploughing up old pasture need not be surprised if, mixed with his new crops, he discovers all sorts of new weeds.

Birds and Live Wires.

Why birds can perch and remain unharmed on live trolley wires is a question that doubtless has often occurred to many people. In explanation, a recent writer says: It is perfectly true that the trolley wire carries an electric current strong enough to kill not only birds but human beings. However, to do any harm the current must pass to the ground through the body of the bird or person. The connection of the body with the ground need not be direct, but it must exist in some way. A person could sit on the trolley wire just as safely as the birds do, but, if he should stretch out his hand and touch another wire, or an iron pipe, running directly or indirectly to the ground, the full force of the current would be grounded by the connection made with his body. In the case of the birds, there is nothing to afford a ground connection, and they are in consequence unharmed, the electric current passing through the wire under them as water would pass through a main on which a person might be sitting, without wetting him.

Scotland's Glory.

A Canadian tourist had hustled through England, Wales, and part of Scotland in a few days. Now he was visiting Loch Lomond, a guidebook in one hand and a time-table in the other. A local worthy was acting as a guide, and his face clouded when the visitor remarked candidly that they possessed many much finer "beauty spots" in Canada. "Ha'e ye?" remarked the son of Scotia coldly. "Ah, weel, jist e come away, tae the tap o' this hill, an' Ah'll show ye something ye havena' got in Canada." After a laborious climb, the pair reached the summit. Then the guide recommended the Canadian just to turn round slowly and "view the landscape o'er." During the process he called the tourist's attention to a number of large buildings in different directions. "Well, what are they?" asked the bored visitor. "Disteeleries!" replied the Scot, in savage triumph. "An' all wurrkin'!"

A "Pinching" Hymn.

Scene: An infant school in a poor district.

Teacher—"Now, children, what hymn shall we sing this morning?"

Six-Year-Old—"The one where the boy pinched the old fellow's watch."

Pause. Further questions. Child turns over pages of hymn-book and triumphantly points to No. 46. "Hushed was the evening hymn."

Teacher reads hymn aloud. Halfway through the second verse the infant interrupts: "There y'are!"

Teacher, re-reading:

"The old man, meek and mild,
The priest of Israel, slept;
His watch the Temple child,
The little Levite, kept."

Kindly Suggestion.

A gentleman dining at the table nearest to the orchestra got up from his chair and approached the orchestra leader. "Do you ever play by request?" he asked.

"Certainly, sir," replied the delighted musician.

"Then," said the diner, "I wonder if you and your men would be so good as to play a game of dominoes until I've finished my lunch?"

CHURCH OWING $300,00 FACES LIQIDATION

Hamilton, June 13.—Speaking before the Hamilton Methodist Conference Rev. H. McIrvine, of Winnipeg,d declared that eastern clergymen little the primitive conditions and hardships that existed in the west. He referred to his awn church, Grace Church, Winnipeg, and stated with a debt of $300,000 the church was facing liquidation. He appealed for assistance, pointing out if this church was allowed to go down it would be a blot on Methodism in Canada.

Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., promised Mr. McIrvine the support of the Hamilton district.

A former pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Hudhson, First Methodist Church, Hamilton, stated that unfortunate real estate purchases was one of the contributive factors to the shaky condition of the church's finances.

It was decided that the Ontario conference would bear the major portion of a $100,000 contribution.

Rev. A. G. Irwin, in speaking of church finances and not referring to the Winnipeg case, declared that there were too many appeals in the church to-day for monetary assistance. He sited a case where one man was approached fourteen times in a week to give money to various organizations of the church. He suggested that this should be cut down.

Doctors Say New Drug Makes You Feel 100% Better In Two to Five Days

WORTH MILLIONS TO SUFFERING HUMANITY—WORKS WONDERS ON HEADACHES, INDIGESTION, CONSTIPATION, RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY PAINS, ETC.

Your complexion is not clear, you have pains between the shoulder blades, you are constipated, have no energy, no appetite, headaches, rheumatism, etc. These are all the wellknown signs that your Liver is out of order, and it is not excreting Bile into the Bowels, thereby causing all these pains and aches.

Doctors will tell you that 99% of the people who come to them for treatment have trouble due directly to the Liver. It is simple when you stop to think about it. When your Liver becomes inactive and fails to pour Bile into the intestines, your system is unable to excrete the waste, then the blood begins to distribute this waste throughout the whole system, striking at the weakest organ. Until this Liver trouble is overcome you cannot expect to have perfect health, and life to you will be a drudgery.

Doctors recommend that you take one Tanated Calomel about fifteen mimutes before each meal, or you may take two at bedtime, and you will wake up the next morning feeling tip-top. No seidlitz, salts, or castor oil are necessary to eliminate the as it is self-eliminating.

Tanated Colomel is quickly assimilated by the system, and begins to act soon after taking. It has no bad after-effects, as nausea, sick headaches, griping, etc., but acts very mild and smoothly, causing a natural elimination of the waste, relieving your system of all this waste poison making you look and feel bright, alert, vigorous and vivacious again.

Tanated Calomel is sold by McKeown Rexall Store Belleville.

PLANNED IN PRISON.

Architects of Wormwood Srubs Was Serving Term.

It may surprise many to know that the plans of Wormwood Scrubs Prison were drawn out by a convict in his cell while undergoing the probationary period of nine months to a long term of imprisonment.

The man was an architect, and among the foremost of his profession. He was a gentleman by birth and education, but in early life began to abuse his natural gifts, and was at the time undergoing a term of imprisonment for forgery. The completion of the work occupied him six months, and was effected under many disadvantages.

The prison authorities consider this marvellous specimen of architectural drawing the finest piece of work ever done by an English convict.

The convict displayed the greatest interest and pride in the erection and completion of the prison, which was built entirely by convict labor. It contained 1,400 separate cells for prisoners, which cost on an average £70 each, besides hospital wards and a chapel. The total number of bricks required was 35,000,000, each one being made by convicts on the premises.

The iron castings were obtained from Portland and Chatham Prisons, granite from Dartmoor Prison, and the Portland stone from Portland Prison. The total cost of the prison was about $500,000.

Ocean Vegetation.

Most of us know surprisingly little about the gardens of the sea, in which grow ever so many species of curious and interesting plants. Often they are torn from the bottom by storms and thrown up on the beaches, where summer visitors occasionally pick them up and dry them for collections of what they call "seaweeds."

The only way to make a satisfactory collection of the kind is to seek the plants where they grow, gathering them between the tide lines (at low tide, of course), or near the surface. At greater depths they may be fished up with long-handled rakes or tongs.

When thus gathered, they should be placed as quickly as possible in seawater—in a bucket carried by the collector, or, preferably, where the more delicate species are concerned, in a wide-mouthed bottle.

For preservation they must be dried—the large, coarse ones between blotters under pressure. All others should be mounted as quickly as possible on thick unglazed paper.

The more delicate specimens should be floated on sea-water, a piece of paper slipped under them, and the plants thereby removed from the water carefully, to be thereupon arranged on the paper to best advantage with a needle and drops of water let fall from a pipette.

They may then be dried under moderate pressure between blotters, first laying a thin white cloth over them to keep them from sticking. The blotters should be changed twice a day until all moisture is removed.

Kidnapped Princess.

A strange story is told of an Indian princes kidnapped from Trieste by British detectives. The Hotel Savoy, where several Egyptian political refugees reside, was the scene of this exploit. It is alleged that Sucriti Ghosal, the young daughter of an Indian rajah, became acquainted while in London with a Sinn Feiner, member of a secret committee. This man, being suspected by the police, escaped to Trieste, persuading the young princess to follow him there.

According to police information, it appears that the Sinn Feiner, under the assumed name of Cambi, was plotting with Egyptian emissaries and that the princess was considered a suitable tool for anti-British propaganda in India.

Three British detectives, stationed in a motor car before the hotel entrance, kidnapped Sucritf when she left the hotel, drove her to Venice and put her on board the steamship Pilsen, bound for Bombay. It appears that her arrest under such extraordinary circumstances was made possible by documents signed by the British Embassy in Rome, but the Italian press is not satisfied, and demands an explanation.

Rothschild's Golden Rules.

The following maxims were found in the desk of Baron Rothschild, the banker, shortly after his death in 1836:

Carefully examine every detail of your business.

Be prompt in everything.

Take time to consider, but decide positively.

Dare to go forward.

Bear trouble patiently.

Be brave in the struggle of life.

Never tell business lies.

Make no useless acquaintances.

Never appear something more than you are.

Pay your debts promptly.

Shun strong liquor.

Employ your time well.

Do not reckon upon chance.

Never be discouraged.

Be polite to everybody.

Family Resemblance.

A visiting relative was having her first view of the small boy of four.

"He has the Barr eyes," she said, "and the Barr nose, but I don't see where he gets his mouth."

The next day a member of the household was startled to overhear the small boy saying soberly to his kitten: "Kitty, you have the Barr nose and the Barr eyes, but I don't see where you get your tail!"

A Matter of "Eats."

A woman was engaging a charlady to "do for her," and came presently to the delicate question of salary.

"Well, ma'am," said the honest functionary, "it's like this. If I eats myself it's $1.50 a day, but if you eats me it's only $1."

AUTO CHARGES CAR WITH FATAL RESULT

Windsor, June 13.—About an hour after his motor car had collided almost head on with a street car on Sanwich Street East, Edward H. Einfeldt, 51 years of age assistant probation officer of the Detroit Municipal Courts, died here about 12.30 this morning. Death was due to a fractured skull.

Charles Chittle, the motorman of the street car, stated that the street car was almost at a stop when the motor hit it, but the impact turned the light touring car upside down, and Einfeldt was pinned beneath it. Several persons from nearby residences aided in lifting the car off the injured man, who still showed slight signs of life, but died shortly after admittance to hospital. An inquest as has commenced.

The Case of Daily Newspaper Advertising

THE QUESTION HAS BEEN ASKED: WHAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES OF DAILY NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BY CONTRAST WITH ALL OTHER FORMS OF ADVERTISING?

IN SETTING OUT THESE ADVANTAGES, DAILY NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS DO NOT DISCOUNT SUPPLEMENTARY FORMS OF PUBLICITY. BUT THE AREA OF CANADA AND ITS DISTRIBUTION OF POPULATION ARE SUCH THAT DAILY NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING HAS BEEN AND MUST BE THE BASIS OF ALL THE POINTEDLY SUCCESSFUL CANADIAN ADVERTISING CAMPAIGNS.

1. UNIVERSAL APPEAL.

(a) Enters the home intimately.

The newspaper enters the home and has a more intimate appeal to all members of the family than any other reading matter.

(b) Reaches all classes.

The newspaper appeals to all literate members of the community, without distinction of race, class, creed, sex, income or occupation.

(c) Thorough distribution.

The newspaper finds its readers, whether they are at home or not; if they are not at home, it reaches them when travelling, on trains and cars, in hotels, clubs and libraries.

(d) Reaches the business man.

The newspaper is to the business executive the most necessary medium of information.

(e) Minimum duplication.

Because of the completeness of the service of each newspaper, there is a minimum of duplication between newspapers.

2. IMMEDIATE APPEARANCE.

(a) Impulse to immediate action.

Because the newspaper deals with the immediate fact and the opinion of the day, its columns give an impulse to immediate action; results are often felt even before the presses are silent.

(b) Quick insertion.

Through the newspaper the reader may be reached within a few hours after copy is prepared.

(c) Quick change.

Advertisements in a newspaper may be changed or even cancelled up to a few hours before going to press.

(d) Quick repetition.

A newspaper advertisement which proves successful can be repeated promptly before the conditions favoring success have altered.

(e) Timely copy.

Newspaper copy can be adapted to the day on which it appears, or to current events, and can avoid untimely references.

3. FREQUENCY OF APPEARANCE.

(a) The choice of the day.

The newspaper advertiser has his choice of the precise day of the week most suitable to his advertising.

(b) Intensive campaigns.

Newspaper advertising permits any intensity desired, up to daily insertions.

(c) Serial campaigns.

In the newspaper it is possible to use serial copy with any desired interval between insertions.

(d) Cumulative effect.

A newspaper campaign may be planned to obtain a maximum cumulative effect through the flexibility of space and intervals.

4. LOCALIZED CIRCULATION.

(a) Close to place of purchase.

The reader of a newspaper advertisement can go directly to the place where the article advertised is on sale.

(b) Spotty distribution.

The advertiser with spotty distribution can, by using newspapers, advertise exclusively where his goods are on sale.

(c) Concentrated territory.

The newspaper offers the maximum concentration of circulation in any community.

(d) Strengthening weak territory.

The newspaper may be used to strengthen weak spots in the distribution with the exact degree of force desired.

(e) Progressive zone advertising.

Newspaper advertising may be extended progressively by zones, hand-in-hand with and aiding the extension of distribution.

(f) Seasonable by territory.

Seasonable variations in the demand in different territories may be taken into account in newspaper advertising.

(g) Price variations.

When necessary, different prices may be quoted in different territories through newspaper advertising.

(h) Localized copy.

Newspaper copy and illustrations may be made to meet precisely, and take advantage of, local conditions.

(i) Traceability.

The effect of newspaper advertising may be traced by observing the course of sales in each community.

(j) Try-out and test campaigns.

At low cost, tests may be made of the medium, the product, the selling plan or the copy approach at typical points before embarking on a costly general campaign.

THE DAILY NEWSPAPER IS THE MEDIUM OF THE MOMENT—THE AXIS OF OPPORTUNITY; FLEXIBLE, POWERFUL AND INSTANTANEOUS IN ITS ABILITY TO CREATE SALES.

ADVICE AS TO THE BEST WAYS AND MEANS OF USING IT WILL BE GIVEN TO THOSE WHO INQUIRE OF US; OR, CONSULT ANY RECOGNIZED ADVERTISING AGENCY—A LIST SUPPLIED ON REQUEST.

REVIVE FLAX GROWING

Bathhurst, N.B. June 13.—There is a well-organized effort being made in New Brunswick this year to revive, the growing, espicially in the North of the Province and in the county of Gloucester, of flax, farmers who have been accustomed to sow a "patch" are putting in two or three acres this year. The Premier, Hon. W. E. Foster, promised a great deal of assistance to the work of establishing flax growing in the Province, during the last session of the Legislature when the whole matter was carefully investigated.

AIR STUNTER KILLED; PILOT MAY DIE TOO

Calgary, Alta., June 13.—Alf. Mabee an air stunter, was killed and A. Fleming, pilot, was probably fatally injured, when the latter's machine crashed from a height of a 1000 feet while flying yesterday afternoon at Bowness Park. The crash was witnessed by hundreds of spectators.

VEIN 60 FEET WIDE WITH FREE GOLD

The Pas, Man., June 10.—Confirmation was given to the report of an important and rich gold strike at Elbow Lake in the Athapapusow mineral area, and east of the famous Gordon dyke discovered last summer. The find was made by Murray brothers about three weeks ago, causing a number of mining men to hasten to the spot. Some have returned here with a remarkable account of a vein sixty feet wide, wherein free gold is seen scattered all about. The vein is capped by an iron formation and it outcrops at several points.

Mining men here view the discovery as the most important recently made in Canada.

EASY TO RAISE BANDIT ARMY

Manuel Lozado Made Hunger His Chief Recruiting Sergeant and Thereby Rose to Power.

Manuel Lozado, the Mexican bandit, whose remains now lie in the cemetery near Tepic, in the newly made state of Nayarit, gave the key to the whole Mexican problem by his strategy in organizing armies, declares Charles Johnston, in The Atlantic. Lozado was notable because he waged war against three presidents, Benito Juarez, Lerdo de Tejada and Porfirio Diaz, and because he raised and equipped armies of peons strong enough to attack great cities like Tepic and Guadalajara, in a struggle lasting from 1870 to 1877.

It was Lozado's custom, when a new campaign against the central authorities was in contemplation, to send his bodyguard down from their lairs in the high Sierras to the fertile plains, with orders to cut down all banana plants, thus destroying the chief food supply of the native villages.

The peons starved for a while, and watched their women and children starve, then they came up the mountains in a body and begged Lozado to enroll them in his army of bandits to lead them forth to plunder, which for them meant simply food.

This gives a clew to the situation, declares Mr. Johnston, because it shows that banditry and plunder are the last resources of hungry peons, pressed beyond the verge when their meager sustenance is cut off.

MARKS RICHELIEU'S TRIUMPH

Why Eleventh Day of November Is Known in French History as the "Day of Dupes."

Few people know that the whimsical title, "The Day of Dupes" has been given to the 11th of November, 1630, and that it was so named on the occasion of the triumph of Cardinal Richelieu over his enemies, who imagined they had cast him to the ground, never to rise again.

Marie de Medici had prevailed upon her weakling son, Louis XIII, to dismiss him from office as prime minister, and this scheming woman had no difficulty in persuading the fickle and weak-minded king to carry out her wishes, and, furthermore, to raise to that dignity Richelieu's mortal enemy, the Marshal De Merillac.

Richelieu was prevailed upon by his friends to make one last effort to prevent the ruin which seemed ready to fall on him. With this view he proceeded to Versailles, then only a small hunting lodge recently purchased by Louis, where he had an interview with his sovereign.

The result was that the king again surrendered himself into the cardinal's hands, and Richelieu succeeded in binding the chains on Louis more firmly than ever, establishing himself with a sway which was absolute. He did not fail to take vengeance on his enemies, and among others the Marshal De Merrillac was brought to the scaffold.

Football Language in Britain.

However the ordinary journalist may have to curb his pen, the descriptive reporter of football can still give rein to his fancy and his rhetoric with little fear of the sub-editorial blue pencil.

To him a match is usually a "tourney," and the ball lends itself to such varied description as "the leather," "the oval," "the globe," or even the "bounding sphere." If the players hail from Sheffield they are "knifegrinders;" from Northampton, "cobblers;" from Luton, "strawhatters;" from Reading, "biscuiters;" from Devonshire, "cider drinkers," and from West Ham, "hammers."

The swift runner is "twinklefooted," or has "brilliant hoofs." If a player is skillful in head play, he "uses the cranium with brilliant effect," or does "good brain-box work." If the ball hits a man on the nose, he "receives a smacker from the spheroid on his proboscis."

Brother Dutton's Noble Work.

The American secretary for the Mission to Lepers estimates that there are not fewer than 2,000,000 lepers in the world, 6,000 of whom have been converted to Christianity. Apropos of this, the Hawaiian legislature has offered to pension Brother Joseph Dutton, who succeeded Father Damien at the leper settlement on Molokai. Brother Dutton has not been off the leper island for 38 years, and has spent $10,000 of his own money to relieve the poor creatures among whom he lives. But he refused the pension, wishing no reward and expecting to work on to the end in the cause to which he long ago devoted his life. The world has heroes of whom it rarely hears; and it cannot be otherwise than that such self-sacrifice must win a higher reward than governments or the plaudits of peoples can confer.

Jewelry Awaiting Purchasers.

A note of interest from London concerns a pearl necklace, valued at $1,500,000, which is in London awaiting sale. It is probable that the necklace will be offered by public auction. The pearls are remarkable not only for their size, but for their delicate tinting. There is at the present time much very valuable jewelry in process of realization on behalf of Russian and other owners, who have no option but to convert it into cash.

FEW SEE SECOND CENTURY

Not Many Claiming to Be Over One Hundred Years of Age Can Prove It.

Sea serpents being out of date, and "wild men" somewhat exhausted of interest, there comes the recent story of a Kentucky man who celebrated the 131st anniversary of his birth by taking his first motor car ride.

When a report of this sort is investigated it usually is found to lack proof.

Some years ago, at a meeting of the Actuarial Society of America, its president, John K. Gore, said: "The well-known cases of individuals commonly believed to have lived a century and a quarter and even much longer have not in any instance been verified."

There is usually temptation to exaggerate the age of extremely old persons; often they do it themselves. Not very long ago a man in England, interested in the study of human longevity, offered $5,000 to any man or woman living at the time who could prove that he or she was 100 years old or more. There were hundreds of claimants, but in no case was irrefragable proof submitted.

In point of longevity, women are far ahead of men, generally speaking. They are more resistant to diseases and they live longer. And yet women are called the "weaker sex." So they are, muscularly, but it is manifest that they are the stronger sex constitutionally. They possess what biologists term greater "viability"—a superior ability to survive.

MORGAN NOT ALWAYS HARD

Great Financier Proved He Had Kindly Heart as Well as a Keen Business Mind.

There is no better test of a man's bigness than his way of handling subordinates who make mistakes.

J. Pierpont Morgan, the elder, had a clerk who, living beyond his means, sought to make up the balance through speculation; and, having failed, helped himself to the firm's money.

The culprit was called into Mr. Morgan's private office.

He expected arrest. Instead he was told to go home and tell his wife all about it. "And tomorrow morning," said Mr. Morgan, "see me again."

The clerk obeyed, and Mr. Morgan, to the young fellow's amazement, handed him in bills the full amount of his peculation—$5,400—with: "Put that back where you took the other from. It is a loan from me, and I expect you to return it as soon as you can. None of the other clerks know anything about it. Let me see if you can't be a man."

After many months the youngster restored to Mr. Morgan the last dollar of the debt.

After counting the pile of bills on his desk, to which he had added those just given him, Mr. Morgan observed:

"Well, my boy, it was a bit harder saving it than losing it, I'll warrant. Now take it home and give it to your wife. It's a safe bet that she saved most of it."—Boston Post.

One Car to 24 Persons.

There is a motor vehicle in the United States for every 24 persons; in Canada the proportion is probably one to each 50; in England, one to 200; in Denmark, one to 300, and in France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and Germany about one to every 400, says the Compressed Air Magazine, New York. In 1917 it was estimated that Italy had one car to each 1,000 of population; Portugal to each 1,690, Spain to each 1,900, Austria-Hungary, to each 2,650, and Russia to each 5,000. In Australia there was one for each 140 of population, and in South America, as a whole, one for each 1,430.

Many a minor city in the United States has more cars than the whole of China or Japan.

Famous Art Collection.

The unique collection of Chinese works of art made by the late Li Hung Chang, one-time viceroy of China, which for years collectors tried vainly to acquire, has finally been bought by a Swedish syndicate. The purchase price is understood to have been more than a million krone (nominally about $280,000), but the intrinsic value of the collection is incalculable.

Li Hung Chang died in 1901. He had a collection of works of art larger than anything of its kind in the empire. It included numerous old paintings, bronzes of great worth and ancient ceramics. The bronzes date from a time before Christ, and the paintings were done from the tenth to the twelfth centuries.

Radium Economy.

The use of radium on a large scale therapeutically involves danger of loss, and this factor has been a big one in inducing hospitals and clinics with a gram or more of the element in use to utilize radium emanation instead of applicators containing the radium itself. There has been installed in a Pittsburgh laboratory an elegant and useful apparatus for the collection, purification and tubing of radium emanation obtained from a salt of the element. It differs from earlier apparatus in that liquid air is replaced by chemical means of purifying the emanations, which are felt to be more reliable.—Scientific American.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

A lad from Lakeport was brought before Magistrate Millar of Colborne, charged with loosening the brakes on a freight car that was standing on the C. P. R. siding at Lakeport and allowing it to run down the main line. Fortunately it was noticed by the trainmen on an incoming train in time to avert a serious accident. The case was adjourned for a few days.

PAINFULLY INJURED

Eric Morse, son of Mr. W. H. Morse of Trinity College, Port Hope, was painfully injured on Monday. Eric was walking on the sidewalk when a young man came along on a motor cycle. Evidently he lost control of the machine and swerved to the sidewalk. Morse was pinned between the machine and the iron fence and sustained severel very painful injuries. The machine struck with such force that a portion of the iron fence was torn down.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

At the regular meeting of the City Council to be held this evening, in addition to the routine and other business to be transacted, the Coleman Ward school matter will probably again be in the limelight.

ROTARY CLUB

Belleville Rotary Club met as usual Monday noon at the Hotel Quinte and the session was interesting and profitable. President Moffatt occupied the chair and visitors included Mac. Jamieson, of St. Paul, a Belleville Old Boy; and W. G. Ryan, of Toronto. In the absence of Sandy the Singer, the vocal program was directed by Stewart Robertson and Jimmie Bone Past President Gus Porter was given leave of absence to visit England, where with Mrs. Porter, he will spend the summer. Judge Wills voiced the feeling of the members in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Porter a safe journey and a pleasant visit in the old country.

ELECTRIC CAR SERVICE

The electric car service between Belleville and Trenton will be withdrawn on Monday June 20, the last trips being made on Sunday according to schedule. This service has proved very successful and a great convenience to residents of both Belleville and Trenton as well as the district intervening and a strong effort to have the service continued with a car of this type would meet with general favor.

INSURANCE TALK

BODY BROUGHT HERE

The body of Mrs. Aris, who died at Toronto, arrived here at noon to-day and was taken to Albury cemetery, Prince Edward county for interment.

SHORTAGE OF POWER

By the bursting of a dam at the Healy Falls generating power station, that station was flooded on Saturday night entailing a loss of upwards of $10,000 and it will be some days before the damage done is repaired. Owing to the shortage of power some industrial concerns in this city are affected and are running short time. This will be remedied as soon as it is possible to do so.

"OUR NEW WORLD"

Dr. John C. Ferguson, an old Belleville boy, and for several years past, adviser to the President of China, will arrive in this city to-morrow afternoon to pay a brief visit to his old home. He is now en route to China and will remain here until the following afternoon. The Forum Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has secured the consent of Dr. Ferguson to deliver an address at a noon-day luncheon on Thursday, June 16. The speaker has chosen for his subject: "Our New World", all members of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary and Lions' clubs and all old friends of Dr. Ferguson are especially invited to attend. As Dr. Ferguson is one of the outstanding Canadians of our time, and a figure of international prominence, his address is being looked forward to with eager interest and a large audience will likely be present to hear him.

Gov't Inspection of Cheese For Export

BELLEVILLE CHEESE BOARD ADVERSE TO HAVING CHEESE INSPECTED AT MONTREAL FOR EXPORT

A committee of the members of the Belleville Cheese Board consisting of Messrs. P. M. Mitchell, J. W. Crews, Geo. Nicholson, Alex Moore and F. J. Knight was appointed to draft a resolution relative to notifying the Dominion that the Board were not in favor of Government inspection of cheese at Montreal for export. The Committee at the Board meeting on Saturday last, presented their report as follows:

To The Hon. Dr. Tolmie,
Minister of Agriculture,
Ottawa, Ontario.

Dear sir,—

We the members of the Belleville Cheese Board of Trade having heard that an Act has been passed authorizing the inspection of all cheese at Montreal strongly desire to place ourselves on record as protesting against the enforcement of the Act for the following reasons:

1. That we have been working for years to obtain factory inspection, which system has proven very satisfactory.

2. The cheesemakers would not guarantee quality after the cheese had left the factory and this would make it harder to get makers.

3. The delay and confusion of waiting for payment of cheese until the report of quality had been sent back would be another source of annoyance and loss.

4. That owing to the fact that if any cheese were not classed as Finest they could be handled to far better advantage locally.

5. For the past forty years farmers, cheesemakers and exporters have been co-operating in their efforts to produce cheese of the finest quality, and have succeeded in establishing in the markets of Great Britain such a reputation for cheese made in the Bay of Quinte district as enables them to sell their output at a higher price than can be obtained for cheese made in any other part of Canada.

6. If cheese sold on the boards in the Counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland and Lennox and Addington has to go to Montreal for inspection it will lessen the competition between buyers, as many of the local exporters would be obliged to cease exporting as they could not compete with Montreal buyers, whose warehouses are in Montreal. This would result in a heavy loss to exporters who have warehouses for storing cheese in Belleville, and their absence as buyers from the local boards would mean lower prices for cheese offered for sale by the farming community in this district.

7. If cheese must be graded before being exported, we respectfully request you as Minister of Agriculture to protect the interests of the farmers by having Belleville made a centre for inspection. This you will be justified in doing as millions of dollars worth of cheese is shipped annually on through bills of lading from Belleville to ports in Great Britain,

At the Cheese Board meeting on June 4th, 1921, there was appointed by the Board a delegation to meet the Minister of Agriculture in person, to place their views before the Government on this subject which is very important to the Dairymen of Prince Edward and Hastings Counties. The delegation will consist of the salesmen of the various factories of the district, those from Belleville Board being about fifty in number.

We, as the committee, would ask you to have the delegation meet you at Ottawa, before definite action is taken regarding grading of cheese at Montreal or other centres,

FRANK J. KNIGHT,
Secretary of Committee.

WIN FOR LINDSAY

Peterboro', June 12—The loose fielding of the "Pete's" and their inability to hit Oulette when hits counted gave Lindsay a comparatively easy victory over Peterboro' by 7 to 3 here Saturday afternoon in a Central Ontario League game. Four of the home team's six misplays were responsible for six of the visitor's runs. After bunching hits with two compliments in the first innings for three runs, the "Pete's" were only able to collect three hits from Oulette during the rest of the game.

AN UNFAILING WAY TO BANISH HAIRS

(Beauty Notes)

Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.

FIRST OSTEOPATHIC HOSPITAL BURNS

The building in Kirksville, Mo., on South Fifth Street in which Dr. Andrew Taylor Still opened his first hospital in 1895 was burned on February 16. At the time of the tornado in 1898 it was the only hospital in Kirksville and many victims of the storm were treated there.

Kirksville now with its four splendid hospital buildings in affiliation with the American College of Osteopathy represents for the Osteopathic profession what Rochester, Minn., does for the medical.

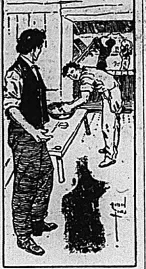
right thing surrounded by a gang like I've been in—a crowd that thinks it beneath a fellow to work."

"They wouldn't laugh at you if you were the proprietor o' that grocery," said Hillyer. "Look here, Bob; I've got a lot o' money lent out on a sight wuss security than yore word, an' ef you'll give me yore note fer two thousand I'll make the rate o' interest so you kin stand it, an' I'll give you jest as long time as you want to pay it off."



Bob went to the wash pan in the corner of the room and cleansed his hands.

Bob Hanks' eyes were wide open in astonishment. He caught his breath and gazed alternately at George and the merchant.

"Oh, Mr. Hillyer, are you in earnest?" he asked finally.

"So much in earnest that I'm goin' to close this thing inside o' the next ten minutes, 'fore somebody else comes along an' buys Sandford out. George, make out the note, an' when Bob's put his name to it stick it in the safe. I'm goin' uptown an' tell Sandford it's a deal."

"Mr. Hillyer!" Bob cried out as the merchant was leaving the office, but the old man did not look round.

"Let him alone!" said George Buckley to his friend. "If you had lived with him as long as I have you'd know that you are giving him the keenest pleasure he ever had. He believes in you, and so do I, Bob."

Bob Hanks turned around once or twice in an aimless way and then said under his breath, "Well, I'll be blamed!"

CHAPTER X.

THE next morning Kenner came into the office and greeted Hillyer and George with a smile. "I'll be hanged ef I don't believe Bob Hanks has struck his proper element," he said. "He's turned that old store upside down already. Seed 'im burnin' a half bushel measure o' live cockroaches jest now. Stores all about had to shet the'r doors, thar was sech a stench. Bob's got his coat off an' up to his neck in business. A feller told me Bob was thar at 5 o'clock to open up an' swept out hisse'f. I sorter call that a good joke on Lib. He's always keepin' his eye peeled fer somebody to lend money to an' overlooked his own boy."

Half an hour later Hanks slouched in and sat down in his accustomed place at the stove. Kenner was eying him curiously, a quizzical smile playing on his face. Hanks swung his foot to and fro, his unlighted cigar in his hand, till he caught Hillyer's glance, then he grunted:

"Thought you was powerful smart, didn't you?" he said dryly.

"I don't know as I did," replied Hillyer, flushing a little.

There was silence for a moment, then Hanks said, "Well, you'll see whar yore money's gone ef you'll keep a watch out."

"It'll be gone clean to the Indian Territory as soon as Sandford's packed up his effects."

Hanks grunted again. "You never 'd 'a' done it ef you hadn't 'lowed I'd make it good, but I'll tell you now you'll never git a cent on that dratted note from me."

"I never expect to," said Hillyer, smiling agreeably.

"Oh, that'll do to talk," answered Hanks. "You think, though, that I'd never stand by an' see a body lose by a child o' mine; but this is different. I was fetchin' up that boy accordin' to my lights, an' you come in an' interfered."

"He told me he was twenty-one," said Hillyer, still amused, "and I saw a chance to lend 'im some money. That's all there is to it."

"Oh, well, you kin afford a little loss like that," retorted Hanks, "an' when Bob's run through with the pile I kin show everybody I was right in the stand I tuck with 'im."

As it was a busy hour, nothing more was said on the subject. A ragged farmer in a slouched hat came in to talk to Hanks about mortgaging a mule and a milk cow for his next year's supplies, and Hanks went out to see the mule and hear a minute description of the cow—her age, weight, progeny and habits.

That afternoon, as George and the merchant were closing the warehouse to go to supper, Kenner came along on the way to his boarding house. "They say old Lib's been hangin' round Bob's store all day watchin' 'im like a hawk," he informed them, with a laugh. "He cayn't hide his interest. As soon as Bub ud make a sale the old man ud run up to the cash drawer an' count the change an' ask the cost o' his article. He's neglectin' his own matters. I'll swear it's funny. [illegible] talked with one man today he has with forty about Bob's venture. He wanted to find out what folks thinks, an' he's literally astonished to find so many believe Bob knows what he's a-doin'.

"I seed 'im a-standin' in Bob's door watchin' Bob an' Heneker Brothers biddin' agin one another to buy a load o' mountain chickens. I spoke to Lib, but he jest kept chawin' his tobacco, so much absorbed he didn't hear me. Then we seed the feller start to drive up to Bob's door, an' old Lib clapped his hands together an' said: 'By gum! Bob got 'em!' But he sorter cooled down when the chickens was unloaded an' he heard Bob had bid 15 cents apiece all round. He grabbed Bob as he was passin' an' said, 'Say, don't you think you went too steep on that load?' Bob was purty red, anyway, from lifting at the coops—he was so anxious to get 'em in his shebang—an' he got redder, but he pulled the side o' his face down an' looked to see that the feller couldn't hear, an' said: 'Sh! I've got 'em already sold in Atlanta at 20 cents apiece, an' that galoot's goin' to take his pay in coffee at 18 cents a pound—coffee that cost 10 in New Orleans. You see whar I come in, don't you?'

"'You better go it sorter slow at the start,' Lib said, but he was simply tickled to death. I'll swear it was fun to watch 'im! He'd rather see that boy learn how to handle money than fer 'im to be elected governor o' this state."

Old Hanks seldom left his home after supper, but that evening he dropped in at Hillyer's, finding the merchant and his wife before a cheerful fire in the sitting room. He came in awkwardly, but his self possession was a thing he always had with him. Kenner had once said that Hanks could sell scrap iron in a pigeon tailed coat and white vest and never realize the oddity of his appearance. His brogan shoes were untied, as if he had started to go to bed and changed his mind.

"I see Bob's got that store to goin'," he said dryly. "I've been sorter watchin' 'im today. I hardly know what to make of 'im."

Hillyer looked knowingly at his smiling wife and replied:

"So he's got opened up, has he?"

"Opened up? I reckon he has; tuck in ninety odd dollars today, an' the Lord only knows what profit he'll average. I don't reckon Bob does, from what I observed, though he ain't losin' so fur."

JAP WOMEN DEMAND MUCH

Their Ideal Man Would Have to Be Something Above the Ordinary Run of Humanity.

The Japanese magazine Chouquovo Gohano (virtuous woman) invited its Japanese women readers to send in their opinions on what constitutes an ideal husband. Here are the thirteen virtues they demanded of a Jap hubby:

He should not be greedy.

He should not spend too much time "primping."

He should have a manly appearance.

He should not be too familiar with other women.

He should express himself clearly.

He should make prompt decisions.

He should have high ideals.

He should never show himself in the kitchen.

He should never criticize the coiffure or the gowns of his wife or any other women.

He should not bore his wife by telling her all his pet tastes.

He should not drink too much.

He should not be a dude.

He should not be too jealous.

The symposium aroused the humor of the Japanese males, who sent in some suggestions of what constitutes an ideal wife. They paraphrased the last of the thirteen points and all agreed that "she should not be too jealous."

Invisible War Vessels.

Owing to the enormous range and accuracy of modern naval guns it is highly important for small war craft which depend upon speed rather than armor plate to weather the attacks of the enemy to render themselves as invisible as possible. Heretofore a dark-gray paint has been considered the best color to apply to a war vessel. Now experiments are being made with varieties of colors. Ideas are being borrowed from the mimicry of nature. We find certain animals coated with spotted fur and other ones upon the nature of their environment. In exactly the same way certain naval authorities are trying to render torpedo boats invisible by painting wavy stripes on them, which at great distance are scarcely distinguishable from the natural wave formation of the ocean's surface.

Bidding for Wine Tanks.

Wooden wine tanks made useless in California by prohibition still can be counted in the asset column of their owners. Buyers from Argentina, France and Italy, are already bidding for well-seasoned oak tanks. Redwood tanks are not as popular, but may be purchased by the foreign buyers.

H. Romera-Day of Buenos Aires is the first foreign buyer in the field, says an exchange. He is trying to obtain options before Pierre Martens of Paris and M. Colini of Rome arrive in California. Only 4,000 of the 14,000 wine tanks in the state are of oak. It is said Mr. Romera-Day is authorized to buy a shipload of knocked-down tanks for shipment to his country.

Salaries of all Teachers in City Schools Fixed

AT A SPECIAL MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD SALARIES FIXED—SCALE OF WAGES ANNOUNCED — LARGE INCREASES GRANTED IN SOME CASES—DEBATE RATHER LIVELY AT SOME PERIODS—PLAIN FACTS STATED—SESSION LASTED UNTIL MIDNIGHT.

At a special meeting of the School Board held last night there was a lengthy and at times a somewhat animated debate in reference to the Federated Teachers' Association, and the salaries asked by the High School teachers, who are members of the Association. The Board, which was in session until near the midnight hour, fixed the salaries of all the teachers, also caretakers of the schools. In nearly all cases teachers have been granted an increase.

Members present were: Messrs. A. McGie, chairman, C. M. Reid, C. Whelan, F. Sharpe, H. W. Ackerman, G. T. Woodley, F. S. Deacon, W. R. McCreary, J. A. Borbridge, D. V. Sinclair, Col. Ponton, T. H. Marshall, J. A. Higgs and Dr. Marshall.

Principal MacLaurin of the High School addressed the Board in reference to the Teachers' Federation Association, and the salaries which had been stipulated to be paid to High School teachers.

Col. Ponton intimated that opposition to the Federation of Teachers Associate would emanate from the universities and would extend to school Board. School Boards should say what the salaries of the teachers should be individually.

Mr. F. S. Deacon said the question was, was the Board prepared to accept the ultimatum the Association as to what the salaries shall be. The Principal of the High School, he thought should not be a member of the federation.

Mr. Affleck, teacher of the High school stated that the staff had in no way bound Mr. McLaurin. He is free to act in his duties as Principal although a member of the Federation. The obligation is that in city schools the minimum was to be $2,000 a year.

Mr. C. M. Reid—There is no reason why a teacher should get $300 more than he or she would get at Picton, Trenton and places of that size. Personally he did not think the Principal should be a member of the Federation, but rather be free.

Mr. Ackerman thought there was some injustice in this matter as regard the salary question.

In answer to a question, Mr. MacLaurin stated that a teacher now receiving $1,900 a year could be re-engaged at that salary and could go on teaching or resign.

The Board adopted the following schedule of salaries to be paid:

British Miners Vote to-Day on Settlement of Strike

RESULT OF VOTE TO BE ANNOUNCED ON FRIDAY—OWNERS SUGGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF NEW STANDARD MINIMUM WAGE BY RAISING 1914 SCALE BY TWENTY PER CENT—OWNERS OFFER TO SURRENDER THEIR PROFITS PROPORTIONATELY.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 15.—The British miners today voted on the proposals of the mine owners for a settlement of the coal diggers' strike, which has been in progress since April 1. All coal fields in the United Kingdom were affected by the decision to take a ballot on the acceptance or rejection of the mine owners' terms, and the question was placed before the miners without any recommendations from the conference of delegates which met here on June 10th.

The result of the vote will be announced on Friday. The owners' final proposals included the establishment of a new standard minimum wage by raising the 1914 scale by twenty per cent.. It was provided that this percentage would be calculated on the output for March last, and would continue in effect for one year. The owners offered to surrender their profits proportionately to assistance received by the various districts, and the new district boards would, if the proposals should be accepted, redistribute the districts on an economic instead of a geographic basis. The National Wage Board would then determine the ratio of profits to wages in each district. The owners suggested as an alternative that a new wage standard be settled by the National Wage Board or by arbitration.

Many Canadians Will Witness Big Battle

New York, June 15.—(By Canadian Press).—At least 2,500 Canadian fight fans will witness the Dempsey-Carpentier world's championship battle. Reservations for that number of seats have been received from across the border, according to the officials in charge of the seat sale. The total number of Canadians who will attend it was said, will likely be in excess of that number, many tickets having been purchased by Dominion fight enthusiasts through friends in New York.

The majority of the Canadians who have bought seats are residents of Eeastern Canada. A party from Toronto, headed by P. J. Mulqueen and including Mayor T. L. Church will occupy fifteen ringside seats. George Kennedy, well-known Montreal sports man, has arranged for a party of fifty. Ringside seats have been secured and a special train will bring the sportsmen from Montreal.

Western Canada will be well represented. A party of 100 will start from Winnipeg and, according to information here will included fight enthusiasts from many western cities.

Arrival of sportsmen from Ontario, will be facilitated through the running of two special trains from Buffalo.

Fight officials have announced that among fifteen European newspaper correspondents, who will attend the fight are: Jeffrey Farnol, famous writer, who will represent the Daily Mail; Tom Webster, Daily Mail cartoonist and Harvey Preston, Evening News and Weekly Despatch; all of London, England.

Thrilling Rescue at Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 15.—Earl Parnell, eight years old, was lifted from a narrow ledge half way down the river gorge bank last night in one of the most thrilling rescues ever witnessed here. Had the boy moved a few inches as he lay there stunned he would have been dashed to death on the rocks below. The boy had been playing on the edge and had fallen over. A man named Radford, formerly a British sailor, attached a rope to a telegraph pole, and with the boy's father, clambered down the precipitous cliff with a hammock, in which they placed the injured lad. After what seemed hours the two men slowly climbed up the cliff to safety, cheered by a large crowd. The boy will recover.

Agrarian Minister Cancels His Tour

CRERAR'S WIRE CAME JUST AS ITINERARY PLANS WERE COMPLETED

Toronto, June 15.—Hon. T. A. Crerar's tour of the Province in company with Premier Drury has been indefinitely postponed. U.F.O. headquarters received a telegram late yesterday afternoon from the Agrarian leader stating that it would be impossible for him to come to Ontario for the 1st week of July as arranged. The telegram did not give particulars, but mentioned the fact that explanations would be given in a following letter.

The abrupt message from Mr. Crerar came just in time, for the itinerary of the trip had been approved and was about to be given to the press. The Farmers' Sun, which went to press yesterday afternoon was all set to publish the glad tidings.

The trip was to have covered ten days, starting at Strathroy on the afternoon of July 1st and continuing until the 10th. Two meetings daily were planned and among the other places to be visited were Port Rowan, Caledonia, Welland or Niagara, Simcoe, Oshawa, Peterboro, Smith's Falls, Brockville, Napanee, Belleville, Toronto, Arthur, Brampton and Walkerton.

U.F.O. officials stated last night that the message was regarded as a postponement of the tour. The presence of the Grain Commission in the West with its possibilities of trouble for the grain growers, of which organization Mr. Crerar is the head, is thought to be one explanation of the Agrarian leader's change of plans.

Takes Steps to Avert Strike

London, June 15.—Steps toward averting a great engineering stoppage affecting a million and a half men, were taken this morning, when the Minister of Labor, Thomas MacNamara, held a conference with representatives of the employers and employes.

The result of the conference was that the employers agreed to postpone issuing lockout notices from to-morrow until the end of June in order to enable the union to submit the employers latest proposals to a ballot. Government intervention was decided upon after negotiations between the employers and employes on the proposed wage reductions broke down yesterday.

Hospital Board Ask Co.Council For Aid

MORE MONEY NEEDED FOR THE HOSPITAL—MATTER TO BE CONSIDERED BY COUNCIL

At the County Council session on Tuesday afternoon, after Warden Embury had given his address a number of communications were read and referred to their respective committees.

Aid For Hospital

A deputation of ladies of the W.C.A. of the city, accompanied by Judge Wills, Mr. R. Tannahill and Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, waited upon the Council relative to a grant to the Belleville hospital.

Judge Wills said the proposition to be submitted to the County Council was a business one relative to the Belleville hospital. There had been deficits in the conducting of the Belleville hospital, some of which had been met with bequests, but the expenses were increasing yearly. There was only one hospital in Hastings County. The deficit this year is between $8,000 and $10,000. At the last session of the Legislature an Act was passed whereby municipalities may levy a tax of 2 mills towards the support of hospitals. He would suggest that the members of the Council visit the hospital and see it in operation. It is conducted as economically as it is possible to do so. We should, as citizens do our share in maintaining this worthy institution. His Honor gave statistics which showed that from October 1st, 1919, to October 1st, 1920, there were admitted to the hospital 1314 patients, 420 of whom were from the County. Since October 1st, 1920 to June 1st of this year, 916 patients have been admitted and 323 were from the County.

Mrs. W. C. Mikel, President of the W.C.A. addressed the Council relative to the needs of the hospital, and the necessity there was for financial assistance to meet current expenditures.

Mr. W. E. Wiggins suggested that the Warden appoint a committee to confer with the ladies in regard to the matter and meet at the hospital at 7-30 Wednesday evening.

The suggestion was concurred in, and many of the councillor's expect to meet at the hospital Wednesday night.

Council adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

RIORDAN FINANCING

New York, June 11-(By Canadian Press)-Discussing the Riordan company financing, in which an issue of $5,500,00 ten-year 8 percent mortgage bonds is being offered to shareholders at 90 with a bonus of $750 par value bond, the Wall Street Journal, says:

"The story of Riordan with its large expansive programme conceived when the paper boom was under way across the Canadian border, is typical of the industry. It can, however, be said that the interests which one time controlled it have not hesitated to demonstrate their faith in it by backing it with ther personal fortunes.

"A two months delay has been asked of creditors, to enable the company to dispose of its bond issue. Present indications are that it will be disposed of, as more than half the amount required is in sight. If it can tide itself over the present crisis by obtaining the funds immediately necessary, the company may yet work itself out of it's difficuties."

Employment of Foreigners Discussed by Council

A COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO PROMOTE THE EMPLOYMENT OF LOCAL LABOR—TOO MANY FOREIGNERS EMPLOYED ON SEWER WORK AT PRESENT TIME—PLATOON SYSTEM OF FIREMEN REFERRED TO SPECIAL MEETING OF COUNCIL—MANY MOTIONS INTRODUCED.

At the City Council meeting held Tuesday evening the business transacted was chiefly of a routine nature. Considerable discussion ensued as to the providing of employment for unemployed and regarding foreigners being employed on sewer construction in the city.

The members present were: Mayor Hanna, Aldermen Woodley, Bennett, Treverton, Ballinger, Fisher, Wensley and French.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Reports of committees, communications, etc., were laid on the table, and the council went into committee of the whole on reports, etc., Ald. French in the chair.

The accounts were passed and some recommendations adopted.

A petition for a sanitary sewer on Elm street was concurred in, as it was properly signed.

Mr. Joe Manley asked the Council to have a water service installed on Stone street. He was promised the matter would be attended to. Mr. Manley also stated that work on Bleecker Avenue sewer would be commenced in a few days.

Ald. Ballinger suggested that Station street be fixed up before Bleecker avenue sewer was commenced.

Ald. Treverton said "As soon as we get the roller, Station street will be attended to."

WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED.

Mr. Wm. Parrish addressed the Council relative to providing work for those in the city who are unemployed.

Ald. Bennett—"Is there anything in our contract that called for local men being employed. It was not fair to citizens of Belleville to have outsiders employed in the construction of sewers and other work."

Ald. Ballinger —"Local men have been refused employment when foreigners are employed."

POLICE COURT FINES.

A communication was read from Mr. S. H. Kent, City Clerk of Hamilton, asking Belleville Council to concur in a petition to object to the demand of the Provincial Government that all fines imposed in police court be paid to the Government.

The clerk was authorized to acknowledge the communication and a resolution from the Council will be forwarded to the Hamilton Council.

PLATOON SYSTEM.

Mayor Hanna—"The double platoon system with regard to fire brigades came into force on June 3rd. What is the council going to do about it?"

Chief Brown said he required five more men under the platoon system, which has become law by the government.

Ald. Bennett—"It seems too bad to keep men on duty 24 hours each day."

Chief Brown said the men on the force are very faithful. He also said he had not slept at home for five years. If the platoon system goes into effect it will be a great benefit.

Ald. Ostrom — "A special meeting will have to be held to consider the matter."

Mayor Hanna—"The chairman of the Fire Committee and two other aldermen could take up this matter and report."

Chief Brown said during the time when wages were high some of the firemen were offered much larger wages than they were receiving as firemen. He had hard work at times to keep some of the men. He had applications now and desired to sift them out.

The matter was left over for a special meeting.

INQUIURIES.

Ald. Bennett—"When will Campbell street hill be fixed up? Water is running down the hill."

Mayor Hanna—"This will be attended to."

Ald. Bennett asked the chairman of Public Works about work on the boundary road on McDonald Avenue. The work is being done in a manner that Ald. Bennett did not consider was right and said the city was not getting value for money expended.

Mayor Hanna said he would take the matter up with the county authorities.

Ald. Ballinger said there was a dangerous hole in the sidewalk on Albion street.

Ald. Treverton—I will have it attended to.

Ald. Ostrom—Some branches of trees are overhanging on Pinnacle street and are too close to buildings and should be trimmed.

Ald. Bennett said he would look into the matter and attend to it.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Fisher moved, seconded by Ald. Ballinger, that the building situated on the east side of Front street on the site purchased for a fire hall, be advertised for sale by tender, the same to be removed from the premises within four months from the date of sale.

Ald. French—"Sell the whole property; it is not fit for a fire hall."

Ald. Ostrom—"The Inspector condemned the site."

Chief Brown—"It is a rather congested part of the city."

Ald. Woodley stated he would vote against the motion as the rental more than pays the city's share of pavement, sewer, etc. It would be folly, he said, to throw away the rent the city gets.

Ald. Fisher said his reason for the motion was to get rid of the only frame building in that vicinity. It will increase the value of property in that vicinity if the building is removed. He would be pleased to sell the land if it was not going to be used for a fire hall. It would be a good place to park cars.

Ald. Ostrom thought the press might take up this matter and have it discussed before the Council takes definite action.

Ald. Bennett was willing to sell the property, but not to have the site used for parking cars.

Ald. Woodley would support a motion to sell the property and the buildings thereon.

Ald. Wensley had a number of citizens speak in support of the site for a fire hall.

Ald. Fisher's motion was amended so as to read "building and site" and adopted.

Ald. Treverton moved, seconded by Ald. Wensley, that a sanitary sewer be constructed on Ashley street from Station street to the centre line of Great St. James street, work to be done the Public Works department.

Ald. Bennett thought the sewer should be extended east on Great St. James street.

The motion prevailed.

Ald. Ballinger moved, seconded by Ald. Bennett, that a committee composed of Aldermen Bennett, Ballinger, and Fisher, and the Mayor be appointed to visit the different contractors to ascertain the conditions regarding employing of local labor.

After some discussion the motion prevailed.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Ex-Ald. Simmons addressed the Council in reference to the Council improving the corner of Dundas street west and Highland Avenue.

Ald. French and Treverton said the cost would be probably $500 or $600 to make the improvements and they would not support the proposition.

Ex-Ald. Simmons—"I will sell this corner for $2.00."

A motion prevailed that the matter be referred back to the special committee and the engineer to report upon.

Ald. Ostrom said that the Council should consider the matter of building a sewer in connection with the proposed new school in Coleman Ward. This was preparatory work.

Ald. Woodley—Plans and specifications had been prepared, but he could not say that they had been approved by the provincial authorities.

Some discussion took place to the placing of a granolithic sidewalk on the south side of the extension of Commercial street, around what is known as "the devil's elbow."

A motion prevailed that it be placed on the south side.

Council adjourned.

PEARL WHITE'S DARING STUNT IN NEW PICTURE

Pearl White, as everybody knows, has abandoned the serial picture forever. But she draws on her serial experience for at least on spectacular scene in "The Mountain Woman", said to be a splendid picturization of Charles Neville Buck's novel, "A Pagan of the Hills", produced by William Fox.

During the burning of an immense grain elevator, Miss White climbs down the outside of the grain chute, which hugs a lofty bluff and treats her admirers to another taste of her former serial daring. "The Mountain Woman" will be seen at Griffin's tomorrow to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday. Charles Giblyn was the director, and Corliss Giles plays the leading male part as Jerry O'Keefe, the brave, soft-spoken Kentucky Mountaineer of the story. Others prominent in the cast are Richard Travers and J. Thornton Baston. The settings are said to be picturesque in the extreme.

Another of those original and really funny 2-reel Buster Keaton comedies entitled "Convict 13", and three other selected plays have been arranged for presentation on the same program.

DOUGLAS McLEAN AND DORIS MAY HAVE HAD RAPID RISE

No motion picture star has enjoyed such a meteoric rise into popularity as Thomas H. Ince's youthful co-starring team, Douglac McLean and Doris May. The two established themselves firmly in the film firmament as the result of their very first picture, "Twenty-three and a Half Hours Leave". Their latest vehicle, "Let's Be Fashionable", is being shown at Griffin's to-night for the last time.

It is a breezy comedy, with the scenes laid in a California summer resort and the stars figuring as a young married couple of limited means, who are trying to keep up with the pace set by their more opulent neighbors. Their efforts land them into a laughable mess and upon being extricated they decide it is better to be happy than to be fashionable. "Let's Be Fashionable" was produced by Thoman H. Ince, it is a Paramount-Artcraft release.

"The Quack Doctor", a funny 2-reel Mack Sennett comedy, Screen Snapshots with its glimpses into the private life of famous screen players, a 2-reel drama "Madonna of the Slums", featuring Galli Curci the famous operatic star and Holbrook Blinn, and an interesting Burton Holmes travelogue are being shown in addition to the feature offering.

Editors of Weeklies Visit Lake Louise

STOP OFF AT CHATEAU ON RETURN FROM CONVENTION AT COAST

Lake Louise, Alta., June 15.—The C.P.R. special train carrying about 150 representatives of the Canadian weekly newspapers, under the auspices of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, arrived here this morning. The train was somewhat delayed on account of a stopover being made at Field in order that the party might see the beauties of the Yoho Valley. During the stop at Field an impromptu dance was arranged at the Y.M.C.A., which was formerly one of the hotels along the system of the C.P.R.

While at the coast they visited Butchard's Gardens, Victoria, and the Gorge, and while in Vancouver they paid a visit to Stanley Park, Jericho Beach, and took in the famous marine drive. The party well represents the whole of Canada, from Nova Scotia to British Columbia. Mr. W. R. Davis, President of the association during the past year, was very enthusiastic in his impression of the trip along the C.P.R. from Vancouver. Everybody, he said, was perfectly happy and comfortable, and the scenery was the most magnificent he had ever seen.

On arrival at Lake Louise the party broke into groups, some taking the Brewster ponies to Lake Agnes and Mirror Lake, and some took the drive to Moraine Lake, passing under the gigantic cliffs of Mount Temple and Saddleback.

GOLDEN BRIDGE OF FRIENDSHIP.

An annual commemoration by the seven English-speaking nations on Magna Charta Day, June 15, is the object of a movement originating in the United States which is attracting considerable support among the public men of the nations concerned.

"The object of this commemoration is to perpetuate annually the centenary celebration of the signing of the Treaty of Ghent, interrupted by the world war, and as a memorial to the fundamental unity of purpose of this widespread race, whose responsibilities for the future of the world of democracy are now greater than ever before."

Great Britain and Ireland, Canada, Newfoundland, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and the United States, are designated as the seven English-speaking nations who should join in an annual celebration signifying friendship and good fellowship.

Anything which will tend to deepen the friendship existing between all parts of the British Empire and the United States should not lack enthusiastic support.

It is not desired to make this celebration the occasion of a new public holiday, but to have it observed with articles in the press, programs in the schools and appropriate references in the churches.

OUR FOREFATHERS TOOK THEIR POLITICS STRAIGHT

On the thirtieth anniversary of Sir John A. Macdonald's death, and the lessons to be drawn from more recent events, the Kingston Standard questions whether with its group government and, in spots, its hybridized government, this country is as prosperous and contented as in the old days of straight party politics, and a man was either for or against the government. The Standard does not think it is, and there are in most places those who will agree with it. Then it adds that: in those days a man was what he called himself—a Grit or a Tory. There was no masquerading, no sham parade, nor were there any mock heroics. The trimmer, the side-stepper, the political acrobat and juggler—these were not, or if they were, they were speedily relegatd to what th late President Cleveland characterized as 'innocuous desuetude.' The voter took his politics like some take their liquor, 'straight.'" The conclusion of the article is:

"And it was out of this 'straight' partizanship that the greatest policy with which Canada was ever blessed—the National Policy of Sir John A. Macdonald—was evolved; a policy that ought to safeguard the interests of all the country, manufacturers, merchants and farmers alike, and that made for abundant prosperity and a Greater Canada. Then there was not the same clash of interests are there are today, then no such feeling as today on the part of the agriculturists (and with good reason at times), that their interests are, if not being sacrificed, at least being overlooked, and the interests being given undue preference. Nor were there, as there is today, conflicting and almost irreconcilable interests within the inner circles of the party and a consequent necessity for compromise, as there seems to be today, when we have unity more in name than in fact. Hence in those days we had legislation not along vacillating lines, but along positive lines, and the people were undoubtedly better satisfied than they are today."

CRISP COMMENT

The alarm sent broadcast early in the year that the newest comet would collide with the earth has been dissipated by the latest bulletin from the astronomers stating that the on-rushing comet would miss the earth by a space of about one million miles. Talk about hairbreadth escapes! Eh, what?

Political picnics, so popular in by-gone days, are coming back strong and indications are that all parties will air their views under the trees in the great outdoors. Political picnics have many advantages over indoor rallies. The people can move around at will, get a good look at the speakers, and listen to all or part of the speeches, as it suits them, knowing that the daily paper next day will record the essential parts of the addresses. Meeting and greeting old friends, shaking hands with the politicians, breathing in the genial air of good fellowship, and having a good time generally makes for success in the political picnic.

"Bulk of Estate Gilt-Edge Bonds," says a newspaper heading, in reference to the will of the late William Davies, which disposed of an estate of $1,540,000, of which the bulk was in bonds and debentures. Here, again, we find a millionaire who amassed a fortune largely through carefully investing his funds in conservative securities offering a moderate but reasonably sure return. Even more than the large investor, the small investor should be guided by the principle of placing the idea of gain second to that of security — not so much "how can I make a profit," but rather "how can I safeguard what I have?"—Financial Post.

Wanted—A man of considerable tact and diplomacy and still greater courage to guess or discover the ages of some forty lady teachers throughout the County of Frontenac. In connection with the Teachers' Superannuation scheme the Ontario Department of Education has desired the ages of the teachers of the province. In spite of repeated written requests from the Department, about forty lady teachers in the county have neglected inadvertently, of course, to divulge the date of their birthday. The matter has now been turned over to Inspector Truscott, who deserves the sympathy of all peace-loving men, in the opinion of the Kingston Standard. The inspector will now have some sympathy for the millions who have tried to discover "how old was Ann."

That Attorney General Raney is human after all is evidenced by his action in releasing an aged physician sentenced to thirty days imprisonment for a breach of the O. T. A. after confinement of one week. The Attorney General did a kindly act in that case which should be credited to him.

THE DISAPPEARING DINNER

London Daily Mail

It used to be said that half the energy of the British was expended in giving unnecessary dinners to one another, but the reproach is no longer justified. People entertain freely enough in other ways, but the formal dinner party is becoming more and more a thing of the past. It is at once too expensive and too dull for an age which is compelled to regard economy but eagerly demands to be amused.

ADOPTION OF INSTITUTION

London Daily Chronicle

In the many cases which arise, where for one reason or another the care of the natural parent is not available, it is much better for a child to be adopted into a family than to be brought up in an institution. Not only is it much cheaper, but the child benefits by the more normal upbringing and the nearer approach to a natural human relationship. Only in "cases of clearly-marked serious physical or moral defects" can institutional treatment be justified in principle.

FRANCE'S FAIR TREATMENT

Boston Transcript

Germany could not with reason wish for a fairer treatment than that which the French Government, under Briand's leadership, is giving her. It is now the duty of Berlin to justify Briand's confidence in its good faith by scrupulously fulfilling its obligations. If Germany should break her word, or display a rebellious mood, Briand in all probability would fall, and the guidance of French foreign policy be taken over by the champions of vigorous physical coercion. If this were to happen, Germany would be measurably the loser.

INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION OF ROTARY CLUBS IN SESSION

Edinburgh, Scotland, June 14.—The International Association of Rotary Clubs began its twelfth annual convention here to-day, and will remain in session until Friday. Upwards of 500 delegates from Rotary clubs in Canada and the United States were present.

The principal meetings of the convention are being held in Usher Hall, but two adjoining halls have been engaged for sectional meetings.

The Poets' Corner

THE PATH OF LABOR

Never in a costly palace did I rest on golden bed.
Never in a hermit's covern have I eaten idle bread,
Born within a lowly stable, where the cattle round me stood.
Trained a carpenter in Nazareth, I have toiled and found it good.
They who tread the path of labor follow where my feet have trod;
They who work without complaining do the holy will of God.

Where the many toil together, there am I among my own,
Where the tired workman sleepeth, there am I with him alone.
I, the peace that passeth knowledge, dwell amid the daily strife,
I, the bread of heaven, am broken in the sacrament of life.

—Henry Van Dyke.

LIFE

Life is a mixture of gladness and sadness,
A mixtureof laughter and tears,
Life is a blending of goodness and badness,
And down through the lane of our years
Our feet must go tripping and now and then slipping,
We must pay for our follies with pain,
We must suffer for sinning but make a beginning
Each morning to conquer again.

Life isn't goodness and life isn't badness,
And life isn't laughter or tears,
Heaven's doors are not won by the things we've not done
But the record of all of our years.
We have known sin and sorrow, shall know them to-morrow,
Shall fail in our duties and mourn,
But the chart that God reads is the sum of our deeds,
Which shall show just how well we have borne.

Life isn't praying and life isn't playing,
And life isn't barring the doors,
And remaining within shut away from the sin
And claiming each virtue as yours;
But life is in living, in taking and giving,
In not being afraid of a sin,
In mastering vices and paying their prices,
And rising above them to win.

—Edgar A. Guest.

Re Robert Hiram Reid Estate—Appeal by Annie Frances Reid, widow of Robert Hiram Reid, now wife of Harry Argue, from judgment of Hon. Mr. Justice Latchford delivered March 26th, 1920. The deceased gave his father, Andrew Reid, $3,290 shortly before his death, $600 by handing that sum over to Andrew Reid and $2,690 by constituting a joint account in the Standard Bank at Belleville in the names of the deceased and Andrew Reid. Annie Frances Reid, the widow, and the Official Guardian objected to these gifts on the passing of accounts before His Honor Judge Wills, claiming that they were part of the estate, and the Surrogate Court Judge held that these sums were part of the estate, and the executors must account to the beneficiaries for same. The executors appealed and the Hon. Mr. Justice Latchford set aside the holding of the Surrogate Court Judge and held the gifts were valid. The widow and the Official Guardian then appealed with the result that their appeal was dismissed to-day with costs, and held the gifts are valid and must stand. E. J. Butler for the widow, Official Guardian for infants, W. C. Mikel, K.C., for Andrew Reid and the executors.

CHARM OF WALKING.

Fascination of This Exercise Explained by an Englishman.

"Alpine walks are, I hold, the poetry of the pursuit; I could try to justify the opinion by relating some of the emotions suggested by the great scenic effects; the sunrise on the snow fields; the storm clouds gathering under the great peaks; the high pasturages knee deep in flowers; the torrents plunging through the 'cloven ravines,' and so forth," says Mr. Leslie Stephen in "Studies of a Biographer."

"But the thing has been done before better than I could hope to do it; and when I look back at those old passages in 'Modern Painters' and think of the enthusiasm which prompted to exuberant sentences of three or four hundred words, I am not only abashed by the thought of their unapproachable eloquence, but feel as though they conveyed a tacit reproach. You, they seem to say, are, after all, a poor prosaic creature, affecting a love of sublime scenery as a cloak for more grovelling motives. I could protest against this judgment, but it is better at present to omit the topic, even though it would give the strongest groundwork for my argument.

"Perhaps, therefore, it is better to trust the case for walking to where the external stimulus of splendors and sublimities is not so overpowering. The true charm of walking is most unequivocally shown when it is obviously dependent upon the walker himself. I became an enthusiast in the Alps, but I have found almost equal pleasure in walks such as one described by Cowper, where the view from a summit is bounded, not by Alps and Apennines but by 'a lofty quickset hedge.'

"Walking gives a charm to the most commonplace British scenery. A love of walking not only makes any English county tolerable, but seems to make the charm inexhaustible. I know only two or three districts minutely, but the more familiar I have become with any one of them the more I have wished to return, to invent some new combination of old strolls or to inspect some hitherto unexplored nook. I love the English lakes, and certainly not on account of associations. I cannot 'associate.' Much as I respect Wordsworth, I don't care to see the cottage in which he lived; it only suggests to me that anybody else might have lived there.

"There is an intrinsic charm about the Lake Country, and to me at least a music in the very names of Helvellyn and Skiddaw and Scawfell. But this may be due to the suggestion that it is a miniature of the Alps. I appeal, therefore, to the Fen Country, the country of which Alton Locke's farmer boasted that it had none of your 'darned ups and down' and 'was as flat as his barn-door for forty miles on end.' I used to climb the range of the gogamagogs to see the tower of Ely, some sixteen miles across the dead level, and I boasted that every term I devised a new route for walking to the cathedral from Cambridge.

"I have always loved walks in the Fens. In a steady march along one of the great dykes by the monotonous canal with the exuberant vegetation dozing in its stagnant water, we were imbibing the spirit of the scenery. Our talk might be of senior wranglers or the university crew, but we felt the curious charm of great flats."

A Famous Quotation.

Sir Walter Scott did not write the famous lines, "One crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name." They were written by a much less famous person. Every one knows that they introduce a chapter of Scott's great novel, "Old Mortality," and almost every one supposes that they are his. He did not, indeed, say that they were his, but so many of the verses that he prefixed to the chapters of his novels—often attributing them to Anon—were of his own composition that it was easy to suppose that those were also. Now, however, a fellow Scotsman, Mr. James Rankin, of Galashiels, has discovered the real author. According to a recent letter in a literary contemporary, he discovered the original poem in which the lines appear in an Edinburgh weekly paper published in 1791, and entitled, "The Bee." The poem was written by a certain Major Mordaunt, and was printed twenty-four years before Scott helped himself to the one couplet in it that had any merit whatever. Scott's sure eye had lighted on the golden nugget in the trash.

Caricaturing a Dean.

The famous caricaturist, Sir Leslie Ward, better known as "Spy," tells a story about a sketch that he once drew of Dean Wellesley "Shortly afterwards," says Sir Leslie, "I was introduced to him. 'Pleased to meet you, Mr. Ward,' he said, but his frigid tone somewhat belied his words. 'I don't mind your picture of me at all, for the simple reason that it is quite unrecognizable.' However, I got my own back a few days later," adds "Spy," "when I received a grateful letter from the dean's wife to the effect that, thanks to the caricature, her husband had at last discarded an awful hat that she had been vainly trying to induce him to get rid of."

Conserving Fumes.

The heavy vegetation-killing acid fumes from a copper smelter in Wales are carried up the steep side of a mountain and discharged high above its summit by a smokestack which is a novelty in chimney construction, according to Popular Mechanics magazine. A nearby brook was diverted to flow alongside the long tube, partially submerging it, thereby cooling and condensing most of the rich vapors upon its walls. That this is well worth while is demonstrated yearly at the time of cleaning, when a ton or more of high-grade metal is recovered.

MAY INDICATE OIL

Burns Lake, B. C.—A curious phenomenon was observed in the lake here recently when a spout of water was sent up many yards into the air, probably owing to an explosion of natural gas at the bottom of the lake. A series of these explosions a year ago drew attention to the oil possibilities and lead to the staking of land and installation of drills. Oil seepages have been found here and the lake is often covered with an oily scum. Drilling operations await issuance of government licenses.

LETTER FROM MRS. WAKELIN

Tells Remarkable Story of Sickness and Recovery.

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered greatly from weakness, seemed to be tired all the time, and had no ambition to do anything or go any place. My nerves were in bad shape, I could not sleep at night, and then came a breakdown. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and several of my friends advised me to use it, and it surely put new life into me. Now I am quite able to do all my own work, and I would strongly advise every suffering woman to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."—Mrs. CHARLES WAKELIN, 272 Christie St., Toronto, Ont.]

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for more than forty years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

W.C.A. WANTS $10,000

The Women's Christian Association wrote the Council relative to a grant of $10,000 to pay the deficit in the operation expenses of the Belleville General Hospital for this year. The law has been changed so as to enable Municipal Councils to levy a special rate of 2 mills on the dollar for the erection, equipment and operation of hospitals in addition to the general rate of 25 mills on the dollar. The Association would therefore request the council to levy the said grant by means of the said rate authorized as aforesaid at the last session of the Legislature. The Council decided to leave the matter over until after the court of revision had completed their duties.

SOCIAL WORKERS' REPORT

In spite of all the effort that has been made there are still a comparatively large number of men without steady work, said Miss Myra Smith in her report on the month of May. During the last week several applications for assistance have been made but in only one case was it necessary to send actual help. The W.C.A. is spending $1,000 on the Home for the Friendless. The Association sold the old home for $2,100.

In reply Mr. Porter expressed in choice language his appreciation of the gift and the kindly reference to him by Judge Wills. Mr. Wm. Carnew, was vice-chairman of the proceedings and he delivered a brief address, as also did Messrs. A. Gillen, W. E. Schuster, A. C. McFee, B. L. Hyman, S. E. Carman, S. R. Burrows, J. V. Doyle, W. J. Cook, W. Hume, W. Parkin and H. F. Ketcheson. All the addresses were of a complimentary nature in regard to Mr. Porter, and wishing for him a bon voyage and safe return. During the evening refreshments were served.

REMINDER DISCOVERED OF 1873

Terrace, B. C.—A reminder of the olden days before even the river steamboats plied their way up the Skeena was discovered in Little's Island a short time ago. A cedar tree from which the bark had been stripped when small had years ago been used to write upon. Workmen upon felling the tree and cutting away the overlaying wood found an inscription written in pencil of "E. L. T. (day and month illegible) 1873, Montreal, Canada." The date is authentic as the wood cut away has sufficient annual rings to account for the ensuing years.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE IN DURHAM IS PROBABLE

Port Hope, Ont., June 14.—The Conservatives of Durham will have a candidate in the field at the by-election caused through the retirement of Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell. This seemed to be the general opinion of those present at a meeting of Conservative stalwarts at Orono on Saturday. Some there were who favored giving Bert Reid, the U.F.O. candidate, their support against W. T. R. Preston but others felt that a straight Conservative candidate should be secured. The meeting was thoroughly representative, and everyone present praised unstintingly the work of Hon. Arthur Meighen. It was decided to have the riding thoroughly organized and a meeting to be called next month for the selection of a candidate. The Conservatives feel that even in a three-cornered fight they will be able to hold the seat for the Hon. Arthur Meighen Government.

Toronto Women Forced to Quit

Mrs. Dallidady Was in Wretched Health Before Taking Tanlac—Back At Work Now

"When I started on Tanlac I was in wretched health, but now I'm a well and happy woman," said Mrs. C. Dalliday, 57 Hastings Avenue, Toronto, Ont., well-known employe of the Regalia Co.

"For two years or more I was in a general run-down condition: I had no appetite and what I ate disagreed with me causing gas which pressed around my heart so I could hardly get my breath. I was so nervous that the least unusual noise almost drove me frantic. I hardly ever got a good night's sleep and mornings felt dull and all tired out. Finally I had a nervous breakdown and had to give up work and stay at home. I was so weak that I couldn't even do a little work around the house.

"Other medicines only seemed to make me worse, but Tanlac helped me right from the start and by the time I had finished my first bottle I was so much better I went to work again. I never felt better in my life than I do now. My appetite is splendid, everything I eat agrees with me perfectly, my nerves are steady and I sleep like a child every night and wake up mornings feeling thoroughly rested and refreshed. Tanlac is my 'stand-by' from now on."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store and leading Druggists.

PRIZE WINNING FISH RECIPES

Prizes have recently been awarded in the fish recipe contest instituted last year by the Department of Marine and Fisheries. The contributions from all parts of the Dominion were given expert consideration by Miss Bessie M. Philp, head of the School of Household Science, Macdonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec. Unfortunately a large number of recipes submitted had to be set aside because they lacked the most important feature—originality, and were apparently culled from standard books on cookery. Next to originality, economy of preparation and attractiveness of flavor and appearance were the standards by which the judges were guided. A twenty-five dollar prize was offered in each province and an additional twenty-five dollars for the best recipe in all of Canada.

OVEN FISH.

Miss Muriel F. K. Osborne, aged 15 years, Vancouver, B.C., in addition to winning the prize for British Columbia, won the general award. Her recipe for "West Coast Oven Fish" is herewith reproduced with the suggestion that housewives try it and decide for themselves if the commendation of the judges was well deserved.

"Take one small fresh codfish, skin, cut in pieces and dry with cloth, dip in flour, fry till brown. Take three medium-sized onions and six good-sized potatoes, peel and slice thin. Line casserole with part of the potatoes and onions, sprinkle with salt and pepper and flour, a small quantity of finely chopped parsley, then put in layer of fish. Repeat alternately, putting potatoes and onions last. On top put two slices of fat salt pork or bacon, and barely fill dish with water. Cover and bake one and one-half hours in a slow oven. Bring to the table in the dish in which it has been cooked."

SOUSED MACKEREL.

In only two other provinces were awards made, chiefly due to the absence of originality. In Nova Scotia, Miss Lillian M. Smith, aged 13 years, Yarmouth, captured the prize. Her recipe for "Soused Mackerel" follows:

"Clean a two-pound fresh mackerel by wiping with a damp cloth. Cut in four or six pieces and put in baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pickling spice. Pour vinegar and water over mackerel (there should be enough to cover). Cover and let simmer for three-quarters of an hour. Can be served hot or cold, but it is better served cold. This will keep for several days in the pickle. (If desired, salt mackerel or herring may be used, but omit salt in recipe).

PAN-BROILED PICKEREL.

In Ontario the prize-winning recipe was submitted by Miss Kathleen Baker, aged 15 years, Kingston. Her method of preparing "Pan-Broiled Pickerel" is:

"Clean a pickerel well and wash thoroughly. Dry with clean white cloth. Have drippings and a little butter (or butter alone if it can be afforded) well-heated in frying pan. Dip pieces of fish in milk, sprinkle with salt and pepper, then roll in flour. Lastly, roll it in bread crumbs. Put in grease and fry to a golden brown. Serve hot."

Social and Personal

Miss Helen Hamilton of Port Hope who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Elvidge, 34 Hillside Street, has returned home.

Prof. J. G. Robbins, of Fort Wayne, Ind., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robbins, 24 Bridge street east.

County Court General Sessions

At the opening of the County Court yesterday afternoon two pettit jurymen failed to answer to their names. Judge Deroche stated that he would impose a fine of $20 on each if they were unable to give a good reason for their absence.

Two aliens sought naturalization namely, Michele Dilalla, born 1890, Casa Calenda, Province of Campo Basso, Italy, residing in Thurlow about eight years, track man on Grand Trunk.

Vanilo Tomac, born 1880 Schavatz, Podrensky, Serbia, resident at Point Anne since 1912.

The county judge stated speaking to the assembled people in the court room. "If anyone has an objection to these men, let it be known to any of the officers or myself before the court rises.

Three applications for constables of the County were read and the applications confirmed.

Thomas H. Hardings, of Wollaston.
William Bain, Chief of Trenton.
C. W. Lawrence, Frankford.

FARMER LOSES HEAVILY WHEN HIS BARNS BURN

Chatham, June 14.—The barns and outbuildings, together with several hundred bushels of grain, a large quantity of hay, and farm implements the property of John Crow, Raleigh township, were destroyed by fire early this morning. Two valuable horses were burned to death and two others badly burned. Five cows, quartered in the barnyard, were also slightly burned. The loss will be about $8,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Three Rivers, Que., June 14.—Alfred Robitaille of Three Rivers, a lumberman working along the St. Maurice River, was struck and killed by lightning while he was washing his hands in a camp near a telephone box.

—, nen nold Sandford's trade," said Hillyer. "You kin count on that."

"Well, I reckon he will," said Mrs. Hillyer. "I've changed my account to him from Waters & Co. An' why shouldn't I? Do you reckon I'm not goin' to encourage rail enterprise? Jest the minute he told me he was a-goin' to run a free delivery wagon to take orders an' deliver goods twice a day I put my name down. The idea o' them old fogies waitin' for young Bob Hanks to start a free delivery! Why, the minute I told Mrs. Dugan about it she mighty nigh had a spasm, she was so glad. I seed her ag'in jest before supper. She'd been down an' ordered a whole raft o' stuff she didn't need jest to see 'em come up like they do in cities. She's been trampin' from one end o' town to t'other tellin' folks they won't have to make a step either way to git what they want fer the table. Bob's boy 'll call the first thing in the mornin' an' write down what's wanted, an' up the stuff comes. He's got some little—have you seed them little books he's givin' away fer a body to write orders in? Oh, you have! Well, it's a powerful good idea. Nobody kin dispute the'r account when it's writ in the'r own handwritin'. Mr. Hanks, as shore as yore a-settin' thar, Bob's goin' to succeed."

Hanks looked at the fire. His eye, usually a dead thing, held a twinkle, or was it only the reflection of the flames in the chimney?

"I sorter like his start," he admitted. "I was always afeard o' the influence o' that triflin' set o' boys he was runnin' with, but today Bill Bogle—the wust of the lot—drawed up a chair in front o' the door whar Sandford used to set an' whittle an' started to take a seat, but, bless you, Bob called 'im to taw—told 'im he wasn't a-goin' to have his friends settin' round the front o' the store that a-way—said it didn't look businesslike, an' he was goin' to start right an' sorter hew to the line. Then, ag'in, one o' the clerks that Sandford used to let do purty much as he liked was startin' to light a cigar behind the show case, an' Bob yanked 'im up too. 'Cayn't have no smokin' in the house, Jim,' he said politely. 'We sell firecrackers an' gunpowder, an' have to be careful. Besides, it don't look right durin' business hours, an' ef we was to ketch fire an' burn out we'd want to collect our insurance without bein' accused o' carelessness.'"

"Yes," Hillyer said, his amused glance on the face of his wife, "I believe Bob's goin' to do all right. My daddy used to think I was dead lazy beca'se I didn't like to chop sprouts in the middle o' August as well as I did to play ball twice as hard, but the sprouts was his fun an' the ball game mine. This here's Bob's fun, an' the only way to amount to a hill o' beans is to enjoy what yo're at. You think yo're a model business man, Hanks, but thar's as much fun at the job you have as playin' poker with a full hand. You'd go to sleep sellin' supplies on time fer anybody but yoreself, but yo're wide awake as it is. The truth is, you never tried to find out whar Bob's talent lay."

Hanks drew himself up. He had not smiled during his visit, and he rarely made concessions. He did both now rather sheepishly.

"Well, I've come over to tell you that I'm goin' to take up that note," he said.

"What note is that?"

"Why, the one Bob give you. I reckon I'm able to stand the—the resk as well as you are."

"Well," and Hillyer smiled again at his wife, "I think you've got a lot o' gall to come tell me a thing like that. When did I ever ask you to give up a good loan to me?"

"I think so myself," joined in Mrs. Hillyer, who had caught her husband's drift. "Why, Mr. Hillyer was jest sayin' t'other day that it was mighty nigh impossible to put money out whar it ud be safe an' draw any sort o' interest, an' Bob's got a good payin' cash business."

Hanks shrugged his shoulders. His small smile had vanished; he looked shrewd.

"I reckon I'll have to give Bob the money, then, an' tell 'im to pay it off. I don't want 'im to be owin' anybody."

"Oh, that's entirely a different matter," smiled the merchant. "But you kin bet I ain't a-goin' to transfer any note without knowin' how it would suit my customer."

"An' that's nothin' more'n fair," said Mrs. Hillyer as Hanks rose and started to leave.

The next morning at the warehouse Hanks seemed somewhat preoccupied. Presently in a lull in business and conversation he turned to Hillyer. "I—I mentioned that note to Bob this mornin' at breakfast, an' what you reckon he said? Huh!"

"How do I know?" replied the merchant.

Hanks opened the door of the stove, a cigar in his hand, and began to look for a coal of fire. "It sorter flustered 'im, but he finally said that he believed he'd rather not take my offer; that he wanted to sorter work out his own salvation. What do you think o' that?"

Hillyer shook his head, a pleased expression on his face. He made no reply, but Kenner spoke up. "The boy don't intend to ax you no odds, Lib," he said, "an' I glory in his spunk."

CHAPTER XI.

MAJOR CRANSTON lived in an old fashioned, roomy house at the end of the widest and longest street Darley afforded. The exterior of the house was not very attractive, though it stood on a spacious, well kept lawn, but it was equipped throughout with fine old furniture the Cranstons had brought from Virginia. There were rare pieces of solid mahogany in the big parlor, a piano which was a relic of the days of Washington, and sofas and chairs quite as ancient in appearance. On the white plastered walls hung family portraits in massive gilt frames.

CANADIAN ZINC OUTPUT INCREASING

London, June 15.—A report issued by the Imperial Mineral Resources Bureau shows that the output of zinc from Canadian mines has more than quadrupled since 1916.

Previous to that year the output was negligible and the Bureau did not keep a record of it. According to figures given in the report, the output from Canadian mines in 1916 was 2,655. In 1919 production had jumped to 11,005 tons.

Reporting on the deposits within the Empire the report attached special significance to the zinc-lead-silver ores in British Columbia and to the development of proper handling facilities at Trail, B.C. Much still remains to be done before the British Empire can be considered self-supporting in the matter of spelter production, the report stated. In this connection the construction of a successful electrolytic-treatment plant at Trail, with a capacity of 15,000 tons of spelter a year, was given as a hopeful indication.

CAMPBELLFORD TEACHERS

Campbellford, June 14.—The Campbellford School Board has adopted the recommendation of the committee appointed to select teachers providing that Miss Helen Mackay B.A., of Toronto be engaged as Latin teacher, and Miss Ellis of Dooley, as teacher of mathematics and bookkeeping. The Town Council will be asked to pass a bylaw providing for the raising of $100,000 instead of $75,000 for the erection of a new High School.

BELIEVE NEGRO DRUGGED, BOUND AND DROWNED

Montreal, June 14.—Reports of city autopsists and detecives to Coroner McMahon indicated that Budder Harris, colored, believed to have been murdered as a result of a feud among international drug smugglers, was first drugged with cocaine, bound with wire his pockets filled with stones, and was then thrown into the St. Lawrence River. His almost naked body was found on the bank of the river near here, and a postmortem revealed cocaine in the stomach. Harris' coat, from which the body was worked loose on account of the stones in the pocket, was brought to the surface from the river bed on the hooks of a blind fisherman.

The forward sleepers of the train plunged through a bridge over Big Cotton Wood Creek, after the engine and mail car had passed safely, according to first reports. A relief train took the dead and injured to Chadron, a few miles east, early today, and returned to the wreck to complete the search of the debris for missing passengers. Crawford is in the northwest corner of Nebraska and wire communication with the scene of the wreck was meagre.

Hold Man Suspected of Burning Hospital

PRIVATE FACES CHARGE OF INCENDIARISM AT U.S. NIAGARA FORT

Niagara Falls, June 15.—That they have in custody the incendiary who fired the hospital buildings at Fort Niagara, N. Y. and causing $255,000 damage there early Sunday morning, is the belief of Colonel F. .B Evans, Commandant, and his staff.

The suspect is Joseph Erdeles, 30 years old, a native of Indiana and a private in the hospital corps at the post. No motive is given for the alleged firing of the barracks by Erdelles. Colonel Evans said today he had reasons to believe the man was a morphine addict. Erdelles is now in the guard house under close guard awaiting the formation of a general court martial to be convend within two weeks.

Col. Evans today said the arrest of the suspect was brought about through information furnished by Private Eagen of the Hospital Corps, supplemented by circumstantial evidence. On Saturday night, Col. Evans says he was informed by Eagen that Erdeles had asked Eagen to help set fire to the hospital building. Eagen says he refused to have anything to do with it. Later the fire started. On Sunday morning Eagen declares Erdeles warned him not to say anything about what he had asked him to do.

Cleveland, O., June 16.—A diamond ring and watch owned by Daniel F. Kaber, which are said to have been turned over to one of his assassins by his widow, Mrs. Eva Cathrine Kaber, as part of payment for the murder, have been located by the police and it was predicted the articles would be in their possession in a few hours.

The police refused to say wheher the ring and watch are still in possession of one of four men said to have been hired to commit the murder for which Mrs. Kaber, Mrs. Mary Brickel, her mother; Miss Marian McArdle, her daughter, and Mrs. Erminia Colavito, a midwife, are under indictment.

Mrs. Colavito declared the two articles were given to the man by Mrs. Kaber, in her presence, according to the police.

Want Japanese Invasion Restricted

PREMIER OF B.C. CABLES PREMIER MEIGHEN TO PRESERVE CANADA'S RIGHTS IN THIS MATTER

Vancouver, B.C., June 15.—Premier Oliver has cabled Premier Meighen in London, strongly urging that any renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty should preserve to Canada the right to restrict Japanese immigration, something which the present treaty does not stipulate. Premier Oliver also wishes power given to provincial governments to preclude the employment of Orientals on provincial government land and timber contracts. British Columbia sought to exclude Orientals from this work but the federal minister of justice and the appeal court of British Columbia have both decided such a clause contrary to the provisions of the Japanese treaty.

Premier Oliver said: "In any new treaty which may be negotiated the government is desirous there shall be preserved to the province the right to deal with its own resources unhampred by treaty obligations." Government investigation shows there are five hundred Japanese owners of farms in British Columbia and one hundred hold leases. One hundred Chinese own farms and three hundred and sixty hold leases.

Shipment of Munitions Under Investigation

New York, June 16.—The Federal Espionage Act of 1917, authorizing the seizure and confiscation of arms or munitions intended for illegal export will be applied to machine guns seized by the customs officials on the steamship East Side and believed to have been destined for Ireland. Shipment is now held by Hoboken Police on search warrant. Investigator attached to the Department of Investigation of Shipping Board said to-day that investigation hoped to link up owners of firearms with organization engaged in shipping arms ,to Sinn Fein faction in Ireland. He delared that the Department had been watching this consignment of arms for some time, but had lost sight of it last Sunday when it was loaded aboard a small launch. Private investigations were in full swing to determine how the arms and ammunition got on the ship and to whom the shipment was consigned. Members of the two crews who served on the ship were questioned to ascertain if possible, the identity of the parties alleged to have smuggled them aboard in the night in the guise of supplies.

Bancroft Mills Were Destroyed by Fire

A disastrous fire occurred at Bancroft Wednesday night, resulting in the destruction of David Fuller's Woolen Mill, and the flour mill of Streadwick & Dalyea. The loss is estimated at about twenty-five thousand dollars, partially covered by insurance. The loss of these industries will be a hard blow to Bancroft, as they gave employment to a number of citizens.

Suicides After Shooting His Girl-Wife Dead

Hamilton, June 15.—Karnelo Sechuk a foreigner, residing at 29 Imperial street, killed his wife, this morning and then ended his own life. Sechuk recently returned from the west. The pair had been quarelling ever since. Sechuk fired three shots through his wife's breast and then turned the weapon on himself, firing a bullet which pierced his heart.

A pathetic feature of the double tragedy was the fact that the woman was only 14 years of age. She married Sechuk just one year ago. Mrs. Sechuk's sister after hearing the first shot ran into the bedroom where the slaying took place and saw the murderer turn the revolver on himself. Sechuk, after fatally wounding himself deliberately turned the weapon again on his wife.

The woman some time ago announced that she was going to return her wedding ring and be "just a girl again." It is believed the fact that she intended separating from her husband was the motive for the crime.

Weekly Editors Bathe at Banff

ENJOYING SCENERY OF GREAT WEST AND HEADED HOMEWARD ON C. P. R.

Banff, Alta., June 15.—After leaving the glories of the Lake in the Clouds and Lake Louise, the C.P.R. special carrying Canadian Weekly Editors reached the wonders of Banff yesterday and remained until to-day, leaving for Calgary at 5. After enjoying dinner on the train they wended their way through the village to the delightful Banff Springs Hotel, where the general manager placed everything at their disposal many immediately enjoyed the swimming pool, others lolled around and at nine o'clock dancing was provided in the ball room and thoroughly enjoyed. Some of the editors opined Lake Louise was glorious but Banff was magnificent. To-day a special drive was provided by the C. P.R. to Lake Minnewanka thence to the caves and the golf links and luncheon at the hotel. In the afternoon pony riding was indulged in and the swimming pool proved one of the greatest attractions.

Mr. A. R. Brennan, proprietor and editor of the Journal Summerside, and the newly elected Vice-President in an interview said "The Canadian Weekly Press Association Convention trip through Western Canada should prove of inestimable value to the Dominion as a whole. While the vastness of the prairies, the grandeur of the mountains, the powerful rivers and boundless forests, impress themselves into one mighty whole for Canadians to mould into the greatest nation that yet has been. It also compels us to take a tighter grip on ourselves to develop a good national spirit that will do this on firm foundations for the future. The prairie provinces as yet hardly touched in their agricultural possibilities are a revelation to those seeing them for the first time and the fine towns and cities that have sprung up as by magic out of these vast stretches, planned for the future and built in most modern style are a striking symbol of the Canadian spirit of doing things. The sight of the tremendous mountain ranges of British Columbia and Alberta fill one with awe at the titanic power there displayed, and unfold themselves in an ever-varying panorama to the beholder. The railroads traversing this country have chosen some of natures most wonderful beauty spots and have established there luxurious accommodation for those who desire either beauty of scenery, or health resorts. Banff, where we are to-day staying seems impossible to improve from either of these viewpoints nature has been most lavish in its magnificent scenery and healing properties of its sulphur springs and health restoring atmosphere, which through the efforts of the C.P.R. have been made available to those who would obtain health with their pleasure. This magnificent place could be made the Riviera in summer and St. Moritz in winter of this continent.

Canadian Sealers In the South Seas

PICTURESQUE INDUSTRY OF NOVA SCOTIA MARINERS REVIVED

Halifax, N. S. June 13.—(By Canadian Press) Sealing in the south seas, one of the most picturesque industries in which Nova Scotia mariners have engaged, has been revived after five years period of inactivity by the hundred ton two top-mast Schooner Eva June out of Halifax. This vessel has just returned to port after nine months absence in the sealing grounds of the South Atlantic. She is owned by H. R. Silver Ltd. and commanded by Captain Matthew Ryan of North Sydney. The Eva June sailed from Halifax September 2 of last year and cast anchor again in this harbour May 31. Captain Ryan said he had encountered unusually stormy weather which curtailed the schooner's pack. The trip was however, successful and many hundreds of pelts were shipped by the Eva June from Montivideo to London A small number were brought to Halifax for shipment to England from this port. The sealing waters in which the Eva June operated lie between forty and fifty-five south latitude and from one hundred and fifty to one thousand miles off the South American coast. On October 3 last year the crew of the schooner saw land fade from their view to reappear no more until they put into Montivideo on January 30. They left Montivideo February 25 and again were out of sight of land until April 12 when they began their homeward voyage to Halifax.

Matt .Ryan, Master

Matthew Ryan, commander of the Eva June, has been afloat the greater part of his life and has trailed the seal since 1889 north and south in the Pacific and Atlantic and around the globe. He says that to his knowledge Nova Scotia fishing vessels have been in the sealing industry since 1886. Around the Horn and to the Behring Sea was the goal in the old days. The majority of the vessels put out from Halifax and the Sydneys. It is noteworthy that Nova Scotia and British Columbia the sea-touched frontiers of the Dominion joined hands in this industry and pooled many of their interests. Victoria the last Canadian port of call for Nova Scotian vessels and they sailed from there accompanied by the ships of the western provinces. From Victoria the fleets would follow the Canadian coasts north or strike across the Pacific to the Japanese and Russian coasts. On this latter ocean trail Yokohams was the favorite port of call. Captain Ryan believes the Schooner Pathfinder in command of Captain Will. O'Leary of Mospuodoboit, was the first Nova Scotian vessel to voyage around the North and South American continents to hunt the seal in the Northern Pacific. CaptainRyan thinks Captain O'Leary is now living in Victoria B.C. The Annie C; Moore from North Sydney in command of Captain Charles Hackett, followed the Pathfinder in the same year. After the pioneers came such well known vessels as the Umbrina, Brenda, Libby, William MacGowan, C. H. Tupper, and Agnes MacDonald.

Around The World

Captain Ryan made his first trip to the North Pacific in the Schooner Carmelite which sailed from Sydney in 1889. Two most interesting trips in the history of the sealing industry were made by Captain Ryan in the tern schooner Hilda R. These took him around the world over a route from Nova Scotia to Australia, around the Cape of Good Hope and through the Indian Ocean, thence to New Zealand and subsequently home. The Hilda R. was finally torpedoed during the Great War by a German submarine near Gibraltar.

Sealing in the Behring sea continued until 1910 when an international treaty put a stop to it for twenty-five years. As far back as 1900, however, the South Atlantic began to attract Nova Scotia and British Columbia sealing mariners Captain Fred Gilbert in the Schooner Edward Rye was probably the first on these grounds. The Beatrice L Corkum, Captain Reuben Balcolm, joined the Edward Rye in 1901. 1802 saw the Florence M. Smith, commanded by Captain Ryan, and the E. B. Marvin Captain John Anderson, sail south from Victoria and joined the fleet out of Halifax in the South Atlantic. In Succeeding years there were many other Nova Scotian and British Columbia vessels scouring the southern ocean. The number gradually diminished, however until in 1915 the Ida M. Clarke. commanded by Captain Ryan, went alone from Nova Scotia. She returned in 1914 when the shadow of war was throwing itself over land sea. None followed her in the succeeding years.

Eva June Type

The Eva June type of vessel, two topmasts and one hundred tons, is the most useful in the sealing industry. Larger vessels break their boats in rough weather. The Eva June carries eight hunting boats, each of which is manned by two men armed with double-barrelled shot-guns. Although many of the old sealing vessels have passed out of service, few met with serious misfartune while engaged in the industry. Probably the only Nova Scotian craft lost in the South Atlantic were the Edith R. Blacolm and the Baden Powell, both of which ran ashore.

Whether Nova Scotian and British Columbia vessels will again enter the sealing industry to the extent that they did years past, it is impossible to forecast, but it is almost a certainty that August will see Captain Ryan back in Halifax superintending the fitting out of the Eva June for another trip south.

Pulpit Sensations Discussed at Conference

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Whitby, June 16.—Addressing the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference today, Rev. Byron Stauffer, of Toronto, defended his practice of announcing striking subjects for his sermons, and said, "If the author of a book will look long and patiently for a title that will catch the public eye, if a newspaper editor deems it important to have a fetching headline for a column of news, surely the preacher, bidding for the ear of the public, ought to be permitted to announce attractive themes for his sermons. There is a good deal of foolishness talked about sensationalism. No great statesman or scientist ever lived who was not sensational. All preachers that count must be sensational to a degree."

Dr. Tolmie Speaks on Cattle Embargo

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

London, June 16.— (By Gratton O'Leary, staff correspondent of Canadian Press)—Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, last night made an important statement of the position of the Dominion Government on the embargo in Great Britain against Canadian cattle. In an address before the Empire Parliamentary Development Committee, presided over by Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Dr. Tolmie made it known that while the Canadian Government had for many years aggressively pressed its protests against the embargo in a proper and constitutional manner, it was in no way responsible for propaganda along this line in England, nor for interference or attempted interference with elections or politics in England.

Fatal Fire Will be Investigated by Police

Calgary, June 16.—The police are investigating strange stories which have been circulated regarding the domestic life of J. J. Futledge, whose wife and four of their children were burned to death in their home at Innisfail on Tuesday night. Mr. Rutledge, his sister-in-law and one child escaped. It is known that the Department of Neglected children sent a man there this week to investigate and he was to have been there today. "This is all that is left," Rutledge is reported to have said when he arrived at a neighbor's house after the fire, with the surviving child, saying that the house had been burned.

HELP THE HOSPITAL

An efficient hospital is one of the most valuable assets any community can have, and the Belleville Hospital is an institution of which the citizens of this district can well be proud. With a modern equipment and an efficient staff the hospital is doing splendid work for the sick and suffering. The hospital serves not only the city of Belleville, but the entire district as well and should be generously supported by the citizens of Belleville and the county of Hastings. The needs of the hospital were placed before the members of the County Council by a deputation from the W. C. A. and hospital board, and there is no doubt but that the County Council will see their way clear to make a substantial annual grant to the institution. The entire county is well served by the hospital and the greater the support given the more efficient will the hospital become.

The Women's Christian Association, which manages the hospital, knows no creed or prejudice, and the membership is open to all ladies at the nominal fee of fifty cents per year. Everybody should get behind the hospital and help to make the financial load easy to carry.

Say Baptists Should Maintain Liberty

Kingston, Jung 14.—At the meeting this morning of the Central Canada Baptist Association several members discussed the wisdom or unwisdom of union evangelistic services and the possible effect on Baptist churches.

It was generally agreed that while all should be brotherly and sympathetic with other churches in special meetings, Baptists were in duty bound to maintain their liberty to insist on their position of loyalty to the New Testament teaching regarding conversion and immersion as a condition of Christian church membership.

The congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Wolfe Island, has extended a call to Rev. D. T. Lancaster, of Raymore, Sask.

The election of officers at the annual meeting of the Baptist Church Women's Circles for this district resulted as follows: : Pres., Mrs. Nicholls, Athens; Vice-Pres., Mrs. H. K. Fairfull, Kingston; Directress, Mrs. Bryant, Smith's Falls; Asst. Directress, Mrs. Bowes, Brockville; Sec., Miss Beulah Miller, Smith's Falls.

Bandits Take Load of Silk

MOTORCYCLIST SHOT WHEN TRYING TO ELUDE THE ROBBERS

Newton, N.J., June 16.—One man was killed and two others kept bound to a tree for several hours in the mountains in a daring hold-up yesterday by six masked men, who succeeded in getting away with an automobile truck load of silk valued at $20,000. The hold-up occurred at Cat Swamp, seven miles from here.

The man shot and killed was Charles Kosta, aged 35, an engineer of Andover.

He was passing the scene of the hold-up on his motor cycle. The highwaymen, not wanting him to spread the alarm, ordered him to stop. Instead, he put on speed and tried to pass them. The bandits opened fire two bullets piercing Kosta's chest and another striking him in the shoulder. He fell from the motorcycle, dead.

The motor truck, manned by Claude Resh, driver, and Charles Mann, his helper, was on its way from the Sussex Print Works here to New York, Resh was rounding a bad curve in the road when six men, all armed and wearing handerchiefs over their faces jumped out from the roadside.

"Get off the truck and be quick about it, both of you", the bandits' leader called to them.

They did so promptly. Four of the bandits then started to lead them to some bushes just off the road. It was then that Kosta, on his way to work, came along on his motor cycle and met his death when he refused to stop at the command of the highwaymen. His body was thrown down the side of the embankment and into a small brook, where he was found late in the afternoon.

Resh and Mann were taken back some distance from the road and bound hand and foot. Four of the highwaymen remained on guard over them, while the other two sped off with the truck. Some time later, the four guards walked part of the way up the side of the mountain with the captives and tied them to a tree.

"Stay here and starve" was the parting remark from the guard leader, Resh said to-night.

Resh and Mann managed to free themselves from their bonds after more than an hour's effort. They walked to the nearest house and gave the alarm by telephone. Deputy Sheriffs were immediately sent out to try and locate the highwaymen and the truck, but neither Resh nor Mann was able to give a good description of them.

Kingston, June 15.—The schooner Katie Eccles, coal-laden, on her way from Oswego to Napanee, had a close call in a storm on Saturday night. The tug William Johnston was sent to the scene with syphons. It was found that the coal carrier had taken on a great deal of water in her deck aft. The water was pumped out and the vessel was on Monday morning, able to clear for Napanee and arrived there Monday noon.

PEARL WHITE INJECTS "PUNCH" IN THIS SCENE

There is one little scene in "The Mountain Woman", a 6-reel Pearl White picture to be shown at Griffin's to-night to Saturday that people who have heard about the picture—particularly those who are interested in the noble science of fisticuffs—always look forward to. The scene occupies about one foot of film and about one second of time. It sure carries an awful punch, however, for its brief passage.

The scene takes place on a log raft while Miss White as "Alexander", the "Gal in Pants", is floating the logs down the river. One of the men produces a flask of liquor. Then something hits him—but it isn't the moonshine. It is the unerring fist of Miss White, which shoots a right jab to the man's jaw and knocks him clear off the raft. "I surely put a lot of soul in that punch when the scene was filmed", remarked Miss White. Technically, scientifically, dramatically, and for results obtained, the wallop was perfect. The man, who received it came up smiling, however, from the river. It was J. Thorton Baston, who plays the part of Jase Mallow. "The Mountain Girl" was adapted from a story by Charles Neville Buck. Corliss Giles has the leading male role.

A new 2-reel Buster Keaton comedy "Convict 13" and three other varied plays will be exhibited along with the above feature offering.

Germany's First Colony Now Under Jurisdiction Of Union of South Africa

The former German Southwest Africa, details of whose Government under a mandate to the Union of South Africa have just been formulated by the League of Nations, is not very well known by reputation to Canadians.

At its worst the territory which was German Southwest Africa before the world war and Germany's first venture into the colonial field might be described as a country too dry for agriculture, lying between a desert and the sea, with one of the most barren and desolate coast lines in the world. The entire coast, for a distance of ten to fifteen miles inland, consists of sand dunes on which grows only the sparsest of desert vegetation.

No perennial rivers flow into the sea across this dreary waste throughout the nearly 1,000 miles of its extent. Except for brief periods after rains in the interior, all the seaward drainage of the country loses itself in a wilderness of sand. Similarly, much of the drainage to the east and south sinks into the desert that separates German Southwest Africa from the British territories lying to the west of the Transvaal.

Only one reasonably good port exists along the coast between the north and south limits of the territory. And this—Walfish Bay—with a small area around it, was in the hands of Great Britain before the Germans established their colony in 1884. The existence of this tiny island of British territory in German Southwest Africa, and above all the fact that it comprised the one port sorely needed by the colony, was a sharp thorn in the sides of the Germans. The artificial harbors constructed by the Germans at Swakopmund, just north of Walfish Bay, and at Luderitzbucht (Angra Pequena), twenty miles to the south, were only makeshifts.

But there is a somewhat brighter side to the old German Southwest Africa than that seen when one sails along its forbidding coast. Back of the strip of sand is an upland country which, though it will not support agriculture, is well suited to stock raising. Hundreds of thousands of cattle, sheep and goats are raised there. Ranches are of tremendous size like those in the old West of the United States, averaging about 25,000 acres. Camels were imported by the Germans for use in the drier portions of the country, and are doing well.

In the northeastern corner of the territory, which is in the tropics, the conduct of agriculture is possible. Cotton, tobacco and cereals may be grown.

Even the strip of sand along the coast has proved in one place to be spectacularly valuable. Diamonds were discovered in the sand by railroad workmen in 1908, and the country now produces approximately one-fifth of the world's output of diamonds. In 1914 the value of the diamonds from this field reached $45,000,000. It is believed that the gems have been washed up from the sea, and what is perhaps the only "sea-going" diamond mining company in existence has been formed to dredge for the precious stones off the shore.

Copper is mined in several places and forms one of the principal exports. Railroads connect the mines with the coast and have been built to a number of other sections of the country. The Germans built well. Their mining plants and railroad systems in Southwest Africa, as well as in their other African colonies, have been said to be the best on the continent. In some of the copper mining regions of Southwest Africa smelting was done by electricity.

German Southwest Africa had an area of 322,000 square miles, about the size of Texas, Arkansas and Connecticut combined. It was one and a half times the size of pre-war Germany. In this vast area there was never a large population. After a number of years of war with natives there were, immediately preceding the world war, something less than 100,000 natives and about 15,000 Europeans. About 12,000 of the latter were Germans, many of them soldiers.

The country was occupied by the forces of the Union of South Africa in July, 1915, and has been administered since as a protectorate of that Government. Approximately 6,000 Germans left the country after the armistice. Several thousand British subjects, including a number of Boers, have moved in.

Oliver Twist's Birthplace.

In St. George's Workhouse, now closed by the Southwark Guardians, several writers have claimed to discover the birthplace of Oliver Twist and the place in which that "greedy boy" made his staggering request for "more." Mr. W. B. Matz, in the "Dickensian," points out that the workhouse thus immortalized was in "a certain town" at some distance from London. A guess at Rochester is dismissed, on the ground that Oliver entered London from the opposite direction. In the serial edition of the story, Dickens named the town of Mudfog, which has a riverside suggestion about it; but in volume form the story appeared with the name cautiously omitted, and a note hinting that rumors had been abroad. So the identity of Oliver's "home" is lost, but the copper which failed to supply the "more" is preserved, as a lasting memorial to Bumble.

What Happens If We Kill The Birds?

Some years ago the agriculture of Hungary, moved to the insane step by ignorance and prejudice, succeeded in getting the sparrow doomed to destruction. Within five years the country was overrun with insects, and these same men were crying frantically for the bird to be given back to them lest they should perish. The sparrow was brought back, and, driving out the hordes of devastating insects, proved the salvation of the country.

In the island of Bourbon once, because of the same ignorance and prejudice, a price was set on each martin's head. The edict of banishment was hurriedly revoked and the exile recalled. Fortunate, indeed, was it for the island of Bourbon that the bird was not beyond recall.

During the year 1861 the harvest of France gave an unusually poor return, and a commission was appointed at the instance of the Minister of Agriculture to investigate the cause of the deficiency. By this commission the deficiency was attributed to the ravages of insects which it was the function of certain birds to check. These birds, it appeared, had been shot, snared, and trapped throughout the country in such numbers that but little repressive influence had been exerted upon the insects. It was concluded that by no other agency than the birds could the ravages of insects be kept down, and the commission called for prompt and energetic remedies to prevent the destruction of birds.

For some years prior to 1877 vast numbers of red-wing Blackbirds were poisoned in the spring and the autumn around the cornfields of Nebraska. This was done in the belief that the blackbirds were damaging the crops, especially the wheat. Great numbers of prairie chickens, quail, plover, and various other insect-eating species were destroyed at the same time by eating the poisoned grain. Then came 1877, and with it Nemesis. The locusts appeared in countless numbers. There were no birds to eat them and Nebraska mourned.

In 1895 the ravages of two species of cut-worms and some 10 species of locusts produced a famine in the region of Ekaterinburg, which is in Russian Siberia. The local Society of Natural Science inquired into the cause which had permitted such a numerous propagation of insect pests, and reported that it was due to the almost complete destruction of birds, most of which had been killed and sent abroad by wagon loads for millinery purposes.

Though I could give a hundred cases similar to the foregoing, I must rely on the few I have cited to show that the wholesale destruction of birds is surely followed by disaster to man.

AND THE HAIRS VANISH JUST ONE APPLICATION

(Modes of To-day)

A harmless, yet very effective, treatment is here given for the quick removal of hairy growths: Mix enough powdered delatone and water to cover the undesirable hairs, apply paste and after 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. One application usually is sufficient, but to be certain of results, buy the delatone in an original package. Mix fresh as wanted.

TEACHERS' SALARIES

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir—I notice our School Board are boosting salaries when Port Arthur is reducing them ten per cent.

Prices of all kinds of stuff and wages generally are on the toboggan, but with our School Board it seems to simply a matter of "Ask and ye shall receive," buildings included. Well, they are certainly determined to gobble up the town. I ask the propertyholders to take their pencils in hand and figure out how much per hour the teachers are getting for their services. I have done so and find that four or five lady teachers get over $2.00 per hour, and one male teacher over $3.00. I wish I were a teacher with 5½ hours work per day and about three months holidays each year!

Are we going to let this go without a public protest?

Yours truly,
D. H. ACKERILL, V.S.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N.

(Copyright, 1903)

It was one Sunday night about the middle of November. Lydia had retired to her room and the major was reading a newspaper in the lamplight before a cheerful fire in the sitting room when Mrs. Cranston came in from the parlor.

"Well, you may be satisfied, Major Cranston," she said, "but I'm not."

"Oh, you are not! What's wrong now?" He put his paper down and looked up at her inquiringly.

"Well, I don't like the way Lydia is doing at all," replied the lady.

"What's she done now?" The major spoke with just a little irritation, for he was interested in the political news he had been reading.

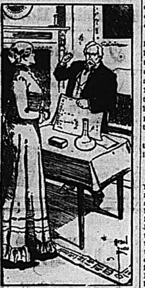
"She hasn't done anything—that's the trouble," answered Mrs. Cranston. "If she only would do and be like she was in Richmond I wouldn't care, but she's as different as can be."

"Why, I'm sure the child seems well enough to me," grumbled the major.

"Well enough? She's the picture of health. But are you blind? Can't you see an inch before your nose? Don't you remember how she cried when we moved away from Richmond, and all the visits she promised Kitty Cosby and the other girls back there? Then you remember how she moped about the first month down here, and the fun she made of this place and the people. But now look at her. She's tickled to death over everything here. What do you think it means, sir?"

"Oh, she was sick and tired of that silly social set up there," said the major, "and this simple, healthy life here in the mountains agrees with her, as it has with me and you. I never knew what a good appetite or a pleasant night's sleep was till I"—

"Oh, do dry up!" Mrs. Cranston sat down by him. "You are as blind as a



"Don't insult your own child."

bat. Don't you know Lydia never was that way till George Buckley got to coming here and bringing her books and papers and going out with her."

"Stop!" Cranston's brow was clouded over. "Don't insult your own child." He stood up, his short legs quivering with excitement. "Do you think I'd let that man come here—he, a son of a convicted thief—if I dreamed—why, I'd shoot the top of his head off if he dared—oh!"

"There is no use waking up the servants out in the yard," said Mrs. Cranston in a tone modulated to that she wanted him to use. "We don't want any bloodshed; what we want is common sense. I don't think there is much danger so far. Girls will often allow themselves to enjoy the admiration of men they would not dream of marrying, and Lydia has too much family pride to think of encouraging him to any serious extent, but it is well to take time by the forelock. I was against letting him come here at all, you know, but you said it would shock the religious folks in the place for us to try to establish social lines when he stood so well, and"—

"I'll send her off tomorrow!" cried the major, still excited, his voice rising high and cracking.

"No, you won't unless you really want to drive her the wrong way," said Mrs. Cranston. "I've seen many unhappy, mismated marriages made through that stupid course, and I've always said I'd act differently if it came to me. Lydia would get as headstrong as a bull if we showed her that we were trying to drive her, and opposition naturally makes a girl think more of a man who is unfortunate. No, we must simply go on as if we never imagined she could bemean us by marrying a man of that kind. She's not a fool; she may admire George Buckley and be sorry for him in his trouble, but she'll think several times before she marries him if we simply go on as if we are trusting her to protect our family name."

The major sat down. "I guess you are right," he said more calmly, "and I'm not really afraid when I think about her pride and all she has in her favor. Why, she could take her pick of the whole country. Governor Telfare is simply crazy about her an' has plenty of money. Do you suppose Lydia—or any girl, as for that—could resist the temptation to be the mistress of the executive mansion on Peachtree street and lead the society of Atlanta to marry a penniless bookkeeper in a grain warehouse and the son of—Shucks, if she had it in her, I'd disown her!"

"Oh, she's all right," smiled Mrs. Cranston, as if he had forced the absurdity of her fears down upon her by his warm words, "but we must handle her most carefully. I've tried making fun of her 'country beau,' as I always call him to her, but I've never been able to make out how she took it. She'd die before she'd let anybody know how she felt about a matter of that kind. I'll tell you what I'm going to do. She has invited Kitty Cosby to pay her a visit, and when Kitty comes I'm going to get her to help me. She's always had great influence over Lydia, an' Kitty is blue blooded to the bone. I'll coach her how to act, and she will hold Lydia in check an' keep me posted."

The major took up his paper.

"I rather admire the fellow's way," he said frankly. "I'm sure he doesn't overstep himself; he hasn't been here so often since his trouble, and that looks like he had some idea of the eternal fitness of things."

"No, that's true," admitted Mrs. Cranston, "and, really, I'm quite sure there has never been an intimate understanding between them, and if we play our cards right there won't be."

The major resumed his reading, and Mrs. Cranston went up the smooth, winding stairs to her daughter's room. Lydia was seated before the fire, her beautiful and abundant hair hanging loose over her shapely shoulders.

"I thought I'd see if Tom had made you a good fire, dear," Mrs. Cranston said gently.

"Oh, yes; it's all right, mamma, thank you," Lydia returned, with a smile.

Mrs. Cranston hesitated. "When do you look for Kitty to come?" she asked.

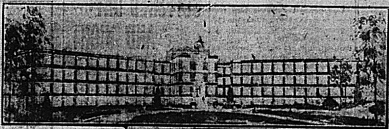
"Next week, toward the end, I think, mamma. She wanted to stay over for the guards' ball. Then she'll be ready for a rest here."

Mrs. Cranston pinched Lydia's fire reddened cheek caressingly. "Don't you miss all those things, dearest?"

"Not one bit, mamma." Lydia gave her mother her eyes trustingly. "In fact, sometimes I'm just a little ashamed of all I went through since I realize the beauty of this full, vigorous life here in the mountains. Mother, I can have a better time on Prince, galloping helter skelter over these roads and fields, than I ever had vying with other girls for the most dances and favors in the german with a lot of boys. Oh, mamma," Lydia laughed, "sometimes I'm awfully ashamed of having done all that when—when"—

"When what, darling?" Mrs. Cranston's lips were compressed, her eyes fixed half fearfully on the speaking countenance.

"When there are so many of God's creatures here in their shells of poverty and misery trying to rise, trying to grow out into the sunshine of life. I think I could be perfectly happy if I could only help those people in some way. I want to teach them, to encourage them, not to believe in their degradation. Mamma, just the other day I saw an old woman selling eggs from a wagon at the gate, and in the wagon was her daughter, poorly dressed, but her features were finely drawn, and when I stopped to speak to them the girl looked at me as if I were a princess. Oh, mamma, that sort of thing cuts me. I have not done anything to deserve that, and, poor thing, what has she in store for her? Nothing but to fall into the sort of life her mother is leading."



The new Muskoka Free Hospital as pictured by the architects, for which a one million dollar fund is being raised.

These aged women, inmates of the free hospital for consumptives, are being given the best that science, coupled with mercy, can provide.

We're Winning War on Tuberculosis

BUT FIGHT MUST BE KEPT UP, AND $1,000,000 IS NEEDED FOR MUSKOKA HOSPITAL

DEATHS CUT IN HALF

MARVELLOUS WORK DONE BY NATIONAL SANITARIUM ASSOCIATION WHICH IS IN NEED OF FUNDS

Tuberculosis has come to a very modified place in human affairs in the past twenty years.

In 1902, when the first Muskoka Free Hospital was built at Gravenhurst, "t.b" was universally called the "great white plague". Where it struck, it killed. Families were wiped out. Homes were cursed. When a man or a woman got the flushed spot and the ripping cough of the dread disease, friends put on a metaphorical mourning and waited for the inevitable end.

To-day, with a campaign for a million dollar fund to rebuild the Muskoka Free Hospital which was destroyed by fire last November, tuberculosis is still the greatest killer of all the enemies of mankind. But since 1900, deaths from consumption in Ontario have been cut in half. Annually, 150 persons died of tuberculosis per 100,000 of population. To-day, that figure is 75.

And the great part of the credit for this victory over the plague of civilization must go to the National Sanitarium Association led by the late Sir William Gage, which, apprising itself of all the latest scientific knowledge on the subject, built sanitaria, spread broadcast the warnings and information which to-day every schoolboy is acquainted with, and provided the means, through public subscription and private donation, of saving and curing thousands of men, women and children, who, a short generation ago, were doomed and expected to die.

Fifteen thousand consumptives have been cared for in the three free hospitals of the association. These hospitals are the Muskoka Free at Gravenhurst, for the early cases; the Toronto Free, at Weston, for advanced cases; and the Queen Mary, at Weston, for consumptive children.

Not Left To Die Now

Just what has happened to the dread disease of our fathers' and grandfathers' day is strikingly stated in the following most recent official statement:

60 per cent. cures and improvements—Muskoka Free.

30 per cent. cures and improvements—Toronto Free.

90 per cent. cures and improvements—Queen Mary.

The older folk of this generation will really appreciate those brief figures.

Is the battle over? By no means. 75 deaths annually per hundred thousand of population is still a terrible figure.

In Toronto, in the past ten years, deaths from typhoid have been reduced from 40 per 100,000 to 2 by the means of scientific public health measures. Can the same be done with tuberculosis?

Consumption is this kind of a disease: It takes a man unawares. It does not decaire itself with a cough, as is generally believed. That cough comes when the disease has got a stranglehold. A man goes on working, thinner and weaker, and more depressed. The very man who can least afford to get the disease is the one who dare not quit work—because he needs the money.

Then consumption strikes.

The man with money has been able, earlier in the game, to lay off work and go away for his health.

The poor man has worked until the disease made him quit.

It is looking after the poor man that the National Sanitarium Association has done its greatest fighting against tuberculosis. Because so long as the disease runs unchecked amongst those who are too poor to check it, it is a source of contagion and danger to the whole community.

Another twenty years will see, no doubt, a still greater victory over tuberculosis, when, by means of hospitals and further education, the plague will be restricted to the earliest and the curable stages.

The new sanitarium, which is to rise out of the ashes of the old one in Muskoka, will be one of the greatest of modern institutions. It will be devoted to curing those in the earlier stages of the disease. It will be the headquarters of the great fight.

In view of the nature of the disease, its capability of striking anyone and throwing him on the mercy of his fellowmen, its slow progress eating up the means of those who are moderately well-to-do, the National Sanitorium Association, in its campaign at the end of the month, is looking to every citizen of Ontario to give something exceptional, not only out of mercy for humanity, but in self-defense in the war on an enemy that menaces each one individually.

Around the ruins of the Muskoka Free Hospital, the patients are living cheerfully in tents with temporary conveniences of every kind, waiting for Ontario to set up the great modern hospital.

LOVELY LAKE WINDERMERE

Lake Windermere, B.C. Windermere Camp.

Lake Windermere district, just west of the Canadian Rockies, seems well on the way to become one of the most popular summer resorts in British Columbia, or in fact Western Canada. It lies in a Valley, the stillness of which had not been broken by the sound of a locomotive until five years ago, like some beautiful thing slumbering and knowing nothing but a few scattered settlements. Fort Kootenay, it is true was constructed as far back as 1807, but David Thompson, the explorer, who built that fort could foresee no more than the Indians with whom he traded what the Valley could give to mankind. The Kootenay Trail, commonly known as the Old Whiskey Trail ran from Fort Steele to Windermere, then across the Rockies by way of the Sinclair Canyon and the Kootenay River to the construction gangs of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Whiskey, of course, was contraband in those days, and the trail resulted in much profit to the bootleggers.

R. Randolph Bruce, C.E., F.R.G.S., of Invermere, saw the possibilities of this highway, he knew it was time the old pony trail should be replaced by a good motor road, and through his efforts in 1905 the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the Government of British Columbia ultimately took the matter up. Work was commenced on the British Columbia end of the motor road in 1911, but the work was done very intermittently owing to lack of funds, and the war. The district is opened sufficiently now to revel in good roads, and the scenic points of interest can be reached comfortably.

Pending the completion of the Banff-Windermere Road, autos can be shipped by rail between Banff, or Lake Louise to Golden on the Canadian Pacific Railway. From Golden the highway connects with the Columbia Valley Road, via Windermere road. Lake Windermere has much to offer the tourist, and lover of nature, for the country is varied for sports and amusements, and accommodation can be had to suit all tastes, hotel, or camp life if preferred.

Invermere is the station which is the key to this Utopia of the Columbia Valley, a tiny structure which looks like a toy, and is rather a relief after the noise and bustle of larger ones, and savors of the country. As soon as one alights from the train, and begins to wonder where the town, hotel, or any semblance of civilization is, you are approached by a man who asks if you wish accommodation at the hotel or Lake Windermere Camp, and at the same time he satisfies your curiosity by adding "A drive of a mile must be taken.

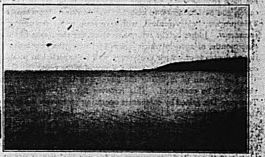
Lake Windermere Camp consists of twenty-five bungalow cabins for living purposes, with a central club house for dining, dancing and social recreation. The site of the camp lies along a natural terrace overlooking the lake. The cabins are below the club house on the shore of the lake among the pines. The site is ideal, and it is a pleasant change to have your own little cabin, an artistic affair made of logs and stained wood, instead of the ordinary hotel room.

Looking at Lake Windermere gives one a sense of peace and calm. This valley is miles and miles in length and pastoral in its beauty. The lake stretches out a scintillating sheet of water, situated as few lakes in Canada or the United States. "Beautiful" does not describe it, "grand" and "unique" are adjectives more apt. It is unique in that the pastoral, the rugged and magnificent are all combined. Directly from the shores of the lake, undulating slopes, or benches rise, well treed with spruce, pines and fir, open fields are seen here and there along these benches, and some are cultivated. Above rise the hills well timbered, and above the hills tower the mountains, as if guarding the quiet pastoral lands below, from intrusion of the outside world. The lake and valley has indeed a perfect setting with the Canadian Rockies to the east, and the equally spectacular Selkirks on the west. The end of the valley in which this lake lies appears closed with the hills and mountains, but it is not so, for an exceedingly good motor road runs beside the lake, along Grassmere Lake and by the shores of Columbia Lake, and motor boats as well as cars can ply to Canal Flats at the head of Columbia Lake, and the source of the beautiful Columbia river.

Those who have seen this lake say it is the most superb bit of scenery in the Rockies or Selkirks. It lies not far distant from the town of Invermere, a good auto road goes half way, ponies and pack train penetrate beyond. Ice caves surpassing those of the Alps are here, beauties which tourists cross continents to see, lie practically at the door of the little town of Invermere.

The links are on the promontory where the camp is located. The point was called Kath-tow-hah-lait, and by the way it is on the historical site of Fort Kootenay, which was commenced in 1807 by David Thompsen, astronomer, and surveyor, of the North West Trading Company. After eight tiers of logs were put together for the warehouse, the project was abandoned on that site and Fort Kootenay was built two miles north in the same year. David Thompson was the first white man in the country, and it was he who discovered the Columbia river. The golf course is nine holes, and surely no course has a more beautiful situation. The fishing is good in many of the lakes in this district, and for big game hunting the adjacent country holds out every inducement to those who are keen for this sport.

As said before, this district has everything from Glacial regions, to hot springs. Sinclair Hot Springs has a concrete swimming bath which attracts many on account of the curative properties of the water. Fairmont to the south also has hot springs. The water in Lake Windermere averages about sixty-eight degrees, affording good bathing which is unusual in mountainous regions.



MOIRA CAMP WHERE BOY'S COMMUNITY CAMP IS LOCATED

Spend your vacation at camp community the Belleville Boys Summer Home. One of the finest camp sites in the district. The object of the camp is healthful recreation without temptation. A place where boys live close to nature, give themselves up to play, acquire skill in sports, eat plenty of wholesome food, and sleep long hours, and are taught high ideals for their own lives. A camp to give boys a delightful summer outing under favorable conditions, and to give them every opportunity to become familiar with camp life in all its phases. We believe this contributes much to the upbuilding of a boy's character and enables him to get out of life much enjoyment that would otherwise not be possible. A place where older boys of the restless age, may live a happy, carefree, out-door life, free from the artificialities and pernicious influences of the city; a place where all the craving of a real boy are satisfied in a clean and healthy atmosphere makes for noble manhood; a place where athletic sports harden the muscles, tan the skin, broaden the shoulders, brighten the eye, and send each lad back to his school work in the fall as brown as a berry and as hard as nails.

A camp of ideals, not a supplanter of the home. The principle reason for its existence is the providing of a safe place for parents to send their boys during the summer vacation, where, under the leadership of Christian men, they may be developed physically, mentally, socially and morally.

Camp Community opens Monday, 20th and will be open until Saturday, August 6th.

BUSINESS COMMUNITY PLEASED WITH DRAYTON BUDGET.

(Financial Post)

Sir Henry Drayton's handling of the taxation problems is being commended by the business community. Despite considerable pressure and varying advice, he decided against the complexities of a wide and general Turnover Tax on all products and all sales. The Financial Post has consistently advocated that the proper solution of the nation's financial problems lay in an adaptation of the present Sales Tax rather than applying any radical new system that might easily have further dislocated business without benefit to the public. That he refrained from extending the system to retail sales insures against another period of business unsettledness which would have been a reflection of public dissatistion and confusion in retail trade.

The system to be followed in 1921 largely exempts foodstuffs as in the past. Original raw material products of forest, fisheries, mines and agriculture remain free from a Sales Tax, as also are initial sales of farm produce. Sir Henry evidently recognized that the intricacies and cost of collecting taxes on such products by means of a Sales Tax would in all probability be excessive to the point of defeating the revenue producing purpose of such tax. The same applies to sales by retailers and the truth of this is found in the operation of the Luxury Taxes, which cost 62 per cent. to collect.

Is Not a Burden on Industry.

The new—or rather the enlarged—Sales Tax is collected from importers, manufacturers and wholesalers. It will not unduly increase the price of commodities, nor increase the cost of living. The fact must be remembered that the Business Profits Tax was proved to have been directly responsible for a large portion of the recent high level of prices. This tax is now eliminated.

Will It Produce Enough?

The great question, however, remains as to whether the percentage and application of the Sales Tax is wide enough to raise the required revenue. This will be evident in the course of the next few months, as returns from this system are almost instantaneous. If the volume does not meet requirements, a higher percentage can be imposed or the application can be broadened to embrace certain other branches of trade. This process, being gradual, will have little or no disturbing effect on commerce. Judge by the returns recorded for the Sales Tax during the nine months of 1920 in which it was operative, the new Sales Tax—being an increase of 50 per cent—may well be expected to produce $135,000,000 including the manufacturers' tax of 1 per cent.

The system of including the amount of the tax on the face of invoices will be continued. This removes the objections to the general Turnover Tax raised by companies operating on narrow margins of profit that their profits would be entirely absorbed. In future, sales from manufacturers to wholesalers shall bear 1½ per cent.; wholesalers to retailers shall bear 1½ per cent.; manufacturers direct to retailers or consumers, 3 per cent.; importers to manufacturers or wholesalers, 2½ per cent.; importers to retailers, consumers or for personal use, 4 per cent.

Anti-Dumping Clause.

The new budget offers a partial protection against "Dumping." Duties at present are paid on the "Fair Market Value." The new budget provides that the value shall in no case be "lower than the wholesale price of the article at such time and place" of importation. Conceivably difficulties may be encountered in determining first what is a "wholesale price," especially so in conditions such as the past few months when the "price" of many articles was the sum that the buyer was "willing to pay." The principle, however, is sound—under the operation of this clause, it will be impossible to bill goods into Canada at "factory" or "assembly" cost.

Charging Duty on Exchange.

Leaving tariff matters, largely in abeyance, pending action by the American Government on their own tariff problems, is doubtless a good move and will place Canada in the position of having something to "bargain" with. A slight ban is, however, placed on the nation's excessive imports by assessing custom charges on the "exchange" premium. In other words, customs duties will be collected upon the amount of Canadian funds required to liquidate a bill drawn in American funds. Roughly taking the total dutiable American imports at $400,000,000 and allowing an average exchange premium of 12 per cent., the amount of $48,000,000 extra dutiable value will be added. Allowing also an average of 25 per cent. duty, the customs receipts are due to be increased by $12,000,000 and that without adding either to our tariff charges or to our adverse foreign exchange balance.

Supertax and Surtax Remain.

It is not without regret that business men find that they must continue under the irritation of the Supertax and Surtax. That those two measures are needlessly harassing is undoubted, and that they will be withdrawn at the first possible moment is probable. Urgency of national revenue is the argument and only just cause for their retention and it is to be hoped that the results of the Sales Tax will justify their quick abolition. That this is not beyond the realm of possibility would seem evident if the above estimated yield from Sales Tax can be realized.

CRISP COMMENT

Not a sound was heard—not even a "funeral note"—from the Opposition anent the grave exchange problem—the most difficult that has ever faced the country.

Let the grasses and flowers grow quickly and conceal them, for just now the world has need of soothing forgetfulness. COMMUNIST LOGIC

London Morning Post

Communists who appeal to the practice of the early Church in support of their views usually fail to observe two rather significant facts. The first is that so far as Scriptural evidence goes we are not warranted in supposing that the custom of "having all things in common" extended beyond the Christians in Jerusalem. The second is that references to the necessity for making special collections throughout the Church for "the poor saints which are in Jerusalem" suggest that the Communistic experiment was not a success, and that Communism then, as now, meant living at other people's expense.

FALSE TEACHERS

London Daily Telegraph

We are happily a common-sense nation, able to draw sound conclusions from facts. In spite of the condition to which the miners' strike has reduced us there is evidence that the mass of the workers of this country realize that they have been lured to the edge of a precipice. They have looked over the side during the past few weeks, and the spectacle should be sufficient to warn them of the dire penalties of practising such economic follies as the wild men of the Labor party have been so industriously advocating. Ruin the mines of this country! Cut off its foreign trade! Injure its shipping! Impair its credit! Do these things, and the day of its economic dissolution will arrive.

IN PRAISE OF WINE

While man is born, and laughs, and dies,
He shall drink wine, and seek blue skies.
No whiskey, gin, or brandy fell
Drunk by the restless souls of hell.
But wine that sparkles red and white
Prest from the vineyards of delight.
Great Galic wines .... come chant with me
Their names of mirth and melody.

Corton and Pommard, Vouvray, Beaune,
Ruddy as sunset glow. Alone
Vieux Faye from Dark Angers shall be
Your peer, Vigneau and Vieux Chablis.
Chateau Yquem, Rabaud, Sauterne,
Full of the scent of hills that burn
Under a cloudless sky. Mersault,
Pape Clement, Chambertin ... a dolt
Speaks wisdom while such bottles pass.
Graves, Medoc, Pouilly: fill the glass,
Clink brim to brim, and banish strife
Drink and be merry, short is life,
For honest men while earth doth move,
Hail comradeship and women's love,
Drink deep good wine, and praise with mirth
The Lord of vineyards, sun and earth.

FROM B. C. TO JAPAN

Vancouver.—A Japanese firm proposes to make another attempt to raft timber from British Columbia to Japan. They believe that the Davis Raft structure, of which the outside rows of logs are laced with cable can be made to stand the trans-Pacific passage. The first raft will leave this coast about August. It will have a super-structure of piled logs, strongly laced. Hitherto rafted logs have not withstood the long sea journeys, except one which was taken from San Francisco to China about twenty years ago. Favored by a calm seas the raft was safely landed. The Chinese, however, unused to big logs, took ten years to cut up this boom, using long hand rip saws to make the boards.

Belleville Wins at Lindsay

On Wednesday afternoon at Lindsay a fairly large crowd watched the Belleville Grand Trunks trim the Lindsay Greybirds. The Lindsay boys must have had a broken wing, as they flew across the home plate only once, and that was in the ninth inning. The game was seen to be all our own when watching the try-out. One player of great favor and comment said: "If we don't beat them I'm going right on north. The game was impartially handled by Kay of Peterborough on strikes and balls and Butler of Lindsay on bases, who made a few sketchey decisions, and the crowd lost faith in him, but the crowd all loved Kay as much as ever when the game was over. Walter Gerow, the manager, is to be commended for the way in which he has his team working. The fielding, catching and other little details are first class, while the batting of Wednesday was worth a million dollars. Freddy was in his old style and Peany was right there to receive them. The game was called at three o'clock sharp by Kay and after the usual conference the game began.

The game by innings:

FIRST INNING.

Belleville—Ross up, rolled to pitcher, out on first—close decision on Butler's part. Meagher and Weir struck out.

Lindsay—Stark out on grounder to first. Williamson flew to Casey. McMahon hit to Weir, safe on first on Weir's error. Coombe struck out.

SECOND INNINGS.

Belleville—W. Mills hit safely between first and second, stole second. Frank Goyer hit to Carew, two base hit, Mills scored. Casey hit through third, stole second. H. Mills flew to McMahon. Williams struck out. Freddy Goyer out at first.

Lindsay—Carew reached first. Logan hit to right field. Workman struck out. McDonald struck out. Oulette walked. Stark struck out.

THIRD INNINGS.

Belleville—Ross out at first. Meagher struck out. Weir made hit to centre, stole second. W. Mills flew to Oulette.

Lindsay—Williamson grounded to short, out at first. McMahon and Coombe struck out.

FOURTH INNING.

Frank Goyer flew to third. Casey rolled to pitcher, out at first. H. Mills out at first.

Lindsay—Carew out at first. Logan out at first. Workman flew to catcher.

FIFTH INNING:

Belleville — Williams struck out. Freddy hit to first. Ross hit to first. Meagher reached first on bunt, scoring Freddy Goyer and Ross. Weir hit to first. W. Mills made three-bagger.

A Little Argument With The Ump.

Weir scored. Mills caught between second and third. Frank Goyer hit to second, out at first. Casey walked and H. Mills flew to McMahon.

Lindsay—McDonald struck out. Oulette struck out. Stark hit to short, safe on first. Williamson flew to pitcher.

SIXTH INNING.

Belleville—Williams flew to third, who muffed, safe on first, stole second and third. Freddy bunted a foul ball on the last strike-out. Ross hit to first, safe on second's error. Williams scored. Meagher flew to Workman. Weir struck out.

Lindsay—McMahon flew to H. Mills. Coombe struck out. Carew flew to Freddy.

SEVENTH INNING

Belleville—W. Mills flew to 1st, out. Soup flew to pitcher, out on first. Casey struck out.

Lindsay—Logan out at first. Workman reached first on overthrow. McDonald out at first. Oulette struck out.

EIGHTH INNING.

Belleville—H. Mills hit to first. Williams hit over third. Freddy out at first. Ross flew to McDonald. Williams caught at second on double play.

Lindsay—Stark struck out. Williamson flew to pitcher. McMahon flew to Williams.

NINTH INNING.

York took Stark's place at left field, Carew playing third.

Belleville—Meagher safe on first. Weir walked. W. Mills flew to third. Soup hit to first, Meagher scored. Casey struck out. Weir scored and H. Mills flew to Workman.

Lindsay—Coombe hit by ball, stole second and third. Carew out at first. Coombe scored on passed ball. Bates, batting for Logan, struck out, and Workman hit to Williams, out at first.

The teams lined up as follows:

Lindsay—Stark, 3rd; Williamson, l.f.; Carew, r.f.; Coombe, 1st; McMahon, c.f.; Workman, 2nd; McDonald, s.s.; Oulette, p.; Logan, c.

Belleville—Ross, c.f.; Meagher, l.f.; Weir, s.s.: W. Mills, c.; Frank Goyer, 3rd; Casey, r.f.; H. Mills, 1st; Williams, 2nd; Fred Goyer, p.; Symons, spare.

Lindsay—3 hits, 8 strike-outs, 5 errors, 1 walked, 1 double play.

Belleville—10 hits, 2 errors, 11 strike outs, 1 walked.

NOTES.

Mr. Dedmond, a prominent Lindsay merchant, presented each of the Lindsay ball players with a beautiful straw hat when Lindsay beat Belleville here recently. Mr. Belleville Merchant, why not give the boys of the Belleville team a straw hat with a flaring band on it, not like the one the Greybirds are wearing, with the mourning ribbon around it?

Stark, the Lindsay third baseman, and a good one at that, was hit on the ankle with a ball. He had an accident a while ago and this latter accident does not help it along any, so Lindsay loses a good player for a few days.

Jack Sanders, a Grand Trunker, of Lindsay, was kind enough to take a number of the players up the Scugog River in his motor boat.

Belleville's slate recorded very few errors for the Lindsay game.

Freddy, with eleven strike-outs, proves that he is still in A1 condition and can deliver the goods. Given a little more dependable support from the basemen and fielders, and the championship is assured.

W. Mills' catching really deserves more space than is obtainable. Freddy can rely on his catcher to back him up in any and all plays.

Casey in the field did good work. Ross held his position acceptably, Meagher also turning in a good account of all balls sent his way.

Weir has improved since his last game but has occasional difficulty in getting the range where batting is concerned.

H. Mills on first has the goods, playing tight ball all the way.

Williams on second is swift and is improving at the bat.

Frank Goyer, on third, is not very speedy, but is a heavy batter, which is a necessity.

On the whole game the locals deserve every little attention shown them, and its up to those who profess to be such wonderful, active ball enthusiasts (baseball, not dance enthusiasts) to prove it in a substantial manner.

ENTERED WHOLE - HEARTEDLY INTO VARIOUS ACTIVITIES ABOARD VESSEL

Liverpool, June 15.—After a voyage of seven days Premier Meighen landed yesterday afternoon and shortly afterwards boarded a train for London. The trip across was uneventful except for one day's delay by fog and icebergs and the Prime Minister proved himself an excellent sailor.

When President Wilson crossed to Europe to attend the Peace Conference he was shielded from the ordinary passengers by an impenetrable barrier of secretaries and officials. Mr. Meighen, however, refused to be hedged about by any like divinity and from the first day out he entered into the various activities of shipboard with avidity.

Among the first on deck in the morning, he spent a great deal of his time playing shuttlecock, a game at which he exhibited considerable skill. In the evening he was among the most enthusiastic dancers and later in the night would disclose his puritanical upbringing by playing the second worst game of bridge on the boat.

Was Most Popular

Americans and Englishmen comprised the majority of the passenger list and were agreeably surprised at his complete absence of side and affectation and toward the end of the voyage the Premier was quite the most popular figure aboard.

On Saturday night when the customary concert was held on behalf of the Seaman's Home at Liverpool, Mr. Meighen had an opportunity of displaying another side of his character and his speech, delivered in his best House of Commons style, eulogizing the work of the British Mercantile Marine and touching on the maritime glory of the British race called forth an enthusiastic and practical response.

On Sunday the stork alighted on the ship, leaving a beautiful boy of a Canadian mother and the child was christened William Meighen Smith, a compliment which the Premier repaid by personally visiting the mother and conveying a suitable gift.

But it was not all play, for on the way over the Premier found time to go thoroughly into the position which he intends taking at the Imperial Conference. He read and reread Duncan Hall's recent but already well known study of the constitutional question, and he also studied the Anglo-Japanese Alliance Treaty from every conceivable angle and incidentally assisted Hon. Dr. Tomlie, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, who was also a passenger, in preparing a statement [illegible]sented to the British authorities on the cattle embargo question.

Premier Meighen was met by W. L. Griffith, of the office of the Canadian High Commissioner, in London, and was welcomed to Liverpool by the Lord Mayor, Mr. Russell Taylor.

The Premier was advised on arriving here that the conference does not open until Monday.

REPORT EXAGGERATED

Vancouver.—The alleged underhanded attempt by Davy Jones to rob the provincial government of ten thousand cases of Scotch aboard the steamer Spectator by sucking the vessel beneath the sea off the Mexican coast, has been exaggerated, Captain H. Owen reported on arrival here.

The captain said it was true that volcanic disturbances in Mexico caused an earthquake which was felt by the big steamer, but the story of being drawn into Davy Jones and spewed forth again because Davy did not like the taste of whiskey was without foundation. A special report of the occurrence has been handed in by the officials to offset misleading reports.

PRIZES FOR IMPROVED SEED

The Dominion Department of Agriculture, through the Seed Branch, works in active co-operation with the provinces in the matter of improving grain and field seeds. Money is provided to pay prizes in standing field crop competitions, at seed fairs and provincial seed exhibitions, and in combined seed crop and cleaned seed competitions. The last named is a recent introduction. It has two distinct phases, the first consisting of a standing field crop competition and the second of threshed and cleaned seed in which the seed produced from the fields of the first phase is judged in the granary of the competitor. The competitions must have at least fifteen entries in each, and the foundation seed used must be of approved origin. The minimum quantities of cleaned seed that competitors must be prepared to submit to qualify for awards are : wheat, barley, peas, buckwheat and corn each 100 bushels, oats 200 bushels, field beans 25 bushels, clovers and timothy 15 bushels, and potatoes 150 bushels. The awards except in the case of potatoes, are made on a basis of 65 per cent. on the bin score and 35 per cent. on the field score. In the case of potatoes the method is reversed, the award being based on 35 per cent. on the bin score and 65 per cent. on the field score. All agricultural associations are eligible to conduct these competitions, provided the association entering does not conduct a field crop competition in the same season with the same kind of crop. To the prize money under subvention agreement, the Dominion subscribes $200 in each instance and the province $100.

FINE "GRIDIRON" AT COBLENZ

American Soldiers Stationed There Have Facilities for Almost Every Kind of Sport.

Elaborate preparations were made at Coblenz, Germany, for the football season. Grounds and stadiums which were only partly finished a year ago have been made permanent playing fields, and many of them compare favorably with the best college gridirons in the United States.

The most elaborately finished ground is in Coblenz, known as "Carnival Island." It was on this ground that the Third army championships were decided last season, but the ground at that time was not in as good condition as it is today. Neither were there proper facilities, such as dressing rooms.

At this island there are now two regular baseball fields, two football fields, a golf course of nine holes, a polo ground, a quarter-mile cinder track, with 220 yard straightaway, and outdoor basketball courts. On another part is a ring for horse shows and nine tennis courts.

Suitable bleachers to accommodate 5,000 spectators have been built, and there also are a large number of properly equipped dressing rooms with showers, rubbing tables and store rooms.

Not only at Coblenz are there grounds available for the soldiers, but at Andernach, Montabaur, and Neuwied the old grounds left by the A. E. F. have been taken over by the Y. M. C. A. and enlarged and remade in every particular.

PROBABLY THOUGHT A LOT

But Really, Under the Circumstances, There Was Nothing the Actor-Manager Could Say.

The late Oscar Hammerstein, who had a genius for advertising his theatrical enterprises, used to tell a story about an English actor-manager's attempt to follow his example.

"My conferee," Mr. Hammerstein would say, "was having a new theater built in London. Casting about for some good way to advertise it, he decided that an admirable scheme would be to have the workmen while excavating for the foundation come across Roman antiquities. So he stole down to the operation at dead of night and deposited a number of costly, genuine Roman antiquities just below the surface of the spot being excavated.

"The next morning he arrived in haste to hear the news of the great find and report it to the journals. Seeing that the men had already dug well below his hidden treasure, he said:

"'Good morning, foreman. Anything interesting this morning?'

"'No, sir, not a thing, sir,' the foreman answered.

"The actor-manager looked at the bulging pockets of the workmen and said nothing. What could he say?"

Scaw Fell Pike.

Scaw Fell Pike, Cumberland's mountain summit, is to be the property of Englishmen in perpetuity. The highest hill of England is the very noble gift made by Lord Leconfield to the men of Cumbria who fought in the war, and as a token of gratitude to those who gave their lives for the cause of the world's liberty. Truly a gift in the spirit of Ruskin and one which causes the Manchester Guardian to utter deepest appreciation—a gift, it says, through which "even we common people may get a momentary entry into the ecstasies of the poets and see the earth and everything in it mystically appareled with 'the glory and the freshness of a dream.'" Scaw Fell Pike has the venerable distinction of being among the most ancient mountains of Europe, outdistancing the Alps in point of years.

Shifting Misery.

C. Winslow, a Terre Haute business man, recently went back to his home town for a visit. While there he met an elderly village character in the street. The man was bent and complaining. "Why, how are you?" began Mr. Winslow, genially.

"Not very well, fact I'm pretty poorly," whined the man. "You see I have the most terrible misery here," and he indicated his stomach.

"But I thought it was in your neck when I was home last," Mr. Winslow commented.

"Yes, it was there then," the man agreed, "but you see since then I swallowed that misery and it's been in my stomach ever since."

Boom in Lobsters.

Very extensive lobster catches are reported off the eastern coast of Canada. Recently the boats were taking these faster than the factories could pack them. The catch was divided over the various canning factories. One boat, belonging to a well-known fleet, took as many as 4,400 fish. A resident of Escuminac reports that he put 9,000 live lobsters, which he was unable to pack at the time, into a boat which he had transformed into a cage, and sunk it in order to keep the fish alive until such time as he could use them.

Chinese Trade.

The Foochow branch of the American Association of China was recently formed. The new organization will largely care for American commercial interests, which are rapidly expanding in the Foochow consular district, and will take the place of an American chamber of commerce, the number of local Americans being too small to support a chamber of commerce.

Major E. O. Reid, Chief Accountant of the office of Public Trustee for Ontario, committed suicide at Lewiston. Police had a warrant for his arrest. His accounts were wrong.

Nectar and Beeswax.

According to Mr. Gaston Bonnier, of the French Academy of Science, flowers make nectar for their own use, and not, as Darwin believed, to attract the bees, in order that they may carry the pollen on their legs and bodies from one blossom to another. M. Bonnier also has demonstrated that bees do not get the wax of which their honeycombs are built from the flowers, as is generally supposed. They secrete it themselves.

The wax is described as a fatty substance, formed in special glands, situated under several rings of the abdomen. It exudes in the form of whitish flakes, which the bees gather with their legs and use as building material. The nectar formed at the base of the corolla of many flowers is used by the fertilized fruit or seed as nutriment in growing, much as the yolk of an egg is used by the embryo chick.

This, according to M. Bonnier, is proved by the disappearance of the nectar as the fruit bud enlarges. But the nectar has another use; namely, to check the evaporation of water from the surface of the plant, for sweetened water evaporates much more slowly than unsweetened. The bees suck up the nectar, which does not pass into the stomach but into an expansion of the esophagus. There it undergoes a partial chemical transformation under the influence of a substance called invertase, which acts as a ferment. When the bee disgorges the honey into the wax cell it also discharges a little invertase and, before closing the cell, a tiny drop of venom from its sting to prevent fermentation. "Thus," says Bonnier, "the bees invented 'antiseptics before Pasteur or Lister."

It is this drop of poison that preserves the honey for years.

No Actresses

There are so many actresses today that it is hard to believe there was a time when there was none. Yet, before 1656 A.D., no civilized country could boast a woman "star." There was no law against it, but it was considered a disgrace for a woman to appear on the stage, and woman's parts, as in the Chinese theater of to-day, were taken by boys or men. Rose Coleman broke the ice in 1656. She appeared in "The Siege of Rhodes," and her success was so great that scores of English women followed her example, and France, Germany and other nations followed suit in haste.—N. Y. Sun.

American Family Life.

In America, according to figures recently compiled by Dr. Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, about 21 million families occupy 19 million houses; six million families own their own homes; three more million families have them on mortgage, twelve million people have bank deposits, etc.; there are 6½ million farms, and 3,000 public libraries exist.

RELICS IN MONTREAL

The Portrait Which Inspired Scott's "Rebecca" In "Ivanhoe."

Over the stately antique sideboard in the dining-room of Mrs. Henry Joseph of Montreal hangs an oil painting of a most beautiful young woman—the late Miss Rebecca Gratz of Philadelphia.

It is one of those portraits that when once seen dwell forever in the memory of the observer, for the very features seem to tell of the romance of the age in which she lived, of love, of nobility of soul and character, and finally of death and the passing away of the noble British aristocracy who were among the settlers of the Colony of Pennsylvania.

But her character which was as beautiful as her face has never died, but has been immortalized in one of Sir Walter Scott's most famous novels, "Ivanhoe."

The author never knew this beautiful woman, but all her charms and graces were visualized by a gentleman, Washington Irving, American author, a great friend of the young lady's family, when he visited Sir Walter in Scotland early in the nineteenth century.

The story goes that Mr. Irving was one day telling Sir Walter Scott all about this beautiful girl, who not only had charm of manner but was as sweet as she was beautiful. Sir Walter became very interested and asked all manner of questions concerning her views of life, and her ideals.

He possibly never informed Mr. Irving at the time that he intended to use Miss Rebecca Gratz of Philadelphia for his heroine in a novel, but when it was later discovered who it was who wrote the Waverley Novels Mr. Irving recognized Scott's Rebecca as his "Rebecca."

Mrs. Joseph also has a bust of Napoleon Bonaparte. It occupied a corner of one of his rooms during his exile on the Island of St. Helena.

When he died his sister, Queen Caroline of Naples, claimed the marble bust of her brother, because it was so intimately associated with him during the sadness of his exile. This, with other treasures, she carefully guarded for some time, until she parted with the bust as a remembrance gift to one of her ladies-in-waiting, a Mrs. Fox.

This Mrs. Fox later married Mr. Henry Joseph's father's brother, in Europe. She then came out with her husband to the new world, bringing her treasure with her. When she died she left it for a family heirloom with her husband's brother, who in his turn willed it to his son, Mr. Henry Joseph, of Montreal, who treasures it as one of his most valuable relics.

A Rocket.

A rocket to reach a height of twenty-five miles would have to weigh twenty-five pounds, of which about seventeen pounds would be explosives now," says an expert.

THE WAYS OF GENIUS.

Brandy Used by Edgar Allan Poe to "Inspire" Him.

Grieg, the musician, when about to compose, would first memorize the words whose meaning he wished to express by sounds.

"I require several days to heat my head," he once said; "then I lose my appetite, my eyes become inflamed, and the imagination is stimulated. Then I compose an opera in three weeks." Most people will agree that work produced under such conditions deserves to succeed.

Edgar Allan Poe was in the habit of drinking brandy for the same purpose. Voltaire went in for coffee, and De Musset for a mixture of beer and absinthe. De Quincey is said to have used opium, though he found it as much a hindrance as a help; and Burns preferred whiskey.

There are other methods still, however. Schiller put his feet in ice while he sat in a room filled with the odor of rotten apples. Milton buried his head in cushions and banklets. Rousseau preferred to have the sun heating on his head, while Shelley wrote with his head close to the fire.

Quite a number of people, other than men of genius, have discovered the advantages of thinking in bed; but of the intellectual giants who always preferred this method, Descartes and Leibnitz are noteworthy.

Lecky, the historian, modified the method; he used to kneel upon a specially constructed sofa and write upon the head of it, so that the line between head and heart was horizontal and the blood flow thereby aided. The same result was secured more comfortably by Swinburne, who used to write while lying on the floor.

In contrast to these, Victor Hugo always stood upright at his desk. Herbert Spencer used to utilize physical exercise, perhaps the best method of all. After rowing, or playing with a ball for a time, he would sit down and dictate. Later he would try more exercise, and so on.

The British dominions now have great buildings in London, where their activity is centralized and proclaimed to the world. So far no foreign nation has an establishment of this kind, but Norway has acquired Victory-house, Charing Cross, where Norwegian activity in London will be centralized. The sum paid for the building and site is $1,125,000, the whole amount being raised by public subscription in Norway.

St. Agnes School Pupils Entertain

Large and Appreciative Audience Greet Performance by Pupils Of Literature Classes

The Fifth Form Literature Classes of St. Agnes' School presented on Wednesday afternoon a delightful comedy titled "Twelfth Night," in five acts. All those taking part proved a great credit to their teachers and to themselves by their true representation of the different characters which they portrayed. The costumes were suitable to the time of the play, being picturesque and unusual in style. A splendid audience, both for size and attentiveness greeted the production, giving encouragement to the teachers and pupils to "carry on" in this particular phase of training.

The day was beautiful, lovely, clear and warm, and being particularly suited for the performance which was enacted in the spacious grounds of the school, the fresh green of the shrubs, flowers and grass making a wonderful fairy background for the actresses taking part. The program, with those taking part and the characters they represented, follows:

Orsino, Duke of Ilyria—Laleah Burpee.
Sebastian, brother to Viola—Eileen Carpenter.
Antonio, Sea Captain, friend to Sebastian—Edith Baillie.
Sea Captain, friend to Viola—Elaine Gilmour.
Valentine and Curio, gentlemen attending on Duke—Berys Gilmour and Blanche Acer.
Sir Toby Belch, Uncle to Olivia—Margaret Watson.
Sir Andrew Aquecheek—Pearl Hutton.
Malvolio, Steward to Olivia—E. M. Thornton.
Fabian and Feste—servants to Olivia—E. Schwerdfiger and Rita Ritchie.
Olivia—Hilda Field.
Viola—Mary Currie.
Maria, Olivia's Woman—Mary Tugman.
Priest—Margaret Fleck.
Officers—Aileen Rogers and Evelyn Bull.

Miss Carroll, lady principal of the school, with her able assistants, is to be congratulated on the splendid manner in which the pupils conducted themselves throughout the performance.

Y.W.C.T.U. Hold an Interesting Session

Date of Garden Party Decided On Helpful and Interesting Address By Association President

An interesting meeting of the Y. W. C. T. U. was held last evening at Miss N. Deacson's, George Street, with the vice-president, Miss E. Gastrell, in the chair. Misses Tucker and Farley took part in the devotional exercises. Mrs. Keeber's rendition of "The Carnival" was much enjoyed.

Miss F. McClatchie, associate president, and delegate to the recent county convention held at Camden East, gave a pithy report, with dashes of humor. She emphasized the importance of the devotional half-hour and the noontide prayer. Whoever leads in the devotional exercises must be prepared and not depend on the spur of the moment. The Anti-Narcotic and Citizenship departments were both considered needful and of value. She spoke of one Bible reading of special interest on "Hospitality," for service, not show.

In speaking of the Travellers' Aid work she drew attention to the help the revenue of the coupons of Surprise soap wrappers was to this work. She said the importance of teaching scientific temperance to boys and girls cannot be over-estimated. We want the children to grow up to be good men and women and vote intelligently when they get the franchise.

Attention was also drawn to the percentage of alcohol in some patent medicines—Peruna, Tanlac, etc., also the essences received a scoring as well as some soft drinks. After many helpful quotations and suggestions she closed by saying, "Pull if you can pull, push if you can push; if you can neither pull nor push at least keep out of the way."

During the business part of the program Mrs. Keeber was appointed superintendent of the department of Health and Heredity. The annual garden party was also discussed, and Mrs. O'Flynn offered her spacious lawn for July 14 or 15, the offer being gratefully accepted. It was decided that the proceeds will go for Armenian Child Relief work.

Those having flowers brought them; others got them from friends for the "flower mission work" to take to the sick and shut-ins.

England's Moral Outlook Has Many Hopeful Signs As Result of Lean Years

DISCUSSING in the Yale Review the problem of "Religion in England After the War," Dean Inge says—

"I have little doubt that the lean years will produce a genuine religious revival. The bankruptcy with which we are threatened is moral and social as well as economic. We have been nursed on a false theory of progress, a theory which is false in two ways. We have supposed it to be automatic, a kind of law of nature; and nature has no such law. We have also measured it by quantitative standards. We have gloated over tables of statistics; we have rejoiced to hear that our population and our trade and the area of our Empire are growing. We have even assumed that this expansion is a proof of the favor of heaven, and have contrasted our fortunes with those of other nations—'lesser breeds without the law.'

"However, it would be very unjust if outsiders were to suppose that great arrogance is characteristic of the Englishman to-day; it reached its zenith in the days of Lord Palmerston and Macaulay's History. We are not now, I think, an arrogant nation. But the vulgar quantitative estimate of good and evil still remains to warp our judgments, and infects with materialism our standards of living. If, as I think probable, we are about to enter on the path of decline in material wealth, we shall begin to revise our standards. We shall realize that we have been following the wrong road; that our concentration on the good things of this world has not only failed to bring us happiness, but has led to the loss of those good things themselves. It seems to be an historical law that no nations remain very rich for a long period.

"The love of pleasure becomes too strong for the love of accumulation; the tendency to indolence which is innate in human character is no longer checked by want; the different classes in the community begin to fight each other for their share of the spoils; and the expense of protecting the national wealth against acquisitive neighbors becomes a burden too great for the state to bear. Such has been the fate of other wealthy communities; and we are scarcely likely to escape it. If we do not escape it, there will be an apparent change in our national character. I say apparent, because it may be doubted whether nature intended the Englishman to be a money-making animal. Behind the practical activities and strength of will which have impressed foreigners as our national characteristics there is a strong vein of idealism, which has found expression in a very noble poetry, and in the genuine piety of the most typical Englishmen.

"It may well be that now that our mission as a world power is nearly accomplished — for we may hope that the young Englands beyond the seas will soon be strong enough to protect themselves—we may realize another and not less worthy ambition, that of being the spiritual home and ancestral hearth of a number of vigorous nations, speaking our language and moulded on our traditions. Whether this will be so will depend on the temper in which we meet the trials of the next fifty years."

Goodwin Sand Treasures.

A suggestive idea put forward by Lord Headley, the great engineering authority, at a recent lecture in London, was that the Goodwin Sands might be explored for buried treasures. On that spot, he pointed out, was the accumulation of centuries of disasters, and within a few square miles many millions of pounds worth of treasure are hidden. Various schemes to recover these treasures have been turned down, but Lord Headley thinks it possible to sink a big floating concrete tower in Trinity Bay and to run tunnels from this base of operations in any direction. Boring with suitable augers would probably reveal the presence of many an old craft, and the next question would be to arrange for rapid tunnelling. "The problem of the Goodwins is not exactly a 'wild cat' scheme," says Lord Headley, "but it comes under the heading of 'highly speculative adventure'." It is none the less fascinating for that, and is far more sound than many a mining venture, because the treasure is really there.

Calling In Cairo.

Englishmen who do not know Cairo sometimes take houses in remote and undesirable parts of the city. In "Egypt as We Knew It," Mrs. E. L. Butcher amusingly describes how hard it is to find a person who has thus gone astray. Her husband, she says, wrote to a doctor for the address of some friends whom she knew he had attended. Here is the doctor's answer: "The M——'s live in a house without a number in a street without a name next door to an Armenian butcher who, I think, has no sign, west of Abdin Palace! The staircase has eighty-seven steps."

Sounds and Water.

Experiments have proved that sounds made in the air are inaudible under water, being almost completely reflected from its surface. So whether fish have ears or not, they cannot hear the angler talking. While fishing from a boat it is far more important to keep still than to keep silent. The noise of your feet against the bottom of the boat is transmitted through it to the water below the surface, and sounds made in water travel through it readily and far.

ELEPHANTS GO BAD.

How They Cause Excitement In Circuses.

In the circus menagerie wild animals are always held to be dangerous, says Frank Braden in Popular Mechanics. In the performing area this assumption is the first rule of training. No animal can be trusted. The most tractable and obedient beast will turn and attack at any time the mood seizes it. Trainers know this well, and the successful ones are always prepared for a sudden spring or a sweeping stroke of unsheathed claws. But until the animal has once rebelled successfully —broken down man's mastery temporarily—it is not "bad" in the sense that trainers use the term. A bad elephant is ever biding his time to kill or watching for a chance to lead other elephants into a stampede. And nothing in circus life is so fraught with terrifying possibilities as an elephant stampede.

Of all the bad elephants ever in America, "Snyder, the tusker," came nearest to dying "in character," as theatrical slang has it. For Snyder died with his "boots on." It was at Salina, Kansas, September 13, 1920. Snyder had done nothing unusual since the engagement of the circus at the Chicago Coliseum. However, one of his trainers had been left ill in a hospital along the route. The boss elephant man was the day before called home on urgent business. This left a trainer in charge who had not been with the herd for three years. This change made the herd restless, especially Snyder. After parade that Monday forenoon the general manager of the show ordered a rehearsal of the middle-ring elephants, among which was Snyder, the pre-eminent feature. No sooner had Snyder reached the ring than he turned and raced out, with two attendants clinging to him with bull hooks jabbed deep into his trunk. Out of the big top into the menagerie loped the big tusker, the men fighting him at every stride. Through the wall of the menagerie tent Snyder plunged and shook off his attendants, striking at them with his trunk. The tucker's small eyes were red with blood lust, and circus men, forming a line of skirmishers, headed the crowds on the lot on to the streets outside the fences.

Others, led by the elephant men, formed a great circle about the elephant in order that he might be headed if he turned toward the towns-people. For three hours the big elephant spent his time in turning over immensely heavy pole, seat and baggage wagons. Once he picked up a cage of lions and hurled it thirty feet. He started for a den of leopards, but the snarling cats, rearing against the bars with their claws extended, scared him off. All during the excitement, the elephant heeded his name. So, as he would start a charge, the circus men would divert him by calling to him. Thus the field of his activities was restricted. Outside the menagerie was a small tent in which the elephant men were wont to rest between shows. This the elephant knocked over, stamping upon every foot of the flattened canvas in the apparent hope that some one of the men was underneath.

Once he rushed for the great six-pole top in which 300 of the show's finest draft stock were stabled. As the elephant approached, a quick whistle from the boss hostler brought sixty drivers and grooms with pitchforks into line in front of the tent. There were men in that line who had driven and nursed their six and eight-horse teams for years. They were there to die rather than see their pets harmed. The sun glinted on the thin line of pronged steel. Snyder, charging with long, lumbering strides, saw and understood. He came to a full stop, turned and went back to the menagerie tent, where he wrecked the candy tent.

Meanwhile the general manager had sent for rifles. He also had prepared apples with cyanide of potassium. These were thrown to the elephant. He ate one and then tossed the others aside. It is likely he detected the poison. That contained in the one apple had no effect on him. The manager had managed to get "Trilby," Snyder's show mate, chained at one side of the show lot where people would not obstruct the line of fire, if he should decide to shoot the mad brute. When the poisoned apples failed to slow up Snyder's rushes, he gave the word. It was then a matter of daring or driving the elephant to a point where he could see Trilby, for it was almost certain that he would attempt to loosen her when he sighted her. Such proved to be the outcome. But, as Snyder neared her the assistant manager, armed with a 45.90 rifle, fired. The bullet caught the tusker in the hollow over the right eye, piercing the brain. Three ex-officers of the army also opened fire, but unnecessarily, for the manager's shot was fatal. Slowly, without a sound or a struggle, the elephant sank to his knees and stretched out on his right side. So ended the only elephant hunt ever held in the heart of Kansas.

Old-Time Theatre-Going.

Attendance at some theatres in the early eighteenth century must have been in the nature of a discipline, if the conditions outlined in the following excerpt (vouched for by the "Messager Boiteux" of 1837 as being taken from a playbill of 1734) were in any way common: "For the sake of the convenience of the public, the first row in the pit are directed to lie down, the second to kneel, and the third to stand, so as to enable all the spectators to see the performance. Laughing is prohibited, as the play is a tragedy."

The First Census.

The first census on record was taken by King Servius Tullius in 577 B.C., when all Roman citizens were obliged to report the amount of their property and the number of their children and their slaves.

Four Men Start Gold Pile

New York, June 15.—The task of counting, piece by piece and note by note, the largest amount of gold and gold certificates ever brought together in one spot in the history of the world has been undertaken by four of the fastest counters in the employ of the government.

These four men constitute a board representing the Treasury Department and the Mint, and it is their task to check up and calculate the amount of gold now held by the United States Assay Office, with certificates held there, and to certify the amounts as correct to the last penny.

F. H. Chaffin, chief clerk of the Philadelphia Mint; L. T. Ziegler and S. A. Schwartz of the Treasury Department in Washington, and H. S. Webster of the California Mint, constitute the board engaged in the task. The work is in general charge of Chaffin, and is expected to take approximately one month.

Just how much gold the members of the board will be obliged to count will not be made public by the Assay Office officials. In fact no figures ever have been given out as to the amount of gold the vaults hold. It is known, however, that the amount is upwards of $1,000,000,000, and probably close to $1,250,000,000. It is the largest amount of gold ever concentrated in one spot.

Health turns the Clock Back

Edison Wears No Tight Fist

ONE-MINUTE ESSAYS ON HEALTH BY DR. WM. P. REDICK

Thomas A. Edison holds that no one should wear tight fitting collars, belts, shoes or other wearing apparel which will irritate the nerves or interfere with the natural action of any organ or part.

Because of the movable joints of the spine and the alternate relaxation and strain of daily physical activity, not one spine in ten is entirely free of deviations. Every such deviation is causing some degree of pressure on spinal nerves. The chiropractor by the skillful application of his science restores alignment and nerve freedom.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of diseases of the brain, eyes, ears, nose, throat, heart, lungs, liver, stomach, kidneys, intestines, and genital organs.

VOL. LIV. NO. 131.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1921.

Vision of New World Was Vividly Depicted

ABLE AND INTERESTING ADDRESS BY DR. FERGUSON OF BOSTON—ANGLO-AMERICAN UNITY A GREAT FACTOR IN SOLVING PERPLEXING PROBLEMS.

Dr. John Ferguson of Boston, Mass., a former well-known Bellevillian, and a graduate of Albert College was on Thursday noon, the guest of honor at a luncheon held at Hotel Quinte, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary and the Lions' Clubs. The gathering was a most representative one, and included a number of the fair sex.

Mr. J. Bone, President of the Chamber of Commerce, was in the chair and at his right sat Dr. Ferguson. After luncheon, the chairman and Mr. J. O. Herity, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce gave brief addresses referring eulogistically to Dr. Ferguson, the honored guest upon this occasion. Dr. Ferguson received a cordial reception upon rising to speak, and in his opening remarks referred to the pleasure it gave him to visit Belleville, his former home. It was a great privilege to come back to Belleville and exchange thoughts with Belleville citizens. It was a delightful honor which he appreciated. The kind words of Mr. Herity who introduced him were altogether too flattering, but were much appreciated. The Doctor refered to his father, the alte Rev. J. Ferguson and his mother, of this city, who was a minister of the Methodist church, and whose bodies lie in Belleville cemetery, which he had visited.

He desired to speak on this occasion on "The New World". Things in the world were entirely different from 1914, and it is virtually a new world. Some people who are depressed, say it is not as good a world as it was. They say old ties have been shattered and severed; new ones made, and when they say there is no improvement, he (the speaker) was not so sure of that. There is a new spirit abroad in the world and he believed in the younger generation that was coming up, a generation that has sounder morals imbued with less of the miserable narrow outlook of the world in general. In many countries there is a bright outlook for the future. There is a faith that is national; geographical boundaries are being broken down, and we are feeling that all belong to one family. It is no credit for one nation to look down upon another because of its nationality. We should be able to look on beyond this, a narrow conception of nationality. Whilst there is an intensity of national feeling the war upset the observance of the 100th anniversary of peace between Canada and the United States. He hoped the day would never come when mutual interest between nations like Canada and the United States are severed or attempted to be severed.—applause.

Germany was not content to have the patriotic feeling of her people confined to themselves, but she desired to reach out and compel other nations to have those patriotic feelings akin to her ideas of patriotism. It was a good thing Canadian boys rubbed shoulders with the world in France for it gave them broader views. They were in France all Canadians not of any particular section of Canada. He could not since the war discover any lessening of loyalty to localities, but otherwise. There had been no break down of national boundaries but rather the reverse. In speaking of municipal government, Dr. Ferguson said the majority of things done by a council were for the betterment of that municipality. We often sacrifice individual rights to make right generally. The Central Powers who were defeated in the war must remain where they are until they tread a pathway that will lead them in thinking as other right-thinking nations think. There was an increase of friendly relations between the great Anglo-Saxon nations that was most commendable. The present Imperial Conference at London, he looked upon as one of the events that will make history for the English speaking nations of the world. Canada had always been a most friendly nation towards the United States and why should they not be friendly?

Referring to the League of Nations, Dr. Ferguson stated he did believe in it, but he did rejoice in that closer relationship and better feeling that existed between Great Britain and the United States. There is the basis of the peace of the world, and out of which a new world is developing. In speaking of those who are at the head of a nation, the Doctor stated that class domination was done with. The people are going to be self-governing. No man, even on a throne, will ever again be able to dominate the policy of the country. He was of the opinion that this was a fixed fact now in history. The ruler is but the servant of the people. We are all interested in the fact that we govern ourselves and set up our laws and abide by them. There is within us that spirit that we will run ourselves, and not be run by some other person. We must take off our hats to the sturdy Englishmen who would not be ruled otherwise. We have come to a stage where there should be in the mind of all intelligent people, an entire cessation of anything detrimental to any country. Where did the English race come from, it is a composite nation gathered from other nations. America to day is going through an assimilating domination of the Anglo-Saxon period, that will succeed.

A spirit of Anglo-Saxonism is going on, and under this influence good will result. We are facing a new problem. He believed that every nation should protect itself in regard to immigration. That was the right of any nation, the right of an individual. If we like the Chinaman or the Japanese we can invite them in, but the reverse if we do not like them. It would be difficult for a nation like China, a nation that is modern in many ways, to assimilate with some of the ideas and customs of other nations.

A new spirit must be evidenced in this new world, a true Christian spirit that recognizes all as brothers, be white or colored. There should be an assimilation of feeling in this regard. Let there be a kindness of heart towards all; no more dominationalism, but all true living Christians and progress and civilization will be the goal reached.—(Loud Applause).

A vote of thanks ably proposed by Col. Ponton, and seconded by Mr. E. E. Horsey, was tendered Dr. Ferguson, who acknowledged same. The gathering closed by singing Auld Lang Syne.

A communication was read from Mr. Fred W. Barnum, secretary treasurer of S.S. No. 12, Rawdon Township re petition protesting against action taken in regard to consolidation of a school section.—No action taken.

On motion the request was laid on the table for consideration.

Thursday Morning Session

Council resumed at 10 o'clock, Warden Embury in the chair.

Mr. D. Campion of Marmora township addressed the council relative to a fire which occurred in the township. A house belonging to him was being used by the county gang and was burned down and he asked the county to reimburse him for the loss sustained. The house was vacant at the time and the county gang had been allowed to use the building.

The matter was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Reports

Mr. J. V. Walsh, chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee presented a lengthy and comprehensive report. At the present time there are 442 miles of county roads and 140 miles of Provincial county roads. There are employed 182 men who are divided up in gangs. The council has 6 crushing outfits and 3 rollers.

The road from Belleville to Corbyville the most travelled road in the county should be made a Provincial county road. The report referred to the roads in the various townships and showed that many were in rather bad condition.

The committee estimated that a levy of 7 1-5 mills will have to be made for roads this year, totalling $137,000. Of this amount $72,600 will be spent on county roads as follows:

Sidney	$ 8,800
Thurlow	12,000
Tyendinaga	6,400
Rawdon	7,000

Labor is much improved from a county standpoint than it has been for some time.

During May, before wages started downward, crushed stone cost only $2 per yard thanks to the saving by the county owning the crusher.

Purchase of spreaders was recommended.

The report was referred to the Ways and Means Committee for an appropriation.

Orange Rally at City Hall

ADDRESS DELIVERED BY LIEUT. O'BRIAN, GRAND ORGANIZER OF ORANGE SOCIETY

A fairly large audience assembled at the City Hall Thursday night for the purpose of hearing an address by Lieut. M. J. O'Brian, of Ottawa, one of the official Grand Organizers of the Orange Association. Mayor Hanna was chairman, and after opening the meeting he called upon Rev. A. L. Geen, who in a few well chosen remarks introduced the speaker of the evening.

Lieut. O'Brian at once entered upon his subject and spoke at considerable length. The first part of his address was an exposition of the Irish question, and he stated that when Ireland came into the union of Great Britain she was given an exchequer, but her national debt increased to such an extent that the exchequer was taken away and she did not pay back her debt. In Ireland today people as a rule do not pay a tax for education. Nearly seven hundred million dollars was spent in purchasing land from landlords that was handed over to the occupants. This money was paid by the Parliament of England.

The speaker paid a tribute to the late Mr. John Redmond, an Irish leader, saying that if his counsel had been recognized there would not have been the bloodshed in Ireland that has been. Ulster has always been loyal and has prospered. Belfast has also prospered in every phase of industrial life. Sinn Feiners refer to Ulsterites as rebels. On the 14th day of August, 1914, when Great Britain declared war on Germany to assist Roman Catholic Belgium the Ulster men took up arms in defence of the empire and the flag. An Irish republic would soon disrupt the British Empire. If Sinn Fein will not trust the British Parliament, Ulster says she will not trust the Sinn Fein. Today we see a government in Ulster. This Irish question is not confined to Ireland, but is spreading to other countries. While the allied nations rejoiced on the 11th day of November, 1918, the day the armistice was signed, there was weeping in certain circles antagonistic to Great Britain because of the downfall of Germany. The burning of the British flag in the United States and the insults to the British Embassy at Washington signifies the purpose of Britain's enemies to stir up war between Great Britain and the United States.

PROPAGANDA IN CANADA

In Canada the Sinn Feiners are carrying on a campaign to disrupt the British Empire. Protestants should awake before it is too late. Lloyd George and other great men see this. We are not safe from bloodshed in Canada as the result of the Irish question. Let all get together and put an end to this Sinn Fein campaign in this country. The Sinn Fein are linked up with the Bolsheviks. We have sacrificed enough blood in Canada, and want no more shed.

NATIONAL SCHOOLS.

Another problem we have on our hands is that in the western provinces and in Quebec there are thousands who cannot speak the English language. He advocated the establishment of English national schools. Take our text books and translate them into French and thus use the same books. We will fight for national schools, and it will be an educational fight, not a coercive fight.

GO TO CHURCH.

Protestantism does not mean as much as it should to many in this country. Are we "fair weather" Protestants, and only go to church when the weather is pleasant? Our Roman Catholic friends go to church no matter what the weather is like. Men will respond to the appeals of the church for every purpose but many do not go to church. Let us support our clergymen for the sacrifice they are making and attend church. Let us go to our churches and we will be better off. The creeds of our different Protestant churches have one great foundation stone—that of truth. He appreciated the spirit of church union to unite all Protestants and work together with more of the love of Jesus Christ in their hearts. Protestants of all denominations should get together.

THE ORANGE SOCIETY.

The speaker referred to the Orange Society and said that the platform stands for equal rights to all, special privileges to none. The Orange Association is a religious society and every degree lives up to the Word of God. The Orange Society is the watch-dog of Protestantism. The society is composed of men and women of all religious denominations. It is not a political organization, but we will be when there is a campaign to encroach on our principles.

In conclusion the speaker made an earnest appeal for members of the association.

At the close of the address brief speeches were given by Rev. T. H. Marshall, Rev. A. L. Geen and Mr. F. M. Clarke, Grand Secretary of the Orange Society for Eastern Ontario.

A vote of thanks, moved by Rev. A. L. Geen, seconded by Mr. W. C. Reid, was tendered to Lieut. O'Brian, which was acknowledged. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

British Miners Vote to Continue Coal Strike

OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED THAT VOTE ON PROPOSED STRIKE SETTLEMENT FAVORS CONTINUANCE OF STRIKE—MANY ABSTAINED FROM VOTING AND DISSATISFACTION HAS ARISEN IN RANKS OF MINERS, AND BREAK MAY OCCUR.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 17.—The ballot of the coal miners on the question of strike settlement favors a continuation of the strike, it was officially announced here this afternoon.

London, June 17.—Serious dissatisfaction has arisen among the rank and file of the Miners' Federation over the vote on the owners' latest proposals and many of the men as a consequence are expected to take matters into their own hands and return to work under their own arrangements. The situation is somewhat confused, however, and the miners' executive is meeting today to consider it.

There is no doubt that the bulk of the figures on the voting now available indicate that the men have voted against acceptance. It is not known whether the two-thirds majority required to continue the strike has been secured. It is estimated that more than fifty per cent. of the federation's million members abstained from voting. If a two third's majority is secured the miners' leaders are faced with the possibility that the strike must be continued, while the Government's ten million pounds bonus will be withdrawn and thousands of men will return to work.

The dispute has been allowed to drift and the failure of the miners' leaders to offer advice or recommendations to districts on the issues involved in the ballot are said to be causes of dissatisfaction in some quarters. The ballot appears to have been taken in a most casual way.

Work to Begin on Greater Albert College

THE PRELIMINARY CONTRACT IS AWARDED TO A TORONTO FIRM AT $69,777.

At a meeting of the Albert College Board held at Whitby, Thursday the preliminary contract was awarded for the new Albert College buildings. Carswell Co., of Toronto were the lowest bidders their tender being $69,777, and the contract was accordingly awarded to that firm. The next lowest tender was also from a Toronto firm and there were several tenders from Belleville contractors. This contract includes excavation and foundation work to the first floor, three houses for students, basement of administration building, foundation for assembly hall, dining room and kitchen. It is expected that additional contracts for the buildings will be awarded next winter, but work will begin in the near future and proceed continuously.

That actual work is to begin on the Greater Albert College buildings will be a source of gratification to all citizens of Belleville and district, and is the result of the persistent efforts and unfailing optimism of Dr. E. N. Baker, and the able support he has always received from the officials of the college.

Greek Offensive Halted Pending British Decision

Constantinople, June 17.—The Greek offensive against the Turkish Nationalists has been halted while the final decision of the British to back up the Greeks is pending. In any case, however, the Greeks are expected to launch a local offensive east of Ushak, where the Turks are badly placed. This offensive would be ordered for the purpose of maintaining the prestige of King Constantine, it is believed here that the British are waiting to see if the Turkish Nationalists are willing to accept the revised Sevres Treaty, which was discussed at London with Nationalist representatives last March.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS ON TORONTO STREETS

Traffic accidents in Toronto in the past few weeks have shown a decided increase over previous weeks. Does this mean that motorists and others are growing careless? The Safety League has just prepared figures showing automobile fatalities for May 1920, which shows a total of six as against the same number in the months of January to April inclusive. Automobile fatalities for the first five months of 1921 total twelve. In the same period in 1920 there were twenty-two and in 1919 there were sixteen.

Carpentier an Unusual Boxer

New York, June 16.—Georges Carpentier, challenger of Jack Dempsey, is one of the most unusual boxers who ever competed for the heavyweight championship. In temperament and intelligence, there has been none like him among aspirants for heavyweight honors. He will be outweighed by Dempsey when they clash. Other physical measurements may also appear to be to the disadvantage of the Frenchman but the essential item of courage will not be included in these shortcomings.

Carpentier, born in the coal mining district of Lens, France, fought as a youngster of 12 years and progressed steadily through the various weight classes, meeting the best boxers of France, England and America until he now stands near the pinnacle in pugilistic sport.

A survey of the opponents Carpentier has met in the ring and sketches of several battles in which he revived from a count of nine to outpoint or knock out his rivals in subsequent rounds convinces one of his ring courage. He has fought among others Joe Jeannette, Frank Klaus, Billy Papke, Jeff Smith, Harry Lewis, Bombardier Wells, Joe Beckett and Gunboat Smith. Some of them he met when a youth in his late 'teens. His fights with Frank Klaus and Billy Papke when he was only 18 are declared to have been the most grilling in his career. In victory or defeat throughout his ring campaign, Carpentier has been guided by Francois Descamps toward the heavyweight championship goal which he will endeavor to reach at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City on July 2. The list of opponents Carpentier has met is more impressive than that of Jack Dempsey's rivals. In ring experience, Carpentier is by far the older.

The first battle with Bombardier Wells at Ghent is declared to have been one of the most impressive exhibitions of courage by the young Frenchman, who was outweighed by many pounds. He took the count of nine in the first round, to come back and knock out his opponent in the fourth. Before they met the second time, he predicted Wells might last one round but the Englishman was knocked out in less than one minute.

Harry Lewis, in the fourth round of a bout, broke two bones in his right hand, hitting Carpentier on the cheek bone with a smash that cut a deep gash under the eye. Carpentier came back to outpoint Lewis in 20 rounds. When he lost a 15-round decision to Joe Jeannette, Carpentier was sent to the mat two or three times but refused to stay and dropped the negro twice for a count of nine.

But this anomaly of the boxing game has done his most important fighting outside the ropes. The cockpit of an army combat plane has seen his most thrilling engagements and greatest demonstration of courage. Cited for heroism several times in the world war, Carpentier wears the Croix de Guerre and the Military Medal, of all decorations, the most prized by the French soldier.

THE TRIALS OF A HOUSEWIFE

How They Have Been Endured and How Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Experience of a Providence Woman

Providence, R. I.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a female trouble and backache. It began just after my baby was born, and I did the best I could about getting my work done, but I had awful bearing-down pains so I could not stand on my feet. I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the good it was doing other women, and I have got dandy results from it and will always recommend it. You can use these facts as a testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. HERBERT L. CASSEN, 18 Meni Court, Providence, R. I.

Ohio woman for three years could hardly keep about and do her housework she was so ill. Made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound:

Fayette, O.—"For about three years I was very nervous and had backache, sideache, dragging-down pains, could not sleep at night, and had no appetite. At times I could hardly do my housework. I got medicine from the doctor but it did not help me. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and took it with good results, and am now able to do my housework. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. CHESTER A. BALL, R. 15, Fayette, Ohio.

An Illinois woman relates her experience:

Bloomington, Ill.—"I was never very strong and female trouble kept me so weak I had no interest in my housework. I had such a backache I could not cook a meal or sweep a room without raging with pain. Rubbing my back with alcohol sometimes eased the pain for a few hours, but did not stop it. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and six bottles of it have made me as strong and healthy as any woman; and I give my thanks to it for my health."—Mrs. J. A. McQUITTY, 610 W. Walnut St., Bloomington, Ill.

The conditions described by Mrs. Cassen, Mrs. Ball, and Mrs. McQuitty will appeal to many women who struggle on with their daily tasks in just such conditions—in fact, it is said that the tragedy in the lives of some women is almost beyond belief. Day in and day out they slave in their homes for their families—and beside the daily routine of housework, often make clothes for themselves and for their children, or work in their gardens, all the while suffering from those awful bearing-down pains, backache, headaches, nervousness, the blues, and troubles which sap the very foundation of life until there comes a time when nature gives out and an operation seems inevitable. If such women would only profit by the experience of these three women, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the natural restorative for such conditions it may save them years of suffering and unhappiness.

There is hardly a neighborhood in any town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been restored to health by this famous medicine. Therefore ask your neighbor, and you will find in a great many cases that at some time or other she, too, has been benefited by taking it, and will recommend it to you. For more than forty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring suffering women to health and strength.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

County Council

ses to pedlars in the county and to assume a piece of road in Marmora Township, as a county road.—Referred to By-law Committee.

Moved by Mr. Walsh, seconded by Mr. Osborne, that the boundary road between Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties leading from Deseronto be designated as an approved Provincial county road, and the clerk notify the Department of Highways in regard to the matter.—carried.

Mr. Thompson, Reeve of Rawdon, asked the council if it would sell to the Township of Rawdon an unused crusher, which at present is stored in the township.

The matter was referred to the Chairman of Roads and superintendent with power to act.

Mr. Walsh said that he was in accord with the equalization as far as Tyendinaga Township.

On motion the Council went into Committee on equalization. Mr. Naylor in the chair.

A partial report of the special committee on equalization was presented by Mr. Thompson, which showed increases to some municipalities and lowering of others. The report caused much discussion.

Dr. Kindred said he had listened to the report with interest, but there were some matters he desired to speak upon. The village of Tweed has been raised in equalization to considerable extent, which he considered was not altogether fair. We should have a spirit of give-and-take in this matter. He thought the Township of Rawdon should be raised in equalization. Should the village of Tweed, which is isolated to an extent be assessed higher than the town of Deseronto, which is on the water front, and has other advantages.

Mr. Naylor said the committee found the Town of Deseronto to be the highest assessed municipality in the county, hence the reduction recommended by the committee.

Mr. Thompson contended that every member of the committee had done what he considered was right in the matter. Deseronto was lowered owing to conditions existing in that town.

Mr. Wiggins stated the northern municipalities were willing to assume their proportion of the equalization of the County. There were in these townships, hundreds of farms that are assessed at more than they could be sold for.

PERCIVAL VIVIAN

Who will play the leading role in "It Pays to Advertise" at Chautauqua this Summer.

Mr. J. Wood of Dungannon said he did not believe the members knew what they were talking about, as the report submitted was not final. Some of the statements are hot air. Dungannon was raised and by what figures was it raised? The figures of sales which the equalization was based on were incorrect.

Mr. McGuire thought it was not fair to the village of Stirling to take two or three sales of property for which considerable more was secured than it was assessed at. Stirling could not abide by the figures presented in the report.

Mr. C. E. Ballard considered that the equalization of Monteagle and Herschel was too high.

Mr. Richardson of Marmora Lake was willing to take an increase but not the amount proposed.

Mr. Sills moved, seconded by Mr. J. Wood, that the equalization of 1921 be the same as 1920 as adopted by the judge.

Mr. Airhart moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Thompson, that a special committee on equalization be appointed to bring in a report and the report of the special committee be laid on the table.

After some discussion the motion and amendment were withdrawn and the special committee on equalization was asked to bring in a definite report on Friday morning.

The committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again—granted.

Council adjourned until Friday morning.

Chicago, with Kerr pitching defeated the New York Kilties.

Boniface and Diadema won at Connaught Park.

After equalling the world's record, Baltimore was beaten by Buffalo.

When the trainmen stopped they found Mr. Colridge still sitting in the car dumbfounded, with his hands still on the steering wheel. There is a bell on at the crossing, but Colridge claims he did not hear it.

FLEET FOOT to Business

IF you ask a man why he wears FLEET FOOT shoes to business, nine times out of ten he says, "because they are so comfortable."

FLEET FOOT shoes are comfortable. The fine rubber soles and heels take up the jar of walking. The canvas uppers are light, cool and easy on the feet. The shapes are designed by experts who know how to put good style into shoes that fit the feet snugly, yet are light and flexible.

Most men wear FLEET FOOT right through the summer. They have several pairs. Sensible oxfords for business—sport models for bowling, golf or tennis—a smart pump for evening wear—and perhaps heavy FLEET FOOT shoes for gardening or working around the house.

FLEET FOOT are so economical that you can have two or three pairs for the price of one pair of leather shoes.

Wear them this summer—put the whole family in FLEET FOOT.

The name FLEET FOOT in the style of lettering shown above, is stamped on every genuine FLEET FOOT Shoe—look for it.

FLEET FOOT shoes are sold by the leading shoe dealers everywhere.

Good Programs For Chautauqua

Instrumental Artists, Recitalists, Opera Singers, Ballad Singers, Violinists—All to Vie with Each Other to Please Chautauqua Audiences.

Both instrumental and vocal artists are scheduled to feature some of the programs of the Belleville Chautauqua which is scheduled for the week of June 23—29 at the Armouries.

Symphony Effects

One of the finest and most popular musical companies of the week is scheduled for the opening day. None should feel that the first day's program won't amount to very much because the Chautauqua isn't well under way. The Chautauqua will be well under way from the minute the curtains part the afternoon of the opening day for the Zedeler Symphonic Quintette will be on the platform and will present one of the finest programs ever given, if the advance reports received from other towns prove anything. This company presents some of the best of the world's musical masterpieces. This is music lover's day—the day for those who appreciate real high-class instrumental music.

IRENE BEAVINS

Who will appear at Chautauqua in the great comedy play "It Pays to Advertise."

Recital Artists

Another day when music lovers should be out in force is the fourth day, when M. Ferdinand Fillion and his assisting artists will hold forth both afternoon and evening. Mr. Fillion is at the head of the violin department of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and is regarded as one of the most gifted artists on the violin in the Provinces. He has toured in all parts of the continent and in Europe, winning laurels wherever he has appeared. Ferne Goltre Fillion is internationally known as a beautiful coloratura soprana, with a charming personality and a voice of exquisite quality. She, too, is an artist-teacher at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. Dr. Harvey Rogg, the prominent Toronto pianist and accompanist, complete the artist trio. Dr. Robb will play a number of brilliant solos.

Popular Musical Companies

Those that like entertainment along with their music will be delighted with the programs of the Gilvan Light Opera Singers—a company of four splendid singers and pianist who will present scenes from various light operas, including Gilbert and Sullivan's "Ruddygore"—and the Old Song Singers who will give a program such as is suggested by their name. Miss Ruby Gall, who heads this latter company, is a singer and entertainer of rare personality and charm and is surrounded by singers of worth and ability. Their program sends everybody home feeling better and happier and more alive to the tender, higher things of life. This will be the second summer that this company has been appearing before Canadian audiences to their constant delight.

The Gilvan Light Opera Singers (who will tell where they got their name and how) is a company that has had wide experience before Chautauqua audiences in Canada and the States extending over a period of nearly ten seasons. Their singing is of a high order, their acting is almost perfect, and their pianist, Mr. Harrison W. Burch, ranks among the best that have been heard in Chautauqua circles.

POLICE COURT NEWS

A Russian vagrant who was remanded a week ago, was up before the magistrate this morning, and as he has been in the hospital and a returned soldier, he was given passage to Kingston.

Elliot vs. Wiggleworth was an assault case heard before the magistrate. Wigglesworth was proven guilty of hitting with stones a young girl named Ida Elliott. The evidence of neighbors resulted in conviction and a fine of one dollar and costs was imposed.

Both families were warned to keep peace between their children and the defendant was warned not to take the law in his own hands again.

POLITICAL PICNICS RETURNING TO FAVOR.

Commenting on the political picnics being arranged in Ontario by the United Farmers, the London Free Press gives some advice that leaders in all live parties would do well to heed. The article says:

"Sir John A. Macdonald first inaugurated this method of getting in touch with the electors. After his defeat by the Liberals and after his adoption of the National Policy he held political picnics all over Ontario, when he came in personal contact with the people of the province and preached the doctrine of protection for Canadian industries. Much of his success in 1878 can be attributed to the adoption of this plan of political propaganda. In recent years the political picnic has died out. The U. F. O. has returned to the old custom, and now it is reported at Ottawa that the two old line parties are contemplating following their methods. The political picnic is a splendid idea. It gives an opportunity to discuss under favorable auspices and free from the rancor of a heated campaign the problems of the day. The more discussion on questions which affect the nation's welfare the better. The members of the old Union Government made a vital mistake in locking themselves up in their offices at Ottawa. Much of the criticism of the Union Government came from the lack of knowledge of what the administration was doing. The people have a right to be taken into their confidence. Free and general discussion of the political problems of the day is the best safeguard any nation can have. Let us have more political picnics, and why confine them to the rural ridings?"

PREMIER'S FAREWELL MESSAGE.

Speaking at an informal reception given to him by admirers on his arrival at Montreal from Ottawa en route to Quebec, where he took ship for England to attend the Imperial Conference, Premier Meighen said:

"I hope that in all I say and in all I do in the conference at which I am to represent this country I will successfully interpret the will, the opinion and the aspirations of the great Canadian people. I cannot forget that when speaking there I represent not a part, but all; not one race but two; and I shall so endeavor to interpret Canadian sentiments and the Canadian attitude to the Mother Country and to the Empire as to do substantial justice to the best opinion of this country."

BUY CANADIAN-MADE GOODS.

With the Canadian public more favorably disposed than ever before towards Canadian products and manufactures in preference to imported goods, and with exchange discouraging imports from the United States, Canadian business men have an unique opportunity to consolidate their position in the home market. In this connection the importance of getting their trade names before the public and keeping them before the public ought to be emphasized. If the Made-in-Canada movement is to be of permanent value it should be looked to not as a means of selling inferior goods but as an additional aid in getting Canadian merchandise of honest value before the attention of the Canadian people.

The opportunity which the exchange situation, so far as the premium on United States money is concerned, offers to Canadian producers may pass sooner than some people think. Immigration into Canada in large volume is inevitable. With easier conditions in the money markets of the world, Canada probably can look for United States and perhaps also British money to be invested before long in the Dominion for development purposes on an unprecedented scale. Such investment would operate to offset the adverse balance of our international account; to make possible the restoration of an effective gold standard for our currency; and to correct the discount on Canadian money. That will mean still keener competition from United States merchandise, and unless Canadian producers "dig themselves in" now they may lose ground later on. There is a genuine and widespread desire to know what brands of goods are made in Canada and to give the preference to such articles. We are told that the natives of certain South American countries buy goods by pictures. For example, they will call for "Indian" brand hatchets, "Star" brand soap, or "Eagle" brand hoes, the brands in each case being impressed upon their memories by trade-mark pictures. The mental processes of men and women are pretty much the same the world over. There is real value in a brand or trade mark, but only after such mark has been impressed upon the minds of the purchasing public and they have been educated to ask for goods so labelled or branded. The Made in Canada movement ought to assist Canadian manufacturers to establish their own trade-marks linked with a clear indication that their good are of Canadian origin.

SAFE BIND SAFE FIND

London Daily Chronicle

The wise counsel contained in the Police Commissioner's Report in respect to burglarize and how they can be largely prevented, deserves the careful attention of householders. While a great number of successful attacks are made on the property of suburban householders by predatory visitors through sheer negligence on the part of property owners in leaving their flats or houses unguarded, many more are due to the temptation offered by flimsy fastenings of doors and windows. It should be the first care of citizens to see that their homes are burglar-proof, for the onus of losses does not lie primarily with the police, but with the owner. A fact that deserves to be more generally recognized than it is.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY

Springfield Republican

The United States was in an excellent position to take the initiative in reducing armaments and the place to begin was on the sea because our land forces could have seemed a menace to no great power. We seem to be missing the opportunity, if we have not already missed it, of giving leadership to a disarmament movement by showing that we did not fear to set an example in the right direction. The Borah naval conference amendment presents our last chance to obtain early results. Having chosen neither to head the movement in unmistakable style nor to antagonise it openly and frankly, the administration now finds itself anxious for a larger military and naval establishment than Congress, sensitive to public opinion, really wishes to authorize.

The Poets' Corner

FARM ECONOMY

The times are mighty stringent and we've got to plan
The way to keep expenses just as low's we can.
I need a better mower than the one I've got,
And I'll have to get the fencing for that pasture lot.
And the hog-pen must be lengthened—it is far too small—
And I need another silo for the corn next fall,
So I cannot put that stove in which I promised you,
And you'll have to make the old one do!

There's forty head of cattle that I sure must buy,
And I need more land for pasture now that feed's so high,
And I'll build a new addition to the cattle shed—
There's lots of heavy outlay loomin' up ahead,
So I guess we cannot visit with our boy in town,
And we'll have to give up buying you that black silk gown,
Yes, I thought we'd put in plumbing and a force pump too,
But—you'll have to make the old well do!

I'll need another helper when summer's here,
So you see we'll have to figure very close my dear;
To bring the ends together makes my old head whirl.
And I guess you'll have to do without the hired girl,
I'm fixing up the horses in a brand-new place,
That barn they used to stay in is a plain disgrace,
So, though the kitchen's leakin' and the rain comes through—
You will have to make the old roof do!

Next year I'm goin' to buy you everything you need,
And we'll have a car to ride in an' some books to read,
Last year I made that promise—an' I meant it too—
But so many things have happened that I've changed my view,
And—you'll have to make the old stuff do!

A Laugh or Two

Under the Willows

Oh, for the wonderful willows that swung o'er the swimming hole!
Graceful and green and fairy, shading that crystal bowl.

Happiness under the willows, to bathe in the buff and be
A lad in the magic summer of the age of the willow tree.

You could whittle away on a whistle, or make a whip with a sting;
You could gather your grit and gristle to leap from a bough with a spring.

Leap, leap down in the water, with a clean plunge parting the tide.
Under the willows, the willows that grew by the river's side.

Oh, for the wonderful willows, their trailing and slender boughs
At the rim of the daisied meadows where the cattle came to browse.

The willows, the frail, green willows, so cool and so fresh and light
In that morning of music and laughter that gave us the fairy sight.

—Bentztown Bard.

Pearl White Says "Hands Off"

PEARL WHITE PLAY SCORES BIG SUCCESS—PLENTY OF THRILLS FOR ONE AND ALL

"The Mountain Woman", a Pearl White star picture, produced by William Fox, opened last night at Griffin's for a three days engagement. It is doubtful if Miss White has played in anything more enjoyable from the standpoint of the audience than this story of the Kentucky Hills, as originally told by Charles Neville Buck in his novel "A Pagan of the Hills." The picture is replete with acting of the finest type. There is spirited action aplenty, and interesting incidents which are added as a sort of good measure to the gripping plot. The Subtitles, written in the droll dialect of the mountaineers, are not the least factor in the entertainment value of this William Fox production. Miss White plays "Alexander" McGivens, whose father reared her as if she were a boy, and whose wild beauty set man's heart aflame and brought sneers from the women because she dressed in boyish garb. Her attitude toward suitors was always "Hands Off." The felling of giant trees shooting the rapids on log rafts, a sensational hotel fire and a grain elevator's destruction by marauders are among the sensational scenes of the picture Pearl White is Pearl White—and what further personal description is necessary to her many Belleville admirers?

In the supporting cast are Corliss Giles, Richard Travers, George Barnum, Warren Richmond and J. Thornton Baston. Tells Dyspeptics What to Eat

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia, and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach, and it is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the power taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

CHILD'S LEG CUT BY FATHER'S MOWER

Palgrave, June 16.—The three-year-old son of James McMahon nearly lost a leg when he wandered into the uncut hay and was unnoticed until his father's mower was on top of him. The limb was fearfully lacerated. Dr. Beynor was hastily summoned and rushed the child to the Hospital for Sick Children. Though the little chap is suffering from shock and loss of blood, there are hopes that the leg may be saved. The father's farm is on the line between Adjala and Albion.

CITY HAS NO RUNNING WATER

Vladivostok, Political Capital of the Far East, Lacks What Americans Consider Essential.

A city with some 350,000 inhabitants and no running water—such is Vladivostok, as described by Phil Norton in the columns of Travel. Nor is this lack of an everyday convenience made less pressing by the fact that Vladivostok jumped from a population of about 90,000 people without adding to the number of houses. The Manchu water vender, with his hogshead mounted on two wheels and drawn by sturdy, thick-coated Siberian horses, takes the place of pipes and faucets, filling his hogshead at a shallow well in some private or public yard, and retailing the commodity at the rate of two buckets a day for a month, for about $2 in American money. He carries the buckets at the end of a pole over his shoulder. If one can manage to live in reasonable comfort in Vladivostok, a coolie boy can be procured to bring water to one's room, and heat it in the kitchen. Or again, if the water vender has failed to arrive, the coolie boy will gather snow and melt it, and there is one's morning bath. If one wants more generous ablution one goes to the public baths; and if one wants a drink of water one thoroughly boils the merchandise of the water vender before drinking it. And this city of the primitive water supply is now the political capital of the far east.

War Disability.

Although Modern Medicine credits medical science with having accomplished wonders during the late war in eradicating or reducing diseases that have previously ravaged fighting armies, it maintains that disabilities resulting from the war are due in more cases to disease than to wounds. Figures compiled by the English ministry of pensions show that of all the pensions granted down to September 1, 1918, 58 per cent were on account of disease. Tuberculosis and chest complaints were responsible for 11.2 per cent, rheumatism for 6.5 per cent and heart disease for 9.9 per cent. Only incomplete figures are available concerning American experience, but of 7,710 cases dealt with by the federal board of vocation up to January 31, 1919, by far the greater portion were due to disease.—Youth's Companion.

Penitentiary Farm's Success.

Included in the report of the governor of the Edmonton, Alberta (Canada), penitentiary to the superintendent of penitentiaries is an interesting paragraph dealing with the farm operations carried on at the penitentiary as well as its mining operations. Some 70 acres were under cultivation during the past year and were farmed with gratifying results. From this small acreage, after buying a tractor and stubble plow at a cost of $1,314, "we show a net profit of $4,191.17. From 9¼ acres of wheat we thrashed 45 bushels to the acre, and from 11 acres of potatoes we sold 3,500 bushels. Our oats yielded 85 bushels to the acre, and the amount of small vegetables was exceptionally good. Our intensive farming has been very profitable."

BOXING AT THE PICNIC

At the Labor Picnic on June 22nd at the park patrons are going to witness some red-hot milling when Kid Seeley and Swede Marakas hook up to exchange upholstered slams. Seeley has been after the Swede's scalp for some time and has confidently asserted that he will win in short order. Well he might at that as undoubtedly he is a heavy hitter with a kick in each mitt. The Swede though has been training hard and can be depended on to give every thing he's got, win or lose. He is a shifty youngster and altogether it promises to be a good match worth while going down to see. In the semi-final Harry Anderson takes on Ernie Baldree, who is staging a come back, for six rounds. Ernie wants another crack at the Swede himself and if he beats Anderson he is going to challenge the Swede for a return fight and try to reverse the decision which the Swede got at the City Hall last winter. In Anderson though he is meeting a tough boy who can take punishment and hand it out too, and one who is liable to end the fight any minute if he lands his heavy artillery. Young Kellar will also be seen in action when he tackles Bob. Smith for four rounds. Both boy's are evenly matched and Kellar will have to extend himself to win. The curtain raiser will be Charlie Rattery and Tommy Mathews who will mixe it up for four fast rounds. Rattery is a newcomer to the game but he is a comer and will give Mathews a real argument. All the boys have been training hard and faithfully and all are in the pink of condition and it looks to be a real night's sport.

St. Michael's 13—Tweed 8

On Wednesday at Tweed, St. Mike's kept up the record for Belleville by trimming the Tweed team 13 to 8. It was a great exhibition of speedy, steady ball. When Belleville came to bat in the ninth, Tweed was 8 and St. Mike's 6. The excitement knew no bounds and then—well St. Mike's jumped right into 'em, hammer and tongs, Tweed side was retired 1, 2, 3. and St. Mike's slid in seven runs, the game was on ice for the boys then. The game was anything but a cushy affair as Belleville had to do some stepping to overcome such a tremendous lead. Are St. Mike's alive? We'll say so.

SATURDAY'S GAME

At 3 p.m to-morrow at the Agricultural Park Belleville G.T.R.'S and Port Hope Baseball teams meet once more in the great battle for supremacy of the Diamond. Belleville boys have been playing tip-top ball lately and if the weather will only dry up, a peachy, snappy game is assured. HORSE FELL IN SEWER

On Wednesday evening a rather peculiar accident occurred on Commercial street. A sewer is being constructed on that thoroughfare and a horse attached to a delivery wagon the property of Mr. W. R. Vallance was being driven along the street and in making an attempt to turn around went too close to the excavation with the result the animal fell in a distance about 7 feet. The horse was extracted from its perilous position after considerable difficulty apparently none the worse for his adventure.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY

On Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. Clarke West Moria St. entertained a large number of friends in honor of their guests Miss Maybelle Clarke, formerly of Belleville, now of Toronto, and Miss Hilda Selby, formerly of Kingston, now of Toronto. After spending the evening in cards, dancing and other social diversions the party broke up in the wee small hours of the morning all the guests departing to their homes with a feeling of happiness in their hearts. All voted Mr. and Mrs. Clark as unsurpassable entertainers and went home happy and with that "come again" feeling.

At the County Council sessions today a considerable portion of the time was occupied in discussing the report of the special committee on equalization, which report was by no means satisfactory to some of the representatives.

DWELLING BURNED

At the village of Cannifton, yesterday afternoon, a fire occurred, resulting in the destruction of a frame dwelling, the property of Mr. Ryan Keller. The building was situated on the east side of the road just north of the Methodist church. When discovered the flames had gained considerable headway and could not be subdued. Only a few of the contents were saved. Mr. Keller had no insurance on house or contents.

Ex-Service Man is Right on Job

Duthie Says He Feels Well As Ever And Works Every Day Since Taking Taniac

"Nobody can talk to me long these days without hearing something about Tanlac," declared Charles Duthie, 191 DeGrassix Street, Toronto.

Mr. Duthie, who is now employed in the government artificial limb factory, is a veteran of the World War, and lost his left leg in the battle of the Somme.

"Some eight months ago," said Mr. Duthie, "my stomach got all wrong. What little food I managed to eat just seemed to lay like a weight of lead in my stomach and kept me feeling miserable for hours, and I suffered all the time from constipation. I would wake up every morning, after a restless night, feeling as bad as if I hadn't gone to bed at all. In fact I felt dull and languid all the time and it was all I could do to keep at my work. In spite of all the medicine I took I kept right on getting worse.

"But all those miserable feelings are things of the past now, and I feel as well as I ever did in my life. I eat and sleep like a boy and am never bothered with indigestion, constipation or nervousness. I am full of life and energy and can keep right on the job from morning till night and still feel fine. I never miss a chance to recommend this grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store and leading Druggists.

WIFT'S FALSEHOOD LEADS TO MURDER

Milwaukee, Wis., June 17.—Because she lied to her husband, Mrs. Thomas Foran, aged 24, and her helpmate are in jail, charged with first degree murder. They are blamed for the death of Joseph Wamser, killed when mistaken by Foran for a thief.

Last Saturday, according to her story, Mrs. Foran needed twenty dollars to buy a dress for one of her two children. She feared to ask her husband for it, and took the money from a tool box where he had hidden it. When he returned home she told him that a burglar had ransacked the house, and to make her story strong, screamed and yelled, 'There he is at the window!"

Foran reached for a revolver and ran outside. Wamser was the only one on the street. He accused Wamser, who struck Foran, knocking him down. Then Wamser started to run. Foran shot and killed him. For three days the case has puzzled the police. To-day Mrs. Foran broke down and told her story.

A. A. HOLLAND APPLIES TO SET ASIDE DIVORCE

Toronto, June 17.—The application of A. A. Holland, mining engineer and geologist, who seeks an order of habeas corpus to recover custody of his eight-year-old daughter, Elizabeth Fraser Holland, did not go on yesterday. The little girl is still detained at Napanee by an attack of whooping cough.

In the meantime counsel for Mrs. Holland have partially examined Mr. Holland on his affidavit, and will conclude the examination before the application for habeas corpus is renewed.

Mr. Holland has applied in the Buffalo courts for an order annulling the interlocutory divorce obtained by his wife while her husband was in Bolivia. Mr. Holland formerly lived in Kingston.

Because the legislaltion passed last session by the Ontario Legislature stipulating that no more money should be advanced by the Province after December 31, 1920. Ontario will be unable to take advantage of the renewed offer of the Dominion Government to lend money for housing construction purposes.

Commencement at St. Agnes School

At eight o'clock Thursday evening the Assembly Hall of St. Agnes' School was well filled with an expectant throng; expectant because of the well known reputation of this school for the valuable training given the pupils and the excellent program, always different but ever reaching the zenith in musical talent and elocution.

A monologue by Miss Ada Ketcheson deserves special mention, she having perfect control and giving exactly the right interpretation of a young lady awaiting her engagement ring, which study is interesting to the initiated or freshmen alike.

A vocal duet by Misses Edith Field and Edna McQuire was exquisite, their singing showing a wide knowledge of technique and being of a very sweet quality. The numbers on the program were all exceptionally well executed, making the task of choosing a winner particularly difficult.

A scene from Romeo and Juliet was splendid, the three young ladies taking part proving themselves talented, clever performers. An overture by Miss Edna McQuire and Mr. Wheatley was received with generous applause, the same being well merited. The instrumental numbers were all given in a thoroughly capable, clever manner. The program follows:

Military Galop (Ganz) — Miss Jean Edgerly and Mr. Wheatley.
Reading — "Making an Orator" (Crane)—Miss Margaret Fleck.
Golden Bird—Misses Edith Field and Edna McQuire.
The Rosary (Nevin)—Miss Mary Tugman.

Spanish Caprice (Moszkowsky)—Miss Margaret Collins.
Polonaise in A Flat (Chopin)—Miss Laleah Burpee.
(a) Love's Coronation (Aylward); (b) Wake Up—Miss Mildred Castle.
Scene from Romeo and Juliet—Act II., Scene 5 — Capulet's Orchard—Juliet, Capulet's daughter, Miss Pearl Hutton; Nurse to Juliet, Miss Ada Ketcheson; Peter, servant to Juliet's nurse, Miss Margaret Fleck.
(a) Lincoln's Inn (Oliver); (b) Bitterness of Love (Dunn); (c) When Lady Betty Passes By (Oliver).

All those privileged to be present last evening were delighted with the manner in which the pupils conducted themselves, also the splendid varied program presented, which indicated the wide choice of subjects which it is possible to take up at St. Agnes' School. Miss Carroll, lady principal, and her staff of competent assistants are surely to be congratulated on the complete success of the evening, giving a few hours of rare enjoyment to those present.

MAY INCREASE WATER FLOW AT HEALEY FALLS PLANT

Peterboro', Ont., June 17.—Arrangements may be made to increase the flow of water in the Crowe River in order to alleviate the power shortage in Central Ontario resulting from the disablement of the Hydro's Healey Falls plant by flooding Saturday night, H. O. Fiske, manager of the Peterboro Utilities Commission, said to-day.

It is expected that one of the three units at the disabled plant will be dried out and in operation Monday, thus adding 4,000 horsepower to the supply available. The city of Peterboro' is 40 per cent. short of its normal supply of power to-day.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N, Harben
(Copyright, 1903)

"That's all true," agreed Mrs. Cranston, "but there are different grades of society, and we can't alter the condition." Then the speaker's face became more rigid, her tone tense and tentative. "And, the mixing of the elements, my dear," she put in guardedly, "sometimes produces sad complications. You remember how Hallie Dunwoody married beneath her in Lexington and that it actually killed her father and broke up a happy home?"

"That was awful, simply awful!" remarked Lydia. "You know I saw her two months afterward, and the poor thing tried to keep me from recognizing her. She told me she was trying to adapt herself to the ways of her husband's family, but could not do it. Her husband meant well enough, but even he seemed unable to make it bearable for her."

Mrs. Cranston sat perfectly still; she seemed hardly breathing. She was very anxious to have her next remark seem casual.

"I have never heard you say before what you thought about that marriage, dear, but I never thought Hallie treated her father and mother right."

"No, she didn't," answered Lydia. "Hallie knew the extent of her father and mother's pride, and she had no right to crush it for her own selfish love. If she had sacrificed her own desires, and even those of her husband, she would have been happier in the consciousness of having done her duty. I don't think self sacrifice has ever brought about bad results—in the long run."

Mrs. Cranston breathed freely. She was all aglow as she bent and kissed Lydia good night.

Going down to the major, she said: "I've had a very, very satisfactory talk with Lydia—oh, no, not openly on that subject!" she hastened to correct as he raised his brows in surprise, "but in a roundabout way. We need not be afraid of her. If she cares particularly for George Buckley she doesn't know it, and if she should realize that she was drifting in that direction she would pull herself up."

"Well, I'm glad she's that sensible," said the major as his eye fell to the paper and began to search for a remembered paragraph. "I didn't think she was a fool."

CHAPTER XII.

KENNER was at the cotton compress the next morning watching the gang of negro hands compress and load several cars of cotton to be shipped to New England. This big piece of machinery and the extensive sheds and platform surrounding it belonged to Hillyer and stood directly across the railroad tracks behind the warehouse. When a bale of cotton was compressed there was a loud escapement of steam and a clatter of rough shod feet as the negroes hastened to bind and buckle the iron ties and truck the bale into the open car.

"Look out thar, you triflin' scamp!" Kenner yelled to a negro who stood too near the descending press for safety. "Who'd pay damages on that bale ef it got stained through and through by havin' you mashed on it? Jake, it seems to me you get a green hand on every pressin' day."

"I tol' dat fool nigger to look out, Marse Kenner," replied Jake, who, with bared arms and neck and wet with perspiration, was bossing the others. "Ef he git smashed ter a jelly I reckon he'l be more careful next time."

Just then old Hanks came out of the rear door of the warehouse and lazily picked his way across the cinder strewn tracks. He did not go round to the steps, but climbed on to the platform like a schoolboy.

"Jake, gi' me a match," he called out as he fished a cigar from his pocket and bit the end of it.

"Match!" snarled Kenner. "Ef that coon handled matches around this platform I'd bust his skull."

"Well, I reckon I'll not smoke anyway," said Hanks, and he seated himself on a bale of cotton and took a small piece of tobacco from the pocket of his vest and began to chew it. "Say, Jim," he went on, "what do you think about the way Hillyer is actin' about wheat? Is he plumb losin' his mind?"

"I was jest a-studyin' about that myself," replied Kenner. "It's quar to me."

"I reckon you don't feel like you are exactly a Solomon," smiled Hanks, "with the market at $1.42, after all the row you made about him payin' $1.05."

"Not exactly," and Kenner burst into a harsh but hearty laugh. "That's whar I was wrong, I'll admit it, but most o' what I said was jest to keep George from makin' a mistake. It don't do a young feller any good to start out with a record for bad judgment. But what's got me is Hillyer's quar excitement all along. Why, he is as nervous as he can be. It don't look like he'd be that a-way with all that profit on his side. An' then, whenever thar'd be a rise an' anybody advised 'im to sell, he'd always turn to George and ax 'im what about it—never knowed 'im that way before — an' whatever George would say went. But the old man is rattled bad this mornin'."

"You say he is?"

"Yes; I was in the office just now when he got the reports. Two brokers wired that the top notch price was $1.42 and that nobody could predict whether she'd advance or decline. The old man was as white as a sheet as he handed the telegrams to George an' watched his face. That boy is simply wonderful. He's as cool as a cucumber in a barrel o' frozen vinegar. He's read every newspaper bearin' on wheat all over the country an' knows the thing from a to izzard. He's on to every grain that's exported, every flourin' mill that's shut down on account of the rise—in fact, every detail concernin' wheat in America an' everywhar else. I acknowledge I was excited just now watchin' the two. George didn't change countenance one

Thurlow Objects to Increased Assessment

EQUALIZATION OF ASSESSMENT BY COUNTY COUNCIL ADDS HALF A MILLION TO THURLOW ASSESSMENT, WHICH REEVE VERMILYEA WILL NOT ACCEPT—COMPROMISE MAY BE REACHED TO PREVENT COURT PROCEEDINGS.

The principal business before the Hastings County Council this session was the equalization of assessment. Report of Committee was accepted on resolution, but re-opened on technicality. Reeve Vermilyea objected strenuously to the proposed increase of $500,000 to the assessment of Thurlow township and intimated that the township would certainly take legal action if this addition was made.

It was thought desirable to reconsider the matter and try to arrive at a compromise.

On Friday morning, June 17, Hastings County Council resumed at ten o'clock, Warden Embury, presiding.

Bridge Report

County Engineer Aylsworth, presented a supplementary bridge report which was as follows:

In our opinion the bridge at Bancroft, the Mereau bridge over the river Moira, and the Trudeau bridge are not county bridges, owing to not being of sufficient length.

On motion the report was laid upon the table.

Mr. Thompson, chairman of the purchasing committee reported that $17,050 had been expended for the purchasing of machinery for the county.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Thompson presented the report of the special committee on equalization, recommending that the equalization of the various municipalities be as follows:

Sidney	$2,729,500
Thurlow..	3,815,500
Tyendinaga	1,654,000
Rawdon	1,830,000
Huntingdon	870,000
Hungerford	1,768,000
Marmora and Lake	600,000
Madoc Township .	1,126,000
Elzevir and Grimthorpe	270,000
Tudor and Cashel	100,000
Limerick	60,000
Wollaston	85,000
Faraday	70,000
Dungannon	75,000
Mayo	60,000
Monteagle & Herschel	160,000
Carlow.	80,000
Bangor, et al	110,000
Deseronto	525,000
Madoc Village .. .	370,000
Stirling	360,000
Tweed	475,000
Marmora Village..	230,000
Bancroft	135,000
Frankford	282,000
Deloro	160,000
Total	$18,000,000

Mr. Vermilyea asked how the conclusions were reached.

Mr. Thompson said the conclusions were reached after careful consideration by the committee and by a proper basis of calculations.

The report was referred to the committee of the whole on equalization. The council went into committee of the whole on equalization, Mr. Naylor in the chair.

A motion was made that the report be adopted.

Mr. Sills moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. J. Wood, that the equalization be the same as in 1920 as adopted by the Judge.

Mr. Vermilyea found fault with the report, as $500,000 had been added to the township of Thurlow, The whole situation was monstrous. It was an unfair piece of business for committeemen to go into committee and cut down the equalization of the township they represent.

Dr. Kindred stated that the representatives of the villages of the county were satisfied with the report as presented.

After some further discussion the report was adopted and the yeas and nays being demanded resulted as follows:

Yeas—Thompson, McGuire, Cranson, Airhart, Wiggins, Rollins, Naylor, Reid, Ketcheson, Windover, Kells, Wright, Burnes, Roy, Haggerty, and Kindred.—16.

Nays—Vermilyea, Sills, Richardson, Ballard, Haryett, White, Walsh and Osborne.—8.

Afternoon Session

When the council resumed in the afternoon, Warden Embury stated that a point of order had been raised by Mr. Vermilyea in regard to the vote on equalization. The vote had been taken at 12-30 when the rules of the council state that at 12 o'clock the Warden shall leave the chair. He would therefore allow the question to be re-opened and discussed.

A delegation waited upon the council and asked for a grant for the various Agricultural Societies of the county to assist in increasing the prize list and attractions.

The request was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Report

Mr. Airhart presented a report from the members of the council who visited the hospital, and were shown through the hospital by a number of ladies and the financial position of the institution was fully explained. The committee recommend that a grant of $1,000 be made to the hospital.

The report was received and referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. Clare in speaking of the visit of some of the councillors to the hospital, spoke eulogistically of the work being done by the ladies who are at the head of the institution. The speaker, however, thought that there should be a head to the institution. The fees should be such that they meet the expenditures, or nearly so, but such is not the case at the hospital here. The institution is a great accommodation to the county and city.

The council went into committee of the whole on equalization, Mr. Naylor in the chair.

Mr. Vermilyea stated that if the council accepted the report of the special committee on equalization, Thurlow township would appeal and fight the mater to the end.

After some further discussion the committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

The committee on Ways and Means resumed, Mr. Naylor in the chair.

A motion prevailed to make a grant of $100 to the agricultural fairs of the county.

A grant of $1,000 was made to the hospital.

Shoots Six When Rescuing His Son

HOUSE OF KENTUCKY MAN SURROUNDED BY SPECIAL DEPUTIES

Frankford, Ky., June 17.—The home of John Fallis, who shot four policemen and two bystanders, was surrounded by a number of special deputies under sheriff Moore, who took charge of the situation early today. Despite the close watch that is being maintained, the authorities are not sure Fallis did not escape in the darkness.

Fallis last night demanded the release from custody of his son. Elbert, who had been arrested on a minor charge. When Patrolman Wainscott, who with Patrolman Taylor had the youth, declined to free him. Fallis drew his pistol and shot Wainscott in the abdomen, probably fatally wounding him. In the general shooting that followed Patrolman Wilhelm and Jesse Colston were slightly injured.

Fallis, with his son whom he had liberated, ran to their home. Then Patrolman Noonan, despite a warning from Fallis, tried to enter the house and was shot with a shotgun and probably fatally wounded. Two bystanders were slightly wounded by buckshot form the charge that struck the officer.

Young Fallis, who tried ta escape from the charge that struck the offi- and captured.

Miners Seek to Force a General Strike

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

London, June 18.—The executive committee of the miners' union, which met this morning to consider the coal strike situation, decided to ask all trades unions affected by the wages dispute to meet the miners' representatives at an early date with the object of taking national action with the miners to secure their mutual demands. Secretary Hodges, of the miners said this implied a general strike, if the other unions agreed. The striking miners this morning were given one more day in which to take settlement steps which will assure them of receiving the ten million pounds subsidy from the Government to apply on wages. The action of the executive in opening negotiations for the support of other unions indicates that the subsidy offer will be allowed to lapse.

DENTAL HYGIENE IN CHILDHOOD

The relation between sound teeth and sound health is close. Consequently a child's teeth should be looked after most carefully. The old way—common to both parents and dentists—of ignoring the first teeth of a child because they are temporary, had many unfortunate results.

The child whose first teeth become infected or who loses them prematurely is to be pitied. If he loses them he may spoil the arch of the mouth, a thing that is most important to facial symmetry. If they become infected the nerve pulp cannot be kept in good condition; and if it is not, irregular permanent teeth may follow.

Young children should be protected from toothache; yet how often it is regarded as something they must be expected to bear now and then! Moreover, a child with a septic mouth invites all sorts of communicable disorders.

The parent who does not take his young children to the dentist for regular treatment fails in a plain duty. So does the community which does not establish dental clinics for the poorer classes. Bad teeth cause suffering that can and should be prevented, injure health, delay not only physical but mental growth, and sow the seeds of troubles that may result in life-long invalidism. The time to care for a tooth is the moment the first break in the enamel occurs, and only the dentist can know that moment.

Calgary Shows 'em How

Calgary, Alta., June 18.—When the C.P.R. special train drew up at the platform in Calgary bearing the delegates of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association convention, which was held in Vancouver, a very large and enthusiastic group of friendly newspapermen and citizens greeted them, the enthusiasm was unbounded and despite the whirl of gaiety experienced since leaving Vancouver at Field, Lake Louise and Banff, they showed no weariness but entered into further festivities provided for them by the good citizens of Calgary, the fast growing city of the West. They simply took the city by storm, acting mayor John W. H. Ugill was on hand to extend the welcome at the depot and representatives of the city and the Women's Press Club.

Entertainment in part last evening, included a ride on a scenic car others enjoyed the theatres as a diversion since leaving Vancouver. Through the generosity of the C.P.R. and the general nature of the Palliser Hotel, the beautiful ball room of this renowned hostelry was placed at the sole disposal of the visitors. The orchestra played for dancing until midnight and, needless to say, it was thoroughly enjoyed.

In the opinion of the higher officials of the association nothing has been omitted to make the delegates enjoy themselves and the hospitality of the greatest transportation system in the world has been A-1 at Lloyds. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the railway officials accompanying the train and attending to the wants in the slightest degree of any of the members of the party.

They had Mr. A. B. Calder, the representative of W. E. W. Beatty, the President of the C.P.R. The delegates extend their sincerest appreciation for the wonderful courtesy extended to them and for the innumerable enjoyments provided to say nothing of the surprises which greeted them while travelling across the prairies.

To-day the delegates were hospitably entertained by the Board of Trade, enjoying a delightful drive through the city and providing a luncheon at the Plaza which was presided over by Mayor Adams. After the toast to The King, Mayor Adams proposed the toast of "Our Guests" which was responded to by W. R. Davies of the Renfrew Mercury, who paid a glowing tribute to Western Canada and expressed the hope that the East would become better cemented with the West. He believed that in the future, now that they appreciated the West better than ever that they would put their heel on that serpent of racial propaganda whenever it showed its head.

Mr. A. E. Calnan, of the Picton Gazette, paid a great tribute to Mr. Roy Sales, the manager of the Association and asked Mr. Bowie to make a little presentation to Mr. Sales, showing their appreciation of his work since his appointment.

Mr. J. L. Bowie, of Carbarry, Man., then asked Mr. Sales to accept a very handsome bag to which Mr. Sales suitably responded. Subsequently thanks were returned to the Mayor of Calgary, The Board of Trade and the citizens of Calgary for their kindness on behalf of the delegates by the Rev. A. H. Moore, St. Johns' News, Quebec, and Mrs. A. R. Brennan, Vice-President and proprietor of the Summerside Journal, P.E.I.

The Women's Press Club provided afternoon tea at the Hudson's Bay Store and at five o'clock the party left en rounte for Regina, where a brief stop will be made on the way to the Eastern provinces.

Many thanks are due to Mr. W. J. Huntingford, of Wainwright, Man., who was responsible for the Calgary arrangements.

Sinn Fein Routed in Battle With Police Force

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Cork, June 18.—Twenty-five auxiliary police beat of a force of three hundred Sinn Feiners after a fierce fight at Rathcoole last night, when four lorries were ambushed. Three road mines were set off, putting the lorries out of action, and the attacking party fired upon the police from trenches and walls. They were forced to retire, however, losing one known killed and many wounded. It is believed that three of the attacking party met death during the fight. The Crown forces lost two killed and four wounded. Reinforcements were rushed to the scene and were searching the countryside early today.

Importation Will Cease on July 18

SATURDAY'S GAZETTE WILL CONTAIN PROCLAMATION TO GIVE EFFECT TO RESULT OF PLEBISCITE

Ottawa, June 17.—Proclamations to give effect to the result of the plebiscite held in Ontario under the Canada Temperance Act and to provide for two plebiscites elsewhere will be published, it is expected, in Saturday's number of the Canada Gazette. The proclamation affecting Ontario will provide that thirty days from its publication, that is, on July 18, the sections of the Canada Temperance Act prohibiting beverages into the province shall become operative That is to say, on and after July 18, importation of such liquors, except for medicine, industrial and sacramental purposes, into Ontario will be illegal. Another proclamation will call for a vote in New Brunswick, on a date to be fixed by the chief electoral officer, on the question whether or not importation of liquors into that province should be prohibited. A third proclamation will provide for a vote in Quebec City on the question whether or not the Canada Temperance Act should continue operative in that city. The Act has been in force in Quebec for several years, and it is now proposed to repeal it and allow the provincial law, which permits sale of beer and wine in licensed hotels and provides for sale of spirituous liquor through Government vendors to residents in the province take effect.

REV. DR. BAKER.

Principal Dr. E. N. Baker, of Albert College, formerly pastor of Broadway Tabernacle, Toronto, will on Sunday evening celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his work in the ministry. He will preach his sermon in the Bay of Quinte Conference Church—the Tabernacle at Whitby. Rev. Dr. Baker entered the Methodist Episcopal ministry at Palermo, Ont., in 1871, Bishop Richardson officiating. Forty-eight years ago he entered Albert College, and secured his B.A. degree six years later. He has spent 42 years in the pastorate and eight years in the Principalship of Albert College. He is enjoying the best of health, and hopes to carry on until he sees a new and greater Albert College a realized fact.

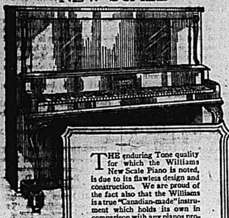
WILLIAMS
NEW SCALE



THE enduring Tone quality for which the Williams New Scale Piano is noted, is due to its flawless design and construction. We are proud of the fact also that the Williams is a true "Canadian-made" instrument which holds its own in comparison with any pianos produced in the world. Many great Artists give it unstinted praise. Discriminating people who purchased a Williams instrument many years ago affirm that its pure, resonant tone is as good today after years of use, as it was when purchased.

Select a Williams for your home. It will give you life-long pleasure and its true musical quality will prove a constant inspiration.

TRUE WORSHIP

A SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"God is a Spirit: and they that worship Him must worship in spirit and in truth."—John 4:24.

In grasping the historic setting of this text we are struck with the remarkable fact that a sinful woman, who was being convicted and being converted by Christ was the one to raise the question about worship.

Jesus there and then states three facts to the woman: (1) The question raised as to the true place of worship would soon cease to be of any moment; a total change is about to take place; the old order of things is about to pass away, and a new dispensation is to be ushered in; this will mean the passing away of old religious systems by Samaritans and Jews alike, when the new is accepted. (2) The Jews were right as to the place, nature and grounds of worship. God had chosen Jerusalem and its temple as His dwelling place, and He had committed to the Jews His revelation, and through them salvation was to come to the whole world—"For salvation is from the Jews." (3) The hour had come "when true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and truth." This is the reason for our text.

There are three important considerations or factors about which we must have a clear conception if we are to understand and profit by this subject. First, the one worshipped; second, the worshippers; third, the act itself.

THE ONE WORSHIPPED.

"God is a spirit." We must avoid any distorted idea of God, that is, any extreme conception as pantheism, or the philosopher's idea of mere force, or that of the idealist as Thought, Wisdom, Beauty and Purity. Such terms make God impersonal. When we read the revelation of God in nature we see how he manifests Himself in His power, wisdom, goodness and purposeful design. This earth is the place of fuller manifestation as revealed in His Word. "God, who in sundry times and divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in the last days spoken unto us by His Son." So we have today the more perfect revelation of God in and through Jesus Christ, our Lord. He tells us that God is a spirit, so that we are not to think of God as corporate, having any material shape or form. God is the unsearchable spirit, so we read "No man hath seen God at any time."

But Jesus came to reveal God, and He gives the new name, "Father," bringing God very near to us. The Being who seeks true worship is not only our Creator, but He becomes our Father. We can only express His nature in terms of love, goodness, truth, fatherhood. But Jesus can say "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." Surely we are all ready to worship such a Father. No, not all can worship; only those who are qualified by the revelation of God.

THE TRUE WORSHIPPERS.

"The true worshippers shall worship the Father."

Negatively—No longer ceremonial worshippers, not those who go by set forms or mere ritualism. God now abhors such. "I cannot, away with them!" We need never come before God with our vain oblations. God hath more regard for the character of the worshipper. "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord, or who shall stand in His holy place?" "He that hath clean hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully."

Positively, then: The true worshippers are those whose hearts are right with God and man. How many are anxious about the outward condition; but the inward is the all-important in God's sight. "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but God looketh upon the heart." What hope and comfort can there be for those who have gone astray and long for fellowship with God? "A broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise." These are the true worshippers—those who are pure in heart and those who are penitent and seeking the pure heart. If you have had a vision of Calvary, then surely you are fit to worship God.

THE TRUE WORSHIP.

The true worship is spiritual rather than formal. It is the attitude of the soul that has found rest in God and is at home with God, and knows Him as "Father," and delights in the Father's house and the Lord's Day and listens to His Word. "Come into His presence with thanksgiving, bring a psalm." Do not think you can worship as well at home. "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some." Let our souls go out to God in reverence, adoration, praise and prayer. Freely give.

Be sincere. Worship in spirit and truth; then the words of your mouth and the meditations of your heart will be acceptable in God's sight. True worship is the fruit of love, rather than fear. Worship with all your heart, that means with the affections; with all your mind, that means with the reason; with all your strength, that means every power you possess of body, soul and spirit.

In worship your own soul will be satisfied and refreshed. You will not wonder why wicked men prosper. You will feel rich because God is your everlasting portion.

True worship must be in "truth"—truth as regards God Himself and truth as regards ourselves. We need to have a true conception of God as far as we may know Him as He is revealed to us in Jesus. We must also have truth in ourselves. "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Then may we approach God in the spirit of true worship. "Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness."

"Thy house hath gracious freedom, like the air
Of open fields; its silence hath a speech
Of royal welcome to the friends who reach
Its threshold, and its upper chambers bear,
Above their doors, such spells that, entering there,
And laying off the dusty garments, each
Soul whispers to herself: "'Twere like a breach
Of reverence in a Temple could I dare
Here speak untruth, here wrong my inmost thought.
Here I grow strong and pure; here I may yield,
Without shamefacedness, the little brought
From out my poorer life, and stand revealed,
And glad and trusting, in the sweet and rare."

MUSIC AND DRAMA

HUMOR AND THRILLS
IN "ALL DOLLED UP"

Love is intricate without being mixed up with blackmail, but the two are cleverly entwined in the plot of "All Dolled Up", the Universal Special photodrama which will be the principal attraction at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday.

"All Dolled Up" is a stirring photodrama with Gladys Walton in the starring role. Playing in her support is Florence Turner. Such screen favorites as Fred Malatesta, Edward Hearn, Ruth Royce, Richard Norton, John Goff, Frank Norcross and others have important roles.

The story shows Miss Walton as a little shop girl who is oppressed by a disagreeable floor-walker. In trying to escape him one night she steps into a car driven by a young man of aristocratic appearance. He appears to he as the fairy prince of her dreams. By mistake he takes her to a road house where Eva Bunday, a rich and romantic spinster, is supposed to meet her finacee. Two men, two women, a scandal-mongering editor and the enraged prima donna of an opera company meet in the shadows of the inn. A furious and mysterious fight ensues. The story is brought to a smashing climax which explains the fascinating mystery of the theme, which to reveal here would tend to spoil the spectator's enjoyment of the photoplay.

"Back Yard" an amusing 2-reel Big U. comedy and other varied plays will also be exhibited on the same program.

PEARL WHITE PLAY
ENDS RUN TO-NIGHT

To-night, Pearl White will bid adeau to her admirers in Belleville, when "The Mountain Woman", her latest Wiliam Fox picture, closes its run at Griffin's. It is impossible to imagine a role better suited to Miss White's ability than that of "Alexander"—the "he-woman", the "gal in pants", as her admiring, fearing neighbors call her.

"Convict 13" a funny 2-reel Buster Keaton comedy, Young Buffalo in a 2-reel drama of early Western daring, Canadian News Pictorial and Pathe Review with its beautiful scenes in Switzerland, in Pathe-color, are being screened in adition to the feature offering.

Boy Scout News

Last evening at 9-10 p.m. an alarm was sent out by the A.S.M. to all members of the 1st Belleville Troop to assemble at Troop headquarters by 9-35 p.m. Thirty scouts were assembled in full marching kit. The troop left headquarters and went for a short march over the East Hill, and back to troop headquarters, and dismissed. This alarm was used to see how many scouts could be got together in a short time in case of emergency. In other cities the boy scouts are trained to assist the police and fire departments and to be of a general benefit to the city. It the city council would recognize the boy scout as a public service body, the Belleville troop of boy scouts could render valuable service to the city whenever called upon.

About 10 members of the 1st Belleville troop leave for Camp Community Monday, in charge of Troop Leader Crozier, A.S.M. Hayes will go out to Camp at the end of the week.

There will be a baseball practise for all scouts under 14 at the High School grounds, Tuesday 21st at 6-30 p.m. The team will be managed by Wm. George.

Humorists Orators and Lecturers

Chautauqua Committee Announces List of Orators, Lecturers and Humorists—Dr. Robert Norwood and Frederick Poole of Especial Interest.

It has been said that "the lectures are the backbone of any good Chautauqua program." If this is true, then the Belleville Chautauqua program for this summer will be strong and firm, as will be noted from the announcement of the lecture staff.

Noted Humorist to Appear

The opening address of the Chautauqua, given the evening of the opening day, will have much humor in it and will be delivered by one who is known in all parts of North America as the funniest man since Bill Nye. He is Herbert Leon Cope, born in Canada, and a favorite speaker here. ((Copetown, Ontario, was named for his grandfather, who settled there in the forties.) His subject is "Funny Remedies" and it will be well for all who attend to have their buttons well sewed on, for after Cope gets under way, it is one wave of hilarity after another that sweeps one over the tent. And it is said that there is a serious purpose back of every one of his stories and humorous thrusts—he is not a mere buffoon, but a man with a serious purpose.

HERBERT L. COPE

Said to be "the funniest man since Bill Nye." Mr. Cope will convulse his Chautauqua audiences with his humorous address, "Family Remedies." Cope spoke to more soldiers than any other speaker on the continent. The boys nicknamed him "Kill the Blues Cope."

Two Inspiring Addresses to be Given

The sort of lectures or addresses that inspire their hearers to wish to become of more account in life and to be better citizens have been classed as inspirational lectures and are always popular. Two such lectures will be given, the first by William H. Stout, President of the International Lyceum and Chautauqua Association and a man of affairs who devotes a part of his time away from business delivering lectures. His theme when he speaks here will be "Seeing Life Whole"—a very important matter to every individual in the world. There is much humor and entertainment in his address. The other inspirational speaker is a Canadian, Major Arthur Runnells of Montreal, who will speak on "Sea Power and World Freedom". Major Runnells frequently crosses the line and tells large audiences in Boston or New York or Philadelphia that the sea power of Britain saved the freedom of the world in 1914—and they cheer him! Major Runnells saw the surrender of the German Fleet and will tell briefly of that interesting event at the close of the Great War. He is a speaker of rare power and sweeps his audiences into the enthusiastic current of his oratory.

MAJOR A. E. RUNNELLS

Who will address Chautauqua Audiences on "Sea Power and World Freedom."

Oriental Traveller to Speak Twice

The travelogue has become one of the most popular, entertaining and instructive features of the Dominion Chautauqua programs. Fear was felt by the management that it would be impossible to secure as attractive an illustrated feature as the lecture and pictures of Hawaii of last summer until Mr. Colt heard Dr. Frederic Poole, noted Oriental traveller and raconteur, deliver his great lecture, splendidly illustrated with colored views and motion pictures, depicting the wonderfully interesting campaign of General Allenby for the redemption of the Holy Land, in Philharmonic Hall, London, England. He cabled Mr. Alber asking if he should secure him, and as a result Dr. Poole will be here and will show for the first time in Canada, the splendid pictures taken of that interesting campaign, as well as pictures of the man whom Premier Lloyd George declared to be "the most romantic figure of the whole war"—Colonel Thomas Lawrence, a professor at Oxford. Mr. Winston Spencer Churchill has spoken in the highest terms of this marvellous travelogue, and when it was being given in all parts of Great Britain by Dr. Poole, he urged that everybody hear it. It is at once the most expensive travelogue and the most interesting that has appeared on any of the Chautauquas anywhere in the world.

Canadian Orator and Poet to Close Program

That the Chautauqua will close in a blaze of glory is assured by the presence on the last day of one of Canada's favorite sons—Dr. Robert Norwood, orator, poet, and preacher. He will speak twice—in the afternoon on "Modern Canadian Poets" and in the evening on a theme of transcendent interest to all—"The Dominion and Its Destiny." When he has finished you'll be prouder of the fact that you are a Canadian—but not chestier.

DRINK FROM BOTTLE LABELLED POISON

Brockville, June 17.—Egbert Preston Baber, aged 18, of Smith's Falls, is dead as a result of drinking from a bottle labelled "Bedbug Poison," and contained methlated spirits and corrosive subimate, a deadly poison. A companion, Ezra Barber, who also drank from the bottle, recovered. Baker, on the night of June 3, drank from the bottle in a shed in the rear of a poolroom in which they were playing. They immediately experienced ill-effects, and hurried to Dr. Grey's office, where their stomachs were emptied. Later they were removed to a hospital, where Barber recovered. Baker lingered for eight days before death occurred. The youths declared they found the bottle. A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by mistake through poisoning.

ALL CITIZENS SHOULD TAKE AN ACTIVE INTEREST IN THE HOSPITAL.

One great question which should have the serious consideration of every resident of Belleville and Hastings county at the present time is the necessity of adequate financial support being accorded the Belleville Hospital. There is only one way to conduct a hospital, and that is with the maximum efficiency—and that entails the expenditure of a large sum of money annually, much more than can be realized from paying patients. Sick people must be properly cared for, whether they have money to pay for their treatment or not, and caring for the sick is one of the great philanthropies of life, and the carrying out of true Christian principles.

The Belleville hospital serves not only the city of Belleville but the entire couny of Hastings, and is entitled to the most generous support. If every citizen of Belleville and Hastings county will take an active interest in the welfare of the hospital the financial problem will be easily solved.

The members of the Women's Christian Association, assisted by the Hospital Board, have worked hard and given their time and talents freely to make this institution the most efficient in Ontario, and with the necessary extensions and constantly increasing expenses of operation the task of financing has been a difficult and discouraging one. With adequate support from the City and County Councils and the wholehearted help and sympathy of the citizens the financial burden can be lifted and all obstacles removed in the making of this hospital one of the finest and most efficient in Canada.

THE JERKLESS TRAIN.

It has arrived in Sweden and may cross the ocean when our railroads get ready to bestow it on us. Arnold Bennett told us years ago that the salient feature of American travel was the soul-racking jerk with which our trains started. They are longer and heavier than English trains, which may play a part in the reaction, but our engineers may also lack a certain degree of sympathy with the slumbering human freight they haul. Whether the Swedish anti-friction bearings described by E. F. Maas in The Railway Age (New York) will make it more difficult to transmit this lack of sympathy through the couplings remains to be seen. Mr. Maas writes:

"I wish to point out one way which would eliminate the uncomfortable 'slam-bang' at the start of a passenger train.

"By employing anti-friction bearings in place of the present journal bearings on passenger cars the resistance at starting these cars is so reduced that from 10 to 15 per cent. of the pulling force required with journal bearings will set the train in motion. This figure is obtained from comparative tests made on the Swedish State Railways with ball bearings and journal bearings.

"The reason why anti-friction bearings, of either the ball or roller type, have not come into more extensive use on railroad cars, in spite of such a good showing, is no doubt the fact that the hitherto known forms of these bearings have proven insufficient in their carrying capacity, in either a radial or axial direction, or both, to make them an economic success in the railroad service.

"However, there is now a new type of anti-friction bearing coming into use in this field, technically known as a disk bearing. The first bearings of this kind were installed about two years ago by the Swedish State Railways, and their tests have given such results that the use of these bearings is now being extended. These bearings combine the easy running of the ball bearing with the strength and carrying capacity of the roller bearing, thus contributing at the same time to an increased comfort for the passengers as well as to reduced operating expenses for the railroads."

CRISP COMMENT

Rotarians from all over the world met at Edinburgh this week and cemented that world-wide friendship which is so necessary to ensure universal peace and good fellowship. The Rotarian convention in Scotland will have a wonderful effect in defeating the plans of agitators who seek to stir up strife between nations.

Yamaska election reflects no credit upon the Quebec political machine, which spread the seeds of race hatred among the simple-minded habitant voters. Such tactics will help to confirm the political isolation of Quebec and revive animosities which were better buried. Yamaska election was a disgrace and injury to Greater Canada.

Fifty years in the ministry is the proud record of Dr. E. N. Baker, of Albert College, and he will preach his anniversary sermon on Sunday at Whitby, where the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference is in session. Dr. Baker seems to grow younger every day and is as full of optimism and energy as the youngest man in the ministry. A Greater Albert College is his objective and success is crowning his efforts in this great undertaking.

Believing that sermons should contain plenty of "pep," Rev. Byron Stauffer defended sensationalism in the pulpit before the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference, and advocated topics for sermons that would be as attractive as newspaper headings. The popular Toronto preacher believes that pulpit speakers should have a message with a kick and sermons which will fill the pews. He is himself an example of a forceful preacher who uses modern methods which attract large congregations.

BYNG, GOVERNOR-GENERAL
Cleveland Plain Dealer

Although now elevated to a high social position as a result of his distinguished service, Gen. Byng comes to Canada less as a lord than as a friend and distinguished military leader. In selecting a man of this type the British Government digresses from its customary policy of sending to the colonies representatives of higher social rank, often members of the royal family. The Canadian soldiers in Flanders were privileged to call their leader "Bingo Byng." He was a democratic military leader and promises to be a democratic Governor-General.

FOR AND AGAINST
Brooklyn Eagle

Government at its worst means the subordination of large majorities to minorities having the machine guns at their disposal. Under this abstraction falls the Lenin concrete, as well as the Kerensky concrete and the Emperor Nicholas concrete. But government, wise or unwise, good or bad, democratic, oligarchic or despotic, is still government; the anarchists must be against it, and it must be against the anarchists. It may ignore them so long as their utterances are mere wind; it must imprison and crush them when they become dangerous. Logic is simply inexorable.

WHEN THE AIR GETS CROWDED
Worcester Telegram

The army plane which crashed with seven men aboard didn't fall in a populated neighborhood, but it might have done so. On the same day another machine narrowly missed plunging into a crowded grand-stand. What will happen when flying becomes really general? Shall we be forced to armor our roofs? And will the newspapers daily report of tragedies, substitute for news of railway wrecks the news of the speed plane which ran off the track and into a thronged department store. How common will be the dropping on somebody's skull of propeller blades, monkey wrenches and spare parts?

POETS CORNER

SUNSET

Across the western sky the gold-edged clouds
Stand, like huge mountains that their outlines shift,
While in the east a twilight arch appears
And tips with crimson bridal veils that drift
Across the pale moon's face.

The sun's last fiery lance now pierces through
The clouds, and like a mist the twilight creeps,
Flooding the valleys, climbing to the hills—
Night spreads the couch where weary Nature sleeps;
The sun has left no trace.

Now, while the bright moon rides 'mid starry isles,
And sheds its borrowed light upon the earth
We know the sun has never really set,
But for day's death the night would have no birth—
So rule the laws of space.

And when our souls have crossed the mystic line
Where lie beyond the Blessed Isles of Light,
Though we are gone, perhaps our lives may shed
Some rays to pierce the gloom of someone's night—
Till time shall them erase.

—Velma West Sykes, in Kansas City Star.

Beware!

From Mary's eyes a sweet invite
Looks out at times bewitchingly,
And tho' I am not over-bright,
I think it surely shines for me.
Yet still I play a backward part,
Although no man could well depise
The beams of love that coyly dart
From Mary's eyes.

She often asks me there to dine,
My favorite rishes she'll present,
So that I cannot but divine
Her very palpable intent.
She'll sigh, as any maiden may,
Wondering, I know, in sad surprise
Why I so coldly turn away
From Mary's sighs.

She has my heart—it is not that,
Nor do I like to live alone—
But Mary's mother's far too fat
And turns the scale at sixteen stone
'Tis this dissuades me, when, I think
'Though longing for the proffered prize)
The day might come when I should shrink
From Mary's size.

Addresses of a complimentary nature in respect to Albert College and the staff were made by Mayor Hanna, Rev. A. S. Kerr of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and Mr. John Elliott.

Rev. Dr. Baker said the past year had been the busiest year of his principalship. It had also been a year of triumph. It is hoped to have the foundations laid this fall and the buildings erected so that the students will be in the new Albert College in three years. It will be a college for boys and an effort will be made to make it the best boys' college in the Dominion. He said he loved the city of Belleville and the work he was engaged in. The future was bright for Albert College.

The proceedings closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

During the proceedings appropriate solos were given by Prof. Staples and Prof. Anglin, both of whose voices were heard to good advantage in the selections given.

JOHNSON'S VICTORY OVER JEFFRIES

In the long list of decisive ring battles through which the mantle worn by Sullivan has passed down the years to the bronzed shoulders of Jack Dempsey, there is no page to compare with that recounting the clash between Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries in a sun-scorched arena at Reno on July 4, 1910.

Tex Rickard reared a great wooden saucer out on the plains of Nevada to accommodate the thousands who gathered from all over the country to see the tilt. He hung up a purse of $101,000, an unprecedented prize in those days.

Jeffries had not fought in more than five years. In the days of his reign in the ring, none had been his master and he had retired voluntarily with no defeats recorded against him. He was 35 years old, an age often reckoned as dotage in the realm of sport. The attempt on his part to restore the championship to the white race was an effort to which he had been induced by a constant clamor from those who despaired of Johnson ever being beaten by the crop of white hopes then seeking matches with him.

It was a great throng that assembled for the battle. Fringed around the great arena packed were rows of "bird's nests," built to shelter the sweet sisterhood from the Reno divorce colony. To them the fight was a charming break in the monotony of serving time. Jeffries trained down to 225 pounds to meet the sleek opponent three years his junior and then in magnificent physical trim. There was vigorous fighting at the start, with Jeffries crouched into serious mein and his opponent erect, grinning and talking as usual.

In the fifth round Jeffries sent a stray left that rocked Johnson and momentarily wiped away his smile. But the worried look on the black face passed, big white teeth again gleamed and through them came the admonition "Don't rush, Mistah Jeff, doncha heah what a'hm tellin' you?"

"Come on, Jeff, its easy," he repeated through the bitter rounds.

Age and five years of freedom from the rigors of training told on Jeffries and the power of his blows grew less strong as the battle went on. In the 15th round—the last one—Johnson sent him to the ropes with a savage uppercut. Against the drooping head of the weary white man the black fighter then pounded away with one uppercut after another.

The challenger had tried and failed and he fell taking punishment. His manager hopped into the ring to stop the slaughter whereupon Rickard held up Johnson's hand in signal of victory.

SATURDAY'S MARKET

The market on Saturday was not largely attended and all products offered for sale found ready purchasers. There were not many changes to note in prices over those of a week ago. The ruling price for fresh dairy butter was 35cts. per pound and fresh eggs from 28cts 30cts. per dozen. Dressed chickens sold from $2.50 to $3.50 per pair according to size and guality. Whilst considerable garden produce was on sale it was soon disposed of. Strawberries whilst quite plentiful were rather high, selling at 18 and 20cts. per box, the former price for crate lots. A few cherries offered for sale sold at 20cs. perbox.Potatoes sold at60and65cts. per bag.

CROSS TREAD (NON SKID)

• Intersecting Car Tracks— a test of Tire Endurance

The edge of steel—the tread-cutting menace that faces the city motorist on almost every street—the steel edge of the car track—makes a tire test that cannot be exceeded for rigor by any of the spicy varieties of tire experience. The "Cross Tread" Gutta Percha Tire—cord or fabric—has a carcass strength that defies the knocks and blows that would be sudden death for a weaker tire.

Remember, when choosing a tire, that it is the built-in strength of a carefully-made and rigidly-inspected and thoroughly-approved standard tire that gives you the service you pay for and have a right to expect.

A Splendid Tonic For Weak People

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS ACT ON THE BLOOD AND NERVES

Food is as important to the sick person as medicine, more so in many cases. A badly chosen diet may retard recovery. In health the naturel appetite is the best guide to follow; in sickness the appetite is often fickle and depraved.

Proper food and a good tonic will keep most people in good health. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a fine tonic medicine, harmless and certain in their action, which is to build up the blood and restore vitality to the rundown system. For growing girls who are thin and pale, for pale, tired women, and for old people who fail in strength, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an ideal tonic. Thousands have testified to the benefit derived from the use of this medicine, among them is Mrs. William Gallie, Hantsport, N.S., who says: "Before I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was so weak and run down that I could hardly do my work. I often suffered from headaches and was very nervous. I then began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I can truthfully say I have found them the best medicine I have ever taken. You may depend upon it I wwill advise other sufferers to take these pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cigarette in History

ALTHOUGH many efforts have been made to show that the use of tobacco was known to ancient Greeks and Egyptians, they have never been successful. We can accept therefore the general belief that tobacco was first used by the aborigines and that Columbus was the first white man to chronicle its use.

The Indians used the weed in a pipe and when the narcotic was introduced throughout Europe and Asia it was for centuries used either in pipes of fantastic design or in the rolls known as cigars. The Venetians are credited with getting the Turks to use tobacco, for the weed was cultivated in Italy. Bales of the seed of the nicotine plant found their way into Turkey and soon the Turkish tobacco industry was established.

This brings us to Mehemet Ali, underpaid worker in the tobacco fields of Kavalla, afterwards a leader of the Turkish armies, who left the hoe for the sword and the sceptre and—the cigarette.

With the bold bashi-bazouks Mehemet eventually became a pasha. His son Ibrahim was sent to the siege of Acre, the great Syrian stronghold. The chief of artillery, a Frenchman, at this siege early in the nineteenth century, had invented a powder spill, a kind of paper lamplighter filled with the explosive grains, which was thrust into the touch holes of cannon, in place of the old-fashioned and wasteful powder train which was laid on the piece and led into the hole.

These spills were made of light and tough India or rice paper. Ibrahim Pasha was so pleased by the way in which the siege was conducted that he sent to the artillerymen some very fine Kavalla tobacco. This they mixed with the Syrian plant, and greatly enjoyed as they smoked the mixture from a narghile or water pipe which, supplied with a number of mouthpieces, amply sufficed for an entire squad of men when off duty.

One evening as a crew was about to go on duty a shot from a Turkish fort smashed the beloved narghile to smithereens. The artillerymen could not leave the battery and they knew not where to get another narghile.

A resourceful corporal rolling powder spills was struck with an inspiration. He made a number of spills in which he substituted grains of tobacco for gunpowder and then in a bantering fashion presented these little cylinders to soldiers off duty. He then put one of the spills to his mouth, saying that as long as he could not smoke any more he was going to blow his head off. When the match was applied there came forth instead of a slight explosion a wreath of incense, and thus was born the cigarette.

Old Ibrahim was amused when he heard how much spill paper was being used, and said as he pointed to a stragetic place in the walls of Acre, "Make a breach there and you shall have all the paper and tobacco that you need." The deed was done in two days.

This new style of smoking tobacco in paper rolls gained in favor as Mehemet Ali asserted his sway over Egypt and from Cairo it spread to the European capitals through the diplomatic services of the various nations.

In Russia the cigarette grew in popular favor and in the early 'forties cigarettes were sold in that nation which were partly Turkish and partly made of a light tobacco grown in America.

Bachelors and Children.

Commenting on Mr. John Galsworthy's book on childhood, "Awakening," a critic remarks that men, and especially bachelors, are the best historians of childhood. It was Charles Lamb who wrote "Dream Children." Lamb, by the way, was scarcely an inveterate bachelor, as he would have married Ann Simmons, if she had been willing, and there was also "'Alice W.,'' as well as Fanny Kelly, the actress, who refused him. It was the lonely Barrie who wrote 'Peter Pan." And few descriptions of children—not dream children or Peter Pans, but of actual child life—can surpass the pictures drawn by E. Nesbitt (Mrs. Hubert Bland) in "The Treasure Seekers" and "The Phoenix and the Carpet."

Mr. Wilson's Literary Plans.

Mr. Wilson by setting before him a program of literary work on his retirement from White House is following the example of most American Presidents who refuse to consider their careers ended when they cease to be President. French Presidents, as a rule, are not conspicuous after retirement, though M. Poincare may be an exception, but Grant turned his sword into a pen; Cleveland went back happily to his law practice; Taft has become a great authority on international law and a busy professor, and Roosevelt alternated between traveling, lecturing other nations, and editing a great magazine.

House Plants and Health.

House plants are a valuable guide in health matters. If a room is so badly ventilated and dark that plants will not flourish in it, it is not a healthy living-room for human beings. It has lately been shown that plants are very quick to appreciate anything in the way of poisonous gases in the air. Leakage of gas, faults in the drains, and the like, may gradually contaminate the atmosphere of the house without the occupants being aware that there is anything wrong. But plants will soon detect and give warning of these unwholesome influences.

MAGUIRE CASE APPEAL DISMISSED WITH COSTS

Kingston, June 17.—Judgment was delivered by the appellate division at Toronto in the appeal of James D. Maguire from the verdict given at the trial on the 15th February, in favor of his brother, Francis R. Maguire, for $15,000, being $5,000 for alienation of the affections of the plaintiff's wife, and $10,000 for criminal conversation.

The defendant appealed on the ground that the damages were excessive; that evidence was given on behalf of the plaintiff that should not have been allowed; that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, and that the trial judge erred in his charge to the jury.

The appeal was argued at Toronto on the 25th and 26th days of May, Peter White K.C., for the plaintiff and A. B. Cunningham for the defendant.

The judgment of the appellate division dismissed the appeal with costs. The judges were of the opinion that the original judgment could not successfully be attacked.

Grand Jury Report

The presentment of the Grand Jury at the County Court this week was as follows:

To His Honor Judge Deroche,—

We, the Grand Jurors of the sittings of the General Session of the Peace for the County of Hastings, beg leave to report as follows:

We desire to thank your honor for your very able, clear and explicit instructions in the matter in reference to our duties.

We desire to thank Sheriff Morrison for his kindness and attention and also Mr. Carnew, Crown Attorney, for his efficient and valuable assistance.

County Gaol

We visited the County gaol and found fifteen males and no females present. The condition of every part of the premises reflects credit on Mr. Ketcheson, gaoler Mrs. Ketcheson, matron and Mr. Colling, turnkey.

House of Refuge

The House of Refuge was visited and we desire to congratulate the county on this well-conducted Home as everything was in good condition, the inmates well contented and cared for. The sanitary conditions of the floors in the lavatories and laundry deserves condemnation and we would strongly recommend new floors in this part of the premises. The Laundry stove also seems to be in an unsafe condition and should be replaced by a new one.

Mr. and Mrs. Leigh were very kind and considerate to show us through every department of the institution and deserve credit for the good conditions prevailing under their supervision.

Belleville Hospital

We visited the Belleville Hospital and found everything in a very neat and sanitary condition. Miss Tait, Superintendent, and the Women's Christian Association deserves great credit in financing and maintaining this very efficient institution. We recommend that this institution should receive the undivided support of our municipal bodies in maintaining its general efficiency.

Children's Shelter

We visited the Children's Shelter and were very pleased to find every department in excellent condition. The fifteen children seemed very happy and contented, reflecting great credit on the Matron in charge. Several cases of children between five and eight years of age, who are mentally defective have been brought to our notice. We would recommend that the entrance age in our Provincial Institutions for children of this class be reduced from eight to five years.

Capital Punishment

We do resolve that it would be a progressive step to pass such legislation as would provide a central place to detain prisoners awaiting capital punishment and that a system of punishment be adapted less brutal than that of hanging by the neck.

Lack of Evidence

At this Session we have dealt with one criminal case where there was not a scrap of evidence to convict the accused. We would recommend that Magistrates be more careful in their commitments to the General Session of the County.

BRAKEMAN INJURED

Robert B. Anderson, G.T.R. brakeman of Brockville fell from the tender of a locomotive while engaged in switching operations at Kingston on Friday morning and striking a rail fractured a bone in his shoulder.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

A Bunny Break

X.Y.—I saw a broken pane of glass in the window of a school house, Front of Thurlow, which break was peculiar in design. It was the correct imitation of a rabbit, as if such an animal had gone through the glass sideways, leaving a perfect outline of its form.

A Dangerous Experiment

P.O.Q.—I saw a lad performing an acrobatic feat by riding on a bicycle across the top of the dam at Lasier's Mill, Cannifton road. At the time the feat was executed there was a small stream of water running over the top of the dam, but that did not dampen the ardor of the lad who rode the wheel from one side of the dam to the other. Rather a dangerous experiment.

Reason of Defeat

B.R.—I saw Belleville defeat Lindsay 9 to 1 on their own ground. How is it when Lindsay played in Belleville they beat them 5-3 and then got beaten so badly at home. Lindsay has a good pitcher in Oulette and as he has pitched a number of games in the last eight days his arm has gone up on him, another thing is his support. This is poor and Belleville's infield and outfield have improved 300 per cent.

Method or Madness?

M.A.—Out along the Foxboro Road a mile or so from the city limits is one of, if not the, worst stretches of roadway in this locality. At the point referred to is a gravel pit from which fine stone and gravel is drawn for the city roads and streets. The funny part is, these men draw the stone etc., over this terrible piece of road and never drop even a spoonful in any of the craters along the roadway. Is there method in such madness? I ask you.

The Electric Car

B.T.—I see that the electric car service between Belleville and Trenton is to be discontinued. No doubt the Chamber of Commerce has been making efforts to have this service continued but the citizens would like to know just what has been done in the matter and what the prospects are. The electric car service means a good deal to citizens of Belleville, Trenton and the country between, and no effort should be spared to have the service continued and expanded.

Dog vs. Cat

A.M.—One dog received a great, big surprise and somewhat of a shock, when he saw as he thought, an easy object for some fun, so he accordingly licked his chops and sallied forth. It was worth a nickel to see what followed. The object of Mr. dog's sally was a rather pretty, medium sized kitten, sitting all by its lonesome on a back stoop. At the approach of dog, kitten fluffed up what tail it possessed, said tail being bobbed, and formed a new moon with its body. Then the surprise came, mother cat elaped from behind a nearby barrel and oh! baby! how that cat can scratch. Her tail was like Johnny Squirrel's in size, and her claws fairly sizzled on that dog's physiogue. He was wise and beat a hasty retreat with his tail on the downward trend, however, not pointing skyward, as when the attack began.

Would Not be Without Baby's Own Tablets

Mrs. W. Beesley, Mille Roche, Ont., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets forthe past eight months and would not be without them. I used them for indigestion and teething and my baby is cutting his teeth without any trouble whatever, I can highly recommend the Tablets to other mothers." What Mrs. Beesley says thousands of other mothers say. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, thus driving out constipation and indigestion and making teething easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

nit; he jest sorter laughed an' said, 'Well, thar's one thing certain, Mr. Hillyer, this strain ain't a-doin' you any good, an', as fur as I'm concerned, I reckon we'd better try to unload."

"Good Lord, he said that, did he?"

"You bet, an' the old man got whiter an' more excited ef anything. 'Remember, it is jest with you, George,' he said. 'Tell me positive, would you sell right now if it was yore deal?' George hung his head a minute an' then he said: 'Yes, Mr. Hillyer, since you leave it to me; I've hung on jest as long as I'm willin' to. It may climb to $1.50 or even higher, but I don't want to resk it.' Then the old man shot around the office like a dog after its tail, wirin' fer cash offers. I never seed the like. I tell you, old man, thar's some'n at the bottom o' this."

"Whar are they now?" asked Hanks. "They wasn't in the office when I come through."

"Both of 'em struck off uptown fer the telegraph office lickity split. They was too anxious to wait fer a messenger boy to bring the reports. Ha, thar comes George now, long by Bob's store—see 'im?—an' right behind 'im is the old man. Did you ever see Hillyer walk like that? Let's go over to the office an' meet 'em."

Kenner and Hanks stood under the awning in front of the warehouse when George and the merchant arrived. They all went into the office together.

"You think Jacobs & Co. are the best to deal with, then?" the old man was saying eagerly. "Lord, my boy, ef we slipped up now I couldn't stand it. We must trade with solid parties."

"Jacobs & Co. is all right," put in Kenner. "They are as good as the bank."

"Some banks ain't wuth shucks," said Hillyer. "Look 'em up, George. See what their commercial rating is."

George opened an enormous, green-covered book on the desk, ran over the pages for a moment and turned. "They are quoted from three hundred to five hundred thousand; credit A1," he said.

"Oh, yes, they are all right," said Kenner. "You'll get every cent they agree to pay. Don't you think so, Hanks?"

Hanks shrugged his shoulders. "I don't know a thing about 'em," he responded slowly, "but ef it was my deal I would."

"Yes, you would," laughed Kenner, who never met an occasion too serious for a stab at Hanks. "You'd know the sort o' socks they wore an' how the'r teeth was filled before they saw yore money."

"Ef I had any doubts about it at all," said Hanks, "I'd attach a sight draft to the bill o' ladin'."

"Bill o' ladin', you dried moke!" said Kenner. "This ain't no car o' scrap iron they are a-shippin'. It's fer warehouses full o' wheat all over the south an' west. They've got to trust somebody long enough to git the stuff transferred."

There was silence for a moment. Hillyer looked as if he were on the verge of a nervous collapse. "I don't know what to do," he said in a plaintive voice, "and we've jest got to act."

"Oh, if you feel uncertain about it," said Buckley, "why not simply ask your bankers in New Orleans to make a cash transfer and wire you when it is closed?"

"Of course," gasped Hillyer. "That's the very thing. I'll run up to the telegraph office."

George followed him to the door and detained him in the sunshine on the sidewalk. "Is there anything wrong, Mr. Hillyer?" he questioned in much concern.

For a moment the old man gave him an almost frantic stare.

"I know you think I'm crazy," he said, "but I can't be calm when so much is at stake. It seems to me, George, that ef this thing falls through without gain I'm lost forever. No; don't stop me. I'll tell you everything after awhile. Put them fellers off the track; tell 'em anything. It ain't none o' the'r business nohow."

"I actually believe the old man's off his nut a little, George," said Kenner. "Don't you think so, Lib?"

"How do I know?" said Hanks, rousing himself from the contemplation of some matter of his own.

"That's a fact," retorted the cotton buyer. "Couldn't expect one cracked man to judge the case of another."

George went to his desk, obviously to write a letter, but he did not go to work. He was, indeed, much concerned over the conduct of his employer. And then a thrill of horror ran through him. Perhaps Hillyer had been speculating recklessly and was on the verge of ruin. And to such an extent did this fear lay hold of his mind that he found himself all at once taking the most gloomy view of the affair. Perhaps the old man had allowed his broad sympathies to draw him into heavy indersements for other people until his entire business depended on the outcome of the venture in wheat. Perhaps—George's heart sank lower—perhaps all the wheat in question was under heavy mortgage at that very moment, and it was for that reason Hillyer doubted a prompt payment. Presently Hillyer came back, his face haggard, his manner still highly nervous.

"I sent the order to our bankers," he said, and then he sat down at his desk. George, closely watching him, saw him draw a sheet of paper to him and dip a pen in the ink well, but he did not write. Kenner went out to the compress on hearing the gang of negroes loudly laughing at some mishap, and Hanks slouched after him. Hillyer looked about the room and observed that he and George were alone, but he said nothing. Half an hour passed, then a telegram came. The old man took it with quivering fingers and opened it. It fell fluttering to his feet.

Opening Session of Council of Premiers

GENERAL COUNCIL OF BRITISH EMPIRE OPENED AT NO. 10 DOWNING STREET, LONDON, WITHOUT SPECIAL CEREMONY—PREMIER LOYD GEORGE ADDRESSED DELEGATES, AND CONFERENCE OF PREMIERS OF THE EMPIRE IS EXPECTED TO HAVE IMPORTANT RESULTS.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 20.—(By Gratton O'Leary, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Within the precincts of No. 10, Downing Street, the General Council of the British Empire began its sessions at noon today. There was neither pomp nor ceremony about the opening and a few minutes after the arrival of the last delegate Lloyd George delivered his opening address.

Following the British Premier's address the conference will probably adjourn for the day. All the Premiers present have statements to make, but it is understood they will delay their own utterances until they digest Lloyd George's statements.

In opening his address Lloyd George gave a lengthy and complete review of the foreign policy of Great Britain during the year. The governments of the various dominions have been kept fully informed of the various steps taken, but today the British Prime Minister reviewed the details of all actions and policies, explaining the stand taken by Great Britain at the Supreme Allied conferences at Spa and the reasons underlying it, as well as the position of the British Government in respect to Poland and Silesia. He also dealt with the question of reparations, outlining his conclusions and indicating the amounts likely to be accruing to the various parts of the Empire. He expressed the conviction that the amount of indemnity fixed was not beyond Germany's capacity to pay. Mr. Lloyd George also briefly summarized the events leading up to the present conference of Premiers, emphasizing the point that they were meeting as co-equal partners in a common Empire, and that so far as the British Government was concerned, it had no desire to press its policies upon the gathering. Touching on the renewal of the Japanese alliance, the Prinme Minister said that the British Government was desirous of ascertaining the views of the dominions and approached the subject with a perfectly open mind.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, as representing the senior Dominion, was the first speaker on the program after Lloyd George. Mr. Meighen confined himself merely to a preliminary statement of his understanding of the scope and functions of the conference. He would not, he said, deal with subjects on the agenda for the present, preferring to deal with them as taken up in order. After Premier Meighen's statement the conference adjourned for the day, the other Premiers preferring to delay their remarks until after consideration had been given to the address of Premier Lloyd George.

Stock Reaches Lowest Level Yet

Toronto, June 20.—A precipitate decline of ten points in Canadian Pacific Railway stock from its recent level at 124 featured the market on the local stock exchange this morning. Brokers there reported heavy selling orders in C.P.R. from Canada.

Editors on Last Leg of Journey

Sudbury, Ont., June 19.—The representatives of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association entered on the last stages of their return journey on Saturday night when they boarded the C.P.R. special at Port Arthur shortly after ten o'clock after attending an enjoyable dinner-dance at the Prince Arthur Hotel as the guests of the Canadian Government Railways. The party was met at Fort William by the mayor and representative citizens of the twin cities, where they were loaded into automobiles and given an opportunity of seeing the sights of the twin cities, being subsequently entertained at the hotel mentioned. During the evening Miss Hunt, the daughter of the General-Manager, sanw two solos which were loudly applauded. Later in the evening, in the special coach attached to the train, the company were entertained to a series of interesting stories told by Mr. A. B. Calder, the official representative of the C.P.R.

This morning everybody was up bright and early, the weather being blazingly hot and arrangements were made for a short stop at the quiet little station of Missanabie, where the Rev. A. H. Moore, of the News, St. Johns' Quebec, conducted a religious service at which all attended. This was the finish of a perfect journey and the party will break up at Toronto in the morning. Everybody expressed themselves as well satisfied with the comforts given them by the railways and in future they would be in a position to better understand the situation.

Tonights Orientals from all parts of Western Ontario are holding a celebration of their own in the Masonic building. The officers of the Grand Lodge were given a smoker at the Winter Garden and the delegates entertained at a late performance at the Temple Theatre. Several hundred took part in the banquet at the Kerby House, which followed a motor drive round the city.

Assarp, Midland; Grand Secretary, William Brooks, Toronto; Grand Treasurer, T. P. Coupland; Grand Representative, G. M. Hermiston, Toronto; Trustees of Home Board, W. S. Fire Sweeps Business Section at Bancroft

WOOLLEN AND FLOUR MILLS PREY TO DEVOURING ELEMENT—EMPLOYES MAKE HASTY EXIT

The Bancroft Times in its issue of this week has the following reference to the disastrous fire which visited that village this week:

About 10 o'clock Wednesday forenoon fire broke out in Fuller's Woollen Mill and in a few minutes the whole structure was in flames. Just what caused the blaze, no one knows, spontaneous combustion in the picking room may have been the cause, employes had barely time to escape. At the time of the fire a heavy north wind was blowing down the river and in a very few minutes, the flames spread to the Bancroft Roller Mills, consuming it and the contents, excepting a few bags of grain and corn. The firemen were slow in getting a stream of water on the scene, but after considerable trouble in getting up steam they did effective work, saving the Electric Light Plant and Drummond's Planing Mill, assisted by the bucket brigade, whose efforts can never be forgotten.

Other nearby buildings were on fire at different intervals and only for prompt action on the part of many citizens the fire loss would have been more serious.

The loss is a heavy one both to Mr. Fuller and Strudwick & Delyea, as the insurance carried is small compared with the amount involved in buildings and machinery. Not only a serious loss to the proprietors but also to the whole farming community for miles around, as well as the village from a business standpoint, as these two industries were responsible for many dollars being spent in Bancroft.

Marquis of Dufferin Elected Speaker of Irish Parliament

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Belfast, June 20.—The Senate of the Northern Irish Parliament, comprising twenty-two Unionists who were elected without opposition on June 11, held its initial meeting today. Its first action was to elect the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, son of the former Canadian Viceroy, as Speaker. Three of the Senators are Unionist Laborites. When the elections were held Nationalists and Sinn Feiners ignored them, although Unionists had left seats open for these organizations, accordingly, Unionists nominated men for all the seats.

The Leafs defeated Baltimore on Sunday by 6 to 5.

Cessation of All Industry Sought by British Miners

GENERAL STRIKE SOUGHT BY BRITISH MINERS WOULD INVOLVE NEARLY FIVE MILLION WORKERS — FAILURE FORECASTED FOR MINERS' EFFORTS AS OTHER UNIONS HAVE SUFFERED MUCH THROUGH COAL STRIKE—CONFERENCE CALLED.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 20.—The magnitude of the struggle which leaders of the British miners are seeking to bring about may be judged by a computation that the membership of the unions which they hope to immediately involve numbers nearly five million workers. Invitations are being sent to unions of all organizations threatened with wage reductions to attend a meeting in London next week to consider the general strike proposition of the miners.

All public comments declare that the miners' move is absurd and foredoomed to failure. Some labor leaders admit that the miners' policy is one of sheer desperation meant to compel nationalization, and as the unions now negotiating or balloting on proposals for wage reductions have suffered much through the coal strike, it is hardly probable that they will be sympathetic to a continuance or an enlargement of the dispute.

MOVIE FANS CHEER ADMIRAL SIMS

New York, June 19.—The real sentiment of the people of the United States in regard to Admiral Sims and the Irish question, is indicated at the moving picture theatres.

A moving picture of the outspoken United States admiral with the Prince of Wales, shown this week is very popular, judging from the applause given by the audiences.

At the Strand Theatre on Broadway, where a picture of the admiral is shown walking with the Prince of Wales on the grounds at Cambridge University, the audience applauded him uproariously last night.

The Rialto Theatre audience gave him a great hand. With the exception of a few hisses, he "went big" at the Capitol.

In the five other moving picture houses in the Bronx and Brooklyn the affirmatives overruled the negatives.

Narrow Escape From Drowning

SEIZED WITH CRAMPS WHILE SWIMMING—YOUNG MAN IS RESCUED BY FRIENDS

A young man named Hendershot, of Albert College, was extremely lucky to have a couple of friends with him, while swimming in the harbour Saturday evening. The three fellows Hendershot, Guest and Anglin, were on their return from the peninsula to the Downey wharf when Hendershot was doubled up with a cramp and was given assistance by Anglin, who was close by. The other fellow being some distance in advance thought they were fooling but on seeing his friend go under a second time and on hearing a call from Anglin, returned quickly and gave assistance. It was with no little difficulty that the two young men brought their friend to shore where first aid was rendered. Others some distance away thought they were just practising, as they were previously enjoying themselves, but did not know anything was wrong till the young men reached the shore.

Rotary Members For World Peace

WILL HAVE CLUBS MEMORIALIZE THEIR GOVERNMENTS

Edinburgh, Scotland, June 18.—Universal peace has been promoted by the International Rotary convention here, according to American delegates preparing to leave Edinburgh.

All delegates were pledged to have their clubs memorialize their governments for the calling of an international disarmament congress.

Three United States Rotarians were elected vice-presidents of the International Association in the concluding session of the convention yesterday after a vote by ballot. Ralph W. Cummings, of Lancaster, Pa., was elected first vice-president with 749 votes; Billy Coppelick, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, second vice-president, with 526 votes, and H. J. Luther Stark of Orange, Texas, third vice-president with 520 votes.

Many presentations were made at the final session. T. G. Sloan of London presented the overseas delegates with specially bound copies of John Richard Green's "History of the English People," and the Earl of Leicester presented the women among the delegations with scarves of Nottingham lace. The New England delegates subscribed 500 pounds for a cot in the Edinburgh Children's Hospital.

The trophy for the club with the best travelling record was secured by Longmont, Colorado; Wichita, Kas., was second, and Worcester, Mass., third, while San Francisco secured the women's attendance trophy. The International gold trophy was won by the United Kingdom.

London, June 19.—Delegates from Canada and the United States who attended the International Convention of Rotary Clubs in Edinburgh, and now visiting London, placed a beautiful memorial wreath on the cenotaph in Whitehall this morning and also laid a wreath on the grave of "the unknown warrior" in Westminster Abbey. The Rotarians afterwards attended morning services at the Abbey.

RING BATTLES OF DEMPSEY AND CARPENTIER

William Harrison "Jack" Dempsey, born in Manassa, Col., June 24, 1895, is a novice in ring affairs when compared with the fistic experience of George Carpentier, his challenger. Carpentier's earliest ring engagements date back to 1907, when the Frenchman was but a slip of a boy. Dempsey's first official battles were fought in 1915.

A contest with one Kid Hancock, whom Dempsey knocked out in a single round, is the first official engagement credited to the conquerer of Jess Willard. Dempsey, however, tells, with evident delight, of an earlier battle.

Dempsey himself was the promoter, ticket-taker and a principal on that boxing program, which grew out of an argument with another youth at Montrose, Col. They were about to settle the difficulty in the usual American style, with fists, when Dempsey, showing a certain business acumen that has been noticeable in both him and his manager in later days, suggested that they hold the bout indoors, and charge admission. A few days later, they pitched a ring in the town dance hall. Dempsey sold and collected tickets at the door until it was time to fight. They split the $50 "gate" and declared it was "easy money."

That bout started Jack Dempsey in the profession which was to make him subsequently the highest paid athlete any sport has seen.

He fought 27 battles during 1915 and 1916, winning 18 by knockouts and five on decisions. He fought three draws and was defeated once, by Jack Downey.

How Georges Carpentier, taken from a Lens brewery, where he worked as an office boy, won his first battle by knocking out Francois Descamps, his instructor, when Descamps attempted to chastise the youth, is one of the choice legends of boxing. Descamps' keen perception on that day, as well as his shrewdness and perseverance, has been a most important factor in bringing the French boxer to the prominent position he now occupies.

Three four-round contests constituted Carpentier's first year of ring activity in 1907. Two of these he won, defeating on points Bourgeois and Wetlack, French boxers whose only claim to fame is that they once met Georges Carpentier. There was more opposition in the third battle and at the end of four rounds, Carpentier was the loser to one Mazier, another Frenchman who has sunk into obscurity. Carpentier's total ring earnings for that year are said to have been $184.

The following year was more successful. Twice in his 15th year the young Frenchman won by knockouts, stopping Moinereau, a fellow countryman, and Salmon, an Englishman, the first in three rounds, the latter in 18. In another bout with Salmon, Carpentier won on a foul in 13 rounds. He then defeated Lepine in six rounds and fought two draws. Descamps had been bringing his youthful protege along carefully and already he was showing excellent form among France's best bantemweights.

Port Hope Defeated Here 10-0

Before one of the largest crowds of the season our crack Grand Trunk team justified the claims of Manager Walter Gerow, that at last he had struck the right combination, and by fielding brilliantly and hitting like fiends, they handed Port Hope one of the worst beatings they have received this season. Freddy was in superb form and the hits which Port Hope gleaned from his delivery were few and far between. In fact only three clean hits were made off him during the entire game, while he struck out seventeen of the Port Hopers. W. Mills behind the bat backed him up in brilliant style, and to top his fine afternoon's work contributed a home run to help in the downfall of the Ontarios. Harry Miss, his kid brother, also made a mastodon hit, not to mention a triple which unfortunately did not count as he forgot there was a first base in his eagerness to stretch his triple into another homer. Weir, Ross and Casey, the speed boys of the team, contributed some fine base running. While Williams and Frank Goyer on second and third respectively, did some fine fielding, the veteran, Sammy Symons, who replaced Meagher in the sixth, showed that he has by no means forgotten how to play ball. Meagher, while in the game, was good; his fielding and hitting was A1. Deer and R. Chalk, the Port Hope battery, were good in spots and in the eighth inning Deer struck out three successive batters, including our Babe Ruth—W. Mills.

The crowd showed that they were delighted by the brand of ball being dished up by the Grand Trunk team, and if they keep on playing the same for the rest of the season there is no reason why they should not bring home their second championship.

The game by innings was as follows

FIRST INNING.

Port Hope—Guy, after fouling a few, walked. A. Hills bunted to Freddy, who threw him out at first and then Harry Mills caught Guy trying to reach third on the play. R. Chalk reached first on error of Frank Goyer in fielding his grounder. Moise struck out. No runs, no hits, one error.

Belleville—Ross grounded to short. Meagher hit first ball pitched a terrific smash over third for a single. Weir raised to short, who made a nice running catch. W. Mills singled over second, Meagher going to second. Frank Goyer raised an easy pop fly to the pitcher, and when he dropped the ball everyone advanced a base. Babe Casey hit to short, out at first. No runs, 2 hits, 1 error.

SECOND INNING.

Port Hope— Friar grounded to Freddy. Fair fanned. Carter singled over second, but was caught stealing second. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Belleville—H. Mills made a Babe Ruth hit over first for a home run. There was some dispute over his hit on account of it going into the crowd, but it was finally decided to call it good as the autos and people moved up after the game started. Williams doubled over second. Freddy grounded to pitcher. Williams scored and Ross landed on third when the left fielder misjudged Ross' long fly. Meagher bunted to pitcher and when the pitcher elected to try for Ross going home, Ross scored and Meagher was safe on first. Meagher stole second. Weir grounded to short and the short stop got Meagher between second and third. Weir being safe. Weir stole second and when the second baseman let the throw get away from him Weir showed a great burst of speed and went all the way home. W. Mills singled over second and stole second, advancing to third when Frank Goyer walked, and scored on Casey's single. Casey was caught stealing second. Five runs, 5 hits, 2 errors.

THIRD INNINGS.

Port Hope—F. Chalk struck out. Deer duplicated by swinging at three fast ones. Guy also whipped.—No runs, no hits or errors.

Belleville— H. Mills tripled over second, but was called out by D. C. Ramsay for not touching the first base. Williams walked and stole second. Freddy fanned. Ross singled over second and Williams scored, Ross advancing to second. Meagher shot a high one over third, which the third baseman gobbled up. One run, 2 hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING.

Port Hope—Hills grounded to short. R. Chalk struck out. Moise struck out. No runs, hits or errors.

Belleville—Weir beat his hit to Moise, again showing his speed, and a moment later stole second. W. Mills sacrificed to pitcher, Weir taking third on the play. Frank Goyer hit to Moise and Weir scored and "Soup" was safe when Moise hung on to the ball. Casey lined to Moise, who got "Soup" off first for a double play.—One run, 2 hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING.

Port Hope—Friar singled, out at first. Fair fanned, Carter also. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Belleville—H. Mills bounded to second. Williams grounded to third. Freddy out at first on a play by Moise. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING.

Port Hope—F. Chalk struck out: Deer ditto; Guy ditto. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Belleville—Ross safe when third baseman muffed his fly, and stole second. Symons, batting for Meagher, grounded to second. Ross went to third on the play. Weir doubled over first and Ross scored. Weir, trying to make a triple out of his double, was caught on third. W. Mills hit the ball over centre field for a circuit run. It was easily the longest hit of the day, Mills being on the bench before the ball was returned to the infield. "Soup" singled over third. Pitcher tried to catch "Soup" napping and threw wild, "Soup" going to second. Casey rolled to the pitcher. Two runs, 3 hits, 1 error.

SEVENTH INNING.

Port Hope—A. Hills fanned, but here W. Mills did an unusual thing, dropping the last ball, and Hills took first. He was caught napping on first by W. Mills. Chalk fanned and Moise fouled to catcher. No runs, hits or errors.

Belleville—H. Mills flew to second. Williams flew to third baseman, who muffed. He took second on overthrow. Freddy made a neat little sacrifice in front of the catcher. He was out on first, but Williams reached third on the play. Ross walked and started to steal second and the catcher threw the ball to Moise, who relayed it home to catch Williams, but was too late. Ross continued to third, but was caught out. One run, 1 hit, 1 error.

EIGHTH INNING.

Port Hope—Copeland fanned. Fair singled over second, but was caught between first and second. Ware rolled to second. No runs, hits or errors.

Belleville— Symons fanned; Weir ditto; W. Mills ditto. This was Deer's best inning. No runs, hits or errors.

NINTH INNINGS.

Port Hope—F. Chalk beat his hit to Weir; out. Deer fanned and Guy the same. Hills out at first. No runs, hits or errors.

Traffic Obstructed

A.P.—The corner of George and Forin streets is at any time a rather bad turn for autos but was doubly so when a load of gravel was dumped there making it impossible for more than one car at a time to round the corner.

Free Show

P.D.—I saw on Saturday evening a number of boys enjoying the pictures thrown upon the screen at the Regent theatre without paying admittance to see same. The south entrance of the theatre was open and the lads were on a car on the opposite side of the street and from their point of vantage were able to see the picture. Needless to state they enjoyed the free show.

"Bonedry."

W.F.B.—I was taking a stroll down Front street this afternoon when I saw what looked to me a stranger. He was looking around and when he got in front of the City Hall, it being a warm day, he made a sudden turn across the road to what he thought to be drinking fountain and then I saw him walk away in disgust for lo, and behold, he found it "Bonedry." This is not very becoming for what is trying to be an Ideal City.

Mr. 1922 Astonished

M.A.—Walking along one of the city's most travelled thoroughfares, I noticed a young gentleman of the style of 1922 walking smartly down the street, looking a little closer I noticed what I had failed to observe before, a lady just ahead of him. Naturally I couldn't nor could he, see her face, but she looked mighty trim and chickenish from my position, trim ankles, abbreviated skirt in fashion's latest mode, chic suit and hat, all O.K. so far as I could see. But, oh boy! when she turned the corner—it was a pity to see the down ward slope of that lad's shoulders, and to notice how his feet lagged way behind for it was a revelation, not of sweet 16 but stately 60. Don't judge a book by its cover after this episode, Mr. 1922.

What did you see.

THEIR 'LUCK' HELD

Men Evidently Not Fated to Die on Gallows.

In the One Case It Would Almost Seem as if Providence Had Intervened to Prevent Hideous Case of Injustice.

Criminological history unfolds some interesting and curious "escapes" from the gallows. In Sussex, England, a man was found guilty of murder by a jury which did not take five minutes in which to consider its verdict Twice he stood on the death-trap of the gallows, on each occasion the lever failed to release the trap. An indignant country called for his reprieve, which was granted. It was afterward discovered that the gallows, which was made of wood in those days, had swollen by rain that fell heavily on both the nights preceding the dates fixed by the sheriff for the execution.

But here is the case of a man who not only was saved from the gallows, but from hearing his death sentence passed by the judge! A man was charged at the Old Bailey with a peculiarly atrocious crime. The jury sent in word from their retiring room that they were unable to agree upon a verdict, and were escorted to the London coffee house on Ludgate hill, there to be locked up "without food, fire or light," until they had decided upon a unanimous verdict.

Eleven out of the dozen were in favor of a verdict of "guilty," but the foreman of the jury, a Mr. James Simmer, had a rooted objection to capital punishment. He did not believe in the innocence of the man, but he refused to consent to a verdict which would send the man to the gallows.

It was Saturday afternoon when the jury was locked up. By dawn next day six of the jurymen, overcome by discomfort and lack of food, were willing to vote "Not guilty." Toward the afternoon of Sunday the foreman, actuated by feelings of compassion, addressed his fellow-sufferers as follows:

"I am willing to make you a sporting offer and leave the decision as to the guilt or innonce of the poor wretch in Newgate to chance. Observe: I shall balance the poker upright in front of the empty grate. I shall then slowly count 'One! two! three!' You will range yourselves, half your number on either side, two yards away. At the word "three" we shall jump. If the poker falls to the side of the opposition I shall give in to your verdict of 'guilty,' but if it comes down on my side you will join me in returning a verdict of 'not guilty.'—One! two! three!"

At the word "three" the twelve men jumped for all they were worth. The poker fell with a clatter to the side of the foreman! The warders were summoned, and the jurors were escorted back to the Old Bailey, re-entered the jury box and gave their verdict.

The judge, who had provided himself with the ominous black cap, appeared completely paralyzed with astonishment on hearing the announcement.

Twenty years later a convict at Portland was fatally injured by the premature explosion of a cartridge. Before he died he confessed to being guilty of the crime for which the innocent man was arraigned at the Old Bailey 20 years before, and was only saved in the manner described, by the fall of the poker toward the foreman of the jury.

Community Theater.

San Jose, Cal., is going to be the first town in the west to have a community educational theater. This proposed theater is not merely going to present plays for the benefit of the community, but it is going to promote acting among the citizens themselves. It will afford an opportunity for every person from the tiniest tot to the oldest citizen to gratify the desire to appear in the world of make-believe, according to Miss Mabel L. Dorsey, who started the idea.

Miss Dorsey, a graduate of a leading school of music and expression, took up the question of establishing the school with members of the chamber of commerce of the city and it was enthusiastically received by them. The primary purpose of the theater is not to make actors, but to develop men and women as well as allow residents of the community to display their talents in singing, speaking and dancing.

Mother Hubbard's Dog.

Mary's teacher one day asked her to draw a picture of Old Mother Hubbard's house, showing Old Mother Hubbard and her dog. Very quickly Mary drew the rough outlines of what was supposed to be a house, placing the crude form of Old Mother Hubbard beside the door. Then, with a self-satisfied air, she handed her finished product to the teacher. "That is very good, Mary," commented the teacher, as she looked at the drawing, "but where is the dog?"

"Oh, the dog is in the house," promptly replied Mary.

London's Subway System.

London's underground railways transport 4,000,000 passengers daily. The vehicles controlled by the roads make a total journey every day equal to 20 circuits of the earth. The gross revenue each month is £1,000,000.

Fitting Emotions.

"We ought to make it warm for the coal profiteers."

"Yes, and here is coming along a mild deal in ice."

ELECTRIC CAR GOES EAST

The electric car which has been in service for some weeks between Belleville and Trenton, made its last trip on this run Sunday and was taken to Montreal on No. 10 express Monday morning.

It Took All the Grit Mason Had To Stick It Out

"Every time I go out on a run now, I feel thankful to Tanlac for I'm convinced it kept me on the job," said William W. Mason, 1924 McClellan St., Philadelphia, for the past nine years a motorman for the Rapid Transit Co.

"I had stomach trouble in a bad form for three years and was going down hill fast. Nothing I ate agreed with me and after every meal I was sure to have heartburn, dizziness and sometimes awful cramps. I got in such a nervous condition my hand shook like a man with the palsy and at nights my sleep was broken and restless. In the mornings I felt so miserable I used to dread the time to come for me to take out my car, and it took every ounce of grit I could muster to stick until quitting time. Finally I got so weak and was so discouraged I was ready to give up.

"This was my condition when I started taking Tanlac and I owe all my present good health to this wonderful medicine and to nothing else. The first thing it did for me was to whet my appetite and I soon found I could eat anything without fear of bad after-effects. It's a fact, four bottles made a new man out of me. My nerves are quiet, I sleep like a log and wake up in the morning feeling fine, then I eat a big breakfast and go to work whistling like I used to long ago. If people knew Tanlac like I do the clerks in the drug stores couldn't wrap it up fast enough to supply the demand. It's great."

..Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug and by the leading druggists.

UNION IN SCOTLAND.

While the Canadian Presbyterians were discussing union with certain other religious bodies, their brethren in Scotland were earnestly discussing union between the Church of Scotland and the United Free Church.

The report of the Union Committee of the Church of Scotland has been issued. It recognizes that further progress in the negotiations cannot be made until the fate of a bill now before Parliament has been settled. Nor, under the circumstances, can the Assembly commit itself as to the course of future procedure. It is noted that the temporalities of the Church of Scotland are not dealt with in the bill. Difficulty may arise on this account. Parliament may desire to have a more explicit understanding as to what is contemplated than is supplied by the proposal that detailed adjustment should be left to a Parliamentary Commission.

Many other thorny questions are involved, and they will have to be faced and decided before the assent of the congregations of the two churches to union can be asked.

As to the Lambeth union overtures they open out larger issues than Scottish Presbyterian union does, and these are being explained to the Assemblies now sitting by delegates from the Lambeth Conference.

SECRET OF SPEEDING UP LIFE DISCOVERED.

It looks as if the switch had been discovered by means of which human life may be speeded up. Whether this would always be a good thing may be doubted. For those who live too slowly, a little speeding up may do no harm, but for all we know, hastening the vital processes may simply bring us to the end more quickly, which few of us would regard as desirable. But it is more interesting to know that the speeding switch, or at least one of them, has been found in the thyroid gland, long known to physicians as the producer of a secretion that is for some reason indispensable to the animal organism. It has now been shown, we are told by the author of an article in The Illustrated London News, describing particularly the experimental work of Julian Huxley at Oxford, that its chemical principle, thyroxin, which has now been produced artificially by chemists, possesses a remarkable power of hastening the chemical activities of the organism. In animals that have a larval stage, for instance, it hurries the transformation into the final, or permanent form; it can turn even the tiniest tadpole into a frog at once. The writer notes that hitherto physicians have contented themselves with restoring a man's thyroid activity, when either excessive or deficient through disease, to its proper or normal level. They know that the thyroid does something, and that if it is abnormal disease appears. But they have not yet tried to penetrate the real secret and to apply it to practical ends.

THE LONGEST DAY.

The "longest day" is upon us. The sun reaches its northern limit on Tuesday. We have got to the maximum point of daylight saving, and from Tuesday until December 21 there will be some waning of golden moments in each of the 24 hours of this northern year. The season of the summer solstice has its popular observances in some countries. In England Midsummer Day comes on the 24th of June, and in past times it was celebrated with merry-making. Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," which was produced on Midsummer Day at night, though its dramatis personae and its scenes are Athenian, holds the mirror up to life for all who want to see how the day was celebrated in England about three and a quarter centuries ago. The 24th of June is the nativity of St. John the Baptist, to whose festival frolics appear to have been as proper as to the celebration of Christmas. Pageants were performed and plays acted on Midsummer Day, and on Midsummer Night fairies were out casting their spells and making mischief in various ways. In the moonlight of midsummer are not the horns of Elf-land to be heard faintly blowing wherever there are imaginative people, especially imaginative children? In "Midsummer Night's Dream" the Duke says:

> "And I will wed thee in another key,
> With pomp, with triumph and with revelling."

These midsummer jollifications were not always over in a day,

> "A fortnight hold we this solemnity,
> In nightly revels and new jollity."

In the province of Quebec the 24th of June is honored as St. Jean Baptiste Day, and the pleasure-making that was a feature of the old English way of keeping the day is not absent from the Quebec way. The St. Jean Baptiste Association, which was founded in 1834, is more flourishing than ever today. It is the great popular and national Association of French-speaking Canada. In every town and important village the Association has its local centre. But there are many things besides the day's pastimes to receive attention. Graver matters are taken up, including such business as insurance, and the Association plays a most useful part in the social life of the community.—Toronto Sunday World.

A CONTRADICTION IN TERMS

Los Angeles Times

Alice Robertson, Congresswoman from Oklahoma, reaffirms her position as an anti-suffragist and declares that the work of Congress is of a kind that makes it peculiarly and properly a man's job. It does seem funny that the only lady we have in the national legislature should be one holding the opinion that women should is the fact that she is doing more to give the lie to her argument than almost any woman who has invaded the capital. She seems to be making good as a Representative and is received on terms of complete equality with the men. Yet she admits and insists that she is merely a Congressional accident not to be repeated.

THE FAILURE OF COMMUNISM

New York Evening Post

Lenin's failure in his own country has been paralleled by his still more dramatic failure abroad. Karl Radek, one of the great Communist chiefs, deplores in the last number of Soviet Russia that the Communist party "has based its policy all through on the principle that its cause will depend upon the development of the revolution in Europe. It is true that the European proletariat has not triumphed yet, but nevertheless the trend of events in Europe is in favor of Soviet Russia." Well, we know just how the trend of events in Europe favors Soviet Russia. Lenin is walking the path of surrender because the world-revolution upon which he gambled has failed to come off. The high stakes in the game have been paid, and no doubt will continue to be paid, by the Russian people.

A Laugh or Two

Careless of Him

"Terribly rough," said the stranger on board the ocean liner.

"Well," said the farmer, "it would not be near so rough if the captain would only keep in the furrows."

A Lower Pitch

She sang, and she sang: "I'll hang my harp on the willow tre-e-e-e; I'll hang my harp on the willow tre-e-e-e. Each time breaking down on the high note.

At last her patient father, from an adjoining room shouted: "You better hang it on a lower branch, Liz."

Nothing Serious, Anyway

Applicants for positions under the municipal government of a certain town are obliged to undergo a physical examination. During such an examination of one candidate the physician asked him:

"What did your grandfather die of?"

"I can't say that I remember," the applicant hastened to reply, "but I know it was nothing serious."

Something of Their Trouble

The moonlight shone on the lonely house on the hill, where all was peacefully hushed in sleep. A dark form sat in the shadow of a hedge. Suddenly he moved as a soft whistle heralded someone's approach.

"That you, mate?" he whispered, hoarsely.

"Yus", came the answer.

"What yer doin' with that dog?" he muttered, as his burglar pal approached.

"Well," answered his confederate, "there's nothing worth taking in the 'ouse, and it's bad luck to come away empty-handed, so I brought along the watchdog and these burglar alarms."

The Poets' Corner

THE SEA IS HIS

The sea is His; He made it.
Black gulf and sunlit shoal
From barriered bight to where the long
Leagues of Atlantic roll:
Small strait and ceaseless ocean
He bade each one to be:
The sea is His; He made it—
And England keeps it free.

By pain and stress and striving
Beyond the nations' ken,
By vigils stern when others slept,
By lives of many men;
Through nights of storm, through dawnings
Blacker than midnight be—
This sea that God created,
England has kept free.

Count me with the splendid captains
Who sailed with courage high
To chart the perilous ways unknown
Tell me where these men lie!
To light a path for ships to come
They moored at Dead Man's Quay;
The sea is God's—He made it,
And these men made it free.

Oh little land of England,
Oh mother of hearts too brave,
Men say this trust shall pass from thee
Who guardest Nelson's grave,
Aye, but these braggarts yet shall learn
Who'd hold the world in fee,
The sea is God's—and England,
England shall keep it free.

Piles Sufferers Find a Correction

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 32

By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

Piles or hemorrhoids are a form of rectal tumor primarily due to lack of tone in the muscles of the parts affected, and secondarily to straining. The straining may be from costiveness, or from muscular exertion.

Some forms of piles are quickly responsive, but the fibrous or connective tissue piles are slow. Chiropractic spinal adjustments will remove the primary cause of piles, which is lack of tone in the parts affected. Pressure on spinal nerves in the lumbar region causes this lack of tone and when the pressure is removed the piles gradually disappear.

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 26 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

"I suffered twenty years from chronic stomach trouble and piles. I tried all kinds of drugs, patent medicines, and several doctors without permanent relief. In June, 1919, I started chiropractic. I was relieved of my stomach trouble and the piles showed a gradual improvement until well. I have done more work in the past few months than in any similar period in six years."—J. S. WHARF AT TRENTON

The Trenton Council has been giving special attention to the wharf property for which Lt.-Col. Bywater recently applied to the Ontario Government for a patent. The Council afterwards considered the question of expropriating the necessary land for wharf purposes. Mr. E. Guss Porter was engaged to look after the town's interests. Mr. Porter advised that the town pass the necessary by-law to expropriate the property the Government would subsequently take it over and construct a wharf.

AUTO ACCIDENT

An automobile accident occurred just west of Colborne on Wednesday afternoon last when a large touring car, containing a party from Chicago, came to grief. OLD CONFIDENCE GAME

Several "confidence" men were touring the country in the vicinity of Colborne last Monday, stopping at the country stores to make small purchases, and then endeavoring to beat the merchants through the old game of presenting a $20 bill, getting change, and then getting the $20 bill back by presenting the exact amount of the purchased at the same time keeping the change in the hurry and confusion and departing hurriedly. One Castletown merchant lost $10 in a deal, but immediately realizing what had been done got busy on the telephone. The men were detained at Campbellford and the merchant got the money back. Some merchants along the line were wise to the game while others were warned by telephone and would have nothing to do with the artists.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

EXCITING ROAMNCE TO BE SEEN HERE

A love story with a fight for every kiss is promised Belleville photoplay fans who like excitement, when "All Dolled Up" begins its three days engagement at Griffin's tonight.

Gladys Walton, the famous fascinating screen lassie who has won thousands of admires by her appearance in Universal feature photoplays, exceeds her previous record for thrills per minute in this picture. The story deals with Maggie Quirk, a shop girl, whose fairy prince comes in just in time to save her from the advance of a floor-walker but who, in turn leads her into a situation from which she has to fight her way against terrific odds.

Scene by scene the story is swept to a climax that is breath-snatching in its force, and which leaves the spectator with a feeling that he or she has been in the middle of a fray. Florence Turner, well known to every theatregoer, plays the principal feminine support, while such popular players as Fred Maletesta, Ed. Hearn, Richard Norton and John Goff have important masculine parts. Helen Bruneau, Ruth Royce, and Lydia Yeomans Titus have appealing feminine characterizations which add to the interest of the story. Like the Arabian nights extravaganza the locale shifts rapidly from a Palace to a dingy hall bedroom from the a big department store to a road house and from the city to the country, keeping the spectators' interest thoroughly engaged at every point.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N. Harben
(Copyright, 1903)

The gray head went down. George signed for the telegram and sent the boy away.

"What is it?" he asked his employer, a cold fear over him.

Hillyer looked up. "Jacobs & Co. want thirty days," he groaned. "George, I felt it comin'. It's God's sign to me. I'm a damned soul. Lynn Hambright is at the throne directing my overthrow. This thing settles me. I met his old mother up the street yesterday. She looked me right in the face and did not speak. I knowed then that something was going to happen."

George could say nothing at all. He laid his hand on the old man's shoulder, but finally removed it and went back to his desk. Surely Hillyer was losing his mind. After all, what man could keep his mental balance under the pressure that had been on him all those years?

"George, I'm in an awful fix." The merchant rose to his feet and stood near his clerk.

"What's wrong, Mr. Hillyer? Can I help you?"

"Nothing can help me if we lose on this deal," said the old man.

"But how can you lose on it at the price you paid and the present market?" Buckley questioned, now determined to try to get at the cause of the old man's trouble. The merchant hung his head for a moment, and then he said, "Come back to yore room, George; I don't want them fellers to come in while I'm talking. I see I've got to tell you everything."

Wonderingly Buckley followed him back to the cheerless room. Hillyer sank on the edge of the bed and sat with his hands clasped tightly between his knees.

"The old trouble is at the bottom of it," he began huskily, and then he cleared his throat and went on more distinctly. "All along I have thought, in offerin' up prayers for pardon, that I'd beg the Almighty fer a sign whether I was forgiven or not. Somehow I believed he'd give it, but every time I was tempted to ask for it I would back out. I was afeared the sign would be agin me. But after you overcome yore temptation to drownd yore late trouble in drink an' shouldered it like a man I thought I'd resk it an' ask the Almighty to give me jest a hint that I was on the right road in takin' you up as a—a substitute fer Lynn Hambright. But what sort of a sign to ask fer was what bothered me. Then it come to me like a flash o' lightnin' one morning' when wheat was so low an' you said so positive that you believed it ud go higher. George, I tuk all the money I'd borrowed from you an' invested it—in yore name, mind you—at the lowest notch, an' then I put in lots o' my own later when wheat begun to climb. The proposition was this: I was to go entirely by what you said in every respect, an' ef it turned out well I was to take it that I was on the right track. God knows I've been mighty nigh crazy through it all, but never darin' to say a word to you. I've been anxious to close out several times, but I stuck to my plan an' was guided by yore judgment."

George signed for the telegram.

"You say you invested my—my money in it?" asked George in astonishment.

"Yes, that was the idea, so you could git the benefit if it riz. If it hadn't, of course I'd still owe you the money an' make it good."

"But I simply can't understand what is the matter now," said Buckley. "Heaven knows you've made a pile o' money out of the transaction."

"If we could sell now—yes; but, oh, George, I know that the market is on a collapse; I feel it. I know that Jacobs' offer to take it on thirty days is jest a trap the Almighty's set fer me fer darin' to ask fer the sign. Jacobs is in a pinch an' wants our wheat on a credit to tide 'im over, an' we'll never git out whole. I feel it! Oh, I feel it in my soul! God wants to git even with me!"

Buckley laid his hand on the old man's shoulder and looked at him almost tenderly. "You are simply letting your imagination run away with you," he said. "You have brooded over this till you have lost the power of calm reason. Mr. Hillyer, I'm as sure of the ability of Jacobs & Co. to pay as I am that I stand here."

"Oh, George, are you—are you?"

"Yes, and if they can't pay cash the world is full of people who will. Why, Mr. Hillyer, you have no idea how absurd your fears seem to any one else. Why, we'll simply wire the bankers to

City Manager System Discussed by Rotarians

City Manager form of civic government was again discussed at Belleville Rotary Club at the regular Monday luncheon at Hotel Quinte and some good points were brought out in favor of this form of administering municipal business in preference to the system now in vogue. After the preliminary business was finished President Moffatt turned over the chairmanship to Burt Jennings who has charge of the City Managership discussion and who read a very interesting paper on the subject at a previous meeting. W. L. Doyle took up the financial aspect of City Managership form of government and pointed out how by co-operation the system of municipal purchasing for all departments could be simplified and much money saved. The fault was not with the officials but with the system. The officials were as efficient as in any municipality in Canada but were handicapped by the system specified by the Municipal Act. With all departments co-ordinated under one head, an expert not changed from year to year, greater efficiency was bound to result. Tax collection should be made twice a year instead of once as at present, to the advantage of both the city and the ratepayer. Bond issues and other matters were taken up by the speaker, who gave many valuable suggestions tending to improve civic government.

J. O. Herity took up the question of Public Safety under City Manager government and incidentally sketched the entire system as it has been developed in the United States and Canada, Stating that no municipality which had once adopted City Manager system had gone back to the old system. In regard to fire prevention he would begin in the schools and instruct the children as to fire prevention, then link up all civic organizations in the same cause. Members of the fire department would make periodical inspection of business and other premises and see that fire menaces were removed. Workshops could also be provided where the firemen could spend their spare time in repairing equipment, etc. The police department should also be conducted upon the principle of preventing crime and criminals and in enforcing the law as it should not be deemed the first consideration to obtain convictions. The Allies found after three and one half years of fighting that co-ordination and co-operation were necessary to win the war and the appointment of one head in General Foch was the result, followed by complete victory. The present system of municipal government was wasteful and inefficient and in his opinion the City Manager system was the only way out. Two hundred and thirty towns and cities in the United States and Canada had adopted this system and were well satisfied with it and would not revert to the old system.

Visitors present included Beaumont Jarvis, architect, and J. W. Collister, manager of the Merchant's Bank, who were introduced by President Moffatt and made short addresses.

H. W. Ackerman reported for the Boys' Department that he and Bob Wray had taken part in the trek that morning of the first contingent of boys headed for Camp Community at Moira Lake.

On motion of James Higgs, seconded by James Bone the following resolution was adopted:

"That those members of the Belleville Rotary Club who were fortunate enough to hear the splendid address of Dr. John Ferguson on Thursday last on 'Our New World' express their high appreciation of its breadth of vision and its wonderful message of international amity and good-will.

"And further be it resolved that as members of an Association of which one of the primary objects is to promote friendly relations, cordial understanding and peace among the peoples of the world, we convey to Dr. Ferguson our sincere good wishes that he may meet with the most abundant success in the work he has undertaken with such outstanding ability."

President Moffatt made reference to the fact that Rotarian Ed. Baker had completed fifty years in the ministry and called upon Rev. D. C. Ramsay to say a few words in connection therewith. Rotarian Doug complied in his customary happy manner and Dr. Baker replied expressing his appreciation.

A vote of thanks was tendered Rotarian Burt Jennings for his able handling of the City Manager discussion.

Sandy Burrows led the singing and the session was full of interest and entertainment.

Movement Back to Work May Solve Miners' Strike

SOME COLLIERIES HAVE REOPENED AND A NUMBER OF MINERS HAVE REPORTED FOR WORK—NEGOTIATIONS FOR STRIKE SETTLEMENT MAY BE RENEWED — STRIKERS IN SOME DISTRICTS ARE STANDING FIRM.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 21.—Although some of the collieries have reopened and a considerable number of miners have reported for work, there has been no general drift back to the mines.

The industrial situation continues as chaotic as ever, awaiting the test of the miners' call for a general strike of all unions threatened with wage reductions. Some of the miners' leaders, doubting that their policy will receive endorsement, are said to be casting about to find fresh openings for peace talks, but no definite move has been disclosed as yet. Endeavors to stop men from returning to work and to defer action until they know the results of their appeal to other unions have been successful to some extent, reports showing that many miners were persuaded, or otherwise prevented, from going to work yesterday.

The principal movements back to the mines occurred in Derbyshire, Nottingham and Staffordshire. Apparently the Scotch, Welsh and north country miners are standing firm.

Aged Earl Kidnapped Castle Fired

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

Cork, June 21.—James Francis Bernard, fourth Earl of Bandon, was kidnapped this morning from his residence in Bantry, County Cork, by a band of armed men. Castle Bernard, his home was set afire, and early this afternoon it was still burning. His whereabouts are unknown. The Earl is seventy-one years of age and has been King's Lieut. of County Cork for many years. He is the owner of about forty-one thousand acres of land.

Imperial Settler at Head of Class

R. F. A. OFFICER FIRST IN SUBJECTS IN McGILL EXAMS—QUALIFYING FOR S.S.B. LOAN

In the examinations at McGill School of Agriculture, Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., Lieutenant R. H. Unwin, formerly of the Royal Field Artillery, an Imperial prospective soldier settler under the Soldier Settlement Act of Canada, stood at the top of his class. He wrote on twenty-two subjects. In seventeen he obtained first class honors and in nine was first in his class. In the remainder of the subjects he took second class honors..

Lieut. Unwin, whose home is in Newmarket, Eng., served in France, Flanders and Germany and on demobilization applied to the Soldier Settlement Board Office in London for a selection certificate. He came to Canada in August, 1920, and secured employment on the farm of Roy Bullpitt, near Cardigan, P.E.I.

The Board's supervisor, who visited him from time to time, reported that he took a very great interest in all farm work and had made very good progress in the selection and care of stock. He had a good idea of land tillage and understood different kinds of soil. In general management of a farm his progress was good and his employer reported that he had given excellent satisfaction.

Lieut. Unwin intends to continue his practical work on the farm this summer with the idea of taking advantage of the Board loan and purchasing a farm of his own next year. He comes from a family of farmers, his forbears having tilled the soil in England for 200 years, and he, himself, has owned orchard and grass land and has a good knowledge of general farming.

This is the type of men that the Soldier Settlement Board welcomes to Canada.

SHIRTS DONATED

Mr. Ray. Zufelt, Front St. merchant, and baseball fan, donated a silk shirt to each player of the Trunks who made a home run. The Mills brothers were the lucky ones. It appears that wealthy fans have not read in the paper about the gift of Mr. Dedmond of Lindsay to the Greybirds as the local boys are not sporting straws.

Yankee Red Tape Lost Big Order

Riga, Latvia, June 21.—Millions of dollars in ready cash are going to English, German and Dutch firms from the Baltic states because of the almost unbelievable unfamiliarity of even the largest American firms with foreign trading conditions, and even geography, say Americans here.

Dozens of big orders for which cash was actually in the banks in New York have been lost to America because of what representatives in the Baltic states term absolute stupidity.

"It is time," said one of these Americans in Riga who has had to place many orders in Germany and in England when America could have had them, "that the heads of American firms realize what the subordinates in charge of their foreign trading departments are doing to them.

"Most of them, brought up on so-called American efficiency systems that may work well at home but are absolutely hopeless abroad, try to do business in Europe according to 'form 22' or 'form 24' or whatever form they would apply to similar deals in America.

"To illustrate: Not long ago I had an urgent cash order for 40,000 suits of underclothing for a Baltic state. I telegraphed to a big American firm. 'What your price 40,000 suits heavy underwear cash against documents New York.'

"Two or three days later, when some bright young credit man had tried to digest this telegram I received a cable saying: 'Wire your credit rating and references.'

"Now, I suppose his 'form 22' required him to do that, but I wired back. 'My credit references are cash in New York bank. What are your prices?'

"Some days later I received a telegram saying: 'Price dollar twenty,' or something like that.

"More valuable time was lost in an exchange of telegrams asking what they meant, per garment or per suit. The result was that I wired an English firm. My answer from it was complete, just what I wanted. The telegram gave the price per suit, weight of shipment, probable date of delivery and everything I wanted to know. The English firm got the order and took the cash in the New York bank.

British Officer Shot to Death

MISCREANTS FORCE YOUNG WOMAN IN MOTOR CAR TO WITNESS MURDER

Dublin, June 21.—Second Lieutenant Breeze of the Worcestershire Regiment was taken from an automobile in which he was riding yesterday near Dublin, accompanied by three young women, and shot to death.

The car in which Breeze and his companions were motoring was held up by armed men, who shot and badly wounded the lieutenant. Leaving two of the women by the roadside, the miscreants forced the third young woman to drive them with the officer into the Dublin hills, where they stood Breeze up against a wall and shot him to death.

Mrs. Ed. Fehrenbach, Kitchener, dies as result of being knocked down by motor car.

Killed Her Baby and Attempted Suicide

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

St. Thomas, June 21.—A terrible tragedy occurred yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Charles McCallum, living at Black's Lane, Aldborough Township, near Rodney, killed her two-year-old son with a butcher knife and then attempted to take her own life by slashing her throat. The wind pipe was completely severed and she lies in a very critical condition with but slight hopes held out for her recovery.

Mrs. McCallum has been in poor health for some time and preparations were being made to send her to an institution for treatment. She is well known throughout the district being a lifelong resident. A few years ago a little daughter was killed when stepped on by a cow and another son died overseas from influenza. The loss of her children apparently affected her health and she gradually grew worse.

FIND NERVE TROUBLE CAUSED BY EXTRA RIB

York, Pa., June 20.—Discovery of an extra rib in the body of a woman patient of Dr. W. H. Treible and Dr. Ira S. McDowell of this city, was announced by the physicians to-day. Presence of the odd abnormality was revealed when an X-ray photograph was taken in the hope of discovering the cause of a painful attack of neuritis in the right shoulder of the patient. The photo disclosed the extra rib on the right side attached to the cervical vertebrae and cartilaginously joined to the natural certivical rib. The case was declared to be extremely rare.

Double Platoon System For Belleville

FIREMEN WILL HAVE MORE TIME TO SPEND AT THEIR HOMES

Belleville City Council Monday evening will act upon the recommendation of the civic committees that the Double Platoon System be put into effect in the local fire department on July 1. It is altogether likely that the council will adopt the recommendation as an act was passed by the Ontario Legislature at the last session making it compulsory for all cities of ten thousand population or over to adopt this system.

The double platoon system, in brief, means that the firemen are placed on two shifts, and not required to remain on duty at the fire halls the entire twenty-four hours.

The system likely to be adopted here is that the night men remain on duty fourteen hours and the day men ten, the firemen alternating each week on day and night duty. The new system will necessitate about five new men for Belleville Fire Department. and the re-organization will be left in the hands of Chief Brown.

Ten Per Cent Cut Proposed in Salaries

A special meeting of the Fire Committee of the City Council, which comprises all members of the council, was held last evening. The object was to consider the inauguration in this city of the double platoon system in connection with the fire department which system is compulsory by law. The members present also considered the matter of a reduction in salaries of city officials with the result that the following recommendation was made:

Recommended that a general cut of 10 per cent. be made on wages and salaries of city officials and employes.

Double Platoon

Recommended that the double platoon system be put into effect in the Belleville Fire Department on July 1st and that the organization of the fire department be left in the hands of the fire chief.

The recommendation re reduction of salaries will be discussed at the council meeting on Monday next.

King and Queen Prepare to Leave For Ireland

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

WILL PRESIDE AT STATE OPENING OF PARLIAMENT OF NORTHERN IRELAND AT BELFAST — ELABORATE PRECAUTIONS TAKEN TO ENSURE SAFETY—ROYAL HONORS TO BE CONFERRED UPON PROMINENT IRISHMEN.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 21.—King George and Queen Mary prepared this morning to leave for a port on the Irish Sea, where they will tonight go on board the steamer which will take them to Belfast, in which city they will preside tomorrow at the state opening of the parliament of northern Ireland.

Elaborate precautions are being taken by the police and Crown forces in Belfast to insure the safety of the King and Queen while they are in that city. Their Majesties will face a strenuous round of functions tomorrow, for, in addition to opening Parliament they will be called upon to preside at the levee at Ulster Hall where the King will confer honors upon a number of prominent Irishmen.

Confirmation of the rumor that the Sinn Fein will make a peace offer is, as yet, lacking.

Famous Editor Laid to Rest

Nelson, B.C., June 21.—Laid to rest in the city he selected for the honor by the hands of those who, like himself, were pioneers of the Kootenay, the body of Robert T. Lowery, late proprietor and editor of the Greenwood Ledge, famed throughout the continent for its able and humorous editorial comment, now lies on the hill above Nelson. A beautiful rite, employed by the Kootenay Pioneers' Association for the first time was exemplified at this funeral, when 25 old associates of the early days each dropped into the open grave his tribute of British Columbia fir, with the parting injunction, "Rest in peace." This was founded on the custom of an Indian tribe in the Kootenay-Columbia valley many years ago of never passing a certain spot in the narrow trail at the head of the Columbia lakes, where once the men of the tribe died to a man in making a stand against an invasion, without depositing a fir bough, the pile of boughs being always green by this perpetual renewal.

"Colonel" Lowery's newspaper enterprises in British Columbia must have been a dozen in number. In the 1903-04 volume of his "Float," which he periodically collected in book form, he stated that he had up to that time "been the father of eight Kootenay papers," adding whimsically that his reward was "still coming up the pike." Since then he is known to have had three, and has probably had more.

Born in eastern Ontario, young Lowery moved to the Sarnia district with his family at an early age, and his first business venture was a partnership with his elder brother, John, at Petrolea, in a stationery and newspaper business. On May 26, 1891, thirty years later, he arrived in this district. When the townsight of New Denver was auctioned by the government in 1892 he attended the sale, bought some lots and founded a newspaper. Almost immediately he moved to Kaslo, which then had a population of thousands, and started publication of The Claim, staying until the high water of 1894 coincided with the decline of the boom. One of the last issues was printed in blue ink to indicate the bleakness of the prospect and gave great offense to the people of that community.

Old-timers recall many incidents, amusing and otherwise, of the editor's life, some of which were due to his trenchant comments on current affairs. He had numerous differences with the churches and once or twice with the bench. He was everywhere with the heyday of mining in the Kootenay-Boundary territory and left lasting word pictures of those early times. Of late years the "Colonel's" column of "Float" was the principal avenue through which he was known to the general public.

WOMAN PRESIDES OVER U. S. CONGRESS

Washington, June 21.—For the first time in the history of the United States Congress, a woman presided over the deliberations of one of its houses to-day. "Miss Alice" Robertson, of Oklahoma, the only woman member of Congress, wielded the gavel while the House of Representatives, at the request of President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes, passed a bill authorizing the sending of a United States Commission to Peru during the centennial celebration in that Republic.

68 Killed 73 Injured in Explosion

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

Berlin, June 21.—Sixty-eight men were killed and seventy-three injured through an explosion, due to fire damp, which destroyed a great part of the Mont Cenis mine, near Herne, West Phalia, yesterday. Three hundred men were in the mine when the disaster occurred.

Longest Day of The Year

Toronto, June 21.—(By Canadian Press)—Popularly to-day, June 21, is the longest day of the year. Technically it is actually so, though only by a margin of a few seconds. As a matter of fact the longest day sometimes falls on June 22. The almanac compilers thus describe it:

June 21. Sun enters the sign of Cancer (Summer Solstice) 23 h. 36 m.—or in other words at 24 minutes to midnight.

It is all made perfectly clear by the following scientific explanation. Though there is but slight difference in the length of the interval between sunrise and sunset on the days about June 21, there is in general one of these days which is a few seconds longer than any other. This is the day on which the Summer solstice falls, and at the end of a century is June 20 or June 21, whilst at the beginning it is a day later, and June 21 or 22 is the longest day. The reason for this difference in date may be briefly stated. Because the tropical Year is not an integral number of days the solstice falls later in the calendar year by year by six hours nearly. It is not permitted to be very late because of the intercalation of the extra day in leap year brings it back one whole day. This whole day is too much, because the solstice is later yearly by not quite six hours, and hence, on the whole, it falls earlier in the calendar year as the century progresses, and the dates of the longest day at the beginning and end are as stated. In this year it happens that the solstice occurs only 24 minutes before midnight of June 21, and the difference in length of the two days is scarcely appreciable.

This acceleration of the date during the century is corrected by the omission of the intercalary day in the centennial year, which puts the date a day later. But this does more than is necessary, and a further, compensation is made by making the fourth centennial year a leap year.

SENTENCED THRICE ESCAPED ALIVE

Warsaw, June 20.—Three different times Captain Merion Cooper, of Jacksonville, Fla., while in a Bolshevik prisoner's camp Russia for nine months, was notified that he was to be shot at sunrise. Then, for hours preceding the time set for the supposed execution, Cooper was grilled by Soviet authorities who pretended to believe that he was a representative of the American government. When the hour of execution came around no Bolsheviki appeared but Cooper was never notified otherwise, being left in suspense day after day. until he escaped.

Railways Tell Men About Cut in Wages July 1

G.T.R. UNABLE TO MEET OPERATING EXPENSES DESPITE EVERY PRECAUTION

Montreal, June 20.—One hundred and fifty thousand employes of Canadian railroads told that tentative agreements will be submitted to the various units employed inviting them to subscribe to a twelve per cent. wage reduction, effective July1.

Employes of the Grand Trunk Railway met Vice-President Robb this morning. This afternoon representatives of Canadian Pacific men are meeting with Vice-President Hall, and at Toronto conferences are in progress between the Canadian National management and employes.

The information given to Grand Trunk employes is in effect identical to that which will be presented to those representing other roads. It was that despite every economy in management which has been invoked, despite short time in shops and elsewhere the railways are unable to continue present wages. In the case of the Grand Trunk alone the deficit last year was approximately $11,000,000 between revenues and operating charges and maintenance.

Since the inauguration of the McAdoo awards and later those of the United States Railroad Labor Board Canadian railways have followed every advance in wages although in two cases at least doing so meant advancing annual deficits. Now the United States Railway Labor Board has decreed a reduction in wages which will average about twelve per cent. The railways expect, the men were told by Mr. Robb, that employes will show the same good faith and co-operation when the decision means a slight reduction in their wages as the railway exhibited when awards went heavily against the companies.

What Men Are Told

The delegation which met Mr. Robb, while advancing all argument available against reduction of wages displayed no hectic hostility. The members were not called together to say what actions their unions would take on the proposal but to take back to their unions news which was expected respecting the reduction, together with the information that the companies did not anticipate any refusal on the part of employes to accept.

The delegates were further told that the companies considered a conference or series of conferences should be arranged later between both parties for the purpose of working out discrepancies which now exist against both sides in working conditions.

Expect No Refusal

That men were not told what would happen if they refused the decrease in wages and when railroad officials were asked they replied that did not anticipate any refusal.

Those who met Mr. Robb were the following general chairmen of the various crafts interested in the Grand Trunk operation:W. Maloney, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; T. Todd, Order of Railroad Conductors; W. G. Dewar, Brotherhood of Engineers and W. J. Dowell, Brotherhood of Engineers and Firemen. A large delegation representing the clerical forces met, Mr. Robb after the running trades.

Others To Come Later

Maintenance of Way and Shops crafts deal directly with all railways through the Canadian Railways association. They have also been called into conference, but as the Chicago Board has not yet given a decision respecting their reductions, the matter will have to be taken up again.

The point most strongly insisted upon by men's representatives was that the time between now and July 1 was insufficient in which to give thorough consideration to the tentative agreement. This was countered with the reminder that the unions were quite aware that any changes made by the Chicago board would be applicable simultaneously here if the spirit of the precedent established was to be continued, and the good relations which exist between railroads and employes in Canada maintained.

Detailed reductions proposed will be in the hands of the various units of labor within a few days.

SPORTING NEWS

TEX RICKARD ALWAYS TAKES A CHANCE

New York, June 20.—"Boxing's greatest showman." That is the title which George Lewis ("Tex") Rickard, promoter of the coming Dempsey-Carpentier bout, has earned in the staging of several bouts drawing the largest gate receipts in the history of the sport.

Thrown in contact with the boxing game by accident, Rickard, an account of whose career reads like fiction, accomplished nearly everything he set his mind on doing and has kept going along successfully, despite conditions that sometimes made the word "quit" seem attractive.

Rickard was born in Kansas City, Mo., January 2, 1871. His father, a millwright, moved to the Panhandle of Texas when the embryo promoter was a small boy. At the age of 12 years, thrown on his own resources, with a widowed mother, two brothers and three sisters to support, "Tex" turned to the calling of cow-punching universal in Texas.

Then started the travels which have made this man a "citizen of the world". He met success in the cattle business but in 1894 "hit the trail" for the Klondike. Months of hardship brought fair returns but after a year or two in Dawson, Rickard again moved. This time, he drew up in Goldfield, Nev., at the time when the mining craze engulfed that section.

But Goldfield was not satisfied with the local activity which the miners brought to that place. The town "boosters" wanted national note and Rickard suggested a championship boxing match.

The promotion of big enterprises with the aid of virtually no capital has been characteristic of this prospecter who has tapped the gold mines of Broadway as well as of the Klondike and Nevada. From his friends he secured enough money to offer Jimmy Britt and Terry McGovern a $30,000 guarantee for a championship out in Goldfield. Coming from an unknown, at that time, the offer was hailed by the boxers and their managers as a joke.

Rickard kept right on however, and the managers of Joe Gans and Battling Nelson were more susceptible to the glint of $30,000 in gold pieces laid before them. The lightweights fought a memorable battle at Goldfield. The town was advertised nationally and "Tex' Rickard became a successful fistic promoter.

Since that time, Rickard has promoted from a financial point of view, the greatest ring contests ever staged. They have been successes only because of the extraordinary 'showmanship" of the man. Always his slogan has been "take a chance." He astounded the country with his guarantees for the Johnson-Jeffries battle at Reno in 1910. But his receipts for the Willard Dempsey bout at Toledo, July 4, 1919, amounted to $450.000, a new high mark.

Bouts staged by him in Madison Square Garden during the six months previous to last March brought in more than $1,300,000. Approximately $1,000,000 will flow into the box office before Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier square off at Jersey City, July 2, easily covering the tremendous outlay necessary to stage this bout. Rickard is one of the few who have coaxed substantial returns out of promotion in the boxing game.

"Take a chance" and "be square" are Rickard's watchwords which seem to summarize reasons for the success which has come to him in business as well as boxing. For boxing is only a sideline with him. Tex is a partner in huge cattle enterprises in South America. His herds roam over a range of more than 4,000,000 acres. He is general manager of a firm backed by American financiers in a project which produces beef for American consumption.

But despite the "take a chance" motto, mere good luck has had little part in the success of this man who now sits in a suite of offices in Madison Square Garden and directs, in the Jersey bout, July 2, a "million dollar proposition." Starting without capital; applying well the principles of credit; making the forfeits of boxers pay for preliminary expenses of the earlier bouts, Rickard has been successful in the staging of 30 battles without a single loss. In the Goldfield days, he was a prospecter, uncovering his gold in box offices as well as in gold mines. To-day, this smooth-faced, affable business man is still prospecting. But with success must come some disadvantages. "Tex" Rickard's name now assures an event. There is no more doubt and "Take-a-Chance" Rickard almost misses the thrill.

OSHAWA 7, PETERBORO 0.

Oshawa, June 19.—In a Central Ontario League fixture played here Saturday afternoon, Oshawa defeated Peterboro, 7 to 0. All of the locals' runs were chased across in the eighth innings when McElroy, who pitched a fine game for the Petes up to this point was hit hard. The game was one of the prettiest battles ever seen on local grounds with both teams playing air-tight ball until the break came in the eighth. Dainty, pitching for the winners, fanned 12 batsmen and let the Petes down with five scattered hits. McElroy, for Petes, had no strike-outs but his support was superb.

Batteries—McElroy and Swanson; Dainty and Belding. Umpires—Rosevear and Shultz.

AUDACIOUS LOWERED MAN O' WAR'S RECORD

New Yory, June 21.—(By Canadian Press)—The success of the Foreign Stables, racing sensation, Audacious is causing a great deal of comment among the United States track enthusiasts. The horse is owned by Mrs. S W. Viau wife of the late Wilfred Viau of Montreal.

Audacious clipped a fifth of a second from Man O, War's record for the mile in winning the Mineola handicap at Belmont Park, June 1. The new record is 1.35 3-5. This feat astounded the track experts, but Audacious proved he was a real stake horse when three days later in the Suburban handicap, at a mile and a quarter, he beat the Mad Hatter in the sensational time of 2.02 4-5. Audacious is a five-year-old.

It is hoped here that Lious Feustells plans to have Man O. War return to the track will receive the endorse- of the owners. Racing folk wouud like to know what the big horse could do over the Belmont track which is at it's fastest now owing to the continued drought of the early summer.

Mrs. Viau in producing Audacious is keeping up the record of the stables established by her husband who owned Omar Khayyam, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1917

BELLEVILLE WINS AT LAWN BOWLING

At the Belleville bowling green, William street, last evening, many spectators were present, including a number of the fair sex, to witness a game between three rinks from the Newmarket bowling club and a similar number from the local club. The lighting system of the beautiful lawn has been wonderfully improved and at night presents an attractive and inviting appearance.

On the north and south ends of the lawn four iron standards, 32 feet in height, implanted in a cement base have been erected and at the top is an oval reflector, inside of which is an electric lamp of 1,000 candle-power, so that the green is lighted by a total of 8000 candle-power. The reflectors are adjusted at an angle which throws the entire light upon the green, making it as light as day. Another advantage is that at night the green is free from flying insects, as they are attracted to the light far above the heads of the players. It is a vast improvement over the former method of lighting.

The game last night commenced about eight o'clock, and one of the rinks was not completed until nearly eleven o'clock. Twenty-one ends were played, and the result was a win for the Belleville bowlers by 33 points. A rather peculiar coincidence was that each Belleville rink was up 11 points. The winners scored [illegible] points and the losers 31.

The composition of the rinks was as follows:

Belleville.	Newmarket.
J. A. Borbridge	Geo. Robitoy
Rev. D. C. Ramsay	E. Doyle
Rev. A. S. Kerr	W. Bosworth
W. B. Riggs	G. A. Binns

At the conclusion of the game the visitors were entertained at a luncheon at the Perfect Cafe, after which an hour was spent in social intercourse. Members of the Newmarket Club expressed their appreciation of the hospitality extended to them by the Belleville bowlers and were loud in their praise of the beautifully lighted green. The vistors are enjoying a motor outing and will play at Cobourg, Port Hope, Peterborough and Lindsay before returning home.

AT PICTON.

In the afternoon the Newmarket bowlers were at Picton, where they played against bowlers of that town. The result was a win for Picton by one point.

Every day something out of the ordinary is seen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 36, or write The Intelligencer.

Watch The Hose

W. C.—I see that some citizens have the habit of allowing garden hose to lie on the lawn so that the water plays on the sidewalk. This is annoying to pedestrians and is not the result of design, but of thoughtlessness. A hint is sufficient.

Improved Civic Government

C. A.—I see that the Rotary Club is taking up the subject of City Manager form of civic government. This is a move in the right direction for of all things every citizen should be interested in any effort to improve the management of the city business, and all must admit there is room for improvement, not necessarily in the officials but in the system.

Safety First

S.B.—I saw two ladies start to cross the street while an automobile was approaching. One lady remembered "Safety First" and waited for the car to pass, but the other hesitated, then made the plunge, passing in front of the car. Fortunately there was no accident, but pedestrians should remember that safety first always pays, and it is always better not to take a chance.

Speeding at Night

A. K.—I notice considerable speeding on the streets at night by motor car drivers. This is a dangerous practice and should be stopped. It may be well to remind night owls that traffic policemen are frequently stationed with stop watches in the residential section and unpleasant consequences may follow indulgence in fast driving.

FIGHTING RATS WITH VARNISH

New Form of Trap Used on London Docks Said to Have Had Gratifying Success.

It is computed that the London docks contain about 1,000,000 rats, which attack grain, food, and other cargoes, causing about $2,000,000 loss per annum. A society was established to exterminate this destructive enemy, but the congested state of the wharves made their schemes inoperative. Now a new benefactor has come forward with a "trap" that opens up a possibility of putting armies of rodents out of business. The process employed is simple. Traps are placed along or near rat holes. The trap is made of cardboard covered with lithographic varnish. The varnish is warmed by heating its container in boiling water till the varnish becomes sufficiently liquid, when it is spread 1-16 to 1-8 of an inch thick on pieces of strawboard or thickish cardboard, measuring about 15 in. by 12 in. A margin of about 1 in. is left clear of varnish, and bait placed in the center of the board, where it adheres to the varnish. Bags of 60 at a time have been secured. The medical officer of health for the port of London reports favorably of the antidote to the rat thief, and gives it as his opinion that once their tails stick on the board they are doomed, and that the majority die of fright. Another feature is that if two rats get on to the varnish together one of them kills the other, evidently thinking the other is holding him.

HELD BACK TIME'S PROGRESS

Announcing Hour of Noon Secondary in Importance to Mexican Servant's Other Duties.

A certain village in northern Mexico did not boast of a town clock. When twelve o'clock arrived the parish priest used to tell his servant to mount the berfry and strike the church bell twelve times, so that the villagers would know that it was high noon.

One of the neighbors, who had a watch, noticed that for some days twelve o'clock had struck a few minutes late. Thinking that perhaps the priest's watch was slow, he asked the mozo (servant) why it was that he had delayed in striking the hour. The mozo answered:

"It is this way: The padrecito tells me it is time to strike twelve; but just as I am to start up the ladder the cook tells me to get the tortillas. So I have to go after tortillas, and when I get back and climb the ladder again it makes the noon late."

Foch Saved the Day.

M. Poincare, as president of the French academy, had the task of welcoming Marshal Foch when that soldier was a member of the academy and, in the course of his remarks said:

"Field Marshal French was on the point of moving back his heavy artillery and beating a retreat. You rushed to Vlamertinghe and summoned him to you. 'If we make known your weakness,' you declared, 'we shall be carried away like a wisp of straw. Keep at all costs your First corps where it is; I will myself attack on the right and on the left with French troops.' As you spoke you took a sheet of paper to the desk; hastily you scribbled four lines in which you made clear your thought and you handed the note to the field marshal. He read it, thought a moment, called a staff officer, and said to him: 'Go and carry out this order.' Disaster was averted."

Sand Long Retained Properties.

Prof. H. L. Fairchild of the University of Rochester and Dr. H. Carrington Bolton of New York found the sands at Rockaway beach emitting a high musical note one summer day in 1884. They collected some of the sand and took it home, where Prof. Fairchild put in a large glass bottle a sample, but except for that one instance the sand has been undisturbed for more than thirty-five years.

Professor Fairchild writes now to Science, saying that on December 2, 1919, he poured the contents of the bottle into a stocking and found that when quickly compressed it still gave out its characteristic high note, audible at a considerable distance. But since he spread it out in a dry room and handled it considerably it has lost its sonorous quality.

Hotels in Japan.

Plans are under consideration for providing the larger cities of Japan—Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and Osaka—with more hotels, it was announced recently in Tokyo by D. Shono, general manager of the Japan tourist bureau. He said, however, that it would be some time before these hotels are erected. "Efforts are being made to relieve the congestion in the city hotels by inducing guests to travel in the country, where hotels have room to spare." It is proposed to supply wireless information to incoming boats concerning the number of unoccupied rooms in the various hotels. The matter is under negotiation with the companies.

The Usual Thing.

"It says in the paper, here," remarked Mrs. Fields, in the midst of her reading, "that in a debate in congress Hon. Benjamin Blawhaw rose and shouted—"

"Don't bother to read the rest of it, Debby," interrupted Farmer Fields. "The honorable didn't say any more when he shouted than he does when he keeps still."—Kansas City Star.

Get Greatest Gate in History

New York, June 21.—The Dempsey-Carpentier boxing bout for the world's championship at Jersey City, July 2, will draw the greatest "gate" in the history of sport.

A month before the fight, Promoter "Tex" Rickard announced that the seat sales totalled $650,000. Since that the sale of all seats has gone on briskly except for the $50 pasteboards, which are exhausted, and the general admission seats to be placed on sale the day of the fight. Rickard estimates that approximately 65,000 persons will pay $1,000,000 to view the ring action at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

Those figures will eclipse by far all previous records for ring contests or any other sport in this country. The Willard-Dempsey battle at Toledo, O., which established the previous record, drew $451,000 at the box office, a puny figure as compared with what the coming spectacle will attract.

The Harvard-Yale football game and the Indianapolis Speedway Races are annually reckoned among the largest and most widely patronized sporting events in this country. Last fall, 79,000 persons were jammed into the Yale Bowl when Harvard met the Bulldog and the total receipts were approximately $250,000, about one-quarter of the amount which will be paid for the coming fight. The attendance at the Indianapolis Speedway event usually ranges between 100,000 and 125,000, but total receipts fall short of what Rickard and his assistants will have gathered in when the gong sounds for the first round of the Jersey City battle.

HOW HE STARTED.

"Tex" Rickard started his career as a promoter of championship bouts on a large scale when Joe Gans met Battling Nelson in Goldfield, Nev., in 1906. The receipts for that memorable battle were $69,715. That figure was topped when Jack Johnson fought Tommy Burns in Australia on Christmas Day, 1908, but Rickard again established a high mark in 1910 when boxing fans from all over the country paid $270,775 to see the Jeffries-Johnson conflict at Reno, Nev. Figures for the Willard-Dempsey bout at Toledo, July 4, 1919, supplanted even that large total and Rickard, in the coming Jersey City match, has entered the select circle of "million-dollar business men."

The Service of Birds in the Garden

The garden is the insect's paradise. It fares sumptuously every day on the most succulent of vegetable foods. Every oportunity is thus offered for its increase. The greatest enemy of the gardner is a small, dull-colored, hairless caterpillar known as the cutworm, which is the larva of a Noctuid moth. This chief of the brigand band of garden pests hides during the day beneath matted grass or under the loose soil along the rows of plants. It comes forth at dusk to feed. The bird is abroad at the first peep of day, and it finds the robber worm in the morning before it has retreated to its place of concealment.

But the early bird has to come stealthily to the garden to catch the worm. Its visits are regarded by man with more than suspicion, and it is fortunate if it escapes with its life. In consequence it snaps up the caterpillar and is off again, leaving thousands it would have eaten, if unmolested, to run riot amongst the vegetables.

Occasionally a bird more bold than its fellows will visit the garden in broad daylight to dig the cutworms out of their hiding places. Nature never having begrudged it the regard of its toil, the bird takes a few peas before leaving.

The gardner notices the damage to his peas, and next morning is up betimes. He sees the bird running along the row of peas, stopping frequently to peck at something on the ground. There is a loud explosion, followed by a puff of smoke. The smoke slowly drifts away, to disclose a bird lying dead.

Caterpillars are not gifted with voice; if they were, they could scarce forbear to cheer.

The bird is dead. Mark the sequel. One fine morning the gardner issues proudly forth to cut his mammoth cabbage—the one with which he intends to put to utter confusion all other competitors at the local fruit and flower show. Alas for human hopes and the depredations of caterpillars. The cabbage is riddled like a colan-

The gardner when he shot the bird forgot, if, indeed, he ever knew, that the ancient law forbade a muzzle to the ox that thrashed out the corn.

PROVINCES NOT EXEMPT FROM SALES TAX.

A rather nice point arose recently as between the Dominion and the Provinces. Some of the provinces took the ground that under the constitution the Sales Tax was not applicable to purchases made by them. To admit this contention as respects goods purchased by the governments of provinces for their own use would not be a cause for serious alarm, but to say that liquor bought by the provinces of British Columbia and Quebec, or other articles bought by any province, to be traded in and sold by the governments of these provinces is quite a different story. The absurdity of the proposition would be manifest to anyone who gives it a moment's serious thought. If goods purchased by provinces for resale by them were to be exempted from the Sales Tax, the whole fabric of the Sales Tax Act would be destroyed. If, for instance, the Farmer government of Ontario took it into their heads, they could arrange to buy all the farm implements needed by the farmers of the province, and thereby enable the farmers to escape the payment of a tax which everybody else has to pay.

Yet Mr. Lapointe, who ought to know better, declared that the government had no right to treat the provinces of British Columbia and Quebec as traders in liquor. What else are they. They are buying and selling liquor and are therefore nothing less than liquor merchants and traders.

PAY FOR PRISONERS.

Speaking recently to a meeting of women at Willard Hall, Toronto, Judge Coatsworth pointed out various channels through which reformative measures in the treatment of offenders against the law were being carried on. Among those mentioned were the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Courts, prison farms with their fresh air and sunshine, probation and parole and the segregation of the feeble-minded. The speaker also said it was probable that legislation providing for the payment of prison labor would be brought into being and in this, Canada would then be in advance of the sister country to the south. The need for such legislation has long been realized, through conditions and circumstances which continually arise making the need self-evident. Imprisonment as a result of crime is generally accepted as right and just. Unfortunately, however, the one who offends and is imprisoned, in the majority of cases fares far better than those who may be dependent upon him for support. If it is the head of the family he is supplied with a roof to cover him together with food and clothing. His wife and family, through his incarceration, may be deprived of all of this because it was his earnings that supplied these things. The wife may be forced to do work for which she has no training and with which she is not familiar. If she is delicate or if work cannot be obtained the family may suffer to the point of cruelty; all for something in which they had no share. Now if the probable legislation is secured, the wages of the man will go for the most part—we suppose—to his family, and the danger of their becoming offenders also will at least be minimized. The man, too, will be protected in such a way as to begin anew with courage. His earnings will provide him with clothing and a chance for a fresh start on being released. At present there is no such provision. If a man is confined in the summer when he is perhaps wearing a smock and overalls, these are what the law gives him on his discharge.

A woman editor on one of the Toronto papers writes:

We remember the case of a girl who when taken to jail was wearing a thin white muslin dress. She was discharged on a bitter day in the winter and the summer holiday attire was all she had. It is to be hoped that the legislation contemplated may be carried out. The wonder is that the need for it did not carry conviction long before it did. Wages for the work of prisoners cannot come too soon.

FAITH

I am not filled with any gloom profound
To know, some morning when the meadow lark
Pipes his clear note across the greening plain,
I shall not hear that loved, long waited sound;
Nor shall I for the redwing's fluting hark,
Or feel the kind cool touches of the rain.

To think, long days when skies are heavenly blue,
And the winds hum sweet, tremulous melodies,
And little brooks laugh low and silverly,
When from the grass mild violet eyes peer through
And tulips lift their burnished chalices—
When spring is spring, I shall not hear and see.

Though I shall sleep, yet good it is to know
To myriad living souls the spring will come
With its divine, revivifying breath;
That year on year will crowding blossoms blow—
More by the wayside than beside the tomb—
That beauty is an older gift than death.

And I can trust the Lord of life and spring
To guard the soul as well as guard the seed,
I, who doubt not the sun will pierce the sod
And bring the sleeping rose to blossoming;
This is my faith, this is my simple creed;
I, who have seen the spring, believe in God.

"THE BOHEMIAN GIRL."

Balfe Who Wrote Famous Opera Was an Irishman.

Old-fashioned as "The Bohemian Girl" may be regarded by many modern opera goers, it will stand the test that you can apply to only a few operatic works—it has more melodious songs, sung and beloved by the general public, just for themselves, than is realized. Take, "Then You'll Remember Me," for instance. It has become so much an entity in itself that the average person does not identify it with an opera. But, as it appears in "The Bohemian Girl," it is a most effective and affecting number.

If you recall the story of the opera, you will remember that the heroine, Arline, was stolen by the gypsies when she was a little child, and had grown up with them to young womanhood. She had fallen in love with and been married, gypsy fashion, to Thaddeus, a Polish nobleman, who had joined the tribe because of political persecution. Just at the time of the culimnation of this romance, Arline, through a series of accidents, had been restored to her father, a proud Count. Of course, this had brought separation from Thaddeus. Surrounded with every luxury, but unhappy, Arline is reflecting sorrowfully on her lost lover-husband, when he appears and sings his touching "Then You'll Remember Me." Arline is reassured of his constancy and pledges her eternal fidelity in return.

When "The Bohemian Girl" was first produced, at the Drury Lane Theatre, in London, in 1843, this song, together with "I Dreamt That I Dwelt In Marble Halls," had to be repeated twice. Audiences were wildly enthusiastic over these numbers. There is an anecdote to the effect that once, when the opera was produced in Italian, in later years, "Then You'll Remember Me" was so much encored that the prima donna grew weary of the reiterated call from the audience, which the tenor was gratifying, and calmly got a chair for herself and sat down with a resigned look, jealously annoyed at his success.

Michael William Balfe, the composer of this popular opera, was a very fertile melodist. Indeed, the fertility of his musical invention entitles him to a place beside Rossini and Auber. Balfe seemed to have an inexhaustible vein of tunefulness, and his "Bohemian Girl" has been well described as a string of melodic pearls. In connection with the melody for the words of the lyric, "Then You'll Remember Me," however, the composer had more difficulty than usual. It is said that he wrote six or seven settings of the words before he hit on the final form. The "right" melody eluded him the more he pursued it. But late one night he drove up in a cab to the door of a friend and almost pulled the door-bell from its moorings. His friend was startled, but, recognizing the voice of Balfe, rushed down to open the door. Without any greeting, the composer brushed by him, raising a roll of music over his head, and shouting, "I've got it! I've got it! I've got it!" He then ran upstairs to the drawing room, sat down at the piano, and played in the wee sma' hours of the night the melody that was to be famous the world over.

The words of "Then You'll Remember Me," like the rest of the libretto of "The Bohemian Girl," were written by Albert Bunn, who was the manager at the time of Drury Lane Theatre. Malibran, the celebrated mezzo-soprano, facetiously dubbed the writer "Good Friday," because, having a disagreeable disposition, he was "a hot, cross Bunn."

Alfred Bunn derived his idea of "The Bohemian Girl" from the ballet called "The Gypsy," written by Saint Georges.

Reading In Bed.

Lecturing recently in London, at the Institute of Hygiene, Lieut.-Col. R. H. Elliott explained why an afternoon at the Royal Academy always ends in a headache and why reading in bed, as generally practiced, is harmful. The cause, he said, goes back to the time when the ancestor of man and the higher apes first developed the use of the opposing thumb. On that development hung the whole future of the civilization. The possessor of a thumb could pick up for study the objects that lay round him. He always held them in his hands below the level of his eyes, and thus the muscles that turn the eyes down have been more used than those that turn them up. To-day the former are stronger than the latter. Therefore, reading in bed is not harmful, given a good light, provided it is done sitting up and looking down at the print. Looking up at pictures is a strain for the muscles that turn the eyes up. It would be better if picture galleries could be so arranged that we looked down at the pictures, and the best seats for the eyes in the theatre or picture theatre are those above the level of the stage.

Spencer's Ear-Muffs.

In his book, "Little Journeys to the Homes of Great Philosophers," Mr. Elbert Hubbard, the American author, recalls a device of Herbert Spencer's for securing his thoughts against interruption when living in a boarding-house. The great philosopher, he says, devised a pair of ear-muffs, which fitted on his head with a spring. If the conversation took a turn in which he had no interest, he would excuse himself to his nearest neighbor and put on his ear-muffs. The plan worked so well that he carried them with him wherever he went, and occasionally at lectures or concerts, when he would grow more interested in his thoughts than in the performance, he would adjust his patents.

MORE U. S. INSPECTORS ALONG THE BORDER

Washington, June 21.—(By Canadian Press):—The United States immigration service plans to increase its force of inspectors along the border between this country and Canada. It was stated by high officials of the service today that this step would be taken. The reason for it grows out of the enactment of the new emergency immigration restriction law, which heavily curtails immigration from Europe and some other parts of the Old World. Enforcement of this law is putting a heavy burden on the immigration service.

While the new law has almost nothing to do directly with immigration from Canada and imposes no restrictions on arrivals from the Dominion additional to the old law, it is a fact that inasmuch as many thousands of persons in Europe who would like to enter the the U. S. will be shut out from direct admission, there is certain to be a tendancy to try and enter by indirection through Canada and Mexico. This tendancy is already marked, in fact.

Lloyd George declares there will be no renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty distasteful to the United States.

Rhodes may resign the speakership of the Canadian House of Commons to become president of the British America Nickel company.

BATTERY AT CAMP

On arrival in camp on Monday the soldiers were initiated into the art of putting up tents. After a cold dinner things were straightened around and a little recreation passed the time away. Today a mounted drill for the drivers and gun drill for the gunners took place. The youngest man in the camp is Trumpeter "Dutch" Tierney. He is only 13 years old, but can certainly bring the fellows from their tents with his bugle. The horses, which were procured from local farmers, are far better than those of the Kingston and Gananoque batteries.

The case against Lee Hong, a Chinese laundryman from Brighton for having liquor other than in his own private dwelling, came up in Cobourg police court on Thursday last and was enlarged for a week. Counsel for the defence intimated he would consent to a fine under the charge, but judgment was held over for a week to await a reply from the department in Toronto in order to ascertain what legal disposition can be made of the liquor, which Lee Hong and his witnesses claim he needs to ward off rheumatism.

GRANTED LEAVE OF ABSENCE

This action was taken owing to the indisposition of Mr. Nugent, sen., who will shortly leave the city for a rest and the wish of his numerous friends will be that his health may be fully restored. In 1916 Mr. Nugent was Warden of the County and the year following was appointed County Clerk to succeed the late Mr. A. M. Chapman.

On Monday evening the Dance Committee of the Great War Veterans Association commenced a series of weekly dances to be held every Monday evening. The program consisted of sixteen dances with generous encores. During each of the Monday Night dances, printed programs will be furnished at the door. The pieces of the orchestra are, piano, trapps drums xylophone, violin, cornet, saxophone and clarionet.

Dempsey Began Life on a Farm

New York, June 21.—William Harrison Dempsey the name by which the world's heavyweight champion was christened, was born 26 years ago in Manassa, Colo. The prefix "Jack" was assumed by the big fellow when he had grown to man's estate, and had chosen the fistic ring for a livelihood. As a fighter he had the idea and a good one, that by assuming the Christian name of "Jack" some of the glamor if not the wonderful boxing science which the original Jack Dempsey, Brooklyn's famous "Nonpariel" possessed as the middleweight title holder might revert to him.

The champion is the sixth child of a family of eight. Three of his brothers and three sisters are alive but the youngest of the eight, who was named Bruce, died about two years ago. When Dempsey was seven years old his parents, Hiram and Cicilia Dempsey, with all their children moved from Manassa to Montrose, Col., where they lived for nine years. Then the Dempsey household was shifted to Salt Lake City, Utah, and that is the place which they, including the champion, claim as their home.

Born of rugged parents, Dempsey claims that he has Irish, Scotch and Indian blood in his veins and insists that the fighting qualities for which all three of these races are famous have been bred in the bone and blood and have come to him in generous portions from his antecedents.

Most of Dempsey's early life was spent in the open on a farm but later he alternated by working in the mines except in harvest time when he found it more remunerative to devote his strength to reaping wheat and other crops in the grain belt. In this way Dempsey kept himself in fine physical condition, the hard labor developing the wonderful muscles which proved to be such a useful factor in his winning the world's heavyweight title.

Unlike his challenger, Carpentier, had very little early training for a career in the fighting arena, while the French champion was a close student of the glove game and an actual competitor when he entered his "teens."

According to Dempsey's own story, his first fistic encounter was in an improvised ring at Montrose, Co., when he was about 19 years old. His opponent was a young blacksmith, named Woods, whom he knocked out in the third round. This initial contest netted the now champion $25. His next fight also resulted in a third round knockout. Andy Malory, who previously walloped one of Dempsey's older brothers, being the victim.

When he was 20 years old Dempsey began roving around, taking on a bout whenever the opportunity offerede, while between times he returned to odd farming jobs or worked as a miner. His first Eastern experience in the fighting arena was in New York city where he met Andre Anderson, Wild Burt Kenney and Lester Johnson, a negro in ten round no decision bouts. This was in 1916.

During the following year Dempsey knocked out Al. Norton and Charley Miller, each in one round. Later he won from Willie Meehan, Carl Morris, Bob McAllister and Gunboat Smith in four round bouts in California and was knocked out in one round by Jim Flynn, the 'Pueblo Fireman". In the following year Dempsey reversed this by knocking Flynn out in a single round and followed up with a series of knockouts, among his victims being Fred Fulton, Battling Levinsky, Porky Flynn, Arthur Pelky and Terry Kellar.

Dempsey's banner year was 1919 when after scoring five knockouts of one round each in Pennsylvania and Connecticut, he won the title by stopping the big Kansan Jess Willard at Toledo, O., on Independence Day two years ago.

get us a cash buyer, and —— done."

The old man fell to trembling. "I don't believe we'll git out whole," he groaned. "But you kin try. Wire 'em, George, but leave me alone back here. For God's sake, wire 'em!"

Just as George reached the front a messenger boy came with a telegram for Hillyer. George opened it, nervous in spite of himself. The color flashed into his cheek, a light into his eye, as he read the message. He took it back to his room. Through the partly open door he saw the merchant on his knees at the bed and heard him praying. "God have mercy on me!" he was groaning. "God, do, do have mercy on me!"

George hesitated an instant, and then he went in and touched the old man on the shoulder. "Good news, Mr. Hillyer," he said, his young voice full of emotion. "The bank has just telegraphed"—

"What's that?"

Hillyer rose awkwardly, his hands on the railing of the bedstead. He was as weak as a sick child.

"What did you say, my boy?" he asked, his face vacant.

George read the telegram to him:

Market somewhat firmer. Jacobs & Co. paid cash. Have placed amount to your credit. Wire instructions.

Hillyer's eyes were wide open. He took the telegram and went with it to the window and read it. "Thank God, thank God!" he cried. "It's the sign, George"—he pointed upward—"the sign! I'm on the right road to pardon—think o' that, my boy—my eternal pardon. God wanted to help you. You got in at the lowest notch o' the market an' have made some money. At yore age I'd 'a' thought it a fortune. It's a good nest egg, an' on the 1st o' next January you must take an interest in the business. Oh, George, I feel like I could fly. I'm bustin' open inside. I want to cry, I want to shout an' holler."

CHAPTER XIII.

THAT afternoon the merchant was calmer; his step was light and his eye shone with subtle triumph.

"I reckon you ort to be sorter chipper," Jim Kenner remarked as he sat looking at him in mild wonder. "You've made a fortune out o' that deal. Have you figured on it yit?"

"Some," Hillyer smiled.

"That means me an' Hanks ain't a-goin' to be let into the secret," Kenner laughed. "Lib, ain't me an' you pretty fools to set around here takin' in a few nickels an' dimes when them two is jerkin' in boodle from every p'int o' the compass? As fur as I'm concerned, I'm a salaried man an' got no Wall street aims, but ef I was a hardened speculator like you I'd crawl in a hole."

Hanks stood up over the stove and then moved to George's desk and leaned on it.

"Listen, everybody; Lib's goin' to speak," said Kenner, with a grin.

The room was quiet. Outside the compress was groaning. There was a ringing of hammer and anvil as the negroes beat out the iron ties and adjusted the iron buckles. Hanks leaned closer to George. He had a way of making brief disclosures to Buckley that he made to no one else. If he had heard a word that had passed in the office no one could have told it from his manner. "George," he said in his drawling tone, "I don't exactly like the way Bob is throwin' away money advertisin' in the newspaper. That sort o' pace will ruin any man alive."

"Did you ever!" exclaimed Kenner. "What on earth has Bob an' his advertisin' got to do with certain members o' this gang makin' a sudden fortune? By gad, ef Lib was standin' at the gates o' paradise an' he seed an acquaintance o' his on the way in, he'd ax 'im to stop an' give 'im a chaw o' tobacco."

Hank's face did not alter; his eyelids did not flicker. He was waiting for George to reply. But Buckley was quietly laughing over his ledger.

"I was lookin' over his books this mornin'," said Hanks, oblivious even to George's merriment. "He's paid that triflin' galoot that runs the County Reporter $22 in the last month fer that half page ad. that comes out once a week. It'll ruin anybody on the face o' the earth."

"Look here, Lib," and Kenner rose and touched Hanks on the arm; "yo're as green as a gourd vine when it comes to some things. Now, jest to show you that Bob's got brains, an' got 'em from his mammy's side o' the house, I'll tell you this: Six wagons o' produce an' cotton come here last Sat'day from beyond the Tennessee line. I got the cotton, an' Bob got the produce an' loaded the wagons with groceries fer enough profit to pay fer his advertisin' fer a year, I reckon. I'm always anxious to learn, ef I do live in the backwoods, an' I axed the head man o' the gang how in the thunder he happened to come so fer, an' he told me, he did, that some old woman up thar tuck the Reporter an' was always a-talkin' about Hanks' cheap prices—nine pounds o' green coffee fer a dollar an' the like—an' that they all got headed this way on that account. Now, I'm goin' to let out some'n' that you may not want to hear, but maybe it will soak through yore hide an' do you some good. The feller said wharever he'd meet anybody on the road an' mention the Hanks store they ud hold up the'r hands in holy horror an' say: 'Hanks, the man that sells meat at 20 cents a pound on a credit an' drives pore folks out o' house an' home to git it? No, siree, excuse me, please!' The feller said he'd always tell 'em it wasn't that Hanks, but another one that had a conscience an' believed in future torment. 'La, me,' the feller said, 'yore town will have to spend a lot fer print-

Wedding Bells

MACKAY—MINNES

The marriage of Anna Eleanor, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Minnes, "Hillcroft," Kingston, to Capt. James Edward MacKay, M.C., of Brockville, son the late Edward MacKay and of Mrs. MacKay, Renfrew, took place on the evergreen-encircled lawn of the bride's home, on June 15, the Rev. John Mackie, D.D., minister emeritus of St. Andrew's Church, and the Rev. J. W. Stephen, the minister in charge, conducting the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a graceful robe of kitten's-ear crepe, sewn with seed pearls, the petalled skirt falling over flounces of Chantilly lace, a panel of the lace being inset in the long court train. A chaplet of orange blossoms caught the bridal veil to her soft, fair hair and she carried Ophelia roses, over which fell valley lilies. Lorraine Robertson, a tiny maid, preceded the bride, and the bridesmaids, Miss Veta Minnes and Miss Maud Chalmers of Sudbury. Mr. Charles Cameron of Belleville was groomsman. Capt. and Mrs. MacKay left later to spend their honeymoon in the East, the bride going away in a smart suit of navy blue tricotine with grey hat and shoes.

ALLAN—MUNN

A wedding of much interest locally took place at Frankford on Monday, June 20th at high noon when Miss Ada May Munn and Mr. William J. Allan were united in marriage, the former being well known in the city. The Rev. Mr. Snell performed the ceremony, which took place at the Methodist parsonage. Mrs. Snell assisted the bride, Mr. Harry Munn, brother of the bride, assisting the groom. The bride was daintily attired in her travelling suit of navy blue with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Allan motored to this city, where they entrained on the 2.50 G. T. R. for Ottawa, Montreal, and a trip up the St. Lawrence, visiting some American cities before returning. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Allan wish them every joy in their journey through married life.

"Dry" Canada Has no Slums, Says Minister

PROHIBITION ADDRESS AT CLOSING SESSION OF METHODIST CONFERENCE

Whitby, June 20.—An eloquent eulogy of Canada under prohibition was delivered by Dr. C. W. Saleeby, President of the World's League Against Alcoholism, at the Bay of Quinte Conference, which was brought to a close this evening. Dr. Saleeby said he had just completed a 5,000-mile tour of Canada, and he had failed to discover any slums in the cities. He declared that "the slums of Canada are what we would call garden suburbs in England."

"You are making cities where it is safe to be a mother, where it is safe to be young, where there are many chances of going right and the chances of going wrong are cut down to the minimum' ,said Dr. Saleeby.

"You are showing the world what can be done and how it can be done. What a lesson for Scotland, with its rickety population! I ask you to spread abroad the truth fame of Canada. We know the glory of young Canadians, we needed them on Vimy Ridge, and we need you in Great Britain today. The people who say that there is no inspiration in prohibition, that it is negative, have not begun to think about the subject Prohibition is profoundly constructive, it clears the way for the future of humanity."

The following are the final appointments: Cannifton, E. Farnsworth; Selby, T. H. P. Anderson; Bay, W. H. Truscott ;Welcome, Francis W. Whyte; Prince Albert, J. Feverson; Wesley, J. F. Ireland. There are new chairmen of districts as a result of the ballot which followed the report of the Stationing Committee. They are: Rev. E. B. Cooke, Napanee; Rev. F. H. Howard, Whitby Rev. C. W. Barrett Lindsay.

The other Chairmen are as follows: Belleville, Rev. Wesley Elliott; Picton Rev. J. W. Robins; Brighton, Rev. W. G. Clarke; Cobourg, J. S. Wilson; Bowmanville, Rev. S. C. Moore; Cannington, Rev. G. R. Clare; Peterboro, Rev. F. E. Malott; Campbellford, Rev. H. B. Kenney; Madoc, Rev. Wm. Haggs.

Mr. C. R. Armstrong, son of the City Clerk of Peterboro, was received on trial as a probationer and will be sent to Wesleyan College, Montreal. Rev. William Higgs of Madoc and Rev. M. L. Hinton of Hastings were elected as reserve delegates for the General Conference.

The ministers allowed by special vote of the Conference to remain over the fourth year were as follows: Rev. Alfred. Brown, Picton; Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, B.A., B. D. Pontypool; Rev. Wendell P. Wodger, B.A., Marmora, for the sixth year. It was announced that Bethel Circuit had been divided between Omemee and Queen Street Church Lindsay.

Girl Weds Convict at Jail Door

St. Catharines, June 21.—Frederick Mastone, a young man from Brantford was sentenced by Judge Campbell to three years in the penitentiary for trying to break into W. J. Elliott's residence in company with Joseph Cook. Mastone was arrested in Simcoe for a similar offence, and Crown Attorney Brennan showed records of previous convictions.

Just before he was sentenced, Mastone was married to Irene Pearcey, a Brantford girl. The wedding took place in the grand jury room in the court house, Rev. Canon L. W. B. Broughall conducting the ceremony.

In Simcoe last week Mastone's bail of six thousand dollars was estreated, as being in St. Catharines jail he could not be present when his name was called at Simcoe. Cook was given six months in the reformatory. He testified against Mastone, Crown Attorney Brennan referring to the latter as "the man higher up."

Children Burned to Death in Fire at Brockville

KITCHEN CAUGHT ON FIRE FROM COAL OIL STOVE WHILE MOTHER WAS DRESSING UPSTAIRS—FATHER RESCUED THREE CHILDREN, BUT WAS THEN OVERCOME HIMSELF TWO CHILDREN PERISHED—FATHER MAY RECOVER.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

BROCKVILLE, June 22.—Dorothy, aged fourteen, and Phyllis Marion, aged four, daughters of James F. Elliott, were burned to death in a fire which early this morning destroyed their home, a frame building at the corner of Amy and Ormond streets. Mrs. Elliott prepared breakfast by means of a coal oil stove and returned upstairs to resume dressing.

Going downstairs again she found the kitchen in flames. The flames quickly enveloped the house, and Mr. Elliott managed to get three children to safety. As he reached Phyllis he was overcome by smoke. The two children perished, their badly charred bodies being distinguishable when the fire was extinguished. Mr. Elliott is expected to recover. Coroner Harding opened an inquest this morning.

Rotarian Bert Ran Gauntlet

GIVE B. A. TRESTRAIL HILARIOUS SEND-OFF INTO MATRIMONY AT TORONTO

Toronto, June 21.—Inspired perhaps by a spirit of revenge, perhaps with the laudable desire of heaping coals of fire upon the head of Mr. B. A. Trestrail, long known as one of the arch-jokers among Toronto Rotarians, some forty of his fellow clubmen yesterday afternoon gave Mr. Trestrail their conception of a fitting send-off into the state of matrimony.

On emerging from Bloor street Baptist church where he was married to Miss Marie Margaret Gibson, Mr. Trestrail was greeted by several truck loads of Rotarians, attired in various old-time costumes. Two, in the guise of dancing girls, strewed carrots, onions and others vegetables before the bridal couple, while the remainder of the jokers poured forth a shower of lighter, brands of confetti, and tortured weird strains from ancient musical instruments. An impromptu calliope, composed of a set of electric bells, did more than its share in lending harmony to the festivities.

Banners carried by the Rotarians lamented the thought of "Another Good Man Gone Wrong." Others indulged in more personal recriminations, such as conveying a warning that "He Snores," and imputing to the newly created benedict a knowledge of the ancient and honorable pastime of African golf. Still another accused the officiating clergyman with the legend, "Bill Cameron Did It."

The Rotarians escorted Mr. and Mrs. Trestrail from the church to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Puckett, 148 High Park avenue, where a reception was held.

Mr. Trestrail is well-known in Belleville, being a frequent visitor to the Rotary Club here.

After having his injuries dressed at the, hospital, Mr. Harris was able to return to his home and is not seriously injured.

Terrible Floods Sweeping Japan

TWENTY-THREE TOWNS UNDER WATER—AT LEAST 200 DEATHS

Tokio, June 21.—Terrific floods are sweeping large areas of Japan. The death list today approached 200.

Entire villages were submerged under fifteen feet of water in Hita district. At Kyushu more than six hundred houses were washed away.

Heavy rains caused the flood. The district of Kyushu was inundated so quickly that thousands had narrow escapes. At least 180 persons were drowned there.

The flood quickly swept hundreds of the lightly constructed dwellings into the torrent where they collapsed and were carried out to sea in a mass of debris. Bridges were torn out and swept away.

In the Hita district the water spread more slowly, filling the streets of many villages, some of them to a depth of fifteen feet. Twenty-three villages are known to be under water, their inhabitants taking to boats, some living precariously in trees and others clinging to roofs of cottages which threatened momentarily to leave their foundations.

Sedlitz Powders 50 a Minute

DRUGGISTS INSPECT LARGE DRUG SUPPLY HOUSES IN MONTREAL

The members of the Quebec Pharmaceutical Association, who recently met in Montreal to hold their annual meeting, were the guests of the National Drug & Chemical Company at a luncheon given at their new plant on De Courcelles Street, Montreal.

The members of the Association were shown from the top to the bottom of one of the most up-to-date plants in Canada. They saw Seidlitz powders being made by a machine at the rate of 50 a minute; compressed tablets at 480 a minute; a hydrogen peroxide plant making two tons a day, machines filling six bottles at the press of a single lever, and many other interesting pieces of machinery.

After the luncheon Mr. A. B. Evans, Vice-President of the Company, welcomed all the guests and called upon Mr. W. S. Kerry to propose the toast of the Pharmaceutical Association of the Province of Quebec; Mr. Vadboncoeur, the President of the Pharmaceutical Association, replied.

Mr. Chas. W. Tinling, Vice-President and General Manager of the National Drug Co., followed with an interesting and instructive address on the sale of "Made-in-Canada" goods and had the sentiment of his audience right with him from start to finish. He told how Canada was becoming poorer by the continual excess of imports over exports and strongly advised the necessity of developing the sale of goods Made-in-Canada and also of purchasing more from Great Britain, Canada's best customer. His facts seemed to so impress the Druggists present with the necessity for action that many expressed themselves as determined to throw their salesmanship behind the movement to support Made-in-Canada goods.

Mr. J. A. Goyer proposed the National Drug Co. and Mr. Tinling, in replying, gave the credit for the Company's wonderful success to the loyal support of the staff, which, including the various Branches throughout Canada, now numbers more than a thousand people.

ELEPHANT BROKE LOOSE

Breaking loose from his chain at Toronto, an elephant belonging to the John Robinson circus, took a stroll from Dufferin Park among the gardens at the rear of houses on Muir avenue. He trampled gardens and broke a few fences. Trainers recaptured him before he did further damage.

Modern Tragedy of Missing Ships Laid Bare by Girl

FOUR DEPARTMENTS OF U. S. GOVERNMENT AT WORK ON MYSTERY

Washington, June 21.—Four departments of the Federal Government took up the search for five missing American ships today.

"Missing, fate unknown," read the record of the ships. "Crews' whereabouts never reported."

The mystery of the disappearance of the vessels was the more tantalizing because it all happened a short distance from Washington—off Cape Hatteras. On a calm sea and in clear weather the ships disappeared, their crews going with them.

PARROT ABOARD.

A fourth ship, a schooner, ran ashore in the vicinity of the capes, all sails set, her cargo untouched. The fifth vessel was lost in the same vicinity. A lone squalling parrot was aboard the schooner. The parrot and a bottle containing a hastily scrawled note were the sole relics of the schooner—the Deering—which piled up on the coast on January 31. The note said the Deering had been captured by an "oil-burning chaser" and her crew and captain made prisoners.

William B. Wormell, Portland, Maine, was captain of the sailing vessel and his daughter has been instrumental in arousing officials to an investigation of the accident. She has made an independent search, the country over, for her father.

Caught on Bridge, Killed by Train

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD WELLAND GIRL MEETS INSTANT DEATH

Welland, June 21.—Annie Shablij, eight years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shablij, Eighth avenue, Welland South, was instantly killed by a fast passenger train at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, her skull being fractured.

She was crossing the railroad bridge on the west side on her way home, and when she saw the train coming could not get off the bridge before she was struck. The accident was not discovered here till the engineer of the train telephoned word back to the station here, a little girl companion who was near her becoming panic-stricken and running away on sight of the approaching train, and telling no one about it.

It has long been the habit of residents of the south end, instead of walking a couple of hundred yards to the public highway bridge, to take the short cut across this railway bridge.

KING AND QUEEN PRESIDE AT OPENING OF ULSTER PARLIAMENT

FIRST STEP TOWARDS PEACE KING'S VISIT TO IRELAND

"I Pray That My Coming to Ireland May Prove to Be the First Step Toward the End of Strife," Said King George in Opening Ulster Parliament—King and Queen Heartily Welcomed to Ireland—Brillant Spectacle—Imposing Procession.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

BELFAST, June 22.—King George and Queen Mary, journeying from England for the occasion of the tenth anniversary of their coronation, presided at the state opening of Ulster Parliament here today. It was the first time in nearly twenty years that Ulster had the opportunity of receiving the sovereign of the British Empire, and its welcome helped to make the occasion a memorable one.

The ceremony of the opening was similar to that attending the inauguration of the British Parliament, and was a brilliant spectacle. It was regarded as marking an important epoch in Irish history.

"I speak from a full heart," said His Majesty in his opening speech, "when I pray that my coming to Ireland today may prove to be the first step towards an end of the strife among her people, whatever their race or creed. In that hope I appeal to all Irishmen to pause, to stretch out the hand of forbearance and conciliation, to forgive and forget, and to join in making for the land which they love a new era of peace, contentment and goodwill. It is my earnest desire that in Southern Ireland, too, there may ere long take place a parallel to what is now passing in this hall, that there a similar occasion may present itself and a similar ceremoney be performed."

Their Majesties were given a right royal welcome on their arrival today. From the moment their yacht dropped her escort at the entrance to Belfast Lough, the King and Queen were the objects of enthusiastic demonstrations by the loyalists of Ulster. As the yacht steamed past the shipyards the cheers of thousands of workmen mingled with the shrieks of siren and whistle.

A squadron of police headed the procession through the streets and the carriages of the royal pair were followed by those of officers and dignitaries. The escort of honor was chosen from the Tenth Hussars. Lord Lieutenant Viscount Fitzalan and Lord Pierrie, who represented the city, received their Majesties at the dock.

On each side of the street were stationed nearly six thousand regular troops, standing shoulder to shoulder and separated from the crowds by a heavy railing. Following the ceremonies the King and Queen were driven again through the flag-decorated streets to Ulster Hall, where they received addresses of loyalty.

Two are Killed in Blast on Highway

ALLAN LEWIS AND ADEN THOMPSON LOSE LIVES NEAR DIXON'S CORNERS, DUNDAS COUNTY

Iroquois, June 22—Aden Thompson, aged 38, and Allan Lewis, aged 16, both of Dixon's Corners, near here, were instantly killed at ten o'clock yesterday morning at that place through the premature explosion of a blast of dynamite. They were engaged in highway construction work.

Both were lifelong residents of this vicinity and there is wide regret for their relatives. Thompson leaves a wife and three children.

Daring Attempt to Rob Bank Car Foiled at Bolton

Brampton, June 21.—Peel county witnessed another attempt of hold-up about 10.30 a.m. to-day when the Imperial Bank of Bolton, Ont., was transferring a large amount of cash of their branch at Palgrave by motor car. Five hold-up men stepped to the road and demanded the car to stop, but the driver immediately stepped on the gas, and although both hind tires of the car were shot through the driver did not stop and made a safe getaway from the highwaymen, who then took to the bush. The sheriff and chief of police at Brampton were notified and immediately left for the scene to round up the robbers.

Hamilton Man Murder Victim

Hamilton, June 18.—Hamilton's police had another murder mystery to solve to-day when the body of James Saunders, 166 Bay Street, south of this city, was found in a field at Crowland, just a short distance from Welland Ont., That the murder was planned here, and carried out in Crowland to avoid suspicion, is the firm belief of those engaged on the case, and information concerning the murder is being covered up so far as possible, while the police are making their investigation.

Saunders, a middle aged Italian, was found with a stab wound through his left side, which pierced his heart. There is no doubt but that he was murdered, and the motive, so far as the police have been able to discover, was robbery. The body had been hidden carefully in the field, and it had been there seven days, the police state, when it was found.

The remains were discovered late Saturday night, after a search.

Sinn Fein Motion For Boycott Was Defeated

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Denver, June 22.—Sinn Fein sympathizers supporting a resolution calling for a boycott against British goods were overwhelmingly defeated to-day in an attempt to have the convention overthrow a ruling made by President Samuel Gompers, which prevented reconsideration of their proposal. The convention then disposed of the Irish question by adopting a mild resolution expressing sympathy for the Irish Nationalist cause.

Big Fire at Northport Four Buildings Burned

DWELLING OF ALEXANDER ROWE, DRIVE HOUSE AND BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE, ALSO BARN BELONGING TO ALEXANDER ANDERSON — HARD FIGHT TO KEEP FLAMES FROM SPREADING TO OTHER BUILDINGS—HEAVY LOSS.

Tuesday afternoon between five and six o'clock the village of Northport, Prince Edward County, was visited by a disastrous fire, which at one time assumed a very threatening aspect, endangering a number of buildings. Only by the combined efforts of the villagers was the village saved.

The fire broke out in a large frame house owned and occupied by Mr. Albert Rowe and known as the Knox property. The building was burned to the ground. In a short time the drive house adjoining and a barn nearby were enveloped in flames, and a barn the property of Mr. Alexander Anderson caught fire and was burned to the ground. At this point the fire was stopped in its onward march of destruction.

The loss to Mr. Rowe will amount to about $5,000, partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Anderson's loss is about covered by insurance.

Some vehicles which were in Mr. Rowe's drive house were burned.

How the fire originated is not known.

Many residents of the village kept a vigilant watch all night long as it was feared that embers carried by the wind might cause other fires.

Alleged Boy Was ill-Treated

COMPELLED TO DO HEAVY WORK ABOUT THE FARM AND ILL-TREATED

Peterboro, June 22.—At a meeting of the Children's Aid Society, of Peterboro, Inspector Powell's report disclosed the fact that a number of the children had been causing considerable trouble.

A small eight-year-old boy in Otonabee township succeeded in setting a whole community by the ears by his tale-bearing proclivities, he roused up a row between his teacher and the principal of the school, was suspended from classes, blackened a little girl's eye, and is now once more in Peterboro. His foster mother, however, still believes in him and wants him back. Another little boy in Bailieboro created a great havoc in the barn yard by chasing the old gander and killing the goslings. He also smashed the windows and did considerable other damage of a like nature. He has been returned to the Shelter, with the request for a girl instead. In contrast to this was the case of a young boy overworked and ill-used by a farmer, who compelled him to do most of the heavy work around the place and treated him harshly at the same time.

CALLS FOR WAR ON RATS

United States Department of Agriculture Gives Figures of Depredations That Are Astonishing.

The rat is the worst animal pest in the world.

From its home among filth it visits dwellings and store rooms to pollute and destroy human food.

It carries bubonic plague and many other diseases fatal to man and has been responsible for more untimely deaths among human beings than all the wars of history.

In the United States rats and mice each year destroy crops and other property valued at over $200,000,000.

This destruction is equivalent to the gross earnings of an army of over 200,000 men.

On many a farm, if the grain eaten and wasted by rats and mice could be sold, the proceeds would more than pay all the farmer's taxes.

The common brown rat breeds six to ten times a year and produces an average of ten young at a litter. Young females breed when only three or four months old.

At this rate a pair of rats, breeding uninterruptedly and without deaths, would at the end of three years (18 generations) be increased to 359,709,482 individuals.

For centuries the world has been fighting rats without organization and at the same time has been feeding them and building for them fortresses for concealment.

If we are to fight them on equal terms, say specialists of the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, we must deny them food and hiding places and must organize to rid communities of them. The department has devoted a great deal of study to the problem and is anxious to help in rat extermination, not only by supplying bulletins and other printed matter, but by supplying the advice of specialists in specific cases.

Built an Insulated House.

With a house built on the principle of a refrigerator, its walls insulated to keep the cold out, a new idea in construction of residences is being tested in the cold country in Canada, the Ohio State Journal remarks. The residence has been used for a year, being occupied by the designer and his family. It was tested severely during the past winter, when temperatures ran to 40 below zero, but it stood the test and was heated throughout with electric heat during the hardest winter. The walls were designed to keep the cold out and appear to have done so.

The walls are hollow, the outer walls being cement plaster on metal lath, with a top coat of stucco. Back plaster is placed between the metal lath and the studding. The outer wall is a sheet of concrete one and one-half inches thick. The inner wall is of two layers of asphalt paper with wood lath and plaster on top. The air-tight space in the wall is filled with insulating material, granulated cork with a mixture of planer shavings. The theory on which it is built is to prevent the movement of warmed air toward a cold surface.

The cost of construction was given as 10 per cent above ordinary methods.

Britain's Oldest Possessions.

The Channel islands (Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney and Sark are the chief) are the oldest possessions of Great Britain. They were formerly an appanage of the duchy of Normandy and were united to the English crown after the Norman conquest of England by William of Normandy, in 1066. The inhabitants of the Channel islands preferred to remain subjects of King John at the period of the conquest of Normandy by Philip Augustus, 1180-1223. To King John it has been usual to ascribe a document at one time reverted to by the Channel island people as their Magna Charta; but modern critics have cast very grave doubts on its authenticity. Almost every war with France included a descent on the Channel islands, but all to no avail. The people, about 96,000 in number, adhere to their old customs, and within well-defined limits make their own laws. They are not bound by acts of the imperial parliament unless specially named in them.

Good Sportsmanship.

If anything were needed to show at once both the British love of outdoor sports and the number of young Englishmen who were crippled by the war, it could be found in the actions of the British National Lawn Tennis association in so modifying the rules of the game that a one-armed player, when he serves, may toss the ball from his racket instead of with his hand. To put a disabled player on an equality with competitors who are whole is the very flower of sportsmanship.—Youth's Companion.

Telephone Facts.

The telephone industry in 1917 gave employment to 262,629 persons, of whom 171,119, or over 65 per cent were women. The sum paid out in salaries and wages amounted to $175,670,449. Those employees operated plants and equipment valued at $1,492,329,015, which yielded operating and nonoperating revenues of $391,490,531.

London's Fight on Prohibition.

The remodeling of London saloons to make them attractive forms part of the scheme evolved as a counter move to the prohibitionists who have sworn to make London dry. Brewers and licensed victualers have hired architects to plan large, airy public houses, where food as well as drink can be obtained.

Bright Bunch of Boys in Camp at Madoc

BELLEVILLE BOYS NOW COMFORTABLY SETTLED AT MOIRA LAKE

Monday morning saw the opening of Camp Community on Moira Lake. Three cars left the Y.M.C.A. at about 9 o'clock and arrived in camp at 10-30 sharp. The twelve hungry boys sat down to their first meal in camp at noon which had been prepared by that super-excellent cook "Dabbie" Duesberry.

The afternoon was spent in exploring the grounds and letting the campers know the Belleville boys were there. In the evening we went down the lake after the camp war canoe which had been repaired. After much labor and several wettings it was beached near camp. Tired and wet the boys prepared for bed. The droning of the mosquitoes and black fly, the hoarse croaking of the bull-frogs, the musical call of the whip-poor-will the shrill laugh of the loon, filled the night with a host of new found wonders, much to the discomfort of the tenderfoots.

In the morning the fatigue squads of kitchen police were picked by Head Chief Angus Buchanan.

The newly organized baseball teams "Chipmunks" and "Skeeters" are to play their first game Tuesday night.

Work in the camp is proceeding satisfactorily, the post-holes for the dining pavilion being dug and the building lumber all-ready.

CHAS. SULMAN

PICKING A JURY.

It Is Not Always Easy to Tell How Men Will Jump.

A blind musician in Kansas City, Kan., being a party to a lawsuit, aided his attorney in the selection of a jury to try the case, judging their qualifications as jurors by the quality of music in their voices.

"[illegible] man," he said of one, "has no music in his voice. He is not sympathetic." Of another he said: "That man has music in his voice. He has sympathy."

Still, there are those who will be skeptical, when it comes to the selection of jurors. As "all signs fail in dry weather," so all rules appear to be set aside by the action of juries at times.

A leading lawyer relates this experience: He was defending a young woman charged with [illegible]. Col. Waters was an eloquent man and in defence of the young woman he was at his best. As he stood before the jury making his final appeal he was puzzled to know how some of them were receiving it. He could get no line upon their feelings by their appearance of interest or lack of interest. But of one man he was sure. This juror did not take his eyes from the lawyer. Every argument appeared to meet with the man's approval, and in the closing remarks of the attorney for the defence the juror wept—sobbed, in fact.

When the jury retired the lawyer said to the attorney associated with him in the case: "The jury will never convict the young woman. There is one man on the jury who will hang out for her until hell freezes over. When I spoke he wept, and he came as near calling me that he was on our side as he could possibly do without actually saying it right out."

The jury was out an hour or two and the lawyer began to feel a little uneasy for fear there would be a hung jury. He was consoling himself with the thought that, at least, the man of such deep sympathy was on the jury, when the 12 men, good and true, entered the courtroom.

The verdict was for acquittal. After the verdict had been returned the foreman of the body said: "We had to take three ballots because of the perversity of one cuss who voted twice for a verdict of guilty. The ballots stood every time 11 to 1 for acquittal." "Who was that man?" asked her lawyer. "It was that 'boob' who cried all the time you were making your speech," answered the foreman.

Old lawyers know that there is no safe rule to an accurate line on what a jury will do or how the individual jurors will vote. Otherwise, the practice of law would be somewhat simplified.

Danger Signals of Future Insanity.

The history of most cases of insanity can be traced back through a progressive series of symptoms to an early day when the patient was looked upon as normal except for some trifling peculiarity. In the Indianapolis Medical Journal, Dr. Max A. Bahr describes some of the peculiarities which in certain temperaments may combine with a train of circumstances to bring their possessor if not to the insane asylum at least to the borderland of insanity.

Self-depreciation, conceit, self-pity, exaggerated tendency to shun society, selfishness, suspiciousness and jealousy, exaggerated conscientiousness and scrupulousness, which in their normal development are virtues, but in their exaggerated form make of their possessor an unsocial person are all characteristics of this kind. Moodiness and irritability, touchiness and over-sensitiveness also fall into this class.

Dr. Bahr considers that if recognized early enough all of these can be prevented from progressing to insanity. But early treatment is necessary.

Bones of Pilgrim Fathers.

Bones of some of the Pilgrim Fathers, reputed to be members of the colony who perished during the first winter after their landing on the "stern and rock-bound coast" of Massachusetts, have been exposed in the course of lowering historic Plymouth Rock to its original base at shore level, where in future it will stand. Forty years ago the rock, to preserve it, was raised several feet above this base and covered with a granite canopy in which a box containing the bones of the Forefathers also was placed. The skulls and other parts of the skeletons were found to be in a fair state of preservation.

The Lure of Golf.

"Wherein lies the lure of golf?" asks George Duncan, the British Open Champion, and he answers by saying: "Because in golf we find the expression of man's primeval instinct, the fight against nature. On the links man finds nature putting every obstacle in the way. The game is full—sometimes to overflowing—of natural difficulties. The natural fighter in man comes out best when conditions are difficult. So the game of golf typifies the greater game of life. And therein lies the secret of its greatness."

Toronto Woman So Grateful To Tanlac For Wonderful Health Wants Everyone To Know

"I have found Tanlac such an excellent medicine that I want to tell everybody I can about it," said Mrs. J. H. Allen, of 29 Mutual St., Toronto.

"Two years ago I was so ill with the 'flu' that I was in the hospital for three weeks, and it left me in a terribly weakened, run-down condition. My appetite was very poor, and my stomach was so disordered that nothing I ate seemed to digest properly, but caused me to bloat until I was simply miserable. I had headaches and dizzy spells and my sleep was so restless that I would get up mornings feeling worse than when I retired the night before. I had rheumatism in both my hands and they ached and hurt me terribly bad.

"My next door neighbor got me to try Tanlac and it has certainly been fine for me. It has given me a splendid appetite, and I can eat anything I want without its bothering me. My sleep is sound and refreshing and the color has come back in my face. I never have an ache or pain and can do all my housework with perfect ease. I certainly am grateful for the wonderful health Tanlac has given me, and it's a real pleasure to recommend the medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's drug store and leading druggists.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

PEPPERY ROMANCE OF HEARTS AND FINERY

An effective way to get rid of a man who is pestering a girl with unwelcome attentions is shown at Griffin's to-night in "All Dolled Up", Gladys Walton's Universal photodrama. The story abounds in dramatic thrills and gives the star a firm hold on the affection of local photoplay lovers. Florence Turner, Fred Malatesta, Ruth Royce, Edward Hearn and Richard Norton play the principal supporting roles.

Jimmy Aubrey in a 2-reel Vitagraph comedy, a 2-reel comedy drama of the Frozen North, a British Canadian Pathe News Weekly, and an interesting Burton Holmes Travelogue are being exhibited in addition to the above feature offering.

GEORGE WALSH AND TOM MOORE HERE TO-MORROW

"The Plunger" a William Fox picture starring George Walsh is to open cn the triple feature bill arranged for presentation at Griffin's to-morrow to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday, is said to be a gripping story of Wall Street financial conspiracy and stock manipulation—these forming the background for a delightful love story through which cupid romps at a record-breaking pace. The seething curb market activities and frantic scenes within the stock exchange are shown in photographs taken on the spot. Of special interest are scenes taken on the two million dollar suburban estate of a financier, who placed it at the disposal of the producing company, without restrictions. The interior of the mansion was reproduced at the Fox studios and so massive was the set that the camera was swung along the set on a track for a distance of 100 feet. The effect thus gained is said to be startling.

"The Plunger" is coming to Belleville with an enviable record of success to its credit. George Walsh, popular hero, is said to be a whirlwind in this picture.

The many Belleville admirers of Tom Moore will be pleased to hear that he is appearing on the same program in a romantic comedy drama "Darkening Trail," a funny 2-reel Mack Sennett comedy, "Made in the Kitchen", Vode-Vill Movies with its varied Vaudeville bill, Fox News Weekly, and an interesting Travelogue are also being exhibited.

PRIZE DAY FUNCTIONS

St. Catherines, Ont., June 22.—Ridley college held its prize day functions to-day. The president, George H. Gooderham, announced that the principal, Rev. J. O. Hiller, had tendered his resignation to the Board, after thirty-two years of service, and that he would be succeeded by H. C. Griffith as principal of the Upper school, and H. G. Williams as principal of the Lower school.

Bishop Ridley College, St. Catherines, was founded in 1889 by Rev. J. O. Miller, and has developed into one of the four large residential schools for boys in Ontario. Dr. Miller is a well-known writer and publicist and he will be free to enjoy the leisure which he desires. Mr. Griffith is an "old boy of Ridley" having won his colors in cricket and football there about 1895. Later he graduated from Trinity University, Toronto, with honors in Moderns. From 1907 to 1911 he was professor of French in Trinity, but the rest of his active life has been spent as an instructor at Ridley. He is an authority on sport, and was honorary coach of the Varsity football team for many years. His educational work at Ridley has been of the highest scholastic standing. Mr. Williams, the principal of the Lower school, has also been connected with Ridley since 1891.

Ridley is being enlarged this year by the addition of a new dormitary, to be known as Gooderham House, and a new Memorial Chapel. It has now accommodation for sixty boys in the Lower school and 150 boys in the three houses of the Upper school.

CANADIANS PROUD OF PREMIER MEIGHEN.

The session of Parliament which has just closed at Ottawa has not brought any strength or prestige to the King-Fielding opposition, which has succeeded only in showing its weakness, and this has been accentuated by the disgraceful and un-Canadian campaign in Yamaska, where all decency was abandoned in the effort to elect a candidate opposed to the Government.

The session has shown clearly the strength of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen as a national leader in whom all real Canadians can have the greatest confidence.

The Toronto Mail and Empire sums up the present political situation as follows:

"The hundreds of thousands of Liberals who threw off the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1917 and lined up with the Liberal-Conservatives of the country in support of a Union Government may well ask why they should break away from the alliance they entered into in war time. To the organs and leaders of the Opposition the average Unionist Liberal vainly says, 'Show me why I should not support the Government 'that has succeeded the Union Government and is carrying out policies 'laid down in the platform of ehe National Liberal and Conservative 'Party, a fusion of the elements that maintained the Union Government 'in power?' On that platform the parties associated together in the government of the country during the most critical years of the war and in the early days of reconstruction have found common ground. The platform calls for a National Government to administer the country in wartime. And when the Unionist Liberal looks into the remnant of his former party, what does he find? He finds men in the front rank of that remnant coming forward in a by-election at Yamaska with the cry, not to forget the difference that drove the great body of the Liberal party from Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1917, but to remember it with renewed bitterness and in a spirit of vengeance. How can the men who split away from the anti-conscription Liberals four years ago be expected to rejoin them when there is being spread abroad such inflammatory talk as leading members of that wing are hurling from by-election hustings in Quebec? These prominent members of the present Liberal Opposition are preaching vengeance against the Liberals who patriotically upheld conscription for the reinforcement of our men in the field. Has Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King ever shown the slightest repentance for his public course in the war-time? Has he ever shown regret for taking a stand against the overwhelming will of his own party? How can Liberals who supported the Union Government be expected to support Mr. King?

"Apparently they are not expected to support him. There are a few politicians and newspapers who seem to consider themselves called upon to take the destinies of the Liberal party into their hands. They perceive that it is just the mere rump of that historic party that now arrogates the Liberal name and poses under the leadership of Hon. Mackenzie King. Mr. King cannot bring the Unionist Liberals into his following. Even over the last-ditchers of anti-conscription his authority is waning. His English-speaking flock is straying off to the field of the Farmer party. In the by-elections his candidates cut poor figures, the only seat won for him in recent contests being that of West Peterborough, where the Conservatives split and let the minority vote carry the seat. The aim of the would-be masters of the Liberal party is to wipe it out of existence. Divided it is no longer a suitable instrument for their ambitions, and hopelessly divided they consider it likely to remain. So instead of continuing their former efforts to lure back the Unionist Liberals into fellowship with the anti-conscription Liberals, they are now trying to steer both wings of the Liberal party into the Farmers' camp, and foe this purpose Mr. Crerar and Mr. Drury have been induced to "broaden out" into a Progressive party. Of that swallower-up of the Liberal party the chief Liberal organs would gladly become the mouthpieces. Mr. Dewart does not suit them as Liberal leader in Ontario politics because he does not answer to their whip. He insists on keeping his following in the Assembly a Liberal group instead of hastening its assimilation to the party of which Mr. Drury is the provincial chief. So we hear of plans for disposing of the Ontario Liberal party's affairs without consulting Mr. Dewart.

"The Farmers' party, or Progressive party, as it is called, has been tried in Ontario and found wanting, woefully so. This great province blundered into an experiment that it will abandon on the first opportunity. Mr. Crerar is a disappointment, even to his most enthusiastic friends. Whatever there may be in him, certainly no bent towards statesmanship is shown in anything he has said or done. He is a classman instead of a statesman, and not an astute classman at that. He is now making a wail because the Government has appointed a Royal Commission to inquire into the handling and marketing of wheat, a business of vital consequence to every Western farmer. He ought to be welcoming searching inquiry. If the grain-dealing organization of which he is the president is and always has been giving the farmers the square deal, he should be glad to have that fact officially ascertained and made known to all whom it may concern. Why does he resist?"

Occasional differences are bound to occur between France and Great Britain. Silesia and the Near East are only two of the many potential causes of a diplomatic disagreement. However, irritating as these differences may be, they do not indicate a break-up in the spirit or the aims of the Entente Cordiale, or a permanent falling out between France and Great Britain.

The good relations between the two nations—which, as Secretary Weeks has said, it is so important to maintain—can not be strengthened by such speeches as this. Rather they will be jeopardized. Discretion is not cowardice—on the contrary, it is not wholly unrelated to valor.

THE INEFFICIENCY OF STATE CONTROL

London Daily Mail

The work of the Post Office has far outgrown in volume and complication the capacity of its mid-Victorian headquarters administration to deal with it and to control the expenditure. The Post Office needs at its head administrators who will organize, economists who will economize, managers who will manage. The present officials seem as helpless as the victims of a flood; they cling to their office chairs and tables, tossed hither and thither by the spate they have let loose, swept along by an ever-swelling torrent of expenditure which they do not control.

London Daily News

In spite of the Bavarian trouble, and in spite of the profound dissatisfaction caused by the inadequacy of the sentences on war criminals, relations between Germany and the Allies are at last in process of becoming finally stabilized. That process cannot be completed till the future of Upper Silesia is known. A frontier must be drawn. Germany must be given immediate occupation of the territory allotted her, and both she and Poland must be placed in a position to adjust their national economy to the conditions created by the permanent delimitation of their boundaries. That is of concern primarily to the two States themselves—to Poland as much as to Germany—but it is of concern equally to the whole of Europe. Every day the uncertainty is prolonged a blow is struck at European prosperity.

THE TREE'S DREAM

Little green tree, so slim and small,
Standing under the school house wall,
Planted there upon Arbor Day,
Tell me, what are you doing, say?
So quiet you stand, and so still you keep,
I really believe you have gone to sleep.

"Oh, I'm dreaming now," said the little tree.
Of the pleasant days that are to be.
Of the robins and bluebirds that every spring
Will come and sit in my boughs and sing.
Oh, plenty of company I shall see
In my gay green tent," said the little tree.

"I am dreaming of all the little girls,
In gingham aprons and yellow curls,
That under the shade of my leafy boughs,
Will make for themselves a wee playhouse,
With nice burr-baskets, the dear little souls,
And pepper-pod teapots and sugar bowls.

"I am dreaming of all the barefoot boys,
That will fill my branches with merry noise.
And climb my limbs like an easy stair
And shake down my nuts till the boughs are bare,
Oh, a jolly good comrade I shall be
When I grow up," said the little tree.

NOT DESERT LAND

Lower California Has Much Fertile Soil.

Really a Region of Great Resources That Only Await Development, According to Writer in Los Angeles Newspaper.

Lower California is an expansive region that has never been well known and has long been misunderstood. Even we of Upper California, despite our close proximity, know little of the peninsula except its extreme northern part, writes Arthur Berg, in the Los Angeles Times. Few of us realize that it is not an utterly barren waste; that it is a tropical country with a salubrious climate and many regions of luxuriant vegetation; that its northern and southern parts are utterly unlike one another, and that rich resources abound that are only waiting to be developed.

Despite its jagged, barren heights and cactus-clad mesas, which glow in the fiery rays of an unobscured sun, it was a land rich in history when the timbers of the Mayflower were yet trees in the forest. Once sought and guarded for her ores and her jewels this peninsula, which to the Spanish conquistadores was an island glittering in the azure web of romance, a land for which the padres gave their lives in fanatic devotion to the cross, now lies practically unnoticed, its romance and history forgotten, and its possibilities, if not overlooked, at least neglected.

Between 1527 and 1532 Hernando Cortez sent four expeditions on voyages of discovery up the west coast of Mexico, but the first three accomplished nothing and the fourth failed to return. Finally, in 1533, Lower California was discovered by Ximenez, who anchored in the bay of Santa Cruz (now La Paz). Later Cortes himself visited Santa Cruz and secured a quantity of pearls and Indian slaves. In 1539 Francisco de Ulloa sailed up the Gulf of California and discovered the mouth of the Colorado river. In spite of this discovery, Lower California was known as an island for more than 100 years and appeared on European maps as an island up to as late as 1748.

All attempts of Spain to colonize the California peninsula ended in disastrous failures until the task was delegated to the Jesuits, or Company of Jesus, in 1697. These Jesuit missionary priests were possessed of the tact of the French explorers, the persistency of the English colonial settlers and the bravery of the American frontiersman.

Padre Salvatierra made the first mission settlement in Lower California on October 15, 1697, at the bay of San Bruno, on the east coast. For 70 years thereafter the Jesuits controlled the peninsula, and those 70 years represented the era of Lower California's greatest activity and greatest prosperity.

During their sojourn the Jesuits charted the east coast, explored the east and west coasts the islands adjacent thereto and the interior in a manner that has never been excelled; founded 23 missions, of which 14 proved to be successful; formulated a system of mission life never thereafter surpassed; not only instructed the Indians in religious matters, but taught them many useful arts as well; cultivated and planted the arable lands and inaugurated a system of irrigation which, had they been given time for a more northerly advance, would have given Upper California a marvelous agricultural development early in the nineteenth century.

The establishment of the mission in Upper California was a much easier task than that which the hardy Jesuit priests faced and conquered in Lower California.

Frown on Cuddling.

At Scarborough, England, during an application to the licensing justice for cinema licenses, it was stated that when the justices visited the Palladium they saw some young couples cuddling. Mr. Gerald Standing, the manager, said he had not seen it. The chief constable asked him if he knew that locally 42 settees in one part of the building which seated two people each were known as the "cuddling chairs." Mr. Standing said he had not heard it, and that he had seen no kissing and cuddling. The license was granted on the court's being given to understand that more lights would be installed and the settees divided to prevent cuddling.

Believe It or Not.

He was a stranger to the ways of a city and made his way about with difficulty. He entered a large department store and was standing near the elevator when he heard the man directing the running of the elevators say: "Take the elevator to the right, it will take you anywhere."

So the stranger entered the elevater with the assertion: "I wish to go to the terminal station."

"Take the next car," came the quick rejoinder.

That's More Than Some Do.

"Whoever told you you could play golf?" sneered the expert.

"Who? Me?" asked the novice. "I'm playing just as well as any of the others, am I not?"

"Why, man alive, you took 14 strokes to make the first hole! Is that what you call good playing?"

"Well, I hit the ball every time, didn't I?"—Sissy Stories.

Gloom Clouds 1921 Outlook for Old Land

Issues With Perplexing Possibilities Confront People of Empire.

London, Dec. 31.—Britain's outlook for 1921 is pictured in rather sombre colors by the politicans, economists, financiers and Labor leaders who are casting their eyes forward to the new year. At home two outstanding problems—unemployment and Ireland—have baffled the Government, while it is also besieged by many results of the war, including a vigorous newspaper campaign against so-called Government extravagance.

In the foreign field, looking eastward, there is the perplexing problem of settling the Palestine boundaries, promising some pointed expressions of opinion with France. Mesopotamia with its huge expanse of oil, the ever-present Persian difficulties which the last agreement has not allayed; India which is in a greater state of unrest than for years, requiring an exceptionally large garrison; Russia with her trade proposals which have caused a split in the British Cabinet and the uncertain Greek situation.

OIL PROBLEM

Officials here believe that within the next 12 months important dealings between Great Britain and the United States will necessitate most careful handling. Negotiations between the two countries have been almost dormant since the political conveniences in the United States. There is a desire here to clear up the oil question, which has been the subject of a long series of communications, on the question as to the extent to which the United States shall participate in the world petroleum supply, most of which is under the British Mandate. It is believed, however, that considerably more negotiating is necessary before an agreement is reached.

LITTLE RELIEF IN TAXES

While the Government is being seriously pressed on one side to cease enormous expenditure, it is besieged on the other with demands for unemployment funds, cash for housing schemes and other post-war expenditures with a result that there is little likelihood of reduction in the burdensome taxation.

Some relief is promised in reduced cost of living, except in the price of food, which rose steadily during 1920. With industry hard hit and a million jobless, merchants who had been holding commodities for high prices are expected to continue to dump their goods at a loss. This has caused slight reductions during the latter week of the old year.

Instantly Killed in Auto Accident

Two Halifax Men Lose Life When Train Hits Car at Bedford Station

Halifax, Jan. 3.—James Terrell, K.C., well known Halifax lawyer, and Captain James Adams, commander of the cable ship Lord Kelvin, were instantly killed on Saturday evening when the automobile in which they were driving collided with the inward bound Maritime express at the road crossing about 30 feet south of the Bedford railway station.

WAGES LOWER IN LUMBER SHANTIES

Wages in the lumber woods of New Brunswick have taken a big drop this year. The prevailing rate of pay at this time is sixty dollars per month board, whereas last year it was seventy-five and eighty dollars per month. In one camp a crew that had been receiving sixty dollars a month recently made a demand for ninety dollars. When the increases were refused fifty quit the job at once, but their places were filled in short order by other men who accepted the sixty dollar ratio. So far the pulp mills have been busy cutting their raw materials in the woods, but there are rumors afloat that these will shortly reduce their staffs.

COW MOOSE COME HIGH

Organized Labor Demands Permanent Tariff Board

OFFICIALS OF TRADES AND LABOR CONGRESS OF CANADA PRESENT VIEWS OF CANADIAN ORGANIZED LABOR TO COMMISSION OF ENQUIRY ON TARIFF — INDUSTRIES SHOULD EMPLOY CANADIAN LABOR FIRST.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—Representing two hundred thousand workers, male and female, organized into two thousand local unions, Messrs. Tom Moore, President, and P. M. Draper, secretary-treasurer, of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, today presented to the Dominion Commission of Enquiry on the tariff a statement of facts and opinions on the relationship of labor to the tariff.

The statement points out that the congress is a non-political body and views expressed by its representatives should not be confused with any expressed by the political Labor party, whose membership is confined to one political belief and includes many besides actual wage-earners.

The Congress' statement, in brief, asked that the industries enjoying protection should be compelled to absorb all-Canadian labor first, that protection should never be given so as to create a monopoly, that the Government should have full control over capitalization and thus prevent the cutting of melons and watering of stocks, and that a permanent tariff board should be created to carry out these, or other, similar regulations.

Press Condemns Midleton Reprisals

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

London, Jan. 3.—A number of papers contain comment on the burning of the Irish town of Middleton, on Saturday. Several remarking they had supposed that Martial Law in South-Western Ireland would put an end to such reprisals. Nowhere is their outspoken aproval of the punishment meted out to the Irish village by Major Gen. Sir Edward Strickland and there evidently is some reluctance to endorse this method of keeping order. It is declared that seven dwellings in Middleton were destroyed as a result of the ambush of police near that town last Wednesday.

INSURANCE IN IRELAND AGAINST CIVIL COMMOTION

Insurance companies, mostly English, have done a brisk business in Ireland in issuing policies against loss due to civil commotion.

Everybody has an uneasy feeling that his house is not safe from the consequences of the conflict between the government and its enemies. Many persons have suffered whom nobody intended to injure. The market for insurance policies, therefore, has been very active.

The ordinary fire and accident policies expressly exclude damage from the results of civil war or disturbances of public order which the new policies are meant to cover. It has been discovered, however, that a clause in many of the new policies might render them valueless and leave a victim who had paid his premium no better off than before.

It is provided that in order to recover a loss the sufferer must be able to show that neither he nor any of his servants has been a member of an illegal organization responsible for disturbance. On the face of it this seems reasonable, but there are many individuals and still more important firms who could not answer for the political affiliations of all the members of their staffs.

Lately some of the most respectable firms in Dublin owned by Unionists and wealthy men unconnected with politics have been raided by the forces of the crown in search of suspected employes whose private affairs were entirely unknown to their employers. If these employers started rooting out the Sinn Feiners from their staffs the unpopularity thereby provoked might easily ruin their business. The facts throw an interesting sidelight on the ordinary conduct of life in Ireland under guerilla warfare.

Trouble has arisen by the action of the British Commission which since the great war controls the sugar supply. It has issued instructions to English wholesalers that they must not, while the present disturbances last, supply Irish sugar retailers with any sugar except for cash down, and this order applies even to firms whose solvency is undoubted.

KINGS AND QUEENS TRY THEIR LUCK

Two kings, four queens and two princesses lined up the other day just like ordinary citizens at the counter where the prizes from a "lucky dip" a popular feature of the White City Advertising Exhibition, in London, England, were handed out.

King George of England, amid much laughter, drew a sponge and a packet of cigarettes. He promptly offered the sponge to his guest, King Christian of Denmark, who had drawn a blank. Queen Alexandrina of Denmark captured a box of crackers, and Queen Mary of England received a bar of soap and a box of face cream. Another bar of soap went to the Queen Mother Alexandra, of England, and a box of peppermint creams to Queen Maud of Norway. Princess Mary's prize was a boy scout's diary and Princess Victoria's a box of tooth powder.

All the royalties enjoyed the fun of the fair in a thoroughly democratic fashion, and laughingly stuffed their prizes into their pockets.

An improved style of typewriter attracted the King of Denmark. "I wish you would use one," he said teasingly to his wife, who types all her correspondence on an ordinary machine.

When King George was told that Britain's annual expenditure on advertising was close upon £100,000,000 he said in amazement: "This is really one of our big industries. I didn't know it before."

Three Killed at Crossing

Terrible Accident When Train Strikes Mr. Barnard's Car.

Toronto, Jan. 3.—Riding in the back seat of his motor car, the wife and two children of Harry Barnard, a farmer of Downsview, York County, were fatally injured when a G. T. R. passenger train struck the auto at the Elia crossing, near his home, at 11 o'clock on the morning of New Year's day. Mr. Barnard and one son were in the front seat of the car, and neither was injured.

Vera Barnard, seven years of age, was instantly killed. Mrs. Barnard died on the train on the way to the hospital. Gordon Barnard, twelve years old, died in Grace Hospital early Saturday morning.

Mr. Barnard was motoring with his family to visit his sister in East York. He was driving the car, and with him in the front seat was his son, Howard, eight years of age. His wife and two other children were in the back seat.

Canadian Curlers Go to Scotland

Ontario's team which will cross the ocean, will consist of eleven men, ten regular players and one spare man. They were recommended first by their respective clubs, and later chosen by a committee appointed by the Ontario Curling Association. They will be attired in a Norfolk suit and will wear a gold badge presented by the O. A. C. for this occasion.

J. Meiklejohn, Harriston Curling Club, Harriston, Ontario, is one of Western Ontario's best curlers, having been a follower of the game for the past twenty years. He was a prominent figure at the Ontario Tankard and District Cup games.

U. C. Chambers, also of the Harriston Curling Club, is a team-mate of Meiklejohn. He formerly represented Waterloo in the provincial Legislature. Mr. Chambers has been an active participant in several bonspiels.

Dr. F. W. Robins, Detroit Curling Club, a bonspiel club, has helped considerably in establishing curling in Detroit. The Club of which he is the official representative, intends to play a series of games before departing. The itinerary includes Hamilton, Peterboro', Oshawa, Toronto and Montreal.

Dr. T. S. White, of the Shelburne Curling Club, Shelburne, Ont., is already in Scotland and will join the team there.

W. J. Robson, of the Lakeview Club, Toronto, is a well known exponent of the game, and his appearance on the team should strengthen it considerably.

P. H. Douglas, Hamilton Thistles, Hamilton, is the youngest man on the team, and will act as the special representative of the Ontario Curling Association.

J. A. McFadgen, Stratford Curling Club, Stratford, has acted in the capacity of skip at all the important curling fixtures. He is a heady player, and knows the game thoroughly.

R. M. Waddell, Peterboro Curling Club, Peterboro, was skip of the Peterboro team when they were runners up in the Ontario Tankard in 1917 at Toronto.

Thos. Richardson, Oshawa Curling Club, will be spare man. He has taken an active part in curling in Eastern Ontario.

Mayor Church's 7th Term by Majority of Over 16,000

MESSRS. C. A. MAGUIRE, W. W. HILTZ, A. RUSSELL NESBITT AND JOSEPH GIBBONS ELECTED AS TORONTO'S BOARD OF CONTROL FOR 1921—ELECTRICAL CLEAN-UP BY-LAW VERY DECISIVELY APPROVED.

Toronto, Jan. 3.—The civic elections in Toronto furnished a few surprizes. Mayor Church was re-elected for a seventh term by a majority of 16,002 over his opponent, ex-Controller Sam McBride. The Mayor polled the greatest number of votes he ever received, the count showing 10,000 more than last year. Mr. McBride was about 900 short of his total last year. The result was not very surprising considering the overwhelming majorities piled up in favor of the electrical clean-up. All four questions submitted to the people carried by big majorities in each ward. This no doubt helped to swell the majority of Mayor Church, who made the clean-up the real issue in the contest. Mr. McBride, while favoring the purchase of the Mackenzie interests, was regarded by the people as a [illegible] convert to public ownership and suffered in consequence.

There will be six new men in the new Council. Controllers Cameron and Ramsden, Aldermen F. W. Johnston and W. R. Plewman having been defeated in Saturday's contest; Ald. Wm. Maher and W. M. Miskelly having retired on account of ill-health. All the members of last year's Board of Control sought re-election, but only two, Controllers Maguire and Gibbons, were successful. Controllers Cameron and Ramsden were displaced by Ald. Russell Nesbitt and Ald. W. W. Hiltz.

Of the new Aldermen, only Mr. Albert Wagstaff has had any previous experience in municipal affairs. Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, the first woman member of the Council, was re-elected, and her colleague Mrs. Sidney Small, who was second on the list in Ward Four. Newspaper men fared badly in Saturday's fight, ex-Ald. Ball, W. R. Plewman and ex-Ald. Mogridge going down to defeat.

The secession movement in North Toronto received its quietus. Only 646 residents of that district voted in favor of cutting loose from the city, while 1,586 voted against it, showing a majority of 940 against secession.

The vote for Mayor and Board of Control was as follows:

For Mayor.
Church	35,968
McBride	19,966
Majority	16,002
Board of Control.
Maguire	34,215
Hiltz	22,616
Nesbitt	19,191
Gibbons	18,604
Robbins	18,201
Cameron	17,861
Ramsden	17,436

Chamber of Commerce Elects Officers

President Jamieson Bone of the Chamber of Commerce will head that organization for another year.

The directors-elect of the Chamber held a special meeting on Friday night for the election of officers. Mr. Bone presided and called for nominations for the presidency.

Mr. Bone was at once nominated by Messrs. Robertson and Deacon. The nominee stated that owing to the necessity of his being out of the city for a considerable time this coming year, and also to business responsibilities he felt that he should be relieved of the presidency.

The other members of the directorate were, however, insistent that Mr. Bone should retain the office for another year. He had made a most acceptable presiding officer, had taken a foremost part in organizing and promoting the Chamber of Commerce and he should, if at all possible, hold the position until the new organization was firmly established.

Mr. Bone finally consented to retain the presidency after receiving so many assurances of support.

The other officers elected were,—

Vice-president; W. B. Deacon, H. F. Ketcheson.

Treasurer; J. G. Moffat.

The forum and attendance committees are holding an organization meeting at the Chamber building on Wednesday night.

MEN MAY ACCEPT MUNICIPAL HONORS

Toronto, Jan. 3.—President D. B. Hanna, of the Canadian National Railways, in an interview here, in which he was asked if his order forbidding C. N. R. employes from being candidates for political office applied to Secretary R. P. Ormsby, of the C. N. R., who is mayor of Leaside, Ont., made it clear that the order did not include municipal politics.

"The order simply deals with partizan politics," said President Hanna, "and has nothing to do with municipal politics. On the contrary, we rather encourage our employes to take a full and keen interest in municipal affairs." Mr. Hanna added that Mr. Ormsby had his full approval in taking special interest in Leaside.

The Canadian National Railways' shops are in Leaside.

Reduction of Duty on Dairy Utensils?

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Ottawa, Jan. 3.—Abolition or substantial reduction in the customs tariff on glass bottles, tinware, dairy utensils and machinery and other articles used in the dairy industry, was urged upon the Tariff Commission this morning by a deputation from the National Dairy Council. D'Arcy Scott, counsel for the Council, presented a resolution passed at a meeting of that body in 1919 asking for these tariff changes. The resolution referred to "unreasonable and excessive customs duty which amounts to forty per cent. on some articles regularly used by dairymen and which is one of the chief factors in keeping up the price of milk." Reduction in the customs tariff the resolutions stated would bring about a reduction in the cost of living. To-day's proceeding opened the last meeting which the commission will hold prior to beginning actual work of the tariff revision.

CANADIANS PROUD OF PREMIER MEIGHEN.

The session of Parliament which has just closed at Ottawa has not brought any strength or prestige to the King-Fielding opposition, which has succeeded only in showing its weakness, and this has been accentuated by the disgraceful and un-Canadian campaign in Yamaska, where all decency was abandoned in the effort to elect a candidate opposed to the Government.

The session has shown clearly the strength of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen as a national leader in whom all real Canadians can have the greatest confidence.

The Toronto Mail and Empire sums up the present political situation as follows:

"The hundreds of thousands of Liberals who threw off the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1917 and lined up with the Liberal-Conservatives of the country in support of a Union Government may well ask why they should break away from the alliance they entered into in war time. To the organs and leaders of the Opposition the average Unionist Liberal vainly says, 'Show me why I should not support the Government 'that has succeeded the Union Government and is carrying out policies 'laid down in the platform of ehe National Liberal and Conservative 'Party, a fusion of the elements that maintained the Union Government 'in power?' On that platform the parties associated together in the government of the country during the most critical years of the war and in the early days of reconstruction have found common ground. The platform calls for a National Government to administer the country in wartime. And when the Unionist Liberal looks into the remnant of his former party, what does he find? He finds men in the front rank of that remnant coming forward in a by-election at Yamaska with the cry, not to forget the difference that drove the great body of the Liberal party from Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1917, but to remember it with renewed bitterness and in a spirit of vengeance. How can the men who split away from the anti-conscription Liberals four years ago be expected to rejoin them when there is being spread abroad such inflammatory talk as leading members of that wing are hurling from by-election hustings in Quebec? These prominent members of the present Liberal Opposition are preaching vengeance against the Liberals who patriotically upheld conscription for the reinforcement of our men in the field. Has Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King ever shown the slightest repentance for his public course in the war-time? Has he ever shown regret for taking a stand against the overwhelming will of his own party? How can Liberals who supported the Union Government be expected to support Mr. King?

"Apparently they are not expected to support him. There are a few politicians and newspapers who seem to consider themselves called upon to take the destinies of the Liberal party into their hands. They perceive that it is just the mere rump of that historic party that now arrogates the Liberal name and poses under the leadership of Hon. Mackenzie King. Mr. King cannot bring the Unionist Liberals into his following. Even over the last-ditchers of anti-conscription his authority is waning. His English-speaking flock is straying off to the field of the Farmer party. In the by-elections his candidates cut poor figures, the only seat won for him in recent contests being that of West Peterborough, where the Conservatives split and let the minority vote carry the seat. The aim of the would-be masters of the Liberal party is to wipe it out of existence. Divided it is no longer a suitable instrument for their ambitions, and hopelessly divided they consider it likely to remain. So instead of continuing their former efforts to lure back the Unionist Liberals into fellowship with the anti-conscription Liberals, they are now trying to steer both wings of the Liberal party into the Farmers' camp, and for this purpose Mr. Crerar and Mr. Drury have been induced to "broaden out" into a Progressive party. Of that swallower-up of the Liberal party the chief Liberal organs would gladly become the mouthpieces. Mr. Dewart does not suit them as Liberal leader in Ontario politics because he does not answer to their whip. He insists on keeping his following in the Assembly a Liberal group instead of hastening its assimilation to the party of which Mr. Drury is the provincial chief. So we hear of plans for disposing of the Ontario Liberal party's affairs without consulting Mr. Dewart.

"The Farmers' party, or Progressive party, as it is called, has been tried in Ontario and found wanting, woefully so. This great province blundered into an experiment that it will abandon on the first opportunity. Mr. Crerar is a disappointment, even to his most enthusiastic friends. Whatever there may be in him, certainly no bent towards statesmanship is shown in anything he has said or done. He is a classman instead of a statesman, and not an astute classman at that. He is now making a wail because the Government has appointed a Royal Commission to inquire into the handling and marketing of wheat, a business of vital consequence to every Western farmer. He ought to be welcoming searching inquiry. If the grain-dealing organization of which he is the president is and always has been giving the farmers the square deal, he should be glad to have that fact officially ascertained and made known to all whom it may concern. Why does he resist?"

Occasional differences are bound to occur between France and Great Britain. Silesia and the Near East are only two of the many potential causes of a diplomatic disagreement. However, irritating as these differences may be, they do not indicate a break-up in the spirit or the aims of the Entente Cordiale, or a permanent falling out between France and Great Britain.

A FIRST-CLASS FIGHTING MAN

Indianapolis News

The good relations between the two nations—which, as Secretary Weeks has said, it is so important to maintain—can not be strengthened by such speeches as this. Rather they will be jeoparded. Admiral Sims is a brave and skillful officer, but as an orator he is not a success. He would be well advised never to essay that role. Discretion is not cowardice—on the contrary, it is not wholly unrelated to valor.

THE INEFFICIENCY OF STATE CONTROL

London Daily Mail

The work of the Post Office has far outgrown in volume and complication the capacity of its mid-Victorian headquarters administration to deal with it and to control the expenditure. The Post Office needs at its head administrators who will organize, economists who will economize, managers who will manage. The present officials seem as helpless as the victims of a flood; they cling to their office chairs and tables, tossed hither and thither by the spate they have let loose, swept along by an ever-swelling torrent of expenditure which they do not control.

MARK OUT THE BOUNDARIES

London Daily News

In spite of the Bavarian trouble, and in spite of the profound dissatisfaction caused by the inadequacy of the sentences on war criminals, relations between Germany and the Allies are at last in process of becoming finally stabilized. That process cannot be completed till the future of Upper Silesia is known. A frontier must be drawn. Germany must be given immediate occupation of the territory allotted her, and both she and Poland must be placed in a position to adjust their national economy to the conditions created by the permanent delimitation of their boundaries. That is of concern primarily to the two States themselves—to Poland as much as to Germany—but it is of concern equally to the whole of Europe. Every day the uncertainty is prolonged a blow is struck at European prosperity.

The Poets' Corner

THE TREE'S DREAM

Little green tree, so slim and small,
Standing under the school house wall,
Planted there upon Arbor Day,
Tell me, what are you doing, say?
So quiet you stand, and so still you keep,
I really believe you have gone to sleep.

"Oh, I'm dreaming now," said the little tree,
Of the pleasant days that are to be,
Of the robins and bluebirds that every spring
Will come and sit in my boughs and sing,
Oh, plenty of company I shall see
In my gay green tent," said the little tree.

"I am dreaming of all the little girls,
In gingham aprons and yellow curls,
That under the shade of my leafy boughs,
Will make for themselves a wee play-house,
With nice burr-baskets, the dear little souls,
And pepper-pod teapots and sugar bowls.

"I am dreaming of all the barefoot boys,
That will fill my branches with merry noise,
And climb my limbs like an easy stair
And shake down my nuts till the boughs are bare,
Oh, a jolly good comrade I shall be
When I grow up," said the little tree.

NOT DESERT LAND

Lower California Has Much Fertile Soil.

Really a Region of Great Resources That Only Await Development, According to Writer in Los Angeles Newspaper.

Lower California is an expansive region that has never been well known and has long been misunderstood. Even we of Upper California, despite our close proximity, know little of the peninsula except its extreme northern part, writes Arthur Berg, in the Los Angeles Times. Few of us realize that it is not an utterly barren waste; that it is a tropical country with a salubrious climate and many regions of luxuriant vegetation; that its northern and southern parts are utterly unlike one another, and that rich resources abound that are only waiting to be developed.

Despite its jagged, barren heights and cactus-clad mesas, which glow in the fiery rays of an unobscured sun, it was a land rich in history when the timbers of the Mayflower were yet trees in the forest. Once sought and guarded for her ores and her jewels, this peninsula, which to the Spanish conquistadores was an island glittering in the azure web of romance, a land for which the padres gave their lives in fanatic devotion to the cross, now lies practically unnoticed, its romance and history forgotten, and its possibilities, if not overlooked, at least neglected.

Between 1527 and 1532 Hernando Cortez sent four expeditions on voyages of discovery up the west coast of Mexico, but the first three accomplished nothing and the fourth failed to return. Finally, in 1533, Lower California was discovered by Ximenez, who anchored in the bay of Santa Cruz (now La Paz). Later Cortes himself visited Santa Cruz and secured a quantity of pearls and Indian slaves. In 1539 Francisco de Ulloa sailed up the Gulf of California and discovered the mouth of the Colorado river. In spite of this discovery, Lower California was known as an island for more than 100 years and appeared on European maps as an island up to as late as 1748.

All attempts of Spain to colonize the California peninsula ended in disastrous failures until the task was delegated to the Jesuits, or Company of Jesus, in 1697. These Jesuit missionary priests were possessed of the tact of the French explorers, the persistency of the English colonial settlers and the bravery of the American frontiersman.

Padre Salvatierra made the first mission settlement in Lower California on October 15, 1697, at the bay of San Bruno, on the east coast. For 70 years thereafter the Jesuits controlled the peninsula, and those 70 years represented the era of Lower California's greatest activity and greatest prosperity.

During their sojourn the Jesuits charted the east coast, explored the east and west coasts the islands adjacent thereto and the interior in a manner that has never been excelled; founded 23 missions, of which 14 proved to be successful; formulated a system of mission life never thereafter surpassed; not only instructed the Indians in religious matters, but taught them many useful arts as well; cultivated, and planted the arable lands and inaugurated a system of irrigation which, had they been given time for a more northerly advance, would have given Upper California a marvelous agricultural development early in the nineteenth century.

The establishment of the mission in Upper California was a much easier task than that which the hardy Jesuit priests faced and conquered in Lower California.

Frown on Cuddling.

At Scarborough, England, during an application to the licensing justice for cinema licenses, it was stated that when the justices visited the Palladium they saw some young couples cuddling. Mr. Gerald Standing, the manager, said he had not seen it. The chief constable asked him if he knew that locally 42 settees in one part of the building which seated two people each were known as the "cuddling chairs." Mr. Standing said he had not heard it, and that he had seen no kissing and cuddling. The license was granted on the court's being given to understand that more lights would be installed and the settees divided to prevent cuddling.

Believe It or Not.

He was a stranger to the ways of a city and made his way about with difficulty. He entered a large department store and was standing near the elevator when he heard the man directing the running of the elevators say: "Take the elevator to the right, it will take you anywhere."

So the stranger entered the elevater with the assertion: "I wish to go to the terminal station."

"Take the next car," came the quick rejoinder.

That's More Than Some Do.

"Whoever told you you could play golf?" sneered the expert.

"Who? Me?" asked the novice. "I'm playing just as well as any of the others, am I not?"

"Why, man alive, you took 14 strokes to make the first hole! Is that what you call good playing?"

"Well, I hit the ball every time, didn't I?"—Sixty Stories.

BAKERS CUT PRICES

The Peterboro Council has appointed a special committee to investigate the prices being charged for bread. The public of Peterboro have been at a loss to know how bread manufactured in Peterboro sold for twelve cents per loaf. While bread made in Port Hope and sent into Peterboro by express could sell for ten cents per loaf. The inquiry they hope will throw some light on the question.

PAINFULLY INJURED

Mr. Ernest Bowden, of Newcastle, employed on the C.P.R. section, met with a very serious and painful accident last Saturday afternoon. With a number of other men Mr. Bowden was coming east on the pumper and when a short distance this side of Wesleyville, the axle of the pumper broke and they were thrown off. Bowden's left foot was caught in the wheel and the flesh from the sole and side of his foot was torn off to the bone. The injury was very painful and Mr. Bowden will be confined to the hospital here for several weeks and a grafting operation will be necessary.

AUTO OVERTURNED

On Sunday morning Mr. V. R Wesse, salesman for the Canadian Oil Co., had a narrow escape from serious injury. Construction work on the road just east of Grafton was in progress and the part of the road open for traffic was very narrow. Mr. Wesse was driving a Ford car when he met a team with a large wagon loaded with machinery. The rear hub of the car caught by part of the machinery and the car was completely overturned and rolled down the embankment. Fortunately Mr. Wesse was not injured, but the car was damaged to the extent of two hundred dollars. Mr. Wesse states that the road there is very dangerous and the condition should be brought to the attention of the officials. Port Hope Guide

VISITING FORMER HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Glemm Mongold of Detroit, Mich., are visiting Mr. Mongold's parents at No. 2 Ridley street. Glemm is an old Belleville boy and takes great delight in visiting his old home town, and renewing acquaintances that were made during his school days, he makes it a point to get back here at least once every two years and regrets that he was unable to get home for the old boys' re-union a year ago. He has been employed in Detroit for nearly two years as floor manager of a Detroit Ladies wear house, and attributes much of his success to the schooling he received in Belleville public schools. His father, Mr. Geo. Mangold, was injured two months ago while discharging his duties on the G.T.R. in this city and this served to bring Glemm home earlier in the summer than usual. Mr. and Mrs. Mangold will return to their home in Detroit, July 4.

BATTERY CAMP BUSY

Ponton's Field, the camping ground of the 34th Battery is a hive of industry. The officers and men are working hard every day and when camp is broken up expect to be first-class in efficiency. Some of the lads who have never soldiered before feel kind of happy when they hit the hay at night. The battery men have been put through their practice day by day, and the work mapped out for Wednesday is in the nature of battery manoeuvres and driving drill for the morning. In the afternon they will occupy positions of various kinds such as taking on targets or battery tactics also gun or battery position. The officers of the camp have been receiving a large number of visitors daily and expect a lot more before Saturday.

FAREWELL TO OFFICER

Col. Bettridge who for the past three years has been head of the Salvation Army for the eastern division of Ontario with headquarters in Montreal, will in a few days in company with Mrs. Bettridge leave for a trip to the old country to visit relatives. Upon returning to Canada Col. Bettridge is to take charge of a Salvation training college at Toronto. Last evening at the Salvation Barracks here a farewell service for the Colonel and his wife was held which was largely attended. Previous to the meeting in the barracks an open air meeting was held conducted by Commandant Cavender in charge of the local corps. Members of visiting corps from Trenton, Picton and Tweed were in attendance at the gathering at the barracks. Ensign White was in charge of the Trenton contingent, Capt. Thornton and Capt. Johnson with the Picton members and Capt. Greenshields and Lieut. Williams from Tweed. The meeting was bright and interesting.

Col. Bettridge gave an address referring to his work as divisional officer and the progress made by the Army in Eastern Ontario since he had been in office. Brief addresses were given by visiting officers, all of whom expressed regret that Col. Bettridge was being removed as divisional officer, but prophesied that he and Mrs. Bettridge would in their new field of labor still be able to do much good for the Salvation Army. The local Army band was in attendance rendering a number of suitable selections whilst the songsters sang a number of appropriate songs. It was a evening that will long be remembered by those in attendance.

BURGLARY AT ORONO

Burglars broke into the C. N. R. freight sheds and C. W. Carveth's grain and feed store at Orono on Saturday night and removed several bundles of binder twine, a couple of hundred of flour and a bag of beans. They gained an entrance by breaking the padlocks at both places. The track of the rubber tired vehicle driven by the thieves led easterly and C. N. R. detectives are at work on the case.

SOME EXCITEMENT

Quite a little excitement was caused on Sunday afternoon at Napanee, when a Sedan owned by a prominent Belleville man collided with a McLaughlin car owned by a Kingstonian at the corner of Bridge and Centre streets. When the Belleville chauffeur saw that a collision was inevitable he turned his car in the direction the other car was travelling, thus lessening the shock, which did considerable damage to the bodies of both cars, but fortunately no one was injured, as the cars were both travelling at a fairly low speed. Kingston Standard

A despatch from Ottawa states that Inspector J. W. Phillips formerly of Belleville and Corporal Rimmer of the R.C.M.P., accompanied by Dr. Kinsman, of the Department of Indian Affairs, left yesterday for the east coast of the Hudson Bay to investigate the health and general conditions of the natives, principally Indians and Eskimos, among whom a certain amount of destitution has been reported lately. They will visit the Belcher Islands and will make a number of calls along the coast as far north as the Great Whale River. The party will take up canoes at Mattice and proceed up the Missinabi River to Moose Factory, There a larger boat will be chartered for the remainder of the voyage.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is sen by somebody. Let us hear about it. Phone 30, or write The Intelligencer.

Name is Mud

H. M.—I see that the dust nuisance on Station street continues unabated. Why should the residents of this locality have to endure this nuisance interminably. Something should be done at once as what with continued breathing in of dust everyone affected, when they take a drink of water feel just as if their name was mud.

Saw it in The Intelligencer

P. D.—I see that the officials of the water works department have made the necessary repairs and connection to the public drinking fountain adjacent to the city building and thirsty pedestrians will now be able to quench their thirst. This shows that the city officials read the "What Did You See" column in The Intelligencer, which called attention to the dry fountain.

A Fire Menace

A. B.—I saw Front street so blocked with motors cars parked at the curbs, on Saturday night that I wondered what would happen if a fire broke out in any of the adjacent buildings. In many instances the cars are locked and left without caretakers. Certainly the firemen would be seriously handicapped by the presence of the cars and a disastrous fire might be the result. This is a serious question and a remedy should be sought without delay.

A Growing Dollar

Cheap Fuel

D. H. A.—I notice tons of asphalt dressing that is taken off on paved streets is going to the dump when it is worth as much as coal for fuel. I burned some last winter in my office stove with most satisfactory results. I noticed a big load this a.m. about a ton going to the dump and bought it for fifty cents. Why do not the poor people gather it up.

What did you see?
Tell The Intelligencer about it.

SUNFLOWERS AS A SILAGE CROP

Much interest is being taken both in Canada and the United States in the value of sunflowers as a silage crop, particularly in districts where corn is not a reliable crop. The claim is made that sunflowers are a hardier crop than corn withstanding both drought and frost to a greater degree. Insofar as the claims put forth for sunflowers as a food for cattle are virtually of recent origin, experiments and investigations regarding them are practically in an introductory stage. It is interesting to note, however, that an analysis of sunflower silage fed at an Idaho agricultural experimental station indicated that if compared favorably with corn silage. In Canada also studies of the relative value of sunflowers and corn for silage purposes suggest that in nutrition there is not any great difference, although corn is to be preferred where it can be plentifully and easily grown. Where this is not the case, sunflowers are an excellent substitute.

NOT SO TRANQUIL, AFTER ALL, ON THE YACHT TRANQUILLA

Cleveland, June 18.—Twelve hundred quarts of Scotch whiskey discovered in a compartment in the hold of the pleasure yacht Tranquilla, a Canadian vessel, were seized by prohibition agents here yesterday. The boat was captured by Lakewood police two days ago after a gun battle with three men who escaped.

The Tranquilla was owned by the Toronto Power Company up to a year ago having been purchased from Senator Frederic Nicholls twelve years ago

Considerable romance is attached to the Tranquilla as the late John Herreshoff, the famous blind Rhode Island shipbuilder built the boat nearly twenty years ago for his honeymoon with his second wife. He called it the "Tranquilla" for that purpose. In the current issue of Lloyd's Yacht Register the Tranquilla is not listed.

The "Graveyard" of The Atlantic

Halifax, N.S., June 22.—The wreck of the Gloucester fishing schooner Esperanto, winner of the International Ocean Races held off Halifax last fall on a bar to the South of Sable Island some hundreds of miles off the Nova Scotian coast, has recently directed the attention of the shipping and sporting world to that sinister little strip of sand, appropriately called "The Graveyard of the Atlantic". The Esperanto is the latest of the victims of the "graveyard", which during the past five hundred years has been the bane of over two hundred vessels of various sizes and nationalities. Their bones lie scattered all about the Island and are a menace to fishermen and ships wandering out of their courses in that neighborhood. The Esperanto may have possibly come to grief on the machinery of the State of Virginia, a noble old boat that foundered on the South Bar in 1879, or she may have run into any one of the wrecks of the Naury, Vampire, Weather-Guage, Stranger, Hope or Tantling. The schooner lies low in gallant company and died with her seaboots on, but modern fishing interests are not noted for their maudlin sentimentality and in spite of the somewhat seemly "end" of the Esperanto, she is to be resurrected with cables for the Gorton-Pew Fisheries of Gloucester, Mass.

First historic mention of a wreck on Sable Island occurs during the reign of that illustrious patron of the sea, Queen Elizabeth. Sir Humphrey Gilbert, one of Elizabeth's most gracious courtiers and ablest seaman, and a half brother of Sir Walter Raleigh, lost a ship of his squadron on the North-East Bar. Shortly afterward Sir Humphrey was drowned when his own vessel foundered on the Grand Banks. In 1598 the French landed forty convicts on Sable Island and left them to their own resources. Seven years later twelve of them—all that was left of them—were taken back to France and told a dismal tale of the hardships they had endured in their desolate exile.

When shipping became more accustomed to the waters about Sable Island, wreck followed wreck in quick succession, and the place was the abode of wild characters who preyed on unfortunate vessels that came within reach of their treacherous sand bars. Times grew more settled, however, and fishemen often resorted there to replenish their food supplies. Herds of cattle roamed over the low hills and there were numbers of Black Foxes on the Island.

In modern days the British Government established life-saving stations on all its coasts in view of the fact that the place was such a menace to shipping, and when the wireless proved itself it became an important centre in the Marconi system.

Dear Marie,
I'm worried! Really I am. It may sound funny — but it's true! I don't see why I can't do something useful in this world.
Marie, you've simply got to come and visit me — even if you are an old married woman! I'll fix you up with some of my Campana's Italian Balm till you'll think you're sweet sixteen again!! And then we can trip around till Doug sends a telegram for you!!
Campana's really will smooth your "furrowed brow" too, and make your face and hands real white and smooth — oh yes, you'd better come and let me show you!
As ever,
Peggy.

NARROW ESCAPE

The Chevrolet car which was struck by an eastbound G. T. R. freight train on Monday night, at a crossing in the east end yard here, as reported in Tuesday's Intelligencer, was the property of Mr. M. Lucas of this city, who had as a passenger, Mr. A. M. Mitchell. Their escape from serious or fatal injuries was almost miraculous. The car stalled on the crossing and was carried for some distance after being struck by the engine with Engineer Joseph T. Elliott of this city at the throttle. The train was not travelling fast at the time of the accident. Had it been a passenger train a different story would in all probability been recorded. Strange to relate the windshield of the auto was not broken, neither were the headlights.

ers' ink 'fore it gits over the black eye that fust Hanks give it.'"

"Bob's talkin' some about addin' on dry goods," Hanks went on to George in his even tone, without the slightest change of face. "I reckon it won't be a bad idea. He misses a lots o' trade by not bein' able to fit folks up all round. But he's got to go slow; he's too headstrong. He don't know it all yit by a jugful."

"He ort to set around here an' hear you talk, Lib," Kenner laughed. "I've l'arnt a sight by listenin' to yore harangues. But you cayn't l'arn that boy a thing about makin' money an' turnin' it quick. He could give you pointers in his sleep. Tricky? Geewhillikins! I 'lowed I was some pumpkins in that line when I started out, but Bob beats the Jews. Talkin' about Jews, the boys uptown say a feller looked in at Bob's shebang t'other day an' started out. 'Thought this was the Jew store,' he said. 'I promised my old woman to go thar the next time I come in town.' 'Dat's vat it is, mein frient!' said Bob as quick as a flash. 'Mr. Eppstein has jhust gondt oudt. Vat can I do for you?' An' he whirled in an' sold the feller a big bill, jabberin' all the time like a drove o' geese."

Then Kenner walked out to the compress and Hillyer went uptown to mail some letters. Hanks took a brown paper parcel from his desk and opened it. It was five or six hard tack crackers and some slices of cheese; he was always eating such things between meals.

"I see the governor's in town," he remarked, little puffs of powdered cracker issuing from his lips and falling like flakes of snow on his beard.

George started; an unpleasant thrill passed over him and his heart sank. "I didn't know it," he said, giving Hanks a steady stare.

"Yes, I was at the train when the Cranstons driv up to take 'im home with 'em. You cayn't l'arn folks any sense. I reckon fully a hundred was crowdin' around tryin' to git a look at 'im. An' as the carriage driv along the street a whole passle o' loafers run after it, makin' a big to-do. They'd 'a' had the brass band out, they say, ef the major's gal hadn't put 'er foot down on it. Mrs. Dugan come over an' told us he was expected—she struck us while we was at the breakfast table. She never had no use fer me—says I don't talk enough to suit 'er. She never would 'a' let us in on the racket this mornin', but she come through our yard to make a short cut through a hole in the fence to Alexander's. She said Mrs. Cranston was in fer givin' the governor a big blowout an' invitin' all the upper ten, but her daughter set on that too. Mrs. Dugan 'lowed it was beca'se Lydia was afeared ef be ketched sight o' some o' the other gals in the town he might transfer his attentions. I dunno—I'm jest tellin' you what that old hag said."

Buckley did not encourage the old man to continue talking. He dipped his pen in the ink as if to resume work, and Hanks sauntered away. The ink dried on the pen in George Buckley's tense fingers. Finding himself alone, he turned around and for several minutes sat staring vacantly in front of him. His face was pale, his brows drawn together.

"Oh, my God, how am I going to face this?" he said suddenly. "I have been a blind, stupid idiot. She has simply been treating me as she has out of pity. She'll marry that man; she'll do it. It's the way of the world—her world. Oh, God, give me the manhood to meet it!"

Suddenly Hillyer loomed up in the outer doorway and came into the office. He had heard nothing that had fallen from the lips of his clerk, but he saw his gloomy face. "Somebody's told 'im," he thought. He started to speak, but changed his mind and sat down, his countenance very grave. There was one subject he had never broached to George Buckley—a subject that the young man had made him feel was not to come up between them, and yet—

"George," was the result of the old man's sudden impulse, and he stood near Buckley's elbow, "I axed the Almighty fer a sign that I was on the right road to peace o' mind an' got it. I want to say to you now, my boy, that in every prayer I send up from this minute on I'm goin' to plead with 'im to give you all you want in this life. Do you understand? All—everything!"

George turned; the tensity of his features had given place to an inexpressible softness, into which a delicate flush was rising. He laid his hand on the old man's shoulder and smiled.

"I'm getting already more than I deserve, Mr. Hillyer," he said. "Don't bother about me."

"I've told you what my prayer is to be, George; we'll see if a God as good as ourn is won't grant it."

"A fellow can stand a great many disappointments, Mr. Hillyer, when he has as good a friend as I have in you."

The old man's lower lip was quivering helplessly. "It's awful—simply awful," he said, "to want to help folks you love an' cayn't, an' have to stand by with hands an' feet tied. An', George, that fellow they're all makin' so much over today is a low ring politician without any honor or a soul bigger'n a gnat's. He heads the procession, with his white shirt full o' diamond studs, shiny broadcloth an' silk hat, an' weak women fawn on 'im an' think he's God Almighty, but I tell you he's as empty as a bottle o' wind. He's goin' to make a speech to the children at Sunday school, an' the programme is fer 'em to decorate the altar with flowers. I hain't a-goin', George. That hain't what God's house is fer, an' ef I went I'd set thar with a heart full o' rebellion."

George stared at his friend with an expression on his face the old man had never seen before. It contained a frank admission of his helpless captivity to Lydia Cranston's charms, and yet it reflected tense manliness—manliness bound, bowed and beaten.

"He has been courting her over a year, Mr. Hillyer," Buckley said under his breath.

"So I've heard, George."

"She writes to him—she mentioned that to me once. She showed me some presents he had sent her—flowers from his own hothouse and other things. He's followed her everywhere; she accepts these attentions. Her family all favor the match."

"She's jest a woman, George—jest a woman, after all—and they are all pine blank alike except in the sight of the different men who dote on 'em."

Presbytery Meets at Napanee

NEXT MEETING TO BE HELD AT BELLEVILLE — PUBLICITY SECRETARY NOMINATED

At the quarterly meeting of the Presbytery of Kingston held in Napanee on the 21st inst., Rev. Dr. R. J. Wilson was nominated for the position of Publicity Secretary, a new post created at the recent meeting of the General Assembly. The nominee is well qualified for the position.

The General Assembly having granted leave to the Presbytery to license Mr. John MacKay, the Moderator, Rev. A. J. Wilson, Napanee, conducted the ceremony in due form. Mr. MacKay was given a cordial reception, and immediately thereafter, the Moderator presented him with a call from the congregations of Melrose, Lonsdale and Shannonville. The call was sustained and accepted and arrangements were made for the induction on June 28th at Melrose. Rev. Taylor Dale presented a call from Wolfe Island to Rev. D. T. Lancaster. This also was sustained and accepted. The induction will take place on July 5th.

General regret was expressed that the Rev. W. J. Parsons, who has labored at Glenvale and Wilton for the past five years is about to leave the bounds. He goes west to labor in Westminster Presbytery. Rev. Mr. Burgess, Kingston is interim moderator of the Glenvale and Wilton sessions.

Owing to difficulties in some of the fields which were placed under the co-operation scheme, it was decided to call the committee on co-operation together to review the situation, and to make adjustments. In the meantime the Presbyterian fields will carry on as formerly.

The first report from the recently appointed committee on General Interests was submitted by Rev. Dr. Wilson. It was agreed to give special attention to Home Missions and Social Service at the March meeting the benevolent funds at the June meeting; Y. P. Societies and S.S. at the September meeting and Foreign Missions and the Budget at the December meeting. It was also decided to invite the Rev. J. D. Byrnes to spend one month as soon as convenient, in the Presbytery. It is expected that Mr. Byrnes will endeavor to induce the augmented charges to attain to the new minimum of stipend, and adjust difficulties wherever they have arisen in fields under co-operation.

Rev. C. E. Kidd reported on plans of work to be carried on among young people by the Presbytery and the Religious Educational Council.

Rev. Dr. McTavish reported that he had declared the pulpits vacant in the Eldorado field and he was instructed to procure supply for that charge until the plan of co-operation becomes effective.

The Presbytery enjoyed a sumptuous repast provided by the ladies of Napanee, and on motion of Drs. Gracey and MacTavish, and supported by Messrs. Cumberland and Wilkins, the ladies were heartily thanked for their hospitality.

The next meeting will be held in the John street church, Belleville on the second Tuesday in September.

Fine Programme of Sports at Victoria Park

FEDERAL LABOR UNION HAVE A SUCCESSFUL DAY AND EVENING—LARGE ATTENDANCE OF SPECTATORS AND AN EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT PROVIDED.

The committee of Management of Federal Labor Union No. 17314 of this city who were responsible for the Wednesday afternoon and evening programme of sporting events which took place at Victoria Park has every reason to congratulate itself for the success that attended their efforts. The program was varied, consisting of land and aquatic games in which there were many contestants. The attendance both afternoon and evening was all that could have been desired and nothing whatever occurred to mar the pleasure of all present. It was one continuous round of pleasure for the contestants who were men, women and children. Some of the events were keenly contested, and the judges' work was by no means a bed of roses. They, however, performed their duties in a manner that was most acceptable to all concerned. To Mr. B. A. Sandford is due no little credit for the success of the day's sports as he worked assiduously in the preparation of the program and seeing that it was properly carried out. In this respect he was assisted by other members of the union. Mr. Sandford not only announced the various events but was the starter. The program as provided was carried out to the letter and all were satisfied with the prizes they secured. The prizes by the way, were contributed by the merchants of the city and others in business. The events and winners were as follows:

Boys' Race, 10 years and under. Jesse Mason, 1st; Collin Brown, 2nd; Gerald Brown, 3rd.

Baby Show

This was one of the chief attractions of the afternoon, and the three judges selected, namely, Dr. Wallbridge, Ald. French and Mr. George Ashley had a task that was by no means envied. No less than 42 babies were entered in the competition for four prizes, the only stipulation being that the little ones were not to exceed 1 year in age. A finer lot of babies could not be gathered together in any city and the judges had their work cut out in making their awards which were as follows:

Mrs. Pigden, 1st, baby Audrey May.
Mrs. Bera Bell, 2nd, baby Muriel.
Mrs. W. Rushlow, 3rd, baby Ruth.
Mrs. J. Kelliher, baby Mary Ruth.

During the afternoon and also the evening, the Argyle Light Infantry band was upon the park and delighted all present with their tuneful selections.

Chairmen of committees in charge of the affair were as follows:

Finance—A. S. Large.
Sports—J. C. Weir.
Water Sports—J. Cornell.

NOTES

Fruit and sweetmeats were distributed to the children and it is needless to state that this token by the Union was much appreciated.

Fred Reeder who succeeded in getting the card at the end of the greasy pole which projected over the water received a nasty cut over the eye, when the pole flew up and struck him in the face. He, however, maintained a grip on the ticket, which entitled him to $2.

The two booths upon the park were liberally patronized both afternoon and evening.

Burglar Thrown Out by Women

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER PUT HIM OUT OF A WINDOW

Windsor, June 22.—Breaking into the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Wilkie, 821 Moy avenue, Windsor, in the early morning, a masked burglar was thrown through a window by the united efforts of Mrs Wilkie and her eighteen-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Wilkie who recently came from Scotland was awakened shortly after 3 o'clock by the noise of a window in her bedroom being thrown up. Shouting to her two sons, who were in an adjoining room, she rushed to the window in time to seize the burglar before he could climb into the room.

Crying out, "Get back, ye bad man," in the broadest Scotch, Mrs. Wilkie clutched the man's arms the daughter giving her mother assistance by throwing a sheet around the visitor's head. The rest was easy for the defenders. The aid of the sons wasn't needed.

DROWNED IN ST. LAWRENCE

Brockville, Ont., June 22.—Eugene Lavine, aged seven, was drowned in the St. Lawrence at the foot of Edward Street this afternoon after falling from the dock. Instead of returning home from school, the boy and his brother, Merrill, went to the river to bathe. As they were undressing the younger boy's shirt fell into the water, and in endeavoring to recover it, the older boy himself fell in.

Irish Sub Service to United States

TWO UNDER-SEA BOATS USED BY SINN FEIN—HOW VALERA TRAVELLED

New York, June 22.—Two submarines, flying the "Irish Republican flag, maintain a regular undersea passenger service between this country and Ireland for officials and agents of the "Irish Republic," according to Capt. B. J. Stanley, wounded veteran of the 68th Regiment of New York, He is also Secretary of the New York Council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

Eamonn De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," arrived in this country in 1919 in an Irish submarine, Stanley declares, and left secretly for Ireland several months ago in the same fashion. Several other Irish diplomats have patronized the same line, he says.

The line is still in commission and "functioning regulary," although he refused to give any details about the present whereabouts of the vessel.

LADS TO BE HANDCUFFED MAKE THEIR ESCAPE

Lindsay, June 21.—Two lads, Bryan and Ryan, who were accused of stealing D. Ball's car on Sunday, were given a hearing before Magistrate Bradford this afternoon, and were remanded to jail, as their story was far from satisfactory. As they were about to be handcuffed they made a bolt for liberty and have not been seen since.

Big Liquor Stock, Under Seizure, Has Vanished

WET GOODS VALUED AT $260,000 REMOVED IN MYSTERIOUS FASHION

Ottawa, June 23.—The two hundred and sixty thousand dollar liquor stock of the Ontario Export Company, which was seized about two weeks ago by agents of the Ontario government, and in connection with which an interim injunction was granted by Judge Gunn yesterday afternoon, was last night removed in a mysterious manner from the company's warehouse at the corner of Duke and Bridge streets.

Frank Falconer, agent of the provincial government, who was placed in the warehouse to watch the stock, was ordered by a stranger to an upstairs room in the warehouse and was found there at seven-thirty this morning by Inspector Howard Graham. Prior to being ordered to the up stairs room, Falconer attempted to use the telephone, but found that it would not work.

It was later discovered that the telephone wires and the wires of the burglar alarm system had been cut.

What disposition has been made of the large quantity of liquor which is supposed to have been taken from the warehouse on motor trucks is unknown, but to-day local liquor inspectors, Russel, Graham and Enright and Provincial Inspector Captain Collison, of Toronto, with other officials are searching for it.

Safe Return of Royal Party Relieves London

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

London, June 23.—Relief over the safe return of King George and Queen Mary from Belfast was expressed by this morning's newspapers which also voiced appreciation of their courage in making the trip to the Irish city to open the Ulster Parliament.

Editorials warmly approved the King's address especially his plea that the Irish "Forgive and forget and join in making, for the land they love, a new era of peace, contentment and good-will." The Daily News, however, strongly criticized the government which framed the speech for "simultaneously making mockery and reproach of these moving words" by its decision to send more troops to the south of Ireland. The Times also denounced the government for "dashing all hopes by the decreeing of an intensified warfare in Ireland to the bitter end." It accused the gov ernment of failing to play the game with the king who is said to have done all he could do."

FREIGHT RATES WILL FOLLOW WAGES DOWN

Ottawa, June 22.—Freight rates will follow wages down just a about the same rate as retail prices follow the cost of raw products. The railway commission is naturally watching with interest the efforts of the railway companies to reduce wages and the result of negotiations which come to do with actionrsmdan i litheii flee"I a head on July the 1st. will have much to do with the action which the commission will take in the matter of amending existing rate schedules. Whatever the reeult may be, hiwever, the board will undoubtedly permit a period of "readjustment" before ordering a cut rate.

On July 1st increased passenger rates go back to normal. Pullman rates remain at their present level, and no change of existing freight rates is due. It is claimed that under existing freight rates of Canada is being split into a series of zones and that in certain cases traffic is being driven north and south, even in the face of duty and exchange. The live stock industry, for instance, is said to be on the point of ruin.

Nevertheless, it is predicted that rates will not follow wages downward immediately, but that a period of "reconstruction" will be followed.

In the meantime the hearing on the projected enquiry into discriminatory rates is hanging fire.

Hallam Brothers Are Sent to Jail

STANLEY GIVEN A YEAR, AND WILLIAM GETS SIX MONTHS

Chatham, June 22.—Judge Stanworth sentenced Stanley Hallam to one year and William Hallam to six months in the Ontario Reformatory on charge of assault and robbery in connection with the theft of 77 cases of liquor from the farm of, Frank King, Dover township, on September 14.

The brothers took their sentence calmly, and Stanley addressed the court, declaring that both he and his brother were innocent, that they had had a fair trial, and expressed his appreciation to the court for the courtesies shown to him.

Stanley's wife was in court at the time, and wept bitterly as her husband was led back to the cells.

NORTHPORT IS AGAIN FIRE-SWEPT SEVERAL BUILDINGS ARE BURNED

SMOLDERING RUINS CAUSE GREATER FIRE

Tuesday's Fire Followed By Greater Disaster on Wednesday---Sparks From Smoldering Ruins Set Fire to Adjacent Buildings Including Residences --- Loss Estimated at $50,000.00 — Only Partially Covered By Insurance---Serious Blow to Village of Northport.

That misfortunes rarely come singly was truly exemplified in the case of the village of Northport, a pretty little hamlet of Prince Edward County, situated on the shores of Big Bay, about 22 miles from Belleville.

On Tuesday afternoon about five o'clock a fire broke out and before being extinguished five buildings, including a large frame dwelling, were reduced to ashes. On Wednesday afternoon another fire started, and before the onward march of the devouring element could be stayed some fifteen buildings, including a number of residences, were burned. Practically two-thirds of the village has been laid waste and a loss estimated at upwards of $50,000 entailed.

The village today as viewed by spectators presents a desolate appearance. Not only were homes destroyed, but in a number of cases the greater portion of the contents fell a prey to the flames.

From information received the second fire started in a large wood pile, supposedly from embers from the fire of the previous day. In an incredibly short time building after building was enveloped in flames, fanned by a strong southwest wind. It was at one time feared that not a building would be saved. At this juncture the city of Belleville was appealed to for assistance, as was also Deseronto, which is not far from the scene of the conflagration. A fire engine could not be taken from Deseronto as there was not a ferry in operation large enough to transport such a heavy appliance across the bay.

Mayor Hanna was in communication with the village at the time, but it was found impossible to send an engine from here as it would take some hours to reach the scene.

Confronted with these facts, the villagers and others from the surrounding district fought the flames as best they could, with the result that they succeeded in saving the Methodist church and personage, Sanderson's grocery store, the canning factory, post office and some dwellings. Had the wind changed its direction it is believed that not a building in the village would have been left standing.

As far as could be ascertained the following buildings were burned, all but one exception, a brick dwelling, being of frame:

Alex. Anderson's residence, his barn being burned in the fire the day previous.

Mr. Daniel Morden's residence and outbuildings.
Mr. Wm. Creeper's house and sheds.
Miss Anna Forbe's house.
Mr. Borman's summer residence, with contents.
Mr. D. Pitman's house and barn.
Mr. Clayton's residence and barn.

The loss, which is roughly estimated at $50,000, is only partially covered by insurance. In some cases there was no insurance.

G. T. R. trainmen report that last night the reflection from the fire was visible at Shannonville, which place is almost directly north of Northport.

The flames spread with such rapidity at the outbreak of the fire that scarcely anything was saved from some of the buildings.

This baptism of fire is a severe blow to the thriving village of Northport, but it will in all probability rise, Phoenix-like, from the ashes.

Wet Joy Ride Ends in Court

FOUR COBOURG MEN IMBIBED TOO FREELY; THEN ENJOYED SLEEP ON SIDE OF ROAD

Port Hope, June 23.—An automobile party stalled on the Cobourg road about two hundred yards east of Hope street this morning. They were short of gasoline but other liquids were very much in evidence. None of the party appeared at all anxious to replenish the supply of gasoline, but instead two of them stretched out in the car and the other two found soft spots on the side of the road. When Chief Colwill arrived shortly after seven o'clock the quartette were dead to the world. He gathered them in but when he was telephoning for a car two of them got away. The other two were taken to jail but at the opening of Police Court were not in a condition to appear. They will come up to-morrow morning when it is expected that the two who made their escape will be apprehended by that time. The four men are all residents of Cobourg but as yet their names are not recorded on the police blotter. One of them had a bottle in his possession and put up quite a scrap when the Chief removed it from his hip pocket.

G.T.R. Rumor Very Much Exaggerated

Rumors which have been floating about for some days to the effect that G. T. R. passenger engines would in future run to Kingston instead of Belleville seem to have arisen through a decision that locomotives on G. T. R. expresses Nos. 9 and 10 would change at Kingston instead of Trenton. These trains run over the C. N. R. tracks and it has been found advisable to make Kingston the end of the run for the enginemen concerned instead of Trenton as heretofore.

That there is any intention of making the order general as applying to all passenger trains is scouted by local railway men well versed in the situation and familiar with present and future possibilities.

The only change contemplated as far as can be learned affects enginemen on No. 9 and 10 expresses which run over the C.N.R. and this is on account of the facilities at Trenton not being suitable.

Thirst and Flies Drive Out Bandit

SECOND MEMBER OF NORTHERN ONTARIO GANG TAKEN PRISONER

Sudbury, Ont., June 23.—Crazed by thirst and relentless black flies, Harry Ccoke, one of the four bandits who held up James Duke, an Oba storekeeper, a week ago Sunday, and robbed him of $500 cash and $80 worth of goods, came out of the bush on Sunday and walked into the arms of Chief Barnett of Capreol and Provincial Constable George Grassick, who had been lying in wait for him near a well at Ostrum, on the C.N.R. This makes the second capture, Mike Lazaruk, another of the bandit gang, having been apprehended at Gladwick on Thursday last. Both men are now in jail, having been remanded until June 25 for hearing on charge of robbery with violence, the maximum sentence for which is life imprisonment.

Barnett, attired in a dusty pair of overalls, was drawing a pail of water from the well when Scoke trudged down the railway track under the blazing sun. The man did not recognize the constable, and mistook him for a section hand. He asked him for a drink, and as he did so the officer seized him. Constable Grassick, who was nearby, came to his assistance and snapped the hand cuffs on the foreigner.

BOXING AT THE PARK

Wednesday evening at Victoria Park four fast boxing bouts were staged in connection with the Labor Union picnic. The contests were well worth the price of admission and everybody was satisfied. The first bout was:

Kellar vs. Bob Smith, three two-minute rounds. Both boys showed plenty of gameness and mixed it up all through the bout. Kellar got the decision on a close margin at the end of the bout.

The second bout was Charlie Rattery vs. Tommy Matthews. Both boys started fast and furious and treated the crowd to some fast milling for the first three rounds. Tommy was good while he lasted, but Charlie, although a newcomer to the game, and in his first bout, showed he had the upper hand, and in the fourth round Referee J. Mackie stopped the bout.

The third bout was Anderson vs. Baldree, five two-minute rounds. This was another close, hard bout, and as in the preceding one, it was only in the last two rounds that the superior condition of Anderson put him in the lead. For three rounds it was fairly even, although Baldree resorted to some questionable tactics at times in order to gain time. Anderson's better condition told, and, backing Baldree up, rained blow after blow upon him, so the bout was stopped in the fifth round. Baldree was game, at that.

The final bout was five 2-minute rounds, supposed to have been between "Kid" Seeley and Theodore Marakas. At the last minute "Kid" Seeley's father came down to the park and refused permission to his son to box. It was an unfortunate incident, marring the final bout, but Phil Logan, of the 34th Battery volunteered to take the "Kid's" place, and did so for exactly two rounds. Although a game youngster, he was no match for Marakas, who showed lots of speed and two good hands. Marakas was the only boxer there who seemed to know how to use both hands. He used them to good effect, and Referee Jack Mackie again had to stop the bout in the second round. Marakas is coming along fast and looks better each time out. Mr. Wm. Carnew was timekeeper.

Miss McLean's rink is in the final for the consolation prize.

War Records of Carpentier

New York, June 23.—Georges Carpentier, to the French people, is the "Man of Destiny". No more ddo they doubt the ability of this man, decorated for bravery during the World War, to defeat Jack Dempsey on July 2, than they doubted the ability of the Allied armies finally to overcome Germany. They have followed the steady rise of the young pugilist from the days when, as a bantamweight, he first gained national note. They have studied accounts counts of his history before that time. In their minds, Dempsey will be unable to fell this national hero, just as German machine guns which are said to have riddled his plane repeatedly, were unable to bring him down.

Splendid War Record

Carpentier's official war record, investigated recently, revealed that the boxer spent 18 months at the front, flying a two-seater observation plane. He received the Croix de Guerre and the Medaille Militaire.

The record shows that Carpentier, enlisting as a chauffeur in August, 1914, received a license to pilot a Farman airplane in May, 1915. He was sent with a squadron to the front remaining three months and then was assigned to general reserve aviation as a spare pilot.

On August 28, 1915, Carpentier suffered a leg injury but recovered rapidly and was sent to the front with the Farman Escadrille for reconnaisance work in preparation for the Champagne offensive, which began September 25, 1915.

War Honors

Carpentier's citation, which resulted in the award of the Croix de Guerre, reads: "September 25, he did not hesitate to fly during misty weather and rain less than 200 yards above enemy lines. He has given proof in many circumstances of sang froid, never returning until his mission was accomplished, often with his machine riddled with bullets and shell splinters."

On November 5, 1916, Carpentier received the Medaille Militaire for heroic action. In December, 1916, he was forced to quit the front because of illness and never returned, in May, 1917, being declared physically unfit to continue as a pilot. He was detached from aviation and detailed as army physical instructor near Paris. Six months after the armistice, he was transferred back to the aviation and demobilized.

Courteous and Cultured

Carpentier's courteous demeanor and evident culture, unusual in a boxer, have created the impression in America that he is the son of wealthy parents. This is not so.

The son of a miner, Carpentier was born in Lens, the coal-mining centre of France on January 12, 1894. He started work as an office boy in a brewery. The ring called at an early age, however, and when only 14, he took up boxing, then being popularized in France by the visit of "Kid" McCoy and other American fighters. At the same time, he was dancing and singing in the cafes and restaurants of his native Lens, with Francois Descamps, who has ever since been his companion, guardian and manager. It was Descamps who discovered in Carpentier the requisites of a potential boxer. He attempted, one day, to punish the youth, using boxing gloves rather than the American "switch". In the midst of the scheduled "punishment", Descamps relates that "Georges sidestepped with agility and pouf!—the lights suddenly went out on me".

Trained by Descamps

From that moment, Georges was a boxer. Descamps somewhat of a fighter himself, took the youth into his gymnasium to train him. He fought three four-round battles in that first year and his total ring earnings amounted to $131. He will receive that much for each two seconds of the bout with Dempsey provided the match goes the scheduled 12 rounds.

Since that time, Carpentier has climbed steadily and slowly. Sometimes, he has slipped but the progress has been consistently forward and upward. He gained his first knockout in 1908 when, as a bantamweight, he stopped Moinereau in three rounds. The same year, he defeated Salmon, one of England's cleverest little men, in 18 rounds. A short time later, he knocked out in one round Wetninck, a lad who had almost held him even two years before.

It was in 1909 that Carpentier defeated Charlie Ledoux, famous French bantamweight and the craftiest boxer that the lad had met up to that time. More fame followed when he defeated Paul Til in 10 rounds, but soon after Georges was knocked out by Gloria in six rounds.

American Opponents

Carpentier met his first American opponent, Frank Loughrey, in May, 1911, winning a decision. Meeting the best of American boxers, including Harry Lewis, a well-known middleweight, and Dixie Kid, by whom he was knocked out in five rounds, he nevertheless developed steadily, gaining in weight, strength and cleverness until he defeated Jim Sullivan for the middleweight championship of Europe.

Two defeats at the hands of Americans Billy Papke and Frank Klaus, marked his 1912 record. Papke stopped Carpentier in 17 rounds and Frank Klaus beat him on a foul when the nimble-brained Descamps clambered into the ring to save his protege from a knockout.

The two bouts with Bombardier Wells, both of which the Frenchman won by knockouts, featured his 1913 battles: Carpentier showed great gameness in his first fight with Wells when he was knocked down for the count of nine in the first round but came back to win in the fourth. The second Wells' battle was a Carpentier victory in one round. In the same year, he knocked out Cyclone Smith, Bandsman Rice and George Gunther.

Jeannette Too Tough

Carpentier lost no ground in the eyes of ring followers when defeated by Joe Jeannette, the American negro heavyweight early in 1914. It was to his credit that he twice sent the negro to the mat for counts of nine.

But the war was close at hand and his six-round victory over Gunboat Smith on a foul was his only important battle before the young Frenchman exchanged boxing gloves for an airplane and machine gun. Exhibitions behind the lines composed his entire boxing activities until 1919 when, shortly after being discharged from the service, he knocked out Dick Smith in Paris. Since that time, his battle with Joe Beckett, of England, which he won in a round and that in which he knocked out Battling Levinsky in four rounds at Jersey City, N.J., last summer, have been his only contests of importance. The Levinsky fight is the only one in which Americans have seen Carpentier in formal action on this side of the water. It was a fiasco, so far as a championship test is concerned. The Frenchman will climb through the ropes on July 2 an unknown quantity, so far as the first-hand information of American boxing fans is concerned.

GOVERNMENT REPORT ON FARM CONDITIONS

The following is a summary of of reports made by Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat is now showing a good head, and fair yields are looked for in most sections, although the straw is rather short. Middlesex complains that smut is showing where the seed was untreated.

Spring grains are doing well; some barley and spring wheat are heading out.

Clover is generally regarded as promising only light return. Several representatives report early cutting of the hay crop.

Haldimand describes alsike as being short in straw but having a heavy bloom.

Haldimand also states that more alfalfa seeding has been done this spring than in the last two or three years.

Huron and Haldimand report that sweet clover and alfalfa are giving excellent results in the cutting.

Corn is making rapid growth at present, although much of it was put in late.

Essex says that a considerable acreage of tobacco has been reset on account of the dry weather.

Several representatives speak of the heavy drop of apples during the last three weeks.

Potatoes and roots have been freely planted in Huron during the alst week or two.

York reported mangels to be looking well, and some thining has been done.

The advance in the price of hogs has been the market surprise of the week. Prices quoted at the week-end were from $10.25 to $12 a cwt., compared with $8 to $8.50 in the preceding week. There appears to be a shortage of young pigs, as many farmers have practically gone out of the hog business.

Cattle have not beem doing so well as formerly on pasture, although the milk flow has fallen off but little. Prices on milk are not very encouraging to dairymen, from $1.14 to $1.25 a cwt, being paid at some factories fat at creameries. Butter is selling at 20c. a lb. in Manitoulin.

Cheese ranged in price at the week end at from 14 1-8c. to 16 3-4c. a lb. Lanark claims that more cheese is being made than at the same time last year.

At a recent auction sale in Leeds, ordinary dairy cattle brought only from $25 to $50 each.

The Ontario county representative states that the market for horses is better than it has been for some time.

Prescott and Russell observes that more tramps are to be seen on the rural roads than for some years past, some whom appear to be looking for work.

The following remarks of the Ontario Representative regarding labor conditions fairly describe the general situation:

MUSIC AND DRAMA

TRIPLE FEATURE BILL AT GRIFFIN'S TO-NIGHT

George Walsh, starring in the William Fox production, "The Plunger", which tells a vivid and romantic story of Wall street, will be the attraction at Griffin's for three days beginning to-night. The picture, from an original story by Thomas F. Fallon, was made under the direction of Dell Henderson. It has a most capable cast and is lavish in production. Virginia Valli, often described as the girl with the perfect profile, plays opposite the star.

"The Plunger" concerns the adventures of "Take a Chance" Schuyler, an erstwhile office boy turned millionaire stock broker. It is said that his career as pictured in this production is typical of several cases well-known on the stock exchange. His battle to win Alice Houghton, daughter of a veteran fellow broker who has been made a financial pauper by the clever manipulation of the stock market by a rejected suitor, is the theme of the story.

An added feature of interest to local photoplay fans is the appearance on the same program of Tom Moore in "Darkening Trail" a story abounding with action, romance and comedy, Mack Sennett's latest scream "Made in The Kitchen", vode-vil movies revealing a bill of clever vaudeville talent, Fox News Weekly, and an Outing Chester Travelogue, with such an entertaining program arranged for the week-end, no doubt the popular playhouse will be favored with large patronage.

SOLDIERS' GRAVES OVERSEAS ARE WELL CARED FOR.

Soldiers' graves overseas are cared for by the Imperial Graves Commission, and wherever possible photographs of the graves are supplied relatives on request. Recently circulars have been received in Canada from an individual offering to visit soldiers' graves and perform services for relatives as required for a cash consideration. The Brantford G. W. V. A. took this matter up, with the result that the following report was received from the Imperial War Graves Commission:

> "While it is possible that services of this kind if given in good faith might be valuable, I am at the moment at a loss to imagine what could be done by Mr. Bonniwell along the lines indicated to justify an expenditure of $15. As far as photographs are concerned, these are furnished free of cost through the militia department. It is possible that a date may be fixed after which no further applications for photographs may be received, but as the matter stands at present this service is being carried on and the department has something like 1,500 requests on hand. As far as the condition of graves is concerned this is under the control of the Imperial War Graves Commission.
> "The program for this year includes permanent construction of something like 150 cemeteries, and those cemeteries whose permanent construction cannot be undertaken this year are being tided over and cared for. In many of them, trees, shrubs, etc., are being planted. Reliable information can be obtained regarding the condition of any grave in any cemetery, either from this office (Canadian Agency, I.W.G.C.), or the Department of Militia and Defence.
> "I think it may be taken for granted that no private individual would be allowed to assume any of the duties of the commission with respect to military graves. On the face of it there would appear to be grave danger that money might be paid by relatives for services of little or no value. As you are aware, we are able in special cases to command the services of Capt. Mullineux, of the St. Barnabas Hostels, either for photographs or special reports."

LEMIEUX MUST SHOW PROOF OR SUFFER CONSEQUENCES.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, former postmaster general in the Laurier Government, is one of the Liberal leaders in the House of Commons from Quebec. Mr. Lemieux has a suave manner, a sharp tongue, and considerable taste for the dramatic. He attempts some spectacular stunts in the closing hours of nearly every session. It is of course an easy matter for any member to make wild charges against the Government on the eve of prorogation when there is no likelihood of his being called upon to make his charges good, or hold an investigation.

At the session just closed, Mr. Lemieux again sought to get in the limelight. He was on hand to object to an item in the supplementary estimates with his usual wild charges and vehement declamation. This time, however, he went just one step too far and has got himself into a most embarrassing predicament.

Makes a Reckless Charge.

From vague and general charges, Mr. Lemieux on this occasion came to a concrete charge against the Government, which he will either have to prove or take the consequences. The item in the estimates to which he objected was a vote of $60,000 to pay a judgment rendered against the Quebec Harbor Cimmission in favor of the Park St. Charles Company. With his usual recklessness, Mr. Lemieux charged that the vote was for the purpose of paying a political debt incurred in the recent Yamaska by-election. He claimed there was nothing owing the men composing the Park St. Charles Company by the Quebec harbor commission, but that the Government was handing out to them $60,000 for services rendered by them in Yamaska.

Prime Minister Demands Proof.

No doubt Mr. Lemieux took it for granted that the estimate would go through, and that his sensational charge would find a certain amount of credence in the country. He was certainly shocked when Premier Meighen withdrew the estimate, called upon him to prove his charges and promised that not a dollar would be paid were it found that the charges had any foundation in fact. Mr. Lemieux mumbled about going on with his charges at the next session, but the Prime Minister immediately informed him that "the next session" would not do. The department of justice is accordingly calling upon Mr. Lemieux to make good his charges and week after week he will be called upon to produce his evidence.

Charges Have No Foundation.

The facts are that the judgment referred to was rendered by the Supreme Court of Canada in June, 1921, but the litigation leading up to that judgment began many years ago—long before there was any thought of a by-election in Yamaska. The Quebec harbor commission expropriated certain lands in the St. Charles River for harbor purposes, and the arbitration which followed resulted in the Park St. Charles Company, the owner of the lands, being awarded $60,000. This award was confirmed by the Superior Court of Quebec, and subsequently by the Court of Appeals. The Government then carried the case to the Supreme Court of Canada, where its interests were looked after by Mr. Eugene Lafleur, K.C., the leader of the Quebec bar. The Supreme Court affirmed the judgment of the courts below, and upon the advice of Mr. Lafleur the Government did not appeal the case to the Imperial privy council. To make good Mr. Lemieux's charges he would have to infer that the arbitrators, and all the judges of the Superior Court and the Court of Appeal of Quebec, and the judges of the Supreme Court of Canada entered into a conspiracy to defraud the Government, and that in some way they knew years before it occurred that there was going to be a by-election in Yamaska.

A referendum of editors of the United States reveals the fact that the vast majority of them disapprove of the movement to prohibit the use of tobacco. The editors sure do like their smokes, and Old King Corncob is in no immediate danger of being dethroned.

The Poets' Corner

THE MATCH BOX

I am a boat upon a choppy sea,
My shortened sail still bellies to the wind
I have a hundred tars aboard of me,
My holds are full of whispered mystery,
I carry hidden guns of deadliest kind,

Sealed orders has my captain—whither bound
Only the Emperor who sealed 'em knows,
The waters hereabout in rocks abound,
And storms are frequent; I may run aground,
Little my captain cares what weather blows .

Before my launching—not so long before—
A surly owner cast me empty down
And pocketed his reeky pipe and swore,
But urchins roving on the river shore
Found me and rigged and launched me as their own.

Twice have I been submerged, once overset;
The urchins hailed down stones and righted me.
Till one of them fell in, and all got wet,
And they in terror of the scold they'd get
Went off and left me to the open sea.

I am a match box on a river now,
A spent match is my mast, a leaf my sail,
The sport of all the veering gusts that blow,
Had I once gold and spiceries below?
Or was it all a sweet and idle tale?

MARRIAGES

WILKINSON—LIVINGSTONE — In New York on June 18, 1921, at four-thirty o'clock, by the Reverend Homer Francis Taylor, rector of St. Paul's Church, Washington Ave., Jesse Howard, son of the late J. H. Wilkinson and Mrs. Wilkinson, of New York city, to Mary Monica Sisson Cooper Livingstone, daughter of Mrs. Charles Schmals of Vancouver, granddaughter of the late E. J. Sisson, Belleville, Ont. It

CLOSING MEETING

The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held on Tuesday June 21st, presided over by Mrs. Gibson. An interesting program was given. The Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. O'Flynn after which the business of the meeting was taken up. A letter was read from a relief worker telling of the terrible conditions in Armenia and imploring aid for the thousands of starving children in that country. It was decided to hold verandah teas, all over the city during the first week of July to raise money for the help of these little children.

Attention was also drawn to the Rummage Sale to be held early in October. Mesdames Farley and Cole, delegates to the recent County Convention held at Camden East, were then asked to give report on the same. The keynote of the convention was prayer and service. All members were urged to bear in mind the noon tide prayer. All departments showed excellent work done and the Superintendents were encourage to strive for greater results. The necessity of moral education and scientific temperance teaching, to the children was emphasized. Mrs. Millar, Napanee gave a practical talk and demonstration on essences, patent medicines and soft drinks which was very enlightening. A Quizz was conducted by Miss Anderson on the founding of the W.C.T. U. which was most instructive. It was thought well to impress on all unions the necessity for all Traveller's Aid Superintendents to co-operate with the Provincial Superintendent in the safe-gaurding of our young people One of the Resolutions brought in was that we urge our W.C.T.U. as a body to press for a stricter enforcement regarding the censorship of the character of the moving pictures that they may be used to elevate instead of lowering the moral tone of our youth. The meeting was closed with a prayer by the President.

THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM

Happily Stopped When He Began To Take "Fruit-a-tives"

3 Ottawa St., Hull, P. Q.

"For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief and thought I would never be able to walk again.

One day while lying in bed, I read about "Fruit-a-tives" the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me."

VICTIM KNOWN HERE

Lyal Anthony Hodgins who met a watery grave at Hamilton on Sunday last was known to many in Belleville where for many years he was teller in the Merchants bank here. Last October the unfortunate victim was removed from here to the Delta branch of the Merchants bank. Deceased was 24 years of age and unmarried. He was a deservedly popular young man and whilst here roomed on Front street. On Sunday afternoon he was bathing in the surf off Hamilton Bay when he was drowned owing to the heavy seas. The body was recovered about 15 yards from shore but all efforts to resuscitate him proved fruitless. The body has been sent to his mother's home at Thawville, Quebec.

At the village of Cannifton, Wednesday evening, a garden party was held at the home of Mr. Timothy Farnham, which was a decided success. Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank here, gave a brief but appropriate address, as did others who were present. The varied program presented was of an enjoyable nature.

The Martial Spirit

K.P.—Boys from the toddle stage up to the time when knee pants are left behind forever, usually have soldiering as their chief ambition. On Monday morning as the 34th Battery were en route to their camping grounds in Ponton's Field, numbers of small boys toddled alongside or behind them, fondly imagining themselves as grown up soldiers too.

Price of Strawberries

S. B.—I have noticed that the price of strawberries in the local fruit stores and groceries has remained up to 18c. never going lower as yet. In Norwich, a small village, prices were by the crate, 5c. per box if the boxes were returned. The standing price, however, was 10c. per box. Are the local residents going to keep on paying such enormous prices, we wonder.

Joys of Youth

F. B.—On crossing the footbridge, a few days ago I noticed three small boys, eyes glued on the water beneath them. My curiosity was aroused so I stepped up a little closer and behold—the lad in the middle was fishing with a few yards of string, and as I didn't see them bring the line up out of the water, I didn't know if a regular hook or a twisted pin adorned the end of this line. However, the boys were having as much sport as if they were the possessors of the most expensive fishing tackle going. Which goes to show the joys of life are not confined to those rich in earthly goods.

War-Time Recalled

O.S.—Passing down our main street one morning recently, I noticed, opposite me, an officer in Khaki uniform, of course, he belonged to the 34th Battery, which is in camp near the city. The sight of the uniform in these days of quiet, however, brought back the memory of days a few years ago, when the very air seemed tense with the fear of the unknown. Never knowing when the name of one dear to our hearts mights appear in the list of those gone forever from earthly cares, it also makes one realize how much those returned from the great struggle should receive from the general public in recognition of their sacrifices on the field of battle.

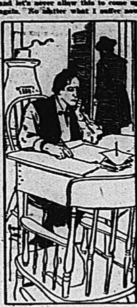
George Buckley's face hardened as if under a sudden reflection. "In all your hopes for me, Mr. Hillyer," he said, "don't forget that I am the son of a Georgia convict. Remember that, and don't be too ambitious for me. I was stupid and blind to allow myself to—to become her—friend under the circumstances. I ought simply never to have entered that house. But—now listen, and let's never allow this to come up again. No matter what I suffer now or am to suffer in the future, I shall never, never be sorry I knew her. You say women are all alike. I can never agree with you, but even if she becomes his wife, and is proud in a way to bear his name, there will still be something, sir, behind—something that I have almost seen and grasped—something, Mr. Hillyer, that came up in her eyes once, only once, and then darted away as if frightened at the fear of the world's opinion. But, my God, Mr. Hillyer, for one second it was mine, and I have lived on it ever since and shall take its wonderful warmth to my grave."



Hanks sauntered away.

"Oh, George, you scare me!" gasped the merchant. "I didn't know you could"—

"Let's drop the subject forever," Buckley broke in suddenly. "You've confided in me; I have in you. God knows you have hope; I have none—none at all!"

CHAPTER XIV.

A STRONG man is to be pitied who deliberately shuns being thrown into contrast with a rival more fortunate in the estimation of the world. George was like a sensitive, high spirited dwarf trying to avoid seeing tall men. The whole town was going to hear the governor's address the next Sunday; the whole town was talking of his admiration for the belle of the place. For the remainder of the week George was uncertain what he should do, but when the eventful morning arrived he went to a livery stable, engaged a horse and buggy and drove out to his mother's. He might have chosen better, for the sordid surroundings of the farmhouse, which had never seemed like home to him in the highest sense, only made him feel more depressed.

"The Lord knows I'm astonished to see you," Mrs. Buckley said as she came to the door wiping her fat hands on her apron. "Why, all the settlement, it seems to me, has gone in town to see the governor, but somehow I didn't care to go. I'm too old to ride ten miles in a joltin' wagon to see jest a man. How do you come on?"

"I feel all right," George replied. "I didn't care to hear the speech."

"You say you didn't?" Mrs. Buckley's heavy brows ran together. She stood for a moment eying her son with sympathetic fixity. She had heard the rumor of the governor's attentions to Lydia Cranston. They were now in the sitting room, and he stood warming himself before the fire.

"Oh, George," she suddenly got out, "I wish you'd let me talk to you an' not git mad."

"Mad? Why, mother," he exclaimed, "how could I get mad at you?"

The old woman sat down in her low chair in the chimney corner. "You are my boy," she said, a tremor in her gentle voice, "an' some things hurt—cut me to the quick. Oh, George, I wish you would sort o' be content with common folks like we all are. You are as good, every bit an' grain, as that Virginia gal, but somehow she's situated different. Now, fer instance, they say she's got a chance, an' a good one, to marry the governor."

"I think she has," George said coldly, his lips tightening, "but what of that, mother?"

"Oh, it nearly kills me to have folks think you—you want to get some'n' an' cayn't," replied the old woman plaintively. "An', George, as things go in this world, Lydia Cranston will have to take that offer. She cayn't git around it. Gals kin have the'r choice, an'—mind you, I don't know a thing—she may, down in her heart, like you the best on account o' you bein' younger an' better lookin', but folks in her walk o' life, I reckon, have to sorter look to the future. Her folks will make her, ef she draws back. George, I—I hope you don't feel bad about it."

"Mother, I'm all right." He sat down before the fire. He looked out through the small paned window upon a wide stretch of cotton land where he had toiled through his boyhood. (To the

Enjoyable Outing Star Dancing Class

MEMBERS TAKEN TO MASSASSAGA PARK WHERE PROGRAM OF SPORTS WAS HELD

The Star Dancing Class Committee on Wednesday, showed their ability to provide an enjoyable afternoon's outing. Over 100 members of the class were in attendance out of the 140 invitations issued, thus showing than any event arranged the members are anxious to participate in. The party was conveyed to Massassaga Park in 22 private automobiles, where Mr. Day, the genial lessee of the hotel extended to the party a most hearty welcome. The day was ideal and the sports numerous, which consisted of baseball for both ladies and gentlemen, which was enjoyed to the full by everyone, and other games.

The following is a list of the sports which were nearly all original:

Ladies' 60 feet Hoop Race—Won by Mrs. G. Dobbs, time 10 seconds flat.

Gentlemen's Hurdle Race—Won by Mr. H. Pringle; highest hurdle being 9 feet.

Ladies' Hurdle Race—Won by Mrs. Walter Allen.

Ladies' Walking Race—Won by Mrs. C. A. Babcock.

Circle Race—Won by Mrs. G. Cornish.

Sting-Dowell Race—Won by Mrs. Clara Sears.

Children's Races—Won by Miss Wilson, Maurice Pringle and Master Reg. Pringle.

The following ladies comprised the winning tug-o'-war team, which was captained by Mrs. George Wallbridge: Mrs. A. R. Symons, Mrs. J. White, Mrs. Walter Allen, Mrs. Geo. Cornish, Mrs. H. E. Fairfield, Miss L. Corbett, Miss Helen Blair, Mrs. Clara Sears. Great interest was taken in this event so much so, that the time allowed, 2 minutes, for pulling had expired, both teams being at a deadlock when suddenly the 3-4 in. rope parted exactly in the centre—Some spill! It shows what pull the ladies of the Star Dancing Class have.

The Gentlemen's Tug-o'-War teams, captained by Dr. Tower and Mr. H. E. Fairfield, created great enthusiasm, requiring full time to obtain a decision, there being a win and a draw. The following composed the winning team: Messrs. A. R. Symons, R. H. Ketcheson, Geo. Wallbridge, H. E. Fairfield and Davidson, Kirby and Bowyer.

The lighter team won, the opposing team all being heavy weights, their anchor man alone weighing 265 lbs.

At the conclusion of the sports the ladies set table for supper, where everything a lady could cook was provided, over 100 sitting down. The supper was great! After supper the ladies challenged the gentlemen to a five-innings baseball game. The ladies won out by their superior batting and base-stealing, a number of home runs were made, Mr. Charles Jeffery, who used the 1885 rules was seated behind the bat and umpired in a very impartial manner, Mr. Wm. Rogers acted as base umpire, but his decision were not satisfactory to the ladies and on several occasions was in danger of being mobbed by the ladies and thrown into the bay, he wanting to use sailing rules.

At the conclusion of the ball game, the beautiful and useful prizes were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Burton Asselstine, being very much appreciated by the winners.

Dancing started in the pavilion at 8 o'clock, the music being furnished by the Sills' Orchestra. At 11 o'clock the party broke up, claiming the outing the most enjoyable ever spent, thus adding one more notch to the already happy events, arranged by the Star Dancing Class.

Everything was complimentary even to the Bay Bridge toll being paid by the committee.

The driver of a dynamite wagon, named Fortin was blown to fragments with his horse and vehicle, when the rig was struck by a train at St. Germain, Drummond Co., Que.

Famous Flyer Says Canada Lags Behind

MAJ. BALLARD WANTS TO KNOW WHAT CANADA IS DOING WITH BODY OF TRAINED PILOTS

Toronto, June 23.—Major F. M. Ballard of the R.F.C. is in Toronto for a few days, on his way to Dallas, Texas, where he has business connected with air traffic. He will be remembered by Canadian flying men as the officer who opened up Camp Borden in the winter of 1917, and his record as an airman extends from 1910.

Major Ballard also opened up Deseronto camp, and organized the aerial gunnery and air fighting work in Texas, where many Canadian flying men were trained. He organized the flying camp at Beamsville and remained in command there until he applied to be sent overseas.

"I am rather surprised that you haven't taken up commercial aviation in Canada. You have the pick of the world's pilots," he said, when interviewed last night. In this he thought Canada was lagging far behind most of the other countries and that this was peculiarly strange when the number of superbly trained pilots in the Dominion was considered.

While stating that his visit was unofficial, and that he came here from England to rest up, Major Ballard will confer with some of the foremost airmen of the country, and will also inspect the work done since demobilization in the effort to build up an air force in connection with the Canadian forces. He will very probably visit Camp Borden within the next day or so.

"I may stay here two or three weeks before going to Texas," said Major Ballard. "Of course, I will see the flying men both here and in Texas but I am not here in an official capacity."

Major Ballard passed through more than 2,000 Canadian pilots and cadets, and also the first 300 American flying men to go overseas. He served in France for more than two years.

General Strike in Britain Not Probable

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

London, June 24.—As the Labor Conference has expressed much sympathy with the striking miners but has offered nothing more tangible in the way of support, doubts are now expressed that there will be a conferece of all unions to discuss the advisability of calling a general strike. Two important unions have refused invitations to the conference and others have not been invited. Government restrictions on account of the strike are being extended. Coke is the latest commodity to be affected.

It is reported that the loss of the railways through the strike is about six milliom pounds monthly. The government will be called upon to provide twenty millions to cover liabilities of the railways, which includes nine million through the coal the way of support, doubtless are now shortage.

Rotarians Dined By London Club

LORD RIDDELL PROPOSES TOAST TO INTERNATIONAL ROTARY

London June 23.—Among the thousands gathered at the banquet of the London Rotary Club were many Canadian and United States Rotarians. A. J. Balfour, Lord President of the Council, who was expected to speak, was detained by a debate in the House of Commons, and sent a message of regret. Congratulatory messages were received from the Prince of Wales, the Prime Minister and the United States ambassador, Mr. Harvey.

Lord Riddell, in giving a toast to the International Rotary Association, said that every decent-minded man and woman should strive for avoidance of wars and international misunderstanding.

The delegates who attended the Glasgow convention were officially received by the Lord Mayor of London and corporation officials at Guild Hall here to-day. The mayor warmly welcomed the visitors, and a reply was made by Ralph Cummings, of Lancaster, Pa., first international vice-president.

ARE CENSUS TAKERS REGULAR GOSSIPS?

Montreal, June 22.—As spreaders of information the census takers are apparently rivalling the town gossips in some of the country districts, it is alleged. One irate party related his experience with the census enumerator today. It appears that the enumerator in his town speaks no English, while most of the people from whom he gathers statistics do not speak French. Suspecting that the man was showing the returns he decided to test him. Accordingly when the enumerator came to his house, he said: "I don't understand this—let me see the sheet myself." Instead of handing him a blank sheet the enumerator handed over a sheet half filled with information regarding the villager's neighbors, although the census taker is obliged to swear that all the facts he gains will be kept secret.

Troop Train Wrecked by Sinn-Feiners

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Belfast, June 24.—A troop train conveying soldiers from Belfast to Dublin was wrecked today at Abertoyle, near Dundalk by the explosion of a Sinn Fein land mine. Two soldiers and one of the train guards were killed and many others were wounded.

Two special trains with soldiers and horses who had participated in the reception of King George and Queen Mary at Belfast had passed over the spot safely. The third train was wrecked at a steep embankment when the mine exploded, most of the carriages falling over the embankment. Physicians were immediately rushed to the scene.

De Valera was arrested and then released by order from Lloyd George.

THE RIDERS OF THE PLAINS.

The battle of the Little Big Horn is to be re-enacted on the forty-fifth anniversary of the Custer Massacre, June 25, 1876, with United States cavalrymen and members of the American Legion taking the part of General Custer's ill-fated forces and Cheyenne and Crow Indians representing the attacking Sioux.

The anniversary of this tragic annihilation of Custer's command recalls the part subsequently taken by Canada in the surrender of Sitting Bull, the redoubtable Sioux warrior who led in the massacre and who ed the enraged vengeance of the United States by crossing with his braves into Canadian territory.

Major Walsh, of Brockville, was at that time an inspector in the Northwest Mounted Police stationed in the hills close to the American boundary where Bull crossed. With a single orderly he rode into Bull's camp of 2,000 lodges fresh from the slaughter and ordered the famous Indian chief to his stirrup at once. When he came Major Walsh told him that he was now in the Queen's country and that any misconduct would be visited with condign punishment. The Sioux chief replied humbly that he wanted peace.

But Uncle Sam wanted him and sent a general and staff to try and induce him to return. Sitting Bull refused to even parley with them, and at the pow-wow would address no one but Major Walsh, who finally induced him to return across the border, where he was promptly immured in a United States fort.

The daring invasion of Bull's armed camp by the little major who commanded him peremptorily to behave, was a splendid example of intrepidity and worthy of the reputation of the men who wore the scarlet tunic. The outcome relieved the Ottawa Government of a nasty situation.—Montreal Herald.

Fruit Committee Looks For Action

BUT GOVERNMENT IS CANNY ABOUT EMBARKING ON COLD STORAGE SCHEME

Toronto, June 23.—The hope of the special fruit committee of the Legislature of getting Government co-operation in the establishment of two or three small cold storage warehouses next Fall to demonstrate what can be done in the handling of fruit by proper pre-cooling has not been realized so far. The matter, it is stated, has been placed before the Government, but Hon. Mr. Doherty, while sympathetic, is disposed to be cautious. Meanwhile, time is flying and the members of the committee are getting anxious. Yesterday the committee met to hear the views of a number of well-known apple growers and exporters and gathered a good deal of valuable information upon the questions of packing and cold storage.

If the Ontario Government at a later date should give its support to the establishment of a system of cold storage plants it is likely that the plan adopted will follow the general lines of the system in New York State where small plants are located short distances apart. The system was explained to the committee by T. Marshall, M.P.P., of Lincoln, one of the sub-committee that made a personal investigation in New York. Mr. Marshall emphasized the importance of pre-cooling of apples before they were packed. Much of the discussion had to do with the relative merits of boxing and barrelling. Several growers were firmly of the opinion that only by careful grading and boxing with proper cold storage could Ontario apples compete in the markets with the showy fruit from British Columbia and Oregon. On the other hand, R. J. Graham, of Belleville, a big apple exporter, favored barrelling. He admitted the advantages of boxing and grading as to size and color in marketing apples, but maintained that conditions in Ontario did not lend themselves to it in a large way. Ontario apples were made up of so many varieties that grading was an almost impossible task. Even where graders were installed they had not been a great success. The thin-skinned Ontario apples suffered damage in the grader where thick-skinned British Columbia fruit escaped. W. G. Gibson of the Newcastle Fruit Growers' Association, and a big apple grower, said that until last year boxing had given better returns than barrelling, but that last Fall the apples had been so big that, when sold in boxes, they did not sell as well as those in barrels. Mr. Gibson was convinced that a cold storage plant would be of great benefit to the growers in carying over the early varieties that could not be kept in air-cooled storage, but he was not prepared to say offhand that it would receive enough support from the growers to make it pay.

Mr. Graham, who operates a big cold storage plant, informed Hon. Mr. Doherty that it would probably cost about $20,000 to $25,000 to equip a building as a cold storage plant. The upkeep cost would amount to between $4,000 and $5,000. This would provide a 10,000 barrell plant. His experience was that many plants failed to pay their way in handling fruit alone.

W. J. Bragg, chairman of the committee, and W. T. R. Preston, who is assisting it, reported the result of the call made upon President Hanna of the C.N.R. The railways head promised co-operation in shipments both by rail to the West and by Canadian marine to Europe. According to Mr. Preston, President Hanna expressed the opinion that there was a market for two thousand carloads of Ontario apples in the Prairie Provinces. He offered to assist in every way in transporting and marketing Ontario fruit.

An interested visitor at the meeting was Sir William Mulock. Sir William is the owner of a big apple orchard and was present to gain a few pointers as a grower upon methods of cold storage.

Chautauqua Opens With Large Attendance

SPLENDID PROGRAMS AT OPENING SESSIONS OF DOMINION CHAUTAUQUA AT BELLEVILLE ARMORIES — GREAT INTEREST BEING TAKEN IN SIX DAYS PROGRAM OF HIGH CLASS ENTERTAINMENT — OPENING PROGRAM CONSISTS OF MUSIC AND HONOR.

Called the Travelling University of the common people, Chautauqua brings to a community a program so varied that there is something to instruct and entertain everyone. So popular have these summer entertaining features become that the Chautauqua idea has spread all over the United States and Canada and overflowed even into Australia. Last summer Belleville had its first Chautauqua, brought here under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, and so popular was the experiment that arrangements were made to repeat this season. Generally Chautauqua is held in a large tent in the open but it was found possible to secure the Armouries this season and accordingly the program opened there Thursday afternoon. This commodious building lends itself admirably to the purpose and a tent atmosphere is given by long strips of canvas stretching from the back of the platform to the roof.

Not the least enjoyable feature of the Chautauqua is the Junior Chautauqua sessions which begin every morning at nine o'clock under the direction of a young lady who instructs the children in games, singing, etc. On Saturday morning the Junior Chautauquans will have a picnic in Victoria Park which promises to be unique and joyful.

The opening program Thursday was featured by concerts by the Zedeler Symphonic Quintette, high class musical artists, and Herbert Leon Cope, in his humorous lecture, "Family Remedies," a very appetising prelude to the good things to follow. A very large audience was present in the evening and thoroughly enjoyed every moment of the excellent program.

Opening Session

Mr. D. V. Sinclair in a few well-chosen remarks opened the Chautauqua Week in this city on Thursday afternoon. He hoped that in time Chautauqua would become so well and favorably known here that all that would be necessary would be to announce Chautauqua was coming, and the result would be a crowded house for each and every performance.

Mr. Eston, Superintendent of Chautauqua was then introduced by Mr. Sinclair. His remarks were brief but to the point, being in part that he was confident in the ultimate success of Chautauqua and he felt their program this season was the best ever. The Zedeler Symphonic Quintette was introduced by Mr. Eston and the program started at 3-15. The first number was a lively march which won deserved applause. The second number was an overture "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelsshon. This number is an old favorite of Belleville music loyers and was exceptionally well rendered. The next selection was from the old, but ever new "Il Trevatoire," needless to say the audience was delighted with this favorite, and showed by the generous applause their appreciation. A trio, two violins and 'cello, followed with that age-old favorite "Annie Laurie" with variations. This number, while the piece is very old, was rendered in a perfect manner, those taking part showing a complete mastery of their different instruments and a wide knowledge in the field of music. Next on the program was a vocal solo by Miss Elsie Portune, who possesses a soprano voice of wonderful range and sweet quality, entitled "Love's Music" an aria from "La Tosca". An encore was demanded and graciously given. Mr. Kauff gave a violin solo, accompanied by piano of "Russian Airs". Mr. Kauff is a most accomplished violinist, and his playing was superb. An encore was granted the audience, "The Rosary" being the choice of the musician. Next was "Dance of the Hours" by the quintette, portraying through music, the different hours of the day from dawn till dark. This number was lovely and received much applause. Miss Portune then gave another vocal solo "The Star" which was received with a demand for more so, as an encore, Miss Portune sang "All on a Summer's Day" that well-known humorous selection. An Overture "Poet and Peasant" brought the entertainment to an end, everyone feeling they had received splendid value for their money.

The crowd which greeted the opening performance of Chautauqua was fair, but not the crowd which the performance merited, this no doubt was due to the excessive heat which detained many who otherwise would have been present.

Thursday Evening

All doubts as to the success of the Chautauqua engagement were set at rest by the alrge audience which completely filled the large auditorium of the armouries Tuesday evening, and the enthusiastic reception given the various numbers on the program which were distinctly high class and very entertaining. The Zedeler Symphonic Quintette gave a very fine program of classical music, their interpretive numbers being especially pleasing. Herbert Leon Cope, said to be the "funniest man since Bill Nye" gave his humorous lecture entitled "Family Remedies", and injected much homely philosophy into his recital of the many funny incidents which illume life's pathway.

Superintendent Eston announced that the programs would begin sharp at three and eight o'clock and asked all patrons to be on time. He also gave a brief review of the origin and growth of Chautauqua and its great popularity and benefit. The members of the Chautauqua staff were then introduced, consisting mostly of college students, filling in vacation time in a profitable manner.

Soviet Russia is Pushing East

Riga, Latvia, June 24.—Recent arrivals from Moscow declare that the world little realizes how closely Soviet Russia is pushing its friendship with the Near East.

In Moscow now the Turkish legation occupies one of the most sumptuous of the old palaces and the personnel, garbed in faultless European clothes, present a strange contrast to the poorly garbed Muscovites. The Afghans and other Near Eastern delegations also occupy luxurious quarters, give elaborate banquets and otherwise carry on with all the pomp of the old Eastern courts.

Members of Lenine's government are frequently guests of these affairs and entertain the legation personnels equally lavishly in return.

Besides this, Lenine has so accommodated himself to the psychology of the East that he now exchanges presents with the rulers of Turkey, Persia, etc., as did the rulers of ancient days.

A Moscow despatch reads like a paragraph from what might have been an ancient tablet of hieroglyphics describing the visit of a Babylonian envoy to King Cyrus of Persia. It says: "The representative of the Soviet government has made his first official visit to the Shah of Persia, presenting to the Shah on a golden salver an album with photographs of Soviet leaders of the wrole of Russia as a personal present to the Shah from Lenine."

A man who recently arrived from Moscow said: "Few persons realize what a close connection now exists between Russia and its old enemy, Turkey, and for that matter all of the Near East. Lenine is accomplishing here what the old Russian government could not do by playing up to Eastern psychology.

"The so-called Bolshevism in these Eastern countries is nothing at all like the Bolshevism of Moscow but in each case the Russian agitators have a distinct brand of propaganda designed to dovetail with ancient customs of the country in question. For instance, in regions where the trade in bazaars is a century old custom, no agitation against free trade has been made."

DRIVER BLOWN TO ATOMS; TRAIN HITS DYNAMITE LOAD

Representative of Canada at Washington

By Grattan O'Leary)
(Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press.)

London, June 23.—To-day's sittings of the Conference of Prime Ministers were chiefly taken up with statements by representatives of the various Dominions. The speeches were of a preliminary and general character, and were guarded in their references to matters over which there is likely to be controversy, the speakers preferring to reserve more specific observations and statements of policy until the subjects on the agenda come up for consideration.

That the Conference is not likely to degenerate into a mere casual and academic debate with the social side predominating is evidenced by the fact that two sittings were held today, the afternoon session lasting well on to 6 o'clock. The most important event of the latter sitting was a statement by Premier Meighen on Canada's decision to have a Canadian Minister in Washington.

Need for Canadian Minister

While the official report of his speech this afternoon is not yet available, it is understood that Premier Meighen's remarks followed the general line of his speech on this subject in the Canadain House of Commone last session. He told the Conference that this action by the Dominion of Canada is, first of all, based on the need for a purely Canadian representative at the American Capital with a more intimate understanding of Canadian problems and with a greater capacity for transacting business with more rapidity than is the case at present, this having become essential owing to the ever-increasing business relations between the two countries. Moreover, he believed that, in addition to the advantages to be obtained in a business way, the presence of a Canadian representative at Washington would be a step toward fulfilling Canada's mission of acting as the bridge which should lead to a greater friendship and better understanding between the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon people.

Feared Loss of Diplomatic Unity

Premier Meighen's statement, the Canadian Press is informed, was heard by the delegates with profound interest and satisfaction. There is no disguising the fact that, notwithstanding statements by Lloyd George and others, the idea of a Canadian Minister to the United States has had a somewhat disquieting effect in official circles here. It was not that objection was taken, so far as Canada is concerned, or that it was feared that it was a step in the direction of Empire disintegration.

What troubled British statesmen, it is said, was that the example of Canada might well be followed by South Africa, Australia and New Zealand, and that the presence of so many British Empire Ministers in a single Capital might conceivably lead to differences of opinion and be productive of disturbing consequences and would also have the effect of destroying the appearance of the diplomatic unity of the Empire in the eyes of the world.

Therefore the important and full statement of the Canadian case placed before the Conference and the British people by Premier Meighen will go a long way toward clearing up misunderstanding.

Anglo-Japanese Treaty Not Objectionable

Great Britain and Japan first entered into alliance in 1902. The treaty signed in that year resulted from the joint action of Russia, France and Germany in depriving Japan of most of the fruits of her victory over China in the war of 1894-95 and from the subsequent Russian exploitations in the Far East. It bound the contracting powers to maintain the status quo and general peace in the extreme East and especially to maintain the independence and territorial integrity of Corea. In case either should, in defense of its interests, become involved in a war with a third power, the other was to maintain strict neutrality and to endeavor to prevent other powers from joining in hostilities against its ally. In case of attack by other powers the neutral ally would be obliged to enter the war.

Under this agreement Great Britain remained neutral in the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-05. On August 12, 1905, while the peace conferences were still in session at Portsmouth, the alliance was renewed. It was broadened so as to apply to India. The neutrality provision was eliminated. Article 2 stipulated that "if, by reason of unprovoked or aggressive action, wherever arising on the part of any other power or powers, either contracting party shall be involved in war in defense of its territorial rights or special interests mentioned in the preamble (i.e., in the regions of eastern Asia and India), the other contracting party will at once come to the assistance of it's ally."

The treaty is thus defensive in character and leave it open to the ally not first involved in the war, to decide whether the war was or was not due to unprovoked and aggressive action on the part of an outside belligerent. Italy exercised a similar judgment in 1914 under the terms of her defensive alliance with Germany and Austria-Hungary. The revised treaty also recognized Japan's paramount rights in Corea.

On June, 13, 1911, the alliance was again renewed for a term of ten years. It was then modified by the insertion of this clause: "Should either high contracting party conclude a treaty of general arbitration with a third power, it is agreed that nothing in this agreement shall entail upon such contracting party an obligation to go to war with the power with whom such treaty of arbitration is in force."

Fort Norman Trail Marked With Tragedies

SEVERAL DROWNING ACCIDENTS—TWO BROTHERS NAMED BAYES WERE DROWNED WHEN CANOE UPSET—MAN NAMED WIGGINS ALSO DROWNED—PERILS OF JOURNEY TO NEW OIL FIELDS—BAYES BROTHERS MARRIED MEN.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

PEACE RIVER, Alta., June 24.—The long journey to the Fort Norman oil fields has at last begun to take its toll of human life, according to reports just received by passengers connected with lower river boats at the "chutes", and are very meagre in detail. Three Bayes brothers left here about April 20th last bound for Fort Norman via Vermillion and the upper Hay River. As far as can be learned two of the brothers were drowned, while the third succeeded in making the shore clinging to the upturned canoe. Further rumors are to the effect that a man accompanying them was drowned. The two brothers were married men and left their families at Carcajoul.

The news also comes of the drowning between Fort Vermillion and the "chutes" of a man named Wiggins, who, with three others, were floating down stream to their camp at Spruce Point.

The program opened with a concert by the Zedeler Smphony Quintette which was very enjoyable, consiting of instrumental selections and vocal solos.

"Family Remedies"

Man is the only animal that can laugh said Herbert Leon Cope, in beginning his humorous lecture entitled "Family Remedies", and God surely enjoys a joke or some of us in this crowd would never have been created. It is the stumbles, blunders and mistakes of humanity which makes the fun of life, said the speaker, who claimed that it was well that this should be so and made life more worth living. Some people enjoy being miserable and live in the past and the future but if we would sum up our experiences we would find that the things we worried over most never happened. Churches used to be built out in the graveyards and the hall mark of religiou was supposed to be a long face, but this order of things has passed away and now the smile is the sign of a santified individual. The mule carries the longest face of any creature and yet is not supposed to be unduly religious. Laughter is healthy and means something for good. Tears and temper cause sorrow and trouble, and the warden of the Michigan State Penitentiary told the speaker that the majority of the cases of murder coming under his observation came from temper without previous criminal tendencies.

Real sorrow is a part of life and can not be prevented but there is a species of pessimism called "blues" which can be chased away by proper application of humor and laughter, don't count your crosses but count your blessings, one by one, and you will be singing all the time said the speaker, who in many apt and laughter compelling anecdotes illustrated his various points in showing how it was possible to get all the fun possible out of life, particularly in the home, cultivating the gentle art of being kind.

Many spoke of the "good old times" but nothing in the past equals the advantages of to-day, and the seven wonders of the world have been eclipsed by seven thousand greater wonders in this age of wonders in which it is good to live. Electric lights, tele phones, automobiles, telegraphs, wireless, transportation on land, sea and sky, and the many conveniences of the home, and community, filled the world with blessings unknown and un dreamed of by the pioneers.

Real happiness comes from within and the greatest thing in life is Love, said the speaker, who said that God could think of no better word to describe Himself than as Love. Carry your laughter home, radiate joy and good-fellowship and good living. God forgets all your yesterdays and everyone else will, cut out the unkind and the unprofitable things and seek to make the world better and happier with the greatest tonic of the ages, joy and laughter.

Continuous laughter and applause marked the rapid fire recital of Mr. Cope, who certainly has the happy knack of presenting the bright side of life, and the audience never wearied for a moment, although his talk was somewhat lengthy.

The session closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

George Walsh Picture is "There"

WALL ST. PICTURE WITH GEORGE WALSH IS A HIT—PLENTY OF ACTION ALL THROUGH

"The Plunger" a William Fox picture starring George Walsh, demonstrated at Griffin's last night why reviewers and critics have been so kind to it and said so many nice things about it. To use an expression of modern parlance, the picture" is three". It is interesting, admirably acted and is crowded with rapid-fire action. The photography and support-players are conspicously good.

Walsh has as dainty and pretty a little woman in the leading person of Virginia Valli as one would wish to see. Miss Valli is a winsome actress whom nature endowed with the rare gift known as a perfect profile. She uses her beauty and her ability to great advantage in this picture.

Tom Moore appears on the same program in a story crowded with mystery and suspense, "The Secret Room", a highly amusing 2 reel Mack Sennett comedy "Made in the Kitchen", Vode-vil Movies revealing a splendid array of Vaudeville talent, and Fox News weekly with its gist of important news events gathered the world over completes an entertaining bill of screen entertainment. This program will be shown again tonight, and Saturday, matinee and night.

WILLIAM STEPHENSON DIES AT NORTH BAY

Toronto, June 22.—Word was received in the city to-day of the reath of Inspector Wm. Stephenson, of the Mother's Pension Board, at North Bay after a brief illness.

Mr. Stephenson, whose home is at 129 Alcorn avenue, was one of the most popular leaders in the local labor movement for a number of years and last year prior to his appointment with the Mothers' Pension Board, was vice-president of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council and a member of the Independent Labor party, of which he was one of the founders.

Mr. Stephenson was a veteran of the South African war and enlisted for service at the outbreak of the Great War but was unable to go overseas owing to physical disability. He was a member of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association.

WHAT DID YOU SEE?

Every day something out of the ordinary is sen by somebody. Let us hear about it, Phone 36, or write The Intelligencer.

The First Steps

E. J. F.—I was sadly surprised to see what I took to be father, mother and young son, (about six years old), standing at a hotel bar drinking. The first steps for the little one—where will they lead? I know a mother's love and the past has taught me this much "It pays to set a good example.' Is our influence for good or evil?

The Baby Show

A.D.—I see that they were all girls who were chosen by the judges. Surely there were several fine boys among the crowd. One in particulas I noticed, whom I hear is a twin baby weighing 24 pounds. Surely that should have been considered? A mother could hardly belittle her boy with fine laces and ribbons, but such an item seems of importance to the judges. "Fine feathers make fine birds". One cannot help wondering how they would compare in nature's garments.

Robin or Raven

F.L.—A G.T.R. engineer living at Brockville tells a story of a robin bringing a dollar bill in its beak and depositing it on the lawn while he was sitting on the verandah. He accepted the dollar in the spirit in which it was given and didn't consider he was a robin anybody. Considering the attempt being made to reduce railway wages the robin incident may be another case of the ravens feeding the prophet.

Mother Love

B.B.—A baby blackbird perched on the steps of the Montreal Bank, while an agitated mother bird hovered near by. A citizen passed by close to the fledgling and the mother in great alarm flew so close to the pedestrian that her wings brushed his neck, and the incident looked for all the world as if the mother bird was trying to push the man away from her baby.

Fido Beat It

D.P.—I saw a blackbird chasing a dog and the canine was going some believe me. The bird was scolding in high-pitched tones but Fido, a black water spaniel was just putting all his breath into speed and managed finally to escape. How the row began I do not know, but Fido no doubt took liberties which were resented. Funny how many interesting things can be seen with seeing eyes.

Water From Spring

W. A.—That seepage of water along the curb coming out at Bridge street from Church street indicates that there is a spring nearby on the property of St. Thomas church. I wonder if this water is being cared for by suitable drainage so as not to cause damage to the permanent pavement later on.

QUICK CHANGE OF CLIMATE

Traveler in Arizona Gets Variation With Comparatively Little Physical Exertion.

In climbing from the Painted desert, which lies at the foot of San Francisco mountain in Arizona, to the summit of that peak, perhaps 25 miles away, you experience as much change of climate and scenery and pass through as many different zones of life as you would in traveling from southern Sonora to the region of Hudson bay.

This is due to the fact that altitude has the same effect on climate as latitude. If you climb 500 feet upward you have achieved the same change of climate as though you had gone 2 degrees north. The result is that a mountain top in Arizona 12,000 feet high above sea level has a climate like that at the edge of the arctic circle. Moreover, many of the same plants and some of the same birds that live in the subarctic regions are found on top of San Francisco peak—relics of that distant age when most of North America was covered by an ice cap and had an arctic climate.

The desert at the foot of San Francisco peak is one of the deadest and hottest places on earth. Great areas of it are without a sprig of vegetation. There are vast beds of brightly colored pebbles gleaming in the sun, great barren sand flats, ranges of hills that are stained bright red and blue with minerals, but show not a touch of living green. The heat is terrific and incessant.

Leaving this region in the morning, by noon you find yourself on the mountain slope in an arid region supporting a low scrubby forest of juniper and nut pine. Two hours later you have entered an entirely different zone, and are riding through a beautiful open forest of yellow pine, with trees a hundred feet high. This gives way to a forest of fir, which is dense and damp, with heavy underbrush along the streams. Here birds and squirrels abound, and you may glimpse deer and bear.

As you continue upward the timber again dwindles in size. You pass through a region of scrubby spruce, such as grows along the Yukon in Alaska, and finally emerge on the treeless crest above timberline, where the climate is almost arctic and the snow lies deep in June.

Find Natural Purple Dye.

A shellfish exists on the Pacific coast of Costa Rica from which a specially fine purple color is obtained and used for dyeing silk thread. A report received by the department of commerce states the discovery of this natural dye came to light through an inquiry from Guatemala, where some silk thread imported from Costa Rica commands a good price.

The dyers, who apparently are limited to a few old persons, take the thread to the shore, where the shellfish abound, and dye it there. The person who picks up a shell blows his breath upon it, whereupon a few drops of greenish liquid ooze out. This liquor is collected in an open clam shell or other small container. After a sufficient quantity has been collected the thread is passed through it. The thread soon afterward, on exposure to the sunlight, assumes a beautiful purple color, which is absolutely fast.

In ancient days it is believed this dye was called "Tyrian purple," and was even then so rare that it was reserved for royalty.

Capital Feels Paper Shortage.

The paper shortage is making itself felt in the post office department, where the greatest difficulty is being experienced in getting the needed supplies of stamped envelopes. Postal cards, also, are scarce.

A few weeks ago there was discovered a large quantity of the old 3-cent stamped envelopes, for which there is now almost no demand. They are being sold now for 2 cents apiece, plus the small charge for the envelope, with a distinguishing cancellation mark over the stamp. More recently the post office department began to sell a quantity of postal cards of the vintage of about ten years ago. The department is restamping 400,000,000 2-cent postal cards issued during the war.

No Rain Sticks for Marines.

Did you ever see a United States marine in uniform carrying an umbrella?

Pedestrians on Sands street, Brooklyn, caught a glimpse of a marine recruit carrying a contraband "bumbershoot" during yesterday's rain storm. At the very outset of the recruit's journey two older marines met him, took the umbrella away from him, broke it up before his horrified gaze and gave him a severe lecture on military proprieties.

There is no service regulation to prevent the carrying of umbrellas by uniformed men, but there is an unwritten law of the marine corps which puts the taboo on the umbrella.

Her Preference.

A few years ago Merom college had a young Japanese student, who after the fashion of all Japanese students, was very polite. He always spoke of his teachers as the "Hon. Professor S.," etc. One day the music teacher's sister came to visit her, and in time met the young Japanese. They grew to be friends, but he always spoke of her as the "Hon. Miss M.'s sister."

One day the young visitor grew a bit peeved over the title. "Just for a change I would be glad if you would say 'Miss M.'s honorable sister,'" she retorted. "I would at least like to see how it would sound."

TOOK TANLAC ONLY THIRTY DAYS TO FREE POWELL OF LONG STANDING TROUBLES

"It was last summer that I took Tanlac and it fixed me up so fine that to this day I have been in the best of health," said Joseph Powell, well-known decorator and painter living at 771 Richmond St. W. Toronto, Ont.

"I had a chronic case of stomach trouble and for years it had bothered me day in and day out. My appetite was fairly good that is, I could eat but it looked like everything turned against me and the way I suffered was enough to nearly make a fellow quit eating altogether. I was bothered with gas, bloatin heartburn, in fact my whole system seemed to be affected. I was badly constipated and my complexion turned pale and sallow. My sleep was all broken up and I was completely run down.

"Reading and hearing so much about Tanlac I decided to try it and the way it built me up took me by surprise. Why, in a little more than a month it straightened me out and I was eating everything I wanted, working better and feeling fine. Tanlac fit my case just like it was made specially for me, and it did this work so well that I haven't had a sign of any of my old trouble since. I can't recommend it strong enough." Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's drug store and leading druggists.

Wedding Bells

HOLMES—WHITE

One of the most happy events of the season was the wedding of Annie Laura White, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay White of Sidney to Albert Christie Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes of Sidney, which took place at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. The Rev. T. Wallace officiated. The bride was attired in duchess satin with an over-drape of rose point lace and bridal veil caught up with orange blossoms. She wore the groom's gift a gold necklet and carried ophelia roses and sweet peas. The bride's only attendants were two little flower girls, namely her cousin Miss Florence Reid of Trenton and the groom's sister, Miss Luella Holmes. The bride looked charming while entering the dining room on the arm of her father passing through an aisle of white satin ribbons formed by Miss Florence Carleton and Miss Marjorie Martin. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Jess. Rowan of Toronto and during the signing of the register Mrs. Gordon Bellinghurst of Toronto sang "Oh Promise Me." Among the guests were Mrs. Fowler, of Toronto, and Mrs. E. J. Smythe, Toronto, Miss R. Rodgers, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Billinghurst of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Hagerman, Moira, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Madoc, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Reid of Belleville.

A number of costly and useful gifts were received by the bride showing the esteem in which she is held. The happy couple left amid showers of confetti for New York, Buffalo and other points.

Chief Brown to Attend Convention

EXTENSION OF HYDRANTS AT STEEL COMPANY PLANT—NEW LIGHT TO BE INSTALLED

At a meeting of the various civic committees held last evening the business transacted was chiefly of a routine nature. Many accounts were passed and the following recommendations passed on to the council.

Recommended that a light be placed at a point about midway between Pine and Meyers streets on Lingham street.

Recommended that Chief Brown be given the privilege of attending the Fire Chiefs' Convention at Three Rivers, Quebec, on August 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th as a representative of the city of Belleville.

Recommended that in the request of the Steel Company for extension of hydrant service that the company be requested to pay for excavation and fittings necessary to install the hydrant near the office, and the water works department to extend the present fire hydrant 150 feet to the east.

Recommended that the manager of the gas department be authorized to purchase 25 meters.

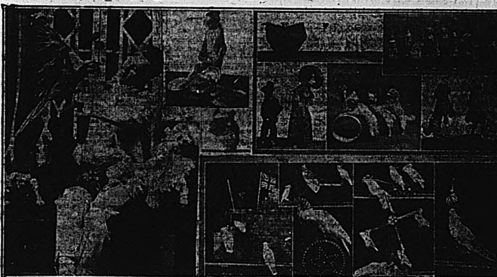
WILL TRY TO FLAVOR OCEAN WITH SPIRITS

New York, June 20.—The District Attorney's office in New York county has begun proceedings to acquire title in the name of the State of New York to seize liquor worth $50,000,000 at bootleggers' prices.

After condemnation the liquor probably will be towed in garbage scows to a point off Sandy Hook, where the world's greatest cocktail will be compounded. Whether the whole $50,000,000 will be mixed in one colossal drink or whether it will be doled out to the ocean at the rate of a few thousand barrels a day is to be settled later.

The thousands of barrels of liquor if dumped all at once beyond the three-mile limit will not be enough to flavor the surface at the beach. It may, however, perfume the breezes for a few miles.

An Unsurpassed Entertainment Feature



The Greatest Troupe of Educated Pets in the World

Pamahasika's Pets in An Indoor Circus at Chautauqua

Perhaps the greatest feature ever presented to any audience by trained animals and birds is the miniature battle scene from the World War. During the action of the battle, the birds fire cannon, and when the fort bursts into flame, the fire company responds, raises ladders, turns over a water tank and extinguishes the fire. Then comes the victory. The German flag is hauled down and the British flag is run up. This is but one feature of the evening's entertainment, which lasts an hour and a half, with something taking place every minute of the time.

Prof. Pamahasika is a genius and is justly recognized as America's most successful small animal and bird educator. He gives an interesting talk about his pets while the tricks are being done.

CANADIAN GOODS BETTER VALUE THAN IMPORTED

The argument is still advanced that if Canadian goods are equal in quality and compare favorably in price with imported products, the buying public would give a preference to the domestic commodities. There can be no question that in many lines Canadian manufactured goods offer better value to Canadian buyers than do competing imported products and yet imported articles have a considerable sale in this country because they are widely advertised or because of the popular belief that imported goods must be superior to those produced at home. The hearings before the Tariff Committee last fall supplied abundant specific evidence that many Canadian products were equal in quality to the best imported goods and were obtainable at lower prices. Actual investigations made by the Canadian Reconstruction Association have shown that:

1. Canadian agriculturists generally purchase farm machinery more cheaply than do farmers in any other country in the world, and farmers west of Manitoba buy binders at lower prices than do farmers at places directly south in the United States.

2. Canadian boots and shoes, grade for grade, compare favorably with the best imported products and are available to the Canadian buyer at considerably lower prices.

3. Canadian woollen mills are producing cloths of splendid quality at prices considerably below those charged for imported woollens.

4. Canadians are buying large quantities of imported perfumes, tooth paste and other toilet preparations at higher prices than those at which Canadian-made goods of equal or superior quality are obtainable.

5. Canned fish, vegetables and fruit, generally speaking, are as low priced in Canada as in the United States or elsewhere.

6. Canadian-made kitchen utensils of aluminum, grade for grade, are unsurpassed by the products of the United States and Canadian retail prices are as low as, and in most cases considerably lower than, the United States prices for corresponding utensils of the same grade.

7. Paint is normally as cheap in Canada as in the United States or cheaper, after allowance is made for the difference in measure.

8. Confectionery and biscuits are lower priced in Canada than in the United States.

The above list could be greatly extended, but comparisons in the case of the foregoing articles will show that Canadian manufacturers base their selling prices in general upon cost of production and that they do not base their prices on the laid-down prices of competing imported articles.

It is time the Canadian people got away from the unreasoning assumption that imported goods must be superior to those of domestic production. Many imported products are widely advertised, and by such advertisements a demand is created which gives them a sale in competition with the goods of Canadian producers who are not in a position to advertise their articles to anything like the same extent. Again, many dealers carry imported goods and press them upon their customers because in this way they can handle more or less exclusive lines. There is little doubt that in many instances goods have been sold to Canadian importers at "dump" prices, notwithstanding the Canadian anti-dumping clause, by manufacturers in the United States or elsewhere who seek in this way to protect their home market. Canadian requirements are small in comparison with the market in the United States, and if Canadians are to produce at the lowest unit cost they must be assured by tariff protection of most of the Canadian trade. If it be made possible for United States producers to cut into the Canadian trade, the amount of business obtainable to the Canadian plants will be reduced and costs of production will be increased. Experience has shown that domestic competition can be counted upon to keep down prices of Canadian products if the manufacturers here are given reasonable assurance against destructive competition from more powerful manufacturing units abroad.

CRISP COMMENT

It is said that Brockvillians use more water than the residents of any other place of similar size in Canada. No wonder Brockville voted wet!

The proposal to reduce the salaries of civic officials will not be a very popular move, although meant, no doubt, to signalize a desire for economy. The civic officials have never enjoyed munificent salaries, and in many instances were underpaid for years. To make a sweeping reduction of all civic salaries will work injustice, especially after a period when the abnormal high cost of living made it extremely difficult to make both ends meet. Careful consideration should be given this proposition before final decision.

THE DIVINE SARAH

New York Sun

To survive one's epoch is only a disadvantage to a person whose attainments are limited by time and surroundings. Sarah Bernhardt has become, throughout the world, a figure less definitely French and feminine and histronic than symbolic and international and suggestive of life as represented in art. She is no less a delightful human being because she is also the "divine Sarah", her quality is protean in her own person. Years come and years go, new fashions rise, thrones tumble down, to-morrow becomes to-day, but Sarah Bernhardt returns again like the verbal equinox; it is impossible to imagine the world of art without her; she is an integral part of the whole scheme of things, and her bodily manifestation in France is only a token of the love the gods bear to the immortal sense of art which is indigenious in that pleasant land.

STEPS TOWARDS REHABILATION

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

The abrogation by the Labor Board of the rules and working conditions established by the Government when in control of the railroads will enable economies in labor outlay amounting to, according to their own statement, to some $300,000,000. The amazing injustices and absurdities of these rules, as they worked out in application, were enough in themselves to make railroad management a discouraging occupation. But these are on their way into the past and with their departure will come not only a great saving, but a rapid increase of individual efficiency among the railroad workers. These two decisions have, we think, advanced the transportation of the country very far toward restoration. And now will come the question of the revision of rates, which cannot be left out of the consideration. The shippers' turn will come next.

The Poets' Corner

GOIN' BACK HOME

If I could have my way again
  I'd kind of like to wander to
The town I spent my boyhood in
  And do the things I used to do;
I'd like to laze along Main street,
  As I a thousand times have done,
One-callowsed freckled, with bare feet,
  And yell "Hollo" to everyone.
I'd like to drop in Fargo's store,
  And hear the loafers ever in sight
Expressing their views once more,
  And how to run the country right;
I'd like to find an ol' cheese case,
  And cracker barrel that I learned
To visit regular in the place,
  When ol' man Fargo's back was turned.

And then I'd saunter out and go
  Down dusty streets all maple lined
Where the O-at-ka used to flow
  And hunt the spot I have in mind,
The steep clay banks of Chases' dam,
  Where willer trees leaned green and cool,
Across the stream where once I climbed,
  And splashed in that old swimming pool.

And when the sun was dipping low,
  And glinting on the valley fair,
Just as a boy I'd like to go
  To the old home I knew back there;
I'd like to click the garden gate,
  Where mother waited at the door,
And feel her ol' affectionate
  Glad clasp and loving arms once more.

ANOTHER SCRAP OF PAPER.

United States Is Violating Treaty, Say the Chinese.

Chinese merchants of the Philippine Islands have decided to test through the courts the constitutionality of the law passed by the recent session of the Legislature, requiring all merchants to keep their books in English, Spanish or one of the dialects of the Philippine Islands. Failing in this course, it was announced through the Chinese consul-general, Kow Hsien Chow, that a protest would be made to the Congress of the United States.

Mr. Kow said he had received advices from Chinese merchants all over the islands, as well as Manila, telling of their probable departure from the Philippines, unless some way can be found to prevent the enforcements of the law.

Consul-General Kow pointed out that the bookkeeping law violates treaties between countries including those between the United States and China. He said the constitution of the United States and the various treaties, including the treaty with China, according to foreigners who desire to reside in the United States and do business there, exactly the same treatment as the citizens of the United States would themselves receive and the only power that can pass a law that would enterfere with the rights of aliens who desire to enter the United States and do business there would be the United States Congress.

In a letter to the governor-general, Francis Burton Harrison, before he signed the bill, Mr. Kow said:

"One objectionable feature of the proposed law, which has already greatly aroused the local Chinese sentiment, is the fact that it attempts no distinction between the larger Chinese commercial concerns and the small shopkeepers who are by far in the majority and would be the most generally affected. This latter class constitutes to-day the principal mercantile population of the Philippines and has so predominated for several centuries.

"There has never been a requirement in the Philippines up to this time which so deliberately strikes at their business and property, making it necessary for them to consider leaving the country for their homeland or neighboring oriental countries, where no such restrictive regulation exists.

"The universal custom in the Dutch East Indies, Federated Malay States, Straits Settlement, French Indo-China, and, of course, in China, is for the Government to provide the necessary translators and inspectors to examine the books of Chinese merchants in connection with revenue collections, police measures, etc. This plan has worked with universal satisfaction, causing no friction or misunderstanding to the Government upon the one hand and the Chinese residents upon the other.

"In short, the proposed law would be highly detrimental to the manifold interests, commercial political and social, or both republics."

Saburo Kurusu, Japanese consul-general in Manila, said he would take no official action at present, but would simply report to his home Government the effects of the law on Japanese subjects.

"The law, of course, hurts a great number of Japanese in Manila, but the ones most affected are the owners of small shops," said Mr. Kurusu. "The law makes no provision for these."

Dee C. Chaun, president of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, estimated that the number of individuals and partnerships offected by the new law, at more than 20,000. The Chinese Chamber of Commerce decided to ask for the co-operation of all Chambers of Commerce in China and in other parts of the world, in the fight against the operation of the law.

A House of Poets.

Plans are under way to establish an American shrine for the poets, to be known as the House of Poets. The institution will follow somewhat the lines of the Palace of Song in London, and will be the home of the American dean of the poets, as the English mecca of muses is the home of the British Poet Laureate.

The house, to be erected at a cost of perhaps $100,000, will combine the functions of club and clearing house for all Americans ever guilty of versification in any form. The first dean to be nominated for the honor of making his home there is Edwin Markham, author of "The Man With the Hoe" and many books of verse. Leading poets throughout the country already have become interested in the project. Among those who have already taken interest in the idea are Ralph Waldo Trine, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Zane Gale, Don Marquis, Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, George M. Judd, Henry Irving Dodge, and Blanche Shoemaker Wagstaff.

Is Space Endless?

Einstein's theory that space may not be of infinite extent seems to have obtained endorsement by many eminent physicists.

Nevertheless it would not appear that, if this idea be accepted, the cosmos is to be regarded as alarmingly shrunk. For Einstein's own opinion is that a ray of light traveling 186,000 miles a second would require a billion years to make a complete circuit of its outer limits.

IN BED EIGHT MONTHS

Cause—Change of Life. How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Got Me Up

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did and in a short time felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good."—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tennessee.

Women from forty-five to fifty years of age should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, palpitation of the heart, smothering or fainting spells, or spots before the eyes, and prepare their system for this perfectly natural change by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has helped many, many women through this trying period, just as it did Mrs. Keller.

PAID FIVE DOLLARS FOR EVERY MEETING

North Bay, June 22.—Mayor Ferguson and the nine other members of the town Council here are today $115 richer than they were yesterday. This increase in their bank accounts is the result of the vote in Council last night when it was decided by 7 to 3 to pay members of the Council five dollars for every meeting attended. Committee meetings provided for the same rate of payment in the original motion were struck out. The measure is retroactive to January 1, and 23 meetings have been held since then.

How Contenders Measure up

New York, June 24.—Georges Carpentier, challenger of Jack Dempsey, will be smaller, in several respects than any boxer who has fought for the title in recent years. Tommy Burns, from whom Jack Johnson wrested the crown, was shorter but heavier and more compactly built. Bob Fitzsimmons, on the day he lost the championship to Jim Jeffries at Coney Island weighed 172 poounds, almost exactly what Carpentier will weigh when he climbs into the ring.

Dempsey will be larger than Carpentier in all save two important measurements. Carpentier's advantages will be in his wonderfully developed lower limbs and his neck. The Frenchman's calf measurement is 16 3-4 inches as compared with Dempsey's 15 ¼. Carpentier's neck measures 16 3-4 inches with Dempsey's one-quarter inch smaller.

Dempsey will outweigh Carpentier by about 20 pounds. He will stand one and one-half inches taller. He will outreach his rival by one inch, 74 inches to 73. In wrist and ankle development they are nearly equal, only a fraction of an inch giving Dempsey the advantage in each case. Dempsey's biceps measure 16¼ inches as compared with Carpentier's 14 ½. Carpentier's back muscles, however, are a magnificent part of his development, and from these he will draw most of his hitting power.

In several respects, Jess Willard, the Kansas giant, whom Dempsey knocked out in three rounds, was the largest champion. In several other respects, the more compact Jim Jeffries outstripped Willard easily. Willard, for his size, was not developed as highly, in a physical way, as several others who have held the title.

Willard, at fighting weight, scaled 240 pounds and towered 6 feet, 6 inches in the air. His reach of 83½ inches was far greater than that of other title holders. His chest measurement of 39 inches, normal, was seven inches less than that of "Jeff". Jeffries' wrist, neck, biceps and ankle development was greater than that of Willard and Willard's calf measurements were only a fraction of an inch larger than Jeffries.

Following are the physical measurements of the champion and challenger:

	Dempsey	Carpentier
Age..	26	27
Weight	198	172
Height	6ft 1	5ft 11½
Reach	74 in.	73
Chest (Nor)	42	41
Chest (Exp.) .	46	43½
Waist	33	31
Neck	16½	16¾
Wrist	7½	7¼
Bicepts	16¼	14½
Calf..	16¼	16¾
Ankle	6	8½

ELLIS TROPHY WON BY BELLEVILLE

Congratulations are due to the members of Miss McLean's rink of lady bowlers of this city for winning a valuable silver trophy at the tournament which closed yesterday at Toronto.

Although they were unsuccessful in lifting the Inglis Trophy on the first two days of the Ontario ladies' lawn bowling championship tournament which terminated at the Parkdale Club yesterday, the Belleville rink skipped by Miss McLean performed brilliantly yesterday to capture the Ellis trophy, which was competed for as a consolation prize by the unsuccessful rinks of the Inglish cup series. Miss McLean beat Mrs. Perry (Lawrence Park) by 17 to 11 in the fifth round. In the semi-finals she drew a bye, while in the final she easily defeated Mrs. Walker (High Park) by 21 to 12.

It was a strange game. Mrs. Walker was away flying with a six on the first end, but a seven on the fifth end for Miss McLean and then a six on the ninth gave the Belleville rink such a lead that they had little trouble winning out, though a slight mistake at any stage would have put Mrs. Walker down in front, so well did her rink bowl through the entire match, in fact throughout the entire tournament.

Mrs. Walker also showed wonderful sportsmanship when she allowed Miss McLean to use Mrs. Dolan from a beaten Belleville rink when one of her players was forced to go home. It was against the rules for Miss McLean to play Mrs. Dolan, but Mrs. Walker waived the point, as did Mrs. Perry of Lawrence Park, who was beaten by Miss McLean in the fifth round, Mrs. Dolan also playing in that game.

The Belleville bowlers played splendidly all through the competition, and deserved to win, though it was a huge surprise when they defeated Mrs. Perry's Lawrence Park four. It must be said, however, that Mrs. Perry was off in her game, and had she played the beautiful bowls she did in her previous games of the tournament she would have carried off the honors. The skipping of Mrs. Perry and the bowling of her rink provided one of the features of the tourney even though no trophies were won.

The result of the final game was as follows:

Belleville.	High Park.
Mrs. Dolan	Mrs. Wood
Mrs. Lewis	Mrs. Dreany
Mrs. Robertson	Mrs. Brown
Miss McLean	Mrs. Walker
Skip........21	Skip . . . 12

TO-MORROW'S GAME

To-morrow, Saturday, the local G. T. R.'s go to Peterboro' where they will play that team for the first time this season. The chances seem to be with Belleville and fans are willing to lay 3 to 1 on the home team. Give 'em a good hot day where Freddy Goyer can play his arm to advantage, and let the fielders look alive, then we may safely bank on a victory.

ONE-MINUTE ESSAYS ON HEALTH BY DR. WM. P. REDICK

W. L. Mapother, new president of the L. & N. Railway, began as office boy in 1888. He gradually climbed to his present position of responsibility and power.

Acid Stomach Causes Indigestion

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and many do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

GAME TO BE REPLAYED

The decision of the Committee was that the game should be replayed in Port Hope at a date to be announced later.

BROKE ALL MULISH RECORDS

If Animal Committed Suicide He Is the First of His Tribe Thus to Shuffle Off.

We are not prepared to accept without mental reservation the story from Brooklyn, that a mule, perhaps an ex-service mule, committed suicide by plunging through the plate-glass front of an undertaker's office, after imbibing freely of 2.75 per cent beer. "We know the mule; have known him from an early age, and we know the decimal stuff that passes for beer. That is to say, we have heard about it. No self-respecting mule—particularly if he came from Missouri—would drink 2.75 in the first place, and in the second place, if he did drink it it would not go to his head. It might go to his legs, his hindlegs, which are naturally of a nervous temperament, and likely to reach out at any time. We can imagine no better way to put a "kick" in the brew than by first putting the brew in a mule.

The average mule is looking for an excuse for kicking, anyway. Feed him up on the beer of commerce and leave the rest to his natural predisposition. He will register disgust in the obvious way.

And then again mules never commit suicide. We have heard of men committing suicide by twisting the mule's tail, but the hybrid himself is much in love with life. There's even a rumor in the South and Southwest that mules never die; that, barring accidental dissolution, they live forever. Be that as it may, we do not recall that we ever saw a mule suffering from age, or that was feeble in his right hind shoe.—New York Morning Telegraph.

MAGIC IN GOLD AND HUMOR

How Happy Combination of the Two Put End to "Run" on Famous English Bank.

A story is told, with some reservation, by a London paper, concerning the grandfather of the well-known Quaker peer, Lord Peckover. The story goes that, during a run on the bank of which he was a principal, at one time known as that of Gurney, Birkbeck, Peckover & Co., he exhibited, within sight of the counter, bags full of gold, surmounted by a peck measure, also filled with sovereigns. "You see," he explained to the depositors anxious to draw their balances, "that there is enough money for you all, and a peck over." This is said to have terminated the run. Such is the magic of gold, and of humor. One feels by no means certain that stacks of "fivers" would have achieved the same happy result. Or, to revert to the time of George III, when the sum of twopence was represented by a solid two-ounce coin, would a large pile of these weighty "cartwheels" have allayed the fears of the small depositor? No! Not even a warehouseful!—Christian Science Monitor.

Hope Not All Abandoned.

Miss Threeyears was watching the grizzly bear in his new cage to the northwest of the lion house. A recently constructed chain of bear and other animal cages there has added immensely to the attraction of the place.

Somebody threw the old grizzly a peanut, and then another, but both nuts hit the bars and fell just outside the cage. The bear reached his paw through and tried to scoop the tempting nuts in, but his long, yellow claws seemed to be in his way.

He had to use his claws as a sort of rake, and the spaces between the prongs of his rake proved too wide, so the peanuts slipped through.

Miss Threeyears was most sympathetic. The poor bear couldn't get his peanuts. But there was yet hope. The keeper would be around shortly with the bear's dinner, and then—

"Maybe he can get it wif a fork or a 'poon," she said.—Washington Star.

Didn't Work Out Right.

A languid swell was visiting a charming young society lady, and as they sat on either side of the fire his heart was full of the burning desire to say something not only complimentary, but brilliantly flattering. So, after revolving the matter in his mind, he said: "Ah, Miss Lillie, why are those fire-tongs so like me?"

He meant her to guess, or ask him to tell her, "because they were prostrate at her feet," or something of that kind.

Miss Lillie, looking solemnly demure, said she didn't know, unless it was because they had two thin legs and a brass head.

He was groping blindly for the front door before she had recovered from the shock of her own volley.

"The Woman Who Fed London."

One of the most interesting figures brought into the limelight of publicity during England's great railway strike was Miss E. M. Hopwood, now called "the woman who fed London." Miss Hopwood was secretary to a large commercial firm in the north of England, and her business ability was so well recognized that when the ministry of food was organized, she was called to the service of the government. She scored such success in her emergency warwork that she was appointed at the beginning of the railway strike as food distributing officer for the whole metropolitan area.

Depends on the Result.

"Don't you admire determination in a man's character?"

"That depends. If it brings success I praise it as splendid perseverance, if failure, I denounce it as confounded obstinacy."—Boston Transcript.

HE JUST WANTED TO KNOW

Possible Explanation for Nonappearance of Watch Had Suddenly Dawned on Simple Farmer.

Supt. J. E. Oursler of the Carnegie Steel company has established a cost-price store for his 12,500 workmen, thus circumventing the local profiteer.

One of the local profiteers asked Mr. Oursler if he would not shut up the cost-price store, as it was interfering with the other stores' profits, but Mr. Oursler answered:

"Will I shut up our cost-price store, eh? Well, that is about the naivest question I ever heard. Yes, it's as naive a question as the young farmer's."

"The young farmer's?" said the profiteer.

"A young Pike county farmer," explained Mr. Ousler, "stalked up to the inquiry office in a Pittsburgh station and asked:

"'This here's the inquiry office, ain't it?'

"'Sure is,' said the capable young clerk.

"'Wall,' said the Pike county farmer, 'about eight hours ago a gazabo took my new watch down the street to get my name engraved on it free gratis so's it wouldn't get lost, and I'm kind of tired of waitin', so what I want to inquire is—is there onrest in the engravin' trade, and are all the Pittsburgh engravers out on strike or sump'n'?'"

NO INSURANCE ON HAPPINESS

Lloyds Refuses to Take the Risk That Seems to Be Involved in International Marriages.

About the only thing the Lloyds will not insure is happiness to follow an international marriage. While some American women who wedded representatives of the nobility of the old world found happiness, a vastly larger number found failure to be their portion. The honeymoon trail of these internationalists shows many shipwrecks. As a rule the representative of the nobility seeks a mate among the wealthy who have unsatisfied social ambitions. Given these conditions, the chance for presentation at court, the glamour of a title, the exclusiveness of social relations with the titled great, cause many a young woman to forget prudence and have made many fathers and mothers willing to approve a heavy bet on a slim chance.

The long string of women who have come back across the Atlantic broken hearted and slim of purse since Nellie Grant made her unhappy alliance has taught little wisdom to those who are courted by the titled but ofttimes penniless nobility.—Ohio State Journal.

STATION BURGLRIZED

About 2 a. m. Tuesday burglars entered the station ticket office at Milbrook. They pried the bars over the ticket window,d and used a diamond to cut a hole in the glass, and it was then an easy matter to undo the fastening and make an entry. Mr. Stinson had taken the cash and other valuable papers home, so the burglars had all their trouble for nothing, however, they determined to make a haul and broke into the express office and stole several 'Eaton' parcels two suit cases, a case "wet goods," and a lot of auto supplies to the value of about $250 Chief Nattrass heard automobiles driving up and down past Mr. Stinson's home, apparently to see if all was clear. Detectives are on the job.

WORK TWO MONTHS IN YEAR

Colony of Spiders May Be Thought to Have an Easy Time, But They Don't.

In Hoboken, N. J., in a large surveying instrument factory, there is a colony of 200 workmen who never receive wages, yet who are perfectly contented. They toil from early in the morning until late at night, and their only recompense is a house fly or two apiece during the day. They are spiders—large, black, energetic spiders—and they comprise probably the most indispensable part of the entire working force. It is their duty to spin the thread that is used for cross hairs in surveying instruments. During the two months of the year when they work they produce thousands of yards of the almost invisible but invaluable fiber.

The spider colony works only during August and September. A strike among them may sound amusing to the reader, but it is really a serious matter. For the purpose of urging the little workmen to their tasks four girls, trained to expertness in their unusual duties, are employed; it is their task to coax the spiders to work whenever they show signs of reluctance.

Coaxing the spiders really means irritating them. The girl places one on her hand and pats or taps it until it jumps toward the ground, leaving one end of its thread behind. Before the spider can reach the ground the girl quickly attaches the thread to a wire whirling frame, which she revolves in her hands. As the spider struggles to reach the ground she continues to wind, and in that way sometimes gets several hundred feet of thread from a single spider.

GOT REAL "DIGGER" WELCOME

General Birdwood's Popularity in Australia Thoroughly Attested by a Recent Happening.

General Birdwood occupies a unique place in the heart of the Australian soldier, who remembers Gallipoli and France and has a hundred stories to tell of the general's unexpected appearances in "shorts" on some hot battle front. Being a democrat, the Australian crowned the object of his reverence, when he reached Melbourne, with the slouch hat of the "digger." and then carried the general shoulder-high through heavy rain to an improvised platform. Perhaps the neatest acknowledgment of the general's thanks came from a digger in the domain. General Birdwood told the assembled soldiers in Victoria that when he arrived in western Australia, the first thing he received was a cartoon drawn by one of the lads of the Twenty-eighth battalion. "It showed a great, big digger hand held out in welcome," said General Birdwood, proudly. Before he could continue, a rain-drenched digger remarked: "The other hand is here in Melbourne."

Wonderful Swinging Monument.

Gently swaying to and fro, a huge granite monolith forming a unique natural monument has been discovered on Green mountain, several miles north of Canon City, Colo. It is believed to be the only "swinging monument" in the world.

The shaft is more than 100 feet high and in the course of many years has become free from all surrounding earth formation except at the base, which is about 12 feet wide. In the center the granite column is about 50 feet in thickness and tapers off to a width at the summit practically the same as at the base.

The entire shaft moves probably from two to three feet at the apex, and the swing is constant under the pressure of light winds. The base of the shaft rests in a small hollow about three feet in depth, and the contiguous granite formation has been entirely disconnected.

Strong Wind at High Altitude.

Altitude flights by army aviators have shown the existence, at a height of 25,000 feet or more above the earth, of a strong west wind, whose velocity is estimated at perhaps 175 miles per hour. These flights also have shown that there is not a continuous reduction in temperature as altitude increases. The flights have tested a supercharger, which is expected to be of considerable military and commercial value. For military purposes its use will be to increase greatly the speed of airplanes at altitudes. For commercial purposes, it is said that the supercharger will enable heavy passenger or express carrying airplanes to climb over the highest mountains with the use of comparatively low powered and low priced engines.

Surprised a Stranger.

My girl chum always rode out on the train at night with the fellow to whom she was engaged. One night as I was walking through the cars I thought I saw him sitting alone, so I took the bunch of flowers I had in my hand and, sticking them in his face, said: "What are you riding all alone for?" I can frankly say that my most embarrassing moment occurred when I found myself looking into the surprised face of an entirely strange man.—Exchange.

Hours of Labor.

"You seem tired."

"A bit overtaxed," admitted the student of economics. "I have been rising at 6 in the morning and working till midnight on a series of speeches to prove that six hours' work a day is enough for any man."

Mr. and Mrs. W. Brown of Toronto have returned home after spending a week with the latter's sister, Mrs. G. I. Thomas.

WRECKED TROOP TRAIN

Belfast, June 24.—Large forces of police and soldiers were also despatched to the spot, which is a lonely mountainous district just beyond the Ulster border. Numerous railway outrages have been prepetrated there. It was established later that three soldiers and a train guard was killed and the assistant train guard and some twenty soldiers injured. Thirty horses were killed or had to be destroyed because of injuries.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N. Harben

(Copyright, 1903)

ters, inside the garden fence, was the log smokehouse, the barn and stables; to the right, the yard where the chickens and ducks were scratching the earth for food. The old woman said nothing—there was nothing she could say, for his reply had not reassured her.

"Why do you think anything is wrong with me?" he suddenly asked. "Has anybody"—

"You cayn't keep folks' mouths shet," Mrs. Buckley said. "You've got more friends 'an any boy in all this mountain country, but even a body's best friends will git jealous when he begins to rise in the world. Most of 'em thought you was flyin' too high, George, all along—in visitin' the best in Darley—an' they are tickled to be able to circulate the report that she's goin' to marry the governor of the state. You see, they kin say that an' not seem to be talkin' agin you, but they are chucklin' all the same."

"I can't help their talking nor their thinking," Buckley said, with a sigh.

"But I believe I'd put a bold face on it an' laugh at the idea o' marryin' anybody right now. Then I'd sorter slack off from goin' to the Cranstons'. George, I kin stand anything better, it seems to me, than havin' 'em all think you are miserable over it, an' when the wedding takes place"—

"Then you count on it as a certainty, do you?" His face clouded over, and, in spite of his self control, his voice rang harshly.

She stared at him pityingly. "Thar's no use talkin' about it," she said softly. "George, you hain't ready to admit it, an' that's the wust sign of all. You jest cayn't see it like other folks, an' thar's jest one reason fer that—you cayn't stand to think it possible."

He voiced no denial. What was the use? The old woman, crude as she was, had known him from the first pulsation of the life that was now raging like a mad torrent within him. In his mind's eye he had a glimpse of the village church, packed to the doors with an eager, expectant crowd. He saw the flowers on the altar. There was a profound hush. The Cranston carriage had driven up. The governor of the state was assisting two ladies to alight. All eyes were on the party of four as they came in and moved unconcernedly to the Cranston pew. Lydia and the guest of honor were walking together. She was being admired, envied. George Buckley bowed his head; the red light from the fire touched his powerful neck and shoulders; he was sinking into the deepest ooze of despair.

"Mind you, I'm not sayin' one word agin the gal," Mrs. Buckley broke into his reflections abruptly. "In fact, I like 'er. I can't tell you how much I do like 'er. Folks may swear they hate kings an' queens beca'se they stand above 'em, but they'll feel honored by the notice o' royal folks. That may be one reason I like Lydia Cranston. I don't know, I'm only human, but I jest feel like she's of a different order. Do you know the time you introduced me to 'er? Well, a woman knows a woman, no matter how different they've been raised, an' I seed that she was surprised to—to see that I was—well, jest like I am, but I tuk a strong likin' to 'er fer the way she acted."

"The way she acted?" George Buckley spoke under his breath, but the woman heard.

"Yes; I could tell she was doin' 'er level best to make me feel easy, an' it made me like 'er. Then the next time"—

"The next time?" George was really surprised. "Did you meet her again?"

Mrs. Buckley was silent; her eyes had fallen. She had said more than she intended.

"Did you say you met her again, mother—again?"

Mrs. Buckley looked up resolutely. "I never intended to mention that," she said, "an' I don't know as I ort to now, bein', as it seems, she never told you about it. But it was when she was over at Shirley Springs last week. One mornin' she come here to see me, an', George, as God is my judge, I never spent a happier hour in all my life. I don't know how it was, but she jest had a way o' makin' me feel good. Ef she ever thought she was better'n common folks, nobody could 'a' told it. I was piecin' a scrap quilt, an' she set down an' set to work on it. I never seed the like. Her little, slim, white fingers jest moved like lightnin'. An' talk! She could think o' more cheerful things to say than anybody I ever seed. It was that way till nigh 12, an' then she left. George—she kissed me!"

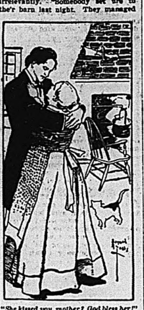
Buckley was staring, an unfathomable expression in his big, yearning eyes.

"She kissed you, mother? God bless her!" And he rose and put his arms about the old woman's neck. His eyes were glistening.

"Yes, she did twice, out at the gate. I never intended to tell you about that, fer I—I didn't think it was exactly the sort o' thing to—to make you take yore mind off'n 'er, but she did it, an' to my dyin' day I'll always think well of 'er an' stand up fer 'er. They may make 'er marry that man or some other in the'r circle, but fer about one hour me an' her was on the level God's been tryin' fer centuries to bring folks up to. Yes; she may not be strong enough to go her way with all them ropes tied to 'er, but ef she's ever a mother she'll be a good un—with a soul an' heart. I like 'er, George, an' I don't blame you fer acceptin' her friendship. Ef I was a man I would, ef that was all the crumb she ever dropped my way. Lovin' a woman like that's jest ambition, an' ambition's right an' upliftin'."

Mrs. Buckley was looking at her son, but he had turned his face away. He stood still, his features working, his strong breast heaving tumultuously.

"The Truitts are a-havin' a world of trouble with Jeff," said Mrs. Buckley irrelevantly. "Somebody set fire to the'r barn last night. They managed to put it out, but Jeff got another White Cap letter o' warnin' to skip out. It had a skull an' bones on it. Mrs. Truitt's been tryin' to git 'im to leave, but old Bascom won't let 'im go. Now, George, git the rifle an' shoot me the fattest chicken you see in the yard. I'm goin' to fry it fer you. I'll bet you hain't half fed thar at Hillyer's. Them nigger cooks don't know how to prepare a meal o' vittles."



"She kissed you, mother? God bless her!"

"Mother"—he turned suddenly and resolutely on her—"you haven't told me all about her coming here."

"Yes, I have, George, s' help me God!"

"Not all you—thought, mother."

The woman hesitated, and then she faltered: "No, I'll admit that, George. How could I? I laid awake nearly all that night studyin' over it."

"Tell me what you thought, mother."

"Why, George, I"—

"Mother, this is the darkest day I have ever spent. I had one other as bad, but I drowned it in whisky, but now"—he smiled rigidly—"I am facing the music with a clear head. Mother, what did you think?"

"Well, George," after another pause, "I sorter believed she kissed me an—an' looked like she wanted to cry in my arms beca'se I was yore mother. I never could make out—women are sech riddles, even to the'rselves—I never could make out whether it was a goodby kiss intended fer you or—or another sort. I watched her tell she got clean across the pasture field, an' she walked all the way with 'er head down. Now git the gun!"

He sat down suddenly. "Mother, I couldn't kill a living thing today," he said. "I want everything to live and breathe. How can I give her up when—when she kissed you?"

CHAPTER XV.

ONE evening after supper in the middle of that week Kenner met George in the office of the Johnston House, the only hotel in the place. It was full of traveling salesmen and wagoners from the mountains, who had come in to sell their cotton. "I've been honeyfugglin' some of 'em up," Kenner smiled, "telling 'em this is the best market, an' so forth, in the south. They'll git to believin' it after awhile. Ef you hain't got nothin' to do let's walk over to Bob Hanks' store."

George agreed, and they started out together. "That boy's a big puzzle to me," Kenner continued thoughtfully. "Sometimes I think Hillyer did right in backin' 'im in his business, an' then ag'in I think maybe his own daddy knows 'im better'n anybody else."

"Why, I thought Bob was simply doing wonderfully well," said George in surprise.

"Ef he'd jest let his old habits go he'd be all right," replied Kenner, "but the boys say he's as bad about flirtin' with the gals as he ever was. You know thar's a little orphan in Mrs. Styles' boardin' school on the hill. The gal's from Louisville, Ky.; she hain't more'n sixteen ef she's that, an' she's a purty, daredevil little trick. Well, you know the old lady's powerful particular about the gals under her charge, especially the boardin' pupils, but Bob manages to meet that gal two or three times a week unbeknownst to Mrs. Styles, an' they take walks an' buggy rides together. She's a bright little thing, an' the boys say she's simply crazy about Bob an' everything he does. He's jest havin' his fun; but, George, you know that's unbecomin' in a feller that's makin' the start Bob is. Why, we elected 'im on the board o' trade t'other night."

"I should think it was unbecoming of him," said George emphatically; "the boy ought to be talked to."

"I generally do my lecturin' to the young gang in a roundabout way," replied Kenner. "I always tell 'em the devilment I used to do an' make 'em feel like I'm one of 'em, an' then end up by showin' 'em whar I was wrong. I'm goin' to try to talk Bob out o' this prank o' his."

They found the young grocer in the rear of his store, with his coat off, directing a negro porter who was stacking a car load of flour in bags against the wall.

"Hello!" said Kenner. "How's business today?"

"Little off," replied Bob, "but a fair average; we are goin' to have a rush tomorrow. Did you see all them paper sacks full o' coffee and sugar on the counter as you come in? That's to save the boys time in weighing up. Look out there"—to the porter—"didn't I tell you to stack 'em straight?"

U.S. Shipping Act Increases Crews

DRIVES SHIPS TO CANADIAN REGISTER DECLARES CONGRESSMAN

Washington, June 25—(Canadian Press)—Actual results of the La Follette Seaman's Act, which tends to increase the cost of operation of United States shipping, were described by Representative Mills, of New York, in a speech in the House. He declared that on the great lakes this act forced many vessels under Canadian registry.

"Let us consider what have been the actual results of the operation of this law," said Mr. Mills, "on the United States marine of the lakes, and it is unnecessary to generalize, it is unnecessary to assume or imagine. These are actual facts. Take the G. B. Hall steamers that carry more than a million tons of coal from the port of Rochester in the state of New York. Today they are nearly all under Canadian register, having been transferred in 1917 because of the operation of this act. One hundred thousand passengers leave Rochester yearly by way of Lake Ontario and go down the St. Lawrence. They are all carried on vessels under the Canadian flag because of the provisions of this act. Take pulp wood boats. Here is a fair example of how it affects them. The steamship Ford, a vessel of 600 tons gross, operated with a crew of 13 men in 1915 and after the passage of this act was equipped to carry 17 men. That increased the cost of operation per annum $5,000, the equivalent of the interest charges on the entire capital invested of some $100,000. Take the steamship, Put-in-Bay, which in 1911 had two firemen, two engineers and now has three firemen, three officers, two engineers, two oilers, and she makes a five hour run. Take the vessels of the Detroit and Cleveland navigation company. There run is seven hours from Detroit to Cleveland. The seaman's act increased the crew of seven of their vessels by 40, running anywhere from 12 men on one ship to 2 on another. Take the steamship Alabama of the Goodrich company. Her pay roll in 1915 was $3,200 a month and in 1916 after the passage of this act it was $4,200 a month, an increase of $1,000, and certainly wages in 1915 and 1916 can be fairly compared. Take the Cleveland and Buffalo line. One of their boats, one of the largest passenger boats on the great lakes, the increase in the pay roll on one vessel alone, owing to the seamen's act is over $13,000, and if you realize what a vast amount of capital is represented by such an interest charge you will readily appreciate what it means in respect to the construction of the new vessels to operate on the lakes. These are, generally, the results of the passage of this act.

"Here is one vessel of the C. & B. line, that never makes a trip of over 3 1-2 miles and never operates more that eight hours a day. She was obliged to increase her firemen force. Take the sand boats, 40 or 50 on the great lakes, with a plant investment of $5,000,000 and an output per annum of some $3,000,000. These boats actually operate on the lakes only some 3 or 4 hours per day. They are never more than 3 1-2 miles from shore, and yet one of them, when it was changed from the Canadian registry to the U. S. registry was obliged to increase her number of fireman from one to three, an increase of $875 to $1,125 a month. Though she was not actually operated more than four hours a day, this force was tripled in the fireroom under the terms of this unreasonable act."

Clever Child Entertainer Delights Belleville Folks

DAINTY ALICE LOUISE SHRODE, A VERY CLEVER LITTLE LADY, MADE A DECIDED HIT AT CHAUTAUQUA'S SECOND DAY—INTERESTING LECTURE AND SPECTACULAR ANIMAL AND BIRD CIRCUS — INTEREST GROWING—LARGE AUDIENCES.

Friday afternoon, the second afternoon of Chautauqua in the city, the program consisted of two sections the first being Little Miss Louise Shrode, whom Mr. Heston introduced at 3 o'clock sharp. This clever little performer held her audience to the last breath, no need to call for silence as the people simply held their breath for fear of missing an action or word. First a Reading was given in splendid form, telling of her first fishing expedition as assistant to the idol of her early days. The theme of this selection was wholly humorous. Next was a spoken song, "My Brown Rose" with whistling specialty. Mrs. Shrode accompanied her daughter on the piano in the vocal numbers. Six more selections, vocal, readings and whistling novelty, completed this part of the program. Owing to insistent applause the little performer very graciously came back and gave a delightful reading.

Seeing Life Whole

Mr. Heston then introduced Mr. William H. Stout, a very clever speaker, whose enunciation was perfect, his voice carrying to the farthest corner of the large room. Considerable annoyance was experienced during this time from people in the audience scraping chairs along the floor, and talking in an audible voice, however, the speaker was not at all disturbed. He chose as his subject: "Seeing Life Whole." He dealt directly with the title explaining that it meant the people should be broader minded, not think that all they had to do was wear a sanctimonious look and go to church we should get over being so narrow minded, forget a person's race and creed and judge them by their true worth, not worldy possessions. To the mothers present he gave a little special advice in that they would obtain more satisfactory results if in training their children they would give them a definite object in life to attain. A person who did not work or know work, did not know life. A boy or girl, if their mind be occupied with honest work will have no time to plan or execute evil or doubtful deeds. Mr. Stout received applause on several humorous sallies which lightened the tension created by his rapid-fire lecture. He is a fast talker, understands his theme and cited many instances to prove his various theories.

A ful house greeted the performers at the afternoon session, proving the success of Chautauqua here.

Friday Evening

Little Alice Shrode, the talented child entertainer, opened the evening program to the largest attendance yet, the large auditorium being well filled. Alice delighted everybody with her musical recitations and clever imitations, being accompanied by her mother at the piano. This little girl has a distinctive style and is unlike any other child entertainer on the stage. Her charm is irresistible and everybody who hears her cannot help but fall in love with her instanter. Her rendition of the Monkey-unky-man, and her imitation of a monkey were excruciatingly funny; the bow-legged boy was also a scream; giving way the baby and "Little Orphant Annie" were other pleasing numbers and the little lady's whistling was delightful and very clever. Little Alice Shrode can come back any time she likes and the Goblins won't get her in Belleville.

Pamahasika's Pets furnished the second part of the evening program and presented an entertainment at once unique and startling, the performers ranging from wee canaries, cockatoos, parraquets, and parrots to monkeys, a pony, cats and dogs. Some of the feats were really marvellous, showing an intelligence in these dumb creatures trained to a point almost unbelievable. The program was long satisfying and particularly gratifying to the many children present, rejoicing in Friday night liberty with Saturday holiday on the morrow. Pamahasika's Pets certainly provide an entertainment of exceptional interest and merit.

Announcement was made of the progress of Junior Chautauqua under the direction of Miss Irene Bricault who is teaching the little ones of Belleville how to play, how to sing, folk dances and how to get the most out of playtime for health and recreation. To-day the Juniors are having a picniv at Victoria Park.

Mr. J. H. Davis, athletic director, junior at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Mr. W. F. Okey, Electrician, Freshman at Ohio State University.

AUTO SINKS IN RIVER; WOMAN IMPRISONED

Brockville, Ont., June 25.—When W. N. Ready, of Portland, was cranking his car at Chaffey's Locks, it suddenly shot backwards towards the Rideau River. Ready shouted to the women in the car, Mrs. Charles Dowsett, Miss Ethel Dowsett, and Mrs. Ready, to jump, which the first two succeeded in doing while Mrs. Ready was carried to the water with the car which was totally submerged with woman imprisoned by the top. Allen Cameron, Smith's Falls, who was near by swam out and rescued Mrs. Ready from the car with some difficulty. The car was afterwards recovered after ropes had been fastened to it by Kenneth Cameron, Smith's Falls, who had to dive several times before they could be attached.

Kidnapping Count Faces Three Men Who Want Jury

REMOVAL OF WHISKEY FROM OTTAWA TO QUEBEC FINDS SEQUEL IN POLICE COURT

Ottawa, une 25.—As a sequel to the removal of many thousands of dollars worth of liquor from this city to Quebec, Joseph Barnaby, Bank Hotel, Hull, Ernest Henley, 94 Wellington street, Hull, and Richard M. Devlin, 346 Daly avenue, Ottawa, each elected for trial by jury in police court to-day on a charge of kidnapping, laid by Harry Collison, a special officer from Toronto, in that on June 21 they "did unlawfully, and without lawful authority, forcibly confine or imprison one Frank Faulkner at the city of Ottawa." The case was adjourned till June 30.

$5,000 Bail in Each

Crown Attorney J. A. Ritchie, on bail being applied for, pointed out that the charge was a serious one, punishable, where guilt was proved, with imprisonment for years. He said there were certain facts in connection with the case that added to the offense of detaining. He urged therefore substantial bail. Magistrate Ask with asked for $5,000 in each case. Sureties were given for this amount.

At the request of George F. Henderson, K.C., acting on behalf of the attorney-General of Ontario. Magistrate Askwith agreed that charges of breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act, which had already been laid against Barnaby and Devlin, trading as the Ontario Import Company, should be again adjourned.

Wage Reduction is Postponed

CANADIAN RAILWAYS DEFER ACTION PENDING RESULT OF CHICAGO MEETING JULY 1

Toronto, June 24.—There will be no wage reduction on the Canadian railroads July 1, at least. Brotherhood Chiefs brought this news back from the Montreal conferences with the railway executives, commencing last Friday and ending yesterday. The railways decided not to put a 12 per cent. reduction into effect on Dominion Day, after meeting with the brotherhood officials in conference. The railways asked the men to accept the reduced wages and the employes considered the proposal, with the result that they told the companies that they could do nothing in view of the big gathering in Chicago on Dominion Day, when the heads of the brotherhoods in Canada will have up for consideration the official award of the United States Labor Board recommending a reduction of 12 per cent. on the American lines.

The men of the Canadian brotherhoods told the heads of the railways in Montreal that they would resume discussions with the companies within ten days after the Chicago meeting. If the Chicago award is accepted by the United States railwaymen, the Canadians will summon their committees and negotiations will be reopened with the companies, with the Chicago award as the basis of negotiation. If the award is not accepted the companies will be notified, and the conferences begun last Friday resumed in another effort to arrive at a satisfactory settlement. If no agreement can be reached the railways may apply for a conciliation board to deal with the whole question of railway wages in Canada.

Rules will also be taken up with the wage question. Railwaymen do not expect many important changes in rules.

The present situation is unique in that it is the first time that either party has asked that wages be reduc- has asked that wages be reduced. On ed. On every other occasion the proposal has been for an increase.

FOUND A STILL

At 3 o'clock this (Saturday) morning Mr. A. C. McFee, Inspector of Inland Revenue of this city, License Inspector Naphin and Provincial County Constable Ward made a discovery. It was a still and was located in a thicket in the Township of Kaladar, about 18 miles north-east of Tweed village. The paraphernalia was complete for the manufacture of intoxicants. A young man named Camille Bushey, who is a returned soldier, was apprehended and was brought to the city and locked up. He is charged with operating the still, and was this afternoon brought up before Magistrate Masson for a hearing.

U.S. Tariff Bill Strikes Snags

CONGRESSMEN THINK HIGH TARIFF WALL WILL INJURE UNITED STATES

Washington, June 24.—(By Canadian Press) — Difficulties in the way of the permanent tariff bill are getting worse rather than better. Not only is there every indication that both houses will have the utmost trouble and controversy in fixing the rates but there is complete uncertainty as to when the bill will become law.

The controversy over the tariff on lumber imported from Canada is an illustration of the wide difference of opinion about fixing rates. This difference exists not only as between republicans and democrats but among the republicans themselves. The most intense opposition to duty on lumber from Canada proceeds from republican members who represent agricultural districts and who are aware that the farmers with their long experience in high lumber prices are antagonistic to such a duty.

But there are plenty of snarls and tangles additional to the lumber question which confront the ways and means committee of the House, which is the committee framing the bill. The wool rates and rates on woollen goods and the rates on cotton goods are matters of serious dispute.

There is no doubt that the leaders of the ways and means committee have determined to put high rates on most products and articles. They are high tariff men and they have no sympathy with the low tariff idea. It was predicted early in the present session of Congress that the ways and means committee would report out a bill with exceptionally high protective duties. As time goes on, this prediction is more and more fulfilled.

Strong elements in the House and Senate think that the United States will make a mistake to adopt such a policy and what is needed now is encouragement of foreign trade instead of tariffs which will tend to restrict such trade. Hence when the ways and means committee reports out it's bill both the House and Senate may prove to be of a temper to upset the ways and means program. Certainly there will be a concerted movement in that direction. Many republicans fear the political results of an extremely high tariff. They recall that after the Pyne-Aldrich bill, with its high duties was passed, the country turned over to the democrats to the extent that it elected a democratic house in 1910. Then, in 1912, the House and the Presidency as well went to the Democrats. This history is still too fresh in the minds of many members to make some of them view with complacence the efforts of the high tariff element to write duties in the new bill at too exalted a level.

The impression is growing in Washington that it will be next fall before the tariff measure is a law. It is the general belief that it will be October or November before both the tariff and taxations are acted on.

OLD MAN AND CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

Pembroke, June 24.—Magloire Brosseau, aged 84 years, and his little granddaughter, aged seven years, were burned to death early this morning in the little village of Lapasse, on the Ottawa River about six miles from Westmeath. According to meagre details received here, the Brosseau family lived in the upper portion of a cheese factory, which caught fire shortly after midnight and was destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown.

End of Coal Strike Nears Miners and Owners Confer

GENERAL BELIEF IN LONDON THAT CONFERENCE OF MINERS AND MINE OWNERS WILL RESULT IN AGREEMENT TO RETURN TO WORK—FAILURE OF MINERS' ORGANIZATION TO FORCE GENERAL STRIKE, RESULTED IN REOPENING OF NEGOTIATIONS TO END STRIKE.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 25.—Leaders of the British Miners' Federation meet with British mine owners today for the purpose of taking steps to end the coal strike. There was general belief early today that before the meeting was concluded some sort of agreement would be reached by which the miners would be permitted to return immediately to the pits.

The decision to reopen negotiations was reached at a meeting of the executive committee of the miners' union last night. This step was influenced by the failure of the miners to secure financial support from other unions and the reluctance of other labor organizations to join with the miners in enforcing their mutual demands.

It was indicated that a representative of the government might be present at today's meeting, and it was hoped the government might renew its offer to grant a ten million pound subsidy to the coal industry.

Gets Liquor Worth $45,000 For Nothing

QUEBEC LIQUOR COMMISSION MAKES A MOST FORTUNATE SEIZURE

Montreal, June 24.—As the result of a seizure operated early yesterday morning, liquor to the value of $45,000 has come into the possession of the Quebec Liquor Commission at practically no cost. The seizure was made under "The Alcoholic Liquor Possession and Transportation Act" passed last session as the supplementary measure to the Quebec Liquor Law.

The liquor was seized after coming from Ottawa over the bridges into Hull in motor trucks. They were allowed to pass, but their destination was ascertained and subsequently the liquor was seized, some of it being found on the premises recently rented for the purpose of establishing a retail depot for the City of Hull, whilst cases were found in yards throughout the city. Altogether about 1,800 cases were seized. The liquor will be brought to Montreal, analyzed by the Commission's experts, and placed on sale in the usual way by the retail stores here.

The seizures are liable to have an interprovincial effect, inasmuch as in Ottawa yesterday a stock of liquor valued at $160,000 which the Ontario Government officers had seized from the Ontario Export Company and which the officers had under guard was stolen away, and the belief is that the seizures made by the Quebec Liquor Commission forms part of this stolen stock. The ownership of this liquor was before the Ontario courts, the validity of the seizure, by the Ontario officers being in question.

French Mission Welcomed at Montreal

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Montreal, June 25.—Met at the C. P. R. station by representatives of the Federal and Provincial governments, and by a guard of honor, consisting of about fifty French army veterans, Marshal Aayolle, with a distinguished French mission, arrived in Montreal this morning from New York. There was also a large gathering of citizens present to welcome the mission and the concourse at the station around nine o'clock presented a very official aspect.

A busy day awaits the party, for their program includes no less than six receptions, three visits to academic institutions, a drive around the mountain and city and a demonstration in La Fontaine Park. They leave tomorrow morning for Quebec city.

FISHES FOR PANTS AND MAKES HAUL

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 24.—An impudent thief visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Tisdale, Lundy's Lane, this morning.

A screen was taken out of a bedroom window and a pole with nails in it was used to reach in and remove a pair of pants from the end of the bed while the occupants slept.

Luckily Mr. Tisdale had given his wages received yesterday to his wife, and there was only $1.75 and a watch in the pockets.

Ice in Far North Holds up Census

TWELVE THOUSAND WORKING ON DOMINION POPULATION STATISTICS

Ottawa, June 25.—More than ninety per cent. of the census returns should be in Ottawa by the middle of July, and but few points should remain to be heard from after August 1. The time allowed in the towns is usually from two to three weeks for the completion of the returns, and from five to six weeks in country points. Returns from the Yukon are expected to be in as soon as those from the outlying points in the various Provinces. In the MacKenzie River Basin, the Ungava district, the Canadian Labrador operations are slower owing to transportation difficulties. In the far north ice is still preventing enumerators venturing forth in canoes on their long journeys.

The services of church missionaries of the different denominations have been enlisted by the Census Branch to attend to the filling out of the questionaire in unorganized parts of Manitoba, Onecario and Quebec. There are few points in which a human being is to be found which are not visited by these devoted men in the course of their long summer wanderings.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

GEORGE WALSH ENDS RUN IN "THE PLUNGER"

To-night's performance at Griffin's will end a successful three days' engagement of "The Plunger, the William Fox production starring George Walsh. The story concerns the romance of an erstwhile office boy who rose in a few short dizzy years to be a millionaire broker on the New York stock exchange. Walsh's characteristic speed and ability, combined with an immensely good story, have more than pleased large audiences at every performance.

The Belleville favorite, Tom Moore is appearing on the same program in "The Secret Room" a gripping mystery story, Fox News Weekly, Vode-Vil Movies with its bill of varied vaudeville talent, and "Made in the Kitchen" one of the funniest 2-reel Mack Sennett comedies seen on a local silver sheet are also being exhibited.

"WHAT'S WORTH WHILE?" CAN YOU ANSWER OFF-HAND"

If you were asked "What's Worth While?" what would your answer be? In a vague sort of way you have always told yourself that you knew, but the chances are that you have never given the subject serious thought. Telling yourself a thing is easy, but how would your thoughts on this subject sound, if spoken? If you were to keep that thought "What's Worth While" before you, dissect it, and then practise it, you'd never have cause to say "I'm sure unlucky", and when your day's work is over you would know it had been conscientiously done and your night's sleep would be sweet.

Lois Weber has adapted the thought "What's Worth While" to the screen and it's not a sermon, but a picture of gripping heart interest from stem to stern, in which this producer-director for Paramount Artcraft has won fresh laurels. "What's Worth While?" will be shown at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday. Claire Windsor and Louis Calhern have the leading roles. Others in the cast include Arthur Stuart Hull, Mona Lisa and Edwin Stevens.

George Seitz and Margaret Courtot are appearing on the same program in a gripping mystery story "Velvet Finger", a 2-reel Toonersville comedy and other selected plays have been arranged for exhibition on the same program.

Wedding Bells

MONTGOMERY—YORKE

An interesting and pleasing event took place on Monday, June 13, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Yorke Corbyville, when their youngest daughter, Nellie M., was united in marriage to Mr. Duncan A. Montgomery, of Campbellford, son of Mr. James Montgomery, of Stirling.

Promptly at eleven o'clock, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. W. Hodgen, a sister of the bride, the wedding party took their places under an arch of evergreens and marguerites, banked with ferns.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. McMullen, of Cannifton. The bride looked very dainty and girlish in white silk tricotine and georgette and wore a beautiful veil of embroidered net with Juliet cap and orange blossoms, and carried cream rosebuds. The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Reed, of Belleville, wore mauve organdy and carried American beauty and white roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Raymond Montgomery, of Kingston. Little Miss Gladys Yorke acted as flower girl and Master Kenneth Yorke as page.

After congratulations and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Fred Yorke sang "Until."

The groom's gift to the bride was a purse of gold; to the bridesmaid a pearl and onyx brooch; to the pianist a purse; to the flower girl a locket and chain; to the page a dining set, and to the groomsman a Masonic ring.

After a dainty buffet luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery left on the 2.50 train for Ottawa, the bride travelling in a navy suit with black mohair hat.

The guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Montgomery and Miss Ada of Stirling; Mrs. Martin, of Kansas; Mr. Reginald Sine of Stirling and Mr. Jas. Hall of Latta. A pleasing feature also was the attendance of both grandmothers, Mrs. Hall of Latta and Mrs. Montgomery of Stirling.

On their return the bride and groom will take up residence at Campbellford, where the groom is manager of McIntosh Bros.' store. They will be at home after August 1st.

INCOME TAX ESTIMATE REACHES $100,000,000

Ottawa, June 24—Close to $100,000,000 is the estimated revenue this year from income taxation, the second instalment of which is due a week from today. The response to the first instalment was general and brought in $39,000,000. The second will not be as heavy as a proportion, varying from ten to seventy per cent. in different cities, paid the full tax at the start.

Sir Henry Howard Was British Envoy to Pope After 387 Years Breach

THE death of Sir Henry Howard in England a few days ago recalls that he was the first official representative of the British Government to enter the Papal Court in Rome in almost 400 years. For not since 1534, when Henry VIII. broke with the church, had there been any diplomatic dealings or exchanges between the Holy See and the throne of England. Scion of the Howards, that ancient English Roman Catholic family whose head, the Duke of Norfolk, is hereditary Earl Marshal of England and ranks next to the blood royal, Sir Henry was a diplomat of wide experience when, in 1914, soon after war broke out, the British Government reversed its policy of centuries and decided to renew relations with the pope.

The decision caused considerable comment in Great Britain and roused some protests, but the Government took the step, and for the first time since Tudor days connection was re-established. Sir Henry Howard, as Minister Plenipotentiary, headed the British mission to the pope from 1914 to 1916. He was then succeeded by Count de Salis, a member of a well-known English family, despite his name, and the title, which is one of the Holy Roman Empire kind conferred by the popes as in the case of Count Plunkett, the Irish politician. Count de Salis, who is still at the Papal Court, had a brother or cousin, Major Edward de Salis, attached to the Canadian Army Corps.

As a matter of fact, the post of ambassador to the pope is seemingly a new one. In olden days the pope had his own representatives at the courts of the various rulers, the position of papal legat attaching to certain high bishoprics in the different countries—it still does in Roman Catholic lands. Cardinal Pole was the last papal legate in England, and shortly preceding him was Cardinal Wolsey, whose career Henry VIII. abruptly terminated in 1530 with the axe.

England seceded from the papal monarchy in 1534, when Henry VIII. broke with Pope Paulus III. simply because he would not brook the pontiff as his superior. "Bluff King Hal" thereupon proclaimed himself the "only supreme head on earth of the Church of England." Not until his son, Edward VI., ascended the throne did England become Protestant, in 1547, and then reverted to Roman Catholicism for five years under Mary.

Only with the accession of Elizabeth did the Reformation finally prevail in England. King John in the early thirteenth century confiscated property of the clergy, banished bishops, and kept sees vacant, for which he was finally excommunicated in 1211 and forced back to the fold as a penitent. In the fourteenth century England passed an act preventing Papal interference in certain civil matters, and Wycliffe attacked the Roman dogma. Finally Henry VIII. ousted the monasteries and gave their lands to his favorites.

Some historians credit the beginning of modern diplomacy to the system of Papal envoys to the Court of Constantinople inaugurated by Pope Leo I. in 440. The Papal legates of the Middle Ages had great powers, as Roman Catholic sovereigns — and all were then Roman Catholic — acknowledged that they held their kingdoms from the pope and owed him obedience. The legati a latere, next to the highest form, had the privilege of wearing scarlet garments and golden spurs and riding a white horse. The Congress of Vienna in 1818 declared that the position of papal legate corresponded to that of ambassador.

Strangely enough, the first Concordat, or mutual agreement, between the kingly power of any country and the papal authority for the administration of church affairs in that country was concluded with England in 1107 by the efforts of Anselm with Henry I. It was abrogated in 1534, and, of course, the present arrangement has not re-established it, though the See of Rome is always willing to make concordats with Protestant countries as such.

France denounced her last concordat with Rome in 1905, after it had been in force for more than a century. The concordat with Belgium still remains partly in operation. That with Italy, made in 1817, was suppressed some fifty years ago by the Italian Government. Austria's of 1855 was denounced in 1870, but until before the Great War the emperor retained his prerogative of appointing bishops by anterior right. Holland abandoned her concordat. The Russian concordat of 1847 was never applied by that country whose state religion was the Greek Church. But to-day in Germany, Bavaria, Prussia and Hanover all retain the concordats they established with the pope nearly a century ago. Spain, Portugal and Montenegro also retain this pact with Rome.

Apart from labor leaders, have you noticed the number of men of mark who began their careers amid the grime of British coal pits? Rev. D. R. Godfrey Jones, D.S.O., Harry Lauder, and many others.

Almost Helpless From St. Vitus Dance

THE MUSCLES OF THE HANDS, FACE AND BODY AFFECTED

St. Vitus dance is a disease of the nerves brought on by a morbid condition of the blood. It is common with children, and attacks girls more frequently than boys. Irritability is frequently one of the first signs noted. The child frets, is quarrelsome and does not sleep well. The jerky movements that characterize the disease come a little later. The limbs and sometimes the whole body jerks spasmodically, and in severe cases the power of speech is affected. Such a child should not be allowed to study, but should be kept quiet, given a nutritious diet, remain out of doors as much as possible. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will help the blood restore the shattered nerves. The value of these pills in cases of this kind is shown by the following statement from Mrs. Frank Reynolds, Windsor, N.S., who says: "When a young girl I suffered very severely from St. Vitus dance. I could not keep still for a moment. If I tried to handle dishes I broke them, and could not safely attempt to hold a thing in my hands. No matter what was done for me I could not control the twitching in my face and body. My parents gave me several remedies, but they did not help me. Then one day my father brought home a half dozen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After two boxes had been taken there was an improvement in my condition. By the time the alst box was gone, to my own great joy and relief to our family, my condition was normal, and I have since enjoyed good health. I never lose an opportunity to say a good word for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHEAT IN ALBERTA READY TO HEAD OUT

Calgary, June 24.—The Calgary Herald in its fourth crop report says: "Following the rains on Thursday night and Friday morning, which appear to have been general over Southern Alberta, farmers are in a most optimistic mood. Crops for this time of the year are well advanced and are developing rapidly, some portions of the province reporting that wheat will be heading out within 10 days or a couple of weeks.

"There appears to be plenty of moisture in all districts to satisfy the crops until the end of June, and in very few cases has there been any damage owing to the present of cut worms or grasshoppers. Where the latter have appeared organized campaigns have been carried on for their extermination with considerable success but with the crops so far advanced there seems to be very little serious danger from now on in that respect. The next week or two is indicated as the critical period, and if this period is successfully passed there is every hope of a bumper crop.

"There has been comparatively little soil drifting in the province. Labor conditions are normal, pasture is in good shape, cattle are sleek and fat, but the tendency is to cut down the herds owing to the abnormally low prices, both for dairy products and cattle generally."

HOLD-UP MAN GETS HIS

The victim of the assault and robbery was Ernest Theoret, druggist, 68 St. Viateur street. The crime was committed on the night of May 23. Theoret when ordered by the bandits to hold up his hands, shouted for the police, with the result that they beat him over the head with a revolver, afterwards making off with fifty dollars.

A REAL BIRD STORY

When the farmers in New Zealand began to break the virgin soil on an extensive scale, a certain caterpillar, which hitherto had gleaned a somewhat meagre sustenance from the scanty native verdure of the open lands, disappeared from its old haunts and attacked the cultivated areas. So speedily did it increase by reason of a more favorable environment that it soon became a blasting plague. It came not singly, nor even in battalions, but in mighty armies which laid waste the land. I have seen these atoms cover the pastures in such numbers as to make the green one brown. I have seen countless millions of them pass out of one cornfield, having stripped every stalk bare, cross the road in solid phalanx, and pass into another. I have seen big mobs of sheep mustered in hot haste and driven to and fro over these serried ranks that they might crush them with their scurrying feet. I have seen every horse roller in a district brought up hurriedly like steam engines to a fire, and drawn backward and forward over the crawling masses until the cylinder stuck fast in a mire of squashed insects. I have seen huge ditches dug in an attempt to stop the invaders' progress. The effort was as futile as that of a child who builds a bank of sand by the sea, thinking it will stem the oncoming tide. Even railway trains were brought to a standstill, the wheels of the engines being unable to grip the rails owing to the hordes of caterpillars which were crossing the line.

In time it became abundantly clear that if this disastrous condition of affairs continued it would be useless to attempt to carry on agriculture in New Zealand. Realizing that any attempt which they might make to rid the smitten land of the plague would be but a mockery, the farmers turned their eyes longingly to the natural enemy of the caterpillar—the bird. But the native birds though they had lived in close companionship with the Maoris—had been taught the treachery of the white man in a school that reeked with blood, and those that had not been killed had retreated from the vicinity of the settlements, visiting the insect-ridden fields occasionally only.

Wherefore insectivorous birds from the old country were introduced and the one that multiplied most rapidly was the common house sparrow. And Passer Domestious soon cut short the career of the caterpillars.

As digestion is exceedingly rapid in birds, and as they feed for the most part throughout the day, they are peculiarly adapted for the suppression of abnormal outbreaks of vegetable as well as of animal life.

That formidable imported weed, the Scotch thistle, threatened at one time to overrun the whole of New Zealand. Much time and money was spent by the settlers in cutting of the plant close to the ground, and in pouring turpentine upon the split stumps, hoping thereby to kill the roots. Vain labor. The wind-driven clouds of thistledown, which were planting the weed far and wide, grew yearly denser and more frequent. At length the fields became a packed growth of prickly plants, which nothing could face.

The sparrows took to eating the seed. In tens of thousands they fed on it, giving it the preference of all other hard food, and the weed was conquered.

To-day in New Zealand the sparrow is looked upon as an imprudent thief without a redeeming feature in his character. No one, of course, can say what would happen if the bird was dismissed from the country, though it is probable that the Dominion would be again overrun with caterpillars and thistles.

Is There a Baby in Your Home?

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments come quickly and means should always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers—in fact they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Moise Cadotte, Makamik, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION AT UNIVERSITIES.

Agriculture being the basic industry of the country, every advance made in the development of agricultural education is of national value. Recently, several provincial universities have presented extension courses for the benefit of farmers and others. To this end the educational authorities have co-operated with farmers' organizations with highly encouraging results. In the case of Manitoba a course of lectures was given on rural economics and sociology, supplemented by special lectures on a variety of subjects appealing to other sections of the community. In Ontario also, the University of Toronto was induced to give a similar course. A noteworthy feature of the course was the taking of students to the stockyards, the abattoirs, and other places of a practical illustrative value. It is felt that the alliance thus established between the agricultural industry and those engaged in educational work will tend to a better understanding of economic problems which affect the welfare of town and country alike.

NOTABLE DEVELOPMENT IN POULTRY BREEDING.

The experimental farms of the Dominion are doing some excellent work in poultry breeding. After four or five years, birds and strains have been produced of exceedingly high productive capacity. At Kentville, N.S., eleven breeding pens contain birds that in their pullet year laid an average of 197 eggs, the highest bird laying 270 eggs in 52 weeks. At this station a Barred Rock pullet laid 104 eggs in 104 days. In sections where a few years ago ten or a dozen eggs a year from a hen were a rarity, there are now hundreds that run to from 153 to 250. In the Eastern Townships, Que., 266 eggs have been reached and from 150 to 200 is a common record. In the prairie provinces the experimental farms have reached high record. At Indian Head, Sask., last year, 103 pullets had an average of 183.7 eggs, the highest being 292. At Lethbridge, Alta., the average production has increased two or three times over what it was nine or ten years ago. New Brunswick has a similar tale to tell, one hen at Fredericton reaching 256 eggs in a year. British Columbia, however, takes the palm. At the Agassiz Experimental Farm 200 eggs are common and from 250 to 270 are not rare. At the Vancouver Island station 200 pullets gave an average of 195.97, 82 going above 200. The high production of 300 eggs in a year has been reached for one pullet. Hens that cannot lay 200 in a twelve-month are not wanted, and a cockerel whose mother did not lay 250 eggs in her pullet years is not retained. It should be noted that high class breeding stocks and eggs are available to the public from the experimental farms. This opportunity is being well taken advantage of, the demand for pedigree cockerels, through which the best egg laying results are obtained, far exceeding the supply.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR BAIREUTH

Many were the pilgrims to Baireuth before the war. For those who feel the springtime move to "gang on pilgrimages" as Chaucer's people did, there is the Greek drama at Syracuse, Sicily. Revivals of Asschylus began in 1914 when the "Agamemnon" was given in the great open theatre, visited by the dramatist himself before the Christian era. The Outlook writes:

"I was hewed out of the living rock and was very large, capable of holding some 24,000 spectators. At that time Magna Graecia was powerful and Syracuse was an important city. When Aeschylus, the hero (for he had fought against the Persians at Marathon and Salamis) and poet, landed in Sicily, he was welcomed by a people who were lovers of art. His dramas were performed in the Syracuse theatre. When he died in 456 B.C., at Gela, in Sicily, he was deeply mourned and his remains were buried with almost divine honors.

"In 1914 his 'Agamemnon' was given at Syracuse, and with great effect and success. Those who were present can never forget it. The associations, the charm of the place, the color of the land and sea, the long look backward into the glories of Greece, combined to make this spectacle unlike any similar attempt elsewhere.

"Those who arranged this revival intended to continue the Syracuse representations and immediately to follow this first performance with 'Choephori' and 'Eumenides,' the other parts of the particular trilogy (Aeschylus wrote some eighty plays). But when the great disaster came upon the world there was no time to think of mock tragedies. So seven years have gone by and the Syracuse theatre has been left to its own silence.

"It is now full of life once more. Greek tragedy has been revived, and in a manner worthy of all admiration and interest. This time the play chosen is 'Choephori.' It has been translated into Italian by Professor Romagnoli. Noted artists and architects are responsible for the necessary rebuilding, the stage setting and the designing of costumes. The best actors have been secured, and the chorus and minor parts carefully selected. "Trains are run from Rome to Syracuse without change, as the carriages are taken over to Sicily on ferry-boats. Fair accommodation can be had in Syracuse, though it is necessary to write for them in advance."

TWO LEAGUES IN PLACE OF ONE

London Daily Chronicle

President Harding, therefore, if he is to try an alternative method, must aim at an Association of Nations similar in many respects to the League, but with the obligatory features left out. And this is what he is said to be, in fact, aiming at. His attempts will be welcomed and seconded on this side. The existence of such an Association alongside the League may raise certain problems; but there should be no question of rivalry, nor, in the first instance, of merger. Each would have their appropriate and useful role; and if in time they tended to draw more closely together, that tendency would have to be left for the present to Time's hands.

London Morning Post

Among the savage peoples of Africa there is a functionary of great importance in the tribal system. He is called the Mbongo. It is the duty of the Mbongo to stand behind the chief's stool and chant his praises. The qualifications of a good Mbongo are a loud voice, and an abundant supply of such praises as "He who is wise in counsel," "He who winneth in war," and so forth. An eloquent Mbongo is justly honored by his tribe, and rewarded by his chief both with cows and cowrie shells. And it is said that several of the greatest of the African chiefs have owed more to their Mbongos than to themselves. They are not unknown to our own civilization.

LOST LOVE

Who wins his love shall lose her,
Who loses her shall gain;
For still the spirit woos her—
A soul without a stain.
And memory still pursues her
With longings not in vain!

He loses her who gains her,
Who watches day by day
The dust of time that stains her,
The griefs that leave her gray,
The flesh that still enchains her,
Whose grace hath passed away!

Oh, happier he who gains not
The Love some seem to gain;
The joy that custom stains not
Shall still with him remain.
The loveliness that wanes not,
The Love that ne'er can wane.

In dreams she grows not older,
The lands of Dream among;
Though all the world wax colder,
Though all the songs be sung;
In dreams doth he behold her,
Still fair and kind and young.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

On Saturday evening, June 11th the friends of Miss Nellie Yorke gathered at her home, Corbyville, to present her with a shower of gifts prior to her marriage. The gifts were numerous and beautiful. The following address was read to Miss Yorke:

Dear Nellie,—We, a few of your many friends from among both young and old in the church of your choice, and from the community in general, have gathered at your happy home—not because we have been generously invited, as upon previous occasions—but because we feel that the time is opportune to express to you our love and tender regard, together with our sincere good wishes for your undiminished happiness for all the coming days. We shall miss you, although we shall still be able to have you with us occasionally, and so we ask you to accept these few gifts, with the hope that they may minister in some way to your happiness in that new home into which you are to enter, as uncrowned queen.

The Lower Plate

MECHANICALLY defined, a watch is a machine (containing not far from 150 parts) whose sole end is to "keep moving," and that watch is best as a timepiece the motion of which approaches most nearly to absolute uniformity.

If you open your watch and examine its mechanism, you will find it consists substantially of two supporting plates, between which is mounted a gearing of meshed wheels to take care of the movement recording time. These wheels are called the train.

The lower supporting plate in a Waltham watch is the foundation upon which every unit revolves and is permanently fixed. This plate is bored with minute holes to take the pivots, screws and pinions of the reciprocal parts which form the movement proper.

During the 69 years of watch development at Waltham many illustrious names have been added to the history of horological achievement,—men whose genius for invention, whose supreme skill in making concrete their vision, have produced marvelous machinery that has revolutionized the art of watch-making.

One of these master minds was Duane H. Church, who, among other equally wonderful machines, invented one that drills, threads and finishes the lower plate of the Waltham watch.

This machine accomplishes many operations with such methodically exact, automatic continuity that one instinctively imagines a superhuman brain is hidden in the multifold action controlling its extraordinary work.

It makes every operation (and there are 141) with infinitesimal exactness, to the fraction of a human hair; flawless, beautiful in complete simplicity—every plate a replica of every other plate, an indisputable proof that Waltham standardization gives a uniform standard of highest quality to every owner or purchaser of a Waltham watch.

To test the truth of this we have only to compare the Waltham plate with that made by hand and subject to all the variations which this hand process entails.

How Dempsey Won The Championship

Jack Dempsey played the accompaniment to Jess Willard's swan song on July 4. 1919, at Toledo, O. It was all over in the third round. Jess got $100,000 for the performance, many times the amount Caruso earns in a whole opera. Dempsey got $27,000.

The champion fell down and got up so many times in the first round that the referee became dizzy from counting, and failed to hear the bell. This was on the fifth liason between Willard and the floor.

The gong sounded feebly on the seventh count, but Referee Pecord continued chopping the air over Willard. When he had finished he informed Dempsey that there had been a knockout and the champion left the ring, only to have his manager come running after him with the information that there had been a mistake.

That first round was awful. But it prepared everybody for the worst and no one was surprised when Willard lost in the third round.

Dempsey opened the fight by accepting some taps on the face. Then he hauled off and busted Willard in the stomach so hard that a dazed expression overspread the champion's countenace. Dempsey then landed several blows to the jaw and Willard dropped to the floor for six counts, only to fall again with a blow that greeted his nose.

As he got up a second time he turned his head away but the Giant Killer struck him twice and he fell on his hands and knees.

Arising once more, Willard was cornered by Dempsey who pounded him to the mat with rights and lefts to the face. Again he got up and once more he was knocked down.

Somehow the giant groped his way through the second round, suffering nothing more humiliating than a fall partly through the ropes. Dempsey tore into him again when the third round opened. Willard was groggy and weak, with one eye out of shape and everything gone wrong. His seconds threw the towel into the ring and called it a day.

Betting Light on Championship Fistic Battle

New York, June 24.—Wagering on the Dempsey-Carpentier bout for the world's heavyweight championship at Jersey City, July 2, is extremely light despite interest on two continents that promises to eclipse that evidenced by any previous title battle. Both men have numerous admirers who, as yet, have failed to back their opinions with much money. Stimulated wagering is expected on the eve of the bout with a probable inflow of currency from France.

According to figures at which some money has been wagered in Wall St., Jack Dempsey seems likely to go into the ring an odds on favorite at 3 to 1. Although in past bouts for the title the champion, almost invariably has been the favorite, not since the Sullivan-Corbett battle has the title holder been so strongly favored in a bout of major worth. Sullivan was a 4 to 1 choice over "Gentleman Jim." Willard was a 2 to 1 favorite over Jack Dempsey when the challenger won at Toledo. Jim Jeffries entered the ring favored at 2 1-2 to 1 to beat Jack Johnson at Reno. Johnson, three weeks before he met Jess Willard at Havana, was a 3 to 1 favorite, but these figures shifted as the day of the bout approached and the negro climbed into the ring with the odds of only 6 to 5 in his favor. Jim Corbett was approximately a 2 to 1 shot over Bob Fitzsimmons when they met at Carson City.

The total amount of money wagered on the coming battle to date is estimated by a New York sporting man not to exceed $75,000. A large part of this amount has been placed in so-called "freak" bets. Odds of 9 to 5 have been quoted that Dempsey will win by a knockout. Persons who back Carpentier to drop Dempsey for the count demands odds of 20 to 1. Odds of 10 to 1 have been asked by persons who would wager that Carpentier will not answer the bell for the third round.

The visit of the Brockville baseball team to Smith's Falls on Wednesday was disastrous in that through an unfortunate accident to Cecil Taber, the popular third baseman, the team will be without his services for some time. According to the men who made the trip to Smith's Falls Brockville was leading one to nothing, with two Smith's Falls men out when Taber was injured. He collided with LaVere, the Brockville catcher, in catching a foul fly.

A Message to Mayors, Reeves and Councillors

THE Directors of the Canadian National Exhibition have agreed that Thursday, September 1st, shall be known as Music Day at the coming Exhibition. To make this day of special importance it will be devoted to a festival of Music, one of the features being a competition open to the amateur bands throughout the Dominion.

A band from every town is desired. No matter what size, it will be grouped with other similar bands.

Is Your Town Band Competing?

It will bring the name of the town it represents before thousands of people and boost it as nothing else could ever do. It will give the bandsmen the opportunity of winning a handsome sum from the $3,150 in Cash Prizes.

Full particulars of the Canadian National Exhibition Band Contest will gladly be forwarded to any municipality. Write today to

PEACE AND JOY

A SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"Rejoice in the Lord always; again I will say rejoice . . . and the peace of God that passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and your thoughts through Christ Jesus."—Phil. 4:2 and 7.

Paul has set the true Christianity against the ways of Jewish self-righteousness and the impulse of fleshly minds. We have been considering the Christian ideals, the things that make for righteousness, the type to which we must resolutely conform, in order to reach and maintain our high citizenship. Today we shall continue with Paul and meditate for a short time upon the things that make for peace and joy—remembering that these alone are found in the path of the righteous. What, then, are the things Paul refers to which make for peace and joy?

RELATION TO CHRIST.

The first and most important thing is our relation to our Lord. We must maintain that in order to maintain peace and joy. "Stand fast in the Lord," is the first word of exhortation in this closing chapter. In view of all things in heaven and on earth, in time and in eternity, there is nothing so important as our right relation and attitude to our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Paul is an ideal preacher, for he puts into practice what he preaches. We can safely follow Paul in his preaching and practice. We know where to find Paul; he stands fast in Christ, his Saviour, Lord and King. Some stand fast in the State, they are loyal subjects of King George; others stand fast in the church. They are honorable members of the church. But it is more important to stand fast in Jesus Christ and be found at last in His righteousness, not only justified and sanctified, but "accepted in the Beloved." "So stand fast in the Lord."

RELATION TO EACH OTHER

While we value highly our relation to Christ we must not overlook our relation to each other. It is important to maintain right relations to each other, if we would maintain our joy and peace. As the little foxes spoil the vines, so the little differences that sometimes arise between Christians mar the fruit of the Christian vine. It was true in Paul's day. Some good women had fallen out about something, probably a small matter. Paul is anxious that they be reconciled and resume their fellowship in the gospel. They had been helpers, but at the time of writing this epistle they probably hindered some who were weak in the faith, and others who had no faith. "Be of one mind," rather "of the same mind in the Lord." We should be sure to maintain the right relation to each other because of our relation to Christ; also in order to be efficient co-workers in the ministry of the gospel, and because our names are in the same "Book of Life." If we do not feel right one toward another we cannot enjoy fellowship in the Lord and our joy and peace will be diminished and marred..

OUR TRUEST JOY.

Our truest and highest joy is in the Lord. We must not depend upon each other for joy. Paul exhorts the Christians of his day to rejoice in the Lord; and in order to make clear he means this he repeats it is a duty. "Again I will say, rejoice." It is our duty and privilege to rejoice in God our Savior. Others, by their conduct, may mar your joy, but forbear with them. "Let your forbearance be known unto all men." Be all the more ready to forbear in order to maintain your joy in the Lord, for this reason, "The Lord is at hand." The coming of the Lord was a strong motive and incentive to holy living in Paul's day. Why did they claim it was near, when to us it appears remote? It depends upon the relative importance of the event. If some friend were to write us and promise to visit us six months hence we might think it was a long time; but if we received a message that in six months we would die, in all probability we would be saying, "What a short time to live!" To the early Christians the coming of the Lord was of vast importance. If we say, "Death is at hand," when we should say "The Lord is at hand," we are not rejoicing in the Lord. Let us forbear with our brethren who differ with us and find our highest joy in the Lord and love His appearing, living in view of the thought that the Lord is at hand.

CARE VS. PRAYER.

Let prayer supplant care and peace will reign in our hearts. "The way to be anxious about nothing is to be prayerful about everything. Some are not happy because they are not thankful. "In everything give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." Here is the secret of peace and joy: "In everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and your thoughts in Christ Jesus."

Prize the good things in life and practice the things that make for joy and peace. What are some of the things that we should value highly? The true, the honorable, the just, the pure, the lovely, the things that are of good report—"think on these things"—reckon their value as they make for peace and joy, their influence upon character, and the type of life they produce, and the companionship they bring with them—"And the God of peace shall be with you." Have you reckoned the value of the things that money cannot purchase? Do you desire to enjoy Divine fellowship? Then follow after the true, the honorable, the just, the pure, the lovely and gracious things. "Take account of these things." Do not only think of these things, but do them. Do not merely praise the good you see in others, but do good, "and the God of peace shall be with you." Then, "Rejoice in the Lord."

"Joy is a duty"—so with golden lore
The Hebrew Rabbis taught in days of yore,
And happy human hearts heard in their speech
Almost the highest wisdom man can reach.
But one bright peak still rises far above,
And there the Master stands whose name is Love,
Saying to those whom happy tasks employ,
"Life is divine when duty is a joy."

"Through Hardships To The Stars"

THERE is a fine old family motto, "Per Ardua Ad Astra"—"Through Hardships to the Stars."

Only a person of vision could have created such a motto. Only a family with an ideal could have lived up to it.

IT seems to be a "Law of the Universe" that all human success demands sacrifice.

No institution worth while is ever developed without someone going "Through Hardships to the Stars."

The higher the ideal the more keen the sacrifice is likely to be.

THE founders of the Mutual Life of Canada had before them a very high ideal—"Service to the Canadian Nation."

They did not seek financial success for themselves, for they founded a life insurance company without capital. They wished to build an institution that would be of more than ordinary service to the people of Canada.

To achieve success without capital required superhuman efforts in the early years. By the inspiration of a fine ideal the founders were led through hardships—were called upon to practice severe economies and make great sacrifices.

ON the foundation that they so bravely laid has been reared a super-structure that is a magnificent tribute to them and of great value to the people of Canada.

Because of the sacrifices of the founders, the people of Canada can secure life insurance on the mutual principle—insurance at cost.

EVERY policyholder in the Mutual Life becomes a part proprietor. All the profits belong to the participating policyholders. To-day the Mutual Life provides protection for 84,000 families at a minimum cost and without paying dividends on any invested capital.

Keep before you that fine old motto, "Through Hardships to the Stars", and you will feel inspired to sacrifice and economize yourself in order to carry the full amount of Mutual life insurance your family would actually need if you should pass away.

TELEPHONE SYSTEM

At the last regular Council meeting of the Municipal Council of Monteagle & Herschel a By-law was passed for the purpose of establishing a telephone system to be known as "The Municipal Telephone System'.' It is understood a similar action will be taken in Dungannon, Carlow and Bancroft. Faraday is already enjoying the beneficial results from their system inaugurated two year's ago. This movement to have a municipal telephone system throughout the northern part of Hastings County will be a great convenience.

CONDITION OF HIGHWAY

The semi-monthly report issued by the Department of Public Highways says of the condition of the Provincial Highway between Toronto and Kingston:

" Road rough from Toronto to West Hill, to Liverpool Corners fair, Liverpool Corners to Whitby, there is new stone on the road which makes it very rough but passable, three rollers working. Motorists please drive slowly through work. Whitby to Oshawa there is loose stone on the side of the road, but good running track on the other side. Oshawa to Port Hope very good, no detours. Port Hope to Trenton, gravel road in good condition. Trenton to Kingston good except for space of one mile, two miles west of Deseronto, fresh stone being laid two miles east of Belleville."

The Carman House, at Kaladar, was destroyed by fire on Friday. About six o'clock smoke was discovered coming from the third story. Mrs. Saul, wife of the proprietor, was alone, Mr. Saul being absent on business, returning to find the place in ashes. The loss is about $5,000.

REMEMBERED THEIR PASTOR

Members of the "Lend-a-hand Class," which meets early in the Methodist Church at Tweed every Sabbath morning, met at the parsonage after the prayer meeting on Wednesday evening and presented to the pastor, Rev. A. T. Brown who is leaving that circuit, and who originated the class, and Mrs. Brown with three beautiful tokens of esteem. The pastor spoke of his joy at meeting in the early class and the benefit of its fellowship. After refreshments and singing "Blest be the tie that binds," all parted expressing best wishes and good will.

The Old People very much appreciated the kindness and thoughtfulness of this band of workers, in remembering them. All had a most delightful evening.

Dusty Mill Street

E. R.—I am here paying a visit to my old childhood home. The dear old town has improved since those days, but one street remains the same perhaps a little worse, and as dusty as ever, as when I lived on it 55 years or more ago. Station and Mill streets my uncle, Mr. Webber, kept where Mr. H. McGinnis is now, but if the street remains the same there are few of the old faces left, very, very few. However, the street as it is now, looked like a dear old friend to me and made me feel quite at home, although I remained off it as much as I could on account of its deplorable condition.

Wonderful Rose Display

D.A.—I saw a beautiful display of roses in the garden of Mr. F. E. O'Flynn at his residence, Bridge street. The display is simply wonderful for the time of the year and every lover of flowers should see them. In their profusion and beauty they are indeed a revelation of the wonders of nature in her most kindly mood.

Miraculous Escape

P. D.—On Friday afternoon a yeoman, residing on the Front of Thurlow was driving a car along the Provincial highway and seated beside him was his little girl. There was some obstruction on the road and in turning out to the side the car struck an old stump with such force that the child was hurled out through the wind shield and strange to relate escaped with slight bruises.

Speeding on The Highway

F. M.—The speed limit of the Public Highway is twenty miles an hour and four miles an hour where road is under construction. The way some of the motorists drive past the point under my observation in utter disregard for the personal safety of themselves or the travelling public, not to say the infringement of the Public Laws of speeding, would place a good many dollars in the exchequer of this province to help pay the cost of the Public Highway if brought up and punished in the way they should be, and also allow the travelling public (not motorists) to know they have some right to the highway without danger to their personal safety.

What did you see?

The Argyle Light Infantry Band of this city supplied a program of music and Mr. Bert Bell added much to the program with his comic selections. Mayor Hanna acted as chairman and after the program conducted a very successful sale of fancy goods, at fancy prices. At the close of the program Mayor Hanna was presented with a boquet of carnations.

THE SUBSTITUTE

Kenner and George sat down at the stove and Bob drew up an empty candle box and sat on it. The negro finished his work and went to the front. "Looky' here, Bob," said Kenner, with a seductive smile, "I've been bankin' on you, my boy, an' scotchin' fer you, but you are gittin' old enough to sorter quit yore devilment. I've been hearin' about the way you are a-carryin' on with that little Louisville gal, an' I hated it."

"Oh, never mind that, Mr. Kenner." Bob put his broad, red hand over his mouth and laughed. "I know what I'm about. Don't you bother about me."

"That never will do, Bob—mind what I say," replied the cotton buyer. "You've started out beautifully; you are the wonder an', I may say, the pride of the town, but if the like o' that get's out yore ratin' will drop like the deuce."

"I tell you I know what I'm about," said Bob, "an' I don't want no meddlin'." He was quite serious and his face had clouded over. Fearing he had been too hasty, Kenner took a new tack.

"I was a powerful devil when I was a young chap," he said to George more than to the man at whom he was speaking. "In my day an' time thar was actually the wust set o' young men in this town that ever lived. I wasn't much inclined to go into mischief, but them boys jest made me. It's plumb foolishness to try to lay down rules fer other folks to live by. I l'arnt how silly all that was though, Bob, an' I like to try to influence young fellows to steer clear o' the holes I fell in."

"That's the way with all o' you derned old codgers," Bob said, now in a thoroughly good humor. "You have all the fun, an' when it's over you amuse yourselves by trying to keep the younger generation from doing the same thing."

"But it must be in moderation, my boy," said Kenner seriously, "and that little boardin' school gal is still in short dresses. You've got a future before you, Bob, and are making a bully start. Don't do anything to give the old man a chance to throw it up to us that we was wrong in standin' up fer you."

Bob avoided Kenner's serious stare. "I've got up a new scheme," he went on evasively, "I'm going to fill up a big wagon full of groceries and go away up in the mountains with a lot of catchy handbills. I intend to take along some of the goods to show that they are the right sort, and I'll set around and eat with the people and crack jokes and make friends like a candidate for office. I'll bet you I make it pay. I'm going to start some of 'em this way that are now buying on the other side of the mountains."

"A bang-up idea," said Kenner admiringly. "I've been up thar a good deal myself, an' better folks never lived."

CHAPTER XVI.

MRS. CRANSTON availed herself of the first opportunity to speak confidentially to Kitty Cosby about Lydia and George Buckley after Miss Cosby's arrival from Virginia.

"You remember, I wrote you I had something particular to tell you, Kitty," she remarked on the first afternoon as she and the guest were strolling on the lawn together.

"And you bet you roused my curiosity, Mrs. Cranston," replied the girl, who was quite pretty, decidedly stylish and tall and graceful, having brown hair and hazel eyes that seemed constantly laughing. "I know it's about Lydia."

Mrs. Cranston led her into a summer house near the carriage drive. It had two compartments and entrances from different walks. Before answering, Mrs. Cranston peered cautiously through the wooden latticework that separated the two rooms.

"What are you doing?" Miss Cosby asked.

"I was looking to see if anybody was on the other side," was the answer, in a satisfied tone, as Mrs. Cranston seated herself. "We had a lot of trouble here in the summer at a lawn party, owing to some people hearing themselves talked about. There was a spoony pair on that side and a couple of old maids on this one. The lovers were blissfully silent, for reasons of their own, and they heard some things about themselves that they didn't like. Yes, I want to talk to you about Lydia."

"I knew it," cried the visitor, laying her two hands on Mrs. Cranston's arm and sitting down beside her. "She's going to marry the governor, and you want me to help prepare for the event."

Mrs. Cranston shook her head and went on with a lengthy explanation of the existing state of affairs, in which the name of George Buckley appeared as often as that of Governor Telfare.

"Now, you see the fix we are in," Mrs. Cranston ended.

The young lady was silent, her fair brow wrinkled. "Why, Mrs. Cranston, it's simply awful!" she said after a pause. "It will never do for it to go on like this. It will be ruinous. Has the child lost her reason? Why, if he is as bad as you say, how on earth does he happen to be in—in good society—even here?"

"Perhaps I am not quite fair to him," Mrs. Cranston admitted, "or to Lydia either, in not mentioning what has really been in his favor. In the first place, he is by far the best educated and most refined young man in the place; his employer sent him off to college and gave him extraordinary advantages; then he happens to be a great reader, and Lydia is, too, you know—yes, he has most remarkably polished manners and is decidedly good looking."

"Oh, and you put that last! How ridiculous!" Miss Cosby laughed merrily and then suddenly subsided, for

Gompers Remains The King of Labor For 40th Term

RETURNS TO THE PRESIDENCY OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

Denver, Colo., June 25.—Samuel Gompers, overcoming bitter opposition, was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor to-day for his fortieth term.

The veteran labor leader won over John L. Lewis, of the coal miners' union, who put up a strenuous fight for leadership.

Lewis was unable to overcome the handicap of the strong sentimental hold which Gompers obtained on the labor movement by nearly two score years of administration.

The vote was taken amid dramatic scenes in the auditorium.

The galleries were packed with supporters of both factions. The floor of the convention hall was crowded with spectators. Delegates applauded every vote as it was announced.

It was the first time that Gompers has been strenuously opposed since 1894, when he was defeated for the presidency by another miner. Gompers won the position back the next year, however.

Gompers' triumph was an endorsement by representatives of organized labor of America of his administration and approval of his slow moving and cautious methods in preference to the swift, spectacular driving methods of Lewis.

A Tremendous Ovation

Gompers was given a tremendous ovation as the vote was announced. The seventy-one-year-old labor leader could scarcely control his emotions.

William Green, secretary-treasurer of the mine workers, placed John L. Lewis in nomination. Green has been long associated with Lewis and was one of the leaders of his campaign for the presidency.

Green said he would not make any criticism of the ability of any other candidate, especially that of Gompers, who has given his life to the labor movement.

Only two of the largest organizations cast a solid vote for Lewis—the Machinists' Union and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters.

The miners delegation split their vote, giving Gompers 1,596 and Lewis 2,132, President Lewis declining to vote the 533 votes he held.

The railroad organizations which had been claimed almost solid by Lewis supporters, split their votes, the two largest unions—the electrical workers and the railway carmen—casting their entire vote to Gompers.

The official vote was: Gompers, 25,022; Lewis, 12,324.

With Tears in His Eyes

When the vote was announced there was a tremendous cheer from the floor and delegates called for Gompers. With tears in his eyes, he stood up to start his speech.

He said: "Whatever favor has come to me in previous elections I took it simply as a call to duty. There was little if any gratification in it. The source of my gratification is not in the fact that I defeated Delegate Lewis.

"The source of gratification to me in this case comes from the fact that a newspaper mud-slinging machine cannot control the American Labor movement.

"My election will bring no comfort to Gary or to Hearst

"The voice of labor I will interpret and present as I can, come what may.

"I will speak in no minor, whether it be to a Gary, a president, or any or all of the newspapers."

When Gompers had completed his speech Lewis took his place in the rear of the hall. Lewis said there was no ill-feeling or rancor in his mind.

James Duncan was elected vice-president by practically a unanimous vote. Only one vote was cast against him. Joseph F. Valentine was elected second vice-president.

CAN'T CONVICT A PRETTY WOMAN,

Chicago, June 25.—Mrs. Cora Orthwein was at liberty to-day and freed of the charge of slaying Herbert P. Zeigler, sales manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

The pretty divorcee was acquitted by the jury last night after a deliberation of three hours. Three ballots were taken.

"Public opinion freed me," said Mrs. Orthwein.

"You can't convict a pretty woman," the state's attorney declared.

Ontario Village Swept by Fire

TWENTY-ONE DWELLINGS IN ALEXANDRIA DESTROYED SCORES HOMELESS

Alexandria, Ont., June 24.—Breaking out from a cause unknown at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, a disastrous fire swept the southeast section of this town, destroyed twenty-one frame dwelling houses and one store, and rendered as many families homeless. With such rapidity did the flames make their way through the district, which is known as Johnstown, that the firemen were utterly unable to cope with them.

The section swept by the fire is about a half a mile long and about as wide. The residents of the dwellings were mostly French-Canadian factory workers, and in almost every case lost all their contents, along with their homes.

De Valera Is Likely to Accept Invitation

Realizes There Would be a Great Reaction Against the Sinn Fein in The Event of a Refusal to Negotiate

Dublin, June 27.—President De Valera is likely to accept Premier Lloyd George's invitation to come to London for a conference, according to information supplied to-day from Sinn Fein circles.

The invitation came like a bombshell. It is believed here to have opened a new chapter in the relations between Great Britain and Ireland, bringing prospects of peace immeasurably nearer.

De Valera has personally received the Premier's letter but obviously is undetermined to say whether he will accept until he has consulted his colleagues. There would probably be a great reaction against the Sinn Fein here in the event of a point blank refusal to negotiate or upon indulgence in hair splitting.

Dublineers declare that De Valera should accept the invitation because in case of a deadlock, the dispute could be referred to some other tribunal such as the Congress of Imperial Premiers now in London, for impartial arbitration.

Letter to De Valera

letter to De Valera says:

London, June 26.—The Premier's "The British Government is deeply anxious, as far as it can assure it, that King George's appeal for reconciliation in Ireland shall not have been made in vain.'

"Rather than allow yet another opportunity for a settlement in Ireland to be cast aside, the Government feels it incumbent to make a final appeal in the spirit of the King's words for a conference with representatives of Northern Ireland and Southern Ireland.

"I write, therefore, to convey the following invitation to you as chosen leader of the great majority of South Ireland and to Sir James Craig, Premier of North Ireland.

"1 That you attend a conference in London in company with Sir James Craig to explore to the utmost every possibility of settlement.

"2 That you bring for the purpose any colleague you may select.

"The Government will give a safe conduct to all who may be chosen to participate in the conference.

"We make the invitation with the fervent desire to end the ruinous conflict which for centuries has divided Ireland and embittered the relations of the peoples of the two islands—peoples who ought to live in neighborly harmony with each other and whose co-operation means so much, not only to the British Empire, but to all humanity.

'We wish that there shall be lacking no endeavor on our part to realize the King's prayer. We ask you to meet us as we shall meet you, in the spirit of conciliation for which His Majesty appealed."

A similar letter was sent to Sir James Craig at Belfast, head of the Ulster Government.

HYDRO LINEMAN KILLED

St. Cathrines, Ont., June 25.—Albert Spratt, a lineman in the employ of the hydro-electric commission, was electrocuted while working on a pole. He was engaged in putting into place a 2,200 volt line, using the customary rubber gloves,, when his elbow came in contact with the line, his left leg at the same time touching the ground wire. He was 29 years old.

Three Drownings on Sunday at Toronto

HOT WEATHER DROVE PEOPLE TO WATER AND FATALITIES OCCUR

Dead—Clayton Groh, aged 13, of 392 Meagher avenue; Bert Morris, aged 17, of Norwood road and Swanwick avenue, York township.

Injured—Louis Mackenzie, aged 16, of 2168 Gerrard street east. Arthur Barnes, 5 Beverley street.

Toronto, June 27.—Two youths were instantly killed and two others injured at 2.50 Sunday afternoon when they were struck by lightning. The double tragedy occurred on the banks of a swimming hole in Harris' bush at the head of Westlake avenue, near Cedarvale. Three boys had been enjoying a dip in the creek and had just climbed up on the banks to put on their clothes in hope of getting home before the rain set in. The three boys were lifting their clothes from beneath a large tree when a flash of lightning and a crash of thunder came. Two of the boys fell dead, while the third, who was not beneath the tree, but within a yard and a half of his chums, was struck on the back and legs. He fell unconscious and was found lying with the other two boys when a number of men came to render assistance.

Clayton Groh, aged 13 years, of 392 Meagher avenue, and Bert Morris, aged 17, who lived in a house at the corner of Norwood road and Swanwick avenue, were the lads instantly killed.

One drowning and three accidents took place in the lake in the Beach district yesterday afternoon.

One young man was drowned, it is alleged, through a chum shoving him from a wall into the channel at the foot of Carlaw avenue. A number of friends of the drowned man were swimming in the water, and when they saw him go down four times, they thought he was "fooling," and did not go to his aid until it was too late.

A young girl fainted while swimming at the foot of Leuty avenue and was rescued.

Another young lady severed an artery of one of her feet when she stepped on a piece of rusty tin in the water at the foot of Lee avenue.

A thirteen year old boy took ill in the water at Kew Beach, but succeeded in getting ashore before he collapsed.

Conference Arranged

London, June 27.—At the request of the miners, Premier Lloyd George arranged a conference of coal owners and the miners' leaders with the Local Government Board to-day and there are great expectations that a big move will be made towards settlement.

Will De Valera Accept Invitation

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

London, June 27.—(By Gratton O'Leary, staff correspondent of the Canadian Press,)—In the event of Eamonn de Valera accepting Premier Lloyd George's invitation to visit London for a peace conference it is probable that the Dominion Prime Ministers now in London, will be invited by the Premier to participate in the negotiations.

London, June 27.—The belief that Eamonn de Valera, President of Irish Republic, will accept Mr. Lloyd George's invitation to come to London for a conference with the government and premier Craig of Ulster, designed to bring about a settlement of the Irish problem, is expressed in a majority of reports reaching this city from Dublin. All reports agree that Mr. Lloyd George's invitation caused a profound sensation in Dublin and that the question whether De Valera would accept was the subject of universal speculation.

ESTIMATE OF THREE HUNDRED MILLION BUSHELS OF WHEAT

Ottawa, June 21.—The Department of Agriculture estimates that eighteen million acres are under wheat in Western Canada this year, or 400,000 more than last year. Reports seem to indicate a crop there of three hundred million bushels, which would be worth at $1.25 a bushel, $375,000,000.

Masons Attend Divine Service

ELOQUENT AND HELPFUL DISCOURSES BY REV. D. C. RAMSAY, M.A.

Members of Belleville Masonic Lodges turned out in large numbers on Sunday morning on the occasion of the annual church parade, over two hundred, including visiting brethren, attending divine service at John St. Presbyterian Church, where the minister, Rev. D. C. Ramsay, preached an instructive and interesting sermon, with particular reference to the Craft.

The lodges represented were Moira Lodge, No. 11, Wor. Bro. F. W. Frost, W.M.; The Belleville Lodge, No. 123, Wor. Bro. W. J. Hume, W.M.; Eureka Lodge, No. 283, Wor. Bro. L. E. Walmsley, W.M.

The music rendered by the choir under the direction of Mr. Sam Anglin, and organist, Miss Phyllis Bogart, was very appropriate and added materially to the impressiveness of the service. The anthem was "O, Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus" (Ambrose), with solo by Mr. Anglin. Mr. James Booth sang a solo, "The Way of Life," which was exceptionally well rendered with great expression and fine voice.

Rev. Mr. Ramsay's theme was based on "The Stone which the Builders Rejected," and he pointed out that in the building of life very often the most important stone in the structure was neglected. He spoke particularly of service and sacrifice and the application of the Golden Rule to business. Christianity, the spirit of Jesus Christ, should enter into every day business life and not be confined to a lip service on Sunday. The great perils of present day life were Bolshevism and inefficiency. We should be Master Builders in business life, social, pleasures, home, community and national affairs, and should be fair and honest and helpful in all things. Money does not make success. it is service that counts.

Returning to the lodge rooms votes of thanks were passed to the pastor for his eloquent and helpful discourse, and to the church officials for the use of the edifice, and the choir for the exceptionally fine musical program rendered.

MAN OVER 100 YEARS OLD SET FIRE TO HIS BEARD

Kingston, June 24.—William Thompson, an inmate of the Home for the Aged, has just celebrated his 101st birthday. Up till two years ago he was able to do a hard day's work.

"Sure, I'm just over the century mark. I expect to live ten more years or so yet," said Mr. Thompson.

Mr. Thompson worked on the farm a year and a half ago, but owing to failing eyesight, he was compelled to give up the work. He says that one day, when he was eighty-five years of age, he went out into the field and tired out three men on the mower, thus showing his splendid strength. For over fifty years he was a smoker. One day he fell asleep with his pipe in his mouth and set fire to his whiskers. That day he swore off smoking.

Although not a sufferer from any disease, Mr. Thompson was unfortunate enough to have a tree fall on his back when he saved his child from probable death.

Conference of Premiers May be Prolonged

Special Despatch to the Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited
(Gratton O'Leary)

London Ju.ne 27.—The imperial conference, which reassembled today and which was expected to enter upon a serious discussion of various problems is was called to consider, is likely to last much longer than originally was proposed, probably throughout the month of July. Even then, it is believed it will be found necessary to postpone action on many subjects pending further discussion.

Possibility of delay in proposed daily meetings also is seen in the fact that premier Lloyd George has invited Eamonn de Valera, president of the Irish republic and Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster government to come to London for a discussion of the Irish problem.

Argentine Wants Noted Belleville Aviator

SOUTHERN REPUBLIC CABLES INVITATION TO MR. EARDLEY WILMOT

Mr. Eardley Wilmot, who was for some engaged in flying with the Handley-Page Co. in Argentina, has during the past week received two cables from the Argentine Republic requesting him to return there and enter their service. Mr. Wilmot has declined their offer as his present business venture has proven very successful. This goes to prove that our own Canada presents splendid opportunities to young men.

Mr. Wilmot won his wings in the Ontario training camps during the war and went overseas, where he rendered valuable service to the Empire. After the war he represented the Handley-Page Aeroplane Co., of England, in the Argentine, where he acted as instructor in connection with the military establishment of that country, and had many thrilling experiences flying over the vast level pampas of the southland, and the mountain ranges. His skill as an aviator is evidenced by the fact that his services are in great demand should he desire to return to the sky lanes, but his many friends trust that he will remain in Belleville.

HOLD MURDER TRIAL IN ARCTIC CIRCLE

Edmonton, Alta., June 25.—Major G. L. Jennings, Superintendent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police here, is escorting the judicial party that is to conduct the trial of Albert Lebeaux at Fort Providence, and will go on from that point to the Artic Coast He is taking five men to add to the Police Detachments in the north and will inspect all the posts down the McKenzie River to Fort McPherson and Herschel Island.

The trial at Fort Providence of a Slavetribe Indian charged with the murder of his wife and infant child will be held about the second week in July. It will be the first jury trial ever held in McKenzie territory and will therefore be an object lesson to the natives of the north that British law and justice are to prevail in the wilderness. Judge L. Dubuc has been commissioned to try the case.

THINK THEY HAVE CAPTURED LEADER OF BANDIT GANG

St. Cathrines, Ont., June 24.—The police believe they have an important prisoner in connection with the Port Weller hold-up and murder several weeks ago in Sam Gorkiwik, Austrian arrested last night in a Hydro camp near the Whirlpool.

Without pleading, Gorkiwik was to-day remanded till Monday on a vagrancy charge.

High Constable Boyle believes the prisoner was the leader of the band, and that he is the man various witnesses of the killing of Peter Wovoda referred to as "Sam." In fact he has already been identified, Boyle said. The police have been trying to find Gorkiwik for several weeks, and it was believed he had left the country.

Opera Singers Delight Patrons of Chautauqua

GILVAN LIGHT OPERA SINGERS PRESENT CONDENSED VERSION OF RUDDIGORE

Saturday afternoon and evening saw large audiences at Chautauqua, with an especially large crowd in the evening, showing that the interest is increasing and being reflected in the attendance. In the afternoon and evening session the Gilvan Light Opera Singers rendered delightful programs. These talented artists have the faculty of rendering classical music in a manner which delights not only musicians but all who have any love of music whatever in their souls. The Gilvan Singers is a high-grade musical organization composed of Miss Hazel Huntley, contralto, who has been engaged in opera work for three seasons; Miss Martha Cook, soprano, who recently made her debut at Orchestra Hall, Chicago, where she won instant favor with her beautiful voice; Mr. Joseph Kendrick, tenor, who has been identified with opera companies in Chicago for several seasons; Mr. Tom Morris, baritone, who is a singer and actor of ability; and Mrs. Harris W. Burch one of the leading young pianists of Chicago and a splendid solo artist.

While the programm in the afternoon was charming, it was surpassed by the entertainment given in the evening when the chief feature was a condensed version of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "Ruddigore," which was presented in costume, preceded by some very entertaining selections. The evening program was as follows:

Quartette—(a) The Dance (Moszkowski); (b) La Paloma (Yradier).
Contralto Solo—"Love, Lend Thine Aid" (Samson and Delilah) (Saint-Saens)—Miss Huntley.
Quartette—(a) "Woo, Thou Sweet Music" (Elgar); (b) "When a Maid Comes Knocking" (Friml) from ("The Firefly").
Tenor Solo—Aria from "Faust" (Gounod)—Mr. Jobe.
Scene from "Madame Butterfly" (in costume) (Puccini—(a) "One Fine Day"—Miss Cook; (b) "Flower Duet"—Miss Cook and Miss Huntley.
Baritone Solo —"Over the Desert" (Kellie)—Mr. Morris.
Quartette—Arrangement of "Sextette from Lucia" (Donizetti).
Piano Solo — "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" (Liszt)—Mr. Burch.
A Condensation of the famous Light Opera "Ruddygore" (Gilbert & Sullivan) by entire company in costume.

One Meal A Day in Hot Weather

DOCTOR TELLS HOW TO KEEP COOL—PLENTY OF SLEEP NEEDED

The most important factors to remember when trying to keep cool, a prominent doctor told The Intelligencer this morning, are careful eating and drinking and suitable clothing. Plenty of sleep is advisable and cold baths—meals should be light and not too frequent, in fact the doctor referred to stated that he only took one meal a day in hot weather.

Fish and fruit, vegetables and eggs should be eaten, while meat and fatty substances should only be taken in very moderate quantities. Iced water was to be avoided, as were beer and stimulants.

World Freedom Depends upon Sea Power

ELOQUENT AND INTERESTING LECTURE AT CHAUTAUQUA ON SURRENDER OF GERMAN FLEET

"In these history-making days when cartographers are re-drawing the map of the world, when world rulers are taking counsel together that they may cast up a highway through the jungled maze of nations over which the weak and disorganized peoples may arrive at peace, it is fitting that we of the Anglo-Saxon race should consider well those forces which have kept 'Britain's throne unshaken still, broad-based upon a people's will, and compassed by the inviolate sea'," said Major Arthur E. Runnells, prefacing his Chautauqua lecture on "The Relation of Sea Power to World Freedom.

On the new map of the world it will be seen that thrones and kingdoms have fallen, empires and dynastics have given place to new democracies, all struggling for selfexpression, said Major Runnells, and the events which are responsible for such changes are seen today in the lurid light of destructive flame. The past is revealed in the glare of bonfires, leaving in their deadly wake charred and broken ruins where once peace and prosperity smiled. Lucifer, blind in the garish day of his power, and dumb in the presence of crime, has fallen, and the peoples of the Anglo-Saxon race have been emancipated from the horrible fate which, like a pall, hung over the world for nearly five years.

HUNDRED DAYS OF TRIUMPH

"No thoughtful man can have any doubt that it is to the British Navy we owe our redemption from such a fate.

"From August until November, 1918, we witnessed one hundred days of triumph on land and sea. Among the memorable events in world history the month of November, 1918, will furnish a larger contribution than any other cycle of days in the annals of time.

"It was on the first day of this history-making November that Austria surrendered unconditionally. Eight days later the German peace envoys waited at the mercy of an army which had humbled to the dust a people who had ridiculed every law of humanity and vitiated every virtue which goes to constitute a lasting state. They waited for a gap in the battle line through which they might come to plead for terms of armistice.

GREATEST SINCE RESURRECTION

"On the morning of the eleventh day of November events transpired which will mark it forever the greatest day since God's only Son broke the bars of the grave and triumphed over death.

"Again, two days later the British Mediterranean fleet passed through the narrows of the Dardanelles as British land guns thundered forth their joy, while Constantinople, that proud mistress of the East, bowed her head in shame; for the race which never lets go what it has once gripped returned to the hills and gullies from which it had fought so tenaciously. British, Anzacs and Indians crowded the heights of Sari Bair and Achi Baba to see the tall ships go by. Beneath them in the ranks of the dead slept their heroic comrades, while under the great ships were the remains of the Majestic, Goliath, Ocean, Irresistible and Bouvet, which had perished in the first gallant charge against those sealed straits. Now the seals were broken, the day of freedom had dawned, the dead had not died in vain.

DER TAG REVERSED.

"Another four days later and H. M. S. Oak conveyed Rear Admiral Von Meurer and four of his staff from the cruiser Konigsburg (anchored at Inchcape Rock, the scene of one hundred wrecks) to the British battleship Queen Elizabeth, the flagship of Admiral Sir David Beatty. Their mission was to ask the commander-in-chief of the British Navy to take over seventy-four battleships and one hundred and sixty submarines. They were the emissaries of a navy which preferred humiliation to defeat.

"November 21, 1918, registered a scene the world had never witnessed before. It was the first time in history that a great maritime power hauled down its colors without firing a shot. This day marked the measure of Germany's degradation and the magnitude of England's triumph on the seas.

"Admiral Sir David Beatty, Commander-in-chief, was on his flagship Queen Elizabeth, and Rear Admiral Madden, second in command, was on

THE LONG, LONG LANE.

"The British warships formed into two lines, six miles apart, the avenue through which the German high sea fleet must pass into infamy. The rendezvous was forty miles east of May Island, a few miles from the mouth of the Forth. At nine-thirty o'clock the German fleet was sighted.

READY FOR TREACHERY.

"What would the meeting be? Infectious expectancy and tense excitement possessed the men of the Grand Fleet. At a time like this the unexpected might happen. Many of our men anticipated trouble. Had it come, moreover, it would not have been unwelcome, nor would any act of treachery have found our navy unprepared. There was not a man in the British fleet who would not have welcomed an opportunity to write "Paid in full" across the bill of atrocities repudiated by the Huns.

"Action Stations" sounded the call to the men to their places at 8.30 o'clock. They were ready for what might happen.

"At 9.30 the enemy fleet was sighted off May Island about five miles. Led by the little light cruiser Cardiff the German fleet steamed through the vista of British battleships on their last journey under the German flag. When they let go their anchors in the place of temporary internment off Inchcape Rock they enacted the greatest and most humiliated surrender in the world's history.

GRIM SILENCE.

"There was no saluting, no cheering. The entire affair was devoid of sea courtesy. When the last battleship of the enemy had passed the six miles wide alleyway the Germany fleet had completed their longest cruise since the war began. It had had its first experience of the Freedom of the Seas. After every enemy ship had been inspected and guarded the British Grand Fleet steamed back into the quiet waters of the Firth of Forth, leaving the enemy at the outer gate.

RULE BRITANNIA.

"The greeting which was afforded Admiral Sir David Beatty on the Queen Elizabeth after the surrender can never pass from the memory of men. After the prolonged cheers of the bluejackets, the marine bands played God Save the King and Rule Britannia, a tune which gripped strong men by the throat who had never understood it before. From that moment it became dedicated to a sacred hymn to echo and re-echo through the years, the nimbus of Britannia's invincibility. When the cheering passed into echoes over the unyielding hills of Scotland Admiral Beatty said, "I always told you they would have to come out." He did not expect them to become a procession of captives.

THANKS TO ALMIGHTY GOD.

"From his flagship Admiral Beatty sent this message to all the ships of the Grand Fleet:

"It is my intention to hold a service of thanksgiving at six o'clock tonight for the victory Almighty God has vouchsafed to our arms. Every ship is recommended to do the same.

"To Admiral Von Reuter Admiral Beatty sent this message:

"The German flag is to be hauled down at 15.57 (3.57) today, Thursday, and is not to be hoisted again without permission..

THE ARMADA AND TRAFALGAR

Major Runnells' graphic and eloquent description of that greatest spectacle in the world's history, the surrender of the German fleet without firing a shot, held the large audience in the armouries spellbound and the applause was frequent and enthusiastic. He said that the British Navy had always been the principal factor in preserving the freedom of the world, instancing the Spanish Armada, and the Battle of Trafalgar, which began the victory over Napoleon which was consummated at Waterloo and forever removed Napoleon as a menace to the freedom of the world.

MYSTERY SHIPS.

The speaker eloquently described the great services in the war of the Grand Fleet, the armed trawlers and the "mystery ships," also the assistance of the U. S. Navy and other allied naval units.

At the surrender of the German fleet only one battleship represented the Dominions, and Major Runnells expressed the hope that this would never be possible again, intimating that Canada should be represented in the naval power responsible for the freedom of the seas and the freedom of the world.

ADMIRAL SIMS.

Referring to Admiral Sims, of the U. S. Navy, Major Runnells said that he was one of the noblest gentlemen in the world today, who was doing more to bring a friendly understanding between the United States and Great Britain than anyone else. Great Britain and the United States working hand in hand for the good of the world can accomplish anything, can stamp out poverty and disease, solve the labor problem, maintain peace and send forth a Christian Imperialism to the ends of the earth.

RULE BRITANNIA.

Major Runnells' address was timely in these days when people are apt to forget the great events of recent history, absorbed in matters of minor moment. These things should not be forgotten for a moment or relegated to vague obscurity, for the greatest clash of nations in the history of the world when the very foundations of civilization were reeling under the awful menace of German military dominance culminated in that stupendous spectacle of the surrender of the German Fleet, a sublime tribute to the might of Britain's Navy in preserving the freedom of the seas and the freedom of the world. "Rule Britannia" should henceforth be a sacred hymn, sung in the churches and schools with reverence and joyful thanksgiving in remembrance of the great services of the Grand Fleet during the war, said Major Runnells, and all will heartily agree with him.

BULLET IN BRAIN,
WINDSOR GIRL DIES

Windsor June 22.—Audrey Robertson, 13 years old, died late last night in Grace Hospital from a 22-calibre bullet in her brain, a postmortem held today disclosed.

Audrey, who lived at 36 Bridge avenue, Sandwich West, had been fighting for her life since Monday night, when she fell mysteriously hurt, to the floor of an automobile in which she and several children were riding.

It had been believed she hit some sharp-pointed object in the car until an X-ray examination of her brain by physicians disclosed a revolver bullet.

Children riding with her said they heard no shot. She fell from her seat without a word, unnoticed until after the fall, they said.

The bullet entered the girl's left temple, travelled about five inches and was found imbedded in the back of the skull.

WHAT'S WORTH WHILE

Question is Answered in Lois Weber's Latest Production

"What's Worth While?" Well, let's see! Doggonit! that's a simple little question in simple language, but it makes me think. I've very often heard the remark "that's not worth while". It is not nearly as high sounding as "What's Worth While". Look that last sentence over again. Now don't you agree with me? When you think of "What's Worth While" you think of something wholesome and pure, thinking thus, so will your actions be, and in doing "What's Worth While" there's a feeling goes with it—a peace of mind and exaltation that only worth while things can bring. Lois Weber has picturized her latest original story "What's Worth While" which will be shown at Griffin's to-night to Wednesday, as a Paramount picture. The various roles are in the capable hands of Clair Windsor, and Mona Lisa, Louis Calhern, Arthur Stuart Hull and Edwin Stevens. "The Punch of the Irish" an original and amusing 2-reel comedy, and other varied plays of interest will also be shown.

ROBINS NOW ROB
MILK BOTTLES

Brockville, June 24.—Some citizen in this town will be billed for an extra dollar's worth of milk tickets because a robin took a fancy to the greenback and "stole" it from a milk bottle on a verandah. Frank W. Logan, well-known locomotive engineer and Labor Alderman, saw the robin on his lawn with the dollar note in his bill. Under observation Mr. Robin apparently suffered from a guilty conscience, because he dropped the dollar and tried to camouflage his guilt by picking up a worm. To verify his story Mr. Logan carried the dollar, which still bears the mark of the robins hold. Thrifty Brockville is now placing money at the bottom of milk bottles instead of on top.

KILLED IN AUTO FALL

Ottawa, June 25.—E. Matte, 58 Champlain avenue, Hull, died a few minutes after he was admitted to the hospital here this morning from an internal hemorrhage sustained when the automobile in which he was driving dropped over a six-foot embankment at the intersection of the Buena Vista road and the Rockcliffe driveway, and down a steep hill, till it lodged against a stump about twelve feet below the road. Arthur Masse, who was driving the car, escaped uninjured.

The auto was taking the curve from Beuna Vista road, when according to the driver, the lights of the car went out, and he did not see the side of the roadway, as that part of the road is very dark.

DEER AMPUTATE ANTLERS.

Interesting Description of Growth and Shedding of Antlers of Stag.

A very distinguished Scottish surgeon, MacEwen, F.R.S., has followed up his work on the growth of bone by a study of the growth and shedding of antlers. To this the London Lancet devotes a long review, from which the following facts are condensed:

The antlers of the larger species, such as the elk, weigh more than all the bones of the body put together. The antlers are renewed every year, growing to full size within three or four months and falling off when the time for their usefulness is over. At each renewal they are covered with a thick hairy skin called the velvet, full of blood-vessels, nerves, lymphatics and glands. The speed with which these elaborate organs grow is one of the most remarkable phenomena in nature. Antlers, like all bones, are formed by special cells in the blood; these are called osteoblasts.

On the stag's frontal bone is a small centre of ossification. On this a pedicle forms, covered with cartilage, which, once formed, is a permanent structure, growing in circumference during subsequent years. Each year this pedicle sprouts, the cartilage growing out in advance until the full size of the antler is reached, when complete ossification takes place.

The antler first appears during the second year of the animal's life, when it presents only a single stem. With each subsequent year a tine appears, so that by counting the tines one can tell the age of the stag.

Even from its first growth arrangements are made for the rapid shedding of the antlers. At the base of each is an irregular bulge, called the corona, surrounding the stem. This becomes solid bone underneath the velvet, and its edges press upon this, cutting off the blood supply and nerves, finally cutting its way through the skin and separating the velvet entirely from the skin of the head. The consequence of this is that the velvet dries up, shrivels and peels from the bone in shreds, although the growth in the interior of the antler is still active. A few months later the ossification at the corona obliterates the blood-vessels in the bone until this is dead.

The prettiest part of the arrangement, however, is that at the line where the antler is to separate from the pedicle on the skull a very vascular condition arises and a graulation tissue is formed, like a thin cushion between the antler and the pedicle. This quickly loosens the organic connections between the two and the dead antler falls.

During the latter part of this interesting process the deeper bone-cells of the skull prepare for a fresh effort in producing the new antler.

This shedding of the antlers is really an amputation — an auto-amputation—which takes place in the open air and aseptically. "Nature's methods of self-amputation," comments the Lancet, "be it by way of autonomy, shedding of an antler or fall of a leaf, are scientifically perfect and are prototypes of asceptic surgery in its most complete and successful application."

Heroic Criminals.

Sir William Horwood, Commissioner of Metropolitan Police of London, has just issued a roll of honor of criminals who died for England in the world war.

The list includes not only London men but men who were convicted in all parts of England and whose records were filed at Scotland Yard. There are 283 names on the roll, and among them one man gained the Victoria Cross, two the Distinguished Conduct medal and one the Russian Order of St. George, fourth class.

The Roll of Honor, a copy of which has been sent to every police station in London, is prefaced by the following quotation from Pericles' oration to the Athenians at the memorial service to those who fell in the Peloponnesian War:

"Even those who come short in other ways may redeem themselves by fighting bravely for their country; they may blot out the evil within the good and benefit the state more by their public services than ever they injured her by their private actions."

Not Enough Flags.

A certain admiral tells an amusing story of an explosive old seaman under whom he served many years ago.

During some tactical operations one of the ships of the squadron had made some bad blunders, and at last the admiral lost his temper. He stormed about the quarter-deck, and informed his hearers of his opinion of the officer in command of the erring ship.

When he paused at last for want of breath, he turned to the signaller and said, "And you can tell him that, sir."

The man scratched his head meditatively.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he ventured, "but I don't think we have enough flags for your message."

Father's Breeches.

A reckless young Yorkshireman found a ten-shilling note in a pocket of the breeches he was wearing.

He came home uncommonly happy, having spent it royally, and told his parents of his luck.

"And, by gow," he said, "we've had a reight blow out. We'd beef an' chicken an' ham an' eggs; I doan't know what we didn't hev—an' summat to wash it down wi'. Grandest bit o' luck I've had for many a day."

His father stared hard. "Here," he shouted, suddenly. "What's ta been doin'? Thou's gotten my breeches on!"

He Was Good to Her.

"Jim was always good to me," sobbed the weeping widow. "With all the beatings he gave me, he never hit me where the marks would show so the neighbors could see 'em."

HERE THERE AND EVERYWHERE

BELLEVILLE 3—PETERBORO 2

On Saturday afternoon Belleville Grand Trunks shattered Peterboro's hope by defeating them 3—2. The game was full of pep from start to finish. The day being exceptionally hot, Freddy was in his best form, having ten strike-outs to his credit, while Rose had two and McElroy one. At the last of the ninth, the old ball game seemed to be shattered, when Freddy put three sizzlers over. The loyal cheers of about 150 supporters from Belleville gave him heart, and another man bit the dust. The game was handled by Butler of Lindsay, whose decisions were impartial.

Owing to an unlucky bounce Peterboro scored their two runs but when Jakie brings his team here for the return game, a complete shut-out is looked for. It was plainly seen the best team won, although the fielding of the Petes was superb. Pinnette next to the pitcher worked hard, being all over the field and catching in all manners and styles. But he has to move to keep up to Ross or Casey, a deputation will be sent to Peterboro to ask them to remove that fence back of third base as it hindered Williams from making the circuit. Nevertheless the game was won, and the loyal cheers from the grand stand showed the Peterboro fans that Belleville fans were there in major numbers.

COBOURG WANT PRIVILEGE

Several matters were dealt with at the Central Ontario Baseball League meeting held at Oshawa last week. Cobourg asked for permission to use a pitcher who they frankly admitted is not eligible under the residence rules. Their contention was that it was to the interest of the League that Cobourg should be strengthened. The application of the Cobourg Club will be referred to every team in the League and after all clubs have expressed their opinion by letter, the executive will deal with the matter.

The line-up:

IROQUOIS BY-LAW DECLARED INVALID

Toronto, June 24—An action brought against the town of Iroquois, Dundas county, by Lt.-Col. L. Mulloy has resulted in Chief Justice Mulock handing down judgment holding a bylaw passed by the town, approving the appointment of J. M. Fisher as assessor, invalid, and an assessment roll prepared by him a nullity.

The town appointed Mr. Fisher to succeed S. W. Wood after the latter had refused to draw up a new assessment roll increasing taxation on certain properties in order to cover an indebtedness of $15,000 incurred by the town and which has accrued during the past five years. The new assessor drew up the new roll as required, and the valuation of the properties was greatly enhanced.

Col. Mulloy claimed his property was assessed for $6,055, instead of $2,800.

Chief Justice Mulock granted an interim injunction restraining the town from acting on the new roll until the trial.

NEW ROTARIAN PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT BANQUET

London, June 24.—Following their reception by the Lord Mayor of London, the visiting Rotarians were guest at the banquet which was attended by many notables. Among the speakers at this gathering was the new international president, Dr. Crawford McCullough, of Fort William, Ont., who said the Rotary Clubs were designed to be of service to the world. They represented a practical movement for practical men, and already embraced twenty nations, while their keystone being friendship, their principles were applicable to any creed and color, he added.

One of Luckiest Days of His Life

That's What Toronto Man Says Of Time He Bought His First Bottle of Tanlac

"One of the luckiest days of my life was the day I bought my first bottle of Tanlac," said William Battiste, 80 First Avenue, Toronto, Ont.

"Five years ago I was taken with a sudden attack of headache followed by an almost complete shattering of the nerves and for three weeks lay unconscious in a hospital. After an operation I improved some, but never completely recovered my health. I was always restless and nervous and did not sleep well. My stomach was so bad that nearly always after eating I suffered the severest pains. I had headaches frequently and I could hardly stand the pains in my shoulders, arms and knees. I was constipated and had such dizzy spells I was almost afraid to stoop over for fear of falling. I lost thirty pounds in weight and was so weak and run down I could not take up my business again.

"But from the way Tanlac helped me it just seemed like the medicine was made especially for my case. I have a fine appetite and eat everything without its hurting me. My nerves and muscles are stronger and I sleep like a child. My aches and pains are all gone and, in fact, I feel better in every way than I have in many a day. Tanlac has done me so much good I can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store and the leading druggists.

Fishing on Front Street

Four small boys fishing down a grate on Front street, heads bumping together in a vain attempt to find the lost dime (for their papers). An interested passerby stopped to listen to their suggestions as to the best method—at last the decision was made in favor of a piece of gum prepared by the quartette on the end of a stick. This had the desired effect, and the dime was recovered.

Hydrants Blocked

P. D.—I saw autos parked on Front street on Saturday night in such a manner that if a fire occurred the firemen would be considerably hampered in the discharge of their duties. Not only was this the case, but in two instances cars were parked right up against the hydrants, which is a violation of a city by-law which states that no car is to be left within 15 feet of a hydrant.

Have a Ride?

D. A.—Every day I see citizens who own motor cars picking up pedestrians and giving them a lift down town or home. This is a good brand of community service and is appreciated by those benefitted—keeps 'em from being envious of their neighbors' greater apparent prosperity.

Work Wanted

W. R.—Now that greater Albert College construction is to begin with work for the unemployed, why not start Coleman Ward publis school and help to make times good in Belleville with abundant employment for citizens. Even if it does cost a little more isn't it better to hit Hard Times a whack before he bets chronic?

ALASKA PULP RESOURCES

Washington, June 23.—The forest service of the Department of Agriculture in a statement issued today says the time is ripe to utilize Alaskan pulpwood on an extensive scale. It calls attention to the successful operation of pulp and paper mills in Northern British Columbia which has similar timber and power resources. Alaska is said to contain 100,000,000 cords of timber fit for paper making.

This 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent. Present the coupon to any dealer named below.

Make this delightful test. Watch the quick effects—see the change in a week. Then you will realize what this new way means to you and yours.

A Surprise Tonight
If you will try this way to prettier teeth

This test will surprise and delight you. The results are so quick, so pleasing, so conspicuous.

Millions have already made it. The glistening teeth seen everywhere now show some benefits it brings.

Go get this free tube from your dealer. Use it and watch the effects. It will open up to you and yours a new era in teeth cleaning.

Why prettier teeth?

This method brings whiter, prettier teeth because it fights the film. Your teeth are now covered with a viscous coat. Feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Old brushing methods do not remove it all. Enough remains to make the teeth both dingy and unsafe.

That is why teeth look cloudy. The film-coats absorb stains. Film also causes most tooth troubles. And, under old methods, all those troubles have been constantly increasing.

How film ruins teeth

Film dims the teeth's luster. It also forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Many other serious troubles, local and internal, are now traced to them.

Countless people find that teeth brushed daily still discolor and decay. The main reason lies in that film.

Now we daily fight it

Dental science, after long research, has found ways to fight that film. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

These methods are combined in a modern dentifrice called Pepsodent. Millions now employ it, largely by dental advice. The use is fast spreading the world over among those who know.

That is the tooth paste we ask you to try. Watch its effects on the film. See how your teeth improve. Then let your own good sense decide between old methods and the new.

Three other essentials

Modern science also requires three other effects from a tooth paste. The old methods did not bring them. Pepsodent brings them all.

Each use of Pepsodent multiplies the salivary flow. That is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids which cause decay.

Five important effects come from every application. And modern authorities deem all of them essential.

Not for women only

The most conspicuous effect is glistening teeth. Countless women employ it largely on that account. Few things add so much to beauty.

But men also want white teeth. Men who smoke find that teeth discolor quickly, due to stains in the film.

Pepsodent means more than this, however. It means cleaner, safer teeth. Children need it even more than others. Their teeth are easily attacked, and very few escape. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be used every day from the time the first tooth appears.

To all it means a new conception of clean, well-protected teeth.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

This test will prove a delightful revelation. To you and yours it may bring life-long benefits. Every day you wait may mean new damage. Cut out the coupon now. Present it this week at your store.

CIVIC ECONOMY DOES NOT CONSIST IN CUTTING SALARIES.

Cutting civic salaries seems to be a species of midsummer madness which, occasioned by the heat, makes us do strange things, and be so irritable and nasty that we can hardly endure our own company—you know what I mean. Now we wouldn't think of reducing the corporation street worker, who gets about forty cents an hour—that surely isn't too much, and as the list ascends there does not seem any princely salaries; so why not try a little economy in promoting co-ordination of departments and efficiency, prompt issue of bonds, a central purchasing department, an executive advisory committee consisting of the heads of all civic departments, meeting with the Mayor and Councillors at least once a month to discuss improved civic administration.

If there are too many officials, lop off the dead branches, but do not try to enforce a blanket salary reduction movement, which is bound to work injustice to the many to get at a few.

Anyway, it's vacation time, and nothing would serve to take the joy out of vacation more effectively than a downward revision of one's salary. Onward and upward is the better policy.

THE "HIGH ROAD" TO A HEALTHIER WOMANHOOD.

In the belief that health is next to godliness, women in New York have just organized a Woman's Health Foundation, a co-operative enterprise of sixteen bodies interested in helping American women to come to physical "normalcy." The Y. W. C. A. is leading in the organization. As part of its campaign, says The Christian Work (New York) the Foundation is planning a series of moving pictures that shall help interest women and girls in the idea of being healthy. To this end the first of the series, "The High Road," has been worked out by Carlyle Ellis, under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A. We quote this description of the play:

"Edith, a girl in her teens, who lived in a typical small town where the social life of the young people had consisted of dances and automobile riding, and the interests of the girls have been limited to clothes, and gossip, and boys, has come back from the city with utterly changed ideas as to what constitutes a good time and what makes up a girl's life, thanks to her touch with the Y. W. C. A. Her old-time chum comes to see her on her return home—wants to look at her dresses and clothes. Edith shows her her play suits, with bloomers and detachable skirts. Ethel is particularly scandalized by Edith's decent shoes. 'What are they?' she inquires. 'Men's?' But Edith's idea of tennis and hikes and play carries most of the young people of the town. She even interests the Women's Club, with the result that a health clinic, under the auspices of the Y. W. holds a session in Sheridan. Ethel finds out what a poor person she is physically by reason of bad shoes, and lack of exercise, and so on. So she is reformed. Five years later, one of the two protagonists is ready to lead in the work of the Health Foundation and the other, yet wiser, is married and a happy wife and mother.

"The whole movie is a real joy. To see the virtues of simplicity and health on the screen is an unaccustomed pleasure. The moving-picture interests just now are especially open to suggestions by which the screen can become a constructive force instead of a neutral or even destructive one. 'The High Road' should be a real suggestion to the producers."

CRISP COMMENT

Another sure thing has loomed large on the sporting horizon—Jack Dempsey is touted to win in a walk; but just watch that flying Frenchman. Jess Willard was another sure thing guaranteed to win in a walk; only he went to sleep on the third lap.

Admiral Sims says he "spilled the beans," and had his wrist rapped in consequence; but there are a whole lot of people in and out of the United States who will admit that Simmy said a mouthful which helps Uncle Sam and John Bull to get closer together in friendship.

Yes, it's hot enough for us, plenty. Yes, its the hottest June we remember. No, we couldn't sleep—and all the rest of it—whoop-E! Wasn't it a corker: and only a five-cent shower for a five-dollar thirst!

Greeks and Turks seem bound to mess each other up, despite the Allies and the League of Nations, and the hot weather. Why not postpone the scrap until after the big fight at Jersey City and then challenge the winner?

The women are the backbone of the churches and even in this torrid weather turn out in goodly numbers—in fact, all the best things of life are bolstered up by women for the men are an uncertain quantity when it comes to visible, silent support, such as occupying the pews on Sunday. You may have noticed, too, that the women are the backbone of the Chatauqua entertainments, especially in the afternoons. Take the women out of the Chautauqua and there would be little left but empty chairs. What's the matter with the men of Belleville—do they know it all, or just think they do? Come on, boys, catch up with the girls!

The old maid's excuse is that she lost her sweethart in the Great War. It brings tears to Leader King's eyes to think that he lost the Liberal party about the same time and in the same way.

The story runs that Premier Drury was about to let Attorney-General Raney go when the latter created a diversion by slamming the race tracks.

Tht Hon. Mr. Rowell is mentioned as the next leader of the Liberal party in Ontario. And the first thing Mr. Rowell will probably do will be to get out a search warrant to find the party.

The way Leader Crerar and the United Grain Growers Company behave toward the grain inquiry, one might suspect that the lid covers something even worse than the witch's broth in Macbeth.

What the world needs, according to H. G. Wells, is a new Bible. What Mr. Wells evidently needs is a new world. The politicians make a hullabaloo peace, on paper. It has little or nothing to do with the realities of life. Then come the powers of finance, sitting unofficially and informally, and make unofficial but nevertheless effective arrangements. The politicians proclaim a "war after the war." The Poets' Corner

FROM A BUNGALOW
(Inscribed to Dr. Wales, St. Andrews East, Que.)

Where the little river swerves
By a hundred shoreland curves,
And complaining on its way,
At the rocks that would delay,
Fills the woods that line its path,
With the booming of its wrath.

Where the blackbirds come to lave
In the shallow, troubled wave,
Dipping from the bridge, and then
Back onto the bridge again,
To and fro, while the air rings
With their ceaseless jargonings.

Where the open spaces show
Shadowed heights, and heights aglow,
Tilth and pasture, and the charm
Of the quiet secluded farm,
Such as Horace sang when he
From the city's yoke was free.

Where the travelled road runs past,
Where your pleasant lot is cast,
Many glimpse this green recess
In these woods whose loveliness,
Spreading wide on every hand,
Is the glory of this land.

O, to-day, it seems to me
I have strolled thro' Arcady;
That my secret ways have gone
By the woods of Avalon;
Found the Appollonian fire
In this land of heart's desire.

Tell me, where do mortal eyes
On a fairer paradise
Fix their gaze, or tell me where
Earth breathes a serener air?
Where has beauty built a shrine
Lovelier, or more divine?

Kingston, Ont., June 25.—An astrolabe lost by Champlain in the neighborhood of Greenlake, Renfrew County, in 1613, rests in a Chicago museum Edward G. Lee, Fitzroy Harbour, found it. SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How It May be Overcome—All Mothers Interested.

Toronto, Ont.—"I have suffered since I was a school girl with pain in my left side and with cramps, growing worse each year until I was all run down. I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines, but was only relieved for a short time. Some of the doctors wanted to perform an operation, but my father objected. Finally I learned through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and how thankful I am that I tried it. I am relieved from pain and cramps, and feel as if it has saved my life. You may use my letter to help other women as I am glad to recommend the medicine."—MRS. H. A. GOODMAN, 14 Rockvale Ave., Toronto.

Those who are troubled as Mrs. Goodman was should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Those who need special advice may write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. These letters will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Hay Fever Prevented

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 33

By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

The sting was never taken from the hay fever season until the efficacy of chiropractic spinal adjustments in this ailment was discovered.

Authorities agreed that the infection was the flying pollen of summer. They also agreed that about nineteen out of every twenty are immune to the disease, and that all would be immune if the disease resisting power of the mucous linings of the air passages were of normal health and vigor.

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 26 joints, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full sizes and the nerves deliver 100% of their power.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone opening causes disease in the part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment by hand, and this adjustment opens the way for health (free nerve energy).
7. If chiropractic seems too simple to do all that it can do, remember that every phenomena of growth is caused by as simple a thing as heat.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime because it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

When a full supply of nervous impulses are conducted over spinal nerve lines to these parts, the normal resistance is present. Chiropractic spinal adjustments freeing the nerve lines of interfering pressure, will restore normal health and vigor to these mucous linings. To prevent hay fever begin chiropractic spinal adjustments before your "hay season" starts.

WAR ROMANCE

The marriage took place in St. Paul's Angilcan Church, Newbliss, of Miss Clara Bellinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bellinger, of London, England, to Joseph Reardon, of Toledo, Ont. The marriage was the culmination of a friendship begun in the war-zone some time ago, when then Miss Bellinger was serving as an auxiliary nurse with the W.A.A.C. She was three years at that work.

FIXING HIGHWAY

The Provincial Highway north of the city between Belleville and Foxboro is in full swing. The Government will do all the grading and will put in cement culverts. Later on a crushing outfit will be brought from Cornwall to expedite matters. Credit is due to Mr. Denyes for this as the Government intended only to do a portion and owing to Mr. Denyes urging the matter, it will all be done this summer.

MUSIC EXAMINATIONS

Professor J. W. Bearder, F.R.C.O., of the Dominion College of Music, conducted the examinations at St. Michael's Convent, on Saturday, June 23. Eleven candidates presented themselves, all of whom were successful. Diplomas were awarded in the following grades—Intermediate—Kathleen Crowe; Junior—Margaret Black, Marjorie Calman, Vera Morbey, Agnes Donoghue; Elementary — Margaret Cannon, Phyllis Dutton, Annie Kennedy, June Doyle, Mary Butler, Elizabeth Lupenette.

DAMAGED THE WALL

A portion of the cement wall which adorns the south side of Bridge street west, known as Murney's Hill, was broken off during Sunday morning. It is alleged that a car was left standing at the top of the hill, without the brakes being applied and it started off down the hill, but was stopped when it collided with the wall, and ran up on the boulevard.

HORSE BROKE ITS LEG

On Saturday evening a horse, which was tied up in a vacant piece of ground on Coleman street became loose and in dragging a piece of scantling to which the halter was attached tripped and fell across the curb in such a manner as to break a hind leg. The animal, which had to be destroyed, was the property of the Citizen's Dairy Company.

CO-OPERATIVE WOOL COMPANY

Members of the various U. F. O. Clubs in North Hastings have for some time been advocating the co-operative manufacture of wool. With this end in view, a number of farmers gathered at Bancroft and organized a company to be known as "The Hastings County Co-operative Wool Co., Limited." The company is capitalized at $10,000, divided into 1,000 shares at $10 each, with a limit of 10 shares to each individual. The company have purchased the old sawmill site and water power at L'Amable and will be all ready to operate as soon as the machinery is installed in the building.

A HAPPY QUARTETTE

A quartette of happy Belleville ladies arrived home on Saturday from Toronto bringing with them some silverware. They were the members of a rink of the Belleville Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club, who were successful at Toronto in capturing the Ellis trophy. In addition to being the holders of the cup for a year, an individual prize was given to each members of the rink, namely Miss MacLean, skip; Mrs. (Dr.) Dolan, Mrs. S. Robertson and Mrs. R. Lewis. Needless to say the winners were heartily congratulated upon the success which attended their efforts at the annual tournament of the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Association in the Queen city.

SUCCESSFUL GARDEN PARTY

A very successful garden party and bazaar was held at Point Anne Friday evening at which a choice program of songs, recitations and drills was given. The young ladies of the Point under whose auspices the affair was held were well pleased with receipts which are to be used to assist in the erection of a new church. The Argyle Light Infantry Band of this city supplied a program of music and Mr. Bert Bell added much to the program with his comic selections. Mayor Hanna acted as chairman and after the program conducted a very successful sale of fancy goods, at fancy prices. At the close if the program Mayor Hanna was presented with a boquet of carnations.

GOVERNMENT DISBANDED

Winnipeg, June 25 .—"The Revolutionary Government of Canada," has ceased to exist temporarily, since Charlie Grabowsky, its secretary, was sentenced this afternoon to six months in jail. Joe Kafka, "premier," is already doing a nine months sentence, awarded him last March.

The new "government" was first brought to public notice last February when an aged farmer was held up by Kafka and Grabowsky near Beausejour. Both confronted him with guns, and the farmer handed over fifty dollars. The farmer was handed back a five dollar bill and a receipt for the remainder, being told by Kafka and Grabowsky that they were heading a revolutionary government for Canada which was going to equalize all wealth of the nation.

The case of Harris vs. Kennedy on the charge of assault was brought up in court on Monday morning, and Kennedy was found guilty. It appears Kennedy accused Harris of having favorites and called him a liar. When Harris defended himself against Kennedy's fists, Kennedy became madder and picking up a shovel dealt him a few hard blows over the head. It cost Kennedy $110 for the different costs of the court and restitution. Kennedy is leaving for his home in Ireland.

Unless a settlement is reached in Ireland by July 1st martial law will be proclaimed.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N, Harben

(Copyright, 1903)

her hostess was looking at her with a pained expression.

"It's no laughing matter, Kitty. We are in an awful fix. You know how headstrong Lydia is, and if she were just to get the idea that we were opposing her she'd be worse than ever. So I knew your influence would be good. You will bring her back to the old associations, and in an indirect way you can show her the social advantages of marrying Governor Telfare."

"Oh, I can do all that," said Kitty, "and if she is not already in love with this—this nondescript I'll bring her to her senses. But tell me about him—that's the main thing. What's he like? How does he conduct himself? Why, I can't imagine a—a son of a common thief, a lowborn mountaineer, a penniless bookkeeper, being even for a minute on a social footing with the only child of Major Cranston—even if you are living in the backwoods, out of all creation. If the two were shipwrecked on a lonely island together I should think"—Kitty was displaying her fine, even teeth in a jovial smile—"that the very waves would throw up a sort of barrier."

"The religious element here governs everything," returned Mrs. Cranston, with a patient smile. "These good, Christian people would think we were awfully stuck up if we refused to admit a worthy young man to our house just because his father had gone wrong; besides, he had established himself before his father's trouble. We simply drifted into the situation, and things went on till now we don't know where we stand. But to be perfectly fair to him, Kitty, he's simply a masculine marvel. When I began to fear him I began to watch for vulnerable places in his makeup, but I've found precious few, I tell you—precious few. You know I've seen good society, if any Virginia woman has, and I'm going to tell you that I have never met a more polished man in all my life—no, sir, not in Richmond, nor Boston, nor Charleston. He has actually made me blush with shame. I remember once I disputed his word about one of Balzac's heroes, only to have him prove that I was wrong a few minutes later in the nicest manner.

"He happened to be dining here, too, one night when Bishop Page stopped over with us on his way to Florida. There were several young men present, among them Tarpley Dandridge, who belongs to one of the very oldest families in Georgia and is considered the catch of the county. Well, he sat there like a stick in the cushion of his chair and let Mr. Buckley conduct the entire conversation with the bishop. In fact, Bishop Page simply directed most of his remarks to Mr. Buckley, and it really was an intellectual treat. He tripped the bishop up twice, and the old man flushed, but laughingly admitted he was wrong. He was most favorably impressed with Mr. Buckley, and, of course, I did not enter into awkward explanations. Yes, his manners could not be improved. He must have associated with refined people when he was off at college. I shall always say that the surest sign of a gentleman is for him to put his elbows on the dinner table without seeming to do it. I don't say Mr. Buckley puts his on, but he doesn't sit up like a post and not know what to do with his hands, as some men do. He acts, even on occasions like that dinner, as if such things were an everyday affair. The maid, in passing around the table, awkwardly touched his elbow just as he was about to drink from his glass of claret and shook some of the wine out on my best cloth. Now, I once saw the same thing happen to a man in Richmond, and he promptly laid the blame where it belonged, to acquit himself of appearing awkward, but Mr. Buckley treated it with superb indifference. He was telling some story, and he did not even pause, but, taking a salt cellar, he poured some of the salt on the spot, and as he continued to talk he kept rubbing it in as if he hardly knew what he was doing. The salt saved the cloth from a bad stain, and it was all done as a prince might have done it.

"You know the negroes can never forgive the poor whites for rising into prominence, and Milly, when she was clearing away the things from the table that evening, called to me. 'Come here, Miss Amy,' she said, with a sneer; 'everybody done lef' dem napkins on de table 'cept dat po' white trash, en he lef' his in his chair.' Of course it was a little thing and has no weight one way or another; but, do you know, the next month when I was back in Richmond, and your aunt Tilly had that young English lord to dinner, I watched everything he did and noticed that he dropped his napkin in his chair when he left the table. I have since learned that it is quite customary over there. We don't do it, you know, but really they would look nicer in the chairs than a lot of linen wads stuck about among the finger bowls and salad dishes. They would be less suggestive of the lavatory of a crowded sleeping car early in the morning.

Kitty Cosby drew a full breath when Mrs. Cranston paused.

"And on top of all that you say he's good looking," she said, with a pretty smile. "Well, I'll tell you, you'd better send me back to Richmond. My folks have certain vague matrimonial plans for me, and I don't know whether I'm safe here or not. I always did love to kick over the traces."

"Oh, do be sensible, Kitty!"

"Well, you certainly have got trouble ahead," said the girl, more seriously. "Lydia would hate to cause discord in the family, I know, but nine girls out of ten would fall dead in love with that sort of man under those circumstances, and they would want to stick to him too."

"Oh, Kitty, how could we—how could we possibly write back that our only child marry a man like that?

HAVE NO APARTMENTS

Japanese Believe In Living In Separate Homes.

Frequent earthquakes and low wages of servants account for the fact that Japanese families invariably live in separate homes, says East and West News. There is not one apartment house, not one family living in a hotel, save travelers, even in the decidedly Occidental city of Tokio. Homes there are of small size, made of wood, bamboo and tiles, built very light, so as to suffer the least damage from earthquakes. The most economic and practical size of a house, accordingly, is about eight rooms and is two stories high.

This is the size of house most commonly used all over the country. It is just the right size for the average Japanese family. Then, too, labor is cheap, and a faithful and industrious maid-servant, who will do cooking and house cleaning as well as serving and running errands can be hired for less than $5 a month.

A Japanese parlor of ordinary size is usually a square, six yards by four, with a few walls and many sliding paper doors. These screens and doors noiselessly open into adjacent rooms or else cross a veranda that overlooks a little garden. A little gay folding screen in a darker corner adds variety to the room, and many windows with slender frames of wood, pasted over with thin, semi-transparent paper, give enough light to make it restful and comfortable. The floor is elevated about two feet above the ground and is covered with a thick, soft mattress.

In the well-to-do household, when people sit on the floor they sit on a little square padded cushion about three feet square and three inches thick. Besides this there is a little brazier placed in the centre of the room. Under the alcove there hangs a panel with a picture or a poem in Chinese script and there is a vase of flowers arranged in orthodox fashion. There is no other furniture in the parlor.

The panels and screens are changed according to the season. The Japanese bed, consisting merely of a few thick comforters and a pillow, can easily be made up in any room. It is considered a mark of hospitality in Japan to make the guest's bed in the parlor and put the room at his disposal.

Men Who Inherit Wives!

One of the most extraordinary customs in the world is that observed by certain Persian tribes.

When a native woman wishes to display her affection for a friend of her own sex, she proposes that the latter shall become her husband's wife on equal terms with herself.

"This is the greatest compliment she can bestow," wrote the late Dr. Elizabeth Macbean Ross, who spent some years as a doctor among the tribes of North Persia. She had the hand of many Persian husbands offered to her in this way.

"I must say it is somewhat embarrassing," she said, in her reminiscences, "when the gentleman himself happens to be present, and I have sometimes wondered what the effect on the wife would be if her generous offer were accepted.

"When I told them it appeared to me a curious thing that one wife should select another, I was informed that it presented many advantages. 'It is much better for us to choose our husband's wife; then we get someone we like and with whom we can agree'."

If a husband dies his wives are divided among his brothers, the eldest taking all or as many of the women as he fancies.

Jazz.

Jazz music is being extracted from Japanese-made fiddles. A report from Consul Hawley, at Nagoya, Japan, says a quarter of a million dollars' worth of Japanese fiddles were bought by the United States in 1919, this country taking the great bulk of the product of this new industry, which has been built up in Japan since the world war broke up Germany's business. Three factories in Nagoya produce all the violins made in Japan. They were founded by Masakicki Suzuki, who made his first fiddle, Consul Hawley says, in 1888, using as a model "a foreign instrument brought to Nagoya as a curiosity."

Trees and Wireless Telegraphy.

Trees are being used in the United States as aerials for wireless telegraphy, and messages from Europe have, it is said, been tapped in this way. A hole is bored about two-thirds of the way up the tree, and a copper pin inserted and attached to the receiver by means of a copper wire. It has been observed that trees with foliage are more sensitive than bare trunks, and that the presence of other trees is no impediment, i.e., a tree in a wood can be used as a receiver equally with a solitary tree. Researches are being made as to the transmitting power of trees in this direction, and the possibility of their use in wireless telephony.

Goods by Air.

From August 26, 1919, when air traffic between Great Britain and the continent opened until the end of November, 1920, Britain's imports by air totalled £685,054 and exports £344,876. In October and November, 1920, the imports were £172,332 and exports £109,831, in each case nearly four times as great as in October and November, 1919. The bulk of the air imports came from France, and included large quantities of women's wearing apparel.

Europe's Educational Leaders.

In Europe there are, according to M. Otlet, the Belgian Economist, 1,000,000 teachers, 88,000,000 children, between five and fifteen; 465,000 schools, 45,000,000 scholars, 278 universities, 32 of which have 4,000 students; 700,000 priests in Europe and America; 72,000 editors of European newspapers, and 150,000 writers yearly of books.

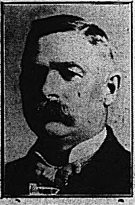
Turning of First Sod For Greater Albert College

Site Overlooks Bay of Quinte

IMPORTANT CEREMONY PERFORMED BY R. J. GRAHAM ESQ., EX-MAYOR OF BELLEVILLE — ADDRESSES GIVEN BY MINISTERS AND POLITICIANS — IMPOSING BUILDINGS WILL BE ERECTED UPON A COMMANDING SITE.

An epoch in the history of Albert College occured on Monday afternoon when upon the beautiful site on the Trent Road overlooking the Bay of Quinte, the first sod for the new and better Albert College was turned by Mr. R. J. Graham, an ex-Mayor of Belville. Despite the fact that the weather was exceptionally warm many citizens were in attendance, also a number who occupy positions of prominence in the city and vicinity. It was an event which Dr. Baker, Principal of the college and his staff had looked forward to with great interest. At the spot where the entrance to the administration building will be locateed was erected a platform from which addresses were delivered and all were of a prophetic vein as to the successful future of the new college.



R. J. GRAHAM, Esq.
Who turned first sod

Mr. H. W. Ackerman, who is a member of the Board of the College, fulfilled the duties of chairman in a manner that was most acceptable and in the few remarks he made, paid a glowing tribute to Rev. Dr. Baker for what he had done to accomplish what was transpiring this day. It was a tribute to the energy displayed by Dr. Baker. The traditions of old Albert College would be followed in the new Albert.

Rev. A. H. Foster, Pastor of Holloway street church, city, delivered an appropriate prayer.

Reminiscence

Miss E Gardiner, lady principal of the College gave an interesting and comprehensive reminiscence of the College, speaking in part, as follows:

Albert College

Methodism had its rise in a College, and, from its inception, it had desired the culture of both the heart and mind of the rising generation. As soon therefore, as the Methodist Episcopal Church had thoroughly established itself in Canada, the pioneer preachers began to feel the importance of some provision for the christian education of the youth of this country.

Preliminary steps were taken to raise subscriptions for a conference seminary, in September 1853. In June, 1854, the General Conference adopted the scheme, and determined to erect and maintain an Educational Institution. Trustees were appointed by the General Conference, the Trustees to consist of laymen only, and the Board of Management of laymen and clerics. The first Board consisted of Rev. Jas. Richardson, John Campbell, John Cummer and Peter Fisher, appointed by the Niagara Conference, and Rev. Benson Smith, Rev. S. W. Ladu, Rev. Wm. Brown, C. E. Mallory, Phillip Carmen, and Hiram Buckley, appointed by the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Some discussion arose as to the site of the new General Conference Institution, the claims of both Brockville and Belleville being strongly set forth. Finally, the pleasant situation of Belleville and its prominence in the local history of theBay of Quinte caused it to be selected as the site for the new school, which, while denominational was to be opened to persons of all grades and opinions, without test or restriction.

The name of Belleville Seminary, suggested by Bishop Reynolds, was chosen for the new seat of learning, which was incorporated in May, 1857, and opened July 16, 1857. The lot ations,) to accommodate 150 pupils, viz., administration buildings, three and buildings cost $30,000; furnishings, etc., increased the cost to $45,000. This sum, increased by subsequent expense, was to be raised by voluntary subscriptions of the friends of education throughout the Province. J. H. Johnson was appointed the first Principal, and Rev. Gideon R. Shepard was brought from the editor's chair at Hamilton, to occupy the position of Moral Governor and first Bursar.

For seven years the school continued to work without change in its constitution, receiving meanwhile many gratifying tokens of public appreciation. But the time had now come when it was felt necessary to affiliate this institution to a University, in order that its progress might keep pace with the growing interests of the province.

After a brief existence as a College affiliated with Toronto University an Act of Parliament was obtained by which the name of the institution was changed to Albert College, and limited University powers thereto attached. By this Act, a Senate was created with power to make statutes for properly conferring degrees. The first session of the Senate began on the first day of April, 1867, Bishop Smith, presiding. In 1871. Albert College was granted full powers and privileges of a University.

From 1858 to 1874, Professor Carman occupied the position of Principal of this Institution and Professor of mathmetics, which positions he filled with remarkable executive ability and great force. In 1874, the General Conference elected him to the highest dignity in the church, the office of Bishop. His successor as President of the College was Rev. J. R. Jacques, D.D. Ph. D., Professor of Classics, a ripe scholar and wise administrator, who had had years of experience as a teacher in American Colleges. President Jaques held this position for ten years when he retired in 1885, and was succeeded by Principal Dyer. The success of the institution under him is too well known to need comment. In 1913, on account of ill health, Dr. Dyer retired, and Dr. E. N. Baker was appointed. The history since his time is known to the public.

Rev. Dr. Baker, who has been Principal of the college for the last eight years and who has done yeoman work for the College and through whose instrumentality, largely is due the proposed new College, stated that in 1917 a disastrous fire destroyed the Administration building of Albert College. This caused the Board to consider the future of the Institution. Some of the authorities of the church suggested its removal from Belleville. The city council, on hearing this, consulted the members of the Board. The result was the submission of a by-law to the rate-payers, to buy 5 acres on the west side of the city, overlooking the Bay. This by-law was carried by a very large majority. Added to this gift, the citizens of Beneville have subscribed $140,000 to erect the new building. This, with the amount given by the National Campaign of $175,000 and some $10,000 by persons outside of Belleville, gives a grand total to date of $325,000. The estimated cost of the buildings, (including found

Canada's Glory Acclaimed When Byng is Present

The lord chancellor presided and the principal speakers were Lord Byng, the new governor-general of Canada; Lord Buxton and Lord Emmott. Reduction of Civic Salaries Referred Back

CITY COUNCIL RECONSIDERS PROPOSAL TO REDUCE CIVIC SALARIES

At a special meeting of the civic committee held a few evenings ago a recommendation pervailed that a general cut of 10 per cent. be made on wages and salaries of city officials and employees.

The recommendation came up in the council Monday night and on motion of Mayor Hanna the matter was referred back to committee for further consideration.

Ald Ostrom thought the matter should be settled at once. He would favor no action being taken at present.

Rotarians Learn of Progress in China

NOTED TRAVELLER AND STUDENT TALKS TO BELLEVILLE ROTARY CLUB

A trip to China and a graphic and instructive description of the reforms which have taken place there, together with a forecast of China's probable development in the future and place in the world of nations, was given Rotarians on Monday at the Hotel Quinte by Dr. Frederic Poole, of Philadelphia, a noted traveller and student of world affairs. The talk was most interesting and illuminative to the members as it lifted the curtain upon developments of recent years in China and showed that steady progress was being made in an educational and national way. Dr. Poole referred to Dr. Ferguson, his friend, and said that Belleville might well be proud of this native son who had attained such distinction in the Far East.

President Moffat occupied the chair, and out of deference to the funeral of the mother of Rotarian W. B. Deacon, the singing of the usual joyful choruses was dispensed with.

Alex. Earl, of Grimsby, and Capt. Hunter were visitors and each made brief addresses.

A cablegram was read from Past President Porter announcing the safe arrival of himself and Mrs. Porter at Liverpool and expressing thanks for floral bouquets found in their state room with good wishes from Belleville Rotary.

It was announced that next week Mack Robertson would have a few words to say about Butter, and would show Rotarians that there was more in butter than appeared on the surface, sometimes more so.

Judge Wills was asked to explain why it was that he was selected for the seat of honor at the ladies' table, and the genial Judge told the envious ones how his star was in the ascendant and he just naturally gravitated to the point of greatest attraction.

Nfld. Railways May All Tie up

OWNERS SAY SYSTEM CANNOT BE OPERATED WITHOUT GOVERNMENT AID

St. John's Nfld., June 28.—Unless negotiations between the Newfoundland Government and the Reid-Newfoundland Railway officials result in an agreement, operation of the system will cease at midnight next Thursday. The system, comprising all the railroad lines in the colony, has a trackage of nearly one thousand miles.

During the war the railroad was taken over by the Government. Recently it was returned to its owners, who asserted that expenses so greatly exceeded income that it would be impossible to continue operation without Government aid. As this was not forthcoming, the decison to cease operation this week was announced.

The Government has proposed to the railway officials the appointment of a commission to study the whole problem, and is negotiating with them in the hope of bringing about temporary operation by the company until the commission is able to make its report. Under the plan the commission would be headed by Sir George Bury, who arrived here from England on Friday last.

Foreign Labor Investigated by Council

COMPLAINTS UNFOUNDED SAYS REPORT OF COMMITTEE

At the City Council meeting held Monday evening the business transacted was chiefly of a routine nature. The recommendation that the salaries of city officials and employees be cut ten per cent. was on motion sent back to the committee for reconsideration, which will likely mean that the proposition will be dropped.

The members present were Mayor Hanna, Aldermen Fisher, Wensley, Ballinger, Bennett, Woodley, Treverton, Ostrom and French.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Reports of committees, communications, etc., were laid upon the table and the council went into committee of the whole on reports, etc., Ald. Wensley in the chair.

The accounts recommended to be paid were passed and the following recommendations were adopted:

That the double platoon system be put into effect in the Belleville Fire Department on July 1st, and that the organization of the department be left in the hands of the chief.

That a light be placed about midway between Pine and Meyers streets on Lingham street.

That Chief Brown be given the privilege of attending the Fire Chiefs' Convention at Three Rivers, Que., on August 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th, as a representative of the city of Belleville.

That in the request of the Steel Company for extension of hydrant service that the company be requested to pay for excavation and fittings necessary to install the hydrant near the office, and the water works department to extend the present first hydrant 150 feet to the east.

That manager of the gas department be authorized to purchase 25 meters.

FAIR GRANT.

Mr. R. H. Ketcheson, secretary of the Belleville Agricultural Society, asked the Council to make the usual grant to that society.—Referred to the Executive Committee.

Mr. George H. Forhan, manager of Griffin's Opera House, wrote the council asking that the granolithic walk adjacent to the opera house be extended to the curb.—Referred to the City Engineer and Chairman of Public Works to attend to.

SEWER WANTED.

Mr. Hugh Galloway addressed the council stating that two years ago a petition was presented for a sewer on Burton street, and he asked the council to build it. A motion prevailed that the matter be referred to the city engineer to report upon.

ADVERTISING SCHEME.

Mr. C. M. Hall asked the Council if on the 19th day of July an airplane would be allowed to land on the fair ground. The plane in question was being used to advertise a brand of paints. The council granted the request of Mr. Hall.

A few inquiries were made and answered in a satisfactory manner.

MOTIONS.

Moved by Ald. Fisher, seconded by Ald. Wensley that a bylaw be prepared whereby all owners of property will be required to cut the weeds on the street in front of their property and on their premises.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Woodley, seconded by Ald. Bennett, that a grant of $200 be granted to the Salvation Army for temporary relief work.—Carried.

FOREIGN LABOR.

Ald. Bennett reported that the special committee appointed by the council to investigate a complaint that foreign labor was being employed on construction work in the city in preference to local labor had found that Mr. Bumbacca, who is constructing a sewer, had one foreigner in his employ and he lived in this city with his wife and eight children, but had not yet taken out naturalization papers.

Turning The First Sod

dormitories, dining-hall, gymnasium and swimming-pool, is $500,000. Besides this, $100,000 has been subscribed for Endowment. Marvellous as is the acquiring of this large sum of money, more wonderful still is the spirit that has made this generosity possible, viz. the unbounded faith in the possibilities of Albert College and the appreciation of the contribution that it is making to our National life. That sainted woman, the late Mrs. Levi Massey, said to me. "Fear not the future of the great work. God has put it in your heart, and He will see it to completion." The movement from the beginning justifies this prophetic statement.

H. W. ACKERMAN, Esq.
Chairman

Albert College with the history of the school since its beginning in 1857, with the generous gifts so far for this enterprise, with the long felt need for just such an Institution to meet the needs of the times, with what is more than all these—the seal God has put upon the efforts of the Board so far in this enterprise, surely has a bright outlook—as bright as the promise of God. "My God shall supply all your needs." All that is needed on our part who are privileged to take up these burdens is to realize our opportunities, catch the spirit and carry on the work of those who made it possible for us to enjoy such an heritage.

Rev. W. Elliott, Pastor of the Tabernacle church and President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, gave an appropriate address referring to the history of Albert College and the grand work which it had accomplished. Many had graduated from the college with honors and were to-day occupying positions of trust in the country. Albert College says that every young man must have a chance in this life. This was a memorable occasion, the turning of the sod for a greater Albert College. He wished God's blessing on Dr. Baker and the College.

Mr. A. McGie, chairman of the Board of Education, said there was no rivalry betwen Albert College and tho Belleville High school. All were pleased at the progress Albert College was making and it was gratifying to Dr. Baker and those associated with him that this day had arrived.

He hoped it would not be long before the sod was turned for a collegiate in the city. Albert College has otherwise they would have been unable to obtain. The Board congratulated Dr. Baker and those associated with him in this undertaking.

Mayor Hanna

Mayor Hanna, in a few well-chosen remarks, spoke of the pleasure it was to be present upon such an occasion, which was an inspiring one. All citizens united in wishing the greatest of success to the greater and better Albert College.

Ex-Mayor Ketcheson

Ex-Mayor Ketcheson, in his remarks, referred to the pleasure it gave him and the citizens of Belleville to have this by-law passed, which gave a gift to Albert College to help in retaining that College in Belleville. Albert College had done much for Belleville, and it was a proud day to have the first sod turned for a greater Albert College. We look forward to the day when Belleville and Albert College will be known even more widely known than they are to-day. We wish Dr. Baker and the officials all success in this great undertaking.

Principal Coughlin

Dr. Coughlin, Principal of the O. S. D., being called upon said he was pleased to be present to take part in this ceremony. Albert College has had a great record and in the future we expect to see a better and greater Albert College. He (the speaker), had great admiration for Rev. Dr. Baker. Through Dr. Baker's energy is due the fact that Albert College is retained for Belleville. He was pleased that the new College was being built upon a site so adjacent to the institution he (the speaker) presided over. He hoped that the College and O. S. D. might be able to co-operate to the advantage of both institutions.

Speaker's Tribute

Hon. N. Parliament, M.L.A. for Prince Edward County and Speaker of the Legislature, said he was proud to be able to take part in the proceedings, which to his mind, was the biggest thing he had ever participated in. Education was a lofty ideal, and it is only by education that we can attain to the goal of our ambitions. In speaking of the million dollars which the Provincial Government gave for Education, he (the speaker), thought that Albert College should be remembered. Every effort should be made to try and induce the Provincial Government to make a grant to assist in building Albert College and assisting in its maintenance. This country is destined to be the greatest country the sun shines on. We must develop our citizens to the best possible advantage and it cannot be done to a better advantage than in institutions of learning such as Albert College.

W. H. IRELAND, M.P.P.

Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., for West Hastings in his address referred to the privilege it was to be present upon such an occasion. He congratulated Dr. Baker and those interested with him in the success that had attended their efforts. The Provincial Government should make a grant to an institution like Albert College to assist any young people to secure an education. He would do all he could to secure a grant from the Government.

H. K. Denyes, M.P.P.

Mr. H. K. Denyes, M.P.P., considered it an honor to be present on an occasion like this. The past Principals of Albert College had done much for that institution, and no person had done more in her way for the College than Miss Gardiner. The influence of Albert College goes to the end of the earth. Some of the great colleges in the United States have upon their staffs those who received their early training in old Albert College. In the heathen lands many have been Christianized through the influence of some who were former students of Albert College. Some of the great men of the world came from this city of Belleville and vicinity, such men as Sir Gilbert Parker and Rev. Chas. Hanson, an ex-Lord Mayor of London, England. He wished every success to Dr. Baker and the staff of the College.

Turning the Sod

Rev. Dr. Baker, in presenting the silver spade to Mr. R. J. Graham, to turn the sod, stated that Mr. Graham was a Sidney boy, whose father was so wel known in this section of the country.

Upon the handle of the spade was a silver shield, which bore the following inscription:

The turning of the first sod of the New
ALBERT COLLEGE
by
R. J. GRAHAM
June 27th, 1921.

Mr. Graham made a few remarks in accepting the spade and stated he was born upon a farm and had virtually lived upon a farm all his life, but the sod to be turned looked rather hard for the instrument he had been asked to accept and use. Some one had, however, loosened the ground for which he was thankful. He appreciated the honor which had been conferred upon him on this occasion. He never had the privilege of attending Albert College, but he was interested in its work. The new college would be a better and greater institution and the results would, no doubt, be better than ever before. The institution in the beautiful location selected would help to make a better and bigger Belleville. The work done in the college was a grand work, and a useful work, in educating boys and girls for life's work. Without Dr. Baker there would have been no turning of the sod to-day for greater Albert. The Dr. had stood nobly for the college, and had given generously of his substance. His zeal and energy was worth emulating. All honor to Dr. Baker for what he had done for the institution.

..).E...xetb-.... shr vbgkq HTHH

Mr. Graham then in a graceful and expert manner carried out the task which had been assigned him and turned the first sod for the great institution which will adorn that part of the city within the next three years.

The procedings were brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Pastor of John Street Presbyterian Church.

NOTES

A number of ministers of the city and district were in attendance at the ceremony evincing much interest in the proceedings.

Mrs. T. Ritchie and Miss Holden, two ladies who were students of Albert College, in its early history, were amongst the spectators.

Messrs. J. L. Moulton and F. C. Miller, two of the college students at the close of the proceeding gave the college yell.

It is expected that the work of excavating for the foundation of the building wil be commenced to-morrow (Wednesday).

What's Worth While in Life?

WORTH WHILE IN LIFE?—CAN YOU ANSWER OFFHAND THIS PUZZLING QUERY?

Presenting in novel form problems understood by every man and woman, "What's Worth While?" a Paramount picture produced by Lois Weber, was shown at Griffin's last night. The picture has been admirably produced and the story, that of the love of an aristocratic young woman for a primitive man, offers numerous opportunities for effective characterization. There are many thrilling moments in the scenes that are unfolded and a practically all star cast interprets the various roles. Chief among the players are Claire Windsor and Louis Calhern, their portrayals being exceptionally artistic. "The Punch of the Irish" a funny 2 reel Lehrman comedy George Seitz and Marguerite Courtrot in "Velvet Fingers" an interesting mystery story, British Pathe news, Screen snapshots showing popular screen stars at work and play are being exhibited on the same program.

Saucy and Sociable

C.C.—Those little stupid Chipmunks which scampered about the lawns of East Bridge street are sociable and saucy, and an explanation of their tameness may rest in the fact that that Belleville boys now, through nature study at school, and Boy Scout lore, have learned to love the furry and feathered denizens of the trees and open spaces, and do not chase them with sticks and stones like they used to do when Grandaddy was a boy.

Lost Their Motor Car

K.K.—I saw two young ladies come out of Chautuaqua upon a recent evening and look in vain for the family motor car, which they had parked while enjoying the entertainment. The car was gone, and while considering what to do in the matter and wondering what Daddy would say they caught sight of Father hiding in the crowd and enjoying their fruitless search for the missing car. Daddy had come along, spied the car, taken a spin, and then left it at another place, just to have a little joke. Relief and laughter chased each other in merry ripples over the faces of the young ladies, and Daddy is chuckling yet.

GOV,T NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR CARVELL TALK

Addressing a meeting of railwaymen in Medicine Hat, when the men were asked to state any grievances which they might have, Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, said that he was sorry to find that many railway employes were under the impression that Hon. F. B. Carvell is a member of the government, and that the government is responsible for any utterances he may have made.

"No government could ever have expected that a man in Mr. Carvell's position would have gone out and publicly discussed matters that were properly dealt with in his court alone," Senator Robertson said, according to a report in the Calgary Herald. "The railwaymen have a right to feel aggrieved at the statements he has made with regard to railway work or wages, some of which were not correct. When I found that the railwaymen were being so unfairly attacked I took the matter up in Parliament, and I might point out that there have been no more of the speeches referred to, because Mr. Carvell is now convinced that he was wrong in the stand that he took."

DEMPSEY'S POOR SHOWING AGAINST BRENNAN

Jack Dempsey knocked out Bill Brennan in the twelfth round of their bout at Madison Square Garden, Dec. 14, 1920, in his most recent contest.

The champion's showing that night against Brennan, a good second-rate boxer, was far from reassuring. The champion appeared to have suffered from the long lack of action. He was much slower than in previous bouts. Brennan hit him and appeared to hurt him and Dempsey left the ring after the fight bleeding from an injured ear. The bout, however, was slow through most of the rounds. Moving pictures were made and many believe that therein lay the reason for the unexpectedly good showing on the part of Brennan.

Dempsey throughout failed to show his usual aggressiveness. Brennan apparently had no fear of the champion, and took the initiative in several of the rounds, often standing toe to toe with Dempsey slugging. However, Dempsey managed to wear down the challenger in the later rounds and in the twelfth, a left to the body and a right to the head sent Brennan to the canvas in a neutral corner. It was the only knockdown of the unsatisfactory bout.

JEANNETTE SAYS GEORGES CAN HIT

The early months of 1914, the close of which was destined to see Carpentier a soldier in a real fight, brought the Frenchman his first defeat since he had lost to Billy Papke in 1912. Joe Jeannette, the American negro heavyweight and one of the game's hardest hitters, was the victor over the Frenchman in a slashing 15-round bout. Many spectators thought that Carpentier should have been awarded the decision.

In spite of that, Carpentier's hitting power shown in that battle convinced Americans that here was a real top-notch heavyweight. Twice he sent Jeannette to the canvas with crashing blows to the head. Jeannette has since declared that the blow which Carpentier floored him with early in the bout was the hardest that ever connected with his anatomy.

The veteran negro,, who has done little fighting for several years, is now a resident of Hoboken, N.J. He has done considerable work with Carpentier while the Frenchman has been training at Manhasset. One afternoon recently Carpentier, while sparring with the negro unleashed his right with its full power and once again Jeannette hit the canvas, stunned but not knocked out.

"Can that boy hit?" was Jeannette's question as he slowly rose to his feet, while Carpentier apologized.

"Ah'll say he can hit. What that right lands on must go, and that includes Mistah Dempsey."

THE ECLIPSE OF JESS WILLARD

Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard met for the world's heavyweight championship at Toledo, O., July 4, 1919. The day was blisteringly hot. Thermometers at the ringside registered as high as 130 degrees. The big arena, constructed to seat 75,000 persons, contained only a few hundred more than 19,000. The gate receipts, however, insured the financial success of the project.

There was a marked contrast in the demeanor of the boxers as they entered the ring. Jess Willard, the champion. was almost arrogantly confident. He approached the ring with a sure stride. climbed through the ropes and gazed calmly out on the crowd with the suggestion of a confident smile playing around his mouth.

Dempsey's manner was more serious. A scowl, which visitors at his Atlantic City training camp have seen this summer while he has boxed, was intensified as he heard the instructions of Referee Ollie Pecord. The casual observer would have said he was doubtful of his ability to defeat this huge opponent.

With the bell for the opening round doubt as to Dempsey's confidence vanished. He rushed Willard, plying him with rights and lefts, first to the jaw, then to the body.

After 45 seconds of action, a right to the body and a left to the jaw dropped Willard to the canvas. For the remainder of the round the champion displayed courage seldom equalled in the squared circgle. Seven times during the round Willard was either knocked down or sent helpless to the ropes. He was prone when the gong sounded for the close of the round. In the clamor, the gong was not heard and it was believed for a moment that Willard had been knocked out. Dempsey even started to leave the ring, believing that he was the victor. There has been doubt as to whether he actually got out of the ring.

Willard, a gory, bloody mass, both eyes closed but still fighting, managed to last two more rounds. He was unable to answer the bell for the fourth round and Dempsey was declared the winner by a knockout in three rounds.

Great Arena Erected For Fistic Battle

New York, June 28.—The greatest arena Tex Rickard has built is ready to accommodate approximately 70,000 spectators when Champion Jack Dempsey meets Geotges Carpentier in Jersey City, July 2.

Since April 28, more than 600 workmen have been distributed over all sections of the huge octagonal saucer which grew daily under their tattoo of hammers until today, when their labor was completed. The great reinforced structure, covering nearly a third of the tract known as "Boyle's Thirty Acres," awaits the inspection of government engineers and the installation of telegraph wires through which millions of persons, compared to whom the 70,000 actual spectators will be numerically insignificant, will see the "Battle of the Century" through their minds' eyes.

Twenty-five minutes from Broadway and 42nd street, a more advantageous site for the contest could not have been chosen. Tube trains under the Hudson River will carry thousands of persons to stations near the arena. Ferry boats will carry more thousands across the river from Manhattan to trolley centres in Jersey City within easy reach of the battleground. More than a dozen trunk-line railroads with Jersey City as a terminal, will bring their quota from distant places. Several transcontinental railroads, with yards only a few blocks from "Boyle's Thirty Acres" will park special trains of Pullman cars on convenient sidings which enthusiasts from distant points will use for shelter during their stay here.

The arena is the largest ever built by Rickard or any other promoter for a boxing contest. It exceeds by far the ampitheatre in which Johnson and Jeffries met in 1910 at Reno, Nev., and also the one where Jess Willard lost his title to Jack Dempsey at Toledo, O., two years ago. It was built at a cost of $200,000. Two and a half million feet of lumber, equal to 475 miles of boards, laid end to end, or about 140 carloads, have been used in the construction.

Better than ever before at a boxing bout, holders of reserved seats will be protected at Jersey City on July 2. Long experience in the psychology of "fight crowds" has taught Tex Rickard the wisdom of precaution. Fences with barbed wire barricades, will mark the limits of the various seat sections, to which the crowd will have access through 20 entrances. Every seat except the five dollar general admissions, has been reserved, and the holder of a $50 or $40 seat will enter and walk to the desired point of vantage with as much ease and certainty, Rickard assures, as the purchaser of an orchestra seat in a metropolitan theatre.

Advance sales have indicated that a greater proportion of women will attend the bout than has ever been the case in a title match heretofore. Rickard has declared that nearly one-fourth of the crowd will be composed of feminine spectators. Boxes, immediately in the rear of the $50 seats, have been constructed with the aim of accommodating "box parties" comfortably.

Numerous groups of officials, including Governor Edwards of New Jersey and his staff; Mayor Hague of Jersey City and possibly M. Daugherty, Attorney General of the United States, will add to the color and the quality of the unusual throng.

Only in the varying distance at which the different priced seats are located from the ring, will they vary in desirability. Persons in every part of the arena will have a clear view of the boxers throughout. No posts, poles or obstructions will hamper the vision. From the ring, raised about five feet above the level of the ground, the seats extend in a gentle slope upward in every direction for approximately 300 feet, making the breadth of the arena, from side to side, slightly more than 600 feet. The structure at its most distant point is 38 feet high.

Fans, curiosity-seekers and the hangers-on, familiar to every boxing crowd, have made life a bit irksome for the force of watchmen which Rickard has installed at the arena on day and night shifts for protective purposes. Refreshment tents and booths for those who will vend "soft drinks, peanuts, crackerjack and souvenirs," have been erected outside of the big enclosure within the past week. War prices for these commodities may prevail, but as yet none of the vendors has had the temerity to flash a menu or give an inkling of the cost of edibles to the intending purchasers.

Inside and outside the arena, the big bout promises to furnish the most colorful scene which the patrons of boxing ever have witnessed.

Do You Weigh More Than at 30?

IF YOU DO YOU ARE TOO FAT, SAYS A MEDICAL AUTHORITY

Do you weigh more than you did at thirty? Then you are too fat, says an editorial writer in The Journal of the American Medical Association. That is "the period of ful maturity," and the proportions that are normal then should be maintained through life. Life insurance experts now shake their heads at excess of fat, and consider that it renders the possessor liable to all sorts of ills. Diabetes is one of the chief of these, we are told by the paper above named. Physicians have long noted the liability of the well-to-do to this disease; and the reason is now obvious. Says the editor:

"The increment of theb ody weight which is so commonly observed, particularly among the well-to-do classes, toward middle life is often looked on as a natural or physiologic gain which is to be expected after the age of forty. As a rule it causes little concern to those who are thus adding to their size, unless the gains are of sufficient magnitude to produce discomfort in certain types of activity or to occasion disfigurement from the standpoint of prevailing views on the human physique.

"Nevertheless, the life insurance companies have long insisted, on the basis of the elaborate statistical data which they have collected that overweight is a physiologic liability rather than an asset. Actuarial experience shows that an increase in weight with as age advances is not a sign of ideal conditions for health and efficiency. It is, in fact, deduced that the admitted handicap of gain in weight with advancing years should be combatted. We should endeavor, a recent writer states to keep our weight for the age of thirty the period of full maturity, as experience shows that those so proportioned exhibit the most favorable mortality.

"What are the burdens of obesity and why does it shorten life? Various answers, mostly indefinite in character, may be forthcoming in reply to this question. Tissue fat must be carried about like any other incubus. We are reminded that overweight puts a strain on the heart and on the joints, and that it pushes up the diaphragm and cramps the lung. A gaining adult who is already overweight may find his physical activities restrained and bodily exertion made labored. Accordingly, with an unchanged food intake the surplus of vicious cycle is presently established. The obese person inevitably limits his exercise; he grows heavier from the unused reserves, and his activity thereupon becomes ever more restrained and limited. Overfeeding, obesity, and lac kof exercise interply until 'big' becomes 'bigger'.

"Joslin has uttered a more specific incrimination against overweight as a menace to well-being. In a well-directed argument based on elaborate statistical material, he has reached the conclusion that diabetes is largely a penalty of obesity, and the greater the obesity, the more likely it nature to enforce it. There is a wide-spread tendency on the part of many clinicians to explain—perhaps one should say to excuse—obesity as the result of constitutional causes independent of mere overeating in ultimate analysis. Undoubtedly, there are such instances. Granted there is one person in a thousand, Joslin writes, who has some such inherent peculiarity which has led to obesity, there are 999 for whom being fat implies too much food or too little exercise or both combined.

"The comparative frequency of diabetes among the well-to-do classes is readily understood in the light of their liberality of diet; diabetes as a sequel to infectious diseases may be an expression of the overfeeding of convalescense."

Hold-up men are again becoming active in Toronto.

A LAW THAT IS SCORNED.

"Even though the immigration law were all right in the main," says The New York World, "there is something wrong with it in detail when a librarian who enters this country from Canada to work in the New York Public Library can be deported as a contract laborer. Miss Eileen Coughlan was hired to work in the periodical room of the library while still employed in the Public Library at St. John, N.B. She entered the United States unquestioned and took the job. But when the immigration authorities got wind of the nefarious preliminary agreement they summoned her to Ellis Island and, finding her to be a contract laborer, sent her back to St. John. This ruling reaches and passes the height of the ridiculous."

THE TIME IS RIPE.

The official Egyptian delegation scheduled to leave Cairo for London yesterday, is under the leadership of Adly Pasha, the Premier. The object is to bring to a head the negotiations based on the recommendations of the Milner Mission which, in presenting its report last winter, concluded by saying:

> The moment is favorable for placing the relations of Great Britain and Egypt on the satisfactory and enduring basis of a treaty, which will at one and the same time establish the independence of Egypt and secure the essential interests of Great Britain. It will be an undoubted advantage to Great Britain to have those interests carefully defined and placed beyond a challenge in a treaty accepted by the Egyptians, as it will obviously be an advantage to Egypt to have her integrity and independence guaranteed by Great Britain. We therefore strongly advise His Majesty's Government to enter without undue delay into negotiations with the Egyptian Government for the conclusion of a treaty on the lines which we have ventured to recommend. It would, in our opinion, be a great misfortune if the present opportunity were lost."

To bring on the negotiations for the treaty and to avoid the delays hesitations, and internal conflicts which have marred so many settlements with disaffected nationalities is now the one thing needful. Lord Milner, who has devoted himself to this work with patience and thoroughness, is able to judge, better than any man living, of the value to the Empire of a friendly Egypt and the cost and menace to it of a hostile Egypt.

FIRE PREVENTION AND INSURANCE.

Everyone must have been struck with the number of fires which have taken place recently throughout the entire country, and figures published show that they are still increasing in spite of everything that can be done to urge greater precautions. In considering this most people must have been struck with two points. Firstly, that the use of fire extinguishers is so seldom in evidence, and this is the more strange in that good authorities declare that many a disastrous fire could have been stayed by their use. The point would seem to be, even that in cases where there were extinguishers, there were not enough; one or two more would have put out the fire. The lesson is obvious.

The other consideration is the smallness, or the total absence, of the insurance on the destroyed properties in so many cases. Insurance agents have declared that they are frequently amazed at the risks of fires without insurance which people will run. This is the more puzzling because we believe that a little over two per cent., certainly three per cent., of the value of buildings, stock and furniture, would cover their insurance against fire loss, and it would appear to be only ordinary business precaution to make this outlay. It might be added the poorer a man is the greater is the necessity for his safeguarding the future. One feature regarding insurance also is that many men are still carrying the same insurance as they did years ago, quite forgetting the rise in prices and this accounts in some measure for the smallness of fire losses paid.

Considerable criticism is coming from U. F. O. quarters directed at the Drury Government, and one U. F. O. club bluntly calls for the resignation of Hon. Mr. Biggs, Minister of Public Works, with a vigorous denunciation of his road policy. As the supposedly economical government is the most expensive that "has been" the people have some right to expect results in keeping with the enormous expenditure, and thus far they have been disappointed.

The instructive and entertaining features of Chautauqua are being thoroughly appreciated by many Belleville citizens, but in consideration of the fact that several prominent public men will have to go down in their pockets and make good the deficiency of last year in sums of from fifty to one hundred dollars each the concluding sessions should be marked with exceptional patronage as an encouragement to the public spirit manifested by these worthy citizens.

WAILING AGAINST WASTE

London Daily Mail

The women are taxpayers. They realize that everybody, even the richest, has got to pinch. But they are refusing to pinch in order to find, for example, $29,000,000—more than we spent on any Department before the war, except the Navy—for this year's military expenditure in the Near East. We cannot afford mandates at that price. Neither can the Government—if they want to win by-elections. Waste and the staggering taxation it necessitates made their defeat at St. George's inevitable.

EDUCATION AMONG THE EGYPTIANS

Egyptian Mail

It is most desirable that the youth of Egypt should be encouraged to take up commercial affairs. The Government service is overcrowded and there is, moreover, no reason why they should allow foreigners to monopolize trade in this country. If a Greek can make a fortune in Egypt in trade (as so many have done) why cannot an Egyptian? Yet how often do you hear of an Egyptian Prince of Commerce? Whatever political changes the future may bring, these cannot affect the argument; indeed a free Egypt would have all the greater need of men properly equipped to hold their own in the world of commerce.

The Poets' Corner

"A DREAM OF HOME AND YOU."

Last night, dear, I dreamed of home and of you,
And the dear days of long ago,
Again we wandered by Kelvin's clear stream,
In the calm of the sunset's glow.

I saw the old home and you, dear, were there,
And you sang, as you used to do,
The songs that I loved, the old, old sweet songs
Of love and of lovers true.

I lived o'er again the joyous days, when
The future was rosy and bright.
How happy were we, how cloudless our sky,
And radiant with love's golden light.

I wake from my dream, far from the Old Land,
Between, lies the great ocean deep,
Far from the old home and far, dear, from you,
And lonely I sit and weep.

It cannot be that we're parted for aye,
Oh, some day my dream must come true,
My heart is so full of longing to-night,
To see the old home and you.

Excellent for Headaches, Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatism, Pimples, Etc.

You no doubt have been taking all sorts of medicines for your particular ailments, but you only get temporary relief and sometimes no relief at all. Toronto Girl Tells of Movie Folk

"EVEN LOS ANGELES INTERESTED IN FATTY ARBUCKLE'S $22,000 AUTOMOBILE,"

"Let me see. I wonder what I can tell you about California? "I wonder what Douglas Fairbanks or one of the other famous moving picture stars was doing just before I left Los Angeles!"

The speaker kept her face very serious, but her dark eyes were twinkling mischievously. Her name is Miss Helen White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. White, formerly of Toronto, but now for the past two and a half years of Los Angeles, California. At present, she is back on a little visit to friends in Toronto, before leaving in a few days to spend the summer with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Minto, at Sunset Island, Lake Joseph.

"But, do the moving picture people occupy such a large share of the stage out in Los Angeles?" asked a chorus of voices.

"The visitors from the east, and every place else for that matter seem to be interested in the movie actors, their homes and their motor cars," said Miss White. "For example, it is even interesting to us who are living here to see Fatty Arbuckle whizzing about in the big car he had made specially for himself, a really wonderful automobile that bears a strong resemblance to a truck. It is stated on good authority that it cost him $22,000.

"Possibly, with the depression in the moving picture business, there will not be so many wonderful automobile driven by the firm actors and actress as there have been for some years past.

"Many of them are out of work, and just before I came away, there was a big entertainment given out at the race course at Welchier boulevard for the benefit of the actors' fund. In the pageant, which was a feature, the well-known stars, and lesser lights as well, appeared in the costumes worn by them in leading roles. Mary Pictford, by the way, was a most facinating Little Lord Fauntleroy.

"One thing which it claimed is injuring the film-making business in California is the advent of so many imported films. Apart from exception taken for other reasons to the film 'Passion,' which was brought to Los Angeles recently, there was great indignation because it was said to be made in Germany,' on the banks of the Rhine, I understand. The members of the American legion simply took matters in their own hands and threatened to mob the theatre unless it was stopped."

Mention was made by a member of the group by which Miss White was surrounded of Elinor Glyn, Canadian authoress, who has turned scenario writer. "She is a most prominent figure there and people vie with one another in entertaining her," said the former Toronto girl, who the next movement wanted to know if anyone present had heard of "Jackie Coogan's new picture, the old story of "Peck's Bad Boy," adapted for the talented kiddie.

"Don't think that the moving picture people are the whole of California," finally protested the visitor. "The surprising thing is to find so many British people. There are 50,000 in Pasadena alone, and we really see more of our eastern friends in Los Angeles than we do when we are in the east."

HARDING MAY APPOINT MINISTER TO CANADA

Washington, June 24.—It was intimated today that administration officials would welcome a revival of the suggestion that more fromal diplomatic relations be established between Canada and United States by appointment of a Canadian diplomatic representative to Washington. Reciprocal action by the United States in appointing a Minister or Ambassador would require legislation, it was explained, but pending such authorization a diplomatic commissioner could be sent to Canada.

On Sunday a fire which threatened disaster to woods, and fences broke out on Harold Killip's farm, near Picton. The fire was discovered in a stump fence and was burning fiercely. All afternoon men shovelled sand on the blaze while others with teams drew water. There is considerable valuable timber in the vicinity and as the swamps are very dry there was danger of a distasterous conflagration. The men succeeded in getting the fire under control before it reached the woods.

Music, Travel and History at Chautauqua

HIGH-CLASS MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN BY FILLION-ROBB ORGANIZATION

Of the many delightful entertainments already given by the Chatauqua in the city, those given on Monday afternoon and evening by Mr. Ferdinand Fillion and assistants are placed by many music lovers in the lead. The afternoon program was in two sections, the first being musical under the direction of Mr. Fillion, the second being a lecturette, "China and the Chinese," by Dr. Frederic Poole. The afternoon session was opened by Dr. Harvey Robb, the prominent pianist and organist of Toronto. Dr. Robb is well known throughout the province for his sure musicianship and splendid style. His first and only instrumental solo was a Prelude in C Sharp Minor. Complete quiet reigned throughout the hall so every note was perfectly heard in every corner of the room. A hearty encore was demanded and granted, Dr. Robb playing a spirited number as an encore. Next on the program came Fern Goltre Fillion, who is internationally known as the possessor of a beautiful coloratura soprano voice and a charming personality. Her voice is of exquisite quality and she is a mistress of florid vocalization, which with her personal loveliness have won her a host of admirers in this city as well as throughout the continent. Mme. Fillion is a leading artist-teacher, as is M. Fillion, at the Toronto Conservatory of Music. Repeated applause won two encores from Mme. Fillion, proving her deserved popularity with the music lovers of the city, who, despite the heat of the day, considered themselves lucky in being able to be present.

M. Fillion, the eminent French violinist, who is recognized as one of the outstandingly successful artists on the continent, playing on one of the oldest violins in existence (made some time before 1600) his tone is famous for its beauty. He has marvellous technique, surmounting all the difficulties of the instrument with ease. He is also a violinist of mature artistry and musicianship in interpreting the most serious works, and possesses that rare power among virtuosi, the ability to touch the hearts of great audiences with just a simple melody. For the last six years M. Fillion has been touring on this continent, everywhere praised by critics, and with a success proved by constant re-engagements. His playing yesterday completely captured the hearts of his audience. Insistent and numerous encores were called for and acknowledged by him after each selection.

Many were the exclamations of dismay heard when, previous to the performance, Mr. Heston, superintendent announced that as yet the crowds in attendance at Chautauqua have not been sufficiently large to warrant the return of this famous association to the city. However, it is hoped the deficit may be overcome. About three hundred were in attendance at the afternoon performance.

The musical programs were as follows:

AFTERNOON CONCERT.

Prelude in C Sharp Minor (Rachmaninoff); Waltz in D Flat (Chopin)—Mr. Robb.

Robin, Robin, Sing me a Song (Spross) Lo! Here the Gentle Lark (Bishop) —Mme. Fillian.

Little Mother of Mine (Burleigh); Le Coeur de Ma Mie (Dalcroze); I. Bacio (Arditi); The Little Gray Dove (Saar)—Mme. and M. Fillion.

Scenes de le Csarda, No. 2 (Hubay); Serenade (Moszkowsky)—M. Fillion.

Caro Nome (Rigoletto) (Verdi); The Swiss Echo Song (Eckhart)—Mme. Fillion.

Ave Maria (Schubert-Wilhelmj); From the Canebrake (Gardner)—M. Fillion.

EVENING CONCERT.

Gavotte (D'Albert); Scherzo (Friml)—Mr. Robb.

Prelude and Allegro (Pugnani-Kreisler); Valse Bluette (Drigo)—M. Fillion.

Ah, fors' e lui (La Traviata) (Verdi); As We Part (Ilgenfritz); Clavelitos (Valverde): The Stuttering Lovers (Hughes)—Mme. Fillion.

Zigeunerweisen (Sarasate); Old Black Joe; Vienese Popular Song (Kreisler)—M. Fillion.

Allenby and Lawrence in Word and Picture

DR. POOLE TAKES PATRONS OF CHAUTAUQUA TO PALESTINE AND ARABIA

The outstanding feature of Monday's Chautauqua program was Dr. Frederic Poole's lecture "With Allenby in Palestine and Lawrence in Arabia." It was a wonderful story, fascinating to a superlative degree, and told in such a manner as to completely captivate the audience, which was one of the largest so far assembled within the Armouries.

Dr. Poole illustrated his lectures with an excellent series of colored slides and motion pictures which brought vividly before the audience the wonderful scenes of that most wonderful campaign which finally freed the city of Jerusalem from the Turk. So much was crowded into the short space of one and a half hours as to positively bewilder one. Then scenes on the march across the great desert, the ancient cities, the battlefields, Jerusalem and its environs, the temples and mosques, each picture having a special interest, but the climax came when the lecturer took the audience to the wonderful ruined city of Petra. Petra was formerly the Nabathaean capital of Arabia Petraea, situated in a narrow valley of the Wady Musa, about 110 miles southeast of Jerusalem.

It appears to have been a place of considerable extent and great magnificence, for its ruins, which consist largely of great temples and palaces, are cut out of the solid rock and cover a large space. It is said to have been theIoktheel of the Old Testament, taken by Amaziah from the Edomites. A splendid series of colored pictures were shown of this wonderful city, which has been uninhabited for the past 1,500 years and stands solitary and deserted in all its grandeur. But Dr. Poole threw pulsating life into it when, by means of motion pictures the audience was thrilled by seeing British and Indian troops marching through the narrow valley and gorge leading up to the city and amidst the ruins themselves.

Adding to the interesting pictures was the story so captivatingly told by Dr. Poole.

Fascinating and interesting was the story told by Dr. Poole of the wonderful exploits of Col. Thomas Lawrence, the unassuming young Englishman, explorer and archaeologist, who went alone into the desert and induced the Arabs to join the English against Turkey and thus added a most valuable arm to the British forces which drove the Turks out of Palestine and saved the Suez Canal and Egypt. Col. Lawrence has refused Knighthood, the V. C. and every honor, and prefers to live in comparative obscurity. One of the greatest characters of the war, Col. Lawrence is the most mysterious.

Dr. Poolo appeared in the native costume of the near east, which added interest to his excellent descriptive lecture. While he hails from Philadelphia and speaks as an American, Dr. Poole was born in Yorkshire, England, which explains many of his mannerisms and many of the good things he said.

Golden Sphere, of the Seagram stable, an imported English horse, won the derby, defeating Bluffer, an American horse, at Hamilton.

Theatrical Bed at Chicago Hospital

The Board of Trustees of the Chicago College of Osteopathy at a recent meeting to set aside the receipts of the Benefit Concert given by Madame Galli-Curci, as a partial endowment of a Theatrical Bed at their hospital. The theatrical profession is "strong" for osteopathy, and it is hoped this bed will attract the interest of the players and their friends. Miss Blanche Bates, of the Famous Mrs. Fair Company, playing at the Blackstone Theatre at the time, worked to dispose of the boxes for the benefit, and personally addressed some 100 letters to the leaders of society in Chicago; Miss Jane Cowl, of "Smiling Through" as well as Nancy Gibbs and her sister, Dorothy, of "Monsieur Beaucaire" assisted at the bazaar given by the Women's Auxiliary of the Hospital. Charles Marshall, Galli-Curci, Otis Skinner, Edythe Wynne-Matthison, Fred Stone, Elsie Janis, Blanche Ring, Julia Sanderson, Jane Richandson, Frank Carter, Billy Van, Helen Shipman, of "Irene" fame, Paderewski, Calve, Nordica, Raisa, Namara, Frank La Forge, Godowsky and many others of the profession, all interested in osteopathy. It is felt this Theatrical Bed is but a start, and it is hoped the Osteopathic profession will bring this to the attention of all their following who are in the theatrical and musical walks.

Wedding Bells

HARNETT—McCAULEY

On this, Tuesday, morning, at nine o'clock, the marriage of Miss Helen Jane McCauley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCauley, to Mr. Maurice J. Harnett, son of the late Daniel Harnett, of Toronto, was solemnised by the Rev. Father Killeen at St. Michael's Church. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Daniel Harnett while Miss Mary Davidson, cousin of the bride, performed the duties of bridesmaid]

The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away, looking very dainty and charming in her bridal grown of white satin and lace, trimmed with seed pearls, and wearing the customary veil and orange blossoms, carrying a shower bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid looked charming in a gown of embroidered white georgette, with picture hat and shower bouquet of pink roses.

Two little flower girls who preceded the bride up the aisle of the church were little twin-nieces of the bride from Toronto, their baskets being filled with roses and sweet peas. Mrs. J. Grant presided at the organ, singing the responses, high mass being celebrated by Rev. Father Killeen. Mr. Harold Barrett sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Upon thec onclusion of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served to the many guests.

The groom's gift to the bride was a silver mesh bag, to the bridesmaid a pearl sunburst, to the groomsman a pearl tie pin, and to the flower girls signet rings.

Mr. and Mrs. Harnett left on the 2.56 G. T. R. train on their honeymoon and will visit Hamilton, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. On their return from the honeymoon the happy couple will reside in Toronto.

Obsequies

MRS. JANE A. DEACON

On Monday afternoon many citizens were in attendance at the obsequies of the late Mrs. Jane A. Deacon, relict of the late Mr. William Deacon. Their presence to pay the last tribute of respect to the departed was evidence of the esteem Mrs. Deacon was held in. At the family residence, George St., Rev. Dr. Cleaver, pastor of Bridge St. Methodist Church, conducted an impressive service. Rev. Dr. Baker and Rev. Geo. Brown assisted in the service. At the family plot, Belleville cemetery, the body was laid at rest. The floral tributes were many and beautiful and were mute expressions of sympathy from relatives and friends. The bearers were Messrs. B. Quincey, E. F. Dickens, S. Burrows, C. Ashley, C. S. Clapp and E. P. Frederick.

Called by Death

JAMES A. McKINLEY

On Thursday last at Dodsland, Saskatchewan, Mr. James A. McKinley, a prominent farmer in that district, died suddenly. Deceased was a former well-known Bellevillian, having lived here for a number of years. About 10 years ago he moved to Dodsland. His demise will be regretted by many in the city and vicinity. The funeral services were conducted at the family residence and graveside by Rev. Father Scheubler. Mr. McKinley was a member of the Roman Catholic church.

LANDLORD RESPONSIBLE FOR HEAT FURNISHED

A case of wide interest to tenants in apartment blocks was decided at Winipeg recently when Henry H. Pigott, a tenant, brough suit against W. W. Cross, owner of a local apartment block, for failure of the janitor to provide sufficient steam heat. The plaintiff claimed that his lease entitled him to enough heat to kep his suite at a comfortable temperature. Evidence showed that the janitor was negligent on numerous occasions in this respect, one night the temperature dropping to 45 degrees.

A verdict for the plaintiff of $450 damages and costs was returned, the jury contending that the defendant was liable because he did not personally see that the janiotor kept the suite at a proper temperature.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N. Harben
(Copyright, 1903)

What would the Parsons, the Woodburys, the Delmars, think? And Aunt Hallie, who at once gets the particulars, and if the name were not down in Bishop Meade's "Old Families and Churches" she'd have a fit. It won't do, Kitty; it won't do. Something has got to be done."

"Yes, but what?" said the girl. "You can count on me. I'll earn my board while I'm here if I possibly can. How does Governor Telfare like his rival?"

"He's simply crazy, Kitty. He is just at the age to want to do things in a hurry too. Folks say he never cared for his dead wife, and I suppose this is really his first love affair. He confided in me and said he simply could not bear a refusal. Then, just as I have explained to you, I told him what we feared in regard to Lydia's sympathy—I called it that—for George Buckley and advised him to handle her cautiously. He turned as white as a sheet, and his proud, thin lip curled like an angry dog's.

"'Do you mean to tell me, Mrs. Cranston,' he said, 'that I have a rival in that man, the son of a Georgia convict—I, the only living Telfare in the line—I, who have been honored by my state as the Telfares before me have been honored? Am I to meet on equal ground, under the roof of the most aristocratic family of the Old Dominion, a man of that rank?'

"I was awfully frightened over his manner, but I simply held to the ground that Lydia had a good heart and was loyal to her unfortunate friends, and that if he wanted to lose her by being imprudent and rousing her anger I should feel that I had given him due warning. He cooled down a little, and my talk didn't do the cause a bit of harm, for he simply dogged Lydia's footsteps all the rest of his visit, and when he went back to Atlanta he sent her fully $50 worth of roses. The major says I ought never to have mentioned George Buckley's name to him—that Governor Telfare is a most dangerous man, with a violent temper. He says he'd actually be afraid to have the two men meet here, but I wouldn't. Buckley is a brave man, I've no doubt, but I'd venture anything that he'd control himself under any circumstances."

When the two ladies had gone back to the house and parted in the big hall Miss Cosby turned into the parlor, where our heroine sat at the piano, idly running her hands over the keys.

"I declare, you are a lucky girl, Lydia," said Kitty.

"To have you with me, dear, in this quiet place?" smiled Lydia, looking up.

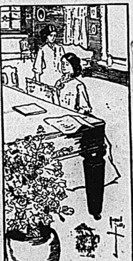
"No." The visitor bent over the speaker. "Guess again."

"I'm not good at guessing. It's tiresome, like playing whist when one is out of practice."

"Lydia, every girl in our set simply went wild when we heard about the marked attentions you were receiving from Governor Telfare. You know there are piles and piles of marriageable girls in the south and very, very few young, unyoked governors."

"That's quite true," said Lydia, with a noncommittal smile.

"It would be nice, dear," went on Kitty, "to be the mistress of that mansion in Atlanta and preside at every function of state in the town. That's about the nearest approach we make to royalty, you know. Goodness knows, if I had the money I'd buy me an earl."



Idly running her hands over the keys.

Lydia bowed her head over the keys and laughed merrily. "It wouldn't be bad, would it—the Atlanta house, I mean?"

"I should say not." Miss Cosby was trying to probe the laugh.

"Look here, Kitty," Lydia said, suddenly rising and laying her hands on Miss Cosby's shoulders and pressing them down firmly. "Take my advice and turn in and have a good time while you are here and don't waste a minute fooling with mamma's plots. She's as transparent as a pane of glass, and so are you, darling. Transparency is contagious. You used to be harder to see through."

"The idea!" Miss Cosby said. "Why, Lydia, you silly goose"— But she seemed unable to defend herself against the implied charge and could only repeat, "The idea of such a thing!"

Quebec is Left With No Police or Fire Forces

FIRE-FIGHTERS AND CONSTABLES WALK OUT IN STRIKE FOR MORE PAY

Quebec, June 26.—The keys of the city were handed over to the pickpockets who swooped on the city for the Quebec Hunt Club race meet, by the leaders of the Policemen's Union here at midnight last night, when they called an immediate strike of the city police in concert with the firemen, to force the city to grant an all-round increase in pay of $1.50 per week.

A detachment of 125 officers and men of the 22nd Royal Regiment, under the command of Colonel Chasse. Henri Chasse, D.S.O., M.C., guarded the City Hall until 11.45 tonight, when they left for the barracks. All was quiet at that hour.

The damage so far, however, has been confined to the breaking of some hundred street lamps, two of them in front of the Mayor's residence.

Many False Alarms

False alarms poured in uninterruptedly at the fire halls, but no real blazes were reported. Only 10 police sergeants remained at their posts out of a force of 130. Of the 185 firemen only four grizzled sub-captains and Chief Donnelly are left.

The decision to strike followed a delay by the city in carrying out the recommendations of a Conciliation Board, which suggested an increase in pay for the police of $1 per week and 75 cents for the firemen.

School Board Make Demand For Money

SOLICITOR FOR SCHOOL BOARD DEMANDS THAT REQUISITION FOR $140,000 BE COMPLIED WITH

At the City Council meeting on Monday night a communication was read form Mr. W. J. Diamond, solicitor of the Board of Education, making a demand on the Council to carry out the terms of the requisition made upon it, dated May 4th, 1921 for $140,000 for the Coleman Ward School and the payment of the money thereon without delay.

Mayor Hanna moved that the request be granted.

Ald. Bennett moved in amendment that the matter be referred to the City Solicitor, with instructions to defend any action the Board may take in the matter.

Ald. Bennett said it was time the Council took a firm stand in the matter. The Board had been asked to advertise for new tenders but had refused to do so. A considerable saving could be effected if this had been done.

Ald. French—"The letter is a bluff."

Ald. Ostrom—"Submit the letter to the Solicitor for advice, which has to be done, or grant the request."

Upon a vote being taken the amendment was adopted and the matter referred to the Solicitor for advice.

EVERY READER IS A POSSIBLE BUYER

Toronto, June 24.—Addressing the Dry Goods Section of the Retail Merchants' Association at its convention here, T. M. Humble, a well-known advertising writer of this city, placed emphasis on the value to merchants of newspaper advertising. "Every reader of a newspaper is a possible customer," he said.

"Newspaper advertising," Mr. Humble continued, "costs less per actual thousand of people reached than any other form of publicity, not counting the prestige of your name appearing in a reputable newspaper.

"There never was a time in merchandising when newspaper advertising was more necessary or potent in its power to get business.

"Newspapers are the safest, surest and cheapest means of reaching the greatest number of people."

On Trial For Murder of Prisoners

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Leipsic, June 29.—Lieut.-Gen. Karl Stenger and Major Benno Crusius, former commander of the 53rd German infantry brigade in 1914, were placed on trial before the German Supreme Court here to-day on charges of murdering French prisoners. Gen. Stenger was alleged to have ordered that no French prisoners be taken, and Major Crusius was accused of having transmitted this order to the soldiers of the 53rd Brigade. The French Government, by whom the charge was preferred, was represented by a commission.

Hypnotism Failed to Regain Husband

Truant husbands may be made to love their wives despite themselves—in the opinion of L. J. Fortier, of 492 St. Denis street Montreal an exponent of hypnotism, who was charged before Chief Judge Decarie in the Court of Special Sessions with obtaining $50 by false pretences from Mrs. Emile Poitras. Fortier received the money from Mrs. Poitras on the understanding that her wayward husband would return to her more affectionate than ever—but on condition that she recite certain mystical formulae according to instructions. Fortier said that his instructions were not followed, and in consequence hubby failed to respond to the telepathic power. He claimed that he had succeeded in bringing many an estranged pair together during his long experience as a hypnotist.

Mrs. Poitras told the court that her husband had left her, and as a last resort in her efforts to recapture his affection she had gone to Fortier, who had advertised himself as a hypnotist. He claimed to be able to bring back her husband through telepathic suggestion for $50 on the understanding that she would follow his instructions explicitly. She was to recite certain words over a glass of water at certain times, which would serve to establish the telepathic connection and influence the wayward heart of her husband. Mrs. Poitras had given Fortier $5 on the spot, later giving further sums at different times until she had paid the fee of $50.

Poitras proved adamant to the "treatment," and when at last Mrs. Poitras felt sure he would not return according to programme, she took action against the hypnotist, charging him with obtaining money under false pretences.

Albertina Desmarals, who accompanied Mrs. Poitras on the first trip to Fortier, corroborated much of the story, saying that Mrs. Poitras had paid $5 as an initial deposit.

Fortier himself was then called to the stand. He did not deny receiving the $50, but defended himself on the ground that hypnotism was an exact science, capable of doing all he had claimed, and averred that the "treatment" had not succeeded in the case of Mrs. Poitras because she had failed to follow his instructions. He said that he was a graduate of three schools of hypnotism in the United States, and considered himself competent authority on the subject. He produced a quantity o literature on hypnotism and telepathy of which he was the author. He had been practicing hypnotism and other occult sciences for more than twenty years, and in his long experience had succeeded in bringing together many estranged couples all through the power of suggestion. He was willing to produce witnesses to testify to the truth of these statements. Had Mrs. Poitras continued the treatment, her husband would have become devoted to her again. He had gone to see the husband himself after Mrs. Poitras' visit, on the pretext that he wanted to buy a house. He had subjected the man to the hypnotic influence, and all that was needed was the co-operation of the wife. She had told him, in fact, that her husband had returned, but the cure was not permanent, because she had said things to her husband which he had forbidden her to say. He was willing to continue the "treatments," or-at the suggestion of Judge Decarie—would return the $50.

"Do you believe in your system?" asked Judge Decarie of the witness.

"Certainly. It has done a great deal of good."

"I do not believe in it at all," retorted the judge. "Quite frankly, I will say that I believe it to be an immense fake."

Wig-Wag Signal System Suggested For Crossing

REPORTED THAT WATCHMAN MAY BE WITHDRAWN FROM BAY BRIDGE RAILWAY CROSSING

The railway crossing on the highway known as the bay bridge road, leading to the bridge across the bay, is protected by watchmen day and night who notify vehicle drivers by flags of the approach of trains. An official has been sent by the railway companies to check up the traffic passing over this crossing, and it is alleged that the intention is to ascertain if the traffic is light enough to warrant the dismissal of the watchmen and the substitution of what is known as the "Wig-wag" signal system, a mechanical contrivance which announces the approach of trains by waving signals.

Beginning July 1 the bay bridge will be free of tolls and the traffic will naturally increase so it would seem a dangerous experiment to substitute the human protection by a mechanical contrivance.

Belleville and Prince Edward authorities should investigate this report at once and protest vigorously against any change not conducive to increasing protection to life and property at this railway crossing.

Large Increase in Number of Immigrants

MANY IMMIGRANTS COMING TO CANDA THIRTY THOUSAND IMMIGRANTS ARRIVED IN LAST TWO MONTHS

Thirty thousand immigrants have come into Canada in the first two months of the fiscal year.

While many figures are not complete they are running about the same as those of April. In that month 15,052 arrived, an increase of 13 per cent over the corresponding month of 1920.

There was 8,476 from the British Isles, 5,035 from the United States, and 1,541 from other countries.

Figures just completed for the fiscal year ended March 31, show a total influx of 148,477 of which 100,418 came in by ocean ports and 45,059 from the United States. In the previous year immigration totalled 117,336 but only 67,680 came in that period from Europe.

A feature about the immigration in the recently closed fiscal year has been the few rejections. They numbered 953 or less than one per cent. Deportations of those who have failed to make good in the country totalled 655.

The situation of the border is not so favorable. Many come, but not all are allowed in. Of 68,790 who presented themselves for admission to Canada 20,313 were rejected or at the ratio of one in four. Why so few are turned back to the ocean ports and so many on the border is explained by the fact that people from the States are more inclined to take a chance and rejection does not impose the same inconvenience. The main reasons for the extension rejection are lack of money qualification and for having come b indirect passage through the States from Europe.

Raney Days For Farmers Who Sell on Sunday

MUST NOT SELL GOODS TO MOTORISTS ON SUNDAY SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL

Notification has been received from the department of the Attorney General of the Province that the Lord's Day Act is being openly and widely violated by persons buying from farmers along the main roads on Sunday. The notification reads as follows:

"Information has reached this Department that there is a good deal of buying and selling along the main roads on Sunday between farmers, fruit growers, etc., and motorists, in violation of the Lord's Day Act, which is to be found in the second volume of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, page 2962. As you know, there are two Lord's Day Acts in force in this province, but the one which I have indicated is that under which prosecutions, if instituted, should take place. I will be glad if you will communicate with the High Constable, the local Provincial police and others, advising them that the practice complained of must be stopped or that prosecutions will be instituted.

"The Attorney-General will be glad if you will regard this letter as both urgent and important. In the event of the practice not ceasing, kindly see that prosecutions are launched.

"Yours Faithfully,
"EDWARD BAYLEY,
"Deputy Attorney-General."

Stand Patters Oppose Union of Churches

Toronto, June 29.—(By Canadian Press)—While assemblies and synods are voting enthusiastically on the abstract question of church union, a handful of "stand patters" of the Western Congregational Church, backed by the Toronto Congregational Council, the Executive of the Congregational Union of Canada, and the Toronto District Association of Congregational Churches, are strenuously fighting in the courts the concrete application of church union as exemplified in the union of a majority of the congregation of the Western Congregational Church with the congregation of Dale Presbyterian Church. The law firm of N. W. Rowell, K.C., has been retained by the anti-unionists to secure a declaration that the majority of the congregation of Western Congregational Church cannot take with them in the formation of Dale Western Presbyterian Church, the $70,000 which was derived from the sale of the Western Congregational Church building on Spadina avenue to the Men of England Congregation. The statement of claim in the action which has been filed at Osgoode Hall is a weighty document of twenty-two typewritten foolscap pages.

The action is brought by representatives of the "standpatters" against the trustees of the Western Congregational Church, who are amongst those who have gone over to the Presbyterian fold. The statement of claim states that the Spadina avenue property was purchased in 1876 and was sold for $70,000 pursuant to the decision of a special meeting of the congregation on March 16th, 1921.

At the annual meeting of the church, which occurred on February 2nd, the Board of Management reported that the church was without a home. It was impossible to move into Zion Church as contemplated, but that an offer had been received from Dale church for the congregations to unite. Provisional articles of agreement had been drawn up which provided among other things that the united congregations should be known as Dale Western Presbyterian Church, that it should belong to the Presbyterian Church in Canada, that Rev. Bertram Nelles should be the minister in charge, and that Rev. J. D. Morrow should be pastor emeritus; that the roll of communicants should be transferred to a roll of the enlarged congregation. The articles were put to the annual meeting and carried with only one dissenting voice. The meeting also empowered "to administer the funds accrued from the sale of the church in a manner that would be most beneficial to the work of God, particularly as applied, if approved by them, to down town work."

This last clause has been particularly bitter in the mouths of the "standpatters." They accuse the trustees of breach of their duties in submitting such a resolution to the meeting, and declare that their intention was to mislead those in attendance and to hide their real intention "which was that the said funds should be taken over to and form part of the fund of the Dale Western Presbyterian Church."

In a nutshell, the application to the courts is based on the contention that without the unanimous consent of every member of the congregation, the trustees of the Western Congregational Church could not be empowered to take the church funds over to the Dale Western Presbyterian Church. It is contended that "no part of the trust funds can be lawfully diverted to the use or subjected to the control of any other association or body of Christians, or at least any other Association or body of Christians not professing, adhering to, and maintaining the whole fundamental principles embodied in the constitution of the Congregational Church without the unanimous assent o fthe members of the Congregational Church. Those who have adhered to and associated themselves as members of the Presbyterian Church have thereby lost and forfeited all right, title to, and interest in the said trust funds."

Former Bellevillians Will form Club at Vancouver

The following clipping relative to the formation of a Belleville club at Vancouver, B.C., was received by Col. Ponton of this city, from Col. Herbert B. Hulme, barrister, a former well-known Belleville boy:

Vancouver, June 21.—About 50 enthusiastic Bellevillians gathered at 527 Granville street to discuss the advisability of forming a club in Vancouver composed of former residents of Belleville, Ontario, and the surrounding districts. The matter, however, was laid over to be discussed further at a picnic in Stanley Park on either July 15 or 20. All former Bellevillians are asked to take an active part in the outing. A committee composed of Messrs. C. F. Armistead, C. B. McCoy, H. Butterfield, Miss Craig and Mrs. McLean is making the arrangements.

It is believed there are over 500 Bellevillians in Vancouver and with a view to getting in touch with all of them a registration booth under the direction of Mr. R. Hay, has been opened up at 527 Granville street. Col. H. D. Hulme occupied the chair at last night's meeting.

30-Cent Potato Displeased Hon. John

"They charged me 30 cents for one potato on this train at dinner last night, and here I see where some fellow in Vancouver is selling them at 35 cents a sack," complained Hon. John Oliver, premier of British Columbia, as he sat at breakfast in the dining car of the Canadian National transcontinental train approaching Vancouver the other day. All the farmer in the farmer-premier rose at the thought.

"Of course there's service included," suggested a reporter.

"Yes that reminds me," added the premier, "of the story they used to tell in the old Cariboo days about the man who had to pay a dollar to a Hebrew peddler for a needle."

"What was the point?" required the reporter.

"Well, when the miner protested at the price the peddler said: 'Holy Moses, man, I'm giving you the needle as a present: the dollar barely pays the freight,'" and the premier laughed.

Then he took to talking seriously about the farming problems. "This is going to be one of the best and one of the worst years for the farmer," he observed. "I never saw Canada give such a promise of good crops as this year. The prairies never looked better to my eye, while in Ontario the early spring and mild weather with light rains has given a wonderful start to young crops. There'll be splendid crops, bar accidents. But prices! well, I don't know what the farmer is going to do this year.

"I stayed with a farmer in Ontario who told me that six weeks before he had been shipping cream to Toronto at $22 a can. Then it dropped to $19. then to $17, then to $15, and so on until the day I stayed there he was getting only $7 a can for his cream. It dropped from $22 to $7 in six weeks.

"It looks as if this is going to be a year of difficulty for the farmer in spite of potatoes at 30c apiece on the trains.

Toronto Woman Gains Twenty Pounds

"Tanlac Has Been Our Favorite Medicine For Two Years,"

Says Mrs. Moorecroft.

"Ever since Tanlac restored my health and built me up twenty pounds in weight two years ago, it has been the favorite medicine at our house, and it keeps us all feeling well and strong," said Mrs. Agnes Moorecraft, 60 Galt Ave., Toronto, Ont.

"My troubles started coming on me about the beginning of the war. I got to where I couldn't sleep, just rolled and tossed all night, and was so nervous even the ringing of the telephone would make me jump. I could scarcely eat anything and fell off several pounds in weight. My head ached awfully at times and I was so dizzy I couldn't stand up.

"Well, two years ago when I began taking Tanlac I was in an awful fix, but the medicine brought me right out and in a little while I went from one hundred and ten pounds to one hundred and thirty, and felt just fine. Since then I've taken Tanlac along when I felt like I needed something to sharpen my appetite, and it keeps me eating just fine and feeling strong and well all the time. We always keep Tanlac in the house." Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's drug store and leading druggists.

CATTLE MARKETS

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, June 28.—Live stock receipts at the Union Yards were 3,791 cattle, 789 calves, 1,025 hogs, 1,128 sheep.

So uncertain is the cattle market at the present time that the farmers, in many instances, are showing signs of getting rid of practically all their stock. The class of stock received yesterday showed a tendency on the part of the shippers to get rid of almost everything. Young heifers, in particular, were heavily shipped at the week-end. All classes of cattle suffered a sharp break in prices. Heavy export cattle were off about $1 from a week ago, while all butcher cattle eased about 75c per hundred from last Thursday.

The top price for heavy cattle was $8. The top for choice butcher cattle was $7.75, although four baby beeves brought $8.25. Cows had to be really choice to bring $6, the most of the sales being made at $5. Bologna bulls brought $3.60, while the better classes sold from $5 to $5.50.

The hog market was a little easier, and if packer buyers have heir way a substantial cut will be put into effect on Wednesday. Sales yesterday on the fed and watered basis were being made from $12 to $12.50, and from $12.25 to $12.75 for the f.o.b. animals.

Spring lambs had a fairly strong market, but sheep again had a slow sale. Early buyers paid as high as $14.50 for a few lambs, but the bulk of the sales ranged from $13 to $13.75. Yearlings sold from $8 to $8.60, and common from $4 to $3.50. Light choice sheep sold from $5 to $6.

New York Man Suicides.

BANFF, Alta., June 28.—Geo. L. Dyer, president of the Geo. L. Dyer Co., 42 Broadway, New York, committed suicide at his room in the sanatorium here on Sunday morning, shooting himself in the right temple with a .32-calibre revolver. The body was found lying in front of the dresser with the head supported by a suitcase upon which it had evidently fallen. The police were summoned and took charge of the dead man's effects, finding in the pockets of his clothes a letter of credit for $3,000, $4,881 in express money orders, and $818 in bank notes and gold.

Knocked Chum Unconscious.

LONDON ,Ont., June 28. — Two small boys, five or six years old, quarrelled over a piece of bread on the Hamilton road on Thursday afternoon. One boy, angered at the refusal of the other to share his lunch with him, struck him in the back with a heavy stone and knocked him to the ground unconscious. The injured boy was carried at once to his home by a passer-by and a physician was summoned.

Trade With Argentina Growing.

OTTAWA, June 28.—Canada's export trade with the Argentine Republic shows great expansion, according to the weekly bulletin of the Department of Trade and Commerce. Since the year 1913 it has quadrupled, and now stands at approximately $8,000,000 per annum. British Guiana is the second largest importer of Canadian goods among the South American countries.

AS SCIENTIST SEES FUTURE

Advances of 500 Years Will Make the Year 1920 Seem Like a Prehistoric Age.

Those unimaginative people who believe the high pitch of inventive genius was reached with the advent of electricity, talking machines, airplanes and the X-ray will be interested to know that civilization on this planet has really just begun. Dr. A. M. Low, a London engineer with many inventions to his credit, says five hundred years hence our descendants will look back upon conditions in 1920 with just such feelings of amused pity as we show for the state of the savages of prehistoric times.

The scientist predicts among other things that in 2420 A. D. all public thoroughfares and parks will be underground, vehicles will be run by wireless, telephones will carry an attachment enabling the speakers to see each other, and all roads will be as smooth as billiard balls.

Dr. Low, who invented a motor scooter and has produced an apparatus for seeing simple objects by wire, in a recent interview in London said in part:

"When a man sets out for business he will not proceed, as he does now, by tramway car or train; he will pass along delightful avenues underneath the surface of the earth. Parks and all other places of public resort and beauty will be roofed in.

"Motor cars and all motor vehicles will proceed by wireless power and not by the crude method of using petrol. They will be fitted up like luxuriously appointed drawing rooms and will be driven at a rate of one hundred miles an hour. Wireless telephones will be installed in the cars, as well as every kind of appointment making for luxury and comfort. Many people will own these cars.

"People will live in a condition of splendid physical isolation. Television—that is, the ability to see your absent friend over a distance of many miles—and wireless telephony will lead to this condition.

"This vision is not extravagant or a wild set of theories. It is the direction in which scientific discoveries and experiments tend. Many scientific men have come face to face with discoveries and inventions which are only separated from actual realization by a simple little difficulty, which will certainly be overcome in time."

Giving Up Fairy Stories.

Do you remember when you had to give up reading fairy stories? Of course you didn't have to give 'em up if you didn't want to, but teacher and father and mother and all the rest of the grown folks said you must read grown-up books and so the fairies were cast aside and—

Oh, well, the same tragedy of youth is going on every day even now at the public library, say the attendants in the children's room.

One of the many duties of these attendants is to lead the children gradually away from fairy stories to real life stories. It is no easy job because the children struggle against giving up their fairies.

Never, it is said, has there been such a run on the fairy tale shelf in the children's room as there has been recently.

In time, however, the fairies make way for "Treasure Island," the "Bears of Blue River," "Tom Sawyer" or "Little Women," and then the spell of fairyland is more or less broken.

"It would be so much easier to help the little folks," lamented one of the attendants, "if we only had more of the books that children so quickly learn to love after they leave their fairies."—Exchange.

Unique Style of Greeting.

Sir Auckland Geddes, who is evidently expected to do a great deal of entertaining when he goes to the United States, is a notable athlete, but it may be doubtful whether his physical endurance will be equal to the handshaking which will be involved unless he reforms his methods, remarks the Manchester Guardian. It is most interesting if rather exhausting, to watch him receive a number of guests as he did recently at Olympia, for he has an athletic style all his own. As each guest comes in sight Sir Auckland advances one foot, plants it firmly and balances himself as if for a trial of strength. Then his long arm shoots out to full length, he smiles the guest straight in the eye like a boxer, seizes his hand and draws him determinedly around in a semicircle to greet the hostess.

He will need to develop a less expensive muscular action for the social tasks before him in America.

Weaving Mills of Bielefeld.

In a review of the Bielefeld flax and linen market the Rheinisch-Westfalisch Zeitung says that the weaving mills cannot undertake operation on a large scale for lack of cotton and linen yarns. Cotton in particular is almost wholly lacking, as it has to be imported, and a revival of the Bielefeld industry is impossible without cotton. It is impossible to compete in the world markets with cloth of paper yarn, which was manufactured during the latter years of the war, although its quality has been improved considerably.

EAST BELLEVILLE PLAYGROUNDS

Once more "school is out!" At least the very juvenile parts of it are out. What shall they do, these restless little people? Well, if anyone wonders about the usefulness of the playgrounds it would be well for such to stroll around to the East Playgrounds one of these fine mornings. To be sure they are not "open" till early July—only the stationary equipment is there, and no supervisor, but even last week at ten in the morning a hundred children were there seeking the cool shade of the lovely old trees, and taking advantage of the swings, slides and sand piles. Some of them came from beyond the stations, and others from the south end, where lawns are not so much a feature and to play meant to be on the street. Many of them brought lunches in order to spend the day.

In the "season" there are at least one hundred and fifty coming every day. The generosity of one of our citizens has furnished supervisors for both playgrounds for many years. The practical interest of some others has made other things possible. Every year the increasing number of children coming makes more equipment necessary. Just think what a wading pool would mean up there! and it could be compassed if the city would furnish the water.

More swings are needed, too. Perhaps some good friends, remembering the joys of childhood, would like to place one here and there for "auld lang syne."

The Playground Association would welcome more show of interest on the part of those who have the welfare of the children at heart, and would urge that such come sometimes to the playgrounds to see what is being done, and what more might be done for the benefit of the kiddies.

Better Train Service For Belleville

CONFERENCE ON TRAIN SERVICE AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

That the trolleyless electric car is a paying and practical proposition seemed evident from statements made by Mr. R. L. Fairbairn, General Passenger Agent of the Canadian National Railways at a conference with the Board of Directors and the Transportation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Fairbairn took up at the conference a number of important matters in reference to transportation.

Of prime interest to the people of Belleville, Trenton and Picton was the information he gave out in reference to the electric car that had been running for several weeks on the route betwen Belleville and Trenton and that was withdrawn from that service on Sunday, June 19th.

Mr. Fairbairn explained that the car had been acquired by the National Railways for testing and experimental purposes. It is a most expensive proposition to buy—the cost being $45,000 a car. But it had been ascertained on the Belleville—Trenton run that the car could be operated for thirty cents a train mile as compared with $2.70 or thereabouts for a train operated by steam power. Mechanically, the car was also very satisfactory as far as could be ascertained from this brief period of use, the only inconvenience was in the matter of charging the batteries, which operation required from nine to twelve hours. Each hour of use during the day meant that another hour would have to be taken during the night for charging purposes.

Winter Test

The car had been taken off the Belleville—Trenton route and sent to New Brunswick where it was being operated between Campbellton and Bathurst on a branch line that was not paying and where it would supersede a train operated by steam power. There, they expected to continue it for several months and would try to ascertain how it would work during snow blockades and in the intense cold that prevails in that region during the winter months. By next spring the railway authorities will be in a much better position to judge of the permanent possibilities of this new means of passenger transportation.

The car is capable of doing more than short runs as one charging of the batteries will carry the car 140 miles.

Short Run

Mr. Fairbairn expressed the opinion that on such runs as that between Picton and Trenton, Trenton and Belleville, and Belleville and Napanee this car would solve many of the transportation difficulties, enabling the railways to give frequent service at low or reasonable cost. Many of the short lines now operated by steam power at a loss could, he believed, be made to pay by this cheaper means of transportation. The only difficulty was where freight had to be hauled. The cars were not constructed to haul freight cars as trailers, although provision might be made to carry small quantities of express or baggage.

The matter of better train connection at Trenton was also laid before Mr. Fairbairn. Mr. Robertson, President of Belleville Creameries Limited, stated that the morning train from Coe Hill arrived at Trenton 40 minutes too late to make connection with the east-bound train running over the Canadian National line. This meant that large quantities of cream that were being shipped from the north and other perishable express goods were held at Trenton for nine hours longer than is necessary. Mr. Fairbairn promised to look into this matter and ascertain if the south-bound Central Ontario train could not be operated to make this desirable connection.

Mr. Fairbairn was also taken to the Canadian Northern station and shown the condition of the grounds around the Union Depot. Although this is not in his department he promised to use what influence he could to have this place cleared up and a beautiful entrance made to our city.

Several other exceedingly important matters in reference to transportation were discussed with Mr. Fairbairn and a most satisfactory conference was held. Messrs. J. D. McMillan and T. H. Coppin of the Grand Trunk were present at the conference and also contributed many valuable suggestions during the discussion.

Bankruptcy In the Court of Love

A Story For New Year's Day.

By MILLARD MALTBIE

"Bella," said Mr. Dudley to his daughter on the 31st of December, handing her a birthday present and giving her a kiss, "don't you think that a girl of nineteen is old enough to settle down and take some thought for the future?"

"I certainly do, papa."

"Today you begin a new year in your life, and tomorrow you begin a new year of the calendar. Suppose you do some thinking as to your actions during the past few years, make up your mind as to what is necessary in your case and form such resolutions as may seem essential to your future happiness."

"Tell me what you think necessary."

"The main thing I have in mind is this: The most important event in a woman's life—so I consider it—is her marriage—that is, if she is to be a wife. I have noticed in you an unfortunate propensity to regard those things which are preliminaries—in this country, where people usually marry for love—to the union of a man and woman, with the consequent rearing of a family, very much as you would consider a game of tennis.

"This, my daughter, is all wrong. Love is nearer akin to divinity than any other part of our nature. It is serious—very serious. I, your mother, your brothers and sisters, we who form a group so closely cemented, are held together by this one element in the composition of life—love."

"Oh, papa, how beautifully you talk!"

A shadow passed over the father's face, realising from this remark that he had not produced the impression he desired. He was turning away disappointed when his daughter caught his hand.

"Really, papa, explain what you mean, and I will do what you wish me to do."

"Well, then, to come down to plain language, stop flirting."

"Oh, that's what you are driving at!"

"Yes. Tomorrow morning when you wake up refreshed after a good sleep think over your treatment of worthy and worthless young men, which is based merely on your fancy, and make a resolution that if you have any encouragement to bestow upon any one of them it will be given to some one who should you marry him—and you are now at a marriageable age—will make you a worthy husband, one you can be proud of before the world."

Bella sat musing.

"A penny for your thoughts," said her father.

"I was thinking that tomorrow morning will be a better time to make such resolutions than now."

"Why so?"

"Well, tonight I go to the Seymours to see the old year out and the new year in."

"What has that to do with resolutions?"

"Why, Jimmy Halliday will be there, and yesterday, just because I accepted a rose from Tom Erskine, he passed me on the street, pretending he didn't see me."

"Well?"

"Why, papa, you don't think I'm going to stand that, do you?"

"Do you care especially for Halliday?"

"Care for him! Of course not."

"Then why should you trouble yourself about him?"

"Oh, papa, how stupid you are! You don't understand such things at all. I will give Jimmy tonight as good as he has given me. Tomorrow morning I will make your resolutions"—

"My resolutions!"

"I mean that I will reform as you desire."

Her father, who adored her, gave her another kiss and left her, feeling that his words had been without effect. Not so Bella. She had really been impressed, but not for such general reasons as had been mentioned by her father.

Far down in the bottom of her heart was a soft spot into which a certain quiet, reserved young man, Edward Corwin by name, had settled himself without asking her permission. She had treated him in accordance with her usual methods, with the result that he had locked himself up—to speak figuratively—and all her efforts to get at him had signally failed.

Miss Dudley passed the evening of the 31st of December at Seymours', danced the cotillion with Tom Erskine, failed to favor Jimmy Halliday, smiled on Elliott Tracks and sat out a figure with Fred Swords, when she made up a spat with him, throwing him into ecstasies. Then, when all were assembled about a round table feasting the new year in, she exchanged bonbons with Bob Sparkles, reviving a hope that had nearly died out. As for Edward Corwin, he was not present.

On New Year's morning Bella awoke and, looking at a tiny clock on a bracket, saw that it was 11 o'clock. Then she remembered her New Year's resolutions, and a troubled expression passed over her young face. New Year's morning was not so good a time for reform as she had supposed. A flower lay on a table that she had accepted graciously from Erskine, and she had agreed to go out with him for a ride at 3 in the afternoon. Halliday had been brought to his senses—so she considered it—and had received permission to call at 4 for the purpose of making a humble apology. Sparkles was due in the evening to say something very particular, but since Swords was also expected she did not see how he would have an opportunity.

Bella was very much ashamed of herself. It was easy for her to make resolutions, but how was she to keep them? Keeping resolutions is largely dependent upon freedom from temptation. But she had provided temptations that would beset her all the afternoon and evening of New Year's day. To make matters worse, she remembered several other engagements she had made with young men the day before the evening spent with the Seymours.

The word bankruptcy is usually considered to pertain to financial matters. Nevertheless there are a great many kinds of bankruptcy. There is social bankruptcy, where one is swamped with invitations; there is bankruptcy in one having assumed more duties than he can attend to. Miss Dudley's bankruptcy was that she had permitted too many young men to believe that there was a possibility for each of winning her. It occurred to her that the first resolution she should make was to apply for a discharge in the court of love. After such discharge she might make her resolutions not to become further involved.

Suddenly an idea occurred to her. She would simply "fail." She had heard of merchants failing, which she understood to mean that they simply lay down and let the throng of creditors pour over them. She would cut all her engagements—every one of them.

But how escape them? Flight occurred to her—ignominious flight. But flight alone was repugnant to her nature. Then she considered keeping her appointment with one of her suitors. No; that wouldn't do at all. Next came an idea of making a brand new engagement. She lay for some time turning this last proposition over in her mind, then made one fundamental resolution upon which a superstructure of good intent should be based.

It was 12 o'clock noon on New Year's day. Edward Corwin, lawyer, had been spending the morning in his room at home over an intricate case that he was obliged to work out and was thinking about luncheon when there came a ring at the telephone.

"Mr. Corwin?" came a woman's voice.

"Yes, I am Corwin. Who is it?"

"Bella Dudley."

"Oh, Miss Dudley! Happy New Year!"

"Same to you."

There was a brief pause, after which Miss Dudley proceeded: "This is a fine, sunshiny day. I suppose you are free on a holiday? It seems a pity to stay in the house with nothing to do. I wish they would revive calling."

"I am disengaged for the afternoon."

"How would you like to drive me in the runabout?"

"Very much. But I am surprised that you have no engagement for the day."

"If I told you that I have a lot of them and propose to break them all for you you wouldn't believe me."

"And if you told me you had had no opportunity to make them I wouldn't believe you."

"True. Therefore never mind my engagements. Come at 3 o'clock and we'll have a spin."

"I'll be with you, most assuredly."

"One moment, please."

"A dozen, if you like."

"I would prefer to dine somewhere. Suppose we go to Summerset and dine at the Antlers. That would suit me if it will not be too cold for you coming back at night. Summerset is thirty miles, you know."

"I'll stand the cold."

"Very well. Summerset it is, with dinner at the Antlers, 3 o'clock. We'll go round by Turnersville."

"That will be fine. Goodby."

"Goodby."

* * * * * * * *

"Bella," said Mr. Dudley on the morning of the 2d of January, "didn't you find it cold riding last night?"

"We had plenty of robes."

"What time did you get home?"

"About 10 o'clock."

"Several young men called in the afternoon," said Mrs. Dudley, "and two in the evening. They all seemed disappointed in not finding you."

"Did they, mamma. Please pour my coffee."

When the family rose from the breakfast table Bella told her father that she had something to say to him and, taking his hand, affectionately led him into the library.

"Papa," she said, "I've reformed."

"How long will the reformation last?"

"Always. I'm engaged."

"Engaged?"

"Yes, engaged."

"For how long?"

"Forever."

"To whom?"

"Mr. Corwin."

The father embraced her.

"Do you believe the engagement will stick?" asked Bella.

"Yes," said the father.

"Why this man more than the others?"

"The others were Tom, Dick and Harry. This is Mr. Corwin. But how did you figure it out so quickly, sweetheart?"

"I concluded to go into bankruptcy in the court of love. But, realizing that I would get in the same fix again, I concluded to marry the man I really want and remove temptation."

However, that had the same result as bankruptcy, for marriage gives a clearance for all outstanding love debits.

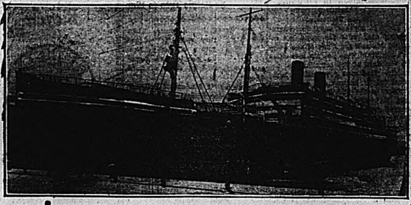
Largest Canadian Atlantic Ship



THE EMPRESS OF SCOTLAND.

The largest liner ever assigned to the St. Lawrence route is soon to make her initial appearance at Quebec according to announcements made by the C. P. R. This steamer is their newly acquired liner the Empress of Scotland, formerly the German liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria and she is expected to arrive at Quebec during the first week in August.

The C. P. R. purchased this liner from the British government last winter when it was seen that the company's own steamers, which are now being built in England, would not be ready this season on account of the delay arising from the big strike in the ship yards there.

The new Empress of Scotland is of 25,000 gross tons. The liner ran, after the armistice, under the Cunard house flag from Liverpool to New York. She is a first, second and third class carrier with luxurious cabin equipment. The liner was built in 1905 and was especially designed for the New York service.

The Empress of Scotland will make her first sailing from Quebec on August 11.

The new liner is the largest in the Canadian Atlantic service. Her dimensions are: Length, 700 feet; breadth, 77 feet, and draft of water, 34 feet.

Another practice off our own 'Lefty' Goyer and the boys should be able to drive out enough runs to win.

Saturday's victory was Belleville's fifth straight. With this splendid record so far, surely the city fans will shell out for the glory of the old game!

In the last five games the locals have out-hit all opponents, and with the exception of the Cobourg tussle, have come through every game with only one or two misplays.

DEMPSEY WILL FACE DETERMINED AND COURAGEOUS FOE

Manhasset, N. Y., June 28.—Georges Carpentier will go into the ring at Jersey City next Saturday with only one thing in mind: an invincible determination to wrest the world's championship from Jack Dempsey. This was the assertion today of Gus Wilson, the challenger's chief trainer.

"There will be no snap for Jack Dempsey," Wilson said. "He will have to be more than a great fighter to beat Georges. Never before in his career has Carpentier displayed so much determination as he does today. When he talks of the bout he grits his teeth and clenches his fists, and remarks, 'He shall not beat me. Something tells me that I can defeat him and I shall do it.' His hardest blows will not find me, and those that he lands I know I can stand."

The challenger attaches a great deal of sentiment to the hundreds of letters he receives daily from war veterans and other people in all walks of life.

"They want me to win," he said. "They expect me to emerge from the ring champion, and I will not disappoint them if every bone in my body is broken."

Before Georges came to the United States this last time he had, according to Wilson, naturally a great desire to beat Dempsey. But this desire has increased to such an extent that now Carpentier cannot describe just what he feels.

TAXES FROM FIGHT TOTAL $2,0000,000

Washington, June 29.—Nearly $2,000,000 will be paid into the government coffers in taxes in the Dempsey-Carpentier fight July 2, the internal revenue bureau showed to-day in an informal statement.

The taxes on the fight are anticipated as follows:

Collection of ten per cent. tax on every admission.

Dempsey's surtax on $300,000 nets $137,510.

Carpentier's surtax on $200,000 nets $77,510.

DEMAND RESIGNATION OF MINISTER.

Strathroy, Ont., June 28.—Declaring that because of Hon. F. C. Biggs' road policy it would be impossible to elect a Drury Government supporter in North Middlesex, the Napperton Farmers' Club, at its regular meeting, unanimously adopted a resolution requesting Premier Drury to call for the immediate resignation of the Minister of Public Works. Because James C. Brown, the U. F. O. member of the Legislature for the riding failed to repudiate or denounce Mr. Biggs' policy, the resolution demands that he resign his seat.

The resolution sets forth that the U. F. O. opposed the highways scheme inaugurated by the Hearst Government, but despite this Mr. Biggs is proceeding with a plan 400 per cent. larger in extent, and 1,000 per cent. more expensive.

[redacted] CONFESSION

The Irish lad and the Yiddish boy were engaged in verbal combat. Finally the subject came down to their respective churches.

"I guess I know that Father Harrity knows more than your rabbi," the little Irish boy insisted.

"Shure he does, vy not?" replied the Jewish boy. "You tell him every thing."—Boxing Blade.

THE OLD HOME TOWN STILL STIRS FOND MEMORIES.

Distance does not dim nor age wither the love for the old home town, which is a large part of the makeup of every Belleville Old-Boy or Girl and the old home ties are never completely severed. Belleville Clubs are large and vigorous in all important centres the world over, and the most recent one to be organized is at Vancouver, B.C., where former Belleville people propose to get together regularly for the sake of Auld Lang Syne and to keep in touch with each other so that when the trek starts "back home" for the Old Boys' and Girls' Reunion an unbroken front can be shown.

Bellevillians in Vancouver are getting together and have decided to hold a picnic on July 20; also they are forming a Belleville Club, as noted in the press despatches.

Walter Dobbs, a Belleville Old Boy, thinks the folks back home should know about the picnic, so he writes George Warham, of The Intelligencer staff, as follows:

2246 Second Avenue, West,
Vancouver, B.C., June 21st, 1921.

Dear Mr. Warham:

At last night's meeting of former Bellevillians I was elected to the job of telling the home folks all about it. That isn't much of a job if you say it fast, but it's a lollapaloozer when you start doing it. The result is attached—cull out of it what you can use, then throw it away.

You are the only connecting link I have on the old Intelligencer, although some of the boys last night were saying they thought Brother Phil Harrison was still on the job. I hope he is, and it is a pleasure to know you are too, and I trust will be for many a year yet.

I'll let you know how the picnic comes off, as I am sure many of your readers will find old friends among the names mentioned.

Sincerely yours,
WALTER DOBBS.

"About three weeks ago, by a strange coincidence, there met on Granville Street, Vancouver, four former residents of Belleville who had not seen each other for years, and needless to say, after the greetings were over, there was a general confab on the old town and its doings since this quartette had last foregathered many years ago. They were Bob Hay, Bert McCoy, Howard Butterfield and Walt Dobbs.

"The conversation ranged over a number of years—from the submerging of Victoria Park, the paving of Front Street to a comparatively recent harrowing experience of one of the members in getting a root snaked out by our old and esteemed friend "Doc" Duprau.

"Naturally the question turned to other "Bellevillians" located in Vancouver, and on checking them over we found we had a multitude of friends from the old home town right here. Someone made the suggestion that we get the bunch together and have a picnic. Bob Hay, who is the popular City Ticket Agent of the Canadian National Railways here, volunteered the use of his office for a meeting place, and each went his way to tell all other Bellevillians of the meeting to be held in Bob's office Monday night, June 20th.

"That was last night.

"Surprised? I should say we were! Over forty were there, and there were another forty or more who couldn't get there for various reasons. After checking things over we have come to the conclusion that there are somewhere between 300 and 500 in this city hailing from Belleville and the Bay of Quinte district.

"The meeting was called to order with Lt.-Col. H. D. Hulme in the chair. A grand picnic was decided upon to take place on July 20th in Stanley Park. Committees were appointed and all details fixed for a glorious reunion on that date, and an invitation is hereby extended to any "Bellevillians" contemplating a trip to the coast to join us—the park is large enough for us all.

"Of those foregathered at the meeting John Keith was the dean—though over eighty years of age he was one of the youngest present, and seems to be getting younger every year.

"After the meeting was over, little knots gathered together to swap yarns of the old days—the times they used to have down at Jim Jenkins'; swimmin' at the gap, grapplin' for suckers in the Moira, 'n everything. From the prosperous look of some of our former townsmen here they find grapplin' for suckers in Vancouver equally as lucrative as they did back home.

"We didn't get all the names, but we got the most of them, and in case you care to mention them, here they are: C. F. Armistead, J. M. Bowell, C. H. Brownson, J. E. Campbell, Miss L. Craig, W. E. Dobbs, Mrs. H. O. Foster, Mr. Geo. N. Garrison, Mrs. S. J. Garrison, H. H. Gordon, Mrs. James Haughton, H. D. Hulme, Robt. Hay, Geo. Johnston, J. F. Elliott, J. C. Keith, W. C. Lawrence, Orrin A. Maybee, J. A. Moon, J. B. McCoy, Mrs. Donald MacLean, R. T. Osborne, Geo. H. Robinson, Gerald V. Roote, Mrs. M. C. Skaife, J. Grant Thompson, A. R. Tint, J. P. Thompson and wife, A. B. Weeks, Mrs. K. Westwood."

CRISP COMMENT

Medicine Hat cannot be accused of voting through its hat, for it went back to the land for a representative in the Dominion Parliament. Shows that the Agrarian movement is a strong factor in the West, when they not only grow grain but vote grain, even if it does go against the grain of old party stalwarts.

Bob Edwards, editor of the Calgary Eye Opener, is mentioned as a possible candidate in Calgary for the provincial government. Bob would certainly try to rattle the dry bones in the legislative chamber if elected.

The political situation in Canada will not be cleared up and representative government fully re-established on a sound basis until a return is made to the two-party system. Canada is not large enough for a number of parties, each representing particular classes of the community, with the inevitable intrigue and combination to secure power and control of public affairs, with political bargains not in the general public interest. An all-Canadian spirit is the best thing for Canada.

CONSERVATION IN FEMININE FASHIONS

Boston Transcript

There is, perhaps, cause for congratulation over what the world has escaped because the ideas of the fashion engineers were not put into effect in the days of the crinoline and the bustle. Had men governed by technical minds become the arbiters of fashion in the mid-Victorian era, the girl of to-day might have been debarred from leading that active life which is a standardized and most efficient method of preventing waste of health. America might still be the land in which croquet was familiar and tennis unknown, because the styles when the grandmothers were young permitted the languid pursuit of the one and prevented participation in the other. And all this time, instead of the conservation of dress goods, there would have been reckless waste. Much valuable material was needed for the construction of frills and furbelows in the age of criminals.

AN UNPUBLISHED SPEECH

New York Times

The Hon. Edmund Burke O'Hara, rising to a question of privilege, said: "Mr. Speaker: The attitude of Irish-Americans has been grievously misrepresented. It is not true that they have seized upon the unfortunate speech of Admiral Sims in order to show that they hold their allegiance to Ireland above that to America. They have no wish to defy public opinion or to seek to intimidate Congress. The charge that they would set themselves up as a dictatorial and terrorizing minority in American politics is false. They are American citizens before they are Irishmen, and they desire that the policy of the Government of the United States as respects Ireland shall be only that which wisdom, dignity and safety may indicate." Our readers will look in vain in the Congressional Record for this speech. It was not really delivered in the House of Representatives. But wouldn't it be a good thing for the Irish cause if it had been?

The Poets' Corner

THE BUSINESS MAN AND THE BOY

A very angry business man
Discharged a boy the other day.
"Because," he said, "he seems to be Too slow to do the work my way.

"I've told him twice what I expect,
Of office boys who work for me,
And how to walk and how to talk,
And how to greet men courteously.

"I've told him just the way to stand
And what to do and what to say,
But he persists and he insists
In blundering from day to day.

"I cannot stand dull-witted brains
That will not grasp what is explained:
The man or boy that I employ
Must very readily be trained."

It was a golf professional
Who tried to teach this business man
Just how to turn his wrist and learn
To hit the ball as golfers can.

He told him forty times and more
The way to hold and throw his club,
In simple speech, the art he'd teach
But still the man remained a dub.

Though he'd explained a thousand times
The club must pass from left to right
To make the swing a graceful thing
The man would slug with all his might.

Day after day he would return
Unto the teacher, sad and sore,
And ask of him in manner grim,
To tell him what he'd told before.

And though he knew what he would say,
And knew the way his wrists must turn,
Once more in vain the pro'd explain,
Once more the man would fail to learn.

Oh, busy business men, when you
Grow vexed with boys whose wits are slow,
Tell them again, remembering then
How dull you seem unto the pro.
—Edgar A. Guest.—

I can stand the idle chatter when I'm driving from the tee.
I can stand the conversation when I putt.

As a golfer I'm not over fussy, but
There is one gay disturber that I'm always sure to note,
A caddie with hiccoughs absolutely gets my goat.

Lord Grey Has Ability Without Any Cleverness, So People Turn to Him

"MORE and more, when they speculate on the future of our politics, do people find themselves compelled to think of Lord Grey."

So writes "A Student of Politics" in the London Times, who explains himself this way:

"All Lord Grey's political life has been the expression not of ambitions or even of views so much as of character," he says. "His is a type of character happily not uncommon in England, especially amongst the lesser nobility from which he sprang, but it eludes description, as very smooth, regular features defy caricature. Its distinction lies in the avoidance of softences and eccentricities whether of expression, of thought, or of emotion; in being the hero of no story and the author of no epigram; in a reserve that is too proud to be vain, too shy to be arrogant.

LORD GREY.

"Some men gain their place in politics by their power of understanding other people, others by making it necessary for others to understand them, and Lord Grey is amongst these last. He has never been anything but himself; he yields nothing to the mood of his audience and is apparently indifferent to its applause; outwardly calm and self-contained he never strains either a subject or the attention of his listeners, but maintains both on the same even high level of seriousness.

"Men of this temperament have always commanded great influence in counsel, especially when, as in Sir Edward Grey's case, there is obvious ability without the suspicion of cleverness. For in politics cleverness is always a danger signal and often substitutes dissent for conviction, even at the moment when it seems to be most effective.

How Not to Grow Old.

Youth is a quality, a spiritual energy, and, properly speaking, there is no "old age," but spiritual decay. "The foot less prompt to meet the morning dew" is no valid evidence of growing old, any more than to lose a leg in battle. Fussy physical activities are not the only tests of youth, write Richard Le Gullienne in Harper's Magazine. That brain of Sophocles which gave us his greatest play at 90 is more to the point, as also that famous saying recorded of him, in reference to the cooling of the passions with the years, that to grow old was like being set free from service to a band of madmen.

Because we grow wiser and stronger, less selfish, and generally more useful to our fellows with the passage of the years is not to say that we have lost our youth. It only means that we have learned how to enjoy it. We do not run in every direction as we did. We know a little better what we are doing, or what we want to do; but the motive force that enables us to do it is that same energy which once drove us to make fools of ourselves at the beginning, and still provides the same "swift means to radiant ends."

Decay, disillusion, weariness; we mean these things when we speak of "growing old," but we fail to realize that these are not necessary accompaniments of the years. We may, unfortunately, inherit them, or acquire them, like bad habits, or though neglect of a proper care and exercise of our spiritual selves. Spiritual and intellectual laziness makes most people "old before their time." If we lose interest in life, life will soon lose interest in us; and it is just as possible to achieve a precious senility in the twenties as at any later period of our lives.

SYMPTOMS WOMEN DREAD

Mrs. Wilson's Letter Should Be Read by All Women

Clearfield, Pa.—"After my last child was born last September I was unable to do all of my own work. I had severe pains in my left side every month and had fever and sick dizzy spells and such pains during my periods, which lasted two weeks. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing others so much good and thought I would give it a trial. I have been very glad that I did, for now I feel much stronger and do all of my work. I tell my friends when they ask me what helped me, and they think it must be a grand medicine. And it is. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish." —Mrs. HARRY A. WILSON, R. F.D. 5, Clearfield, Pa.

The experience and testimony of such women as Mrs. Wilson prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct such troubles by removing the cause and restoring the system to a normal condition. When such symptoms develop as backache, bearing-down pains, displacements, nervousness and "the blues" a woman cannot act too promptly in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

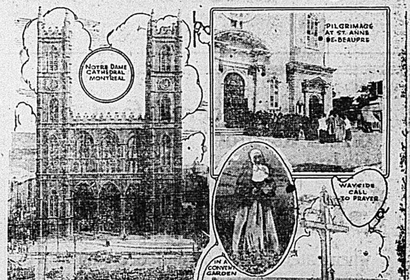
Shrines and Churches of Quebec



NOTRE DAME CATHEDRAL MONTREAL
PILGRIMAGE AT ST. ANNE DE-BEAUPRE
WAYSIDE CALL TO PRAYER
IN A CONVENT GARDEN

Quebec, through her shrines and churches, proclaims that she was born and bred in the fold of the Roman Catholic Church. To-day, nearly three centuries since the Cross and Lilies of France were planted on the hills above the St. Lawrence, the religious institutions then founded still flourish. Soft-footed nuns, cowled monks and flat-hatted priests are met on every hand as they go about their duties. Always the cross is in evidence—crude wayside shrines along the country roads and great golden crosses upon city spires.

Quebec City may be called the heart of this church in America for there is its Westminster, Notre Dame de la Paix, commonly known as the Basilica. It was founded in 1645 and holds the remains of nearly every Bishop of Quebec, also other ecclesiastics and notable pioneers. In the Chapel of the Ursuline Convent burns a votive lamp, the flame of which has burned undimmed through peace and war since it was lighted in 1717. Under this chapel rests Montcalm, France's defender of the City of Hills.

In a square among the little houses of Lower Town stands the unpretentious church of Notre Dame des Victoires, near the site where stood Champlain's house. A beautiful custom is maintained by the Franciscan Sisters' Convent in its office of perpetual adoration with two white robed nuns ever kneeling before the altar.

The most widely known Quebec shrine is that of Ste. Anne de Beaupre in the little town of the same name, connected with Quebec City by electric tram and motorway. This shrine, built in fulfillment of a vow made in 1650 by storm-harassed sailors to Ste. Anne, the mother of the Virgin, is famed for its cures. Each summer pilgrims by thousands, from far and near, kneel before the miracle-working shrine.

Montreal, too, has its celebrated churches and shrines. Its Cathedral of Notre Dame, a $6,000,000 edifice, contains a bronze St. Peter which pilgrims travel far to kiss. Notre Dame Bon Secours has a unique chapel built above its roof, a replica of a miraculous structure at Loretto on the Adriatic, while the Virgin in Our Lady of Lourdes Church is ingeniously illuminated and the shrine under the church is fitted like that of the famous Grotto at Lourdes in France.

At Ste. Anne's on the western end of the island of Montreal, stands an ancient edifice, once the westernmost church in Canada, at whose altar knelt explorers and voyageurs ere committing themselves to the perils of the wilderness beyond.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

A WORTH WHILE PICTURE

Lois Weber's latest production for Paramount, "What's Worth While?" will be shown for the last time at Griffin's Tonight. It is a gripping photoplay that is worth any one's while to go miles to see. The various roles are in the capable hands of Claire Windsor, Mona Lisa, Louis Calhern, Arthur Stuart Hull, and Edwin Stevens.

George Seitz and Marguerite Courtot are appearing on the same program in a three reel mystery drama "Velvet Fingers", British Canadian Pathe News, Screen Snapshots showing famous screen stars at work and play, and "The Punch of the Irish" a funny 2 reel Lehman comedy complete a splendid varied bill.

EDITH HALLOR IN "JUST OUTSIDE THE DOOR"

A style of dramatic construction new to the screen is offered in the latest Select picture, "Just Outside the Door", which, with Edith Hallor in the stellar role, will be offered at Griffin's Tomorrow to Saturday, with matinee Saturday.

The author, Jules Eckert Goodman, is noted for his unconventionality and daring, and his works, "Hagar Revelly" in particular, have created much discussion in literary circles. "Just Outside the Door" is in Mr. Goodman's best style and under the direction of George Irving the players interpret Mr. Goodman's ideas and plot exactly as he intended them to be portrayed. The locale of the story is amid the atmosphere of a large manufacturing town, and the characters are typical of that type of community. Miss Hallor appears as the secretary of a wealthy mill owner who falls in love with the brother of her employers fiancee.

An added feature on the same program that will be hugely enjoyed by the feminine portion of the audience is the exhibition of a 2 reel novelty titled "A Dream of Fair Woman" - starring the five young ladies who were the winners of the Fame and Fortune contest conducted by Motion Picture magazine, Motion classic, Shadowland. Young Buffalo appears on the same program in a 2 reel drama of early western daring "The Hold Up Man," a program of comedy, Travelogues and other varied plays will be exhibited.

OSHAWA AGREES WITH G.T.R. TO SUPPLY WATER TO ROAD

Oshawa, Ont., June 28.—The Board of Water Commissioners, Oshawa, have decided to enter into an agreement with the Grand Trunk Railway Company to supply them with water at Oshawa depot at eight and a half cents per thousand gallons for a period of five years. The company at present pumps its own water from the creek adjacent to the depot, and this service for years, it is understood, has been far from satisfactory.

The company expects to use 160 thousand gallons per day, which means that water at Oshawa would cost, them approximately $5,000 a year.

PRINCE TRAINS STRICTLY.

Heir to Throne Is Like Prize Fighter Making Weight.

Capt. Will Barker, who was official cinematograph director to the tour of the Prince of Wales in the Antipodes, thus writes of the way the Prince of Wales kept himself fit for his strenuous days among the Anzacs:

"On board ship the prince indulged in running exercises — real running and not a jog trot—for an hour and a half per day, even in the tropics with temperature at 120 degrees in the shade. And all the exercise time he was dressed in a thick woolen sweater with a high turned up collar, thick woolen socks, linen shorts, and a wool band around his forehead which prevented the perspiration from running down his face.

"This was followed by half an hour's dip in a special bath erected on the deck, and then invariably succeeded by a turn at squash racquets, the most strenuous game that one can play. It is usually played in cotton shorts and shirts or in bathing dresses.

"After this, during the course of the day the medicine ball was brought into play for at least half an hour, after which the prince would take a short spell at a rowing machine to save his muscles from becoming too hard. Can any of us, I wonder, lay claim to such a strenuous day when on a holiday?

"That all this training was successful is shown by the fact that except for the disablement of his right hand the prince carried out the majority of his social functions without once having to give up.

"And on the land he was occupied at every minute, starting his day at 6 a.m., when he would take a trial run on one of the local racecourses, riding merely in his shirt and breeches with a peaked cap worn backwards on his head. His riding capabilities greatly endeared him to the hearts of the Australian jockeys, and this was the exercise that perhaps he enjoyed most of all."

Biggest Opal in the World.

Proclaimed as the largest uncut precious stone in the world, an enormous, absolutely flawless black opal, recently discovered in this country, is now in the office of a government official in Washington. The gem contains approximately 21 cubic inches, and weighs 2,572,332 carats. It is valued at $250,000 by the owners. The famous Viennese opal, which was without an equal until the American specimen was found, weighs 1,658,927 carats, but has a number of flaws.

Is it Still Coffee?

Two young man walking along Chestnut street the other evening met two girls, recent acquaintances, dressed in height of fashion—fur coats and hats, expensive looking shoes, and invited them to go to a high-class restaurant.

The girls agreed and after they had finished eating, they were asked if they would enjoy a demi-tasse.

They looked at each other.

"Is it some sort of sundae?" inquired one as though there might be some hidden joke in the invitation.

"I don't think it would go good after a hearty meal," said the other.

The young fellows gave it up.

"Would you like some coffee?" asked one of them.

"Sure," replied the girls in chorus, "that's what we was waiting for youse guys to ask us."—Philadelphia Record.

"What's that?"

"You can see my face without looking into a mirror."

Dear Peggy,
You angel child of course I'd like to come, — but how do you suppose poor old Doug is going to get along in the meantime? He is such a helpless sort of man, you know, when it comes to doing housework!
I've been nearly killing myself with work lately, — can you imagine it? And as a result my hands are all rough and red. Or rather I should say they were rough and red for they're smooth and white now. And the reason? Why, my dear, I just rubbed on a little Campana's Italian Balm for a few days! That certainly is the duckiest stuff.
In haste,
Marie

Do This Tonight

Watch the quick effects—see the change in a week

Present this coupon to your dealer. He will give you a delightful ten-day test of a new teeth-cleaning method which millions are employing.

Watch the effects, quick, pleasant and conspicuous. Watch the new luster that comes. In ten days let your mirror tell you the way to pretty teeth.

Leading dentists everywhere advise this method now. You will see and feel the reasons when you make this test.

End the dingy film

The chief purpose is to fight film. This viscous coat, which you can feel, causes dingy teeth and also most tooth troubles.

Film clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The old ways of brushing did not end it. So film-coats night and day threaten serious damage.

Film is what discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All these troubles have been constantly increasing. Despite the daily brushing with old methods, very few escaped them.

Now you can fight it

Dental science, after long research, has found ways to fight that film. Able authorities have proved them effective. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in Pepsodent, the new-day, scientific tooth paste. Millions of people now use it, and the use is fast spreading the world over.

That is the dentifrice we urge you to try. Your druggist has a free tube for you. Enjoy its effects for ten days, then judge them for yourself.

Also starch and acids

Modern diet makes other things essential. And those essentials are embodied in this scientific tooth paste.

Each use of Pepsodent multiplies the salivary flow. That is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's agent for neutralising acids which attack the teeth.

This offer is for one week only. It means much to you and yours. Act now.

An ideal diet would do these same things, but few people get it. So dental science now needs the tooth paste to bring these desired effects.

Pepsodent will daily bring you five great benefits which the old ways did not bring. Together they mean a new era in teeth cleaning.

Men's tobacco stains

Men who smoke stain these film-coats with tobacco. The use of Pepsodent brings them conspicuous effects.

Food stains with women make these film-coats dingy. The glistening teeth seen everywhere now show how Pepsodent removes them.

But children need Pepsodent most. Their teeth are most subject to film and starch attacks. Very few escape them. Dentists advise that they use Pepsodent from the time the first tooth appears.

Watch teeth whiten

The results of Pepsodent are quickly seen and felt. No user can long doubt them. A book we send explains the reasons for them. A very short test will convince you that this new way is essential.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

Then you will see and feel and know that Pepsodent is necessary. You will realise that old methods were not right. And this discovery may bring life-long benefits both to you and yours. Present this coupon to your dealer this week. Cut it out now.

CHEQUE ARTIST WANTED

The police here have been advised to be on the lookout for a cheque artist who has been operating in the county of Northumberland and Durham. At Woodville the artist visited a store to purchase an article and presented a cheque which did not satisfy the merchant. Enquiries were made at the bank by phone and the information imparted justified the merchant's fears. The stranger then decided to make a get-away. A constable was summoned and the officer with a young man chased the cheque artist up the G. T. R. tracks with revolvers. He headed towards Cannington and finally escaped.

RAN AGAINST POLE

A boy named Norman Bonnycastle was this morning playing volley ball in the armouries with other children when he met with an accident which, fortunately, was not serious. In endeavoring to make a home run he was making his best speed around the bases and did not notice that a pole attached to a military wagon projected to a considerable extent. The lad ran into the pole and fell to the floor temporarily overcome. He soon revived, however, and was able to continue the game.

Over fifty members were in attendance.

CHAUTAUQUA NEXT YEAR

At Chautauqua Tuesday evening Mr. D. V. Sinclair, on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, made a brief address in which he asked how many of the audience would buy tickets and help in every way a Chautauqua for next year. The response was enthusiastic and almost unanimous. Mr. Sinclair explained that last year the receipts fell short and ten members of the Chamber of Commerce made good a deficit of five hundred dollars. This season there might be a small deficit, but forty public men would make it good. It was thought that next season would show a substantial profit and the Chamber of Commerce was ready to turn it over to some local society who desired to raise funds for some public object. Mr. Sinclair thought Chautauqua was too valuable to a community to allow it to pass by for the sessions were instructive as well as entertaining, and he would almost agree to personally guarantee the necessary revenue, if no one else would take it up.

OVERCOME BY HEAT

On Tuesday evening, as she was walking along East Moira St. a young lady of this city was overcome by the terrific heat and fell to the pavement in a faint. Dr. Cronk was summoned and revived the young lady who was then taken to her home.

Hot Stuff

F.E.—I saw a man attired in a Palm Beach Suit, crowned by a tall silk hat, walking along Front street Sunday in the blistering heat. I'll say he was courageous.

Chipmunk Demands Apology

C.C.—I see the printer made my striped Chipmunks "stupid Chipmunks". Now the Chipmunk is anything but stupid so there is an apology coming from The Intelligent Compositor.

How About It?

M.D.D.—When driving my car down Front street, I noticed a car parked beside a water hydrant, contrary to law. I thought I would wait and see who the victim would be, and behold along came an O.T.A. Officer, looked at the car, got in and drove away. Now the point that is bothering me is, did the officer pinch that flivver because he thought it was a wet one, (it was raining at the time), or because it was parked by the hydrant? An officer wouldn't park his own flivver there would he?

Hydrant Stopped Him

X.Y.—I saw a motorist bang into a hydrant while manoeuvring on Front street. Only the strength of the hydrant prevented this awkward driver from making a frontal attack upon a bank building directly behind the hydrant. Looked as if the High Cost of Living had determined him to deposit his flivver in the bank.

In The Cool Spots

M.B.—Sunday afternoon I noticed dozens of families and single persons also a few couples and groups of young lads heading for the Banks of the Moira, north of the city. The heat in the city was insufferable, but there along the shore where giant balsam and pine trees cast their shade, a welcome breeze was playing to the great delight and comfort of the many folks in the vicinity.

Suggested Not Selected

O.F.—I saw an item in the paper which is likely to cause misunderstanding. It said that Sunnyside had been selected as the name for the new Old Folks' Home. Upon enquiry I found that the paragraph should have read: 'Sunnyside has been suggested as the name, etc." The word "selected" was a typographical error.

Pays to Advertise Great Hit at Chautauqua

PERCY VIVIAN AND COMPANY OF BROADWAY PLAYERS PRESENT GREAT COMEDY

Just one program was presented at the Chautauqua Tuesday, the afternoon session being announced on the program as "rest afternoon." To compensate for this, however, the management excelled all previous programs when they offered for the approval of patrons that most enjoyable and celebrated comedy, "It Pays to Advertise," probably one of the greatest laugh-producing productions on the current stage. It was a gala night. The audience, the largest yet assembled in the big Auditorium, were literally delighted at the vivacity and "pep" injected into this sparkling comedy by the Percival Vivian Players. Geo. M. Cohen, it will be remembered, scored one of his greatest Broadway successes in this offering, but it is doubtful if even he could have instilled more genuine humor and "punch" into the presentation than did this clever company of accomplished artists.

The story moves with lightning rapidity and is based mainly on the psychology of advertising. Complication follows complication an the unravelling of the same kept the audience in a continual roar of laughter. Presented in three acts, the plot chiefly concerns a plutocratic father and a puerile and lackadaisical son. The rich man's stenographer, as the result of a wager with him, cleverly induces the son to go to work. Into the story at this point comes an effervescent theatrical press agent who is soaked in the gospel of advertising. The son and the press agent go into the soap business, with but limited capital. These young business adventurers concern themselves not with the manufacture of soap, but with advertising it, the whole venture in fact, is based on the "power of the printed word." Eventually the campaign scores a tremendous success—orders come in by the thousand. Then it is that the weakness of the venture is apparent—they have forgotten to make any soap. Advertising bills become due and they are faced with bankruptcy. However, by mirth-provoking subterfuges and shrewd manipulation of their slender resources they stave off failure, and manage to sell their trade mark at a big profit to the soap trust, of which the father is president. Into the story is woven a charming, but not too obtrusive love affair.

The company chosen were extremely well cast, handling the critical situations and rendering their lines in a manner, unfortunately, all too rare. The production bore the hall-mark of Broadway. Although presented under handicap, no scenic essentials were lacking. Novel the setting certainly was, but it was complete to the smallest detail.

A Clever Company

In point of merit Percival Vivian as Ambrose Pearle, the lurid and enthusiastic apostle of advertising, easily secured the laurels of the evening. This artist, by the way, was brought from London to this continent ten years ago by the famous Ben Greet. Vivian is the embodiment of clean humor. While delightfully droll, and at times rather boisterous, his portrayal of the premier part was without vestige of vulgarity. He won an ovation from the audience. His mere presence on the stage was the signal for laughter, and his quaint mannerisms had the audience rocking with merriment. His graduation from the press-agency of the "Broadway Beauties" to advertising expert for the soap trust was the quintessence of comedy.

Mr. Vivian was capably supported by Miss Irene Bevans as Mary Grayson, the stenographer. She gave a clever and concise interpretation of the modern business woman. In the love interludes—after hours—she was charming and alluring, and did much to promote the unqualified success of the play. Another character who was accorded hearty appreciation was Miss Bertha Broad as the psuedo Comtesse de Beaurien. In the early part of the comedy she portrayed a "chic" and volatile Parisienne and her subsequent lapse from an unfailing torrent of delightful and perfect French to the raucous slang of Chicago left the audience veritably stunned. It was an exquisite piece of work, and was enthusiastically recognized.

Mr. Frank Joyner as Rodney Martin, the spendthrift son, had a role that ideally suited him. His portraiture of the transformation of a slothful youth to a virile and vigorous business man left nothing to be desired. He was a perfect foil for the clever work of Mr. Vivian and showed considerable native talent. As Cyrus Martin, the president of the soap trust Mr. J. Syre Crawley added to the pleasure of the evening. His presentation of the irascible and gouty old financier who eventually succumbed to the logic of advertising was superb. A finished performance was given by Mr. Wm. Morton, as Ellery Clark, the "high-brow" and effeminate "model son". Other subordinate parts played with distinction and merit were taken by Miss Margaret Sinclair and Mr. Ralph Earle.

It was a wonderful night, the audience showing their keen appreciation of the work of the highest-paid attraction on Chautauqua by frequent and sustained applause.

Social and Personal

The following pupils of Miss Cumming were successful in the recent piano examinations of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, Elementary grade-Garce Leaman(honors) Jack Redfern, Vera Rainbird, Ross Bird.

OH!

"Nora," said Mrs. Dedbeat, from the top of the stairs, "tell that man who is ringing the doorbell that I am not receiving to-day!"

The servant girl went to the door and said something to the man; then she stepped into the hall and called upstairs:

"I told him you were not receiving, to-day, mam! But he says he ain't deliverin', he's collectin'!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FACTS ABOUT INSECTS.

Sartling Figures Regarding Family of a Potato Bug.

Few persons, observes the American scientist, Mr. James Buckland, realise how enormous is the number of insect species or how amazing is their power of multiplication.

The number of insect species is greater by far than that of the species of all other living creatures combined. Although more than 300,000 have been described, probably twice that number remain to be examined. Virtually all living animals, as well as most plants, supply food for these incomputable hordes.

The fecundity of certain insect forms is astounding. Riley once computed that the progeny of the hop aphis, which sees thirteen generations born to it in a single year, would, if unchecked to the end of the twelfth generation, multiply to the inconceivable number of ten sextillions of individuals.

Supplementing that calculation, Forbush says that, if this brood were marshalled in line, ten to the inch, it would extend to a point so sunk in the profundity of space that light from the head of the procession, traveling at the rate of 184,000 miles a second, would take 2,500 years to reach the earth.

Kirkland has computed that in eight years the progeny of one pair of gipsy moths could destroy all the foliage in the United States. A Canadian entomologist asserts that in one season the descendants of a pair of potato bugs would, if unchecked, number 60,000,000.

The voracity of insects is almost as astounding as their power of reproduction. The daily ration in leaves of a caterpillar is equal to twice its own weight. If a horse were to eat as much, he would require a ton of hay every twenty-four hours. Forbush says that a certain flesh-eating larva will consume in twenty-four hours 200 times its original weight; a human child, to do as well, would have to eat, in the first day of its life, 1,500 pounds of beef.

Trouvelot, who made a special study of the subject, affirms that the food taken by a single silkworm in fifty-six days equals 86,000 times its original weight at hatching. What destruction this one insect would cause if even a one-hundredth part of its eggs ever hatched.

The facts show how great is the value to man of the insect-eating birds.

Among the Violets.

The finding of the year's first violets is an important annual event. Even though it may not be the first wild flower the first of the violet tribe is notable. It is the earliest gift of the floral family that is most commonly known and most generally loved. Every one loves the violets. Perhaps no other flower has been so universally admired. Homer, whose gentle allusions to nature are not frequent, tells of "meadows of softest verdure, purpled over with violets." The Greeks knew why some of the violets were purple. Aphrodite, wandering barefoot in the vernal woods, was impiously wounded by a thorn. The white violets received the blood which dripped from the divine foot, and thus acquired their purple hue. Not so pretty a story is that told by an English poet, who holds that the white violets were audacious girls who presumed to compare their beauty with that of Aphrodite. The angry goddess appealed to Eros for judgment, and the love god mischievously declared in favor of the maidens. Whereupon, Aphrodite proceeded to flog the brazen hussie till they were quite blue, a color they have since retained.

An Eel Mystery.

An interesting story of the history of the common eel was recently related by Prof. J. A. Thomson at the Royal Institution. "Here is a brain-stretching problem for you!" he said. "How do the tiny baby eels which push up the rivers from their birthplace in the depths of the ocean manage to overcome the great difficulties of the journey? I wish somebody would tell me how it is they manage to circumvent the falls of the Rhine, and even Niagara Falls." The eels come from the sea, and to the sea return. The North Sea is not deep enough for them. Out into the North Atlantic they go, to the south of the Azores, and there in the deep waters and the darkness they spawn.

Forestalled.

A late arrival at the Women's Bridge Club asked her partner for a cigarette as she cut the rubber. "So silly of me!" she said. "I bought a box of a hundred cigarettes and left them at the Post Office round the corner when I was buying some stamps." At the end of the afternoon the women went into the Post Office to retrieve her property. "I left a box of cigarettes here a few hours ago. Did you find them?" she asked. "Yes," replied the official. "I found them, and I gave them to the first of the three ladies who called for them."

Cereal Harvest for 1920.

The International Agricultural Institute at Rome reports that the wheat harvest for 1920 in countries which have furnished complete returns, including the recent harvests in the Southern Hemisphere, amounted to 331,250,000 quarters, compared with 318,750,000 in 1919, and an average of 333,750,000 for the previous five years. The corresponding yield of oats was 345,192,000, compared with 287,500,000 in 1919, and a five years' average of 332,718,000. The figures for the United Kingdom are not given.

THE SUBSTITUTE

By Will. N, [illegible]

(Copyright, 1903)

[illegible] man under twenty-five, short and frail looking. His clothing was ragged and his sandy hair unkempt. Buckley looked at him and smiled. "Been getting yourself into no end of rows over home," he remarked. "My mother tells me they sent you a death's head the other night, and your father said somebody shot at you in the field."

"That's all so, George," said Truitt gloomily. "I reckon I've been shootin' off my mouth a little too much."

"I really thought you had more sense than to report that desperate gang over there for moonshining," said George in a kindly tone.

"Wouldn't 'a' done it ef I'd been sober," replied Truitt. "They made me mad when I was full, an' I done 'em all the harm I could."

"Well, what are you going to do about it, Jeff?"

"That's what I come to ax you, George. Ma and pa are mighty nigh crazy about it, an' I give 'em my word I'd come an' ax yore advice. By gum, they think they'll go to you when they die! Ef you was me would you go back over thar today, George? I—I got another warnin' last night; in fact, six or eight of 'em was scattered all about the place. I say warnin', but I reckon they was wuss than that; they was to pa an' ma an' said ef they ketched me they wouldn't do a thing to me."

"Well, there's some consolation in that," said George dryly.

"You know I hain't afeard o' any reasonable number o' men," said Truitt in his whining voice, "but when a whole regiment of 'em comes to drink a feller's blood I jest git rattled an' want to make tracks. Ef I had my way, though, I'd go back home an' defy 'em, but ma's mighty nigh crazy."

"No; you'd better stay in town today anyway, Jeff," said Buckley after a moment's reflection. "Go up to the Johnston House and get your breakfast—take all your meals there while you are in town—I've got an account there; tell them to charge it to me. Stay in town tonight anyway. I'll see you tomorrow. I'm very busy today. Do you think the gang would dare follow you here?"

"They might, George. They raised a rumpus here about a year ago, you know—whippin' niggers in Niggertown."

Later in the morning Buckley met the town marshal, Joe Batey, on the street. The officer wore a broad brimmed hat, a dark blue suit of clothes with brass buttons and carried a policeman's club strapped to his wrist. George gravely explained the situation to him, but the officer refused to concern himself in the matter.

"Look y' here, George Buckley," he said. "Do you reckon I'm paid measly town wages to do both town and county work? Ef the sheriff cayn't keep down them riots over thar in the mountains, I cayn't. Fer $30 a month I'm expected to do police duty in daytime, watchman at night an' act as coroner on special occasions. Besides, Jeff Truitt's gettin' entirely too numerous. Every time he gets full he wants to scratch some o' them daredevils' eyes out. He's a funny chap. They say when he's drunk he'd fight a swarm o' wildcats, but when he's sober he'd scare at the sight of a baby popgun, an', on top o' that, when he sobers up he's so stubborn he'd die 'fore he would apologize fer what he's done. What you goin' to do with a man like that? He's no ornament to the community."

"Well, I only thought I'd let you know the situation," George smiled as he walked on. "All I want to do is to save the fellow's neck."

George saw no more of Jeff Truitt that day. He had some important calculations to make in connection with the sale of certain large quantities of cotton to mills in the east, and he was closely occupied in his office till past midnight. When he had finished he went to the front door of the warehouse to get a breath of fresh air before retiring. He did not feel sleepy. Such work as he had been doing usually had a contrary effect on him. Suddenly he heard a shout up the street in the direction of the Johnston House, a revolver was fired, and a gruff voice cried out, "Thar he goes, boys!"

This was followed by a clatter of many feet on the brick sidewalk, a storm of furious ejaculations and stifled oaths, and then a dark human billow rushed down the street in Buckley's direction. It was a mob pursuing Jeff Truitt.

Hardly knowing why he did it, George ran into his office and secured his big revolver from the drawer of his desk and turned back quickly to the door. He was just in time, for the mob, numbering fifty or more, was not ten yards away. Panting and almost out of breath, Jeff Truitt came bounding along ahead of them and just out of their grasp. He was making for the warehouse with the instinct that there, and there alone, lay some chance for escape. He gasped out something to George and darted past him into the warehouse.

"Halt!" George thundered, his revolver leveled at the man in the lead. "Halt or I'll blow your brains out!"

The man fell back against those behind him, and the surging mass came to a sudden pause.

"Heigh! What's this?" panted a man in the rear. "What's this?"

"It's me," said Buckley calmly. "That boy has come to me for protection, and he shall have it if I have to shoot six of you in your tracks!"

"Oh, thunder! Come off!" sneered a man in the front. "Git out o' the door, Buckley, or we'll mash you flatter'n a flitter."

"The first man that tries to pass this step dies as sure as God's in heaven!"

There was a swerving back from the weapon in Buckley's steady hand. Silence fell—a threatening silence. The cocking of a revolver somewhere in the crowd sounded clearly.

Harding is Prepared to Summon Conference

U. S. PRESIDENT INDICATES THAT HE IS MERELY WAITING FOR NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS BILL AS AMENDED TO BECOME LAW BEFORE TAKING FORMAL ACTION ON DISARMAMENT.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—President Harding is prepared to call a conference of the leading naval powers for a discussion of the limitation of armaments as soon as the Naval Appropriations Bill, carrying the Borah "Disarmament" Amendment, becomes law.

Following the Cabinet meeting the President indicated that he could not be unmindful of the wishes of Congress and would act to carry out the provisions of the Borah amendment. The amendment requests the President to invite Great Britain and Japan to send representatives to meet those of the United States in a conference to discuss a practical plan of limitation of armaments.

While intending strictly to abide by the request of Congress in calling the conference, it is known that the President and most of his advisers consider the question academic and the results probably negligible. Although approving thoroughly the principle of "Disarmament" the President believes the problem difficult to solve and dangerous to handle at this time.

Supply of Radium For Hospital

TORONTO GENERAL WILL, IN AUGUST, RECEIVE 150 MILLIGRAMS

Toronto, June 30.—Radium, which the Toronto General Hospital needed for its X-ray department, has been secured, and will be delivered to it during August, from the Radium Chemical Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., through the Bank of Toronto. Some time since hospital officials referred the work which might be accomplished if it possessed a supply, and it has now been able to purchase 150 milligrams valued at $21,000.

Life of Radium

The radium will be used for the treatment of cancer and similar dis- [illegible] 1,700 years, but this depends greatly upon the volume of treatment. The annual depreciation is placed at one twenty-fifth of one per cent. Consequently, the amount of radium which the hospital has secured will meet its needs for a considerable period of time.

Its acquisition make the equipment of the X-ray department of the hospital equal to that in any institution on the continent. Last year 56,200 patients were treated in it, and this year there will be at least 15 per cent. more.

The radium will be delivered in eleven parcels, as follows: One tube of 50 milligrams, two needles of 12½ milligrams, one needle of ten milligrams, six needles of ten milligrams, and one plaque of five milligrams. Thus eleven patients can be treated at one time, but the entire quantity can be combined, if necessary, and the 150 milligrams used in the treatment of one patient.

Dr. Gordon Richards, radiologist of the hospital, is at present in Pittsburgh taking a course in the use of radium.

WHEEL COMES OFF AUTO AND INJURES CHILD

Cobalt, June 30.—Germaine Cote, eight years old, suffered a painful and peculiar accident when she was thrown to the ground in front of her father's doorstep with such force that a rib was broken. Her assailant was the stray wheel from an automobile which had encountered a mishap on the road opposite.

Motor Traffic Regulations Must be Observed

Chief of Police Kidd is determined that motor car regulations will be enforced. With the great increase in motor traffic there is an ever-present menace from accidents which can be prevented by observing the regulations. Chief Kidd has issued instructions to the force to report all infractions of the law without fear or favor. Protection of life, limb and property can only be assured by the elimination of carelessness thoughtlessness and recklessness in motor car handling, and Chief Kidd is rendering motor car owners and the public generally, a great service by insisting upon rigid observance of traffic regulations.

Wild Tumbling of Wheat Prices

STRIKE MENACE AND FIRST BIG OFFERINGS CAUSED VIRTUAL COLLAPSE

Chicago, June 30.—Fear of strike complications bowled into the wheat market to-day at the same time as the first big offerings from the 1921 harvest.

Wild tumbling of prices followed with July wheat showing an extreme loss of nine cents a bushel compared with yesterday's finish. Simultaneously cash values for immediate delivery of wheat in Kansas City were reported as dropping in some cases fully 2 cents.

Threatenings of a tie-up of all Chicago grain elevators on account of wage troubles had become more ominous over night, and were given greater significance because of reports that balloting by railroad employes appeared to indicate rejection of a wage cut which had been ordered for July 1st. Meanwhile, heavily increased offerings of new wheat in the Southwest States were widely construed, as indicating farmers were not going to hold their wheat this season, but were pouring it into elevators.

Bearish views of the general business situation gained notice moreover, whereas the British coal strike settlement was apparently overlooked and adverse crop advices from the north-west were disregarded. Under such circumstances, buying orders dwindled nearly to nothing, and efforts to sell became more and more importunate until at the last the market was in a state bordering on collapse.

Canada's Belgium Trade Grows

EXPORTS OF AUSTRALIA ALSO ARE $7,000,000 MORE THAN LAST YEAR

Ottawa, June 29.—An increase of approximately eight million dollars in exports of Canadian goods to Belgium during the twelve months ending May 31st last, as compared with the twelve-month period ending May 31st, 1920, is shown h ythe trade summary issued through the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. During the period ending with the close of last month, Canada exported goods to Belgium to the value of $38,909,939, as compared with exports of $30,960,311 for the corresponding twelve months ending May 31, 1920. Imports from Belgium during the twelve months ending with the close of last month, were approximately three million dollars greater than in the period ending with May 31 last year, when they totalled $11,337,890.

Of the British Dominions, exports from Canada to Australia totalled $17,808,019 in the twelve-month period. In the corresponding period a year ago this figure was $10,937,113. Imports from Australia during the twelve months under review were to the value of less than a million dollars, while last year they were slightly more than this amount. Exports to New Zealand rose from eight to eleven millions, while imports were approximately $3,600,000 for both periods.

Turks and Bolsheviki Plan Vast Uprising

Several men alleged to be the principal ringleaders in the reported uprising were arrested. More than sixty prisoners were placed in military lorries by the British.

Romance of Italy Dulled by Modernity

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rome, June 30.—Hill towns of Italy which dot the landscape from north to south and have been the subject of writers and painters for centuries are threatened with an invasion of modern mechancial contrivances which will rob them of their aged romance and unspoiled picturesqueness.

The hill towns are relics of the old system. The lord of the manor built his castle upon a hill and the whole of his vassals clustered their habitations about him. The position on almost inaccessible heights was sought for safety from invading neighbors. These towns dotting the hills stand today almost untouched by the centuries. The walls of the houses are thick and strong. Food has been hauled up to the hills by hand labor and horses since they were built. Women carried on their heads the water and other household necessities.

The plan is to build Alpine railways from the plains to the hills as labor saving devices. The perfect Alpine cable lines which the Italian army built over the Alps during the war are being sought for the work. Already a number of the towns have applied to the ministry for the discarded Alpine cables so that they can be erected for the towns.

America The Home of Divorce

London, June 11.—America was described as "the happy hunting ground of divorce" and "the home of divorces" by the Rev. A. V. Magee, vicar of St. Mark's church, London, during the discussion of the divorce question by the London Diocesan Conference just ended. A resolution was adopted pledging the conference "to adhere to the principle of the indissolubility of Christian marriage."

The Rev. Mr. Magee, denounced Lord Buckmaster's bill in Parliament for divorce reform, saying it could adequately be described in two titles, "Divorce While You Wait" and "Marriage on Trial For Six Minths."

An amendment to the resolution that the conference should pledge itself to adhere "to the teaching of Jesus Christ concerning marriage" was lost.

A cloudburst flooded many Toronto streets and cellars and imperilled the car lines.

R. transcontinental train en route to her uncle's home in Swift Current, Sask. From her far-away home in Glasgow, Scotland, to the Canadian West, over 4,000 miles, the little orphan has only the kindly direction of train and steamship officials to guide her.

Aged Prospector's Fearful Vigil

FIVE DAYS ALONE IN WOODS WITH BROKEN LEG—WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER

Sydney, N.S., June 29.—After five days alone with a broken leg and without food, water or shelter, Mitchel B. McNeil, 70 year old prospector, was found by some boys in a patch of woods near Louisburg and carried for treatment to St. Joseph's Hospital, Glace Bay, where it is said today that his recovery is certain.

McNeil left his home in Reserve on a prospecting trip with only two biscuits in his pocket, intending to purchase a supply of food at Louisburg. While climbing a rocky ledge he fell and fractured a leg, which was weakened from having been previously broken in a mine accident some years ago.

Mr. McNeil says he intends to resume his prospecting as soon as he recovers.

De Valera Won't Accept Proposal to Meet Craig

NORTH AND SOUTH TOO FAR APART, UNLESS CONFERENCE TERMS ARE CHANGED

London, June 29.—Eamonn de Valera, the Irish Republic leader, in a letter to Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier says that the proposal of the prime minister, Mr. Lloyd George, for a conference in London between representatives of southern and northern Ireland and the British government owing to its limitations, is impossible to acceptance in its present form.

Dual Language For League of Nations

Geneva, Switzerland, June 29.—Obligatory use of two languages, French and English, in all its transactions, and the high cost of living at the head quarters in Geneva are given by the special committee investigating the workings of the League of Nations as an explanation of what has been considered in some quarters as the excessive cost of the organization. The expense for the last year, as already reported, was about $4,150,000.

"There can be no doubt", says the committee's report, "that, rightly or wrongly, the League of Nations has the reputation of costing too much". The report then goes on to explain how the complexity, diversity and novelty of the work undertaken necessarily costs heavily, particularly since it is in the hands of a comparatively young institution that lacks experience.

The dual language of the League requiring translation and duplicate publication of all documents alone accounts for one-third of the entire expense, the report says, then points out that the location of the headquarters of the League in Geneva accounts for a good deal of the excessive outlay.

"Since the main purpose of the Commission of Inquiry is to suggest every form of economy", the report says, "it feels bound to point out that, at the moment, Geneva is—and so far as it is possible to foresee will remain—a city in which the cost of living is comparatively higher than in almost any city in Europe, and where the rate of exchange is, at the moment of writing, the most disadvantageous for the great majority of states' members of the League."

The report suggests that were the League headquarters located at Brussels, Fontainebleau, Turin or Vienna, or almost anywhere else, an immediate economy would be effected that would be appreciated by all members of the League and particularly by those whose exchange is depreciated.

Four of Family in Toils of Law

ALLEGED TO HAVE POISONED CATTLE OF WITNESS IN COURT ACTION

Peterboro, June 29.—The Hill family of Dummer was again taken into the toils by a detachment of Peterboro' police, headed by Chief Newhall, charged with poisoning 11 head of cattle belonging to one of the chief witnesses against them at the trial that ended in the imprisonment of two of their number three summers ago.

The police for the present refuse to divulge the name of the man whose catle are alleged to have been poisoned. The death of the cattle was investigated by a veterinary surgeon, and mysterious circumstances led to a police investigation which ended in the arrests.

William and Davis Hill have been refused bail and are being held to appear in court on Thursday. Robert Hill and his son Russell were set free on their own recognizance to return for trial next Thursday. Several other material witnesses who were caught in the police net were liberated on the same condition.

DUBLIN, June 29.—In his letter to Premier Lloyd George, De Valera says:—

"I am in consultation with such principal representatives of our nation as our available. We most earnestly desire to help in bringing about a lasting peace between the peoples of these two islands, but we see no avenue by which it can be reached if you deny Ireland's essential unity and set aside the principle of self-determination.

"Before replying more fully to your letter, I am seeking a conference with certain representatives of the political minority in this country."

Aim to Develop Trent Waterway

Orillia, Ont., June 29.—Great enthusiasm marked the annual meeting of the Trent Waterway Development Association, which was held at the Orchard Point Inn here. The visiting delegates from the municipalities along the route to the number of thirty were entertained to a dinner at the Inn by the Orillia Board of Trade. Following this the business was transacted, the president, Mr. Gordon Fraser, of Barrie, presiding.

In his annual address, Mr. Fraser outlined the work o fthe association in making known the attractions of the Trent waterway as a summer tourist route. It was decided to prosecute the work of the association with even greater energy, and to urge the Dominion Government to complete the locks on the Severn River.

The following officers were elected: Hon. Presidents, Senator Bennett, Sir Wm. Mackenzie, Sir Sam Hughes and Sir Edward Kemp; President, Gordon K. Fraser, Burleigh Falls; Vice-Presidents, Francis Kerr, Peterborough, and John C. Miller, Orillia; Secretary-Treasurer, Leon Fraser, Peterborough.

Royal Irish Constabulary is to be Quadrupled

FORCES TO BE INCREASED FROM TWELVE TO FIFTY THOUSAND, SAYS DAILY SKETCH — EDITORIAL COMMENT UPON FAILURE OF CONFERENCE PROPOSED BY LLOYD GEORGE WITH SINN FEIN LEADER AND SIR JAMES CRAIG.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, June 30.—The forces of the Royal Irish Constabulary are immediately to be quadrupled, says the Daily Sketch. This would mean increasing the number of men in this service from twelve thousand to fifty thousand. Newspapers of this city took diverse views regarding the probable effect of the refusal of Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, to meet Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, and De Valera's letter to Sir James, declaring that the Sinn Fein could not accept the invitation of Prime Minister Lloyd George to a conference relative to Ireland. Some editorial comment was inclined to be very gloomy, interpreting De Valera's assertion that the Prime Minister's proposal was not acceptable in its present form as an indication that such a meeting was unlikely to occur.

Old Song Singers Are a Delight at Chautauqua

On Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock the last afternoon performance of this season's Chautauqua was given, the performers being Miss Ruby Gall and her Old-Song Singers. Miss Gall announced that her performance would be entirely informal, which met with approval from the small audience present. The program was interrupted by the thunder storm, but after a period of about twenty minutes the program was continued. Miss Gall proved herself a delightful entertainer and the audience was generous in their applause of the several numbers. Disappointment was evident on everyone's face when the last musical number was announced. Mr. Zimmerman made a great hit with his darky songs, which were very well rendered.

Wedding Bells

McCOY—McTAGGART

At Tweed on Wednesday, June 29th at the home of the bride's parents, at the home of the bride's parents, street, was the scene of a pretty but quiet wedding, when their daughter, Ethel Mary, and James F. McCoy of Belleville were united in the holy bonds of matrimony my Rev. Merrick of Thomasburg at 11 o'clock.

The bride, becomingly attired in white satin and georgette trimmed with beads and carrying a bouquet of American Beauty Roses and ferns, entered the drawing-room to the strains of a wedding march played by Mrs. Percy McTaggart and took her place beside the groom beneath an arch of ferns and vines. Little Miss Jean Holbert, neice of the bride, acted as flower girl and looked very dainty, being dressed in white, carrying a basket of roses and Canterbury Bells.

After congratulations and the signing of the register all adjourned to the dining-room where a dainty luncheon was served to about twenty-five guests.

The bride travelled in a navy taffeta gown trimmed with American Beauty satin and wearing a black Mohair hat.

The bride and groom will reside in Belleville.

Anglo-Saxon Unity Necessary For World Peace

POWERFUL PLEA FOR UNITY OF ENGLISH-SPEAKING NATIONS

"How far in the long run will the necessities rising out of the contact of two great nations determine our national policy? It is this which makes the Dominion of Canada unique among the nations. By inheritance, not only of blood, but of ideals, language, customs, manners, we touch with the one hand Great Britain and with the other the United States. Fundamentally we are bounded on the one side and on the other by one race, one idea, one character. Will the time come when Canada will pour entirely into the ever broadening river of imperial expansion or into that other equally ever broadening stream, the democracy of America?"

"If Great Britain seeks permanence through alienation of the United States: if the United States seeks the same by the same means; if Canada especially looks forward to independent existence that involves her rupture with empire or democracy, then the greatest disaster that has touched humanity in its ascent will be upon the world. Mankind at this hour, more than at any other hour in its struggle, needs that peculiar leadership which the genius of the Anglo-Saxon race enables it to give."

So said Dr. Robert Norwood in his eloquent and interesting lecture," "The Dominion and Its Destiny," at the closing session of Chautauqua, in which he made a forceful plea for the binding in bonds of sympathy, friendship and co-operation of the Anglo-Saxon race to work together for the good of the world. Forces are at work to stir up war between Great Britain and the United States, said the speaker, who gave many instances to prove that this was a fact and an awful menace to the peace and liberty of the world.

If these great English speaking nations go to war it will be a world catastrophy for they will destroy each other and the world will be given over to anarchy, said Dr. Norwood.

Canada could act as the golden bridge of friendship between Great Britain and the United States, the interpreter of peace and good will and co-operation. Canada's destiny depends upon clean politics, free educational facilities and the practice in all walks of life of the true religion of Jesus Christ. Dr. Norwood, who was a poor boy, worked his own way through college with great difficulty and delay, and is in favor of scrapping all departmental colleges and making a national university free to all. Free education will produce a splendid nation of young men and women to work out Canada's destiny to the fullness of its great possibilities. Love for our fellowmen and a practical application in all affairs of the national life as well as the private life of the individual of the principles of Christianity as laid down by Jesus Christ, are necessary in the development of Canada as a great nation.

Dr. Norwood is an earnest, forceful and eloquent speaker, a Canadian by birth and education, and for a number of years was pastor of the Memorial Anglican Church of London, Ont., and was called from there to the Memorial Church of St. Paul, Philadelphia. He is making a splendid impression in that city by his earnest and powerful messages.

Fanatical Sect of Natives in Bloody Battle

SOUTH AFRICAN TROOPS ROOTED OUT OF VILLAGE OF FANATICS

Capetown, June 29.—A native religious sect which calls itself the "Israelites," under a "prophet" named Enoch, who refused to evacuate Government land at Bulhoek, near Queenstown, Cape Colony, has been forcibly ejected, losing 171 killed and 126 wounded in a fight with mounted Cape police.

For some years past the Government had permitted the "Israelites" to celebrate "Passover" on a common, but each year an increasing number of pilgrims remained behind on what they called "holy ground," until a village of some 350 huts had sprung up. The sect forbade anybody to enter the village or to recognize any authority except orders from "Jehovah, the God of Israel," as interpreted by Enoch the prophet.

The Government some time ago endeavored to register the settlement but the police were obliged to withdraw to avoid bloodshed.

Peaceful efforts by the Secretary for Native Affairs and others to induce the "Israelites" to withdraw failed. They steadfastly refused to go.

Finally a force of 800 mounted police moved from Queenstown to demand the surrender of the village. With shouts of "Jehovah says we must fight," 4,000 natives charged the police with swords and assegais, the women urging on the men with religious chants. The police let them come on until within 30 yards and then fired, with the result stated. Thereupon the prophet Enoch surrendered and the village is to be demolished.

The affair has caused some stir in the Cape House of Assembly. Premier Smuts declared that in view of the natives' obstinacy there was no other way in which to make them understand that they must obey the law.

GAME IS PROTESTED

The Yarker baseball team has entered a protest in the Intercounty Baseball League regarding the game played by that team against Wolfe Island at the Island on Saturday, June 18th. The protest claims that one of the Island players is ineligible under the rules, which provide that all players must be residents of the township from which the team on which they figure hails. The executive will deal with the protest at a meeting to e held soon.

Chautauqua Will Return Next Season

Belleville Chautauqua for 1921 closed Wednesday evening and the well beaten path which the citizens have been making to the armouries for six interesting days of Chautauqua entertainment and education is now a lonesome reminder of a tremendous menu of interesting, joyous, musical and mental uplift in the high class entertainments provided. The programs were well selected and the entertainers and lecturers high class in every respect, and the entire series was clean and wholesome and helpful. The closing announcement of Chautauqua Superintendent H. F. Heston conveyed the gratifying news that Belleville is to have Chautauqua next season, entirely due to the progressiveness and public spirit of Mr. D. V. Sinclair, who signed the guarantee necessary and took the sole responsibility of guaranteeing the finances.

Large numbers of Belleville citizens have enjoyed the Chautauqua programs of 1921, many attending every session, despite the intense heat which militated against the success of the enterprise, and much of the enjoyment afforded was due to the kindly courtesy and efficiency of the staff which handles the production, no small task. Every session started on time and there was not a hitch in the entire six days. The Superintendent, Mr. H. F. Heston, made himself a general favorite with patrons for he is the soul of courtesy and quiet efficiency. In making the announcements Mr. Heston does not try to make eloquent speeches, but in, restrained conversational style gets his message over in a manner which wins approval and respect.

Every member of the staff made many friends in Belleville and all expressed their appreciation of the kindness and hospitality accorded them while here. The complete staff was as follows:

THE STAFF.

H. F. Heston, Chautauqua Superintendent, a senior at the Ohio Dental College, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Miss Irene Bricault, Junior Chautauqua Director, school teacher and athletic director, public school, Syracuse, New York.

Mr. J. H. Davis, athletic director, junior at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Mr. W. F. Okey, Electrician, Freshman at Ohio State University.

At the conclusion of the program Wednesday evening the entire plant was packed up and loaded in the Chautauqua special car for shipment to Haileybury, where they open on Friday.

One lesson of the Belleville Chautauqua season 1921 is that the big tent is eminently preferable to an indoor auditorium, and while the armouries was roomy and had many advantages, it lacked the tent atmosphere, which is so essential to this open air university, besides lacking the advertising value of a big tent in the open.

Next season the Belleville Chautauqua should reach its peak of popularity, and/instead of a deficit in finances there should be a considerable surplus. The people of Belleville and surrounding country are now thoroughly innoculated with the spirit of Chautauqua and those who attended this season will not fail to do so again next season, while many who failed to take advantage of Chautauqua this season will not miss it next season, after hearing the many good things said of its excellent entertainment and education.

THE BIG GAME ON THE 1ST.

The local fans have the largest baseball treat of the season and probably the most important game which has been staged on the local diamond on Dominion Day for years, when Oshawa and Belleville Grand Trunks, clash in battle for the leadership of the Central League. Oshawa has 4 wins and 1 loss, Belleville has 5 wins and 2 losses. A win for Belleville will put them ahead by about ½ game, while a win for Oshawa would give them a struggle hold on the first half. Both teams should be at their best after their Saturday to Friday lay-off. Oshawa was to play in Lindsay Tuesday but rain prevented the game. Oshawa will be no doubt led by their star southpaw, and his good catching mate, while the local fans will very likely have to pin their faith in Goyer and Mills to look after the battery work. The locals look for a win with-out doubt and most of us believe that our infield and outfield, have a shade on Oshawa on fielding and hitting, while the batteries pitted against each other will have a chance to prove their superiority.

Providing Lindsay win at Port Hope, they too will be about a half game behind the leaders, if Belleville win, and a whole game if Oshawa win. We can tell you here that any fan who misses this struggle on Dominion Day, will miss a real ball game between two of the best amateur teams in th country. They should remember the 1-0 win for Oshawa on the 24th. and be on hand to cheer the boys along.

O FOR OSHAWA

Fans who follow the G.T.R. baseball team, if not in person, in mind, have confidence with the class of fielding and hitting now in vogue-and with pitching going along as strong as ever-that Oshawa when they come here on Friday, can go 'way back.

GOOD NIGHT!

The game on Friday decides if Belleville remains O.K. or nil. If they lose this game, Good Night!

PETERBORO MAN UMPIRE

The largest crowd of the season is anticipated on Friday July 1st. Umpire Kay of Peterboro will render decisions on balls and strikes.

SHOW 'EM HOW!

It is not expected that Coach Walter Gerow will give out any line-up until the day of the game, when all are assembled on the diamond, but he can, we believe, be counted on to use all players to the best advantage for a win. Show your pep, boys at this game, show 'em How!

SOME SOUTHPAW

Up to and including the game, which he pitched at Peterboro, Freddy Goyer has pitched thirty-four (34) innings with only 1 run scored off him. If Peterboro had failed to register, it would have been a grand total of thirty-five instead of thirty-four for Freddy. Are we proud of our "Southpaw"? We'll say so.

CARPENTIER WAS A DARING FLIER

Carpentier's bout with Gunboat Smith was his last important engagement before he entered the military service. He was in England when the call to arms was sounded and is said to have hurried across the Channel on the first available boat, getting into uniform almost immediately after his arrival on French soil.

Joining the aeronautic corps as a chauffeur, he became a pilot in the aviation corps in the spring of 1915. He flew at the front for 18 months before being assigned to reserve pilot duty behind the lines. Later he was declared physically unfit for flight service because of minor wounds received in action.

By his comrades, Carpentier is said to have been a daring flier. For bravery in the air, he was decorated with the Croix de Guerre and the Medaille Militaire. The latter award is the most prized that can be given to a French soldier. Carpentier's bravery in flying low over a German fortress during one of the major French offensives resulted in this decoration, according to the official war records, recently investigated.

Carpentier's only boxing during this period was in exhibitions behind the lines for the pleasure of his poilu comrades. The only bout listed in his official record about this time is the exhibition with Jean Bicot in 1917. For some time it was planned to send Carpentier to America to box in exhibitions for the Red Cross benefit, but this was abandoned.

Revive Yachting Sport on The Bay of Quinte

BELLEPILLE YACHT CLUB OF 1851 WAS A GOING CONCERN

Dear Sir,—

A book in the possession of George Campbell, son of the late Chief W. H. Campbell, of the fire department, contains interesting information concerning yachting on our beautiful bay at Belleville, back in 1881—thirty years ago.

At that time, as appears by this book, the Belleville Yacht Club consisted of 19 sailing yachts, ranging from 2 tons to 84 tons, respectively, the largest having a length of 62 feet 10 inches. One can imagine what an attractive picture this fleet of yachts made on our bay with breezes blowing free, the billows rolling and the sails all set. The names of the various yachts with their respective owners of above-mentioned date, are as follows:

Name.	Owner.
Atalanta	A. Cuthbert
Nora	R. J. Bell
Dauntless	D. Pitceathly, et al
Gracie	R. M. Roy
Katie Gray	W. H. Campbell
Kathleen	A. Cuthbert
Surprise	J. R. Cumming
Emma	G. Offord, Jr.
Enid	D. R. Leavens
Sylvia	W. Pike.
Zephyr	S. T. Greene
Iris	G. P. Reid
Pinafore	W. Clarke
Mabel	Thos. Cook
Minnie A.	John Addison
Victor	T. S. Carman
I. X. L.	W. H. Carter
Whisper	Ralph Purdy
Catamaran	J. J. B. Flint

These yachts not only took part in regattas at the various bay ports, but also on the lake, both Canadian and American sides, and at New York City, where a Belleville yacht contested for the world championship in the famous race in which Sir Thomas Lipton's yachts have more recently contested. At Chicago a Belleville yacht won the freshwater championship race of America. The officers for 1881 were as follows:

Commodore—D. Pitceathly.
Vice-Commodore—R. J. Bell.
Captain—R. M. Roy.
Secretary—R. S. Bell.
Treasurer—W. Pike.
Measurers—S. T. Green and J. H. Starling.

Executive Committee—A. Robertson, M.P.P., chairman; W. H. Campbell, J. R. Cumming, C. J. Starling, Thos. Kelso F. H. Hambly, Hugh McKinnon, Prof. Dawson, W. Webster, S. A. Spangenberg Geo. Sutherland.

Regatta—D. B. Robertson, chairman; James Clarke, M. Jellett, J. H. Starling, E. Forece, W. H. Biggar, A. M. Foster, Chas. Corby, John Jellett.

Some of the cities and towns still maintain their yacht clubs, and the annual regatta at Cobourg is one of the greatest sporting and social events of the season.

The disappearance of the Yacht Club at Belleville has been followed by the disappearance of the Rowing Club, so that with one of the best adapted sheets of fresh water we have no aquatic sports, which are undoubtely the leanest, the cleanliest, most useful and most healthful of all sports.

Cannot these be revived by some outstanding events such as an annual regatta preceded by a six-day rowing match?

W. C. MIKEL.

HYDRO-GLIDER GOOES FIFTY MILES AN HOUR

The "hydro-glider", which is being launched here soon, is something entirely new in the shallow-craft boat construction line. The boat is propelled by an airplane type petrol engine with an air propellor. The hull is of hydroplane type which skims the surface up to aspeed of fifty miles an hour. Eight passengers can be carried by this novel craft which differs greatly in construction and method of propulsion from the American "sea-sled" which demonstrated its speed off Victoria last year. The boat will be used to reach almost inaccessible places in exceptionally shallow water.

CONFEDERATION GREW OUT OF POLITICAL DEADLOCK.

On Friday the Confederation of 1867 will be celebrated throughout Canada. It was the outgrowth of a political deadlock which had its climax in 1864 in the defeat of the fourth ministry in three years. Curiously enough this climax was brought about quite inadvertently by one of the very early champions of federation, Sir Alexander T. Galt, who had publicly advocated union in 1858.

In 1859 Mr. Galt, as a member of the Cartier-Macdonald government, had arranged an advance from the public chest to redeem bonds given by Montreal to the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railway. In 1864 the charge was made that the thing had been done without the consent of parliament. The Tache-Macdonald ministry, then only a short time in office, assumed responsibility for Mr. Galt and his actions. It had been scraping along with a majority of two. On the resolution of censure being put two members went over to the opposition and the government was defeated.

It was on that very day that Mr. George Brown made his overtures to the ministry for a coalition government which would bring about a settlement of the country's political difficulties and if possible a federation of at least some of its territorial units. The proposition was accepted by Mr. Macdonald in the spirit which prompted it. And Mr. Galt became one of the negotiators in the political arrangement which finally resulted in 1867 in the confederation of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario—the two latter being then known as the province of Canada.

It is idle to speculate upon what might have happened had Mr. Galt not made his fortunate mistake of redeeming Montreal bonds. Confederation was inevitable. Events had for years been shaping to that end. And ensuing years have justified the hopes of Brown and Macdonald and their coadjutors.

The provinces from sea to sea have gradually been linked up into a dominion which has won its own place among the nations of the world. It is itself a nation within the Empire, with its own functions, its own aspirations, its own responsibilities, and bound still to the Motherland by ties, not of compulsion, but of love.

GLOBE'S GHOST STORY OF HEADLESS HOST.

The Toronto Globe has as yet been unable to find a leader for the Liberal party as the Globe would like to reconstitute it. Neither Mackenzie King nor Hartley Dewart are acceptable to the organ, but it has a forlorn hope of dragging the leaderless Liberals of the Laurier school into the seats of the mighty with the political tractors of the Farmers' party. The Globe weaves an airy-fairy theory of an invisible combination, separated but united in paradoxical manner. The latest dream of the Globe is pictured as follows:

> "There need be no fusion of Liberals and Progressives. Each may retain its separate organization and leadership, and its freedom of independent action when necessary. But there ought to be no difficulty in making such an agreement as will allow the Government of Canada to be carried on upon Liberal and Progressive principles, and the majority to rule."

The Mail and Empire sizes up the Globe proposition as follows:

> Thus the Globe delicately hints to the two Opposition groups that if all they need is a hedge-priest to unite them it is at their service and will make the knot as loose as they please. It may have more success in joining them than it had in dissolving the union between Liberals and Conservatives. Its flattery of the Agrarians may be more effective than its abuse of Unionist Liberals. Because those Liberals would not after the war revert to party lines that belonged to ancient history and join hands with politicians who continue to overwhelm them with insult, the organ fell foul of them. Nothing but unadulterated Laurierism would satisfy it after the war, but now it wants to bring about an alliance between the Laurier extremists and the Farmers' party. Since the war it has identified itself with the Liberal Opposition from which it parted company in 1917, and because it cannot induce Unionist Liberals to take up with that Opposition, whose most forceful members and members of the largest following still preach revenge against the Liberals who backed conscription and the Union Government, the organ is intriguing to form a league in which thorough-going English-speaking Liberals who put the interest of their country first can have no part.
> The great mass of Opposition Liberals stand today for what they stood wsen the split came four years ago. Mr. Lemieux, Mr. LaPointe, and their aggressive associates in the politics of Quebec are the dominating element in the Liberal Opposition. It is by their grace that Mr. King is leader of that Opposition, for it was the French-Canadian section that gave him the succession to Laurier in spite of the efforts of the English-speaking section of that Opposition to appoint Mr. Fielding. That the French-Canadian politicians, who are the masters of the Liberal Opposition, have not changed since the war time was shown by the frenzied attacks that were made in the Yamaska by-election campaign by some of Mr. King's Quebec lieutenants. In that campaign these men were as frantic in their condemnation of the supporters of conscription as they were when the work of reinforcing our men at the front was in progress. Language of implacable hatred was shrieked from Yamaska Liberal platforms against English-speaking Liberals and Conservatives who supported the Military Service Act. What has The Globe to say against this campaign of revenge and racial bitterness? Not a word. It simply busies itself trying to make of this twain one, to unite the Farmers' party and the party of which Mr. Lemieux and Mr. LaPointe are the most strong-willed personalities. Both these French-Canadian leaders and the Globe are hostile to the Unionist Liberals who are standing by the Government of the country.
> Having done its part to make a mess of the Liberal party, the Globe in its Handy Andy way is trying to knit together the last-ditchers of Laurierism and the political group over which Mr. Crerar holds his shepherd's crook and which he is leading towards free trade. But Liberals who put their country first and believe in an all-Canada policy can have no use for either a racial party or a class party, and genuine farmers can have no use for a leader who is fighting the battle of grain traders instead of promoting the interests of the grain growers. The rank and file of both Liberals and Farmers must therefore rally to the one strong centre of National leadership, the Meighen Government.

JUST WHAT HAS SIMS DONE?

New York Evening Post

When the naval regulations prohibit an admiral from talking politics the purpose is obviously to prevent injury to discipline in the service. When naval regulations prohibit an admiral from talking foreign policy the purpose is obviously to prevent unpleasant international incidents. Admiral Sims' Titan-haired oration in London falls under neither count. He has not assailed his civilian superiors and he has done nothing to make trouble between this country and Great Britain. What Sims has created is not an international incident like that which followed upon the famous "Meinself und Gott" poem, but a domestic incident. He has possibly created strained relations between certain members of Congress and certain of their constitutents. That hardly calls for nerves and court-martial. Abroad, the chief effect of the Sims excursion into red rhetoric will probably be a certain sense of bewilderment in the British mind. Col. Harvey, in attacking the League of Nations, invited the British people to look upon last November's vote in this country and take at to heart. Admiral Sims has invited the British people to take one look at our voting record and forget it. Neither man should have dragged in the question of the American voter, and in neither case is it of much consequence.

The Poets' Corner

"THE TWENTY-THIRD"

Jesus our brother is, and guide;
We shall not want while He us leads
Through life's full fields and flow'ry meads,
Where sweet and healing waters glide

Our drooping spirits He uptakes;
Constrains us, by His gentle hand,
For righteousness and truth to stand
In His dear name for their own sakes.

Should darkling paths before us bend
We'll tread them without fear or moan,
For He such paths before hath known,
And knows through them support to lend.

A feast of love He spreads before
The eyes of the unseeing throng;
Oh, that their blindness last not long,
And that their cup to, may run o'er.

His loving kindness, full and free,
Shall every falt'ring foot attend,
Upholding each unto the end,
When, in His light, we Light shall see.

—W. E. Maclellan, in the Presbyterian Witness.

A Laugh or Two

The Main Chance

Two young men of short acquaintance were talking.

"I am very much bothered," said one. "I can marry a wealthy widow whom I don't love or a poor girl whom I love intensely."

"Listen to your heart," advised his companion, "and marry the one you love."

"You are right, my friend. I shall marry the girl."

"Then you can give me the widow's address?"—London Journal.

Watch the Cat

"Pat," said the priest, "ye're drunk. Now, if ye ever get like this again I'll turn ye into a rat. I may not see ye, but I'll know about it. Ye mind that!"

Some time after Pat went home and stumbled into the kitchen, where his wife was feeding the cat.

"Biddy," he said, "watch me. When ye see me getting little, and the hair growin' out on me, and me whiskers gettin' long, for the love of Mike, keep yer eye on the cat?"—Tit-Bits.

Avaunt!

Maud (who has answered the door-bell herself): "George, you must not come into this house to-night. If you love me, darling, fly at once, and do not let my father discover your presence."

George (tragically): "Oh, Maud, my darling, what serpent has entered our Eden to wreck our happiness? Speak, girl, speak."

Maud (tearfully): "Father has just had the gas bill."—Tit-Bits.

Missed a Chance

The prison chaplain was noted for his ready wit.

While travelling on a steamboat, a notorious sharper, who wished to get into his good graces, said: "Father, I should like very much to hear one of your sermons."

"Well," said the clergyman, "you could have heard me last Sunday if you had been where you should have been."

"Where was that, pray?"

"In the county jail."—Tit-Bits.

Roadway Improvement

R.T.—A very welcome and much-appreciated improvement has been made to the road at the foot of Catherine street Hill, in the removal of a nasty, dangerous bump. The road now is nicely graded, proving a pleasure to motorists and drivers of vehicles, instead of their former agony.

The Old Swimmin' 'Ole

X.L.—If a person be observant at all, it is easy to see that holiday time is here for the boys and girls. The other day I noticed a group of boys, mostly all school chums, swinging along with bathing suits slung over shoulders, all wearing that happy expression, common to us when we are anticipating a very great pleasure. "We are on our way to the Old Swimmin' Hole", was the explanation of the happy expression.

Bears Contribute

F.L.—Great interest is being taken in the campaign to raise funds for the purchase of the new building for the Old People's Home. An indication of the friendly interest taken in this worthy object deserves mention in the donation from the Bear's Bridge Club of sixteen dollars to the fund. The Bears Bridge club is a small organization of congenial spirits who get together once a week in a social way, but they do not forget that community service has always the first call.

Good Intention

H.T.—Walking along a street which is very little shaded on a boiling hot day, I noticed a small boy watering the lawn for father, he was enjoying himself hugely, but the best was yet to come, in his imagination. Another boy, a wee bit bigger than the hose handler came along on a bicycle circling on the lawn which was being watered. Naturally the small boy could not resist the temptation to flip the hose in the direction of the intruder. What fun! The second boy was certainly cooled off for a few moments, physically, at least, but mentally, Oh, Boy! you should have heard his heated vocabulary.

What did you see?

MUSIC AND DRAMA

TINGE OF MYSTERY AND FAST ACTION IN "JUST OUTSIDE THE DOOR"

One of the most promising and beautiful young stars of the screen is Edith Hallor, whose ability to portray emotional roles is growing stronger with her each succeeding appearance. Her latest endeavor is in a select picture by Jules Eckert Goodman, "Just Outside the Door", which is the feature attraction at Griffin's To-night to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday.

Miss Hallor appears as Madge Pickton, a welfare worker, and secretary of Edward Burleigh, owner of the great mills that bears his name. Burleigh is engaged to marry Gloria Wheaton, a proud society aristocrat, who threatens to break off the match when she discovers that her brother Dick has formed an attachment for Madge, whom she considers beneath the social station of the Wheatons. The outcome of the situation is most cleverly developed in a most dramatic manner, in which Miss Hallor rises to great emotional heights.

An added attraction on the week-end program at Griffin's is the exhibition of a novel 2-reel picture titled "A dream of Fair Women", showing the five winners of the Fame and Fortune contest conducted by the Photoplay Magazine, Shadowland, and Motion Picture Classic and for which there were 190,000 entries. Young Buffalo in a 2-reel Western Drama, "The Hold-Up Man" and other varied attractions will also be exhibited.

LOANS TO FARMERS.

The province of Manitoba has loaned farmers more than $4,150,000 for agricultural purposes during 1921, according to figures obtained at the parliament buildings. The loans made were: Purchase of seed grain, under the Seed Grain Act, $1,000,000; rural credits loan, $2,400,000; farm lands, $750,000.

The farm loans board at the present time has applications before it for loans amounting to another $750,000.

The provincial savings bank, operated by the government is advancing several hundred thousand dollars for the rural credits and farm loans.

Health Carries Him To Top of His Line

ONE-MINUTE ESSAYS ON HEALTH BY DR. WM. P. REDICK

George T. Odell, president of the Consolidated Wagon and Machine Company, Salt Lake City, Utah, started very modestly in 1884. Today his company is the largest concern of its kind in the world and operates sixty stores in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Nevada. The outstanding feature of Mr. Odell's life has been his persistent good health.

Many half-fit men and women today need not feel that life has pushed them aside. Chiropractic is pulling many off the scrap heap of chronic disease and showing them a way back to usefulness. Chiropractic is the greatest health discovery of the century.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of diseases of the brain, eyes, ears, nose, throat, heart, lungs, liver, stomach, kidneys, intestines, and genital organs.

What's a Guarantee?

Our idea of a guarantee is that the manufacturer who gives one—which hasn't any tags and loopholes—believes in his product.

So much so that he stands ready to make good any loss suffered by the purchaser through defective material or workmanship.

It's mainly because of the guarantee that goes with them that we are selling and recommending Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes."

Of course, we know they give the cheapest mileage too—that they are dependable tires for any make of car, anywhere. But it's the guarantee that we talk about most. It's the straight and clean-cut, without time or mileage limits. It shifts our responsibility on to the manufacturer and he lives up to every letter of it. Come in and let us tell you about the guarantee that goes with

RAINS HAVE SAVED CROP THROUGHOUT EAST ONTARIO

Ottawa, June 29.—Rains came in the nick of time to save the crops of Eastern Ontario. Experimentl Farm figures here show that nearly an inch fell during the last night and early this morning, and that the rainfall was general over the entire Ottawa Valley.

"Worth millions to the Ottawa district alone," was the statement made by Dr. F. T. Shutt of the Experimental Farm to-day regarding the value to farmers of the heavy downpour of rain. "The situation is saved," he said. "Had not a rain come soon the crops in many cases would have been past redemption, but as it is the value of the rain is incalcuable, making all the difference between a good crop and a failure."

LIONS ON BRIDGE

SUGGEST COMMUNITY CENTRE AS WAR MEMORIAL

Brockville, June 29.—The County Council and the Town Council will be asked to appoint committees to confer with the Great War Veterans' Association with the view to considering the establishment of a suitable war memorial in Brockville. Such was the decision reached today at a conference in the G.W.V.A. headquarters between members of the local branch and a number of leading citizens, including Hon. George P. Graham, H. A. Stewart, K.C., Senator John Webster and W. H. Comstock.

Only one plan was proposed, that of erecting a war memorial building to serve as a club house and community centre, the estimated cost of which was in the neighborhood of $40,000.

The annual picnic of the Bridge street Church was held Wednesday at Massassaga with a large crowd in attendance. Before the "Moonlight" between five and six hundred enjoyed the trip down the bay on the Str. Brockville. The races and spirits were broken when the cloud burst took place but nevertheless a goodly number of races were carried off and when rain marred their progress, the crowd filled the pavilion and enjoyed the music being played on the piano by young ladies of the church. A large number of parents were in attendance to keep a watchful eye over the little ones. The moonlight, which carried a goodly crowd of the joyful type was much enjoyed and if Old Sol had kept on beaming the day would have been perfect.

Toll Sign Taken off Bay Bridge Friday Morning

END OF TOLL ERA AND OPENING OF BRIDGE FREE TO ALL TRAFFIC

While no elaborate program has been prepared for opening of the bay bridge free to all traffic at eight o'clock tomorrow morning, this important event will be commemorated in a fitting manner.

Mayor Hanna, members of the City Council and members of the Lions' Club will be present as representing the city. The Argyll Light Infantry band of this city will also be present. Prince Edward County and the Provincial Government will be represented by Hon. Nelson Parliament, the Speaker of the Legislature and representative for Prince Edward county. Other dignitaries of the adjoining county may be present, including Warden Montgomery, Reeve of Wellington, who has for some years been a county councillor and taken much interest in the matter of having a free bridge. Ex-Warden Hazel, Reeve of Picton last year, gave strong support to the project when at Picton the consummation of the deal was put through at a meeting attended by representatives of the Ontario Legislature, the City Council of Belleville and Council of Prince Edward County.

COMMEMORATE OCCASION

The program for the opening ceremony as arranged is that the gathering will take place at 7.45 at the toll house on the Prince Edward shore, and brief addresses will be delivered by Hon. N. Parliament, Mayor Hanna and others who may be present. At eight o'clock the toll sign will be taken down and the bridge officially declared free by Mayor Hanna.

Ex-Warden W. W. Anderson, of Prince Edward County, a prominent farmer of Ameliasburg township, who has ever been a zealous advocate of a free bridge, had arranged to lead a triumphant procession across the bridge, but unfortunately he was the victim of an accident a few days ago which compels him to remain in bed. This unfortunate occurrence is keenly felt by Mr. Anderson, as he was looking forward with keen interest to the memorable occasion.

The Department of Highways will maintain the bridge and provide men to operate the swing. The upkeep of the structure will be apportioned between the Provincial Government, the City of Belleville and the County of Prince Edward.

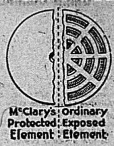
McClary's Protected Element



McClary's Protected Element is the final touch of perfection in the Electric Range.

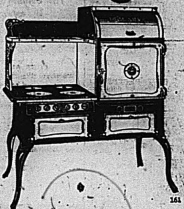
Keeping the many wire coils in the Elements free from grease, dirt and damage is assured with McClary's Protected Element. Dirt impairs heat radiation.

Salt in grease or water may fuse the coils—burn them out, cause damage and repair bills.

McClary's Elements are encased in disks of tough, protecting porcelain made by a secret process.

The wire coils are embedded in the porcelain disk, snugly protected from damage of any kind.

McClary's Electric Range



The tough, smooth disk heats quickly, retains the heat, will stand any amount of wear with heavy pots and pans — cannot get out of order like the exposed Elements of ordinary ranges.

—In fact, it eliminates Electric Range worry.

McClary's Protected Element is only one of many advantages you get in a McClary's Electric Range.

Next to the Protected Element, McClary's seamless, jointless oven is the most valuable feature of McClary's Electric Range — sanitary, clean and efficient.

Doings at Camp Community

We organized two ball teams on Monday morning and the two following evenings we put in cleaning up the diamond, and now it is in great shape. On Friday evening we had our first game. Skeeters vs. Chipmunks, the teams were evenly matched, and played a very snappy game, and ended in a tie 12 to 12. After the game we built a camp fire on the top of "Sunset" Hill, everyone from the lonely farmer to the Madoc Fire department turned out to see the blaze. We had a regular Pow-wow around the fire, while singing our songs an Indian appeared on the scene and told us that two hundred years ago it was on this hill the Indian tribes would meet for their big Pow-wows. Many stories he told until a late hour, when we returned to our tents tired but happy.

Saturday evening we attended the Empire Theatre at Madoc and enjoyed the pictures very much.

After we had cleaned up camp Sunday morning we attended the service at the Presbyterian church. Dr. MacFadyen of Queen's, was the preacher, besides the regular sermon he preached a sermon for the young people, after church we were taken back by friends in automobiles, on our preached a sermon for the young peoarrival at camp, we were met with a pleasant surprise. Mrs. (Dr.) Faulkner of Belleville had prepared a Chicken Dinner for us, and topped it off with a water melon—"Oh, Boy!" it was some dinner.

Monday evening the Skeeters defeated the Chipmunks 14 to 4 after a one-sided game of ball. Tuesday it rained most of the day, but brightened up in the late afternoon, we hope to have a ball game to-night.

Death of Lady Churchill is Regretted

TALENTED LADY WHO HAD DISTANT RELATIVES IN BELLEVILLE

Lady Randolph Churchill, who died at London, England, on Wednesday, following an operation on her right foot which was injured in a fall down a flight of stairs, as noted in the press despatches, was Miss Jennie Jerome, of New York, who was part Canadian, her father coming from about thirty miles north of Toronto. She was a clever woman and a handsome and imposing one.

Lady Churchill has distant relations here on the Jerome side, and her mother was a New Yorker.

Her many friends will mourn her comparatively early death. Lady Churchill was the first American lady-in-waiting a Queen ever had, and her father's Canadian birth may account for it.

She married Lord Randolph Churchill, second son of the seventh Duke of Marlborough, and one of Great Britain's most influential political leaders of his day, in 1874.

Lady Randolph Churchill's death occurred suddenly from heart failure following a hemorrhage. Her son, Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary of State for the Colonies, was with her at the end.

Lady Randolph Churchill was a woman of diversified talents, with conceded literary and artistic ability, and from the time of her marriage to Lord Randolph Churchill took a keen interest in political affairs. This interest did not cease with the death of Lord Randolph Churchill in 1895, and her influence upon the career of her son, Winston Spencer Churchill, has been generally set down as of no small importance.

SPECIAL FREE BAY BRIDGE EDITION

THE BELLEVILLE INTELLIGENCER, THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1921

Hands Across The Water Bay Bridge Free of Tolls

CONSUMMATION OF LONG CHERISHED PROJECT OF PROGRESSIVE CITIZENS—MOST NOTABLE EVENT SINCE BUILDING OF BAY BRIDGE—TOLL BARRIERS REMOVED—BELLEVILLE, PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY AND HASTINGS COUNTY BROUGHT CLOSER BY PURCHASE OF BAY BRIDGE AS PUBLIC UTILITY.

On July 1, 1921, the Bay Bridge, connecting Belleville with Prince Edward County, will be opened as a free bridge, and the era of toll charges will be a thing of the past. In this connection it is interesting to note that the first opening of the bridge to traffic was marked by a special edition of The Intelligencer on July 2, 1891. That occasion was hardly more important than the event which will be celebrated on July 1, 1921, in the throwing open of the bridge to traffic free of tolls and the removal of the barriers which have handicapped intercourse between Belleville and Prince Edward County for so many years.

A GREAT UNDERTAKING.

The building of the Bay Bridge was a great undertaking and one which reflected much credit upon the municipalities interested and the enterprising and generous citizens who helped to make it possible. Allowing the bridge to be taken over by private interests was a calamity which never should have occurred, and it has been a long and hard battle to make the structure a public one and remove forever the toll barrier.

INTELLIGENCER FOUGHT FOR FREE BRIDGE.

It is gratifying to The Intelligencer to reflect that in the long fight to make the Bay Bridge free of tolls this paper has a'ways led the way and persistently pointed out that the prosperity of Prince Edward County and the city of Belleville would be enhanced by taking over the bridge as a public utility. Strong opposition to the purchase of the bridge and inefficient support in some instances delayed the project, but last year the new Chamber of Commerce, working hand in hand with the City Council, made a determined effort to consummate the purchase of the bridge and succeeded in harmonizing all interests and making the purchase of the bridge a surety, final arrangements having been concluded early this year.

TOLL LEASE EXPIRED JULY 1.

The opening of the bridge to traffic free of tolls was still further delayed owing to the lease of the bridge for toll purposes not expiring until July 1, 1921. An effort was made to cancel this lease for a money consideration, but was abandoned on account of the price asked being considered excessive.

AN OPPORTUNITY LOST.

In the year 1919 an application by the Bridge Company to Parliament for permission to increase the bridge tolls led to a strong movement to purchase the bridge and incidentally delegations to Ottawa in opposition to the application to increase the tolls. As a result of the negotiations at this time the services of an expert, Mr. Clarkson, of Toronto, were secured by the municipalities interested to valuate the bridge. Mr. Clarkson put a valuation of $78,000 upon the property, but this figure was reduced to $72,500 as a compromise and embodied as the purchase price in an Act of Parliament which specified that the bridge might be purchased for $72,500 by giving the company notice thereof at any time within six months from the date of the passing of the bill, and completing the purchase within one year. Belleville City Council of that year had set a price of $65,000 and apparently could not see over this figure, so took no further steps in the matter, the time limit during which the bridge could be purchased for $72,500 being allowed to expire without further action.

W. B. RIGGS
Mayor of Belleville, 1920

Belleville City Council and Chamber of Commerce revived the purchase project in 1920, but the price asked had increased to $85,000. This did not deter the bodies mentioned from vigorously pressing the matter and encouraging support was met from the Warden and members of the County Council of Prince Edward. The Provincial Government was also found to be very favorably disposed toward the project and an arrangement was arrived at to purchase the bridge upon the following basis:

Province of Ontario	$35,000
City of Belleville	30,000
Prince Edward County	20,000
	$85,000

MAINTENANCE EXPENSES.

Provincial Government	40%
City of Belleville	40%
Prince Edward Co.	20%

The Provincial Government also agreed to designate the road from Belleville to Picton as part of the provincial highway system.

It is expected that the Dominion Government will provide for the operation of the swing bridge during the season of navigation.

Arrangements for the completion of the purchase deal and taking over the bridge were continued by the City Council and Chamber of Commerce of 1921 and all details satisfactorily completed so that beginning July 1 tolls are forever banished and traffic across the bridge will be free and unimpeded for man and beast and vehicle.

Mr. W. B. Riggs was Mayor of Belleville when the bridge purchase negotiations were brought to a successful conclusion and Mr. Jamieson Bone was President of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Charles Hanna, present Mayor of Belleville, aided the project as councillor in 1920, and as Mayor in 1921.

Belleville City Council for 1920 and 1921 were composed as follows:

City Council, 1920: Mayor Riggs; Aldermen Woodley, Bone, Ponton, Hanna, Ostrom, Adams, Wensley, DeMarsh, Doyle.

City Council, 1921: Mayor Hanna; Aldermen Ostrom, Woodley, French, Treverton, Bennett, Fisher, Ballinger, Adams, Wensley.

Great credit is due the Warden and members of the County Council of Prince Edward of 1920 for their broadminded view of this question, which made the purchase possible. Hon. Nelson Parliament, Speaker of the Legislature, and representative for Prince Edward County, is also entitled to great credit for his valuable services in bringing the purchase project to a successful issue and helping to get such substantial assistance from the Government.

History of the Undertaking

A large portion of Prince Edward, although separated by navigable waters half a mile wide, from Belleville, yet found in this place its most convenient market for the sale of its products and source of supply. Hence, whilst a steam ferry was many years ago established between Belleville and the nearest point in Ameliasburg, and the ice furnished a bridge in winter time, it was felt that the public requirements were not fully met. The ferry was open to traffic but a portion of the day; at times gales interfered with its operation; no boat was large enough to accommodate the traffic which offered at certain times and

THE BAY BRIDGE

Report of L. E. Allen C.E. on Bay Bridge

ENGINEER'S REPORT

The full text of the report on the Bay Bridge and the estimated cost of a new bridge as prepared and presented to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce by Lucious Allen. C. E. Consulting Engineer, portions of which were read at a public meeting, is as follows:

General Conditions

Since the exception of the motor car and motor truck, the traffic over our main roads and bridges has greatly increased, to such an extent in fact that what was formerly considered a good road for horse drawn vehicles, has become entirely inadequate for present day traffic. The present structure, known as the Bay Bridge has long carried the traffic from Prince Edward County to Belleville with a few, if any serious interruptions to traffic, and as the question of acquiring this bridge so as to increase the benefit of a Bay Bridge to the greatest number of people is now brought before the various public bodies interested in this matter, this report will deal in a general way with some of the essential points to condsider in determining the future policy in connection with this matter.

Present Bay Bridge

HISTORY:—The present Bay Bridge Belleville-Prince Edward Bridge Co. under a Charter from the Dominion Government, and was completed and opened for traffic in July 1891, so that the present structure has been serving the public traffic for 29 years. The City Council contributed the sum of $30,000 and the Township of Ameliasburg the sum of $15,000 towards the original cost of the bridge, the balance being subscribed by the citizens of Belleville and Ameliasburg. The original cost of the bridge was approximately $95,000. The original plans and specifications for the bridge were prepared yb Mr. C. H. Kefeer, C. E.

Description of Bridge

The bridge has a clear roadway of 18 feet, with a clearance of 14 feet from floor to end portals of trusses.

The superstructure consists of 13 spans of 98 feet each; two spans of 148 feet each; one swing span of 238 feet; and one span of 63 feet, or a total span length of 1633 feet The bridge property also includes the right of way for an approach which is 3,616 feet in length. The approach has a width of 30 feet on the surface and its sides are rip-rapped to four feet below water level. The total length of the bridge and its approaches is therefore 5,787 feet, or considerably over one mile in length.

The spans were designed to safely carry addition to their dead load, a moving load equal to 1,500 pounds per lineal foot and were also designed to take care of wind pressure, lateral thrust, etc. After construction each span was tested with a weight of 43 tons on each span without showing undue deflection.

Improvements and Extraordinary Repairs

Some three years ago the writer carried out extensive improvements and repairs to the superstructure as well as the sub structure of the bridge This work consisted in the entire removal of four of the masonry piers and the plank platforms upon which they rested, and the construction of a reinforced concrete base the full width and length of the cribs upon which base new concrete piers were built. It was found upon removing the old masonry piers that owing to the shiftin g of the wooden piling, the sills upon which the plank platform carrying the masonry, had slipped and allowed the peirs to tip. The present new piers do not depend in any way for support upon the wooden piling, although the tops of the piles were surrounded with concrete. and the whole mass bound together with reinforced concrete. As the present bases for the new piers are of the full area of the original cribs, and the cribbing is well protected with riprapping, it is impossible for any fur-

Historical Review of Early Days

(From the Daily Intelligencer July 2, 1891.)

The completion of the beautiful bridge that forms a connecting link between the insular county of Prince Edward and the important city of Belleville, marks an era in the history of the Bay it so gracefully spans. A glance at that history takes us back to the time of the French domination in this part of North America, a period of nearly three hundred years. It is generally accepted as an historical fact that Samuel Champlain, in the year 1615, when returning from his unfortunate expedition against the powerful Iroquois tribe of Indians, passed down the Trent River to its mouth, and then followed the Bay to the St. Lawrence. It is also recorded that the great French navigator and colonizer, with his followers, wintered on the very spot where Belleville now stands. This gives our city a special claim to distinction in connection with the charming piece of water across which the new bridge stretches. It is not our intention to cite historical dates and events that are more or less familiar to all our readers. A general reference to the theme that inspires these remarks, with the necessary moralizing to fill up the sentences and exemplify our purpose, will be admissible here. When the venturesome Champlain and gallant La Salle first looked upon the wooded shores and scenic beauty of the Bay there must have been a rare panorama of delight to tempt to further exploration. Then the primeval solitude reigned supreme, and

> "The rude axe, with heaved stroke,
> Was never heard the Nymphs to daunt,
> Or fright them from their sacred haunt."

Now, when cultivated farms and the comfortable homes of a prosperous and contented people constitute the limning of a picture of rural life, the scene is exceedingly pleasing. We can only fancy what it was when the wild grandeur of those primitive days was unfolded to the zealous French missionaries and soldiers, dressed in the emerald glory of the summer months, or with icy fetters of winter to awe the beholder. The charm that captivates now is reflected by artificial as well as natural features of beauty. Then nature furnished the chief feature of delight, and,

> "Every copse deep tangled, tree irregular, and bush,
> Were prodigal of harmony."

From the emerald holms of the St. Lawrence River, through the winding course of the Long Reach, and on to the western limit of the narrow, irregular bay, a succession of delights must have met the gaze and elicited the praise of Champlain and his followers. It was, too, the favorite resort for the red man, where game was plentiful, and cruel enemies did not molest.

The name of this picturesque piece of pure water suggests a French origin. There is a sort of romance associated with its early history which strengthened the belief that it was de

Peering into The Past With an Eye to The Future

So many have asked me to write a brief history of our beloved city, before I join the early inhabitants who long ago arrived at the bourne from which (it was accustomed to be said) no traveller ever returns. Conan Doyle, Sir Oliver Lodge, Professors Crawford and Wallace, Sir William Crookes, deny this statement, and confidently declare that travellers from the skies do return. Whether they are right or not, it would be prudent for me to carry out old Horace's motto "Carpe diem", which means to seize the present moment, and not delay.

No one loved Belleville with a more ardent love than our former respected townsman, Mr. Arthur McGinnis. It afforded him the keenest pleasure to carefully collect all facts and incidents, connected with the history of the city. I have been most kindly favored by Mrs. McGinnis, with an examination of many valuable documents collected by Mr. McGinnis, from which I have obtained much information.

Meyers Creek

The earliest name given to the small village (now Belleville) was Meyers Creek. The population having increased, the name was changed to Belleville, after the Christian name of the wife of the then Governor. There was a large flat stone just at the left side of the bridge spanning the Moira, not far from Front street. The pagan Indians paddling down the river to the bay, were accustomed to place upon this rock, tobacco, as an offering to some Pagan Deity. Goods came from Montreal in large flat bottomed boats, called Catteaux or Durham boats. These boats have one mast and several pairs of oars. Thos. Moore (Tom Moore) built a house near Lachine, and there wrote his famous Canadian boat song. "Row, brothers, row, the stream runs fast, the rapids are near and day light is past." The poem referred to boats of above description. Grain and produce went down the St. Lawrence in the boats.

Early Settlers U. E. L.

The early settlers were in great part United Empire Loyalists, who would not live under the American flag, and came to Canada and settled on the St. Lawrence and Bay of Quinte.

Thurlow was surveyed in 1787, and Wilmot surveyed lot four (now Belleville), and laid it out in town lots. Meyers Creek acquired its name from Captain John Waldon Meyers. This gentleman brought bricks from Kingston in a boat, and built on the brow of the hill, known as Taylors Hill, the first brick house in Upper Canada. It occupied the spot on Alexander street upon which Mrs. Wannacott, a grand daughter of Captain Meyers, erected the double house occupied by Mr. Sills and for many years by Colonel Hambly.

"Dis is My Tog"

It was said that Captain Meyers, once called upon the Governor, accompanied by a large dog of which he was very proud, and his brother-in-law. He accosted the Governor by saying "Dis is my tog, and dis is my brudder-in-law." I think Meyers was a Hollander.

The Captain owned, and planted a large orchard, running south from the brow of the hill, embracing Alexander Forin and other streets. As a boy I used to consider the orchard common property, and with other boys took possession of many apples therefrom. Myers owned the property on the north, extending to the river and north of the river for a long distance. Two miles on the present site of the dam near Lott's factory, and on the north side of the river were erected Meyers was a choleric old gentleman, and quarrelled with his eight children, and willed his estate to his thirty-nine grand children. A plan was drawn of his lots on the hill in the old orchard and the heirs drew lots from a hat which contained slips of papers, each of which bore a number

Early History of Belleville and Vicinity

FROM THE DAYS OF MYERS CREEK VILLAGE, TOWN AND CITY—STEADY GROWTH AND PROGRESS—FIRST LOG HOUSE—FIRST BRIDGE ACROSS THE MOIRA—THE McNABBS AND THE MACINTOSH—EARLY RESIDENTS.

(Extracts from Canniff's "Settlement of Upper Canada," Published in 1869.)

The early voyageus, passing along in their birch canoes, bound for the far west, by the way of the River Trent to Lake Simcoe, were never attracted to the low, thick woods, which bordered the river called by the Indians Sagonoska. It is true there was generally an Indian village upon the plains situated to the east of the river's mouth. But the collection of rude tents offered no special invitation. While the French, it would seem, never ascended the river, the Indians of the Mississauga tribe inhabited the region, and most always had a village upon the bay shore. As we have seen, the Government, at the time of surveying, reserved lot number four, which included the river and plains, for the Indians. About 1789 or 1790 Captain Myers, having purchased a part of lot number five, of John Taylor, for $100, endeavored to obtain a lease of the Indian lot for a long period of years; and he subsequently claimed the lot, averring that it had been leased to him for ninety-nine years. This claim of Capt. Myers, it has been stated, led to the name which so long obtained, Myers' Creek. But the claim was never recognized by the Government, although there is some reason to think that the Indians did actually bargain it away. The settlement upon the river by Captain Myers very soon came to be known as Captain Myers', and the inhabitants up and down the bay spoke of the settlement as well as of the river as Myers' Creek. But, at the same time, Myers' mill and house were quite remote from the first collection of houses at the mouth of the river. Apart from the water privileges there was nothing to attract to the place, and until the beginning of the present century there was not even a hut at the mouth of the river. If public meetings were held, they were up the front, or back near the fifth concession, afterward known as Hayden's Corners.

First Log House

The village began to form upon the east bank of the river, a little distance below Dundas street and for many years it did not extend further north than that street. The first place of habitation, so far as can be learned, was a log house built and occupied by Asa Wallbridge, a trader, who was known by the early settlers. Then came John Simpson, in the year 1798, and constructed a log house, 20 x 12. This house, the first public house in Thurlow, was for many years known from Kingston to York, as a place of public entertainment. Within its rough walls rested many an important traveller, and here, in later days, convened the men of dignity and office, to discuss matters of great import concerning the village. Here met, in jovial companionship, the inhabitants of the village at night. Around this rude public house centred the crowd upon training days, or when the race course was the point of attraction. For many years the heart of the village was at the corner of Dundas street. At this place was the ferry, and afterwards the first bridge.

John Simpson, who was Sergt.-Major of the Militia when first organized, died shortly after coming to Myers' Creek, but his widow, Margaret, continued the hostess for many years. She endeavored to keep pace with the wants of the growing village, and made one improvement after another, and finally had built the frame structure now converted into the agreeable residence of the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge. About the year 1800 a second inn was opened in the village; the descendant of this is the present Railroad House.

When it became necessary to build a bridge across the river, about 1806-7 the question of site was of no little consideration. It seemed the most natural that it should be erected on Dundas street, which was the great mail road between Kingston and York and those living in the heart of the village could see no reason for having it placed elsewhere. But a majority of those having a voice in the matter looked at the question in a more practical light, and rightly thought a bridge would cost less where the river was narrowest, while it should not be too far for convenience. The result was that it was built on the site of the present lower bridge, and so gave to the street the name of Bridge street.

Retracing our steps to the beginning of the present century, we present the statement of Mr. William Ketcheson, who settled in Sidney, and also of James Farley, both of whom say that there was not then even a village at the mouth of the river, there being but two or three shanties, among them Simpson's tavern, at the rude bar of which the sole drink was a home brewed beer, which, however, possessed intoxicating properties. Another building was an ash-house owned by Asa Wallbridge.

Two Scotchmen

During the first years of the present century, the place grew to the importance of a village, whose inhabitants, with those of the adjacent farmers made up nearly a hundred persons. Important additions had been made and enterprise was at work. Two noble and loyal Scotchmen had come to the place several years before, and purchased lot number three, and had built a second mill dam and mills. These were Simon and James McNabb. They subsequently took an active part in everything relating to the village. James McNabb became Collector of Customs, and the first Postmaster and Registrar, and both were officers in the militia. The melancholy death of James McNabb is hardly yet forgotten. During the rebellion of 1836, there was an alarm in Belleville, and Captain McNabb, while running through an unlighted hall, was fatally wounded by a careless militiaman, who was trailing his musket with bayonet fixed.

Capt. McIntosh was an early settler in Belleville, as well as a pioneer with sailing vessels. He built the first frame store house at Belleville, which was taken down in 1867. The house he built is still standing, a quaint edifice, at the lower extremity of Front street. Within its walls rested General Brock, when on his way westward, at the commencement of the war of 1812; also General Gore after the close of the war. Capt. McIntosh met an untimely death by drowning, while attempting to swim from his schooner, which was wind-bound off Ox Point, to the shore, September 23, 1815.

Early Residents

In the year 1809, Alexander Oliphant Petrie, came to live at Myers' Creek. He found the following persons living in Belleville at that time. Commencing at the lowest part, there lived Capt. John McIntosh, who kept a store; John Johnson, a saddler; Dr. Sparham; John Thompson, who had been a soldier in the King's Rangers; Peter Holmes, a carpenter, who had also been in the Rangers; Mrs. Margaret Simpson, inn-keeper; Roswell Leavens, a blacksmith; John Simons; one Ames, a cooper; Hung Cunningham, store-keeper at Mrs. Simpson's; Simon McNabb, who lived across the river; Ockerman, a cooper; Benjamin Stone, a sawyer; William Maybee, and Abraham Stimers. In the neighborhood of the village lived John Taylor, James Harris, a hatter; and Capt. Myers. The only road was along the river, while footpaths led to the different dwellings. Respecting Dr. Sparham, there is the following notice in the Kingston Gazette: "Died Friday 20th, 1813, Dr. Thomas Sparham, at Kingston, aged about 88. He was one of the first settlers in the country."

ther appreciable settlement or tilting to take place in these piers.

In addition to the reconstruction of the four piers, the entire superstructure was re-adjusted to level and lined up throughout. The steel work was scraped and painted two good coats of the best graphite paint. The steel work of the superstructure is on the whole in good condition and if kept properly painted will show little deterioration in strength.

With the construction of the four piers and other work done which has been referred to, and the construction of one more pier in the same way as the four piers already constructed, the physical condition of the bridge should be good. It would be possible to replace the present wooden joist with a steel joist upon which the wood creosoted plank floor could be laid which would reduce the cost of maintainence to a minimum for a considerable period of years. The reconstruction of the pier above mentioned and other minor repairs which might be made could not exceed $10,000 and the bridge would then be in good physical condition as any bridge of its class and age, and should be good to accommodate present traffic for from 20 to 25 years.

Present Salvage and Economic Value

Owing the present high cost of steel the value of the steel work in the present bridge would amount to a considerable sum. There is over 400 tons of steel and iron in the present structure, some of which, such as the main floor beams, etc., could be sold at a good price, and the balance could be scrapped. The economic value of the right of way and the permanent approaches to the bridge should be carefully considered in any discussion of the value of the property. These approaches have been thoroughly consolidated from years of use and are therefore suitable for receiving any surfacing that might be applied without settlement in the road way. A conservative estimate of the value of the approaches would be $30,000.

Any discussion of the economic value of the Bay Bridge should take into consideration to what extent the bridge serves the public, its cost and how long the structure will satisfactorily handle the traffic which will pass over it. If it will accommodate the traffic for a reasonable period of years, during which period plans for a new bridge could be carefully prepared, making use of the present approaches, and possibly the extension of the present approach Southwards for a distance of some four hundred feet, it would then be a matter of determining the relative value of the present property as a whole and considering future extensions.

Proposed New Bridge

In considering the construction of a new highway bridge connecting Belleville with Prince Edward County independent of the present structure, it would be advisable to ascertain, what attitude the Dominion government woud take in permitting the construction of a second bridge across the Bay of Quinte.

Under the present Highway Act should the Belleville-Picton highway be designated as a Provincial Highway the Provincial Government would doubtless contribute 60 per cent. of the total cost of a new bridge. Taking the highway as it now stands, and providing a Suburban Area Commission was appointed by the municipalities to have jurisdiction over this bridge, the Provincial Government would contribute 40 per cent. of the cost and 40 per cent. for maintenance, the balance being provided equally by the city and municipality.

General Specification Proposed New Bridge

Providing a new bridge is constructed, it would have to conform to the present Government bridge specifications for Class "A" bridges. The new bridge at Trenton is a good example of the type of bridge which would be required. The roadway should be 24 feet wide, the clearance should be not less than 20 feet, the floors should be of reinforced-concrete, and the bridge should be designed to safely carry a moving load of at least 20 tons.

The substructure should be constructed along modern lines, and should be so constructed as to prevent movement of either piers or cribs. It would be doubtless, good economy to decrease the span length of the bridge by extending the approach southwards a distance of about 40 feet from the present shore line.

Estimated Cost New Bridge

The time allotted for preparing the report has not allowed for a detailed estimate of cost, but the following figures give a fair idea of the approximate cost of the bridge such as has been described. This estimate based on the construction of an entirely new bridge as well as new approaches which could be constructed to the East of the present bridge and approaches.

The approach would consist of earth filled to proper grade, stone rip rap on sides and shoulders with stone surfacing. The embankment would be carried out about 400 feet further into the Bay on the North side than the present Bay Bridge approach.

The total estimated cost of the next bridge with the required approach at present day cost of labour and materials, would be $353,828. The cost would be about equally divided between the substructure cost and the superstructure, including concrete floors.

Should the Provincial Government give 40 per cent. of the total cost of the above estimated cost, the proportions would be as follows:

Provincial Gov't., 40%	$141,531
City Belleville, 30%	106,148
Other municipalities, 30%	106,149
Total	$353,828

Should this Highway be designated as part of the Provincial Highway System, and the Provincial Government contribute 60% of the total cost the proportions would be as follows:

Provincial Gov't., 60%	$212,297
City Belleville 20%	70,765,
Other Municipalities, 20%	70,766
Total	$353,828

General Conclusions

Any decision as to the relative merits of the two propositions, namely the construction of an entirely new bridge, of the purchase of the present Bay Bridge, should be carefully weighed as to the present and future benefits to be derived by the public generally. Assuming that the present bridge with its approach can be acquired for $85,000 and brought up to a first class physical condition at an additional estimated expenditure of say $10,000 which would then provide a bridge which would safely carry the present and future traffic for a period of years, it would seem to have certain points in its favor, considering the high cost of a new structure at the present time.

The value of the present approaches as a basis upon which to construct at some future time a new bridge represents in my opinion a very large proportion of the total value of the property. The present approach could be gradually extended by filling from time to time so that when a new superstructure was required, it could be very much shortened and the cost reduced considerably, and in the meantime the traffic could be accommodated by the present bridge.

CHECK ON TRICKY "COPPERS"

Simple Contrivance Prevents Fraud on the Part of Applicants for Coveted Positions.

In Philadelphia the position of traffic policeman is open only to men who are six feet or more in height. Such positions are so much sought after that many applicants who fall short of the required height by only a small fraction of an inch are tempted to cheat a little bit by rising on their heels.

An ingenious application of electricity is now used to circumvent this trick, and any attempt to register a fraudulent measure is disclosed at once. The applicant, as he stands upon the platform under the slide rule, sets his feet upon two metal plates that are normally a trifle above the platform. They are just large enough to be covered by a man's heels, and when the candidate stands with his his heels on the floor the plates are so depressed that they make a contact and form a circuit that lights a lamp overhead. As long as the man stands with both heels on the ground the lamp stays lighted, but the moment he raises either heel the smallest part of an inch the contact is broken and the lamp goes out. So does he.

The Maoris.

Present-day Maoris are nominally Christians, but there are many old chiefs who are still fond of their ancient totem poles. Their religion is that of nature worship combined with the veneration of ancestors. A peculiar and interesting detail of their religion is the belief that the soul dwells in each human being's left eye. The Maoris were confirmed cannibals in bygone days.

A Paying Hen.

A hen was shown at a recent show for which a record of 360 eggs in a year was claimed. Quite another kind of a record which was just as remarkable is claimed for a hen which was owned by a Mrs. Stover, of the same city, and which on several occasions is said to have laid five eggs in a day. When the fowl died, five hard-shell eggs were taken from her, as well as one soft-shell egg and several small ones.

Milk Proves Value As Children's Food

GIRLS SHOWED A GREATER AVERAGE GAIN IN WEIGHT THAN THE BOYS

Among 77 children of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic School, Toronto, who were given one quart of milk a day from May 2nd until June 10th, an average gain in weight during that period of one pound and four ounces was shown when the experiment ended. The scheme was financed by the National Dairy Council and conducted by the public health department in co-operation with the Separate School Board and has proved quite satisfactory to those concerned.

Of the 77 children, 35 were boys and 42 were girls. The ages of the boys ranged from 9 to 14 years and of the girls from 7 to 13. The average gain in weight amongst the girls was much higher than that amongst the boys. The 42 fair pupils piled up an average increase in weight of one pound and 10 ounces while the boys recorded an average increase of nine and one-third ounces. Of the 35 boys who were used in the test a total of 24 gained while the others lost, but the majority only slightly. Only five girls failed to gain.

To Richard Grace, aged 11 years and 6 months, goes the crown for gaining the most weight amongst the boys. Richard started in the milk drinking game weighing 62 pounds only to find that he gained six and three-quarters pounds in the short space of about six weeks. Eight-year-old Stella Cryaski gained 5 pounds and is monarch of the young ladies.

Not only did the test serve to prove the value of milk as a wholesome health-giving article, but also proved educational as well. When the test began only a quarter of the 35 boys drank milk at home, the rest using tea and coffee. But when the test came to an end on June 10th, only one-sixth of the boys were using tea and coffee. And of the gentle entrants in the test more than half drank tea and coffee when it began but on June 10th only one-fifth used these beverages.

Dr. A. G. Fleming, of the department of public health, was asked if he could explain the reason for some children losing weight. He stated that a slight loss could be put down to the changing of clothing, against which they advised.

and there was a small cloth factory on the west side of the river at Myers' dam. Harris had a small shop on the bank of the river; and just below the present market, back from the river, stood a little frame school house, where taught one John Watkins. About the year 1810 Mr. Everett, from Kingston, erected a fine building for a hotel, outside of the village, near Coleman's, formerly McNabb's mills. This was near the Victoria Buildings.

Women Have Plan to Keep Folk on Farms

BETTER ROADS AND BETTER HOME CONDITIONS FAVORED BY FEDERATED INSTITUTES

Better roads and better home conditions are the two logical means by which the migration from the farm to the city may be halted, in the opinion of members of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, in session at Edmonton, Alberta.

Mrs. W. W. Baird, of Nova Scotia, sent her report on "Household Economics," and it was read by Mrs. W. Todd, of Orillia.

Members of the institute in every province were asked what they considered the greatest drawbacks to country life—lack of social and community life, isolation, lack of household conveniences or lack of good roads.

Given the last two, the members replied that the first two would disappear.

As a result of this questionnaire the committee, headed by Mrs. Baird, made the following recommendations:

URGE GOOD ROADS.

1. That the Federated Women's Institute put itself on record as urging the federal government to pursue with all diligence its program for good roads.
2. That every provincial institute urge and demand of the government that it continue and further its program for good roads.
3. That every institute aid in every movement to further such a program.
4. That roads which serve rural communities the year round receive first attention, and not the road which is used largely by city people during the motoring season for pleasure.

The following recommendations were made regarding household conveniences:

That each provincial organization feature in its program for the ensuing year ways and means of improving working conditions in the home and of securing more conveniences for it (a) by lectures, (b) by putting this subject on branch programs (c) to be prepared to furnish information on this question.

PROGRESS IN EDUCATION

George Putnam, superintendent of Ontario Women's Institutes and convener of the education committee, gave a brief summary of the progress that had been made in education in the various provinces.

Mr. Putnam and his committee made the following recommendations: Ratepayers should pay higher salaries and maintain the services of competent teachers.

Schools should be well equipped and kept in faultless sanitary condition with proper lighting, heating and color decorations.

The school should be made a centre of community activities, including study, games and amusements for grown-ups as well as for children.

Every school should have a public library with books available for the community. There should be a closer co-operation between teacher and parents with special home and school committees formed.

Physical development, music and art should be encouraged and travelling teachers should be provided for subjects outside the regular course of study in the rural districts.

That medical inspection be provided with necessary follow-up treatment and care.

That the school curriculum be adapted to the needs of the boys and girls who wish to apply their knowledge to the ordinary everyday activities of the home, the farm, the shop and the business world. That women be given full recognition in the management of the school, having power of the ballot and being eligible as trustees.

A number of resolutions were presented by the resolutions committee. One proposed that a duty of 12 per cent. be imposed on all importations of eggs in Canada. This was tabled.

Another resolution was to the effect that Women's Institute members pledge themselves not to buy any Hearst publications, taking into consideration the harm they have done.

A toothbrush so shaped as to reach both surfaces of the teeth at once has been patented.

Looking Backward

Fifty-seven years service in the one stand is the record Mr. J. J. Haines has to his credit in the shoe business in Belleville. During this time Mr. Haines has seen many changes. In 1864 conditions were quite different to those prevailing to-day. To get across the Bay the boat service was the only means of crossing. Wood was the chief fuel in the good old days and was bought for $3.50 a cord. No gas or electric light to worry with and all lighting done with lamps. Very little farm machinery was used in the early days and the horse rake was about the first to make its appearance and others came along rapidly and to-day the farm implements is one of our greatest industries. There was a heavy discount on American silver as the Americans bought our rye and other grains and paid in silver, and we had to go to the Banks and get the exchange adjusted which was a great loss in money before we could bank. Long leather boots were worn largely at this date but have now practically disappeared. Mr. Haines was largely responsible for putting the cash business and one price to all, system on the map and has always stood for advertising in every legitimate way and has built up a very large business by always giv-of a lot. The brick house stood upon an unsurveyed strip of ground in rear of lot seven, and by agreement that each heir drawing a lot abutting upon this strip should obtain a piece of the strip of the width of the lot drawn. The brick house fell to Bleecker W. Meyers, and subsequently to his daughter Mrs. Wannacott.

Named Belleville in 1815

In 1815 at a meeting held in Simpson's Hotel in Foster Ward, the name was changed to Belleville. The river was also named, the "Moira," in honor of the Marquis of Hastings who bore the title of Lord Moira. Belleville was incorporated as a town in 1850 and a city in 1878. Smith's Gazetteer published in 1845 says of Belleville, "It is a bustling, thriving little town, and a place of considerable business, containing 2,040 inhabitants. The Kingston and Toronto stages pass through the town daily. A steam boat also calls daily. The town has two newspapers, Belleville Intelligencer and Victoria Chronicle. It has five doctors, seven lawyers, two great mills, one steam saw mill, three water saw mills, three cloth factories, one paper mill, planing mill, three factories, eighteen dry goods stores, fourteen groceries, seventeen taverns, two surveyors, two auctioneers, stage fare to Kingston, ten shillings, to Cobourg, 12 shillings and six pence."

The merchants refused to allow a report of the produce shipped from Belleville to be published on the ground that the exports were so large that the publication would cause a vast increase of fresh stores.

Old Meyers House

The old Meyers House referred to above was built in 1794. A writer of long ago said, "Yes, the old brick house upon the hill could tell us a great many things about those who endured so much for conscience sake, and who bequeathed such a noble inheritance to future generations."

Before me lies a paper printed here in 1831 called "The Anglo Canadian", containing many advertisements of citizens long passed away, such as John Turnbull, John Covert, Royal Munro. Also a paper called "The Phoenix" published September 27th 1831, a weekly. An advertisement by Henry Baldwin, announcing the opening by him of a Classical School in Belleville, was inserted.

The Intelligencer

The Intelligencer was founded by George Benjamin, September 1834. Mr. Benjamin edited the paper until 1848 when Sir Mackenzie Bowell became the proprietor. Mr. Benjamin was an Englishman who died in 1864. He held the highest municipal offices, and was an M.P. from 1856 to 1863.

The Victoria Chronicle was founded in 1841 by S. M. Washburn, and J. Sutton. In 1849, it was purchased by E. Miles. The name was changed to "Hastings Chronicle," succeeded by "The Ontario" of to-day.

A most venerable and interesting document was discovered in the Corner Stone of the old Court House on the hill, when alterations were being made. It is dated at Belleville, 30th of May, 1838, headed "God Save the Queen—Victoria Regina. Major General Sir George Arthur, Lieut. Governor of Upper Canada. The Building Committee was composed of Thos. Parker, John Turnbull, Anthony Marshall, Frances McAnnany, members of the House of Assembly, Anthony Manahan and Edmund Murney, Board of Police Billa Flint, Asa Yeomans, William McCarty, Zenos Dafoe, William Connor, Mr. George Benjamin, Clerk." The Corner Stone was laid with the assistance of Belleville Masonic Lodge No. 10. Jacob Moore, James Whiteford, William McCarthy, Hiram Fulford, Zenos Dafoe, Belleville Masons. Among the Magistrates named were Parker, Turnbull, Flint, Ridley, Ketcheson, Bleecker, McAnnany, and George Benjamin Clerk.

When the Boat Came In

Foster Ward, was the most aristocratic part of the city. The great event of the day was the arrival of the steamer and its departure.

The West side of the city, on the flat, was occupied by a cedar swamp.

I well recollect seeing the bridge spanning the river at Bridge street, lifted in the air, and come crashing down the river. We were obliged for a long time to cross the river on boom sticks. Subsequently a rope was stretched across the river and a boat was propelled to and fro by the current.

My father built the saw dust wharf at the south end of Coleman street, and erected thereon a saw mill, subsequently burned.

Bay Bridge Lost

There was a boat used to cross the bay to Rossmore, then called Hennessy's Point. Two horses worked a horsepower to propel it, subsequently steam ferry boats were used until the erection of the Bay Bridge. Private individuals subscribed to the bridge and Belleville and Ameliasburg contributed large sums. By criminal negligence of the City Council the mortgage on the bridge was foreclosed and it became the property of present owners.

Mrs. Dr. Marshall, Mrs. Tapson Miss Moorehead kept ladies schools. Alexander Burden taught the grammar school which was kept upstairs in a small wooden building just north of the Public Library. The lower story was occupied by the fire engine, and fire appliances. Subsequently the stone school house was erected in which Messrs. Burden, Tilley and Diamond taught. Mr. Robert Newbury was for many years a successful and beloved teacher as was Mr. Blajnd.

Election Riots

Frequently during election excitement, riots, and bitter fights would be engaged in. Sectarian feelings raged.

The lumber and square timber industries assisted in building up Belleville. The river in the spring time was filled with immense timbers which formed rafts and were floated down the rapids of the St. Lawrence, and carried to foreign countries by ships at Quebec. After the squared timber came saw logs. Flint and Yeomans, D. D. Bogart, Rathbun & Company had large steam mills for manufacturing lumber, nearly all of it finding a market in Oswego. Returning from Oswego my father lost a valuable steamship called the "Moira on the Lake." She sprung a leak and went down.

Municipal Stupidity

Deseronto would not have had an existence had it not been for the blundering stupidity of the Belleville City Council, which persisted in a course, which drove Mr. Rathbun from Belleville.

Among the families who largely contributed to the prosperity of Belleville was the Wallbridge family. The old white homestead on the corner of Front and Dundas streets was their home. The name of the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, who was for many years a Judge of the High Court, as well as Speaker of the House of Commons, is justly revered to this day. The Murneys, Ridleys, Greers, MacAnnanys, Moodies, Colemans were among the principal families in the old days as were the Huttons, Holtons, Jones, Harrisons, Flints, Yeomans, MacAnnany, Bogarts, the Bells and others.

Reverend John Grier and Reverend Father Brennan were two remarkable men, much beloved by their respective flocks.

Belleville's Prospects

Belleville with careful and economical management may yet become a large city. Taxation must be kept with reasonable limits. It stands to reason that intending residents will carefully examine the rates before determining where to reside.

Mrs. Moodie

It would be improper to close this brief recital without adverting to the great work performed by Mrs. Moodie who resided in Belleville for many years and whose name is still remembered all over Canada. Mrs. Susannah Moodie, wife of former Sheriff Moodie was a member of the distinguished Strickland family. She was the authoress of many books, two of which achieved much success, "Roughing it in the Bush" and 'Mark Hurdlestone." Mrs. Moodie published a magazine called the "Literary Garland". Her talented sister, Agnes Strickland was the authoress of that celebrated work called "The History of the Wives of English Sovereigns." Another sister, Mrs. Trail, also wrote several valuable works. Even so long ago Mr. and Mrs. Moodie believed in Spiritualism and seances were frequently held in their hospital mansion. F. H. Rous (at one time Chairman of the Board of Education) and Mrs. Rous were also avowed Spiritualists.

I am painfully aware that I have omitted many things which would be of interest.

Sir Gilbert Parker

Sir Gilbert Parker resided many years in Belleville while a young man and left the city to seek his fortune elsewhere. Although we cannot claim Sir Gilbert Parker, as a native of Belleville, we are proud of the wonderful success he has achieved as a writer and statesman.

William Hutton, (grandfather of Colonel Ponton), was a celebrated educationist. The Ponton family resided upon the outskirts of Belleville but Mr. James H. Ponton and his brother, William H. Ponton, were most highly esteemed and respected. The Honorable John Ross was a son of Belleville and achieved high honors.

Belleville Churches

The first St. Thomas Church was probably the first church erected here St. Andrews also had a wooden church, which occupied the spot where the present beautiful church stands. The British Methodists worshipped in the upper story of a wooden building, which stood on the spot occupied by the Post Office. Opposite this building was a blacksmith shop owned by Hiram Fulford, father of the Brockville millionaire. The Wesleyan Methodists worshipped for many years in the large building owned by the Cummins estate on Pinnacle street. Hon. Billa Flint deeded the land upon which the present beautiful Bridge Street Methodist church stands as a gift to the church, which was subsequently burned and was succeeded by the present structure. The Roman Catholics for many years worshipped in a small church erected up on the ground where their beautiful church now stands. The lot upon which their exceedingly fine academy is erected was for many years used at a hospital lot, a cheap wooden building being erected thereon. For years a Mr. Mason taught a Separate School upon this lot.

Belleville is proud of the Hospital so wonderfully and successfully managed. The Armouries, the Post Office the Public Library, the gift of the late Harry Corby, Belleville's most beloved son, her beautiful parks, her schools, and Albert College, which is to be succeeded by a well equipped college with a splendid faculty, up-to-date in every way, upon the bay shore.

With reasonable economy, and wise and fair treatment, Belleville has a great future before it.

Belleville is justly proud of two of her sons, Brigadier-General J. Lyons Biggar, and W. H. Biggar, Vice-President of the great Grand Trunk System.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell (whose demise was so deeply regretted by every citizen), reflected great honor on Belleville as a Premier of the Dominion. He was greatly beloved by all who knew him and died full of years and many honors.

Hon. W. B. Northrup, Clerk of the House of Commons, was born in Belleville, and achieved a high reputation as an orator, statesman and Queen Counsel.

The splendid institution for the deaf and dumb, the G. T. R. Shops, the Rolling Mills, Marsh industries, the fact that Ameliasburg is really a suburb of Belleville, the number of railroads, the connection by autos with Trenton, Tweed and Frankford, all constitute feeders to Belleville. We are also proud of our banks. With prudence, economy, and good judgment Belleville's growth and advancement is certain.

JOHN J. B. FLINT.

Brockville, June 21.—Joseph Hilton, aged 52, dropped dead last night at Avondale farm, where he was employed. He was well known in the district.

WHALE WENT MOO-O-O!

Frequently sharks and whales feature in the harbor front news of St John, N.B. Harry Belyea, of West St. John said that within the last few days he had seen three whales near the entrance of the harbor. One, he said, was fully 40 feet long and the other two quite smaller. He said the largest of the three rose to the surface about thirty feet from his boat and emitted, he said, a sound not unlike that of a moose call. He believed that the smaller whales had been mistaken for sharks. He said it is not uncommon for whales to come up the bay in warm weather in the wake of a school of herring.

on special occasions, could be profitably employed on the route; and, worst of all, for on the average about two weeks in the early winter, whilst the ice was forming, and a like period in the spring, whilst the ice-bridge was rotting, communication could only be kept up by means of ice-boats, which boats were necessarily restricted to the carriage of passengers only. Out of this state of affairs a desire for a bridge naturally arose many years ago.

About 1873 the subject was agitated so strongly that Mr. Geo. C. Keefer, C. E.—a cousin of the engineer, who eventually designed the structure—was employed and made a series of soundings between Bushy Isaind and Rossmore. Founded thereon was his estimate of $125,000 for a wooden bridge. The sum estimated being, it was thought, impossible to raise, the project was dropped and nothing more was heard of it for years. Finally, about 1886, Mr. George S. Tickell, ex-Mayor, being then a member of the City Council, moved a resolution in favor of the project, which he declared he would continue to advocate until it was an accomplished fact. Meantime circumstances had taken a favorable turn, in that an immense reduction had taken place in the cost of erecting bridges of iron or steel, whilst the ferry service had become so inefficient that the people of Belleville and those of Ameliasburgh, after suffering great annoyance and much loss therefrom during several years, were at last ready to engage in any enterprise to relieve them from the intolerable ferry nuisance. Mr. Thomas Ritchie, Mr. Henry Corby, M.P., Mr. Tickell and other public-spirited and liberal citizens, struck whilst the iron was hot. In 1887 an Act incorporating the Bay of Quinte Bridge Company was laid before Parliament, the incorporators named being Thomas Ritchie, Henry Corby, James Brown., George S. Tickell, U. E. Thompson, C. F. Smith and William Anderson. A very strong and persistent fight against the project was made before the Parliamentary Committee by representatives of Trenton, who urged that the bridge would be an impediment to the navigation of the Bay, and would thus nullify the advantages expected to be derived from the Murray Canal, then in process of construction. The case was fully argued before the Committee, with the result that the Act was passed and received the royal assent on June 30th, 1887. It was provided therein that the plans should be approved by the Government; that the capital stock of the Company should be $150,000; and that the gentlemen named above should be the first Directors. It was also provided that the work should be commenced within three years and completed within six years from the passing of the Act. In the following year a short Act was passed to enable the Company to accept aid from municipalities.

Thus armed with the necessary legal authority for the bridging of the Bay, the Directors of the Company lost no time. They started a subscription list, and met with a liberal response from the citizens, who subscribed for stock as follows:

Secretary-Treasurer—U. E. Thompson.

Directors—A. Sutherland, H. Weese E, Gus Porter.

The City Council was then appealed to for a subscription of stock to the amount of $30,000, and a by-law in consonance therewith was submitted to the rate-payers, who passed it by a very large majority. The Township Council of Ameliasburgh also submitted a bylaw for $15,000 which, after strong opposition from parties who live in Trenton, was adopted by the ratepayers. Both of these by-laws were found to be invalid, owing to legal informalities, but both, on being re-submitted in an amended form, were approved by the rate-payers.

Mr. C. H. Keefer, C.E., having been engaged as Chief Engineer, prepared plans for substructure and specifications for superstructure, and submitted an estimate of $95,000 for the entire work, including the road across the marsh from Bushy Island to Dundas street. Tenders were then invited, and in March, 1889, the contract for the superstructure was awarded to the Brown Manufacturing Company, of Belleville, at $38,825, and that for the substructure to McNeely & Walters, of Lindsay, at $54,000. After this firm had performed a considerable amount of work, Mr. Walter's health failed and they sold out to Messrs. Walter Alford and Walter W. Lee, who, in the most satisfactory manner, carried out their undertaking. The work was commenced on the 22nd August, 1889, by dredging for the north approach between Dundas street and Bushy Island, across the marsh. The crib foundation for the north abutment was sunk on the 14th September, 1889, and the masonry of the north abutment was commenced one month later and finished in two weeks. Pile-driving for the pier foundations was commenced Feb. 10th, 1890. All timber work in the foundations was finished at the end of August, 1890, and the masonry and rip-rap were finished on Nov. 7th All work on the substructure and approaches was finished at the end of November last.

The depth of water at the north abutment, and from piers 1 to 13 is 20 feet; at pier 15 it is 33 feet, and at the pivot pier and rest piers 32 feet. The depth of material in the bottom of the Bay, overlying the rock, is from 25 feet to 40 feet. The foundations are timber below low water-level. The north abutment has its foundation on hard ground. Piers Nos. 15 and 16 and the pivot pier have crib foundations sunk to the rock. The south abutment is on a rock foundation. Piers Nos. 1 to 14 are on pile foundations, piles driven to rock and enclosed and protected by crib-work. Total length of piling, 21,685 feet. Piles of from 30 to 60 feet in length were used. The crib in the foundation of pier No. 15 is 41 feet in height and that in the foundation of the pivot pier is 30 feet in height.

A long delay took place in the execution of the contract for the superstructure, during which a great rise in the price of steel took place, further delay being thus caused, $2,000 added to the contract price. The result was that the completion of the contract was delayed by some six months, but no inconvenience was occasioned thereby, as the bridge was ready for traffic in the spring, when the ice became unsafe. The erection of the superstructure was commenced Nov. 10th, 1890, and all was completed April 15th, 1891.

The Bridge

It is light and graceful in appearance. Light as it appears, however, it was tested with a weight of 43 tons on each span, without any perceptible deflection. The design, which was furnished by the contractors, the G. and J. Brown Manufacturing Co., is technically described as the single intersection through span. The length of the bridge and the approaches is 2,913 feet, and it is the longest highway bridge in Canada, whilst no bridge of any kind in Ontario equals it in length. The bridge has 13 spans of 98 feet sach; 2 spans of 148 feet each; 1 draw span of 238 feet; and 1 span of 63 feet at the south end. The northern approach is a solid embankment of 3,616 feet in length, extending 80 feet from Bushy Island, the material composing which was dredged from the bay. This embankment has a width of 30 feet on the top and its sides are rip-rapped to 4 feet below the water level. The total length of the bridge, its approaches and the roadway across the marsh, is 5,787 feet, or 1,929 yards—in all, one mile and 169 yards.

visions were made in the specifications for the superstructure:

"The bridge will be a through bridge and will have a width of roadway of eighteen feet and clear headway between surface of roadway to lowest part of portal or overhead bracing of not less than fourteen feet.

"All the spans shall be proportioned to carry, in addition to the weight of or dead load of the structure, a moving load of fifteen hundred pounds per lineal foot.

"To provide for wind strains and vibrations, the bottom lateral bracings shall be proportioned to resist a lateral force of three hundred pounds for each foot of the span; one hundred and fifty pounds of this to be treated as a moving load. The top lateral bracing shall be proportioned to resist a lateral force of one hundred and fifty pounds for each foot of the span.

"Variations in temperature to the extent of one hundred and eighty degrees Fahr. shall be provided for. All parts shall be so designed that the strains coming upon them can be accurately calculated upon."

"Provision is to be made for sidewalks outside the truss at a future time by drilling boltingholes in ends of transverse floor beams, by means of which extension brackets can be attached."

The following statement of "quantities" in the contracts for this work will enable the reader to form an idea of the magnitude of the undertaking:

Substructure

Earth excavation, to form approaches and foundations 5,000 cubic yards. yards.

Rock excavation, 257 cubic yards.

Timber in substructure, crib-work &c., 38,185 feet b.m.

Iron in substructure, cribwork, &c. 25,640 pounds.

Stone filling in cribs, 5,316 cubic yards.

Masonry in abutments and piers 341 cubic yards.

Rip-rap protection on approaches, 5,173 cubic yards.

Gravel for piers, 20,00 cubic yards.

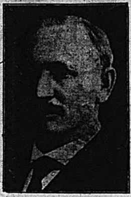
Ontario Leads Auto Industry

$57,000,000 INVESTED IN 1,289 PLANTS IN CANADA

The manufacture of automobiles has become an important Canadian industry, a report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for the year ending 1919, which has just been issued, showing that the capital investment at the time was approximately $57,000,000. Of the 1,289 plants, 1,236 made repairs, 42 produced accessories, while 11 manufactured automobiles. Ontario is the centre of the industry, no less than 639 plants of one kind or another being in that province at the end of 1919. Quebec came second with 165.

It is worthy of note that in proportion to the population, the largest number of automobiles is to be found in the prairie provinces, this being doubtless due to the circumstance that the distances in that portion of the Dominion make the automobile more of a necessity than in some other parts. It is quite possible, also, that the large number of Americans found there to some extent explains the more general use of these machines. So it is found that Saskatchewan has 136 plants, of which all but two make repairs. Alberta has 98, Manitoba 84, British Columbia 84. The returns indicate that the automobile is less generally used in the Maritime Provinces than in any other portion of Canada, Nova Scotia having only 49 plants, New Brunswick 34, and Prince Edward Island 2.

In 1919 Ontario was the only province in which automobiles were then manufactured, the capital investment having then been $48,801,000, of which approximately $35,000,000 was invested in manufacturing plants. How completely that province dominates the industry may be seen in the fact that the investment in all the other provinces amounted to no more than $8,000,000. In capital investment Saskatchewan came next, with $1,813,002.



JOHN ELLIOTT
Always active in Board of Trade matters, and an earnest worker for a Free Bay Bridge

During 1919 the amount paid in wages and salaries was $15,389,000. The number of employees was 12,139, of whom over one-half were employed in automobile plants. The materials used during the year were valued at $61,279,000, no less than $51,690,000 having been in the manufacture of automobiles. The selling value of the products at the works was $101,196,000. The number of cars turned out in that year was a little over 68,000, there being 21,000 other machines.

In the export of automobiles and their parts Canada is doing a large and growing trade. In 1915 these exports were valued at $3,054,000; in 1918, at $9,431,000; in 1919 at $7,501,000, and in the year ending March 31, 1921, it was $19,628,000. Australia and New Zealand are the best markets that Canada has for cars, while the United Kingdom, India, South Africa and the Dutch East Indies also take a goodly number. The United States takes quite a quantity of parts, the value of these during the fiscal year 1919-20 having been $282,000. Altogether, 21,128 cars were exported in the fiscal year ending March, 1921, as compared with 12,750 in 1919.

GRAVE OF FOUR DYNASTIES

Ambitions of Austria, Russia, Germany and Turkey All Lie Buried in the Balkans.

We stood on the forward deck of the Sirio as she slipped southward, through the placid waters of the Adriatic, at 20 knots an hour. Less than a league away the Balkan mountains, savage, mysterious, forbidding, rose in a rocky rampart against the eastern sky.

"Did it ever occur to you," remarked the Italian officer who stood beside me, a noted historian in his own land, "that four great empires have died as a result of their lust for dominion over the restless lands which lie beyond those mountains? Austria coveted Serbia—and the empire of the Hapsburg is in fragments now. Russia, seeing her influence in the peninsula imperiled, hastened to the support of her fellow Slavs—but Russia has gone down in red ruin, and the Romanoffs are dead, Germany, seeking a gateway to the warm water, and a highway to the East, seized on the excuse thus offered to launch her waiting armies—and the empire reared by the Hohenzollerns is bankrupt and broken. Turkey fought to retain her hold on such European territory as still remained under the crescent banner. Today a postmortem is about to be held on the Turkish empire and the house of Osman.

"Think of it! Four great empires, four ancient dynasties, lie buried over there in the Balkans. It is something more than a range of mountains at which we are looking; it is the wall of a cemetery."—E. Alexander Powell in Scribner's Magazine.

A Mean Man.

Sandy—"One of the meanest men I ever knew was Fergusson. He smoked a cigar—if given to him—to the last half inch, chewed the stump, and used the ashes for snuff. Then he wasn't satisfied, and gave up smoking."

"What for?"

"He couldn't think of any way of using the smoke."

The First Telephone.

The first telephone ever installed in a private residence is still to be seen at Marlborough House. It was made in 1878 on board the warship Thunderer, and was subsequently fixed up between the schoolroom and boudoir of the then Princess of Wales.

The Wheat Supply.

The yield of wheat in 1920 in Europe, North America, British India, and in many countries in Asia and North Africa, is estimated 255,132,000 quarters, or 101 per cent. of the previous year's yield and 99 per cent. of the average of the five preceding years.

JAIL WOMAN IN ZION ON DRESS ORDINANCE

Mrs. Sarah Johnson, aged 21, of Winthrop Harbor, near Zion, was in Zion jail charged with triple violation of Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva's modest dress ordinance.

Mrs. Johnson was arrested as she stepped from a train by Chief of Police Becker and booked on the following counts:

Wearing short sleeves which exposed the arm above the middle forearm.

Wearing a blouse of transparent material.

Historical Review of Early Days

rived from such a source. Many years ago the ploughshare turned up human bones on a sandy bluff, some miles below Northport, now known as "Stickney's Hill." This was a subject for speculation, and it was not long ere the whole romance was constructed and published for the delectation of the curious. We are assured that the late Chief Justice Robinson was one of those who had faith in the story, and that in 1856, when a passenger on a boat from Belleville to Kingston he penned a poetical effusion from inspiration received when passing the hill referred to, and hearing the story of the bones and whence they came. Briefly stated, the romance is as follows: In the early days of the French domination, a gallant young officer named Col. Quinte had command of a small company of soldiers at Fort Niagara. An attack upon the fort by a large number of Indians compelled the French to retreat eastward towards Fort Frontenac. When they reached the Carrying Place isthmus they took the south shore of the bay, which they followed until further progress was arrested by the "Long Reach" at Grassy Point. Retracing their course a few miles the French soldiers encamped on Stickney's Hill. It was in December, and the weather becoming suddenly and extremely cold a number of men, including Col. Quinte, perished from hunger and exposure. Their bodies were buried on the spot, and in after years their bones were exposed by the pioneer's rude plough. So much for the romance which was supposed to furnish the origin of the name which our beautiful bay now bears and which the learned judge, previously mentioned, tried to immortalize in poetical form as follows:

"Yet this Bay had once its terrors,
Ere the red men were subdued,
And the scene now so lovely,
Was terrific, wild and rude;
When the gallant Quinte, flying
From the savage of the west,
On the cheerless hill lay dying,
With fierce cold and hunger pressed;
And his bones were left unburied,
But his name won't pass away,
While there's beauty on the hillside,
Or these waters gently play."

Subsequent investigation has shown that no French officer of that name was sent to Canada, and that the retreat, exposure and death of French soldiers, as the story has it, were the creatures of somebody's fancy, The name undoubtedly was derived from a tribe of Indians, a branch of the Mississaugas, who had a village at Hay Bay. On an old map, now in the Imperial library of Paris, the water stretch leading to this Indian settlement is designated "the Bay of Kente," and also the "Bay of the Kentes." This word correctly pronounces the word as it is now spelled.

What a wonderful transformation has been wrought since the days we have been writing about. Then the overhanging boughs of a dense forest bordering cast a sombre shade far out upon the rippling waters, and there were many nooks and inlets where the sun's rays could not penetrate. The dip of the red man's paddle and the howl of some roving beast of prey were the principle sounds that disturbed the universal quiet. The lordly pine lifted its evergreen top far above the surrounding trees, the gnarly oak stood as a sentinel to mark the flight of ages, and the umbrageous maple spread its leafy branches in the full freedom of undisputed sovereignty. But with the advent of the hardy pioneer settlers—the U. E. L. band—there came a foe to primeval solitude, and a disturber of nature's repose. A relentless war was proclaimed against the wild grandeur of the wilderness by muscular arms that presaged victory from the start. The initial clearings about the pioneer's log cabin soon expanded, and the lapse of a few decades brought a great change in the country bordering the Bay from Kingston to the Carrying Place. A century of time, with its multiplied agencies for accomplishing the purposes of resolutemen, has transformed the wilderness into a garden. The forest shade has receded from river and Bay until many miles intervene, and a day's journey with the aid of steam, towards the inhospitable north, is necessary to reach it.

The men and women who endured so much for conscience' sake, and made the Bay of Quinte district the cradle of civilization in this province, have left memories that time cannot efface. Their names, as well as their virtues, have been bequeathed to succeeding generations; and at this auspicious event in the history of the Bay, descendants of the hardy pioneers will come from the four points of the compass to witness a celebration that must establish the claim of Belleville to the first place among the flourishing towns and cities that nestle by the limpid waters. They come with the conveniences and pleasures provided by the genius of man in this latter part of the nineteenth century. Instead of the wild forest and natural grandeur that greeted their ancestors, they look upon cultivated farms and the comfortable homes of a happy, contented people. The Indian wigwam and bark canoe have disappeared, and in their place are seen the stately mansion of civilized life and the swift-gliding craft of an active and extended commerce. The Loyalist refugees, when they first inspected the forest-fringed shores of the Bay, were delighted with the prospect, and willingly ventured their future happiness in establishing new homes for themselves and children. They pronounced it a land of promise which, though not literally "flowing with milk and honey," possessed all the necessary elements of prosperity. The flag they loved so well, and for which they had voluntarily suffered so much, waved over it, and 'neath its protecting folds they lived in peace and security. The same flag waves from staff and tower to-day, hallowed by the same memories, but with a brighter lustre won from the battle-fields and diplomacy. It is still the flag of British freedom, the emblem of strength, courage and liberty of conscience.

"Long flourish that banner!
That proud Saxon banner!
When nations and kingdoms go down to decay;
May peace aye surround it,
When foemen unnumbered were smote with dismay.
Three cheers—three times three—for the time-honored sheen.
Of that banner—the flag of Victoria, our Queen!"

The completion of this bridge is no less an era in the history of the district that it serves, than a monument to mark the progress of commercial enterprise. The original "ten townships", that for many years formed a nucleus for extending their old-time identity by expansion and absorption, but they still have a name and a place in the records of the present. Beginning at Kingston, they extended westward in regular order, bearing the names of the then reigning family of England, until the ninth and tenth numbers were reached near the head of the Bay. These last surveys were given the names of Sidney and Thurlow, in memory of two eminent statesmen and patriots. They were settled by noble pioneers, whose descendants continue to sustain the honor and distinction won in conflict with formidable foes. The picturesque county south of the Bay, recently made an island by the completion of the Murray Canal, was included in the original surveys, and has since shared conspicuously in all that distinguishes the Bay of Quinte district as an agricultural paradise and the home of a robust, intelligent and loyal people. The majestic link of masonry, iron and wood, so skillfully constructed, and so gracefully spanning the narrow bay, removes an inconvenience and establishes a highway for a steadily increasing trade that will confer inestimable blessings upon many. The city of Belleville needs the produce of the farms and gardens famous for productiveness that border the south shore of the Bay and penetrate inland; and the enterprising residents of these sections are equally as anxious to benefit by the excellent market facilities offered on this side. Hence, we celebrate an event which demands a mutual recognition, as being of mutual interest and general importance. Belleville, though the chief factor in the movement that culminated so successfully, does not claim a monopoly of the honors conferred, and can offer a sincere welcome to all who participate in this jubilee demonstration.

MADE THEIR OWN OIL WELL

How Two Small Boys Reaped Rich Reward for the Exercise of a Little Ingenuity.

Two barefoot boys, respectively eleven and twelve years of age, earned forty-five hundred dollars in one week, according to the Oil Weekly of Dallas, Texas, by combining thrift and ingenuity in a telling manner. Much oil was going to waste in the Northwest Burkburnett oil field because the pipe lines were inadequate, when the boys, who are brothers, saw crude oil from a broken pipe running down a small ravine. Hitching a donkey to a rattle-trap spring wagon, they began to haul dirt to dam the ravine and succeeded after much hard work in collecting a great quantity of oil.

The owner appeared on the scene about that time, and he admired the pluck of the youngsters. He did not claim the oil outright, although it had been his, but offered the youngsters one dollar and a half a barrel salvage for it. The youngsters accepted his offer and, perching themselves on their new dam with stubs of pencils, checked out the oil as it was hauled away. It tallied exactly three thousand barrels, and the boys got their money.

Fewer Figs Reach Market.

The fig yield of the vilayet of Aiden has arisen from approximately 9,000 tons raised on 10,000 acres of land about thirty years ago to about 23,000 tons raised on 25,000 acres. However, this advance in supply has not kept pace with the demand, and prices of figs have steadily risen. The big producing areas are, under normal conditions, exclusively tapped by the Ottoman (Aiden) Railway company's system. The orchards, located mainly in the Meander valley, are owned chiefly by Turks. The best figs are produced in the Inovassi and Ortaxe districts. The product is marketed in Smyrna, where the figs are packed in accordance with the demand of the region to which the figs are exported. Blight, neglected fertilization and lack of communication have cut down this season's export output to about 10,000 tons. Exports went to the United States (about 4,000 tons) the United Kingdom (5,500 tons), and European entente countries (about 1,000 tons).

MURDER MADE EASY MATTER

With Formula Possessed by English Chemist, Slayer Might Laugh at Human Law.

The lunch-time conversation of the scientists at the national physical laboratory, Teddington, shifts daily to all sorts of interesting subjects, and it was inevitable that the topic of murder should have been suggested by the "wave crime" in Great Britain (an epidemic that amounts to less than one homicide a week).

It was agreed that all the murders reported in the daily papers were commonplace, dull, sordid affairs, showing no ingenuity and deliberation. "If I had a murder to commit, how should I go about it?" became the theme.

The metallurgists, electricians, radiologists, physicists and other scientists had many astounding murder methods, but with a common weak point, writes an English correspondent. None of them disposed of the body so that detection would be not only improbable, but impossible.

It remained for a chemist to solve the problem, "I would not be so clever as you in the assassination itself," he said. "Any quick way of silent dispatch would do. But I could swiftly dissolve a body, bones and all, so that it could be poured as a liquid into a sewer and be thoroughly done away with. No; I mustn't give the formula." He was the victor in the discussion.

Reproductivity of Pearls.

There is nothing new under the sun, and the idea of placing pearls in a bag with a little rice, and finding after many years that their numbers have increased, a very ancient practice, is claiming attention in the English press. That the rice has the appearance of being "pecked" adds a further touch of the familiar, and people are asking what kind of rice pearls like best. In the time of Boetius de Boot, the reproductivity not only of pearls but of diamonds was a common belief. The explanation that the pearls now occupying attention are vegetable pearls from the Malay states would not have satisfied Boetius.

Bay of Quinte Community Favors One Breed of Cattle

SOUTH HASTINGS AND PRINCE EDWARD SECTION OFFER EXCELLENT EXAMPLE OF COMMUNITY BREEDING—STICK WITH DAIRYING—CHEESE OUTPUT INCREASING—A PROSPEROUS PART OF ONTARIO.

If Hon. Sydney Fisher who was a consistent and persistent preacher of the doctrine of community breeding, could visit Prince Edward county and the front of Hastings, in the flesh, he would be delighted with the way his preaching has been carried into practise. In a trip covering a large part of the two counties last week, I saw herds of cattle revelling in luscious pasture everywhere, and these cattle were practically all of one kind of breeding. Perhaps half of a dozen Jerseys and as many cows with some Ayshire marking was seen all told in the two counties in the course of a journey occupying the greater part of two days; the rest were all black and white, and excellent specimens they were, too. There was hardyl a considerable herd out of which one could not pick half a dozen head that could be taken into the showring with credit to the exhibitor. Further evidence of the extent to which there has been concentration along one line was afforded by a statement of Agricultural Representative MacVannel of Prince Edward, concerning his calf club operations Within the past week Mr. MacVannel has distributed 48 pure-bred heifers among the members of this club and in 46 cases Holstein heifers were, by choice of the recipients, so distributed.

Where Dairying Flourishes

Dairying has for many years past been one of the principal branches of agriculture in the counties of Prince Edward and Hastings. In these counties, at all events, despite the recent slump in prices, dairying has not gone back. "Indeed," Mr. MacVannel of Prince Edward said, "I believe the volume of production this year will be greater than ever before," a statement Agricultural Representative McIntosh of Hastings endorsed so far as this county is concerned as well.

Such statistical information as is available bears out the opinions expressed. There are three or four fewer cheese factories in Prince Edward than there were a year or two ago, but the loss of one of these is directly traceable to diversion due to the demand for whole milk in Belleville. The closing of the others is considerably more than offset by the opening of two condensers in the county.

Cheese Output Increasing

Over in the front of Hastings county the number of cheese factories has not been reduced at all, and the output of practically all of these shows an increase over last year. A typical illustration is afforded in the case of Evergreen factory, that is making 15 cheese per day now as compared with 12 at the corresponding date last season. Mr. John Sagar, Secretary of Stirling Cheese Board, a board on which the make of seven factories is boarded, says that all these factories show an increase in make as compared with 1920.

That this increase is not a mere spurt, either, but due to settled policy, is shown by the fact that more dairy heifer calves are being raised in the two counties this year than in an previous season. Perhaps it is only fair to add, however, that part of the increase in calves is due to the reduction in the price of vealers last spring. What is most satisfactory is that the class of calves being raised in the two counties promises to keep up the standard in breeding already attained.

A Wise Decision

And, after all, are not eastern Ontario dairymen wise in staying with the dairy cow? While cheese is only about half the price realized when prices were at the peak, concentrates have fallen to something like a corresponding degree, and pastures were never in better condition than they are right now. Besides in comparison with beef producers, the lot of dairymen is a fortunate one. Beef producers who bought feeders last fall paid war prices for these; they also paid war prices for winter feed; then when they sold the finished bulloc last they sold the finished bollock last sult was that many feeders of beef cattle lost the entire cost of the concentrates used in winter feeding. Dairymen, on the other hand, did not have to gamble, at least to the same extent, on returns six months ahead. They, or at least those in winter dairying, had a product to sell week in and week out, and while the cost of making that product remained high the selling price of the product remained high as well. When the market for that product dropped, the cost of making that product, so far as feed is concerned, dropped in somewhat like proportions as well. Of course, a considerable percentage of the dairymen of Hastings and Prince Edward do not carry on dairying the year round. Most of them, in fact, turn out the bulk of their product in the cheese-factory season. But, and this is an important point, their food cost is comparatively high in the season of limited milk production, while the feeding cost of those making beef last winter was at the peak at the same time. It may be further remarked that dairymen find their permanent stock—their milch cows—would not sell to-day for a price within 40 per cent. of what they would have sold for a year ago, but their net returns from this stock, aside from the cost of utensils, implements, building repairs and labor, are not much different from what they were a year ago The man whose returns are coming in all the time, or nearly all the time, is always in a much safer line than the man who has to meet the expense of creating something to be marketed six months ahead, and this is exactly the conditions that exist as between dairy and beef production.

Prosperity Founded in Dairying

But the best proof of all of the value of dairying as the basis of permanent agricultural industry is seen in the class of farm buildings on every concession-line along the front of Hastings county. Hastings is a rather rough country; farmers living in some of the western counties would call it decidedly so, but I doubt if even the best part of Waterloo itself can show a better average in the class of farm buildings than may be found in the township of Sidney, for example A poor-looking barn is an exception there. Really excellent barns and commodious, substantially-built houses may be seen in all directions. And the prosperity to which these buildings bear evidence has been built, in the main, on dairying and the allied industry of bacon production.

An illustration of what dairying is doing for Sidney farmers may be given by referring again to the case of Evergreen cheese factory. Few of the 65 patrons of that factory receive less than $1,000 from the milk supplied in the factory season. Some of of them run up to nearly three times that figure. Besides this there are the returns obtained from hogs, surplus calves or cows and other farm products.

It may be added, in conclusion, that while the surface of Hastings is much broken, this county is peculiarly well adapted to dairying. There is abundance of water and shelter everywhere, clover grows luxuriantly on a limestone base; and a soil naturally warm and yielding readily to fertilization produces a rapid and vigorous growth in all sorts of fodder.

DEAN'S DAIRY COLUMN

Three Big Questions Answered for Milk Dealers.

Shall I Sell Milk or Cream?—Should Cows Be Fed on Turnips?—How to Pack Butter for Keeping.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Shall I sell milk or cream? This will be determined to a large extent by the character of the farming operations. If the need for direct, quick cash in largest amount is great, then selling milk will best "fill the bill." On the other hand, if the dairy farmer can afford to wait for the slower returns from cream and live stock, and particularly if he desires to improve or maintain soil fertility, then selling cream is to be recommended.

Nearness to market is another factor. Where the dairyman is near a small town and has the time to "peddle" milk, he can make more money out of his cows than by any other system. At ten to twelve cents a quart, a good cow will return from $250 to $300 per year for her milk. When this is compared with $100 to $150 per cow, where cream is sold, or milk sent to a cheese factory or condensery, we see what a decided money advantage there is in selling milk to customers direct.

But this plan robs the young things on the farm—often the farmer's own children—of needed milk supply, hence many farmers are content with less ready cash in order to have better and more live stock, and consequently richer soil, which, after all, is the basis of good farming.—H. H. D.

Should Cows Be Fed Turnips?

This is an old question about which considerable difference of opinion exists. If my reader is Scotch, he or she will likely answer the question by saying, "Yes," as Scotchmen, turnips, and good farming are three things usually found together on farms in Ontario.

There was a time when butter buyers were not so particular about the flavor of butter as they are at present. It is common to hear women purchasers on city markets, say to farm butter-makers, "Your butter is turnipy," which is sufficient to cause a loss of the sale. Creamerymen object very strongly to "turnipy cream." While it is doubtless true that some careful feeders are able to feed quite large quantities of turnips to cows giving milk, without causing any serious trouble, there is always danger, which can best be avoided by not feeding these to milking cows. If they are grown on the dairy farm they are best fed to dry cows, fattening cattle, young stock, pigs, etc. However, if they are fed in the stable where cows are milking, and more especially where the root house opens into the stable and where the turnips are pulped in the stable or in a feed-room adjoining, the odor of the turnips fills the air, which is carried into the milk pail at the time of milking, and thus the milk, cream, and butter become tainted from the stable air, even though the milk cows may not be fed any of the turnips.

The safest plan is not to grow turnips on a dairy farm. Grow mangels, or sugar beets, and corn for silage. These crops will give as good returns as turnips, are no more expensive to grow, and are much safer.

"Safety First" is a good motto on a dairy farm.—H. H. D.

How to Pack Butter for Keeping.

The first point to observe in the packing of butter, in order to have it keep well for winter use, is to have good butter. The best butter for packing is usually made in the months of June and September. It is preferably made from comparatively sweet cream which has been pasteurized. However, on the farm pasteurization is not commonly followed, hence the butter should be made when the weather is comparatively cool, and the cream should be churned before it becomes very sour. In fact, the sweeter the cream the more likely it is to produce good keeping quality in the butter, so long as there is sufficient acid on the cream to give good churning results.

The cream should be churned in the usual way, except that the butter may be washed once with brine, which is made by dissolving salt in water, instead of using water at both washings. Salt at the usual rate, but not over one ounce of salt per pound of butter, because salt does not preserve butter, as is commonly supposed, except in a minor degree for unpasteurized cream butter. It is a mistake, however, to add so much salt that the fine flavor of the butter is covered up.

Having worked the butter as usual, pack it firmly into crocks, tubs or boxes. If unparaffined wooden packages are used, these should be soaked several days in salt water to prevent "woody" flavor in the butter. A better plan is to coat the inside of the tub or box with hot wax, then line with heavy parchment paper, before packing the butter. Glazed crocks which are clean need no lining.

When the package is full, preferably all from one churning, smooth the top of the butter, cover with parchment paper or a clean cotton cloth, then tie heavy brown paper over the top and place in a cool cellar, or in cold-storage. Sometimes a salt paste is put on top of the cloth or paper, and this is kept moist by sprinkling on water from time to time. This excludes the air, and helps to keep the butter.

We recommend packing the butter in solid form which is to be kept for some time, rather than holding it in prints, even though these may be submerged, in brine.—H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

How Organized and Conducted in This Province.

Over 900 Branches With 30,000 Members — Three Annual Conventions — Some Outstanding Varieties of Field Crops—Fresh Fruit For the Farm.

(National Crop Improvement Service.) Agriculture, Toronto.)

In Ontario there are 916 branch Institutes, with a membership of approximately 30,000. The province is divided into three divisions, eastern, central and western Ontario. Eastern Ontario contains three, central Ontario eleven, and western Ontario three subdivisions.

The delegates to the annual convention in each division name a representative from their respective subdivision to form a Board of Directors for the Provincial Federation. These directors, from among themselves, elect officers on the executive, and also name representatives to the Dominion Federation.

The principle and designation of the standing committees and the system of holding and financing their meetings is provided for in the constitution of the provincial organisation and the following committees have been named: Health, Education and Better Schools; Immigration, Agriculture, Legislation, Home Economics and Publicity.

Annual conventions are held at Ottawa, London and Toronto; plans for the same being made in co-operation with representatives of the provincial committee and local committees chosen at the time of the conventions.

The Institutes are entirely independent of the Department, so far as their local meetings are concerned. The provincial organization is also quite independent of the department, but it is utilized in an advisory capacity. The superintendent of Institutes suggests lines of work for the Institutes from time to time, and places before them reports of what the Institutes are doing in various sections of the province, as well as other sections of the Dominions. The Department furnishes lecturers for single meetings, and instructors for short courses as outlined in circular No. 18.

The membership fee of twenty-five cents per member is wholly used for local purposes. The Government grant is $3 to each branch having a membership of fifteen and holding at least six meetings a year and furnishing the reports asked for by the Department, including a list of members, financial statement and brief reports of meetings. A grant of $10 is also given to the district organization, with an addition of $3 on account of each branch in the district which makes a satisfactory report.—Geo. A. Putnam, Superintendent, Farmers' Institutes, Toronto.

Some Outstanding Varieties of Field Crops.

Rye.—Of the spring varieties of rye, the O. A. C. No. 61 has not only given the highest average yield of grain per acre at the college but has surpassed the common spring rye in the co-operative experiments throughout Ontario in each of the past nine years, the average being practically three bushels per acre in favor of the former.

Field Peas.—The Canadian Beauty variety of field peas is one of the best of the large, smooth, white kinds. The Arthur, originated at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, is coming into prominence. It is a medium late white pea of medium size. The Golden Vine is a small white field pea and one of the most suitable for mixing with oats in the production of green fodder or of hay by using one bushel of peas and two bushels of oats per acre. The Golden Vine peas and the O.A.C. No. 72 oats make an admirable combination.

Field Beans.—The Small White pea bean is the commercial variety of Ontario and is one which is grown extensively. The Pearce's Improved Tree bean is a medium late large yielding variety, producing large sized white beans of excellent quality. This variety has given excellent results in some localities.

Buckwheat.—The Silver Hull buckwheat produces a grain of excellent quality and is used considerably throughout the province. The Rough buckwheat is not so well known but it is an exceedingly heavy yielder producing about fifty per cent. larger yield of grain per acre than the Silver Hull. Although the last named variety is a high yielder, the grain possesses a thick hull and is not of an attractive appearance.—C. A. Zavitz, Professor of Field Husbandry, O. A. College, Guelph.

Dairying In June.

Cows in clover or good June-grass pasture require very little attention. This is the ideal month for dairy operations. More milk and better milk, are produced in the month of June, than at any other time of the year, in Ontario. If there are any hot days, be careful to cool both milk and cream, by setting in ice water, or cold well water. Sour milk and cream are too frequently sent to the factory. Don't forget to wash the cream separator and strainer daily, or after each time of using.

Fresh Fruit For the Farm.

For a very small sum any farmer may have a few rows of strawberries, two or three dozen of raspberries, currants, etc., which will give fresh fruit at cheapest cost. A few grapes will also pay. Selling strawberry plants and berry canes will also bring in an odd dollar or two for the wideawake man or woman, or boy or girl.

Early Days and Events In Prince Edward County

(From Canniff's "History of Upper Canada.")

The name of this district is derived from Prince Edward, Duke of Kent, the father of Queen Victoria, who visited Canada at an early date.

The peninsula is a rich and beautiful tract of land stretching away from the mainland, to be washed on the one hand by the quiet waters of the bay, and on the other by the more turbulent waves of Lake Ontario. It is some seventy miles in length, and varying in breadth from two to twenty miles. The neck of land, or isthmus, which separates the waters of the bay from Lake Ontario, is somewhat less than half a mile across. It is known as the Carrying Place.

Prince Edward district is irregular in outline, on both the lake and bay sides. Along the lake coast there are numerous bays extending inward, two or three being of considerable size. The larger ones are Weller's bay, Consecon Lake, West Lake, and East Lake. In places the shore is rendered exceedingly picturesque, by the presence of irregular and beautifully white sandhills. They have been gradually formed by well washed sand which the waves have carried shoreward, so that the wind might, in the lapse of time, deposit it heap upon heap. The mariners regard this coast with justifiable concern, at the extremely southerly portion, off Long Point, in the vicinity of the Ducks, where many a vessel has come to grief.

The geological formation of the peninsula is of considerable interest, and the observing student of this interesting science, may trace many steps which indicate the geological history.

In a valley in the second concession of Ameliasburgh, may be seen a huge mass of rock, known as Gibson's rock, whose history carries us back, far into the remote past, when the continent of America was covered by a vast ocean, and when massive icebergs, cast loose from their native place in the frozen north, carried with their icy scales huge rocks from the north land coast. Then, carried southward by wind and tide, and reaching water of a milder temperature, the ice became melted and the rocks were deposited in the depths of the ocean. When the continent of America was upheaved and the waters departed to their present limits, this huge stone, unlike the stone forming the geological bed of this region, was found fast fixed to the soil, ever to form a part of it.

In the whole of Upper Canada there is not perhaps, any section so full of historic interest, excepting Frontenac, as Prince Edward. We know that the forked peninsula was well known by the Aborigines, and that they were accustomed to cross from the south side of the lake to Point Traverse. It was always a favorite hunting and fishing ground, where abundant supplies were obtained. And not unlikely some portion of Indian Point belonged to the Siegniory, granted to La Salle. Moreover, the two points stretching far into the lake, became early locations for the refugees and disbanded soldiers.

In the history of Marysburgh, reference has been made to the early settlement of the point east of Picton Bay, which commenced in 1784. But it appears by the statement of John C. Young, that his grandfather, Colonel Henry Young, made the first settlement in the summer or fall of 1783. With a brother officer, Young left Cataraqui, or Carleton Island, in a canoe, and ascended what was then called (perhaps first by these parties, the South Bay, now Picton Bay. They landed at the commencement of the Indian Carrying Place, subsequently for some time known as Hovington's Landing, after the individual who here built a convenient house. They left their canoe here, and set out southward. We have been told that they intended to seek the bay now known as Smith's Bay; but, according to his descendant it would seem they had no particular point in view, desiring only to examine the land. Following, no doubt, the old Indian path, they came out at the north corner of East Lake, a point afterward called the Indian Landing, which name it still retains. Following the east shore of this Lake to the south corner, they were surprised to hear the roaring of Lake Ontario, having thought they were following the shore of an inland lake. They crossed the strip of land covered with cedar, spruce and balsam, and taking off their shoes, waded from the beautiful sand-beach across the outlet of the lake to the opposite point, and proceeded along the west side to the north corner of the lake, to where David McDonald now lives, having entirely walked around East Lake. They here constructed a hut, of cedar bushes, in which to stay the night. The following morning they set out in a north-west direction, and came to West Lake, following the east side they reached the sand-beach. Traversing this, they arrived at the point where Wellington now stands. Here they stayed the night. The next day they continued on around the north side of West Lake through the woods, and the same evening regained their canoe. They observed plenty of deer and other game, and fish, the former of which Ensign Young's wife, subsequently assisted him to hunt. The succeeding day they returned to Carleton Island. Mr. Young, from this rich land over which he walked, selected the west side of East Lake for his future abode. His eldest son Daniel, who had belonged to the Engineers, was at Carleton Island, having been with his father during his stay at Fort Oswego. His second son, Henry, was at St. John's with the rest of the family. He sent a message for him to come up. This must have been in July or August. In September, the father and two sons, having procured a large canoe, loaded it with provisions, and other necessaries, and ascended to the Indian Carrying Place Hovington's Landing. They carried their provisions across, and constructed another boat with which they conveyed their things to the point selected for settling, about three miles. Here they proceeded to build a log shanty. Sometime after, the father left, leaving behind his two sons, to winter alone in this out-of-the-way place. They were the first settlers in Prince Edward County. Mr. Young descended to St. John's, where his family still remained, and stayed the winter.

In the spring he came up the St. Lawrence with his family as far as Fredericksburgh, where he left his daughters while he went to see how his sons fared, and had passed the winter. He found them all well; and remained the summer with them, during which they built a more commodious log house. In October, he returned to Fredericksburgh for his daughters, who accompanied him to the wilderness home. These four daughters, Elizabeth, Mary, Catherine and Sarah, subsequently married Henry Zuveldt, Jonathan Ferguson, William Dyre and John Miller. They all lived to be upwards of eighty years.

"On the first day of January, 1800, the settlement at East Lake, in the township of Hallowell, consisted of the following families, in the following order, commencing at Silas Hills, at the head of East Lake, near the place now known as the Cherry Valley, and proceeding around the north side of lake, viz:—"Colonel John Peters and family, half-pay officer; Major Rogers and family, do; David Friar, U. E. L.! Roswell Ferguson, do; Elisha Miller, do; Blasdall Tailor; Caleb Elsworth, Lieut. Henry Young(half-pay officer;. Henry Young, Jun., U. E. L.; Augustus Spencer, half-pay officer; George Walt, U. E. L.|; Benjamin Walt, do; William Dyre, do; George Elsworth."

"List of Settlers on the south side of the lake—Henry Zuveldt, (Zofelt) U. E. L.; Jonathan Ferguson, Sen., U. E. L.; Jonathan Ferguson, jun., do; Anthony Badgley, do; John Miller, do; Farnton Ferguson, do; William Blakely, do; Sampson Striker, do; Barret Dyer, do; Daniel Baldwin, John Ogden, U. E. L.; Richard Ogden, do; Solomon Spafford, Joseph McCartney, Joseph Lane, William Ensley, Col. Owen Richards, U. E. L.; James Clapp, do; Charles Ferguson."

"At this time there were no settlers in the second concessions neither side of the lake."—(Rev. G. Miller.)

East Lake is about five miles long and one and a half wide. It was for a time called Little Lake. West Lake is about fifteen miles in circumference.

Prince Edward was one of the original nineteen counties of Upper Canada, established by the proclamation of Simcoe in 1792. By this proclamation, we learn that the Peninsula was called by the French "Presque Isle de Quinte." Originally it was divided into the three townships of Marysburgh, Sophiasburgh, and Ameliasburgh. Subsequently the townships of Hallowell and Hillier, were formed, and in later days the township of Athol.

In 1831, an act was passed to erect the county into a district, "so soon as the Governor shall be satisfied that a good and sufficient gaol and court house has been erected therein, when a proclamation should announce the formation of the new district." The act specified that the "gaol and court house should be erected in the village of Picton, upon a certain block of land, containing two and a half acres granted, or intended to be granted and conveyed to Asa Worden, Simeon Washburn, and James Dougal, Esquires, agreeably to a resolution adopted at a public meeting in May, 1826," unless a majority of the Justices of the Peace of the Midland District should declare the site ineligible.

We find the following respecting the division of Prince Edward, "Pro Parliament," "Prince Edward division bill." Mr. Roblin moved the adoption of the Preamble in a few remarks, stating its (the Peninsula) geographical position, the population being 10,000, the remoteness of the inhabitants from the location of the District Court House and Gaol, at Kingston, the earnest desire of the people for separation. Mr. Sampcon moved, as an amendment, that the village should have a member when it contained 1,000 souls. The debate upon the bill, resulted in one of those fierce encounters that was then not unfrequent between William Lyon McKenzie, and the Solicitor General, afterwards Ch utJfeils CMFWYPhs, SH wards Chief Justice Robinson.

If we may credit the Free Press, there were plenty of applicants for office in the newly erected district, there being no less than sixteen seeking the office of Sheriff.

Ameliasburgh

This township took its name from the fifteenth child, and seventh daughter of the King. She died in November, 1811, aged 27 years. Upon the oldest chart of this township, to be found in the Crown Lands Department, is the following note: "The front of this township is a continuation of Lieut. Kotte's survey from Green Point to the head of the Bay of Quinte, whose orders were in 1785, to have cross roads between every six lots." This note was most probably, made in consequence of there being an absence of three cross roads, when the settlement of the county made them necessary.

Coming to the Carrying Place, or portage, from the head of Bay of Quinte to Weller's Bay, it will be seen that a row of lots somewhat smaller in size, is formed on either side of the road. But while the road seems to have a straight course upon the map, by visiting the place, one will observe that the course is not altogether direct. We have it from one, who, no doubt knew, that the surveyor's assistant, a mulatto by the name of Smith, was told to lay out double rows of lots; both to front upon the Indian path, which instructions were literally carried out, where as it was intended they should be straight. The lots upon the west side of the road extended to the small marshy creek. This row of lots, numbering twelve, originally forming part of Ameliasburgh, now belong to Murray, the Carrying Place being the dividing line between the two townships.

We have been unable to find any early record of Ameliasburgh.

According to the information furnished us by Mr. Ashley and others, the first family that settled in this township was George Angel Weese, with three sons, John, Henry and Francis, natives of Duchess County; they came here in 1787. The second settler was Thomas Dempsey, who came in 1789. Among the other settlers were Bonters, Sagers, Bleekers and Coverts.

The names of other early settlers of Ameliasburgh are mentioned elsewhere, and are among the first patentees. Among them was Elijah Wallbridge, a native of Duchess County. He came to Canada in 1804, and purchased on Mississauga Point, of one Smith, 1,200 acres of land, all of which, we believe, is still retained in the family. Two years later his family came by French train in winter.

William Anderson, sen., who is still living, aged 88 years, a native of Ireland, emigrated to America with his parents in 1793. He came to Canada in 1803. In 1806 he settled on Mississauga Point, having married Miss Polly Way, a descendant of the U. E. Loyalist.

Hallowell

We find in Sabine, that "Benjamin Hallowell, of Boston, Commissioner of Customs in 1774, while passing through Cambridge in his chaise, was pursued toward Boston by about one hundred and sixty men on horseback, at full gallop. In July, 1776, he sailed for England. While at Halifax, he said, in a letter "if I can be of the least service to either army or navy, I will stay in America until this rebellion is subdued." It appears from another letter that he frequently tendered himself to the Commander-in-Chief without success. In the autumn of 1796, Mr. Hallowell came to Boston. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Elmsley, and by her husband, who had just been appointed Chief Justice of Upper Canada. He died at York, Upper Canada, in 1799, aged seventy-five, and was the last survivor the Board of Commissioners. The British Government granted him lands in Manchester, and two other towns in Nova Scotia, and a township in Upper Canada, which bears his name. He was a large proprietor of lands on the Kennebec, Maine, prior to the revolution; but proscribed and banished in 1778, and included in the Conspiracy Act a year later, his entire estate was confiscated. His country residence at Jamaica Plain, was used as a hospital by the Whig Army during the seige of Boston; and his pleasure grounds were converted into a place of burial for the soldiers who died."

We are unable to learn whether any part of the township of Hallowell was granted to Benjamin Hallowell, or not, but, it is not at all unlikely, that at first he did hold some portion of the land. At all events, there seems every reason to believe that the name was derived from him. On July 3, 1797, an act was passed, whereby it was provided "that a township shall be struck off from the southern-most parts of the townships of Marysburgh and Sophiasburgh." The reason set forth was, that "the inhabitants of the townships experienced many difficulties from uncommon length of the said townships." The Governor was by proclamation, "to declare the name of such township before the first day of August next. Mr. Hallowell's brother-in-law, Mr. Elmsley, had recently been appointed Chief Justice, and doubtless the distinguished position Mr. Hallowell had held, led to the naming of the new township to commemorate his loyalty.

Surveyor Gen. William Smith, was the person employed to lay out the new township.

The first record of this township is as follows: "The annual meeting of the inhabitants of the township of Hallowell, held on Monday, the fifth day of March, 1798, held by virtue of an act of the legislature of the Province of Upper Canada, before Augustus Spencer, and John Stinson, jun., two of His Majesty's Justice of the Peace, the following persons were chosen town officers for the ensuing year."—Bazel Ferguson, Town Clerk; Caleb Elsworth and Peter D. Conger, assessors; James Blakely, and Thomas Goldsmith, Town or Church Wardens; Benjamin Wall, John Miller, Owen Richards, Henry Zufelt, Ichabod Bowerman, Aaron White, Carey Spencer and George Baker, Overseers of Highways and Fence Viewers; Daniel Young, and Isaac Bedal, Pound Keepers; Samson Striker, Henry Johnson, Samuel Williams, and Isaac Garret, Constables.

At the first township meeting, "it was enacted that no fence is to be lawful in the township under four feet eight inches high, sufficiently made." Horses, horned cattle, hogs, sheep, were to be permitted to run at large with certain exceptions. "It is enacted that if any freeholder shall suffer any Canadian thistle to go to seed on his farm, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty shillings." A law was also passed, that if any one set fire to any rubbish or bush, whereby his neighbor's property was endangered, without previously making two of his neighbors acquainted, he should pay a fine of forty shillings, to be expended for the benefit of the highways. Bazel Ferguson, who seems to have discharged his duty as Town Clerk, recording the proceedings in a neat legible hand, was successfully elected to that office for ten years. In 1810, James R. Armstrong was appointed, and again the following year. The next following. Arra Ferguson was elected, who continued in office three years, when Simeon Washburn received the appointment, and remained in office two years, when Arra Ferguson was again selected, and continued for three years. Robert Scott was Town Clerk two years, and then again followed Arra Ferguson for eight years. William Barker then was appointed.

The three Justices of the Peace, before whom the annual meeting continued for many years to be held, were John Peters, Augustus Spencer, and John Stinson, doubtless the first magistrates in the township. In the year 1815, we notice as "present" at the annual meeting, Stephen Conger, Barret Dyer, Ebenezer Washburn, Justices of the Peace.

The town meeting was held in the year 1801, "at the house of Richardson and Elsworth," "near Hallowell Bridge;" likewise the following year. In 1803 the meeting was held "at the house of Thomas Richardson." The following year 1805, it is "the house of the late Thomas Richardson." In 1806, the meeting was "at the dwelling house of Thomas Eyre." In 1807 it is "the Inn of Thomas Eyre." Here the annual meeting was successively held for many years.

Hillier

In the year 1823 there was an act passed for the division of the township of Ameliasburgh, in consequence of the inconvenience of the inhabitants to meet on public occasions. The dividing line was established between the fourth and fifth concessions. The act went into force on the first of January, 1824. Lieutenant-Governor at that time was Sir Peregrine Maitland, who had for his secretary, Major Hillier. There is no doubt the new township was called after Major Hillier.

Picton

At the beginning of the present century the ground on which the town of Picton now stands, was covered with a dense forest of pine and hemlock, while in the low land existed a thick and tangled cedar swamp. A bridge of very inferior construction was erected across the creek about the time of the war of 1812, it was on the road between Kingston and York, and was called for a long time Hallowell Bridge. Thus we find in an advertisement, in the Kingston Gazette, 1815, that "Richard G. Clute sold goods and groceries at Hallowell Bridge.

The first settlers of Picton are said to have been Ebenezer Washburn, Henry Johnson, Abraham Barker, Harry Ferguson, James Dougal, Cary Spencer, Congers, Peterson, Richard Hare, Captain Richardson.

Among the early settlers of Picton were Dr. Armstrong, elsewhere spoken of, and Dr. Andrew Austin. The latter was a native of Vermount, and a doctor of medicine of the University of New York. He came to Picton, in 1822, having obtained his license to practice in Canada, where he remained practicing his profession, very much respected, until his death in 1849.

D. V. SINCLAIR

An ardent advocate of a Free Bay Bridge.

Some time after the war of 1812, the Rev. William Macauley, bestowed the name of Picton upon a small collection of houses situated at the south side of the stream which empties into the head of Picton Bay, in the township of Marysburgh. The name was given in memory of the celebrated British General who had recently fallen upon the field of Waterloo. At a late visit to St. Paul's Cathedral, we felt no little pleasure with a touch of sadness in gazing upon the memorial which has been erected to commemorate a nation's appreciation of military worth. We transcribe the following:

"Erected by the public expense, to Lieutenant-General Sir Thomas Picton, K.C.B., who, after distinguishing himself in the victories of Buzaco, Fuentes de Onor, Cindaet Rodrigo, Badajoz, Vittoria, the Pyrenees, Orthes, and Toulouse, terminated his long and glorious military service in the ever memorable battle of Waterloo; to the splendid success of which his genius and valor eminently contributed," &c.

Prior to the naming of this collection of buildings, the village upon the west of the stream, upon the first lots in Sophiasburgh was known as Hallowell. The Rev. Mr. Macauley with the enthusiastic loyalty, characteristic of his family, desired that both places should be known as one village, under the distinguished name of Picton. The citizens of Hallowell Village, however, were opposed to any other name than Hallowell, and we find in a map published in 1836, the names of Picton and Hallowell respectively applied to the two places. But when the whole was incorporated by Act of Parliament, Mr. Macauley had sufficient influence, we are informed, to secure the name of Picton for the corporation; yet we have the town of Hallowell spoken of in 1837. The growth of Picton was not particularly rapid. "At a meeting held at Eyre's Inn, February 14, 1818, over which Ebenezer Washburn, Esq., presided, it was stated that there was in the township of Hallowell, which included Picton, but two brick houses, one carding and fulling-mill, one Methodist chapel, now known as the old chapel at Congers, one Quaker meeting house; and that preparations were being made to build a church, that is for the Episcopalians. Orchards, it was stated were beginning to be planted.

There seems to have been no little antagonism between the villages of Picton and Hallowell. While an effort was earnestly made to make the east side, the heart of the community, the inhabitants of Hallowell strove to fix the central point upon the west side. When Prince Edward was erected into a district, in 1831, and it became necessary to erect a jail and court house, it became a warm question as to the site of the building. The Hallowell Free Press became the channel of a sharp discussion.

In the Press of June 1, 1831, is a letter signed, "A farmer of Sophiasburgh," one paragraph of which says, "Among all these advantages pointed out in the most striking colours, I have discerned none so great as the $200 so liberally offered by Mr. Macaulay, which $200 must otherwise be paid by the rateable inhabitants of the county."

The year 1831 sems to have been an important one to the inhabitants, not only of Picton, but the peninsula. Enterprise was the order of the day, and improvements of a public character were in various ways proposed. The Free Press of 5th July, says, under the heading "Another Steamboat," "We understand that a number of the enterprising inhabitants of the village, have it in contemplation to build a steamboat to ply between this place and Prescott, to perform their trips in a week. A number of merchants and capitalists have offered to take stock. We are of the opinion that a boat built and owned by the inhabitants of this county, would be not only useful to the inhabitants of the Peninsula, but profitable to the stockholders. We would suggest to them the proprietory of having the channel in the bay at the lower end of the village cleared, so as to allow steamboats to pass up as far as the bridge."

The present English Church, standing on Church Street, was the first built in Picton. It was erected by the Rev. Wm. Macaulay, aided by a partial loan in 1825. Mr. Macaulay was the first minister; he came to the parish after seven years of officiating at Cobourg, and has remained as Rector ever since. The Roman Catholic chapel, now standing on Church Street, was the first erected, in 1838 or 9, the land having been given for that purpose by Mr. Macaulay. The new stone church, was built in 1839. Rev. Mr. Fraser was the first minister in 1828; Rev. Mr. Brennan, occasionally from 1832 to 1836; the Rev. Mr. Lalor from 1836 to the present time.

HEALTH TALKS

(By John B. Huber, A.M., M.D.)

PSEUDO-PARALYSIS

If you are a hard-worker and you wake up some morning with a stutter in your talk or walk, and certain muscles twitch and won't work, don't worry. You're not getting genuine paralysis, probably, though those are symptoms of the real thing. The chances are that you are suffering from exhaustion paralysis.

A lot of such cases were found among the drafted men in the late war soon after they got to camp. They had simply been under too sudden and protracted mental and physical strain in training; and they soon recovered. Many such cases crop up in civil life, but they are not serious. Usually hard work of any kind will bring it on. The only sure cure for it is a good rest.

Health Hints

BAD BREATH

A healthy person's breath is without odor, unless he has recently been eating something like onions or strong cheese. A sick person's breath is often charged with certain volatile products that make it most disagreeable, but the odor is transient like the illness and disappears with it. If a person is suffering from some chronic trouble, however, the odor may be more or less permanent. The sufferer from bad breath may or may not be aware of it himself; in most cases he is not.

The causes of constant bad breath are numerous. The most common are bad teeth, catarrhal conditions of the nose or pharynx, indigestion, constipation and certain diseases of the lungs and of bronchial tubes.

A writer has distinguished five types of bad breath. The first type he calls the putrefactive, which is perhaps the most common. The odor is like that of strong cheese and usually points to chronic nasal disease, in which crusts are formed and decompose, to disease of the antrum, in which the secretion accumulates in that cavity, and to neglect of the hygiene of the mouth. The second type is the worst of them all. In no way the fault of the sufferer, bad breath of this type is dreadful in its pungency for the odor is like that which a bad egg gives when broken. The person with such a breath is suffering either from abscess or from gangrene of the lung, or from dilation of the bronchial—conditions that are very difficult to cure. He can sweeten his breath only by wearing a mask impregnated with creosote; the creosote not only modifies the odor but sometimes greatly benefits the disease. The third type has the smell of garlic and characterizes persons who take certain drugs such as arsenic or bismuth. The fourth type has a sweetish odor such as is sometimes observed in the breath of persons who suffer from diabetes. Bad breath of the fifth type has the unpleasant but often remediable odor that disorders of the digestive organs cause. The person with that sort of bad breath can quickly sweeten it either by taking a laxative or by taking a little rhubarb and soda after his meals or even by taking care to masticate his food more thoroughly.

Anyone whose breath is persistently bad should consult a doctor, for it may mean the begining of some constitutional affection that can be cured if taken in time.

Jap Girls Are Expected to Wed

THE MAIDEN NEVER CONSIDERS SPINSTERHOOD—THE JAPANESE WEDDING

With the Canadian girl marriage is quite a free-will affair—she has the right of either marrying or remaining single; she reserves the privilege to choose her husband. With the Japanese maiden this is not the custom. When she arrives at the age of twenty or thereabouts she is expected, as a matter of course, to marry. The alternative of perpetual spinsterhood is never considered either by her or by her parents. Marriage is as much a matter of course in a woman's life as death, and is no more to be avoided. In chosing her husband she is usually allowed her choice in regard to whether she will or will not marry a certain man, but the initiative is generally taken by parents. In brief, the Japanese courtship and wedding are somewhat after the following manner:

A young man, who finds himself in a position to marry, speaks to some married friend and asks him to be on the lookout for a suitable maiden, says East and West News. The friend immediately gets busy and makes a canvass of all the young maidens of his acquaintance and finally decides that so-an-so—Miss Hana, let us say—will be a very good match for his friend. He then goes to Miss Hana's parents and lays the case of his friend before them. Should they approve of the suitor, a party is arranged—generally in a tea house in a park or in a theatre, where the young people may have a chance to meet each other and exchange salutations. If the meeting is satisfactory to all parties, the parents of the young people undertake to ascertain that nothing wrong exists concerning such vital matters as the heredity of the family and the character of the young man and woman. Should all turn out satisfactory, a formal betrothal is entered into by the exchange of costly presents, and the marriage is arranged. A lucky day is selected for the wedding, and all arrangements between the contracting parties are made by the go-between and his wife who first arranged the happy event, and therefore hold themselves responsible for the success of the marriage. The go-between is a voluntary affair seldom paid for, but because of the happy nature of the office there is always no lack of respectable people glad to act in that capacity.

E. GUS PORTER, K.C., M. P.
Member for West Hastings

The marriage ceremony takes place at the groom's house, to which the bride is taken, accompanied by her go-between and her relatives. Her trousseau and the household goods which the bride brings with her are borne by men, who follow the carriage of the bride, forming a procession, getting cheers from observers, as it passes through the streets. The ceremony consists merely in the formal drinking of the native wine (sake) from a cup, which is placed alternately to the lips of the bride and groom in the orthodox fashion. This drinking from the same goblet is a symbol of the equal sharing of the joys and sorrows of married life. At the ceremony no one is present but the bride and groom, their go-between and a young girl whose duty it is to pass the goblet and fill it with sake. When this is over, the wedding guests, who have been assembled in another room during the ceremony, join the wedding party and a grand feast is spread at which much merriment ensues.

On the third day after the wedding the newly-married couple are expected to make a visit to the bride's family, which is the occasion for another great feast. The young couple bring with them presents from the groom's family to the bride's family in return for the presents sent on the wedding day. All this makes the Japanese wedding an extremely costly affair, the expenses often exceeding tens of thousands of dollars among the well-to-do.

Within the past few years, for many reasons, the marriage customs have been changed considerably. Greater regard is now being shown than formerly to the wishes of the young people in deciding their partners, and the novel practice of allowing the young people a short period of association before the betrothal has come in vogue. The formality of the wedding ceremony too, has lost much of its former elaborateness more stress nowadays being laid on the spirit and significance of wedlock. Such re-actionary women, who, ignoring entirely the customs of the land, follow entirely the customs of the land, foltirely the American way of free courtship have also appeared of late.

WILL AGAIN EXPLORE THE ARCTIC SLOPE

Another expedition to the Arctic Slope is foreshadowed and will be under the direction of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famous Canadian explorer. Incorporation of a company with a capital of $100,000 is under way in Vancouver. Stefansson, who is just now completing a lecture tour in the United States, is president of the new concern, which is named the Stefansson Arctic Exploration Development Company.

A suitable vessel has already been obtained, and is now in the north, it is stated.

Stefansson has always been a great believer in the possibilities marketing vast quantities of reindeer meat, and it is to investigate and develop the practical features of this and the fur trade, as well as to thoroughly explore the resources of the islands and country lying to the north of Canada that the expedition is being sent out.

Distribution of War Medals Great Problem

The address of ex-soldiers is decidedly the greatest problem of the Records branch of the Militia Department just now. In connection with the distribution of medals, 1,000 addresses as given at the time of discharge were tested out, and no less than 75 per cent. were found inaccurate. An insufficient address had been given order had been subsequently changed. This means that if the addresses on hand were used by the Department, more than half of the medals would come back on its hands. Accordingly in every post office in the country a poster is displayed advising those to whom medals are owing to secure a post card from the post-master, fill it in with correct name and address, and mail post free to the Militia Department, Ottawa. The posters brought in 34,000 postcards during May, and this poster scheme is being extended to take in all the railroad stations in the Dominion.

Actual figures as to the total number of British War Medals (silver), and Victory Medals (bronze) to be distributed to the Canadian forces are not available. Some 600,000 sets of documents have to be examined in order to establish eligibility. The former medal is awarded to every person who rendered approved service overseas, and the approximate number for Canadian is 418,000. Up to the end of last month 38,359 had been distributed, and the Department had on hand at that time 43,795 more for delivery. Names sent to the War Office so far number 253,844. The medals are coming in from Great Britain in monthly consignments, and daily large batches are being despatched to the veterans. During May $2,700,000 was spent in postage for the mailing of medals and decorations.

About two thirds of the veterans will get the Victory medal, which goes to all who served on the establishment of an authorized unit in the field. Of the 350,000 approximately to be awarded to Canadians, 13,387 are in the hands of the veterans. Naturally many qualified under this head several times, having served in more than one field unit, or having been returned to the front from a British Hospital and entered on the establishment a second or third time. The same is true of the Navy. Canadians who served with the British Navy or the Royal Air Force will get their medals from those organizations, and not from the Canadian Head-quarters.

All these medals are being made in England, and the Secretary of State for War announced last year that it would take four years to complete the manufacture. His estimate takes into account, medals for nearly 10,000,000 men and women throughout the Empire. Nominal rolls are sent from Ottawa to the War Office in London, giving regimental number, rank, name, initials and service unit. The medals come back with these particulars stamped on the rim. Thus every individual medal has to be identified with the man who won it. In case of death the medals follows the will. Some of the medals will thus find their way to next of kin in odd corners of Europe and a number, of course, lacking precise information, will never be delivered. This will be true, too, of the handsome bronze memorial plaques and the artistic scrolls which have been got up to commemorate in the home men who died for their country.

In the order of distribution, first preference was given by the Records branch to those of the First Contingent—men who left Canada in 1914. After that, batches of names have been sent in, starting at eight different points in the alphabet, so that no discrimination is being practised.

The ribbon issued with each medal is sufficient for use with the medal, plus an extra length for use without. Recipients of the Victory medal who have also been mentioned once or more in despatches receive a large and a small bronze oak leaf—the first to be worn with the medal itself, and the latter to be worn with the ribbon only.

Of an approximate 65,000 Memorial Crosses (which go to the widow and mother, if both are alive, but to no one else) some 50,000 have now been delivered. This is the only Canadian award which the Records branch is handling.

One more problem with which the Records branch is coping is the distribution of medals awarded to certain members of the Canadian Munitions Board. The Board was disbanded two years ago, and the Militia Department, as a matter of fact, never had the records of the munition workers.

Cost of Living is on Decline

SLIGHT DECREASE IN COST LIVING AVERAGE COST OF LIST OF STAPLE FOODS LESS IN MAY THAN APRIL

A slight decrease in the cost of living is recorded in a statement issued by the Department of Labour. The average cost of a list of twenty-nine staple foods in sixty cities on May 1, was $21.25 as compared with $12.68 in April, $16.65 for May 1920, and $7.48 for May 1914.

The total for foods, fuel and rent in the sixty cities averaged $22.84 in May, as compared with $20.31 in May 1919 and $14.19 in May 1914. The chief changes for the month were decreases in eggs, milk butter and potatoes with slight increase in nearly all other items. Coal, wood and coal oil averaged slightly lower. Rents averaged higher in Ontario and Quebec.

The department index number of wholesale prices stood at 247.3 for May, as compared with 253.7 for April; 35.6 for May 1920; 248.1 for May 1919; 275.8 for May 1919; 243.8 for May 1917; 183.3 for May 1916 and 136.3 for May 1914.

The chief change for the month were decreases in diary products, animals and meats, grains and fodder, textiles and in building materials. There was a general slight recovery in the prices of lead, zinc, quicksilver, antimony and tin. Iron products continue to ease off gradually. All the groups were lower than a year ago and nearly all were lower than two years ago.

'Made in Germany' Now Camouflage

GERMAN FIRM TRYS TO PLACE GOODS IN CANADA UNDER DISGUISE

An instance of the manner in which the Germans are trying to regain their hold on the markets of the world, hiding the old-time "Made in Germany" trade mark, was furnished the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in a letter from a Berlin firm trying to secure Montreal connections in such manner as to distribute their products while hiding their German origin, knowing the unpopularity of anything made in Germany. This came in the way of a circular letter, with catalogues, sent to a Montreal firm dealing in art goods and stationery supplies.

The letter was signed Anton Hellman, setting forth: "Enclosed I beg to hand you asample and catalogue with price list of my silhouettes. These are manufactured in Germany by artists of eminent abilities. These silhouettes have neither the name of the manufacturer nor the country of orgin stamped on them, and therefore the name of your firm could be affixed, if wanted, to same. I am able to supply you with these silhouettes in all sizes, allowing 40 per cent. discount to wholesale dealers. These quotations are indeed quite low and with them you may be able to meet all competition in this line.

"If you are unable to take advantage of this offer I shall be obliged if you will send me a list of firms interested in this line of goods."

Favorable Quotations

The circular closed with an intimation that this German firm was prepared to send quotations on paper, writing materials and office sundries, to be supplied at similar advantageous rates to those quoted for the silhouettes, which were decidedly artistic productions, suitable for advertising novelties.

However, the firm whom the circular was addressed had no desire to help along the quiet German propaganda for re-entry into the markets of the countries they were so recently fighting against, and forwarded the whole outfit to Mr. R. W. Gould, secretary of the Montreal Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

A reply was sent to the effect that the C.M.A. would look into the matter, with a view to taking an interest in the activities of Mr. Hellman and other German firms trying to secure an entrance to the Canadian markets for their goods, while hiding the identity of the country of origin of their goods.

FOCH DOESN'T LIKE BEING LIONIZED

Marshal Foch has an awful time of it every time they trot him out to shine at official ceremonies.

The little grey-eyed gentleman who looks more like a professor of Greek than the greatest soldier of his age, was particularly put out when they cast him and Cardinal Dupoy as the co-stars for the Napoleon centenary. For, while the Cardinal, being used to the purple was quite at ease, the commander of the mightiest army ever gathered together most distinctly was not.

He was particularly embarrassed when they brought him the famous "sword of Austerlitz" which the "Little Corporal" had brandished at that battle. He fingered it gingerly, as though it were a lighted firecracker. Then he laid it across his knees, but that didn't suit him. Next he stood it up by the side of the guilded chair in which they placed him. But, fearing it might fall down with an awful clatter at the solemnest moment of the service, he took it up in his hands again. It was more of a nuisance than a crown.

One of those near to him says he heard the Marshal muttering into his moustache:

"Yes' I suppose the next time they'll bring me the 'sun of Austerlitz'—and then what'll I do with it?"

THE LATE SENATOR H. CORBY, One of the original promoters of the Bay Bridge

Byng's Boys off With A Bang

Here is a little story about Lord Byng, the new Governor-General, and Sir Arthur Currie, who after the Battle of Vimy succeeded Sir Julian, as he was then, in command of the Canadian Corps. They are close personal friends and Sir Arthur, in public and private, always gave full credit to Byng for the work he did in knitting the Canadian Corps into the formidable fighting machine it became, animated by a keen Corps spirit and a just pride in its achievements.

It was towards the end of September, 1918, when the Corps after storming the famous Droucourt-Queant line, part of the Hindenburg system, on September 2, had been since lying entrenched facing the Canal du Nord and exposed to a constant harassing fire from the other, or east side of the canal. First Army wanted the Coros to make a frontage attack but this the Corps Commander regarded as useless waste of life. Instead, as is well-known, he proposed that the Corps should "side-slip" to the south or Corps right to where at Inchy-en-Artois there was a dry stretch of canal of about 2,500 yards; after storming this the Corps was to spread out fanwise on the other side of the Canal, our left taking the German defenders to the north in rear and our right pushing on up over the entrenched slopes against the crowning position of Bourlon Wood, on the far side of which lay the city of Cambrai. All this program, by the way, was carried out successfully on September 27 and the days following, resulting in the fall of Cambrai and retreat of the enemy.

Byng was in command of the Third Army on the immediate right of the Corps, and in the previous November had himself undertaken his celebrated surprise attack on Cambrai, pushing up from the south, and just failing to consolidate his notable victory through lack of proper support. On September 23 he came over to Canadian Corps Headquarters at Neuville Vitasses, in the heart of No Man's Land, lunched with Sir Arthur and talked over the plan. He was immensely struck with its audacity and brilliance, but he warned his old friend of the terrible result of failure, when the Corps cooped on a narrow frontage would be cut to pieces. "In my opinion," he said, "you are planning the most difficult manoeuvre yet attempted on a battlefield in this war. But you know your men—I know them too. If any troops in the world can do it, it is the Canadian Corps. Good luck to you." And after the battle he was the first to telegraph his congratulations. "Byng's Boys' had once more made good.

This is far in excess of any world's record previously set.

Two of 'Ark'-Load of Peruvians Tell Deportation Story

22 POLITICIANS WHO HARRASSED PRESIDENT WERE BUNDLED ON FREIGHTER

J. Fernando Gazzani, ex-Secretary of State of Peru, and Jorge Prado, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, arrived in New York on the steamer Sixoala from Colon, after they and twenty other political leaders of Peru had thwarted a summary order of deportation to Australia on the freighter Paita by organizing a mutiny and taking control of the ship.

President Leguia of Peru found it advisable to send an ark-load of his political enemies on an 11,000 or 12,000 mile journey, according to despatches from Peru, because he apprehended that they were forming a "conspiration" against him. This explanation is contrary to the fact, according to the statement of ex-Secretary of State Gazzani at the Hotel McAlpin. What happened, he said, was that President Leguia, growing tired of the game of politics, decided to simplify the problems of the executive by exporting the eminent members of the opposition to the Antipodes.

Some of the twenty-two had been in jail for long or short periods and others were arrested on May 11 of this year, the day we were shipped away," as the two Peruvian politicians told the story through an interpreter.

"Some men were seized in their offices and hurried to the ship. It was a freighter with only half a dozen staterooms for the accommodation of twenty-two persons."

"The statement, which has been cabled from Peru that we were suspected of conspiring for the overthrow of the Government, is absolutely false. We were shipped away simply to make it possible to impose a dictatorship on the nation without opposition. The twenty-two men belonged to all political parties—the civil, the Liberal and the Constitutional, together with some of Lima. The purpose was to rid the capital of all men capable of leading an opposition.

When they were being placed on board the ship, however, revolvers by "occult" means. They were hardly at sea when the twenty-two decided not to go to Australia. Gen. O. R. Barraides, former President of Peru, went to the captain and laid the situation before him.

Threatened Captain

"The captain was a Frenchman." they said. "The petty officers were British and the crew was Peruvian. The captain had no interest in political troubles in Peru. He was told that he must land us at some port; that we were twenty-two; that we were armed and that we would overcome him if he opposed our will. He agreed to our proposal but he made the objection that he could not land us at Punta Arenas because his clearance papers were for Australia and because we had no passports.

"We directed his attention to the circumstances that we had no passports for Australia either. Under international law we could not land any where. The Government of Peru was getting rid of us and no other port could legally allow us to land, so that, speaking from the standopint of purisprudence we were condemned to spend the rest of our lives on the ocean.

"The captain of the Paita admitted that the situation was abnormal and agreed to land us at Punta Arenas. There we claimed the privilege of asylum and were allowed to land."

When the cargo of statesmen had been discharged at Punta Arenas on May 26, they were practically without means. Some of them had been hustled aboard ship without baggage and with only the clothes they had on. Many of them were men of wealth and were able to finance themselves through friends and banking connections. Ex-Secretary Gazzani and Deputy Prado both had interests and friends in this country, so they decided to continue their odyssey to to New York.

"The other twenty have scattered to various places," they said yesterday.

"We are hopeful that the Peruvian Congress may pass a decree which will enable us to return though we will probably have to remain in exile for a time.

"We have not heard a word from our families. The censorship does not allow them to send messages or receive them from us. We hope to obtain permission to bring our families on here."

Toronto, June 21.—Alfred F. Mine, aged 19, of 381 College street, has been drowned in fifty feet of water in Dark Lake, Haliburton county. He was last seen diving from a rowboat, 150 yards from shore. He had been visiting his grandparents at Wilberforce. Dragging apparatus has been sent up by the local life-saving service.

THE OLD HOME CALLS

L. M. Montgomery

Come back to me, little dancing feet that roam the wide world o'er,
I long for the lilt of your flying steps in my silent rooms once more;
Come back to me, little voices gay with laughter and with song,
Come back, to little hearts beating high with hopes, I have missed and mourned you long.
My roses bloom in my garden walks
all sweet and wet with the dew,
My lights shine down on the long hill road the waning twilight through.
The swallows flutter about my eaves
as in the years of old,
And close about me their steadfast arms and lisping pine trees fold.
But I weary for you at morn and eve,
O children of m love,
Come over the meadows and up the ways, from seas and plains
ye rove;
Come over the meadows and up the lane to my door set open wide
And sit ye down where the red light shines from my welcoming fireside.
I keep for you all childhood dreams, dreams your gladness and delights,
The joy of days in the sun and rain, the sleep faiths you have lost and sought again shall be your own,
Darlings, come to my empty heart—
I am old and still alone.

ITS POSSIBILITIES

"Do you want to insure yourself?"

"I am insured," he said.

"Are you insured against fire?"

"Yes."

"Are you insured against accident?"

"Yes."

"Are you insured against flood."

Then the Jew became interested.

"What can you do with a flood?" he said.

HAIL RIDDLES WINGS OF BIG AEROPLANE

Saskatoon, Sask., June 27.—With the top wings of his aeroplane riddled by gaint hailstones, Lieut. Harvey N. Hislop, a local aviator, was beaten to earth in a severe electric storm at Vanscoy, Sask., Friday night. The flyer made a forced but safe landing. "Dare-devil" Mark Campbell, an aerial acrobat, and a six-weeks-old coyote cub occupied the sea of the ship.

Celebrate Bridge Opening at Bargain Counter

GREAT FOUR DAYS' BARGAIN CARNIVAL IN BELLEVILLE STORES TO MARK OPENING OF FREE BAY BRIDGE—BELLEVILLE BUSINESS MEN INVITE NEIGHBORS FROM FAR AND NEAR AND OFFER SPLENDID BARGAINS IN ALL LINES OF GOODS.

The opening of the Bay Bridge as a public utility, free of tolls, is an event worthy of general gratification and celebration. Removal of the toll barriers means that the people of Prince Edward County will be brought closer to the people of the city of Belleville, and the silken bonds of friendship and fellowship should be made wider and deeper as a consequence of free facilities for daily intercourse.

The merchants of Belleville have taken the opportunity of the opening of the Bay Bridge free of tolls to invite our neighbors of Prince Edward County and surrounding country to visit Belleville, and to make the occasion still more notable and profitable to visitors have arranged a four days' sale in all the stores, with attractive money-saving bargains in every line.

Come to Belleville and enjoy a pleasant and profitable visit.

Read the advertisements in this souvenir edition and mark well the money-savers.

MR. THOS. RITCHIE

One of the original Bridge Builders and always active in promoting a Free Bridge.

When the Bay Bridge was constructed and opened for traffic, it was managed by a Board of Directors of which Mr. Thomas Ritchie, of Belleville, was President. Mr. Ritchie has always taken an active interest in the movement to make the bridge free of tolls. Of late he has been in poor health and confined, more or less, to his home on Bridge street, Belleville. The following biographical sketch of Mr. Ritchie will be of interest:

The largest mercantile concern in the city of Belleville is the Ritchie Company, Limited, of which Thomas Ritchie is president. He was born January 4th, 1838, in the city of Ottawa; his father, Robert Ritchie, who married Ann Martin, being at the time ordnance storekeeper by appointment of the Imperial Government, which at that time owned and controlled the eminence upon which now stands the Parliament house of Canada. The official residence of Robert Ritchie, the birthplace of his son, Thomas, then stood upon the site of the present Senate Chamber. Here the family resided until 1857, when this entire property was transferred to the Canadian Government.

Thomas Ritchie graduated from the Knox Theological College and also enjoyed the advantage of a literary course and special work at the University of Toronto. A[illegible]rtified as a licentiate of [illegible]erian church, upon compl[illegible]dies in theology. Mr. [illegible]fter re-entered the bu[illegible]had been founded by [illegible]orge Ritchie, at Bellev[illegible]hich he had been co[illegible]ception. M. Reid being Managing Director.

In 1896 Mr. Ritchie contested West Hastings as a candidate of the Liberal party against Henry Corby, and notwithstanding the latter's personal popularity, reduced materially a large Conservative majority. He was instrumental in organizing the Bay of Quinte Bridge Company and in constructing the magnificent bridge which now connects Prince Edward and Hastings counties. He married Mary, daughter of the late Dr. Holden. They reside in Belleville.

Mr. Ritchie has always been noted for his philanthropies, and to his great generosity is due in large measure the efficiency and helpfulness of the local Children's Aid Society and the splendid building used for a Children's shelter. The restoration of the historic Sun Dial on Parliament Hill, Ottawa, was made possible through the generosity of Mr. Ritchie.
